INTRODUCTION.

THE Holy Scriptures are the Oracles of the Living God, unfolding the Secrets of his Will to Mankind: Whatever is neceſſary for us to know, and believe, to hope for, and to practiſe, in order to our everlaſting Salvation, is fully ſet forth in thoſe Records of Sacred Truth: And notwithſtanding all the Objections that Infidelity can raiſe againſt them, there ſtill remain ſo many internal Arguments of their Divine Authority, as are irreſiſtible to an ingenuous Mind: To the ignorant, the vain, and the ſenſual, they may appear to want Recommendation; but to the truly wiſe and humble Man, and the real Chriſtian, they are The Savour of Life unto Life, and the Power of God unto Salvation.

That Ignorance and Licentiouſneſs are the Sources from whence the Contempt of the Scriptures have ariſen, is plain; becauſe, the beſt and the wiſeſt Men have ever had them in the higheſt Veneration. Of old, King David preferred them before the Honey, and the Honey-comb; and, though a mighty Warrior and Conqueror, he eſteemed them better than great Spoil, and thouſands of Gold and Silver. Ptolemy Philadelphus, the moſt learned Man of his Time, a great Monarch, and a Heathen, thought it worth while to have the Bible tranſlated into his own Language: Longinus, who was a competent Judge of Eloquence, admired the Sublimity and lofty Expreſſions of Holy Writ: And we find one characterizing them thus; "The ſacred Scripture is the Book of Life, whoſe Original is eternal, whoſe Eſſence is incorporeal, whoſe Knowledge is Life, whoſe Writing is indelible, whoſe Inſpection is deſirable, whoſe Doctrine is eaſy, whoſe Knowledge is ſweet, whoſe Depth is unſearchable, whoſe Words are innumerable, and only one Word; ALL." Seeing therefore the Wiſe, the Learned, and the Good, do thus generally expreſs their Approbation of, and concur in their Sentiments concerning, the Sacred Volume, we ought to abide by their Opinion, without ſhewing the leaſt Regard to thoſe little Wits, the Scoffers of our Age, who are ſenſual, and know nothing, vainly puffed up by their fleſhly Mind. When Julian the Apoſtate ſaid of the Scriptures, that "he had read them, underſtood them, and condemned them;" Baſil returned, excellently well, "that he had read them, but not underſtood them: for if he had underſtood them, he would not have condemned them." A very ſuitable Anſwer this, and fit for our Libertines, Free-thinkers, and all who cavil at the Scriptures, and who, becauſe they cannot comprehend the ſublime Truths contained in them, immediately determine them to be abſurd and ridiculous.

If Credibility of Perſons, Excellence of Doctrine, Prophecies, and Miracles; if any, or all of theſe, may be thought ſufficient to eſtabliſh the Truth and Divinity of the Scriptures, then do they not want Confirmation.

As for Credibility of Perſons; the Penmen of Holy Writ were, with regard to Character, Men of the moſt ſtrict Veracity, Honour, and Integrity; had no ſiniſter Deſigns in what they ſaid and did, no ſecular Advantages in View; could propoſe no temporal Intereſt to themſelves, but ran directly counter to it; and inſtead of ſoothing, thwarted Men's Paſſions and Inclinations, and ſtrenuouſly oppoſed their Vices: For which they frequently experienced the greateſt Hardſhips, and ſuffered the moſt ſevere Perſecutions; they had Trial of cruel Mockings and Scourgings,---of Bonds and Impriſonments. They were ſtoned, they were ſawn aſunder, were tempted, were ſlain with the Sword, they wandered about in Sheep-ſkins and Goat-ſkins, being deſtitute, afflicted, tormented. And can it be thought, that they who endured ſuch Indignities, ſuch exquiſite Miſeries, were not in earneſt? Is it reaſonable to ſuppoſe, that any thing could have induced them to take upon themſelves ſo many real Sorrows, but this, that knowing the Terrors of the Lord, they became heartily affected with the Sins and Impieties of their Fellow-Creatures, and deſirous of their eternal Welfare? For which Reaſons, they perſiſted even unto the Death, conſcious to themſelves of the Obligation they lay under, of diſcharging their Duty in the Work of the Lord. "Woe be to me, (ſays one of them) if I preach not the Goſpel."

As to the Excellence of the Scripture Doctrines; if we regard moral Duties, it is certain, that all the ſelect Precepts of the moſt famous Legiſlators and Philoſophers that have ever been, will not furniſh us with ſuch a complete Syſtem of Ethics, as are to be found in the Bible: And yet, if there is nothing but natural Reaſon in the Caſe, one cannot imagine, why this ſhould be at all ſuperior to other Syſtems: But what are the Laws, Rules, &c. of Lycurgus, Solon, Plato, and Ariſtotle, compared with the golden Precepts of Holy Writ? The Scriptures contain a perfect Body of ſpeculative and practical Doctrines, of ſublime and rational Myſteries, and noble Precepts, which tend to make Men pious and devout towards God, and true and faithful in their Dealings with each other. There are Rules, and inſtructive Leſſons, for every Station, and for all Relations in Life, and which, well attended to, ſerve to form the ſincere Friend, the upright Magiſtrate, the loyal Subject, the tender Parent, in a Word, the good Man: teaching us, that whatſoever Things are true, whatſoever Things are honeſt, whatſoever Things are juſt, whatſoever Things are pure, whatſoever Things are lovely, whatſoever Things are of good Report: and requiring us;---if there be any Virtue, if there be any Praiſe, to think of theſe Things.

Again, another Proof of the Divinity of Scripture is, PROPHECY: We find here, Events predicted many Hundred Years before they came to paſs, and which yet did come to paſs moſt punctually: We find the exacteſt Deſcriptions of Things future, even as though they had been preſent; and ſuch particular Circumſtances foretold and related, as could be known to none but God, to whom all Things are naked and open, who ſees what is paſt, preſent, and to come, and diſcerns Effects yet lying hid within their Cauſes.

The MIRACLES recorded in the Scriptures are ſo many inconteſtible Evidences of their Divinity: Theſe were no petty, juggling Tricks; but all extraordinary, and their Effects viſible and permanent; ſuch were the dividing of Seas and Rivers, fetching down Fire from Heaven, and curing Diſeaſes, otherwiſe incurable, by a bare Word: Things above, and beyond the Power of created Nature to bring to paſs, and what muſt be acknowledged to have been done by the Finger of God.---All theſe concurrent current Teſtimonies neceſſarily ſerve to corroborate our Faith, and to confirm our Belief in Scripture Divinity, obliging us to acquieſce in what the Apoſtle affirms; namely, that all Scripture is given by Inſpiration of God; and if ſo, we cannot reaſonably doubt of its Utility and Sufficiency, but muſt acknowledge, with the ſame Apoſtle, that it is indeed profitable for Doctrine, for Reproof, for Correction, for Inſtruction in Righteouſneſs, in order to make us perfect, and thoroughly to furniſh us unto all good Works. Certainly the Scriptures are a Fund of Knowledge, the moſt uſeful that can be imagined; and it was with good Reaſon that an Ancient Writer ſaid, Adoro Scripturæ plenitudinem, I adore the FULLNESS of the Scriptures.

In the OLD TESTAMENT, we trace the Depths of Science: Moſes ſatisfies the curious Enquirer, by giving him a clear, diſtinct, and rational Account of the Creation of the World, and the Origin of all Things; he ſhews him the Manner in which Moral Evil was at firſt introduced, a Subject that has exerciſed the Wits of many ancient Philoſophers; and which they attempted in vain to diſcover. Here too, the Scene of Man's Redemption by Chriſt, the Lamb ſlain (by God's eternal Decree) before the Foundation of the World, is laid open to View: The ſame Deſign we ſee purſued from one End of the Bible to the other, throughout the hiſtorical Books, the Prophets, and the Pſalms: We ſee how it was fulfilling by various Steps and Degrees, for four Thouſand Years before it was completed; and we obſerve ſuch a natural Coherence of one Part of Scripture with another as juſtly ſtrikes our Admiration, at the ſame time that it confirms and ſupports its own Authority.

In the Book of Job, we meet with an excellent Pattern of Patience and Reſignation to the Divine Will, Contentment under Calamities and Afflictions, and an Example of the moſt inflexible Virtue and unſhaken Conſtancy.

In the Pſalms we diſcern the Perfection of Piety; the bare reading of which raiſes devout Affections in the Soul, inſpires with a Love of Religion, teaches to reverence God, and truſt in his Providence: In a Word, this Book alone is a noble COMPENDIUM of DIVINITY, and contains a Variety of uſeful Inſtructions upon all Occaſions.

The Proverbs are a complete and perfect Syſtem of Ethics, inſtructing us in the Duties of civil and ſocial Life; ſetting forth excellent Documents to all, from the Higheſt to the Loweſt; and every Precept and Maxim contained in them, is drawn from Motives and Principles of Religion.

The Book of Eccleſiaſtes teaches us to deſpiſe the World, and not to put Confidence in the periſhable Things of this Life; it demonſtrates to us, that our chiefeſt Good is not to be found in any of the Creatures, and that all is Vanity under the Sun: This we are taught from the Experience of one, who perhaps had as large a Share of temporal Enjoyments as ever Man had; yet in the End deſpiſed them all: He retained ſo little Reliſh for the paſt Pleaſures and Foibles of Life, that he had no Deſire (like our modern Libertines) to have them acted over again; but was ſo thoroughly perſuaded of the Inſignificance and Inſufficiency of all ſublunary Things, that we find him, even while on his Throne, profeſſing, that better is the Day of Death, than the Day of one's Birth.

In the NEW TESTAMENT, we diſcern our Happineſs in the ſecond Adam, as in the OLD we do our Miſeries in the firſt: Here, the Covenant of Grace is unfolded:

folded: Here, we find what thoſe ſpiritual Privileges are, which belong to penitent Sinners in Chriſt Jeſus their Saviour: Here, we ſee Man aſcending gradually to his Maker, in ſpiritualized Affections, and by Steps of Holineſs: In the Goſpel it is, we hear the Divine Teacher of Mankind inculcating the nobleſt Precepts, enforcing the moſt ſacred Truths, and ſpeaking as never Man ſpake; making the moſt gracious Offers to poor Sinners, and doing Acts of Charity and Mercy both to the Bodies and Souls of Men; by this Means inſtilling into us a Love of God and Religion, and filling us with a Deſire of Heaven and Happineſs. Nor is this Divine Author of our Felicity like thoſe Egyptian Taſk-maſters, who required Brick without Straw; for he not only intreats us to be happy, ſetting Heaven before us, but directs what we are to believe and to do in order to obtain that Happineſs, that Bleſſedneſs of Glory and Immortality.

The other Books of the New Teſtament all tend to explain the great Myſtery of the Goſpel, and to ſet forth its Excellency; uſing the moſt powerful Arguments in order to perſuade Men to live up to its Precepts, and to behave in every Station of Life according to the Rules of Chriſtian Prudence; tendering to us moreover, every Bleſſing, whether of a temporal or a ſpiritual Nature, making us the Offers of the Life that now is, and alſo of that which is to come.

Such is the Excellence of that Book which we Chriſtians juſtly revere as ſacred; ſuch are the Rewards it offers to us, and ſuch the noble and important Doctrines it contains; to explain which Doctrines, I conceive to be the Work and Duty of a Miniſter of the Goſpel; and which I have therefore attempted in the following Sheets: I hope I need not make any Apology for what I have done, much leſs do I imagine that any will think the Taſk I have undertaken unneceſſary or ſuperfluous, becauſe Works of this Nature are already ſo common, for, Omne bonum, melius quo communius; What is good, is ſo much the better for being common.

All I have to ſay in favour of this Work is, that I have endeavoured to render it as perfect and complete as any of its Kind, have taken care to explain every difficult Paſſage that occurred, and to diſtinguiſh every where between literal and figurative Expreſſions, with which the Scripture abounds; have occaſionally illuſtrated the ſacred, by profane Hiſtory, and made a prudent Uſe of the moſt orthodox, learned, and judicious Commentators who have gone before me; have been particularly careful to let no one Paſſage want an Explanation that might ſeem to require it, that ſo the Reader's Expectation might not be diſappointed; and that in ſo conciſe and eaſy a Manner, as to render the Divine Writings intelligible to every Capacity. That the Great God may beſtow a Bleſſing upon this his own Work, and make it uſeful and beneficial to the Souls of my fellow Chriſtians, is the conſtant and hearty Prayer of,

Their Well-wiſher, and Fellow Servant in Chriſt,

CALLED

GENESIS.

The ARGUMENT.

The word Geneſis ſignifying Generation, this book is ſo called becauſe it gives an account of the generation or production of things. It is called BERESITH, by the Hebrews, being according to their cuſtom, ſo denominated from its initial word, and contains a hiſtory of 2369 years, viz. from the creation to the death of the patriarch Joſeph.

CHAP. I.

The creation of heaven and earth, &c.

Before Chriſt 4004.

IN the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.

2 And the earth was without form, and void, and darkneſs was upon the face of the deep: and the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

3 And God ſaid, Let there be light: and there was light. Before Chriſt 4004.

4 And God ſaw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkneſs.

5 And God called the light Day, and the darkneſs he called Night: and the evening and the morning were the firſt day.

6 ¶ And God ſaid, Let there be a firmament in the midſt of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. In the beginning.] In the beginning of time, to ſhew that all created beings had a beginning. The doctrine of the eternity of the world was unknown, till Ariſtotle firſt broached it, who lived not till many ages after Moſes. Atheiſts, however, of all denominations, have thought fit to adopt it ſince him, as a good argument for their irrational principles. But our author confutes this notion, by affirming that the heavens and the earth were made in the beginning; ſince which beginning, according to the ſcripture-chronology (which is the trueſt) it is not full ſix thouſand years. Some authors think theſe words ſhould be rendered in wiſdom, by wiſdom meaning the word, or Son of God, who ſays St. John, made all things; and that the Pſalmiſt

Before Christ 4004.

7 And God made the firmament; and divided the waters which were under the firmament, from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was ſo.

8 And God called the firmament Heaven: and the evening and the morning were the ſecond day.

9 ¶ And God ſaid, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear: and it was ſo.

Before Christ 4004.

10 And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God ſaw that it was good.

11 And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth graſs, the herb yielding ſeed, and the fruit-tree yielding fruit after his kind, whoſe

Pſalmiſt alludes to this, where he ſays, in wiſdom haſt thou made them all. Pſal. civ. 24.

God.] The word in the original is ELOHIM, or Gods, which, becauſe it is joined with BARA, a verb ſingular, ſeems to give ſome countenance to the foregoing obſervation. But ſome think it rather an idiom of the Hebrew language.

Created.] Made out of nothing, by his almighty power.

The Heaven.] The planetary ſyſtem, not the empy- + rean heaven, where God's majeſty dwells: for, ſays the Almighty, in his expoſtulation with Job, when I laid the foundations of the earth, the morning ſtars ſang together, and all the ſons of God ſhouted for joy. By the ſons of God muſt be meant the angels. From hence it is inferred, that they, as well as the place of their reſidence, were pre-exiſtent to this world; but how long, none but he can tell who knows all things.

The earth.] The terraqueous globe, conſiſting of land and water, which, together with all that is in it, was originally created from nothing. That maxim of philoſophy, Ex nihilo nihil fit, Nothing comes of nothing, is of no weight with regard to Omnipotence.

Ver. 2. Without form, and void.] The earth was at firſt a chaos, i. e. an heavy maſs of ſhapeleſs matter; Rudis indigeſtaque moles, as the poet ſpeaks. And from what may be gathered, it appears to have been a fluid body, containing the firſt principles and properties of all material bodies; in like manner, as a plant is contained in the ſeed. This, therefore, is what God previouſly produced, as the rudiment, or as it were a rough draught of the future creation.

Darkneſs, &c.] Nothing was viſible, the light was concealed in the vaſt abyſs. All was inveloped with thick darkneſs, and bore the aſpect of a pitchy black, and wet tempeſtuous night.

The Spirit of God moved, &c.] What the words BUACH ELOHIM mean, has been variouſly conjectured. Some take it to be the anima mundi, or ſoul of the world; ſome that it was only a great wind; and others, that it was a kind of emanation, proceeding from the Almighty; but the moſt probable opinion is, that it was the Holy Spirit, the third perſon in the ſacred trinity, who did at this time ſpread abroad his influences, in order to impregnate the dead and lifeleſs maſs, and to prepare it for the ſubſequent productions. The manner of its operation is repreſented by his hovering over, or rather (as the word ſignifies) brooding upon, the ſurface of the waters, in alluſion to a hen's brooding her chickens.

Ver. 3. Let there be light, &c.] The ſublimity of this expreſſion has been much taken notice of by authors, and among the reſt by Longinus, the celebrated critic: For, God is here repreſented, as ſpeaking things into being by his bare word. As the whole was involved in darkneſs, it was neceſſary that the firſt ſtep in the creation ſhould be a tendency towards light. Accordingly, the word given, light in an inſtant ſtarts into exiſtence. The fiery, lucid particles, till now hid in chaos, fly off from the maſs into the upper regions, and there become united, or collected into a body.

Ver. 4. That it was good.] He approved of what he had done, as being ſuitable to the end for which it was deſigned. So are all the works of this great Being admirably adapted to their ſeveral ends and uſes!

God divided the light from the darkneſs.] Made them to ſucceed each other alternately, perhaps, by putting that light he had juſt now created into a circular motion, that ſo it might viſit all parts of the earth within the ſpace of twenty-four hours; or elſe, it may be, fixing it in ſome conſpicuous place, at a convenient diſtance, and cauſing the earth to revolve on its own axis.

Ver. 5. God called, &c.] Some think God gave names himſelf to ſuch creatures as he had reſerved under his own more immediate juriſdiction; but as for thoſe which were made ſubject to man, he brought them to Adam, to ſee what he would call them. Gen. ii. 19.

The evening and the morning were the firſt day.] As darkneſs was antecedent to light, for that reaſon perhaps, the evening is firſt mentioned. It is well known that the Jews and ſome other nations, count their day from evening to evening.

Ver. 6. Let there be a firmament, &c.] RAKIAGH. This is ſpeaking, ad captum vulgi, according to the common notion. For the ancients in general, imagined the heaven was a ſolid body. The firmament, or expanſion, here ſpoken of, is no other than the air, or atmoſphere, which ſurrounds the earth.

Divide the waters from the waters.] The air, or atmoſphere, coming between, made a ſeparation of the parts of water, bearing them aloft. By the waters above the firmament then, are meant the clouds, and by thoſe under it, what remained behind, to be afterwards formed into ſeas, rivers, lakes, &c.

† Ver. 9. Be gathered together, &c.] Thoſe waters, which till now had covered the face of the earth, were commanded to ſubſide. Accordingly, the mountains rearing their lofty heads, they ſuddenly fell into their reſpective channels. Now the earth and ſeas were formed, and now it was, that God ſaid to the foaming billow, hitherto ſhalt thou come, and no farther, and here ſhall thy proud waves be ſtaid.

Ver. 11. Let the earth bring forth graſs, &c.] Now came forth again the almighty Fiat, when the vegetable creation began to appear. In an inſtant was the whole earth overſpread with a green carpet, beſprinkled with odoriferous whoſe ſeed is in itſelf, upon the earth: and it was ſo.

12 And the earth brought forth graſs, and herb yielding ſeed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whoſe ſeed was in itſelf, after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

13 And the evening and the morning were the third day.

14 ¶ And God ſaid, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven, to divide the day from the night: and let them be for ſigns, and for ſeaſons, and for days, and years.

15 And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth: and it was ſo.

16 And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the leſſer light to rule the night: he made the ſtars alſo.

Before Christ 4004.

17 And God ſet them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth,

18 And to rule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkneſs: and God ſaw that it was good.

19 And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

20 And God ſaid, Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.

21 And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

22 And

ferous flowers, and the trees were laden with the moſt delicious fruits.———It is ſurpriſing, when we reflect how twenty thouſand different ſpecies of trees, herbs, and plants (for ſo many botaniſts affirm have been claſſed) have continued their exiſtence through ſuch a number of years. Is not this the ſole effect of that primitive command of God, which ordered each one to bear ſeed in itſelf, that ſhould contain within it the rudiments of the future vegetable?

Ver. 14. Let there be lights, &c.] Meaning the ſun, moon, and ſtars, which it is to be preſumed were formed out of that great luminous body created the firſt day.

For ſigns and for ſeaſons, &c.] The year, and conſequently the different ſeaſons, are cauſed by the ſun's paſſing through the twelve ſigns of the Zodiac; or, to ſpeak more agreeably to the new hypotheſis, by the annual revolution of the earth round the ſun; as the day is, by its diurnal motion on its own axis. As to the ſigns and conſtellations in the heavens, it is well known what uſe they are of in navigation, and that by their means we carry on a correſpondence with the inhabitants of the utmoſt parts of the earth.

Ver. 16. The greater light, &c.] The body of the ſun is thought to be equal in magnitude to one million of our earth's, and ſituated at about eighty-one millions of miles diſtant from it. It is ſuppoſed likewiſe, to be placed in the center of the univerſe, at an immenſe diſtance from the fixed ſtars, and that round it the earth, with the planets and comets, perform their ſeveral revolutions. It is to be noted, that there is nothing which contradicts this new hypotheſis in the Moſaic account, but rather eſtabliſhes it.

The leſſer light, &c.] It is evident, that the moon is an opaque body, and ſhines with a borrowed light reflected from the ſun; yet it is not improperly called a light, becauſe it illuminates our earth.

The ſtars alſo.] Late aſtronomers have conſidered the fixed ſtars as ſo many ſuns, and each one the center of a different ſyſtem. However, nothing but revelation can aſſure us of this; this, as the poet expreſſes it,

> \- - - - - - No man's pervading ſoul
> Can pierce. How can a part contain the whole?

A late author thinks that the words were originally intended as a marginal note, and that at length they crept into the text; becauſe they ſeem to come in a little abruptly.

Ver. 20. Let the waters bring forth, &c.] This may poſſibly ſound to ſome like equivocal generation, which notion has long been the refuge of atheiſm; but is now exploded, ſince the uſe of microſcopes. Thoſe inſects, which were thought to have been bred merely by the heat of the ſun, are found to be produced in the ordinary way of generation, and that there is really no ſuch thing as a ſpontaneous production. The eggs of minute inſects may be diſcerned adhering to leaves, fruit, and other bodies, in vaſt numbers.

Fowl that may fly above the earth, &c.] The mechaniſm of birds is very curious: their inſtinct is alſo wonderful: nothing can exceed their care in hatching and cheriſhing their young, turning their eggs with great aſſiduity, that they may acquire an equal degree of heat on all ſides, and when the brood comes forth, tenderly nouriſhing and defending them from every thing that threatens danger. How full of art and contrivance are they in the ſtructure of their neſts? How do they which are birds of paſſage, depart at an appointed ſeaſon, and conſtantly return again? What beauty appears in their colouring, and plumage, whether we behold the oſtrich, the peacock, the pheaſant, the dove? &c.

Ver. 21. Great whales, &c.] Moſes inſtances in the whale, becauſe it is the largeſt of all the fiſh kind. Fiſhes as well as birds, are admirably adapted to the nature of the element they live in. And ſeeing it is their property more particularly, to devour one another, and even thoſe of their own ſpecies, God has provided a ſufficient ſupply by making them more fruitful than ordinary. A ſingle

Before Chriſt 4004.

22 And God bleſſed them, ſaying, Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the ſeas, and let fowl multiply in the earth.

23 And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

24 ¶ And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle and creeping thing, and beaſt of the earth after his kind: and it was ſo.

25 And God made the beaſt of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

26 ¶ And God ſaid, Let us make man in our image, after our likeneſs: and let them have dominion over the fiſh of the ſea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

27 So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him: male and female created he them.

Before Chriſt 4004.

28 And God bleſſed them, and God ſaid unto them, Be fruitful and multiply, and repleniſh the earth, and ſubdue it: and have dominion over the fiſh of the ſea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

29 ¶ And God ſaid, Behold, I have given you every herb bearing ſeed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding ſeed: to you it ſhall be for meat.

30 And to every beaſt of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was ſo.

31 And God ſaw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the ſixth day.

CHAP.

fiſh has been computed to be capable of producing eight or ten millions in a ſeaſon: Aſtoniſhing!

The Hebrew, HATHANINIM, comprehends ſeveral ſorts of fiſhes: it ſignifies alſo a crododile.

Ver. 22. God bleſſed them, &c.] Which bleſſing, we evidently ſee, reſts upon them to this day, in their continuing to be prolific, as alſo in their preſervation. This conſideration of the efficacy of the divine benediction ought to be an inducement to us to call upon him frequently for a bleſſing on us, and ours.

Ver. 24. The living creature, &c.] Quadrupedes, or four-footed creatures, with other terreſtrial animals, which Moſes diſtributes into three kinds, 1. Beaſts; ſuch as are wild and ſavage; lions, tygers, &c. 2. Cattle; tame and domeſtic; horſes, ſheep, &c. 3. Creeping things; ſerpents, &c. and inſects of all kinds, which laſt are very numerous, and of great variety of forms and textures; and ſome of them undergo ſeveral ſtrange, though regular transformations and metamorphoſes, all which ſerve to ſhew the great power of God.

Ver. 26. Let us make man.] God had now prepared the world for his laſt, though nobleſt creature, Man, (for it is obſervable that in the creation he began with the leſs perfect things firſt, and had richly furniſhed it with every delight and convenience) and next proceeds to call him forth to the enjoyment of them. And ſince he was to be a creature of a more exalted nature than others, we find him deliberating as it were, before he undertook his creation, and even holding a conſultation (for this is the opinion of divines) with the two other perſons in the ſacred trinity, and ſaying to the ſon, and holy ſpirit, Let us make man.

In our image, &c.] By which is meant the ſpiritual and immortal nature of the human ſoul, and the ſeveral faculties and endowments of the mind, underſtanding, reaſon, will, wiſdom, holineſs, and the like; all which bear a great reſemblance to the eſſence and attributes of God.

Ver. 28. God bleſſed them.] By this he declared his great love to man, and that he did actually rejoice in his welfare and happineſs.

Be fruitful and multiply, &c.] Some imagine this to lay an obligation upon all to marry; but whatever it might do in thoſe early ages of the world, it may be conſidered, now the world is peopled, as no longer obligatory, eſpecially, ſeeing St. Paul commends celibacy in thoſe to whom it is given.

Have dominion, &c.] God gave man authority over the creatures, 'tis true, but never meant he ſhould tyrannize. It was neceſſary Adam ſhould be acquainted with the power given him, of ſubduing them, to remove from him all apprehenſion of danger from their ferocity.

Ver. 29. Every herb, &c.] We find no mention made in this place of cattle, for food, but only vegetables, which was the diet of Adam, and of his poſterity, before the flood. It has been thought this contributed, in ſome meaſure, to the prolongation of life.

Ver. 30. To every beaſt of the earth, &c.] We ſee, God ſecured a proviſion for other creatures, as well as for man. We muſt not think him unmindful of them, becauſe they are inferior to us; for they are God's workmanſhip as well as we, and his tender mercies are over all; over the beaſts of the field, and the fowls of the air.

Ver. 31. Behold, it was very good.] This being the ſixth and laſt day of creation, and every thing being now perfected, God took a ſurvey of all his works, and beholding their great beauty, order, and propriety, he rejoiced in them, and pronounced them to be very good.

Before Chriſt 4004.

1 The firſt ſabbath. 4 The manner of the creation. 8 The planting of the garden of Eden, 10 and the river thereof. 17 The tree of knowledge only forbidden. 19, 20 The naming of the creatures. 21 The making of woman, and inſtitution of marriage.

THUS the heavens and the earth were finiſhed, and all the hoſt of them.

2 And on the ſeventh day God ended his work which he had made: and he reſted on the ſeventh day from all his work which he had made.

3 And God bleſſed the ſeventh day, and ſanctified it: becauſe that in it he had reſted from all his work, which God created and made.

4 ¶ Theſe are the generations of the heavens and of the earth, when they were created; in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens,

Before Chriſt 4004.

5 And every plant of the field, before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field, before it grew: for the LORD God had not cauſed it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground.

6 But there went up a miſt from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7 And the LORD God formed man of the duſt of the ground, and breathed into his noſtrils the breath of life; and man became a living ſoul.

8 ¶ And the LORD God planted a garden eaſtward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. Hoſt.] All created beings, which repreſent, as it were, an innumerable army, under the care and conduct of their great Creator.

Ver. 2. Seventh day.] The Almighty, if he had ſo pleaſed, could have ordered all things into being at once. But if we may be allowed to aſſign reaſons for his proceedings, he took ſix days, perhaps, purely to give man a clearer and more comprehenſive idea of his infinite power; and alſo that every day might afford him freſh matter of praiſe and thankſgiving. It is to be noted, that the number ſeven ſignifies Perfection, and denotes that every thing was now completed.

Ended, &c.] He ceaſed to ſhew his power in creating any more creatures, though he ceaſed not to work in their preſervation, ſuſtentation, and guiding them by his providence.

Reſted, &c.] Ceaſed from his work, for we are not to ſuppoſe this expreſſion implies any wearineſs in God, who fainteth not.

Ver. 3. Bleſſed the ſeventh day, &c.] Granted it this prerogative, that no bodily labours ſhould be performed on it. He ſanctified it, by ſeparating it from common uſe, and making a ſolemn dedication of it to his own peculiar ſervice, to be employed in acts of piety and religion, and in a commemoration of his wonderful works. The ſeventh day was undoubtedly obſerved, before the giving of the law, by Adam and his poſterity. Philo the Jew calls it the birth-day of the world; and EORTE PANDEMOS, the univerſal feſtival.

Ver. 4. The Lord, &c.] Hitherto the Deity has been diſtinguiſhed by the name of God, ſimply, which ſignifies exiſtence; but now the Lord God, to ſhew his dominion over the creatures.

Ver. 5. Before it grew, &c.] Plants, herbs, &c. were at the firſt produced inſtantaneouſly, and in their full perfection, by the power of God; but were afterwards propagated by ſeeds, and their vegetation aſſiſted, both by natural and artificial means, viz. rains and dews, and the cultivation afforded them by the labour of man.

Ver. 7. Of the duſt of the ground.] Though we may boaſt of the dignity of our nature, and being poſſeſſed of an immortal ſoul, yet, methinks, the reflection of our being but the ſlime of the earth is enough to mortify our pride, eſpecially conſidering we muſt ſhortly return to our original duſt: No doubt but God intended it to humble us.

Breathed into his noſtrils the breath of life, &c.] By the breath of life is meant the human ſoul, without which the body is but as a lump of clay. Now it was God inlivened man, and quickened him with a never-dying ſpirit, by his divine inſufflation: but of what the ſoul is compoſed is known to God alone. What we render noſtrils here, ſignifies alſo the head, or face.

Ver. 8. Planted a garden.] Or, he had planted it, viz. on the third day of the creation. This is what the Hebrews and Greeks call Paradiſe, becauſe of its fertility and happy ſituation; and it is frequently alluded to in the ſcriptures, and made an emblem of heaven.

Eaſtward in Eden, &c.] Eaſtward in reſpect to Judea, or where Moſes was when he wrote theſe things, which it is likely was in Arabia Petræa. Eden, in Hebrew, ſignifies Pleaſure, or Delight, and therefore has been frequently given as a name to ſuch places as were more than ordinarily fruitful. Where this delightful ſpot, the reſidence of our firſt parents, was ſituated, has been a matter of diſpute; that which beſt anſwers the deſcription given by Moſes, and other paſſages of ſcripture, where this country is mentioned, is that tract of land ſituated between Bagdat and Baſſora, near the Perſian gulph. This is thought, with good reaſon, to be the country of Eden. Herodotus, who was an eye-witneſs, informs us, that it is ſo fertile in corn, as to yield two hundred fold, and that they drive their cattle from paſture, leſt they ſhould ſurfeit themſelves. Where the garden of Paradiſe was, is judged to be directly on the eaſtern

Before Chriſt 4004.

9 And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleaſant to the ſight, and good for food: the tree of life alſo in the midſt of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of Eden, to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads.

11 The name of the firſt is Piſon: that is it which compaſſeth the whole land of Havilah, where there is gold.

12 And the gold of that land is good: there is bdellium and the onyx-ſtone.

13 And the name of the ſecond river is Gihon: the ſame is it that compaſſeth the whole land of Ethiopia.

Before Chriſt 4004.

14 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth toward the eaſt of Aſſyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates.

15 And the LORD God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, to dreſs it, and to keep it.

16 And the LORD God commanded the man, ſaying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayeſt freely eat:

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou ſhalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eateſt thereof, thou ſhalt ſurely die.

18 ¶ And the LORD God ſaid, It is not good ſide of one of the windings of that river, which is made by the conjunction of the Tigris and Euphrates, near the place where Erec, or Aracca, now ſtands.

Ver. 9. The tree of life, &c.] It has much puzzled commentators to gueſs at the meaning of this. Some imagine the fruit had a peculiar virtue in it, to keep the animal ſpirits always in the ſame ſtate of perfection in which they were at firſt created, free from ſickneſs and diſorders, till God ſhould have tranſlated man to heaven (for it is certain he had not died if he had not ſinned.) Others look upon it to have been only a ſymbol of that eternal life, promiſed to Adam upon condition of obedience.

Tree of knowledge of good and evil.] So called, not becauſe it had any virtue to confer ſuch knowledge, but only that the devil made this pretence to the woman; or, which ſeems moſt likely, becauſe that Adam, when he had eaten of it, would experimentally find that he had forſaken the divine command, and done evil in the ſight of God.

Ver. 10. Four heads.] Though the univerſal deluge muſt have greatly altered the face of nature, yet we ſhall ſtill find that ſpot juſt before mentioned, for the garden of Paradiſe, to anſwer the deſcription pretty exactly; for, if we look from thence up towards Babylon, we ſee the Tigris and Euphrates coming into it, and downwards towards the Perſian Gulph, the Piſon and Gihon running out.

Ver. 11. Piſon.] It is thought to be that branch of the Euphrates and Tigris which runs weſterly, though now it has loſt its name. It is ſaid to paſs through a plain and low country, which ſeems to be intimated in its name, ſignifying rather a pond than a river.

Havilah.] That tract of land which lies upon the Perſian Gulph, on the eaſt ſide, afterwards inhabited by the poſterity of Havilah, of the generation of Shem.

Ver. 12. The gold of that land is good.] In this country of Arabia there is found plenty of gold, and that, as we are told, of ſo pure a nature, it needs no refining. Here are alſo choice pearls and precious ſtones of the greateſt value, and rich gums.

Bdellium.] This is a tranſparent odoriferous gum, of a ruſty red colour, and has ſomewhat of the appearance of myrrh, with a bitteriſh taſte. Some think it ſignifies a pearl in this place.

Onyx-ſtone.] This is a very elegant and beautiful gem, of great luſtre, and the diſpoſition of its colours are very regular: they are found in a variety of forms, and when larger than ordinary are of a conſiderable value; ſome are white, ſome brown, and others of a bluiſh caſt.

Ver. 13. Gihon.] The name of this river is quite loſt; but it is thought to be the eaſtern ſtream, ariſing from the parting of the Euphrates and Tigris. It is ſaid to run ſwiftly through an high country. This ſeems to be intimated in the name.

Ethiopia.] Thus the Septuagint tranſlation renders the word Cuſh, which always ſignifies a part of Arabia. By Ethiopia here, then, is meant that country which lies upon the eaſtern ſtream of the Gihon, and which is now called Suſiana, and by the inhabitants Chuzeſtan.

Ver. 14. Hiddekel.] This is undoubtedly the Tigris, which parts Aſſyria from Meſopotamia, and it would be better tranſlated, that which goeth along the ſide of Aſſyria.

Euphrates.] This river was ſo well known, it was needleſs for Moſes to deſcribe it.

Ver. 15. To dreſs it, &c.] God would have him employed, and therefore placed him in this delectable ſituation, that he might exerciſe his body as well as his mind, and by that means not lay open to temptation.

Ver. 17. Thou ſhalt not eat of it, &c.] God had been liberal in his bounty to man, having given him the full enjoyment of all, and had only reſtrained him from the uſe of this one tree; and this he did, no doubt, merely to make trial of his obedience, and to ſhew him, that he was to acknowledge him for his ſovereign; and that therefore whatever he forbid, however trifling it might appear, it was not lawful, no not ſo much as to touch it.

Thou ſhalt ſurely die.] Not immediately (as the event ſhewed) but that he ſhould, from the very moment of his diſobedience, become frail and mortal, be ſubjected good that the man ſhould be alone: I will make him an help meet for him.

19 And out of the ground the LORD God formed every beaſt of the field, and every fowl of the air, and brought them unto Adam to ſee what he would call them: and whatſoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beaſt of the field: but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him.

21 And the LORD God cauſed a deep ſleep to fall upon Adam, and he ſlept: and he took one of his ribs, and cloſed up the fleſh inſtead thereof.

22 And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And Adam ſaid, This is now bone of my bones, and fleſh of my fleſh: ſhe ſhall be called Woman, becauſe ſhe was taken out of man.

24 Therefore ſhall a man leave his father and his mother, and ſhall cleave unto his wife: and they ſhall be one fleſh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not aſhamed.

CHAP. III.

1 The ſerpent deceiveth Eve. 6 Man's ſhameful fall. 9 God arraigneth them. 14 The ſerpent is curſed. 15 The promiſed ſeed. 16 The puniſhment of mankind. 21 Their firſt cloathing. 22 Their caſting out of paradiſe.

NOW the ſerpent was more ſubtil than any beaſt of the field which the LORD God had made: and he ſaid unto the woman, Yea, hath God ſaid, Ye ſhall not eat of every tree of the garden?

ed to ſickneſs, diſeaſes, and infirmities, and, in the end, to death.

Ver. 18. It is not good that, &c.] As every other creature had its mate, ſo it was not convenient that man ſhould be ſolitary and alone; but that he, likewiſe, ſhould have a partner of the ſame nature with himſelf, with whom he might freely converſe, and that they might afford to each other mutual help and aſſiſtance.

Ver. 19. Brought them unto Adam, &c.] This privilege God gave to man, and, as it is likely, by ſome ſecret inſtinct, cauſed them to appear voluntarily before him. However, this ſeems to have been a work of time, and that Adam named them as he ſaw them occaſionally, and as he and his ſpouſe converſed together about them. It is obſervable, that the Hebrew names (for this is certainly the moſt ancient language) of beaſts, &c. are very ſignificant, and nearly adapted to their natures.

The Hebrew word ADAM ſignifies red earth, alluding to the ground from which he was taken.

Ver. 21. A deep ſleep, &c.] A kind of trance, to render him inſenſible of the operation, which, it is natural to think, muſt otherwiſe have been exceeding painful to him.

One of his ribs.] What we tranſlate a rib, ſhould be rendered, according to the Septuagint tranſlation, the ſide; which, as it is about the region of the heart, ſhews the near alliance between the man and the woman, and conſequently that the greateſt tenderneſs and affection ought to ſubſiſt between them. We may obſerve, that, as the woman was not taken out of the head, leſt ſhe ſhould have been intitled to ſuperiority over her huſband, ſo ſhe was not taken from the feet, or intended to be made (as ſome ſeem to think) a ſlave, and to be trampled upon; or from any other leſs honourable part, to be deſpiſed, rejected, or forſaken. If ſhe is inferior to man in point of authority, ſhe is equal to him with regard to her nature, conſiſting both of ſoul and body.

Cloſed up the fleſh, &c.] It has been a vulgar error that there is a deficiency of that rib in man to this day, which anatomiſts find to be otherwiſe, and which aroſe from the before-mentioned miſtake of the rib being put for the ſide.

Ver. 22. Made he a woman, &c.] The woman was not made at this time, as it it thought, but on the ſame day with the man: (for we find it is ſaid, Chap. i. ver. 27. male and female created he them,) but that Moſes only reaſſumes the ſtory here.

Ver. 23. This is now bone of my bones.] Adam ſeems to be endued with a prophetic ſpirit. To be ſure he muſt have been acquainted with this either by inſpiration, or ſome viſion in his ſleep, during the operation.

She ſhall be called woman, &c.] Should partake of his name as well as his nature; and as he was called ISCH in the Hebrew, ſhe ſhould be called ISCHA.

Ver. 24. Leave his father and his mother, &c.] He ſhews there is no tie like the nuptial, but that a man ſhall willingly leave his friends and family to enter into a new ſociety of life with his wife; for marriage is a re-union of the man and the woman into one again.

Ver. 25. And were not aſhamed.] Becauſe, as yet, they retained that original purity and integrity of ſoul and mind, in which they were at firſt created, and were not tainted with impure thoughts and corrupt imaginations, being unacquainted with ſin, which is the parent of ſhame.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. Now the ſerpent was more ſubtil, &c.] The ſacred hiſtorian all along deſcribes ſpiritual things under ſenſible and corporeal images; and ſo here, by the ſerpent,

Before Chriſt 4004.

2 And the woman ſaid unto the ſerpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden:

3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midſt of the garden, God hath ſaid, Ye ſhall not eat of it, neither ſhall ye touch it, leſt ye die.

4 And the ſerpent ſaid unto the woman, Ye ſhall not ſurely die.

5 For God doth know, that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes ſhall be opened: and ye ſhall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

6 And when the woman ſaw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleaſant to the eyes, and a tree to be deſired to make one wiſe; ſhe took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave alſo unto her huſband with her, and he did eat.

Before Chriſt 4004.

7 And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked: and they ſewed fig-leaves together, and made themſelves aprons.

8 And they heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themſelves from the preſence of the LORD God amongſt the trees of the garden.

pent, he means that cunning and artful deceiver, the devil, who indeed concealed himſelf under the form of a real ſerpent. This, then, was the inſtrument he made uſe of, and that, as ſome ſuppoſe, for this reaſon, becauſe that as it was a more noble creature before the fall than what we ſee it now, and withal extraordinarily beautiful, it had allured the woman to take notice of it (that ſex being fond of finery) and that ſhe had accuſtomed herſelf to play with and fondle it, till it became familiar; conſequently, ſhe was more likely to be deceived under that form than any other: but ſeeing there are a kind of fiery flying ſerpents both in Egypt and Arabia, called Seraphims, and that poſſibly the angels might aſſume ſome ſuch ſhape (for they are ſaid to be very beautiful both in form and colouring) when they brought their mandates from heaven to our firſt parents, Satan might attempt the like, and poſſeſs one of theſe creatures, in order to look the more like an angel of light.———Moſes has given us no account of this great enemy of God and man; but we may gather from ſcripture, that he was once an angel of heaven, and happy in his ſtation, but, as we may ſuppoſe, through his ambition, fell into ſome crime for which he and his accomplices were baniſhed from God's preſence; and that deſpairing of a reconciliation, he became abandoned, and now, out of pure envy to the happineſs of man, was determined, if poſſible, to work his ruin.

Yea, hath God ſaid, &c.] Satan thus diſguiſed, after ſome previous diſcourſe (as it may be ſuppoſed) with the woman, ſeems on a ſudden to put on an air of ſurprize that God ſhould forbid the uſe of a tree, ſo deſirable on all accounts as that appeared to be.

Ver. 4. Ye ſhall not ſurely die.] He makes her believe this was a mere threat, and that God would never deſtroy the work of his hands for ſuch a trifle.

Ver. 5. For God doth know, &c.] He farther pretends to her, that it was God's deſign to keep them in ignorance; and that becauſe he knew the eating the fruit of that tree would cauſe them to be wiſe, and underſtanding like himſelf, he had therefore purpoſely prohibited it.

Ver. 6. And when the woman ſaw, &c.] The woman hearing ſo many rare commendations of this tree, and that it was endued with ſuch extraordinary virtues, had no longer patience to forbear it, but eagerly put forth her hand to the forbidden fruit, and taſted it; then (as the poet ſings)

Earth felt the wound, and nature, from her ſeat
Sighing, thro' all her works gave ſounds of woe,
That all was loſt. Milton.

After ſhe had taſted ſhe then preſented it to her huſband, who, won by all the ſoft blandiſhments of his wife, and not able to reſiſt her charms, or deny her any requeſt, takes the fruit out of her hand, and likewiſe eat; then,

Earth trembled from her entrails, as again
In pangs, and nature gave a ſecond groan;
Sky lower'd, and, murmuring thunder, ſome ſad drops
Wept, at compleating of the mortal ſin.

Thus was the firſt perfect man ruined by female ſeduction, and all his poſterity.

Ver. 7. The eyes of them both were opened.] Opened to their own miſery, and quite in a different manner than what they ſuſpected; for they now, too late, ſaw their folly. Their conſciences were awakened from lethargy, and they were now, in reality, arrived to the knowledge of Good and Evil; but it was the good they had loſt, and the evil they had acquired, the curſe of God, miſery, and death. Inſtead of being as gods, they perceived themſelves to be the children of the devil.

They knew that they were naked.] No ſooner were the ideas of their mind corrupted by ſin, than they began to be impreſſed with the conſciouſneſs of ſhame, to which they had been ſtrangers before, and as they perceived the nakedneſs of their bodies, ſo alſo they found their ſouls diveſted of moral and intellectual virtues.

They ſewed fig leaves together, &c.] What we tranſlate ſewing is better rendered platting, and what we call leaves ſhould rather be termed branches, according to the original; ſo that it ſignifies, they twined branches of fig-trees round about their waiſts. The word rendered apron means as properly an arbor, or bower.

Ver. 8. They heard the voice, &c.] Or as the word may ſignify, a noiſe. It is likely God appeared to them in a more awful and terrible manner than uſual, and their terror was no doubt greatly increaſed by their guilt.

In the cool of the day.] Or the wind of the day, as the Hebrew ſignifies, i. e. in the morning, when they awoke to a ſenſe of their guilt.

Hid

Before Chriſt 4004.

9 And the LORD God called unto Adam, and ſaid unto him, Where art thou?

10 And he ſaid, I heard thy voice in the garden: and I was afraid, becauſe I was naked; and I hid myſelf.

11 And he ſaid, Who told thee that thou waſt naked? Haſt thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee, that thou ſhouldeſt not eat?

12 And the man ſaid, The woman, whom thou gaveſt to be with me, ſhe gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13 And the LORD God ſaid unto the woman, What is this that thou haſt done? And the woman ſaid, The ſerpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

14 And the LORD God ſaid unto the ſerpent, Becauſe thou haſt done this, thou art curſed above all cattle, and above every beaſt of the field: upon thy belly ſhalt thou go, and duſt ſhalt thou eat all the days of thy life.

15 And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy ſeed and her ſeed: it ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel.

Before Chriſt 4004.

16 Unto the woman he ſaid, I will greatly multiply thy ſorrow and thy conception; in ſorrow thou ſhalt bring forth children: and thy deſire ſhall be to thy huſband, and he ſhall rule over thee.

17 And unto Adam he ſaid, Becauſe thou haſt hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and haſt eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not eat of it: curſed is the ground for thy ſake; in ſorrow ſhalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.

18 Thorns alſo and thiſtles ſhall it bring forth to thee: and thou ſhalt eat the herb of the field.

19 In the ſweat of thy face ſhalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it waſt thou taken: for duſt thou art, and unto duſt ſhalt thou return.

20 And

Hid themſelves, &c.] Such is the dreadful conſequence of guilt, which ſtrives to conceal itſelf in retirement, but cannot be concealed from God.

Ver. 9. Where art thou?] Not that the Almighty needed to be informed; but only to awaken the offender to a ſenſe of his guilt.

Ver. 12. The woman whom thou gaveſt, &c.] So natural is it for mankind to excuſe their own faults, and charge others with that with which they ought to charge themſelves.

Ver. 14. The Lord God ſaid unto the ſerpent, &c.] We may learn hence God Almighty's hatred of ſin, who degraded the ſerpent, and from a noble creature, as it is thought, either flying in the air, or going erect on his tail, deſtined him to crawl upon the earth, and to lick the duſt, even though he was only uſed as an inſtrument of it. This animal remains a monument to us of the wickedneſs of our firſt parents, and it is ſaid that theſe creatures do actually eat the duſt, and that it is upon this account they ſubſiſt ſo well in dry and ſandy deſarts.

Ver. 15. I will put enmity, &c.] I will render thee hateful and abominable to all mankind, as thou haſt been inſtrumental in their ruin, and more particularly to the female ſex; and as for thee, Satan, who haſt made this creature an inſtrument for thy vile purpoſes, and ſo deceived the woman, know, that the ſeed of that very ſex (even the Meſſias) ſhall deſtroy both thee and thy empire, and though thou ſhalt maintain a continual war with my choſen people, you with them, and they with you, yet thou ſhalt not be able to overcome; for Chriſt Jeſus, their invincible captain in this warfare, ſhall fight for them, and defeat all thy ſtratagems.

Ver. 16. Unto the woman he ſaid, &c.] God next pronounces ſentence upon the woman, becauſe ſhe was the next aggreſſor, having tempted the man to ſin. Her puniſhment was ſorrow in conception, and pain in childbearing, together with ſubjection and ſubmiſſion to her huſband. It has been remarked, that there are no creatures which bring forth their offspring with ſuch intenſe pain and agony as woman; notwithſtanding ſhe has an advantage above them in her formation; nor are there any attended with ſuch a variety of diſorders as ſhe is, during the time of pregnancy. As for ſubjection to the man, we too often ſee that verified upon them, even to abuſe. Theſe effects were immediately conſequent of the ſentence given.

Ver. 17. Unto Adam he ſaid, &c.] The earth is deprived of its great fertility, and ſhall not be capable of bringing forth any thing profitable; nothing but what it ſhall produce by your conſtant labour and induſtry.

Ver. 19. Duſt thou art, and unto duſt, &c.] Oh! ſinful man, what haſt thou forfeited by thy diſobedience? for hadſt thou perſiſted in thine obedience, thou ſhouldſt have been bleſſed with a long and happy life here in this world, free from cares and diſaſters, and afterwards God would have tranſlated thee, without ever dying, to a life of endleſs glory: but now, alas! thou muſt enter into life through the gates of death. Few are thy days, and thoſe full of miſery, ſorrow, labour, and diſtreſs; hourly art thou expecting to drop into thy grave of duſt, Before Christ 4004. 20 And Adam called his wife's name Eve, becauſe ſhe was the mother of all living.

21 Unto Adam alſo and to his wife did the LORD God make coats of ſkins, and clothed them.

22 ¶ And the LORD God ſaid, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil. And now leſt he put forth his hand, and take alſo of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever:

23 Therefore the LORD God ſent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken.

24 So he drove out the man: and he placed at the eaſt of the garden of Eden, Cherubims, and a flaming ſword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

CHAP. IV.

Before Christ 4004.

1 The birth, trade, and religion of Cain and Abel. 8 The murder of Abel. 11 The curſe of Cain. 17 Enoch the firſt city. 19 Lamech and his two wives. 25 The birth of Seth, 26 and Enos.

AND Adam knew Eve his wife: and ſhe conceived, and bare Cain, and ſaid, I have gotten a man from the LORD. 4003.

2 And ſhe again bare his brother Abel. And Abel was a keeper of ſheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

3 And in proceſs of time it came to paſs, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD.

4 And Abel, he alſo brought of the firſtlings of his flock, and of the fat thereof.

and to become the food of worms; but, bleſſed be God, we ſhall not be always held by theſe chains of darkneſs: In the midſt of judgment we found mercy; yea, bleſſed be God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

Ver. 20. Called his wife's name Eve, &c.] Adam now calls his wife by a new name, viz. Eve, that is to ſay, Life; becauſe ſhe was the mother of mankind, and alſo on account of the promiſed ſeed, who was to bring life and immortality to light.

Ver. 21. The Lord God made coats of ſkins, &c.] God taught them to make coats for themſelves, or coverings, to keep off the inclemency of the weather, and to cover their nakedneſs. Some think theſe were ſkins of beaſts which they had ſlain in ſacrifice; but this could not be, for as yet there were but two of each ſpecies of creatures. They might therefore be made of the bark of trees, called Dermata: or, rather, God taught them to make coats to cover their ſkins, the word ſignifying cutis, as well as pellis.

Ver. 22. Behold, the man is become as one of us.] Some think theſe words contain a moſt ſevere ſarcaſm or irony, and that God here reproves them for their great folly, in attempting to increaſe their knowledge without the divine permiſſion; but he is not uſed thus to inſult over the miſery of his creatures: It is therefore better to underſtand it, that the Lord acknowledges, with pity and commiſeration, that man had indeed, to his own ſad experience, attained to the knowledge of good and evil.

And now leſt he put forth his hand, &c.] The tree of life, whatever it was, had undoubtedly loſt its virtue ſince the fall, and if our firſt parents had then eaten of it, it is likely it would not have had any ſalutary effect; God therefore, perhaps, would not ſuffer them to approach, or come within ſight of it, leſt it ſhould have tempted them to be preſumptuous, and to offend again by offering to lay hold of that tree, vainly hoping to repair their loſs. Or elſe, the meaning is ſpiritual: and now, ſeeing man is come under condemnation, leſt he lays hold on my mercy, by faith in the promiſed Redeemer (who is the true tree of life, and of which this was an emblematical repreſentation, Rev. ii. 7. and xxii. 14. and eat, for he that eateth me, ſays Chriſt, even he ſhall live by me) and live for ever.

Ver. 24. Cherubims, and a flaming ſword, &c.] A guard of angels, who, having aſſumed fiery bodies, and flying to and fro in the air, had the appearance of the vibrations of a flaming ſword, and rendered all acceſs to the tree impracticable.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1. I have gotten a man from the Lord.] Eve took this her firſt born ſon for the promiſed Meſſias, who ſhould avenge her of the ſerpent by bruiſing his head; and therefore ſhe cries out in a rapture, I have gotten a man from the Lord; or, the man: the Lord. And ſhe called his name Cain, which ſignifies poſſeſſion, or acquiſition.

Ver. 2. Abel.] The word means vanity, either to ſhew the little eſteem ſhe had for him in compariſon of her firſt-born; or elſe the vanity of her hope in taking Cain for the Meſſias. It will ſignify likewiſe ſorrow and mourning, and then, perhaps, this name might not be given him till after his tragical end.

Ver. 3. In proceſs of time, &c.] Theſe brothers each offered up ſomewhat ſuitable to their reſpective callings, which offerings, no doubt, were by the particular command and appointment of God, and were intended to teach man that there was homage due to him for the gifts he beſtowed upon him: and, as Abel is ſaid to have offered of the firſtlings of his flock, this might be a type of the ſacrifice of Chriſt Jeſus, the lamb ſlain from the foundation of the world; though ſome will have it there were no ſacrifices of beaſts before the flood, and therefore tranſlated it inſtead of the fat, the milk of his flock.

Before Chriſt 4003.

of. And the Lord had reſpect unto Abel, and to his offering:

5 But unto Cain, and to his offering, he had not reſpect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.

6 And the Lord ſaid unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen?

7 If thou doeſt well, ſhalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doeſt not well, ſin lieth at the door. And unto thee ſhall be his deſire, and thou ſhalt rule over him.

8 And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to paſs when they were in the field, that Cain roſe up againſt Abel his brother, and ſlew him.

9 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he ſaid, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper?

10 And he ſaid, What haſt thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.

11 And now art thou curſed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand.

14 Behold, thou haſt driven me out this day from the face of the earth: and from thy face ſhall I be hid, and I ſhall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth, and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that findeth me ſhall ſlay me.

15 And the Lord ſaid unto him, Therefore whoſoever ſlayeth Cain, vengeance ſhall be taken on him ſeven-fold. And the Lord ſet a mark upon Cain, leſt any finding him ſhould kill him.

16 ¶ And Cain went out from the preſence of the Lord, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the eaſt of Eden.

17 And Cain knew his wife, and ſhe conceived and bare Enoch: and he builded a city,

Ver. 4. The Lord had reſpect unto Abel, &c.] Shewed his acceptance, by ſome viſible ſign from heaven, and perhaps by a fire which fell and conſumed the ſacrifice. We meet with an inſtance of this, Gen. xv. 17. and on ſeveral other occaſions.

Ver. 5. Cain was very wroth, &c.] It has been thought that the intent of their ſacrificing at this time, was to know which of them God would be pleaſed to accept to fulfil the promiſe, and to produce the ſeed that ſhould bruiſe the ſerpent's head; and that, obſerving God's approbation of Abel, he could not help expreſſing his reſentment in his very countenance. He thought, verily, it belonged to him by right of primogeniture.

Ver. 7. If thou doeſt well, ſhalt thou not be accepted? &c.] This ſhews that God is no reſpecter of perſons, but regards the intention. The apoſtle explains the reaſon why Abel was accepted; becauſe that, by faith, he offered a more excellent ſacrifice than Cain, who, it may be preſumed, was puffed up with a conceit of the merit of his performances, that his religion was merely external, and not in the heart, otherwiſe God would have accepted him, but he hates the hypocrite.

Sin lieth at the door.] The puniſhment of ſin, which is near at hand, and ready to overtake the wicked.

Unto thee ſhall be his deſire, &c.] He ſhall ſtill honour you in a civil reſpect, as an elder brother.

Ver. 9. Am I my brother's keeper?] So great was his rage he could not refrain from returning rude and indecent language even to his Maker.

Ver. 10. Thy brother's blood, &c.] Or bloods, as it is in the Hebrew; indicating the heinous crime of murder, and that by it a man's poſterity is deſtroyed with him.

Ver. 13. My puniſhment is greater than I can bear.] The Hebrew word Aven, ſignifies Iniquity, and Naſha, as well to be forgiven as to bear; and therefore theſe words may be rendered either poſitively, My iniquity is too great to be forgiven; or interrogatively, Is my iniquity too great to be forgiven?

Ver. 15. The Lord ſet a mark upon Cain.] It ſhould be tranſlated, the Lord ſet a ſign before Cain, and as it is thought wrought a miracle, to convince him that his providence ſhould protect him from extreme violence. For God intended he ſhould live to be an example of vengeance.

Leſt any finding him ſhould kill him.] As the world was at this time one hundred and twenty, or one hundred and thirty years old, it has been computed that there might have been at that time no fewer than 421,164 men in it, deſcended from all the ſons and daughters of Adam.

Ver. 16. From the preſence of the Lord, &c.] From his native place, where he went to behold the Sheckinah, or glory of God, which it is thought appeared to men from the beginning: this he was never to ſee more.

Land of Nod, &c.] The Land of Baniſhment, ſo called from the curſe inflicted upon him.

Ver. 17. And Cain knew his wife, &c.] Though at firſt, there was an abſolute neceſſity of marrying within the degrees of conſanguinity; yet, when the world was well peopled, ſuch marriages were juſtly prohibited.

He builded a city, &c.] After ſome time, when his family was conſiderably increaſed. Joſephus tells us, he was the firſt who invaded the common rights of mankind, 22 And Zillah, ſhe alſo bare Tubal-cain, an inſtructer of every artificer in braſs and iron: and the ſiſter of Tubal-cain was Naamah.

23 And Lamech ſaid unto his wives, Adah and Zillah, Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech, hearken unto my ſpeech: for I have ſlain a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt.

by boundaries and incloſures, and that he corrupted the ſimplicity and plain dealing of former times, by the invention of weights and meaſures, for new tricks of policy and craft; and, in ſhort, that he enriched himſelf by rapine and violence.

Enoch.] A dedication.

Ver. 19. Two wives.] This is the firſt time we read of polygamy; whether, as ſome think, there were more women than men in the world, that induced him to it, or whether it was not with a view to ſecure to himſelf, if poſſible, that ſeed of the promiſed Meſſias, which he thought belonged to him. This appeared to be the intention of the patriarchs in after times, in taking a plurality of wives.

Ver. 20. The father of ſuch as dwell in tents, &c.] The Jews called thoſe who were the original inventors of any art or ſcience the fathers of it; as here Jabal is ſaid to be the father of ſuch as dwell in tents, i. e. following the paſture with their cattle from place to place, in moveable huts, which the Arabians and others practiſe at this day.

Ver. 23. Lamech ſaid unto his wivs, &c.] This paſſage has greatly puzzled the commentators. Some imagine it to be a kind of hymn of Lamech's compoſing, and preſerved by Moſes as a ſpecimen, in which he makes a boaſt of his own cruelty. But the Chaldee and Arabic verſion both ſpeak interrogatively; Have I ſlain a man to my wounding, or a young man to my hurt? The deſcendants of Cain had long lived in fear of the poſterity of Adam, as it is conjectured, leſt they ſhould one time avenge upon them the murder of Abel; and Lamech's wives being in dread of this, he argues thus, to convince them of the unreaſonableneſs of their fears. If Cain, who was guilty, ſhall be avenged ſeven-fold; ſurely Lamech, and his family, being innocent, ſeventy and ſeven.

Ver. 25. Called his name Seth.] The ſubſtituted, or appointed, inſtead of Abel.

Ver. 26. Then began men to call, &c.] The children of Seth began to ſeparate themſelves from the wicked poſterity of Cain, and to appoint places for the public worſhip of Almighty God, which hitherto had been performed privately, and apart. In the margin of our Bibles, indeed, it is, then began men to call themſelves by the name of the Lord, i. e. ſay ſome, to aſſume divine honours. Jabal being the Pallas, Jubal the Apollo, Tubal-Cain the Vulcan, and Naamah the Venus of the Gentile world. But Moſes ſeems not to be pointing out the beginning of idolatry, but rather the inſtitution of religious rites.

and goodneſs; or elſe, in being mortal like himſelf, and depraved in his nature through the fall.

Ver. 5. Lived nine hundred and thirty years, &c.] Adam, after having lived to ſee a numerous progeny, ſubmitted at laſt, to the ſentence which God had paſſed upon him for his diſobedience, by returning to his original duſt. Some have been led to think, from the account of the long lives of the antediluvian patriarchs, that Moſes, when he ſpeaks of years, means the lunar, and conſequently, that they lived but ſo many months. However, this conjecture is attended with too many abſurdities to be admitted. For then there could be no more than about one hundred and twenty ſeven ſolar years, from the creation to the flood; the great age of Methuſelah will dwindle into about eighty years; and what is worſe, ſome of theſe perſons muſt have been fathers at a little more than five years of age. The true cauſes of their longevity is known to God only; but perhaps he ordained it to be ſo, that the world might be well peopled, religion propagated, and the arts brought to perfection.

Ver. 21. Enoch begat Methuſelah.] This perſon lived to the year of the deluge, and Enoch, his father, being a prophet, Jude xiv. and therefore foreſeeing that the deſolation of the world would immediately ſucceed his ſon's death, gave him the name of Methuſelah; the word Methu ſignifying, he dies, and Selah, the ſending forth, or the pouring out of water.

Ver. 24. God took him.] Enoch having lived a life of true religion, in godlineſs, righteouſneſs, and ſobriety; God was pleaſed to exempt him from the common fate of mankind, by tranſlating him immediately into heaven, without taſting of death; thereby comforting the virtuous of that age with the hope of future immortality and glory.

which were required in tillage, by reaſon of the curſe pronounced on the earth from the beginning; or, as it is more probable, becauſe that he ſhould be the reſtorer of mankind, after the deſtruction by water, which Enoch foretold.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. When men began to multiply, &c.] Some have ſhewn, by a moderate computation, that there might be at leaſt, one hundred thouſand millions of ſouls in the world at this time, which is almoſt twenty times as many as there are now on the earth. One reaſon of this muſt have been the long lives of the antediluvians.

Ver. 2. The ſons of God, &c.] It is thought that by the ſons of God in this place, is meant the poſterity of Seth, who being ſeparated from the reſt of the world, became devoted to religion, and ſo obtained this appellation; and that the family of Cain, being abandoned to wickedneſs, was diſtinguiſhed by the name of the ſons of men. Theſe Sethites, therefore, being ſmitten with the beauty of the Cainite women, forgot their father's advice, and made inter-marriages, and an alliance with them, quickly degenerating into their evil ways; ſo that all the world being now corrupted, God was reſolved to deſtroy it.

Ver. 3. My ſpirit ſhall not always ſtrive, &c.] Since man is become incorrigible, and gentle admonitions have proved in vain, I will proceed to puniſh with ſeverity.

Yet his days ſhall be an hundred and twenty years.] Notwithſtanding, I will be ſo merciful as to allow him ſpace to repent in, even one hundred and twenty years, and if by that time there is no amendment, the meaſure of his iniquity will be filled up, and I will proceed to the intended puniſhment.

Ver. 4 There were giants in the earth, &c.] Giants in wickedneſs, as well as in bulk and ſtature, who exerciſed all manner of tyranny upon the earth.

Ver. 6 It repented the Lord, &c.] Not that he is ſubject to paſſions as we are, and therefore this is an expreſſion accommodated to our underſtanding, and is ſpoken according to our method of acting, who when we do any thing we diſapprove, uſually endeavour to undo it.

Ver. 7. Both man and beaſt, &c.] By this we may ſee how great an offence ſin is to God Almighty, for he not 13 And God ſaid unto Noah, The end of all fleſh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them: and behold, I will deſtroy them with the earth.

14 ¶ Make thee an ark of Gopher-wood: rooms ſhalt thou make in the ark, and ſhalt pitch it within and without with pitch.

15 And this is the faſhion which thou ſhalt make it of: The length of the ark ſhall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

16 A window ſhalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit ſhalt thou finiſh it above; and the door of the ark ſhalt thou ſet in the ſide thereof: with lower, ſecond, and third ſtories ſhalt thou make it.

17 And behold, I, even I do bring a flood of waters upon the earth to deſtroy all fleſh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven: and every thing that is in the earth ſhall die.

18 But with thee will I eſtabliſh my covenant: and thou ſhalt come into the ark; thou, and thy ſons, and thy wife, and thy ſons wives with thee.

21 And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou ſhalt gather it to thee; and it ſhall be for food for thee, and for them.

22 Thus did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, ſo did he.

CHAP. VII.

1 Noah with his family and the living creatures enter into the ark. 17 The beginning, increaſe, and continuance of the flood.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Noah, Come thou, and all thy houſe, into the ark: for thee have I ſeen righteous before me in this generation. 2349.

3 Of fowls alſo of the air by ſevens, the male and the female; to keep ſeed alive upon the face of all the earth.

5 And Noah did according unto all that the LORD commanded him.

6 And Noah was ſix hundred years old when only puniſhed man, but the beaſts, &c. made for man's uſe; and as it is likely, becauſe he had perverted them to evil purpoſes.

Ver. 14. Gopher-wood.] It is the general opinion, that the ark was built with Cypreſs, the country about Babylon, where Noah reſided, affording a great abundance of thoſe trees. The Greek name is KUPARISSOS, which, taking away the termination, is Cupar, a ſound nearly like that of Gopher. Beſides, the wood of this tree is known to be moſt durable, not ſubject to decay, nor will the worm breed in it.

Ver. 15. And this is the faſhion, &c.] The ark appears to have been a kind of cheſt, with three ſtories, or decks, each of which were divided into ſeveral ſtalls, or apartments, for the creatures, and their proviſion, with a range of windows above, that went quite round, to enlighten the whole, and a door in its ſide: Its roof was built ſloping, to carry off the rain; the length about five hundred and forty-ſeven Engliſh feet, the breadth ninety-one, and the height fifty-four, allowing twenty-two inches to the cubit; ſo that it was capacious enough to hold all the animals.

Cubits.] The Jewiſh cubit (according to the beſt calculations) was twenty-two of our inches nearly.

Ver. 18. With thee will I eſtabliſh my covenant, &c.] We may underſtand this either as a promiſe that God would preſerve Noah from the general deſtruction; or elſe as a renewal of the Meſſias.

Ver. 22. According to all that God commanded him, ſo did he.] Noah, no doubt, when he undertook the building of the ark, became the ſport and ridicule of the wits of that age; notwithſtanding which, he perſiſted in his under-

8 Of clean beaſts, and of beaſts that are not clean, and of fowls, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth,

9 There went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.

10 And it came to paſs after ſeven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth.

11 ¶ In the ſix hundredth year of Noah's life, in the ſecond month, the ſeventeenth day of the month, the ſame day were all the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened.

12 And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

13 In the ſelf-ſame day entered Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the ſons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his ſons with them, into the ark:

14 They, and every beaſt after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird of every ſort.

15 And they went in unto Noah into the ark, two and two of all fleſh, wherein is the breath of life.

16 And they that went in, went in male and female of all fleſh, as God had commanded him: and the LORD ſhut him in.

17 And the flood was forty days upon the earth: and the waters increaſed, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth.

18 And the waters prevailed, and were increaſed greatly upon the earth: and the ark went upon the face of the waters.

19 And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth: and all the high hills, that were under the whole heaven, were covered.

20 Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; and the mountains were covered.

21 And all fleſh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beaſt, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man.

22 All in whoſe noſtrils was the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land, died.

23 And every living ſubſtance was deſtroyed which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were deſtroyed from the earth: and Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark.

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 11. In the ſecond month, &c.] Anciently, that is, before the Iſraelites came forth out of Egypt, the year began about the middle of September, or at the autumnal equinox; therefore the ſecond month anſwers to our October, and part of November.

The ſeventeenth day.] This anſwers to our November the ſeventh.

The ſame day were all the fountains, &c.] The ſeas ſwelling to a prodigious height, cauſed an inundation of the waters, which broke in upon the land with great fury and impetuoſity; at the ſame time, the rain poured down from the clouds in torrents; and the caverns of the earth, at the command of God, burſting, emitted whole floods of water. This continued near ſix weeks without intermiſſion, till all was overwhelmed.

Ver. 19. All the hills, &c.] This plainly proves that the deluge was univerſal, ſeeing the waters were fifteen cubits, or twenty-two feet and one half above the higheſt mountains. The memory of it is preſerved by univerſal tradition, and the face and bowels of the earth are a plain proof that ſuch a thing once was. How elſe came the ſpoils of the ocean, fiſh bones, &c. to be found on the higheſt eminences of the earth?

Ver. 24. An hundred and fifty days.] The violence of the flood continued forty days without intermiſſion, and in the whole one hundred and fifty, before there was any decreaſe.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 1. And God remembered Noah, &c.] Thus does our gracious God remember mercy, even in the midſt of judgment; he had compaſſion on Noah and his family in the ark: he cauſed a ſtrong drying wind to blow, reſtrained the fountains of the deep, cloſed the windows of heaven, and made the ſea to return again to its bounds.

Ver. 7. He ſent forth a raven, &c.] This is a bird of a quick ſcent, and carnivorous withal; ſo that Noah did this for an experiment, to try whether any parts of the earth were dry, knowing that the ſmell of dead carcaſes would ſoon tempt the raven to quit the ark; at firſt however it continued hovering about it, and returned again; till at length, when the earth was dry, it flew clean away, and returned no more.

3 Every moving thing that liveth ſhall be meat for you; even as the green herb have I given you all things:

4 But fleſh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, ſhall you not eat.

5 And ſurely your blood of your lives will I require: at the hand of every beaſt will I require it; and at the hand of man, at the hand of every mans brother will I require the life of man.

Ver. 16. Go forth of the ark, &c.] Though Noah knew the waters were abated, and gone from the earth, and however impatient he might be to be releaſed from his confinement; yet ſuch was the regard he paid to the divine commands, that he would not offer to ſtir till he had received an order ſo to do.

Ver. 20. Noah builded an altar, &c.] Noah in gratitude to God for his preſervation, offered a burnt offering, being the firſt ſacrifice of ſlain beaſts we read of: and now, it is ſaid, Ver. 21. The Lord ſmelled a ſweet ſavour, that is, it was grateful to him, as ſweet odours are to us; not that he had a delight in burnt offerings, but becauſe of the ſincerity and uprightneſs of Noah's heart.

Notes on Chap. IX.

Ver. 3. Every moving thing, &c.] It appears that this was the firſt grant made to mankind, by which the uſe of animal food was allowed; and that perhaps becauſe vegetables afforded leſs nutriment now than before the flood, or man's body might be debilitated, and require a ſtronger food; or elſe it was deſigned to ſhorten his age.

Ver. 4. The blood thereof, &c.] The blood is forbid to be eaten, in order to inſpire man with tenderneſs and humanity, not only towards the beaſts, but our fellow creatures alſo. A prohibition this, intended as a preſervative againſt murder.

Ver. 5. At the hand of every beaſt, &c.] This ſerves to ſhew God's great regard to man, above all other creatures on earth.

8 ¶ And God ſpake unto Noah, and to his ſons with him, ſaying,

9 And I, behold, I eſtabliſh my covenant with you, and with your ſeed after you;

10 And with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beaſt of the earth with you, from all that go out of the ark, to every beaſt of the earth.

11 And I will eſtabliſh my covenant with you; neither ſhall all fleſh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood: neither ſhall there any more be a flood to deſtroy the earth.

12 And God ſaid, This is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations:

13 I do ſet my bow in the cloud, and it ſhall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.

14 And it ſhall come to paſs, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow ſhall be ſeen in the cloud:

15 And I will remember my covenant which is between me, and you, and every living creature of all fleſh; and the waters ſhall no more become a flood to deſtroy all fleſh. Before Christ 2348.

16 And the bow ſhall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlaſting covenant between God and every living creature of all fleſh that is upon the earth.

17 And God ſaid unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant which I have eſtabliſhed between me and all fleſh that is upon the earth.

lege, becauſe of all things in the world, nothing is more ſacred, nothing ſtamped with more lively characters of the divinity than man. Murder is an act of high-treaſon againſt the Divine Majeſty, whom man repreſents in this lower world.

Ver. 13. I do ſet my bow in the cloud, &c.] The natural cauſe of the rainbow is known to be the rays of the ſun refracted in drops of falling rain; but it is likely the clouds had not that peculiar diſpoſition before the flood, which was required to the production of a rainbow. God ordered this for a new ſign, or token of his covenant with Noah, and the whole world, that he would no more deſtroy the earth with a flood. But had it been an uſual phænomenon, it had ſcarce reſtrained him from his fears. Therefore we may look upon the rainbow appearing at certain ſeaſons, to be a conſtant monitor to man of God's covenant with him for ever.

Ver. 20. Noah began to be an huſbandman, &c.] Or, as the word will ſignify, continued to be an huſbandman, returning to his occupation after the flood.

Ver. 21.] And he drank of the wine, &c.] This righteous man's miſcarriage ought to teach others, not to look upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its colour in the cup, and moveth itſelf aright; but to conſider, that it is a mocker, and that ſtrong drink is raging, and that whoſoever is deceived thereby is not wiſe.

Ver. 22. And Ham the father of Canaan ſaw the nakedneſs, &c.] Interpreters differ in their opinion concerning the crime of Ham. The ſcripture phraſe to ſee, or uncover his father's nakedneſs, ſignifies to lie with his father's wife; ſome therefore have thought that it was inceſt he was guilty of; but it ſeems moſt likely that he diſcovering the nakedneſs of his aged father as he lay intoxicated, or rather overcome, (the wind, or ſome little accident having thrown aſide his thin garment, ſuch as were worn in thoſe days) made him the ſubject of raillery and deriſion, on account of his age and imbecility.

Ver. 23. Went backward and covered the nakedneſs, &c.] Ham had informed his two brethren of what he had ſeen, and expected they would have joined with him in

CHAP. X.

1 The generations of Noah. 2 The ſons of Japheth. 6 The ſons of Ham. 8 Nimrod the firſt monarch. 21 The ſons of Shem.

NOW theſe are the generations of the ſons of Noah; Shem, Ham, and Japheth: and unto them were ſons born after the flood. Before Christ 1998.

2 The ſons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meſhech, and Tiras.

3 And the ſons of Gomer; Aſhkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah.

4 And the ſons of Javan; Eliſhah, and Tarſhiſh, Kittim, and Dodanim.

5 By theſe were the iſles of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations.

6 ¶ And the ſons of Ham; Cuſh, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Canaan.

7 And the ſons of Cuſh; Seba, and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtecha: and the ſons of Ramaah; Sheba, and Dedan.

8 And Cuſh begat Nimrod: he began to be a mighty one in the earth.

9 He was a mighty hunter before the LORD: wherefore it is ſaid, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.

the mockery; but they had more grace and modeſty than to be pleaſed with ſuch treatment of their aged father, and therefore contrived to cover him without beholding his nakedneſs.

Ver. 25. Curſed be Canaan, &c.] As Africa was peopled by the poſterity of Ham, it has been thought the curſe was fulfilled in that unhappy race of mortals, the Negroes, who are, in a literal ſenſe, ſervants of ſervants; and that the colour of their ſkin was changed in conſequence of it; but the original cauſe of that blackneſs ſeems rather to have been from the extraordinary heat of the climate; for we ſee people differing in complexion, according as they are removed nearer to, or farther from the tropics. This prophecy, it is likely, was literally fulfilled by the deſcendants of Shem, who drove out the poſterity of Canaan from Paleſtine, which afterwards became tributary to the Romans, the deſcendants of Japheth.

Ver. 26. Bleſſed be the Lord God of Shem, &c.] Or, the words may be rendered, bleſſed of Jehovah, my God, be Shem. Noah, by a prophetic ſpirit, foreſeeing the Meſſias would be deſcended from him, breaks forth into rapture, and joyfully praiſes God for the mercy and bleſſing vouchſafed to his ſon Shem.

Ver. 27. God ſhall enlarge Japheth, &c.] This prophecy was truly accompliſhed; for the deſcendants of Japheth were poſſeſſed of the continent of Europe. Aſia Minor, Media, part of Armenia, Iberia, Albania, and the vaſt Northern regions now inhabited by the Tartars.

He ſhall dwell in the tents of Shem, &c.] A part of the countries of Shem ſhall be in the poſſeſſion of the poſterity of Japheth. Fulfilled by the Medes and Babylonians overthrowing the Aſſyrian monarchy, and the Greeks and Romans conquering that part of Aſia which belonged to them. This prophecy was alſo ſpiritually accompliſhed by the Gentiles, the poſterity of Japheth, coming into the church of God, originally eſtabliſhed in the family of Shem.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 5. The iſles of the Gentiles, &c.] The word tranſlated Iſle ſignifies alſo a province or region, and therefore we are here to underſtand ſuch countries as were divided from Canaan by the ſea.

Ver. 9. He was a mighty hunter before the Lord.] By this phraſe we are to underſtand no more than this; that he excelled in the arts of the chace. As we may naturally ſuppoſe men dwelt in tents at this time, and conſequently were expoſed to the ravages of wild beaſts; and that Nimrod, in a great meaſure, freed his aſſociates from their annoyance, by his dexterity and conſtant practice in hunting; and by this means gaining their affections, took the opportunity of uſurping a ſovereign authority over them. He appears by his name, which ſignifies a rebel, or apoſtate, to have been a very tyrannical prince.

Before Christ 2218. 10 And the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar.

11 Out of that land went forth Aſſhur, and builded Nineveh, and the city Rehoboth, and Calah, 12 And Reſen between Nineveh and Calah: the ſame is a great city.

13 And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim, 14 And Pathruſim, and Caſluim (out of whom came Philiſtim) and Caphtorim.

15 ¶ And Canaan begat Sidon his firſtborn, and Heth,

16 And the Jebuſite, and the Emorite, and the Girgaſite,

17 And the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite,

18 And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite: and afterward were the families of the Canaanites ſpread abroad.

19 And the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comeſt to Gerar, unto Gaza; as thou goeſt unto Sodom and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboim, even unto Laſhah.

20 Theſe are the ſons of Ham, after their families, after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations.

21 ¶ Unto Shem alſo the father of all the children of Eber, the brother of Japheth the elder, even to him were children born. Before Christ 2218.

22 The children of Shem; Elam, and Aſſhur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram.

23 And the children of Aram; Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Maſh.

24 And Arphaxad begat Salah; and Salah begat Eber.

25 And unto Eber were born two ſons: the name of one was Peleg, for in his days was the earth divided; and his brothers name was Joktan. 2247.

26 And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, and Jerah,

27 And Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah,

28 And Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba,

29 And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: all theſe were the ſons of Joktan.

30 And their dwelling was from Meſha, as thou goeſt unto Sephar, a mount of the eaſt.

31 Theſe are the ſons of Shem after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations.

32 Theſe are the families of the ſons of Noah after their generations, in their nations: and by theſe were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

CHAP. XI.

1 One language in the world. 3 The building of Babel. 5 The confuſion of tongues. 10 The generations of Shem. 27 The generations

Ver. 10. The beginning of his kingdom was Babel, &c.] He was the founder of the Babylonian empire, and made Babel, which he then built, the metropolis, or capital city. He began his reign in the year of the world 1757, and reigned 148 years.

Ver. 11. Out of that land went forth Aſſhur, &c.] This is to be underſtood, either perſonally, that Aſſhur, not able to endure the tyranny of Nimrod, removed beyond the Tigris, and there founded the empire of Aſſyria, and built Nineveh, the capital; or, locally, that he, Nimrod, out of that land went forth into Aſſhur, and invaded Aſſyria, belonging to the poſterity of Shem, with a deſign of enlarging his dominions.

Ver. 21. The father of all the children of Eber, &c.] That is, the father of the Hebrew nation.

Ver. 25. Peleg, for in his days was the earth divided.] Abram was deſcended from this ſon of Eber. His name ſignifies diviſion: for about the time of his birth, the great diſperſion of mankind into all parts of the earth happened.

Ver. 32. By theſe were the nations divided in the earth.] The poſterity of Shem peopled Aſia; Japheth, Europe; Ham, Africa; and here it may be aſked, who peopled the iſlands, and the large continent of America, which is ſeparated from the reſt of the world by a vaſt ocean? The anſwer is, We are not aſſured that this tract of land is ſeparated, for it is very probable there may be ſome iſthmus northward, which may join Europe and Aſia. And if not, there are always ſome narrow ſtraits to be found, which divide the lands in one part or other, ſo as to render a communication eaſy by the help of a ſmall bark, ſuch as we ſee the Indians uſe at this day. It is well known, that part of Europe and Aſia, and America, extend very far North, and that there are ſeveral iſlands which lay ſcattering between them at no great diſtance.

AND the whole earth was of one language, and of one ſpeech.

2 And it came to paſs as they journeyed from the eaſt, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there.

3 And they ſaid one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and burn them throughly. And they had brick for ſtone, and ſlime had they for morter.

4 And they ſaid, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whoſe top may reach unto heaven, and let us make us a name, leſt we be ſcattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth.

5 And the LORD came down to ſee the city and the tower, which the children of men builded.

6 And the LORD ſaid, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be reſtrained from them, which they have imagined to do.

Before Chriſt 2247.

8 So the LORD ſcattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city.

9 Therefore is the name of it called Babel, becauſe the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD ſcatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

10 ¶ Theſe are the generations of Shem: Shem was an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver 1. Of one language, &c.] And that was undoubtedly the original Hebrew, which was ſpoken by Adam and the patriarchs before the flood.

Ver. 2. A plain in the land of Shinar, &c.] This plain comprehends the whole country of Eden, the habitation of man in his ſtate of innocence, ſituated on the banks of the Tigris.

Ver. 3. Slime had they for morter.] This was the aſphaltites, a liquid pitch, known by the name of bitumen, and plentiful in that country. Suidas tells us, that this cement, mixed with bricks and ſmall ſtones, became ſtrong as iron. With this the walls of Babylon were cemented.

Ver. 4. Whoſe top may reach unto Heaven, &c.] It cannot be imagined that theſe builders were ſo ſtupid, as to think by this means to climb into heaven; for then they would have choſe a mountain, and not a plain for ſuch a purpoſe. But this expreſſion ſignifies, that they intended to carry the work to a prodigious height, ſo that it might appear even to vie with the clouds.

Let us make us a name, leſt we be ſcattered abroad, &c.] This ſhews the reaſons which induced them to ſuch an undertaking, (for they hardly choſe a low plain, in order to preſerve themſelves from a ſecond deluge) the firſt was ambition, a deſire of fame and glory, which they aimed at by building a city that ſhould be the metropolis of the univerſe, and erecting of a tower, which for its ſtatelineſs, ſhould be the wonder of the world, and by that means record their memory to poſterity: ſecondly, ſecurity; that they might not be diſperſed. So that their intention ſeemed to be to make this their ſettlement; for perhaps they had been ſollicited by Noah, and it might be God Almighty's will, that they ſhould diſperſe themſelves into different parts, in order to repleniſh the earth, which they diſapproved of; though God, we ſee, brought this upon them, by the very means which they took to avoid it.

Ver. 5. The Lord came down, &c.] That is, he diſcerned the impiety of theſe men's hearts.

Which the children of men builded] In ſcripture language, the children of men denotes the wicked. It might therefore be only the children of Ham who engaged in this undertaking, and not thoſe from whom Abraham deſcended, who preſerved their religion (which it is likely theſe did not) and therefore eſcaped the puniſhment by retaining their ancient language, which continued in the family of Heber.

Ver. 8. They left off to build the city.] Thus eaſy is it for the Almighty to baffle the vain attempts of mortal man: but though they left the work unfiniſhed, yet it remained for a long time afterwards; and by what we may learn from authors, theſe were its dimenſions; it was a ſquare of half a mile in circumference, its height was equal to its baſis, the aſcent was on the outſide by circular winding ſtairs, of ſuch a width that carriages might paſs and turn with eaſe, which made it appear to the beholder like eight towers one above another, gradually decreaſing in the manner of a pyramid; each tower it is ſaid was ſeventy-five feet in height, which made in the whole ſix hundred feet, and its inſide contained many ſtately rooms with arched roofs, ſupported by pillars.

30 But Sarai was barren; ſhe had no child.

31 And Terah took Abram his ſon, and Lot the ſon of Haran his ſons ſon, and Sarai his daughter in law, his ſon Abrams wife; and they went forth with them from Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there.

came to be ſuch a multiplicity of languages. Here we are told, that it was the immediate work of God, and that he did it for wiſe reaſons. The languages here ſpoken of, were either entirely new and unknown before, or elſe were a diviſion of the old into a variety of different dialects, which, if we conſider the near affinity of languages in general, ſeems highly probable.

From thence did the Lord ſcatter them, &c.] Though there entered but eight perſons into the ark, yet the beſt authors agree, that there might be no leſs than 3,333,333,330 pair of men and women proceed from them by this time; and now God diſperſed them over the face of the earth, to repleniſh it: Thus, Japheth and his ſons peopled part of Aſia, and in proceſs of time, the offspring of his ſon Gomer extended themſelves beyond the Danube, into Germany and France, and were called Cimmerii, and Cimbri; from thence they paſſed into Britain, and are thought to have been the founders of the Welſh, who at this day call themſelves Kumero. Magog became the father of the Scythians: Medai of the Medes; Javan peopled Greece; Meſhech Muſcovy; Tiras Thrace; Ham Egypt; Cuſh the Aſian Ethiopia; Mizraim, the ſecond ſon of Ham, built Zoar, Thebes, and Memphis; Canaan poſſeſſed the land of Canaan; Heth was the father of the Hittites; Shem's eldeſt ſon, Elam, gave name to the Elamites, or Perſians; Aſhur to the Aſſyrians; his youngeſt ſon Aram poſſeſſed Armenia, Meſopotamia, and Syria; Joktan, Arphaxad's grandſon, had thirteen ſons, who founded ſo many different nations in India and Arabia Felix; and ſo the reſt.

Ver. 28. Ur of the Chaldees.] Situated in the eaſtern part of Meſopotamia, and is ſometimes included under the name of Chaldea. Ur ſignifies light or fire, and is ſo called, either becauſe the Chaldeans were addicted to the ſtudy of aſtronomy; or from fire, the ſymbol of the ſun, worſhipped by them in that city.

Ver. 31. And Terah took Abram his ſon, &c.] God intending to ſelect this family from the reſt of mankind, and to make them a peculiar people, ordered Terah to leave this place, now corrupted by idolatry.

Haran.] So called by Terah in memory of his ſon Haran.

CHAP. XII.

1 God calleth Abram, and bleſſeth him with a promiſe of Chriſt: 4 He departeth with Lot from Haran: 6 He journeyeth through Canaan, 7 which is promiſed him in a viſion: 10 He is driven by a famine into Egypt: 11 Fear maketh him feign his wife to be his ſiſter. 14 Pharaoh having taken her from him, by plagues is compelled to reſtore her.

NOW the LORD had ſaid unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy fathers houſe, unto a land that I will ſhew thee.

2 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bleſs thee, and make thy name great; and thou ſhalt be a bleſſing.

3 And I will bleſs them that bleſs thee, and curſe him that curſeth thee: and in thee ſhall all families of the earth be bleſſed.

4 So Abram departed, as the LORD had ſpoken unto him; and Lot went with him: and Abram was ſeventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran.

6 ¶ And Abram paſſed thro' the land unto the place of Sichem, unto the plain of Moreh. And the Canaanite was then in the land.

7 And the LORD appeared unto Abram, and ſaid, Unto thy ſeed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him.

8 And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the eaſt of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the weſt, and Hai on the eaſt: and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD.

9 And Abram journeyed, going on ſtill toward the ſouth.

10 ¶ And there was a famine in the land: and Abram went down into Egypt to ſojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 1. Had ſaid unto Abram, &c.] Had revealed himſelf to him while he lived in Ur of the Chaldees, either by a voice from the Sheckinah, or ſymbol of the divine preſence; or elſe in a dream.

Ver. 3. In thee ſhall all the families of the earth, &c.] This bleſſing was eminently fulfilled in the Meſſiah, in whom all the ends of the earth were truly bleſſed. The promiſe belonged to the Gentiles, as well as to the Jews, becauſe Abram received it before he received circumciſion; it was not therefore under the law, but under grace.

Ver. 5. The ſouls that they had gotten.] Domeſtics, or ſervants, and perhaps ſome whom he had made proſelytes to the worſhip of the one God.

The land of Canaan.] This country lies between the Mediterranean ſea, and the mountains of Arabia, extending from Egypt to Phœnicia: It was called Canaan from Cainan, the ſon of Ham; then Paleſtine, the Land of Promiſe, Iſrael, Judæa, and laſtly, the Holy Land.

Ver. 6. The plain of Moreh.] The oak, or grove of Moreh, where Sichem now ſtands. The faith of Abram was very great, who (as the apoſtle remarks) went out, not knowing whither he went, God commanding him; and here he ventured among the Canaanites, a cruel and ſavage people.

Ver. 7. Unto thy ſeed will I give this land.] It is thought that this land did originally belong to the children of Shem, and that Canaan uſurped it from them; and therefore God promiſes Abram, as a reward of his faith, that he would reſtore it to him again as his lawful inheritance.

Builded he an altar unto the Lord, &c.] Called upon God for a bleſſing on his ſojourning.

Ver. 8. Beth-el] So denominated here by way of anticipation, for it was then called Luz. See Gen. xxviii. 19.

Ver. 10. Went down into Egypt, &c.] Not doubting of God's promiſe in the leaſt, but purely on account of the famine; for we find in the next chapter, that he returned again into Canaan. Joſephus tells us, that during Abram's ſtay in Egypt, he taught the Egyptians the arts of arithmetic and aſtronomy, which he brought with him out of Chaldea, and of which they were before ignorant.

Before Chriſt 1920.

12 Therefore it ſhall come to paſs, when the Egyptians ſhall ſee thee, that they ſhall ſay, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will ſave thee alive.

13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my ſiſter: that it may be well with me for thy ſake; and my ſoul ſhall live becauſe of thee.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs, that when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman, that ſhe was very fair.

15 The princes alſo of Pharaoh ſaw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's houſe.

16 And he intreated Abram well for her ſake: and he had ſheep, and oxen, and he-aſſes, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and ſhe-aſſes, and camels.

17 And the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his houſe with great plagues, becauſe of Sarai Abrams wife.

18 And Pharaoh called Abram, and ſaid, What is this that thou haſt done unto me? Why didſt thou not tell me that ſhe was thy wife?

19 Why ſaidſt thou, She is my ſiſter? ſo I might have taken her to me to wife: now therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way.

20 And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him: and they ſent him away, and his wife, and all that he had. Before Chriſt 1920.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Abram and Lot return out of Egypt. 7 By diſagreement they part aſunder. 10 Lot goeth to wicked Sodom. 14 God reneweth the promiſe to Abram: 18 He removeth to Hebron, and there buildeth an altar.

AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the ſouth. 1918.

2 And Abram was very rich in cattle, in ſilver, and in gold.

3 And he went on his journeys from the ſouth, even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai;

4 Unto the place of the altar, which he had made there at the firſt: and there Abram called on the name of the LORD.

5 ¶ And Lot alſo which went with Abram had flocks, and herds, and tents.

6 And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their ſubſtance was great, ſo that they could not dwell together.

7 And there was a ſtrife between the herdmen of Abrams cattle, and the herdmen of Lots cattle: And the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

8 And

Ver. 13. Say, I pray thee, thou art my ſiſter.] This action of Abram has been much cenſured. Indeed we have in it an inſtance of the weakneſs of human nature, and that the moſt perfect are not without their blemiſhes: He did not, however, in this, inſtruct his wife to tell a downright falſehood, but only to conceal the truth; for Sarai was in reality his ſiſter, both having the ſame father, tho' a different mother. The patriarch, therefore, may be juſtly charged with prevarication. Let him that ſtandeth take heed leſt he fall.

Ver. 15. Pharaoh.] Pharaoh is a name of dignity, and was common to the kings of Egypt, as Cæſar to the emperors of Rome; it is thought to be the ſame with the Egyptian word (pouro, or pooro) which ſignifies a king.

Ver. 17. The Lord plagued Pharaoh, &c.] What Pharaoh's puniſhment, and that of the Egyptians, was is not ſaid; but the Hebrew interpreters deem it to have been a ſwelling in the privities, ſo that the men could not enjoy Sarai, or other women.

Ver. 18. Pharaoh called, &c.] It does not appear from ſcripture how Pharaoh came to be acquainted that Sarai was Abram's wife; it is likely then, he had the knowledge of it from God in a dream, or a viſion.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. Into the South.] The ſouthern parts of Canaan; the famine being now abated.

Ver. 2. And Abram was very rich, &c.] As there was no uſe of money at this time, we muſt underſtand by gold and ſilver in this place, veſſels, &c. men in thoſe early ages having no commerce, but by interchanging commodities. Abram is here ſaid to have been very rich: hence we may learn, that riches and goodneſs are not incompatible; but it is the abuſe which is made of riches that renders them hurtful.

Ver. 6. The land was not able to bear them.] Not ſo much for want of fertility, perhaps, as room, the land being occupied by other nations.

Before Chriſt 1918. 8 And Abram ſaid unto Lot, Let there be no ſtrife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen: for we be brethren.

9 Is not the whole land before thee? Separate thyſelf, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

10 And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the Lord deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt, as thou comeſt unto Zoar.

1917. 11 Then Lot choſe him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed eaſt: and they ſeparated themſelves the one from the other.

12 Abram dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.

13 But the men of Sodom were wicked, and ſinners before the Lord, exceedingly.

14 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Abram, after that Lot was ſeparated from him, Before Chriſt 1917.
Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, northward, and ſouthward, and eaſtward, and weſtward.

15 For all the land which thou ſeeſt, to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed for ever.

16 And I will make thy ſeed as the duſt of the earth: ſo that if a man can number the duſt of the earth, then ſhall thy ſeed alſo be numbered.

17 Ariſe, walk through the land, in the length of it, and in the breadth of it: for I will give it unto thee.

18 Then Abram removed his tent, and came and dwelt in the plain of Mamre, which is in Hebron, and built there an altar unto the Lord.

CHAP. XIV.

Ver. 8. Abram ſaid unto Lot, let there be no ſtrife, &c.] Abram's condeſcenſion is greatly to be admired, who, to prevent animoſities, gives the liberty to his nephew, who was younger than himſelf, and not ſo wealthy, to take his own choice; he did not deſire him to depart the country, but only propoſed a ſeparation, and that at no very great diſtance, that ſo they might, upon occaſion, afford each other mutual help, and adds this endearing reaſon (which ſeems to have ſuch little force now-a-days) for we be brethren.

Ver. 10. Zoar.] Either that Zoar, a town on the edge of the plain of Jordan, called ſo by way of anticipation, for it was at this time called Bela, Gen. xiv. 2. or elſe, according to the Syriac, Zoan, the ancient capital of Egypt before Memphis was built. However, it is not material, ſince the expreſſion is here uſed only comparatively, to deſcribe the fertility of the country.

Ver. 11. The plain of Jordan.] The river Jordan, from whence this plain took its name, has its ſource about Cæſarea Philippi, and running about fifty leagues from north to ſouth, diſcharges itſelf into the Dead Sea, or Aſphaltite Lake, where Sodom and Gomorrah once ſtood. Some aſſert that it derives its name from the Hebrew word Jor, ſignifying a ſpring, and Dan, a ſmall town near its ſource.

Ver. 13. Exceedingly.] This is ſpoken with an emphaſis, to ſhew, that their ſin was ſo much the more deteſtable in the ſight of God in that it was unnatural, Crimen non nominandum.

Ver. 15. To thee will I give it, &c:] Every ſucceeding revelation given to Abram, as a reward of his piety, is heightened and made clearer than the preceding one; he was before promiſed that his ſeed ſhould have a poſſeſſion in the land of Canaan, now its bounds are ſet by his utmoſt ken from the top of mount Ephraim, (afterwards ſo called) and he is aſſured by the Almighty, that he and his ſeed ſhould poſſeſs it, which ſhould be like the ſand of the ſea, or the duſt of the earth, for number.

Ver. 18. Plain of Mamre.] The oaken grove, or, according to the LXX. the oak of Mamre; this tree was of long duration, for Sozomen ſays that this oak was extant in the time of Conſtantine, and famous for the pilgrimages that were made to it, and ſtood at about ſix miles diſtant from Hebron.] Accounted one of the moſt ancient cities in the world, built ſeven years before Tanais, the capital of Lower Egypt, ſituated on an eminence, twenty miles ſouth of Jeruſalem, and as many north of Beerſheba. Here the couples Abraham and Sarah, Iſaac and Rebecca, Jacob and Leah, were buried; and probably, therefore, it might derive its name from the word Chevar, to couple, or join. But it is rather ſuppoſed that the word Hebron was added to the text by Ezra, as the place was called Arba, or Kirjath Arba, till after the death of Moſes.

Before Chriſt 1926. having had their portions, he reſtoreth to the king of Sodom.

AND it came to paſs in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellaſar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations;

2 That theſe made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birſha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, and Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela which is Zoar.

3 All theſe were joined together in the vale of Siddim, which is the ſalt-ſea.

4 Twelve years they ſerved Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

1913. 5 And in the fourteenth year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and ſmote the Rephaims in Aſhteroth Karnaim, and the Zuzims in Ham, and the Emims in Shaveh Kiriathaim,

6 And the Horites in their mount Seir, unto El-paran, which is by the wilderneſs.

7 And they returned and came to Enmiſhpat, which is Kadeſh, and ſmote all the country of the Amalekites, and alſo the Amorites, that dwelt in Hazezontamar.

8 And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (the ſame is Zoar) Before Chriſt 1913. and they joined battle with them in the vale of Siddim;

9 With Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellaſar: four kings with five.

10 And the vale of Siddim was full of ſlime-pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there: and they that remained fled to the mountain.

11 And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and went their way.

12 And they took Lot Abrams brothers ſon (who dwelt in Sodom) and his goods, and departed.

13 And there came one that had eſcaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; for he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eſhcol, and brother of Aner: and theſe were confederate with Abram.

14 And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he armed his trained ſervants, born in his own houſe, three hundred and eighteen, and purſued them unto Dan.

15 And he divided himſelf againſt them, he and his ſervants by night, and ſmote them, and purſued them unto Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damaſcus.

Chedorlaomer.] Perhaps the ſame with Ninias, who was at that time head of the Aſſyrian monarchy.

Of nations.] Of a country inhabited by many nations, perhaps that which was afterwards called Galilee.

Ver. 2 Theſe made war with Bera king of, &c.] This is the firſt war we read of between contending princes, occaſioned, as it is thought, by the Canaanites unjuſtly detaining part of the poſſeſſions of the children of Shem, which Chedorlaomer, a deſcendant from him, with the aſſiſtance of thoſe allies, who, perhaps, were his dependent and tributary princes, now ſtrove to recover from them.

Ver. 3. The ſalt-ſea.] After the deſtruction of thoſe cities it became a ſea, and being impregnated with a great quantity of ſalt, was thence called the ſalt-ſea.

Ver. 10. Slime-pits.] Pits, or wells, of bitumen.

Ver. 13. Abram the Hebrew.] The word Heber, which we here render the Hebrew, ſignifies the ſide, and therefore the Septuagint tranſlates it, the ſtranger from beyond the river; an appellation which the Canaanites had beſtowed upon Abram, as coming from the other ſide of Euphrates.

Ver. 14. He armed his trained ſervants, &c.] Abram engaged in this war not as an ally to the Canaanites, or out of any ill will to his own family the children of Shem, but only to recover Lot his brother's ſon, who being but a ſojourner, had been unjuſtly ſeized, and had his effects plundered and taken away. It does not appear that Abram, till he had heard of this accident, took up arms at all.

18 And Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was the prieſt of the moſt high God.

19 And he bleſſed him and ſaid, Bleſſed be Abram of the moſt high God, poſſeſſor of heaven and earth:

CHAP. XV.

1 God encourageth Abram. 2 Abram complaineth for want of an heir. 4 God promiſeth him a ſon, and a multiplying of his ſeed. 6 Abram is juſtified by faith. 7 Canaan is promiſed again, and confirmed by a ſign, 12 and a viſion.

AFTER theſe things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a viſion, ſaying, Fear not, Abram: I am thy ſhield, and thy exceeding great reward.

2 And Abram ſaid, Lord GOD, what wilt thou give me, ſeeing I go childleſs, and the ſteward of my houſe is this Eliezer of Damaſcus?

3 And Abram ſaid, Behold, to me thou haſt given no ſeed: and lo, one born in my houſe is mine heir.

4 And behold, the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying, This ſhall not be thine heir, but he that ſhall come forth out of thine own bowels ſhall be thine heir.

5 And he brought him forth abroad, and ſaid, Look now toward heaven, and tell the ſtars, if thou be able to number them:

Ver, 17. The king of Sodom.] Probably the ſon of the king of Sodom before-mentioned, who fell among the ſlime-pits. Ver. 10.

Ver. 18. Melchizedek.] Who this perſon might be has been much diſputed. However, that it was Shem, as ſome think, is not in the leaſt probable; for it cannot be thought he ſhould preſide over the children of Ham. Some of the fathers took him for the Son of God, who now appeared to Abram in human likeneſs; but Chriſt could not be a type of himſelf, and yet the Apoſtle ſays, that Melchizedek was a type of Chriſt. After all, he certainly was one of the princes of Canaan, who, on account of his ſingular piety and eminent virtues, obtained the name of Melchizedek, i. e. King of Righteouſneſs; which ſeems rather to have been his character, than his real name.

King of Salem.] That is, Jeruſalem, which, in ſcripture, is called Salem. Pſalm lxxvi. 2.

He was the prieſt of the moſt high God.] The word Cohen ſignifies an high prieſt, as alſo a nobleman. There is no incongruity in finding the perſon here, mentioned under a double character; ſince it was cuſtomary in the firſt ages, to join the two offices of king and prieſt together, which latter title, that of Pontifex maximus, was thought to add a luſtre to their greatneſs, however deſpicable the office of prieſthood may appear in theſe times.

Ver. 20. He gave him tithes of all.] We ſee the cuſtom of paying a tenth part, was even at this time due by a divine right, and was afterwards confirmed by Moſes' law.

Ver. 22. I have lift up mine hand, &c.] This is a figurative expreſſion taken from the ancient manner of ſwearing, which was by lifting up the hand towards heaven. Abram did it to free himſelf from the imputation of covetouſneſs.

NOTES on Chap. XV.

Ver. 1. Fear not, Abram, &c.] Abram, without doubt, dreaded the return of the Aſſyrians, who, he apprehended, would renew the war, and, being but a ſtranger, knew he ſhould not be able, with a handful of men (his domeſtic ſervants) to reſiſt them, and therefore juſtly feared the conſequences; but God never forſakes thoſe whom he has taken under his protection, and therefore he appears to Abram, encouraging him, and ſaying, Fear not, Abram; I am thy ſhield, &c.

Ver. 2. What wilt thou give me, &c.] Of what conſequence

6 And he believed in the LORD; and he counted it to him for righteouſneſs.

7 And he ſaid unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee out of Ur of the Chaldees, to give thee this land to inherit it.

8 And he ſaid, LORD GOD, whereby ſhall I know that I ſhall inherit it?

9 And he ſaid unto him, Take me an heifer of three years old, and a ſhe-goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon.

10 And he took unto him all theſe, and divided them in the midſt, and laid each piece one againſt another: but the birds divided he not.

11 And when the fowls came down upon the carcaſes, Abram drove them away.

12 And when the ſun was going down, a deep ſleep fell upon Abram; and lo, an horror of great darkneſs fell upon him. Before Christ 1913.

13 And he ſaid unto Abram, Know of a ſurety that thy ſeed ſhall be a ſtranger in a land that is not theirs, and ſhall ſerve them, and they ſhall afflict them four hundred years.

14 And alſo that nation whom they ſhall ſerve, will I judge: and afterwards ſhall they come out with great ſubſtance.

15 And thou ſhalt go to thy fathers in peace; thou ſhalt be buried in a good old age.

16 But in the fourth generation they ſhall come hither again: for the iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full.

17 And it came to paſs, that when the ſun went down, and it was dark, behold a ſmoking furnace, and a burning lamp that paſſed between thoſe pieces.

ſequence will the greateſt temporal bleſſings be to me who have no heir to inherit them, and who, for want of children, am obliged to put all my goods into the hand and power of a ſtranger, a ſervant of mine? which manner of expoſtulating was a modeſt way of trying whether or no God Almighty intended to bleſs him with a child; for he had always entertained hopes of being the father of the promiſed ſeed.

Ver. 6. And he believed in the Lord, &c.] Notwithſtanding his wife's age, and her natural ſterility, even againſt hope he believed in God, and his faith was counted to him for righteouſneſs.

Ver. 8. Whereby ſhall I know, &c.] He requires ſome token from God, as an aſſurance of this bleſſing, not out of any diffidence, but only for the greater confirmation of his faith.

Ver. 10. And divided them in the midſt, &c.] According to the manner of entering into covenant in thoſe days, and for a long time after. In the Iliad of Homer we meet with ſeveral inſtances of this practice, and in other heathen authors; and as their ceremony was originally derived from God's people, ſo it continued among the Jews. Jeremiah makes particular mention of it, and it was thus. The victim was divided, and its parts laid aſunder oppoſite to each other; then the contracting parties walked between them, ſignifying that the party who broke his contract, ſhould be cut aſunder as the victim then was.

Ver. 11. When the fowls, &c.] When the birds of prey attempted to alight upon the ſacrifice, Abram kept them off

Ver. 12. An horror of great darkneſs, &c.] It is uſual for thoſe who ſee viſions or phantaſms amidſt the ſhades of night, to be ſeized with a dread and horror of ſpirits; ſee Dan. x. 8. and Job iv. 14. In this manner was Abram affected, when he beheld the Sheckinah approaching in the appearance of a ſmoaking furnace, and a burning lamp, in turn paſſing between, and conſuming the ſacrifice.

Ver. 13. Four hundred years.] That is, from the birth of Iſaac, who was that ſeed to whom the promiſe was made. From his birth to that of Jacob, there were ſixty years intervening; from thence to the birth of Joſeph ninety years, and to his death one hundred and ten; from hence again, to Moſes's birth ſixty years; in the eightieth year of whoſe life, God brought forth the children of Iſrael out of Egypt. Theſe ſeveral periods added together, make the ſum of four hundred years preciſely, the time prefixed by the viſion.

Ver. 15. Thou ſhalt go to thy fathers in peace.] Shalt not be an eye-witneſs of thoſe calamities which ſhall befall thy family; but being bleſſed with a long life in this world, thou ſhalt be rewarded with an happy one in the next, where thou ſhalt enjoy the ſociety of the ſpirits of juſt men made perfect.

Ver. 16. In the fourth generation, &c.] Reckoning from the time of Jacob's going down into Egypt: Aaron and Moſes, (in whoſe time the Iſraelites returned to the Promiſed Land) were the fourth generation or deſcent from him.

The iniquity of the Amorites is not yet full.] Hence we may learn, that the corruption of a nation is a ſure token of its approaching ruin: we may ſee too, the goodneſs and long-ſuffering of God, who forbears to puniſh, whilſt there is the leaſt hope of amendment, and till men are arrived to the height of impiety.

Ver. 17. A ſmoking furnace, and a burning lamp, &c.] What we tranſlate a burning lamp, ſignifies a flaming fire, or lightning: both ſmoke and fire, are in many places

Before Christ 1913. 18 In that ſame day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, ſaying, Unto thy ſeed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt, unto the great river, the river Euphrates:

Ver. 18. From the river of Egypt, &c.] The river Sihor, running between Egypt and Paleſtine, and falling into the Egyptian ſea.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 2. I pray thee go in unto my maid.] A practice ſo foreign to the manners of our time, may be wondered at; but we are to reflect, that the hope of obtaining the promiſed ſeed, was the object in which the wiſhes of the Jewiſh nation concentered: Sarai well knew, that according to the courſe of nature, it was impoſſible for her to bear children; and therefore ſhe lays this ſcheme, hoping thus to have a child (her huſband's iſſue) by her handmaid Hagar, as his ſecondary wife; ſuch being allowable by the practice of thoſe times. Abram, therefore, (not through any motive of ſenſuality) but partly out of conjugal affection to his wife, and partly out of a deſire of a numerous iſſue (prevalent in thoſe days) conſented to take Hagar.

Ver. 4. Her miſtreſs was deſpiſed in her eyes.] Thus Sarai's diſtruſt of the divine providence became her puniſhment; and the means ſhe took to make herſelf happy proved a ſorrow to her; this ought to teach us to remain ſatisfied with God's diſpenſations, and with patience to wait his leiſure.

Ver. 6. Behold, thy maid is in thy hand.] This acquits Abram from having any particular regard for Hagar, becauſe he ſo readily gave her up to her miſtreſs's diſcretion.

Ver. 7. In the wilderneſs, &c.] Between Paleſtine and Egypt, which was her native country, and whither ſhe was now returning.

Ver. 11. Iſhmael.] It is a name compounded of the words Iſhmag and El, the Lord hath, or the Lord will hear.

Ver. 12. He will be a wild man.] The original is a wild-aſs man, i. e. a man reſembling the Zebra (which is a wild aſs of Arabia) in diſpoſition; ſee this creature deſcribed, Job xxxix. 5. Accordingly, Iſhmael was of an unſettled, roving temper, dwelling in the wilderneſs of Paran, and living by his bow.

His hand will be againſt every man, &c.] Being of a rugged and untractable diſpoſition, he will continually infeſt his neighbours, and they on the other hand, being provoked, will endeavour to return the injuries done them. And this is the character and diſpoſition of the wild Arabs, to this day, (who are his deſcendants) and who infeſt and ravage all the neighbouring countries, and urge the example of their anceſtor Iſhmael, for their protection.

He ſhall dwell in the preſence of all his brethren.] In a ſpacious country, bordering upon that poſſeſſed by the ſons of Keturah; and the other ſide inhabited by thoſe of Sarai (the Iſraelites) who were his brethren. This country is Arabia, from which they were never yet expelled, nor conquered by any nation: the victorious Romans could not bring them under ſubjection, and they remain, even to this day, in the preſence of their brethren, an unconquered, as well as an inhoſpitable people.

Ver. 13. Have I alſo here looked after him that ſeeth me?] It was a received opinion, that all divine appearances, were attended either with preſent death, or loſs of ſight to the beholders; Hagar, therefore, having ſeen this viſion, and finding no harm had happened to her, cries out for joy, Do I live, or do I ſee after this viſion?

Ver. 14. Beer-lahai-roi.] The well of the living viſion, or of him who lives and ſees me, i. e. of God.

Notes on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 1. I am the Almighty God.] The Hebrew El-shaddah, here uſed, ſignifies who ſufficient, a moſt proper introduction to the promiſe which the Almighty was now about to make, which, as it was beyond the courſe of nature, therefore, to aſſure Abram that he was able to perform his promiſe, he prefaces it with ſaying, I am the Almighty, or he who is ſufficient to do this great thing, and give thee a ſon, by thy wife Sarai, who ſhall multiply thy ſeed exceedingly, notwithſtanding thine age and her barrenneſs, and being paſt child-bearing.

Ver. 4. Father of many nations.] In the literal ſenſe, the Arabians and Idumeans from Iſhmael, the Jews from Iſaac, beſides the tribes ſprung from his children by Keturah. In the ſpiritual ſenſe, Abram is the father of the faithful, in all nations.

Ver. 5. Thy name ſhall be Abraham.] It was cuſtomary in the Eaſtern nations, to change the names of perſons, upon any ſingular event; the ſignification of the different 9 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Thou ſhalt keep my covenant therefore, thou and thy ſeed after thee, in their generations.

10 This is my covenant, which ye ſhall keep between me and you, and thy ſeed after thee; Every man-child among you ſhall be circumciſed.

11 And ye ſhall circumciſe the fleſh of your fore-ſkin, and it ſhall be a token of the covenant betwixt me and you.

12 And he that is eight days old ſhall be circumciſed among you, every man-child in your generations; he that is born in the houſe, or bought with money of any ſtranger, which is not of thy ſeed.

13 He that is born in thy houſe, and he that is bought with thy money muſt needs be circumciſed; and my covenant ſhall be in your fleſh for an everlaſting covenant.

14 And the uncircumciſed man-child, whoſe fleſh of his fore-ſkin is not circumciſed, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people: he hath broken my covenant.

15 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, As for Sarai thy wife, thou ſhalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah ſhall her name be. Before Christ 1898.

16 And I will bleſs her, and give thee a ſon alſo of her: yea, I will bleſs her, and ſhe ſhall be a mother of nations; kings of people ſhall be of her.

17 Then Abraham fell upon his face, and laughed, and ſaid in his heart, Shall a child be born unto him that is an hundred years old? and ſhall Sarah, that is ninety years old, bear?

18 And Abraham ſaid unto God, O that Iſhmael might live before thee!

19 And God ſaid, Sarah thy wife ſhall bear thee a ſon indeed; and thou ſhalt call his name Iſaac: and I will eſtabliſh thy covenant with him for an everlaſting covenant, and with his ſeed after him.

20 And as for Iſhmael, I have heard thee: Behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and will multiply him exceedingly: twelve princes ſhall he beget, and I will make him a great nation.

21 But my covenant will I eſtabliſh with Iſaac, whom Sarah ſhall bear unto thee at this ſet time in the next year.

different names, ſhews the propriety of this change; for as Abram ſignifies high father, Abraham is the father of a multitude.

Ver. 10. This is my covenant, &c.] That circumciſion was of divine ordinance, is very plain, from the ſtrangeneſs and ſingularity of the thing itſelf, which can have no foundation from reaſon, nature, neceſſity, or intereſt; for mankind would never have put ſuch an uſeleſs ſeverity, and painful operation, voluntarily upon themſelves; the very indecency thereof, in a man of Abraham's years and dignity, is an indiſputable argument of its being the expreſs command of God; for nothing leſs could have been of force ſufficient to have induced him to have performed ſuch a dangerous and painful operation. "This "ceremony was not given to Abraham as a mark of "ſeparation and diſtinction from other people, but for "a ſtanding memorial of the covenant between God "and him; though it afterwards became ſo; and preſerved the memory, or was a token of the covenant, "which naturally kept them ſeparate and diſtinct from "the reſt of mankind." Div. Leg.

Ver. 14. That ſoul ſhall be cut off, &c.] The ceremony of circumciſion, was not to be performed till the eighth day after the birth of the child, and by no means to be deferred any longer, unleſs the weakneſs of the infant rendered it abſolutely neceſſary; and in this caſe, it was to be done as ſoon as the child was able to bear it. If the parents neglected it, the youth himſelf, when at the age of thirteen years, was bound to have it performed; and this under the ſevere penalty of being cut off from his people.

Ver. 15. Sarah ſhall her name be.] Sarai ſignifies my princeſs, and Sarah, the princeſs of multitudes.

Ver. 17. Then Abraham fell upon his face, &c.] Now are Abraham's doubts of the promiſed ſeed cleared up; and he is told plainly, that it ſhould proceed from his wife Sarah; but notwithſtanding, how great his joy might be on this occaſion (expreſſed in the text, by his laughing) yet ſo great was the fondneſs and attachment he had by this conceived for his ſon Iſhmael, that he ſeems to entreat the Almighty in his behalf, for the bleſſing to be beſtowed on him. In anſwer to which requeſt, God aſſures him, that it was in his ſon to be born of Sarah, that he would eſtabliſh his covenant; but that at his requeſt, and for his ſake, he would bleſs his ſon Iſhmael alſo, and multiply his ſeed, ſo that he ſhould become the father of twelve princes, and a great nation ſhould deſcend from him.

Before Chriſt 1898.

23 ¶ And Abraham took Iſhmael his ſon, and all that were born in his houſe, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's houſe; and circumciſed the fleſh of their fore-ſkin, in the ſelf-ſame day, as God had ſaid unto him.

24 And Abraham was ninety years old and nine, when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-ſkin.

25 And Iſhmael his ſon was thirteen years old when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-ſkin.

26 In the ſelf-ſame day was Abraham circumciſed, and Iſhmael his ſon.

27 And all the men of his houſe, born in the houſe, and bought with money of the ſtranger, were circumciſed with him.

AND the LORD appeared unto him in the plains of Mamre: and he ſat in the tent-door in the heat of the day.

2 And he lifted up his eyes and looked, and lo, three men ſtood by him: and when he ſaw them, he ran to meet them from the tent-door, and bowed himſelf toward the ground.

3 And ſaid, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy ſight, paſs not away, I pray thee, from thy ſervant:

Before Chriſt 1898.

4 Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched, and waſh your feet, and reſt yourſelves under the tree:

5 And I will fetch a morſel of bread, and comfort ye your hearts; after that ye ſhall paſs on: for therefore are ye come to your ſervant. And they ſaid, So do as thou haſt ſaid.

6 And Abraham haſtened into the tent unto Sarah, and ſaid, Make ready quickly three meaſures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth.

7 And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetcht a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he haſted to dreſs it.

8 And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dreſſed, and ſet it before them; and he ſtood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

9 ¶ And they ſaid unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he ſaid, Behold, in the tent.

10 And he ſaid, I will certainly return unto thee according to the time of life; and lo, Sarah thy wife ſhall have a ſon. And Sarah heard it in the tent-door, which was behind him.

11 Now Abraham and Sarah were old, and well ſtricken in age: and it ceaſed to be with Sarah after the manner of women.

12 Therefore Sarah laughed within herſelf,

Ver. 23. In the ſelf-ſame day, &c.] Abraham here gives full proof of his faith and piety, by an immediate obedience to the Divine command, notwithſtanding the pain and danger of the operation, to himſelf and his whole family.

NOTES on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 1. The Lord appeared unto him, &c.] Divines in general ſuppoſe this to have been the LOGOS, or the ſon of God, ſometimes ſtiled the angel of the Divine preſence, and the arch-angel; the text plainly ſhews one to have been ſuperior to the other two, by Abraham's addreſſing himſelf to him, before the others. Abraham's invitation to theſe ſtrangers gives us a true picture of the ancient eaſtern hoſpitality, of inviting ſtrangers to refreſh themſelves; and as there were no inns, or places of reception for travellers, this made it the more cuſtomary, and it was looked upon as the greateſt rudeneſs and brutality in any one, not to entertain ſtrangers, as may be ſeen in all antient hiſtories.

Ver. 6. Three meaſures, &c.] A meaſure was about twelve pounds, the quantity of bread therefore for this entertainment was thirty-ſix pounds; which, together with the calf, a great delicacy in thoſe countries, was ſeemingly much more than ſufficient, and not only a plentiful, but a very elegant entertainment, though Abraham probably dreſſed only the choiceſt and beſt pieces of the calf: or the hoſpitable patriarch, by this plentiful proviſion, might intend to furniſh out his gueſts with a viaticum for the reſt of their journey, according to the cuſtom of thoſe times.

Ver. 12. Sarah laughed within herſelf, &c.] This laugh of Sarah proceeded not like Abraham's, for joy on the

Before Christ 1898. ſelf, ſaying, After I am waxed old, ſhall I have pleaſure, my lord being old alſo?

13 And the Lord ſaid unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, ſaying, Shall I of a ſurety bear a child, which am old?

14 Is any thing too hard for the Lord? At the time appointed will I return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah ſhall have a ſon.

15 Then Sarah denied, ſaying, I laughed not: for ſhe was afraid. And he ſaid, Nay, but thou didſt laugh.

16 ¶ And the men roſe up from thence, and looked towards Sodom: and Abraham went with them to bring them on the way.

17 And the Lord ſaid, Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do;

18 Seeing that Abraham ſhall ſurely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth ſhall be bleſſed in him?

19 For I know him, that he will command his children and his houſhold after him, and they ſhall keep the way of the Lord, to do juſtice and judgment; that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which he hath ſpoken of him.

20 And the Lord ſaid, Becauſe the cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and becauſe their ſin is very grievous;

21 I will go down now, and ſee whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know.

22 And the men turned their faces from thence, and went toward Sodom: but Abraham ſtood yet before the Lord.

23 ¶ And Abraham drew near, and ſaid, Wilt thou alſo deſtroy the righteous with the wicked? Before Christ 1898.

24 Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou alſo deſtroy and not ſpare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein?

25 That be far from thee to do after this manner, to ſlay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous ſhould be as the wicked, that be far from thee: ſhall not the Judge of all the earth do right?

26 And the Lord ſaid, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will ſpare all the place for their ſakes.

27 And Abraham anſwered and ſaid, Behold now, I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the Lord, who am but duſt and aſhes.

28 Peradventure there ſhall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou deſtroy all the city for lack of five? And he ſaid, If I find there forty and five, I will not deſtroy it.

29 And he ſpake unto him yet again, and ſaid, Peradventure there ſhall be forty found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it for forties ſake.

30 And he ſaid unto him, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will ſpeak: Peradventure there ſhall thirty be found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it, if I find thirty there.

31 And he ſaid, Behold now, I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the Lord: Peradventure there ſhall be twenty found there. And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for twenties ſake.

occaſion, but from incredulity and diſtruſt, thinking it impoſſible for one at her years to bear a child, which ſhews, that the righteous are not altogether free from diffidence, notwithſtanding the promiſe of God: we ſhould not therefore be ſurprized, to find that the moſt pious are ſubject to human frailties.

Ver. 21. I will go down now, and ſee, &c.] This expreſſion is figuratively ſpoken, and not to be underſtood in the literal ſenſe, as if God wanted ſufficient information of the deteſtable crimes of the wicked inhabitants of the plains.

Ver. 23. Wilt thou alſo deſtroy the righteous with the wicked?] Abraham, in charity and compaſſion to mankind, takes occaſion to expoſtulate with God, and from his mercy and juſtice, deprecates the Almighty, that he would not deſtroy the righteous with the wicked, and that he would ſpare the wicked, for the ſake of the few righteous that might be found among them; concluding, that doubtleſs the judge of the whole earth would do right, and not puniſh the juſt with the unjuſt.

And there came two Angels to Sodom — and Lot seeing them bowed himself with his Face towards the Ground. Gen. XIX, 1.

Before Christ 1898. 32 And he ſaid, Oh let not the Lord be angry, and I will ſpeak yet but this once: Peradventure ten ſhall be found there. And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for tens ſake.

33 And the LORD went his way, as ſoon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Lot entertaineth two angels. 4 The vicious Sodomites are ſtricken with blindneſs. 12 Lot is ſent for ſafety into the mountains. 18 He obtaineth leave to go into Zoar. 24 Sodom and Gomorrah are deſtroyed. 26 Lot's wife is a pillar of ſalt. 30 Lot dwelleth in a cave. 31 The inceſtuous original of Moab and Ammon.

AND there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot ſat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot ſeeing them, roſe up to meet them; and he bowed himſelf with his face toward the ground;

2 And he ſaid, Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your ſervants houſe, and tarry all night, and waſh your feet, and ye ſhall riſe up early, and go on your ways. And they ſaid, Nay; but we will abide in the ſtreet all night.

3 And he preſſed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his houſe: and he made them a feaſt, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat.

Before Christ 1998. 4 ¶ But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compaſſed the houſe round, both old and young; all the people from every quarter.

5 And they called unto Lot, and ſaid unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them.

6 And Lot went out at the door unto them, and ſhut the door after him,

7 And ſaid, I pray you, brethren, do not ſo wickedly.

8 Behold now, I have two daughters which have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes: only unto theſe men do nothing; for therefore came they under the ſhadow of my roof.

9 And they ſaid, Stand back. And they ſaid again, This one fellow came in to ſojourn, and he will needs be a judge: Now will we deal worſe with thee, than with them. And they preſſed ſore upon the man, even Lot, and came near to break the door.

10 But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the houſe to them, and ſhut to the door.

11 And they ſmote the men that were at the door of the houſe with blindneſs, both ſmall and great: ſo that they wearied themſelves to find the door.

12 ¶ And

Ver. 32. I will not deſtroy it for tens ſake.] This ſhews the tranſcendent love and mercy of God towards man, and ſhould teach us to pray earneſtly to him for ſinners; that he would be pleaſed to convert their hearts, and ſave them from vengeance.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 2. Turn in, I pray you, &c.] The benevolence and hoſpitality of Lot, are remarkable in the importunity, with which he invites theſe heavenly ſtrangers, to become gueſts at his houſe; and more ſo, as he was ſettled among a people become inſolent by wealth, devoid of benevolence towards men, or piety towards God; ſtrangers to hoſpitality, and loſt to every principle of virtue; yet even among theſe did the righteous Lot retain his integrity and humanity, and rivalled even Abraham in hoſpitality.

Ver. 4. Old and young; all the people.] A ſhocking inſtance of an univerſal depravity through all ages, from ripening youth, to declining age.

Ver. 8. Behold now, I have two daughters, &c.] The men of Sodom having violated the laws of hoſpitality, proceed now to the violation of the laws of nature; and Lot willing to preſerve his gueſts from their violence, and to keep the laws of hoſpitality ſacred, offers his own daughters as a ſacrifice to their paſſions, rather than his gueſts ſhould be in the leaſt injured.

Ver. 11. They ſmote the men with blindneſs, &c.] This ſeems rather to have been a temporary defect, and dizzineſs of ſight, which repreſented things falſely and in confuſion, than any real or total blindneſs.

Before Chriſt 1898.

12 ¶ And the men ſaid unto Lot, Haſt thou here any beſides? ſon in law, and thy ſons, and thy daughters, and whatſoever thou haſt in the city, bring them out of this place.

13 For we will deſtroy this place: becauſe the cry of them is waxen great before the face of the Lord, and the Lord hath ſent us to deſtroy it.

14 And Lot went out, and ſpake unto his ſons in law, which married his daughters, and ſaid, Up, get ye out of this place; for the Lord will deſtroy this city: but he ſeemed as one that mocked unto his ſons in law.

15 ¶ And when the morning aroſe, then the angels haſtened Lot, ſaying, Ariſe, take thy wife, and thy two daughters which are here; leſt thou be conſumed in the iniquity of the city.

16 And while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters; the Lord being merciful unto him: and they brought him forth, and ſet him without the city.

17 And it came to paſs when they had brought them forth abroad, that he ſaid, Eſcape for thy life; look not behind thee, neither ſtay thou in all the plain: eſcape to the mountain, leſt thou be conſumed.

18 And Lot ſaid unto them, Oh not ſo, my Lord.

Before Chriſt 1898.

19 Behold now, thy ſervant hath found grace in thy ſight, and thou haſt magnified thy mercy, which thou haſt ſhewed unto me in ſaving my life: and I cannot eſcape to the mountain, leſt ſome evil take me, and I die.

20 Behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: Oh let me eſcape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my ſoul ſhall live.

21 And he ſaid unto him, See, I have accepted thee concerning this thing alſo, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou haſt ſpoken.

22 Haſte thee, eſcape thither; for I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither: therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.

23 ¶ The ſun was riſen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar.

24 Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimſtone and fire from the Lord out of heaven.

25 And he overthrew thoſe cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

26 ¶ But his wife looked back from behind him, and ſhe became a pillar of ſalt.

27 ¶ And Abraham gat up early in the morning, to the place where he ſtood before the Lord.

28 And

Ver. 14. His ſons in law, which married his daughters.] This would be better tranſlated, (according to the interpretation of Onkelos;) His ſons in law, which were to marry his daughters, the contract being paſt, but the marriage not as yet conſummated.

Ver. 20. Behold now this city is near, &c.] Lot perceiving the mountains to be at a great diſtance, and fearing, that he could not eſcape thither in time, or if he ſhould, yet ſome evil might befal him there, from wild beaſts or ſome other means, which he having no aſſiſtance, could not reſiſt, intreats the angel, that he might be permitted to retire to a ſmall town called Bela, in the plain, and not ſo far diſtant, and accordingly the Lord accepted the petition of his righteous ſervant, and ſpared the place, which was afterwards called Zoar, or the little city from thence.

Ver. 25. And he overthrew thoſe cities, &c.] From the overthrow of theſe cities, and the deſtruction of the old world, we may learn, that God is a God of juſtice, and will not ſuffer iniquity to go unpuniſhed, for though he may not always, as in theſe caſes, purſue the ſinner with immediate death, yet he ſhall not in the end eſcape the juſt judgment of God. How ought we then to keep theſe things in our minds as a monitor againſt the commiſſion of ſin; while we remember the eſcape of Lot, as an inſtigation to righteouſneſs.

Ver. 26. She became a pillar of ſalt.] She being a native of Sodom, ſtill retained a regard for the place, and looking back to take a laſt farewel, probably ſtood ſtill too long, and was overtaken by the ſtorm, which falling upon her, encloſed her body in a ſheet of nitro-ſulphureous matter, which incruſted and petrified around her, and changed her,

Ver. 31. In the earth, &c.] That is, in the land; for having loſt their eſpouſed huſbands in the late cataſtrophe, they deſpaired of having any other, knowing that their kindred by the mother's ſide were all deſtroyed, and their father's lived at a great diſtance, that they had no brother, nor their father any wife.

Ver. 32. Come, let us make our father drink, &c.] From the above conſiderations, and that they might preſerve their name from periſhing, and perhaps too, for fear of loſing the hope of the promiſed ſeed, and not thro' any unruly paſſion, they were induced to commit ſo unjuſtifiable an action; and knowing their father to be too juſt and virtuous to be guilty of any ſuch thing, they therefore contrived firſt to deprive him of reaſon, by tempting him to drink.

6 And God ſaid unto him in a dream, Yea, I know that thou didſt this in the integrity of thy heart; for I alſo withheld thee from ſinning againſt me: therefore ſuffered I thee not to touch her.

7 Now therefore reſtore the man his wife; for he is a prophet, and he ſhall pray for thee, and thou ſhalt live: and if thou reſtore her not, know thou that thou ſhalt ſurely die, thou, and all that are thine.

8 Therefore Abimelech roſe early in the morning, and called all his ſervants, and told all theſe things in their ears: and the men were ſore afraid.

9 Then Abimelech called Abraham, and ſaid unto him, What haſt thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, that thou haſt brought on me and on my kingdom a great ſin? thou haſt done deeds unto me that ought not to be done.

10 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What ſaweſt thou, that thou haſt done this thing?

11 And Abraham ſaid, Becauſe I thought, Surely the fear of God is not in this place; and they will ſlay me for my wifes ſake.

12 And yet indeed ſhe is my ſiſter; ſhe is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother: and ſhe became my wife.

13 And it came to paſs, when God cauſed me to wander from my fathers houſe, that I ſaid unto her, This is thy kindneſs which thou ſhalt ſhew unto me; At every place whither we ſhall come, ſay of me, He is my brother.

14 And Abimelech took ſheep, and oxen, and men-ſervants, and women-ſervants, and gave them unto Abraham, and reſtored him Sarah his wife.

15 And Abimelech ſaid, Behold, my land is before thee: dwell where it pleaſeth thee.

16 And unto Sarah he ſaid, Behold, I have given thy brother a thouſand pieces of ſilver: behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes, unto all that are with thee, and with all other: thus ſhe was reproved.

17 ¶ So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-ſervants; and they bare children.

And Abraham took Bread and a Bottle of Water and gave it unto Hagar, & sent her away. Gen. XXI. 14.

Before Christ 1898.

18 For the Lord had faſt cloſed up all the wombs of the houſe of Abimelech, becauſe of Sarah Abrahams wife.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Iſaac is born: 4 He is circumciſed. 6 Sarahs joy. 9 Hagar and Iſhmael are caſt forth. 15 Hagar in diſtreſs. 17 The angel comforteth her. 22 Abimelechs covenant with Abraham at Beer-ſheba.

AND the Lord viſited Sarah as he had ſaid, and the Lord did unto Sarah as he had ſpoken.

2 For Sarah conceived, and bare Abraham a ſon in his old age, at the ſet time of which God had ſpoken to him.

3 And Abraham called the name of his ſon that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, Iſaac.

4 And Abraham circumciſed his ſon Iſaac, being eight days old, as God had commanded him.

5 And Abraham was an hundred years old, when his ſon Iſaac was born unto him.

6 ¶ And Sarah ſaid, God hath made me to laugh, ſo that all that hear will laugh with me.

7 And ſhe ſaid, Who would have ſaid unto Abraham, that Sarah ſhould have given children ſuck? for I have borne him a ſon in his old age.

Before Christ 1897.

8 And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feaſt the ſame day that Iſaac was weaned.

9 ¶ And Sarah ſaw the ſon of Hagar the Egyptian, which ſhe had borne unto Abraham, mocking.

10 Wherefore ſhe ſaid unto Abraham, Caſt out this bond-woman and her ſon: for the ſon of this bond-woman ſhall not be heir with my ſon, even with Iſaac.

11 And the thing was very grievous in Abrahams ſight, becauſe of his ſon.

12 ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy ſight, becauſe of the lad, and becauſe of thy bond-woman; in all that Sarah hath ſaid unto thee, hearken unto her voice: for in Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be called.

13 And alſo of the ſon of the bond-woman will I make a nation, becauſe he is thy ſeed.

14 And Abraham roſe up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar (putting it on her ſhoulder) and the child, and ſent her away: and ſhe departed and wandered in the wilderneſs of Beer-ſheba.

15 And the water was ſpent in the bottle, and ſhe caſt the child under one of the ſhrubs.

not to offend in like manner; nor needeſt thou any other defence of thy chaſtity than he, or to uſe any more ſuch equivocations as thou haſt done, by ſaying he is thy brother; for be aſſured he is ſo dear to God, that he will continually defend both him and all that he has.

Thus was ſhe reproved.] Or rather, as the word more properly ſignifies, thus was ſhe inſtructed; for Abimelech was ſo far from reproving, that he was ſeeking their friendſhip by conſiderable preſents.

Ver. 18. Cloſed up all the wombs.] Had (as it ſeems) affected them with ſores and ſwellings in their ſecret parts, ſo that the men could not enjoy the women, nor the women with child be delivered.

Notes on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 3. Iſaac.] Which ſignifies laughter, becauſe of the great joy occaſioned at his birth.

Ver. 9. Mocking.] She found him deriding and teazing her ſon Iſaac, which ſo irritated her, that ſhe continually importuned Abraham to turn both her and her ſon out of doors.

Ver. 11. The thing was very grievous, &c.] He continued to have a parental regard for Iſhmael notwithſtanding, and therefore, (though his conjugal affection was great) yet he thought his wife's requeſt unreaſonable, and cared not to comply with it, unleſs by an expreſs command from God.

Ver. 14. Bread, and a bottle of water.] By which is meant proviſion in general; and there is no doubt to be made, but that Abraham's known generoſity, as well as his affection for his child, induced him to grant them a ſupply of victuals, ſufficient for a two or three days journey through the wilderneſs.

Sent her away.] There was no cruelty or hard uſage in this action, as ſome have imagined. For as Iſhmael was the ſon of a ſervant, had he continued at home, he muſt have been in ſubjection to Iſaac; but by this means he was freed from ſervitude, and ſent out (as was uſual

Before Christ 1897. 16 And ſhe went, and ſat her down over againſt him, a good way off, as it were a bow-ſhot: for ſhe ſaid, Let me not ſee the death of the child. And ſhe ſat over againſt him, and lifted up her voice, and wept.

17 And God heard the voice of the lad: and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and ſaid unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is.

18 Ariſe, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand: for I will make him a great nation.

19 And God opened her eyes, and ſhe ſaw a well of water: and ſhe went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink.

20 And God was with the lad; and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderneſs, and became an archer.

21 And he dwelt in the wilderneſs of Paran: and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt.

1892. 22 ¶ And it came to paſs at that time, that Abimelech and Phichol the chief captain of his hoſt ſpake unto Abraham, ſaying, God is with thee in all that thou doeſt.

23 Now therefore ſwear unto me here by God, that thou wilt not deal falſly with me, nor with my ſon, nor with my ſons ſon: but according to the kindneſs that I have done unto thee, thou ſhalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou haſt ſojourned. Before Chriſt 1892.

24 And Abraham ſaid, I will ſwear.

25 And Abraham reproved Abimelech becauſe of a well of water, which Abimelechs ſervants had violently taken away.

26 And Abimelech ſaid, I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didſt thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it but to day.

27 And Abraham took ſheep and oxen and gave them unto Abimelech: and both of them made a covenant.

28 And Abraham ſet ſeven ew-lambs of the flock by themſelves.

29 And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What mean theſe ſeven ew-lambs which thou haſt ſet by themſelves?

30 And he ſaid, For theſe ſeven ew-lambs ſhalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a witneſs unto me, that I have digged this well.

31 Wherefore he called that place Beer-ſheba: becauſe there they ſware both of them.

32 Thus they made a covenant at Beer-ſheba: then Abimelech roſe up, and Phichol the chief captain of his hoſt, and they returned into the land of the Philiſtines.

33 ¶ And Abraham planted a grove in Beer-ſheba, and called there on the name of the LORD, the everlaſting God.

in thoſe days) to acquire an independent fortune for himſelf. It is to be noted likewiſe, that Iſhmael, though he is here called a child, muſt have been at this time ſeventeen or eighteen years of age, ſince he was thirteen at his circumciſion, and therefore was able to provide for himſelf and his mother; there being plenty of cattle in the wilderneſs.

Wandered, &c.] Loſt her way, which was a thing merely accidental, and in which Abraham had no concern.

Ver. 20. Became an archer.] He liked his ſituation ſo well, that he continued in the wilderneſs, became an expert archer, and the father of a great nation, (the Arabs) who to this day continue to ſpend their lives in the ſame manner.

Ver. 22. Spake unto Abraham, &c.] Abimelech began to grow ſuſpicious of Abraham's increaſing power and greatneſs, and therefore ſought to enter into an alliance of friendſhip with him betimes.

Ver. 25. Abraham reproved Abimelech, &c.] He took this opportunity of deciding a controverſy about a well, which Abraham's ſervants had digged, and Abimelech's people had taken away from them; the reſtoring of which, was made a preliminary article of the treaty between them; nor need we wonder to find contention about a well, if we conſider the great ſcarcity of water in thoſe eaſtern countries.

Ver. 31. Beer-ſheba.] That is, the well of the oath.

Ver. 33. A grove.] A Proſeucha, or oratory for the worſhip of God: Theſe were certain ſpaces of ground, ſhaded with trees, which gave them a ſolemn appearance, and which, together with the ſilence of the place, was apt to excite contemplation and devotion. In the middle there was an altar placed.

And the Angel of the Lord called upon him and ſaid. Abraham, Abraham; lay not thine Hand upon the Lad. Gen. XXII. 10. &c.

Before Chriſt 1892. 34 And Abraham ſojourned in the Philiſtines land many days.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Abraham is tempted to offer Iſaac: 3 He giveth proof of his faith and obedience. 11 The angel ſtayeth him. 13 Iſaac is exchanged with a ram. 14 The place is called Jehovah-jireh. 15 Abraham is bleſſed again. 20 The generation of Nahor unto Rebekah.

1872. AND it came to paſs after theſe things that God did tempt Abraham, and ſaid unto him, Abraham. And he ſaid, Behold, here I am.

2 And he ſaid, Take now thy ſon, thine only ſon Iſaac, whom thou loveſt, and get thee into the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

3 ¶ And Abraham roſe up early in the morning, and ſaddled his aſs, and took two of his young men with him, and Iſaac his ſon; and clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and roſe up, and went unto the place of which God had told him.

4 Then on the third day Abraham lifted up his eyes, and ſaw the place afar off.

5 And Abraham ſaid unto his young men, Abide you here with the aſs; and I and the lad will go yonder and worſhip, and come again to you.

6 And Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and laid it upon Iſaac his ſon; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife: and they went both of them together. Before Chriſt 1872.

7 And Iſaac ſpake unto Abraham his father, and ſaid, My father: and he ſaid, Here am I, my ſon. And he ſaid, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering?

8 And Abraham ſaid, My ſon, God will provide himſelf a lamb for a burnt-offering: ſo they went both of them together.

9 And they came to the place which God had told him of; and Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order; and bound Iſaac his ſon, and laid him on the altar upon the wood.

10 And Abraham ſtretched forth his hand, and took the knife to ſlay his ſon.

11 And the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and ſaid, Abraham, Abraham. And he ſaid, Here am I.

12 And he ſaid, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou feareſt God, ſeeing thou haſt not withheld thy ſon, thine only ſon from me.

13 And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns: And

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. God did tempt Abraham.] Made a trial of his faith, for God is ſaid to tempt no man; and that, not to inform himſelf of his ſincerity, but for the patriarch's own juſtification, and to make him a pattern to future generations, of entire dependence on the Almighty.

Ver. 2. Moriah.] This ſignifies, proviſion of God, and it was ſo called, for the reaſon ſet down ver. 14. It was undoubtedly the very ſame mountain upon which the temple was afterwards built, and upon part of which, viz. (mount Calvary) Chriſt Jeſus did afterwards actually offer himſelf, for the redemption of mankind; of which, this intentional offering of Iſaac was a type.

Ver. 3. Abraham roſe up early, &c.] Notwithſtanding the ſeverity of the injunction, and the ſeeming unlawfulneſs of it, Abraham never ſtood to expoſtulate with God, but immediately the next morning, as ſoon as it was light, ſet out without ſaying any thing to the reſt of his family, and got every thing ready for the journey, and the fulfilling the Divine command: He truſted in God to make good his own promiſes, and went in faith nothing doubting.

Ver. 4. And ſaw the place, &c.] It is thought the glory of the Lord appeared there; and the Jews have a tradition, that when Abraham came within ſight, he beheld a pillar of fire, reaching from the earth to the heavens; by which he knew that to be the very place.

Ver. 8. God will provide himſelf a lamb.] Abraham little thought how prophetically he ſpoke at this time.

Ver. 12. Lay not thine hand, &c.] Joſephus, thus comments upon this ſpeech which God made to Abraham. "Hold thy hand, and ſpare thy ſon; for I did not require it of thee, out of any delight I take in human blood; or that I would make a father the aſſaſſin of the

Before Christ 1872. Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering, in the ſtead of his ſon.

14 And Abraham called the name of that place Jehovah-jireh: as it is ſaid to this day, In the mount of the LORD it ſhall be ſeen.

15 ¶ And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven the ſecond time,

16 And ſaid, By myſelf have I ſworn, ſaith the LORD, for becauſe thou haſt done this thing, and haſt not withheld thy ſon, thine only ſon:

17 That in bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy ſeed as the ſtars of the heaven, and as the ſand which is upon the ſea-ſhore; and thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſs the gate of his enemies;

18 And in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be bleſſed: becauſe thou haſt obeyed my voice.

19 So Abraham returned unto his young men; and they roſe up, and went together to Beer-ſheba, and Abraham dwelt at Beer-ſheba.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that it was told Abraham, ſaying, Behold Milcah, ſhe hath alſo borne children unto thy brother Nahor;

21 Huz his firſt-born, and Buz his brother, and Kemuel the father of Aram, Before Christ 1872.

22 And Cheſed, and Hazo, and Pildaſh, and Jidlaph, and Bethuel.

23 And Bethuel begat Rebekah: theſe eight Milcah did bear to Nahor Abrahams brother.

24 And his concubine whoſe name was Reumah, ſhe bare alſo Tebah, and Gaham, and Thahaſh, and Maachah.

Ver. 14. Jehovah-jireh.] The Lord will provide; in alluſion to the anſwer which Abraham gave to his ſon, God will provide himſelf a lamb.

Ver. 17. In bleſſing I will bleſs, &c.] On account of this freſh inſtance of his faith and obedience, God here renews to him all his former promiſes.

Ver. 20. Nahor.] It is probable that Nahor, as well as his brother Abraham, removed with his father Terah from Ur in Chaldea, and ſettled at Haran in Meſopotamia; or not a great while after, becauſe the firſt news we hear of him is there, and that he had got a numerous family. On this account, Abraham calls it his own country, and the place where his kindred dwelt.

Ver. 23. Rebekah.] She was afterwards the wife of Iſaac.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 2. And Sarah died.] The Arabian writers ſay, that Sarah, when ſhe had heard that Abraham had taken away her only ſon Iſaac, with an intent to offer him up in ſacrifice to God, fell into a great agony, which brought on a fit of ſickneſs, of which ſhe died: But it appears that ſhe lived eleven or twelve years after that tranſaction.

13 And he ſpake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, ſaying, But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee hear me: I will give thee money for the field; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there.

14 And Ephron anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him,

15 My lord, hearken unto me: the land is worth four hundred ſhekels of ſilver; what is that betwixt me and thee? bury therefore thy dead.

Before Christ 1860.

16 And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed to Ephron the ſilver, which he had named in the audience of the ſons of Heth, four hundred ſhekels of ſilver, current money with the merchant.

17 ¶ And the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made ſure

Ver. 10. At the gates of his city.] The gates of cities were in thoſe times, made the places of judicature, and common reſort, where the governors aſſembled, to hear complaints, and adminiſter juſtice, and tranſact all buſineſs of a public nature. NOTES on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 2. Under my thigh.] As this could not be done but in a kneeling poſture, it is therefore to be looked upon as a ceremony, betokening homage and ſubjection, and we find it was afterwards uſed by Jacob and Joſeph, when they were dying. On account of this ceremony, it is ſuppoſed, that the Greek word ORKOS, an oath, is derived from the Hebrew, JERECK, a thigh.

Ver. 4. To my kindred.] Not but that Laban and his family were idolaters, as well as the Canaanites, though not ſuch groſs ones; becauſe he ſtill retained the worſhip of the true God, though mixed and blended with idolatry.

Ver. 10. Meſopotamia.] Viz. to Haran.

Ver. 15. With her pitcher, &c.] How may we admire the humility of thoſe early days, when perſons of the beſt rank, and even the female ſex, did not diſdain ſuch ſervile offices! It was ſome time after this, that Jacob found his couſin Rachel watering her father's ſheep, and many ages after, that the ſeven daughters of Jethro, a prince of Midian, tended their father's flocks, and drew water for the cattle. The ſame ſimplicity of manners is obſervable in Homer, Heſiod, and other ancient authors.

20 And ſhe haſted, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

21 And the man wondering at her, held his peace, to wit whether the LORD had made his journey proſperous, or not.

22 And it came to paſs as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden ear-ring, of half a ſhekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands, of ten ſhekels weight of gold;

23 And ſaid, Whoſe daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: is there room in thy fathers houſe for us to lodge in?

24 And ſhe ſaid unto him, I am the daughter of Bethuel the ſon of Milcah, which ſhe bare unto Nahor.

25 She ſaid moreover unto him, We have both ſtraw and provender enough, and room to lodge in.

26 And the man bowed down his head, and worſhipped the LORD.

27 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, who hath not left deſtitute my maſter of his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the houſe of my maſters brethren.

28 And the damſel ran, and told them of her mothers houſe theſe things.

29 ¶ And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well.

30 And it came to paſs when he ſaw the ear-ring and bracelets upon his ſiſters hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his ſiſter, ſaying, Thus ſpake the man unto me; that he came unto the man, and behold, he ſtood by the camels at the well.

Before Chriſt 1857.

31 And he ſaid, Come in, thou bleſſed of the LORD; wherefore ſtandeſt thou without? for I have prepared the houſe, and room for the camels.

32 ¶ And the man came into the houſe: and he ungirded his camels, and gave ſtraw and provender for the camels, and water to waſh his feet, and the mens feet that were with him.

33 And there was ſet meat before him to eat: but he ſaid, I will not eat, until I have told mine errand. And he ſaid, Speak on.

34 And he ſaid, I am Abrahams ſervant.

35 And the LORD hath bleſſed my maſter greatly, and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and ſilver, and gold, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and camels, and aſſes.

36 And Sarah my maſters wife bare a ſon to my maſter when ſhe was old: and unto him hath he given all that he hath.

37 And my maſter made me ſwear, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife to my ſon of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whoſe land I dwell:

38 But thou ſhalt go unto my fathers houſe, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my ſon.

39 And I ſaid unto my maſter, Peradventure the woman will not follow me.

40 And he ſaid unto me, The LORD before whom I walk, will ſend his angel with thee, and proſper thy way; and thou ſhalt take a wife for my ſon of my kindred, and of my fathers houſe.

41 Then ſhalt thou be clear from this my oath, when thou comeſt to my kindred; and if they give not thee one, thou ſhalt be clear from my oath.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and ſaid, O LORD God of my maſter Abraham, if now thou do proſper my way which I go:

Before Christ 1857.

43 Behold, I ſtand by the well of water; and it ſhall come to paſs that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I ſay to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink;

44 And ſhe ſay to me, Both drink thou, and I will alſo draw for thy camels: let the ſame be the woman whom the LORD hath appointed out for my maſters ſon.

45 And before I had done ſpeaking in mine heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her ſhoulder; and ſhe went down unto the well, and drew water: and I ſaid unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And ſhe made haſte, and let down her pitcher from her ſhoulder, and ſaid, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: ſo I drank, and ſhe made the camels drink alſo.

47 And I aſked her, and ſaid, Whoſe daughter art thou? And ſhe ſaid, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's ſon, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the ear-ring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands.

48 And I bowed down my head and worſhipped the LORD, and bleſſed the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take my maſters brothers daughter unto his ſon.

49 And now if you will deal kindly and truly with my maſter, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left.

50 Then Laban and Bethuel anſwered and ſaid, The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot ſpeak unto thee bad or good.

Before Christ 1857.

51 Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy maſters ſons wife, as the LORD hath ſpoken.

52 And it came to paſs, that when Abrahams ſervant heard their words, he worſhipped the LORD, bowing himſelf to the earth.

53 And the ſervant brought forth jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: He gave alſo to her brother and to her mother precious things.

54 And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night: and they roſe up in the morning, and he ſaid, Send me away unto my maſter.

55 And her brother and her mother ſaid, Let the damſel abide with us a few days, at the leaſt ten; after that ſhe ſhall go.

56 And he ſaid unto them, Hinder me not, ſeeing the LORD hath proſpered my way: ſend me away that I may go to my maſter.

57 And they ſaid, We will call the damſel, and enquire at her mouth.

58 And they called Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And ſhe ſaid, I will go.

59 And they ſent away Rebekah their ſiſter, and her nurſe, and Abrahams ſervant, and his men.

60 And they bleſſed Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Thou art our ſiſter, be thou the mother of thouſands of millions, and let thy 62 And Iſaac came from the way of the well Lahai-roi; for he dwelt in the ſouth country.

63 And Iſaac went out to meditate in the field at the even-tide: and he lifted up his eyes, and ſaw, and behold, the camels were coming.

64 And Rebekah lifted up her eyes, and when ſhe ſaw Iſaac, ſhe lighted off the camel.

65 For ſhe had ſaid unto the ſervant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the ſervant had ſaid, It is my maſter: therefore ſhe took a vail and covered herſelf.

66 And the ſervant told Iſaac all things that he had done.

67 And Iſaac brought her into his mother Sarahs tent, and took Rebekah, and ſhe became his wife; and he loved her: and Iſaac was comforted after his mothers death.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The ſons of Abraham by Keturah. 5 The diviſion of his goods: 7 His age and death: 9 His burial. 12 The generations of Iſhmael: 17 His age and death. 21 Iſaac prayeth for Rebekah, being barren. 22 The children ſtrive in her womb. 24 The birth of Eſau and Jacob: 27 Their difference. 29 Eſau ſelleth his birth-right. Before Christ 1853.

THEN again Abraham took a wife, and her name was Keturah.

2 And ſhe bare him Zimran, and Jokſhan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iſhbak, and Shuah.

3 And Jokſhan begat Shebah, and Dedan. And the ſons of Dedan were Aſſhurim, and Letuſhim, and Leummim.

4 And the ſons of Midian; Ephah, and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abidah, and Eldaah. All theſe were the children of Keturah.

5 ¶ And Abraham gave all that he had unto Iſaac.

6 But unto the ſons of the concubines which Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts, and ſent them away from Iſaac his ſon (while he yet lived) eaſtward, unto the eaſt country.

Ver. 65. She took a vail, &c.] The uſe of the vail for virgins, has been the univerſal practice among almoſt all nations, and was a token of modeſty and ſubjection.

NOTES on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 1. Took a wife.] Abraham, ſome years before this, is ſaid to have been dead to ſuch purpoſes, Rom. iv. 19. the renewal of his ſtrength was therefore miraculous; by which he was enabled (according to the promiſe) to become the father of a great multitude. From thoſe ſons by Keturah only, and their children, ſprang ſeveral different nations.

Keturah.] Some of the Jewiſh writers, ſuppoſe this Keturah to have been the ſame with Hagar, whom he now recalled after his wife's deceaſe; but this cannot be, for ſeveral reaſons that might be alledged: It is moſt likely that ſhe was a domeſtic, perhaps a Canaanite, whom he had converted to the true religion.

Ver. 6. Unto the eaſt country.] Syria and Arabia. From Ephah we find a town deriving its name, Iſa. lx. 6. and a country called Canauna from Hanoch, Plin. nat. hiſt. lib. 6. c 28. Mediana from Medan, in which is Mecca, the birth-place of Mahomet.

Ver. 8. Gave up the Ghoſt, and died, &c.] This relation of Abraham's death is by way of anticipation; for the text having recited his ſons, and their ſettlement, it brings him and Iſhmael to their graves, not that they died before the birth of Jacob and Eſau, for Abraham lived till they were 12 ¶ Now theſe are the generations of Iſhmael Abrahams ſon, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarahs handmaid, bare unto Abraham.

Ver. 18. He died in the preſence of all his bretheren.] It may be tranſlated his lot fell, i. e. he dwelt in the preſence of all his bretheren, according to the prediction of the angel a little before his birth, ch. xvi. 12.

Ver. 20. Iſaac was forty years old.] Many of the following particulars, though related after, yet happened before the death of Abraham, who lived fifteen years after the birth of Jacob and Eſau.

Ver. 22. If it be ſo, why am I thus?] Wherefore did I conceive if I muſt needs ſuffer ſuch exquiſite pains? Or as the Arabic paraphraſes it, If I knew that the thing would have been ſo, I would not have requeſted it.

Ver. 23. Two nations, &c.] The founders of two nations, the Iſraelites being deſcended from Jacob, and the Idumeans from Eſau.

The elder ſhall ſerve the younger.] The poſterity of Eſau ſhall hereafter be in ſubjection to that of Jacob: accompliſhed when David ſubdued the Idumeans or Edomites.

Ver. 24. Twins, &c.] Who notwithſtanding, when they grew up, were of quite contrary diſpoſitions, as their poſterity differed in their cuſtoms, manners, and religion; for which reaſons they were conſtantly at variance with each other, and as they ſtruggled together in the womb, ſo they contended for ever afterwards in the World, a natural enmity ſubſiſting between the Edomites and the Jews.

27 And the boys grew: and Eſau was a cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man dwelling in tents.

28 And Iſaac loved Eſau, becauſe he did eat of his veniſon: but Rebekah loved Jacob.

29 ¶ And Jacob ſod pottage: and Eſau came from the field, and he was faint.

30 And Eſau ſaid to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that ſame red pottage; for I am faint: therefore was his name called Edom.

31 And Jacob ſaid, Sell me this day thy 32 And Eſau ſaid, Behold, I am at the point to die: and what profit ſhall this birth-right do to me?

33 And Jacob ſaid, Swear to me this day; and he ſware unto him: and he ſold his birth-right unto Jacob.

34 Then Jacob gave Eſau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and roſe up and went his way: thus Eſau deſpiſed his birth-right.

CHAP. XXVI.

Before Christ 1804. 1 Iſaac becauſe of famine went to Gerar: 2 God inſtructeth and bleſſeth him: 7 He is reproved by Abimelech for denying his wife: 12 He groweth rich: 18 He diggeth Eſek, Sitnah, and Rehoboth. 26 Abimelech maketh a covenant with him at Beer-ſheba. 34 Eſau's wives.

AND there was a famine in the land, beſides the firſt famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Iſaac went unto Abimelech king of the Philiſtines, unto Gerar.

2 And the LORD appeared unto him, and ſaid, Go not down into Egypt: dwell in the land which I ſhall tell thee of.

3 Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bleſs thee: for unto thee and unto thy ſeed I will give all theſe countries, and I will perform the oath which I ſware unto Abraham thy father.

4 And I will make thy ſeed to multiply as the ſtars of heaven, and will give unto thy ſeed all theſe countries: and in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be bleſſed:

5 Becauſe that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my ſtatutes, and my laws.

6 ¶ And Iſaac dwelt in Gerar.

Ver. 26. Jacob.] Or Hekeb, the heel.

Ver. 27. A plain man.] A perſon of an humane and gentle diſpoſition, and one who delighted in peace and ſolitude, and exerciſed himſelf in rural occupations, and the innocent pleaſures of a paſtoral life.

Ver. 29. Sod.] That is, boiled, or ſeethed it, from the verb Seeth, to boil.

Ver. 30. With that ſame red pottage.] In the Hebrew, it is, with that red, that ſame red. By which repetition, Eſau ſeemed to expreſs his impatience, and deſire of it, being extremely faint.

Ver. 31. Birth-right.] The privileges of which, it is thought, were not only temporal, viz. a ſuperiority over the reſt of the brethren, and the inheritance of the greater part of the paternal eſtate, but ſpiritual likewiſe, including the bleſſing of the promiſed ſeed, and in that too, the poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan. Theſe ſpiritual and temporal bleſſings, conferred by a parent, on the children, were formerly conceived to extend to their poſterity. Eccluſ. iii. 9.

Ver. 33. He ſold his birth-right.] And thereby gave a proof of a profane and diſſolute mind, by being regardleſs of himſelf, his poſterity, and a dying father's benediction; prefering a momentary earthly gratification, to all the bleſſings of the ſpirit.

NOTES on Chap. XXVI.

Ver. 1. Abimelech.] Not the ſame with whom Abraham covenanted, but probably his ſon, it being an hundred years ſince that time; and Abimelech, was the common name of all the kings of the Philiſtines.

Ver. 2. Go not down into Egypt.] Hence it appears, that Iſaac had reſolved within himſelf to go thither on account of the famine, but God diſſuades him from it, leſt being taken with the fertility of that country, he ſhould have fixed his reſidence there, and ſo his poſterity be corrupted among the Egyptians.

Ver. 3. The oath.] The oath of the covenant. See chap. xxii. 17.

Before Chriſt 1804.

7 And the men of the place aſked him of his wife; and he ſaid, She is my ſiſter: for he feared to ſay, She is my wife; leſt, ſaid he, the men of the place ſhould kill me for Rebekah, becauſe ſhe was fair to look upon.

8 And it came to paſs when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philiſtines looked out at a window, and ſaw, and behold, Iſaac was ſporting with Rebekah his wife.

9 And Abimelech called Iſaac, and ſaid, Behold, of a ſurety ſhe is thy wife: and how ſaidſt thou, She is my ſiſter? And Iſaac ſaid unto him, Becauſe I ſaid, Leſt I die for her.

10 And Abimelech ſaid, What is this thou haſt done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lain with thy wife, and thou ſhouldeſt have brought guiltineſs upon us.

11 And Abimelech charged all his people, ſaying, He that toucheth this man or his wife, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

12 Then Iſaac ſowed in that land, and received in the ſame year an hundred-fold: and the LORD bleſſed him.

13 And the man waxed great, and went forward, and grew until he became very great.

14 For he had poſſeſſion of flocks, and poſſeſſion of herds, and great ſtore of ſervants. And the Philiſtines envied him.

19 And Iſaacs ſervants digged in the valley, and found there a well of ſpringing water.

20 And the herdmen of Gerar did ſtrive with Iſaacs herdmen, ſaying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well Eſek, becauſe they ſtrove with him.

21 And they digged another well, and ſtrove for that alſo: and he called the name of it Sitnah.

22 And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they ſtrove not: and he called the name of it Rehoboth; and he ſaid, For now the LORD hath made room for us, and we ſhall be fruitful in the land.

Ver. 9. She is thy wife.] This ſhews the good opinion he had of Iſaac, not looking upon thoſe familiarities by any means, as proceeding from inceſtous deſires, but only as tokens of conjugal affection.

Ver. 10. Might lightly have lain, &c.] Abimelech's behaviour on this occaſion, is an indication of a generous diſpoſition, as well as a virtuous mind.

Ver. 12. An hundred fold.] This increaſe is to be attributed to the divine providence; yet not ſo as to exclude natural cauſes; for the hand of the diligent maketh rich; but induſtry alone will not avail, for it is the bleſſing of the Lord maketh rich too.

Gen. XXVII.

Before Chriſt 1804. of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee, and will bleſs thee, and multiply thy ſeed for my ſervant Abrahams ſake.

25 And he builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tent there: and there Iſaacs ſervants digged a well.

26 ¶ Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar, and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and Phichol the chief captain of his army.

27 And Iſaac ſaid unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, ſeeing ye hate me, and have ſent me away from you?

28 And they ſaid, We ſaw certainly that the Lord was with thee: and we ſaid, Let there be now an oath betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee;

29 That thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have ſent thee away in peace: thou art now the bleſſed of the Lord.

30 And he made them a feaſt, and they did eat and drink.

31 And they roſe up betimes in the morning, and ſware one to another: and Iſaac ſent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

32 And it came to paſs the ſame day, that Iſaacs ſervants came, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and ſaid unto him, We have found water.

1 Iſaac ſendeth Eſau for veniſon. 6 Rebekah inſtructeth Jacob to obtain the bleſſing: 15 Jacob under the perſon of Eſau obtaineth it. 30 Eſau bringeth veniſon. 33 Iſaac trembleth. 34 Eſau complaineth, and by importunity obtaineth a bleſſing.

AND it came to paſs that when Iſaac 1760. was old, and his eyes were dim, ſo that he could not ſee, he called Eſau his eldeſt ſon, and ſaid unto him, My ſon: And he ſaid unto him, Behold, here am I.

10 And thou ſhalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat, and that he may bleſs thee before his death.

11 And Jacob ſaid to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Eſau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a ſmooth man.

15 And Rebekah took goodly raiment of her eldeſt ſon Eſau, which were with her in the houſe, and put them upon Jacob her younger ſon.

16 And ſhe put the ſkins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the ſmooth of his neck.

17 And ſhe gave the ſavoury meat, and the bread which ſhe had prepared, into the hand of her ſon Jacob.

18 ¶ And he came unto his father, and ſaid, My father: and he ſaid, Here am I; who art thou, my ſon?

Before Chriſt 1760.

19 And Jacob ſaid unto his father, I am Eſau thy firſt-born; I have done according as thou badeſt me: ariſe, I pray thee, ſit and eat of my veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me.

20 And Iſaac ſaid unto his ſon, How is it that thou haſt found it ſo quickly, my ſon? And he ſaid, Becauſe the LORD thy God brought it to me.

21 And Iſaac ſaid unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my ſon, whether thou be my very ſon Eſau, or not.

22 And Jacob went near unto Iſaac his father, and he felt him; and ſaid, The voice is Jacobs voice, but the hands are the hands of Eſau.

23 And he diſcerned him not, becauſe his hands were hairy, as his brother Eſaus hands: So he bleſſed him.

24 And he ſaid, Art thou my very ſon Eſau? And he ſaid, I am.

25 And he ſaid, Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my ſons veniſon, that my ſoul may bleſs thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank.

26 And his father Iſaac ſaid unto him, Come near now, and kiſs me, my ſon.

27 And he came near, and kiſſed him: and he ſmelled the ſmell of his raiment, and bleſſed him, and ſaid, See, the ſmell of my ſon is as the ſmell of a field, which the LORD hath bleſſed.

28 There-

Ver. 13. Upon me be thy curſe.] Jacob was Rebekah's favourite, and ſhe was convinced of his juſt title to the firſt bleſſing, ſince Eſau had ſold him his birth-right, and knew that God deſigned it for him, from the beginning; for which reaſons, ſhe made no ſcruple of deceiving Iſaac, in what ſhe thought a matter of juſtice, and took the curſe (which Jacob feared, upon diſcovery) upon herſelf. However, the conduct of the mother, nor the ſon, is juſtifiable, being both guilty of an abſolute falſehood. The ſcriptures impartially record theſe blemiſhes of holy men, on purpoſe to convince us, that there is no man perfect, no not one.

Ver. 16. The ſkins of the kids, &c.] Goats hair, in the eaſtern countries, is ſaid to be very like human, and therefore this project might eaſily deceive old Iſaac, whoſe faculty of ſeeing was decayed.

Ver. 21. That I may feel thee, &c.] Hence it is apparent, Iſaac doubted there might be ſome fraud in the caſe.

Ver. 27. He ſmelled the ſmell of his raiment, &c.] Some interpret this of perfumes, which the Orientals uſed; others of the natural effluvia, exhaled from the body of Jacob.

Before Chriſt 1760.

28 Therefore God give thee of the dew of heaven, and the fatneſs of the earth, and plenty of corn and wine.

29 Let people ſerve thee, and nations bow down to thee; be lord over thy brethren, and let thy mothers ſons bow down to thee: Curſed be every one that curſeth thee, and bleſſed be he that bleſſeth thee.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs, as ſoon as Iſaac had made an end of bleſſing Jacob, and Jacob was yet ſcarce gone out from the preſence of Iſaac his father, that Eſau his brother came in from his hunting.

31 And he alſo had made ſavoury meat, and brought it unto his father; and ſaid unto his father, Let my father ariſe, and eat of his ſons veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me.

32 And Iſaac his father ſaid unto him, Who art thou? And he ſaid, I am thy ſon, thy firſt-born Eſau.

33 And Iſaac trembled very exceedingly, and ſaid, Who, where is he that hath taken veniſon, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou cameſt, and have bleſſed him? yea, and he ſhall be bleſſed.

34 And when Eſau heard the words of his father, he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and ſaid unto his father, Bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father.

35 And he ſaid, Thy brother came with ſubtilty, and hath taken away thy bleſſing.

Before Chriſt 1760.

36 And he ſaid, Is not he rightly named Jacob? for he hath ſupplanted me theſe two times: he took away my birthright; and behold, now he hath taken away my bleſſing. And he ſaid, Haſt thou not reſerved a bleſſing for me?

37 And Iſaac anſwered and ſaid unto Eſau, Behold, I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for ſervants; and with corn and wine have I ſuſtained him: and what ſhall I do now unto thee, my ſon?

38 And Eſau ſaid unto his father, Haſt thou but one bleſſing, my father? bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father. And Eſau lifted up his voice, and wept.

39 And Iſaac his father anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thy dwelling ſhall be the fatneſs of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above.

40 And by thy ſword ſhalt thou live, and ſhalt ſerve thy brother: and it ſhall come to paſs when thou ſhalt have the dominion, that thou ſhalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

41 ¶ And Eſau hated Jacob becauſe of the bleſſing wherewith his father bleſſed him: and Eſau ſaid in his heart, The days of mourning for my father are at hand,

Ver. 28. Dew of Heaven.] There is a beautiful turn of expreſſion here, peculiar to the Oriental writers. It is too a bleſſing of importance, ſince in thoſe hot climates, it was abſolutely neceſſary to refreſh the earth, and render it fruitful.

The fatneſs of the earth, &c.] This prophetic prayer, or bleſſing, was anſwered in the country of Canaan, a land flowing with milk and honey.

Ver. 29. Let people ſerve thee, &c.] Which prophecy was completed in his poſterity; for not only the deſcendants of his brethren, but ſtrangers likewiſe, were ſubject to them in after times.

Ver. 33. Iſaac trembled very exceedingly.] He trembled with a great trembling, greatly; which expreſſes his agony and conſternation.

Who? where is he?] This broken ſpeech, ſhews the great perturbation of his mind, at this time.

Yea, and he ſhall be bleſſed.] Aſtoniſhed at the myſterious conduct of providence, he acquieſces in the divine determination.

Ver. 39. The fatneſs of the earth, &c.] Seeing Eſau acquired ſo large a ſhare of temporal bleſſings, it may be aſked, why the bleſſing of Jacob was ſuperior to his? the anſwer is of the ſpiritual one, which attended the latter, the bleſſing of God to Abraham, namely, that the Meſſiah ſhould be deſcended from his family, in whom all the nations of the earth ſhould be bleſſed.

Ver. 40. When thou ſhalt have the dominion, &c.] When they ſhould be a great and warlike people, they ſhould free themſelves from their brother's yoke, and be their own maſters. This came to paſs, in the days of Joram, 2 Kings, viii. 22. and 2 Chron. xxi. 8. about nine hundred years after the prophetic bleſſing.

Ver. 41. The days of mourning, &c.] This, however, was a miſtake, for Iſaac lived at leaſt forty years longer.

42 And theſe words of Eſau her elder ſon were told to Rebekah: and ſhe ſent and called Jacob her younger ſon, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thy brother Eſau, as touching thee, doth comfort himſelf, purpoſing to kill thee.

43 Now therefore, my ſon, obey my voice: and ariſe, flee thou to Laban my brother to Haran.

44 And tarry with him a few days, until thy brothers fury turn away;

45 Until thy brothers anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou haſt done to him: then I will ſend, and fetch thee from thence. Why ſhould I be deprived alſo of you both in one day?

46 And Rebekah ſaid to Iſaac, I am weary of my life, becauſe of the daughters of Heth: if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, ſuch as theſe which are of the daughters of the land, what good ſhall my life do me?

AND Iſaac called Jacob, and bleſſed him, and charged him, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan.

2 Ariſe, go to Padan-aram, to the houſe of Bethuel thy mothers father; and take thee a wife from thence of the daughters of Laban thy mothers brother.

3 And God Almighty bleſs thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, that thou mayeſt be a multitude of people:

Before Christ 1760. 4 And give thee the bleſſing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy ſeed with thee; that thou mayeſt inherit the land wherein thou art a ſtranger, which God gave unto Abraham.

5 And Iſaac ſent away Jacob, and he went to Padan-aram unto Laban, ſon of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, Jacobs and Eſau's mother.

6 ¶ When Eſau ſaw that Iſaac had bleſſed Jacob, and ſent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that as he bleſſed him, he gave him a charge, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan;

10 ¶ And Jacob went out from Beer-ſheba, and went toward Haran.

11 And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, becauſe the ſun was ſet: and he took of the ſtones of that place, and put them for his pillows, and lay down in that place to ſleep.

12 And he dreamed, and behold a ladder ſet upon the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and behold, the angels of God aſcending and deſcending on it.

Ver. 45. Why ſhould I be deprived, &c.] For if Eſau had killed Jacob, he would either have been puniſhed with death, or muſt have fled from juſtice, and been an exile.

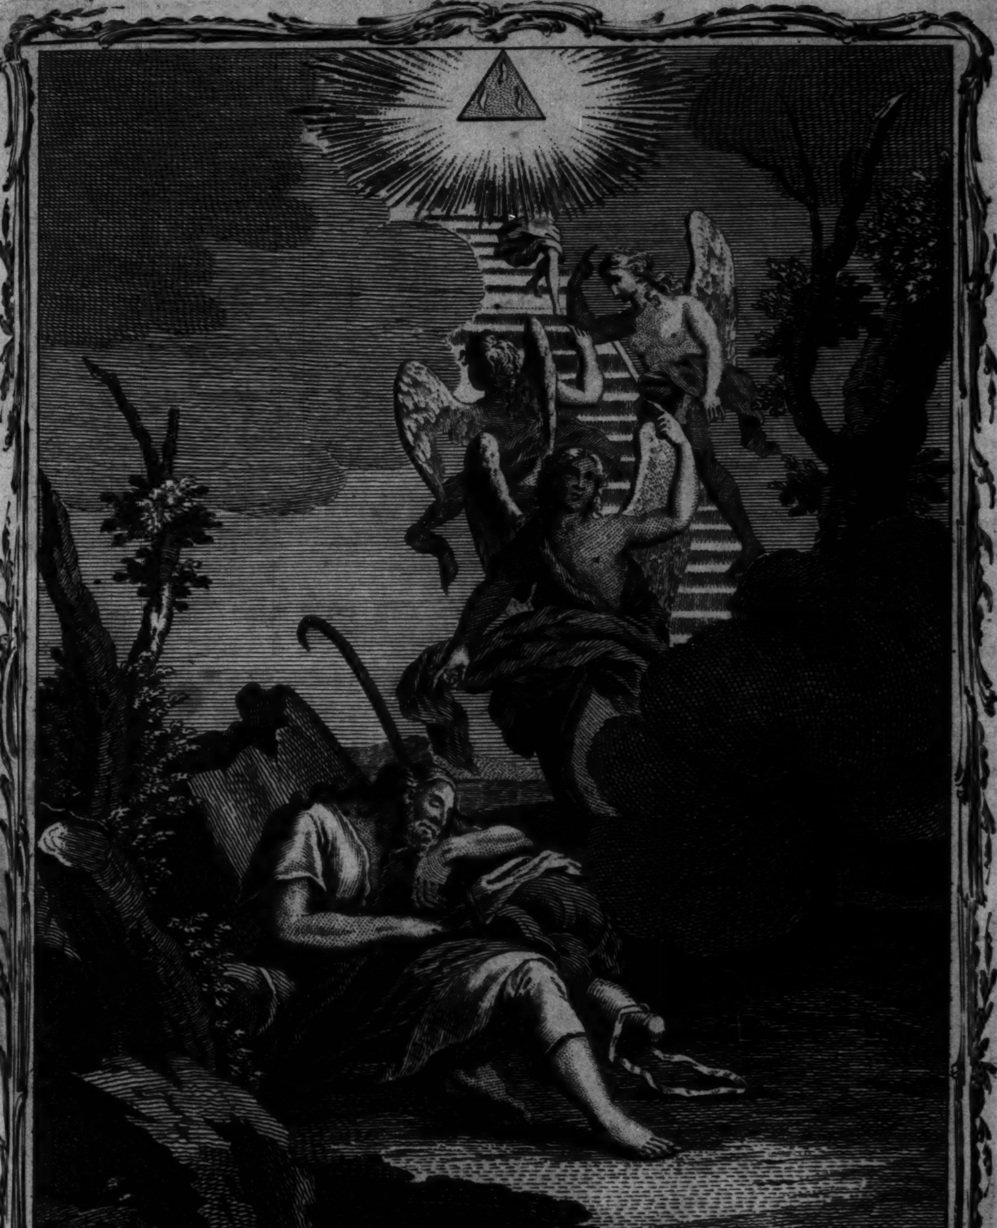
Ver. 12. Behold a ladder, &c.] Jacob was now ſetting out on a journey, without any attendants, for fear of his brother, who threatened his life; this viſion, therefore, was very ſeaſonable. The ladder reaching from earth to heaven, was an emblem of God's providence;



And he dreamed & behold a Ladder set upon the Earth and the Top of it reached to Heaven: and behold the Angels of God ascending and descending on it. Gen XXVIII. 12.

13 And behold, the Lord ſtood above it, and ſaid, I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Iſaac: the land whereon thou lieſt, to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed.

14 And thy ſeed ſhall be as the duſt of the earth; and thou ſhalt ſpread abroad to the weſt, and to the eaſt, and to the north, and to the ſouth: and in thee and in thy ſeed ſhall all the families of the earth be bleſſed.

15 And behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goeſt, and will bring thee again into this land: for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have ſpoken to thee of.

16 ¶ And Jacob awaked out of his ſleep, and he ſaid, Surely the Lord is in this place; and I knew it not.

17 And he was afraid, and ſaid, How dreadful is this place! this is none other but the houſe of God, and this is the gate of heaven.

18 And Jacob roſe up early in the morning, and took the ſtone that he had put for his pillows, and ſet it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it.

19 And he called the name of that place Beth-el: but the name of that city was called Luz at the firſt.

20 And Jacob vowed a vow, ſaying, If God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me bread to eat, and raiment to put on;

21 So that I come again to my fathers houſe in peace: then ſhall the Lord be my God.

8 And they ſaid, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the ſtone from the wells mouth; then we water the ſheep.

9 ¶ And while he yet ſpake with them, Rachel came with her fathers ſheep: for ſhe kept them.

18 And Jacob loved Rachel; and ſaid, I will ſerve thee ſeven years for Rachel thy younger daughter.

Give me children, &c.] Here is a lively picture of human folly, in fixing our minds upon acquiſitions, which, when obtained, do oftentimes prove our miſery: it behoves us to ſubmit patiently to the diſpenſations of providence, who both ſees and knows what is beſt for us, and will perform it in his own good time.

33 So ſhall my righteouſneſs anſwer for me in time to come, when it ſhall come for my hire before thy face: every one that is not ſpeckled and ſpotted amongſt the goats, and brown amongſt the ſheep, that ſhall be accounted ſtolen with me.

34 And Laban ſaid, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word.

35 And he removed that day the he-goats, that were ring-ſtraked, and ſpotted, and all the ſhe-goats that were ſpeckled and ſpotted, and every one that had ſome white in it, and all the brown among the ſheep, and gave them into the hands of his ſons.

Before Christ 1745.

36 And he ſet three days journey betwixt himſelf and Jacob: and Jacob fed the reſt of Labans flocks.

37 ¶ And Jacob took him rods of green poplar, and of the haſel and cheſnut-tree; and pilled white ſtrakes in them, and made the white appear which was in the rods.

38 And he ſet the rods which he had pilled before the flocks in the gutters in the watering-troughs, when the flocks came to drink; that they ſhould conceive when they came to drink.

39 And the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth cattle ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and ſpotted.

40 And Jacob did ſeparate the lambs, and ſet the faces of the flocks toward the ring-ſtraked, and all the brown in the flock of Laban: and he put his own flocks by themſelves; and put them not unto Labans cattle.

41 And it came to paſs whenſoever the ſtronger cattle did conceive, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

42 But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: ſo the feebler were Labans, and the ſtronger Jacobs.

43 And the man increaſed exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maid-ſervants, and men-ſervants, and camels, and aſſes.

Ver. 32. Of ſuch ſhall be my Hire.] The meaning is, there ſhall be a ſeparation made of the whole flock, both of ſheep and goats; that the ſpeckled ſhould be under Laban's care, and the white under Jacob's; and then it was ſtipulated, that whatever ſpeckled ones ſhould be produced out of the white kind, ſhould be Jacob's property or hire.

Ver. 37. The haſel.] In the Hebrew Luz, which rather ſignifies an almond-tree.

Ver. 39. Brought forth cattle ring-ſtraked, &c.] Modern naturaliſts are convinced, that theſe experiments will have no ſuch effect, and therefore what was here done muſt be reſolved wholly into the divine providence, which, it is likely, ordered him to uſe this means to teach him dependence on his maker.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Jacob upon diſpleaſure departeth ſecretly. 19 Rachel ſtealeth her fathers images. 22 Laban purſueth after Jacob, 26 and complaineth of the wrong. 34 Rachels policy to hide the images. 36 Jacobs complaint of Laban. 43 The covenant of Laban and Jacob at Galeed.

AND he heard the words of Labans ſons, saying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our fathers; and of that which was our fathers hath he gotten all this glory.

2 And Jacob beheld the countenance of Laban, and behold it was not toward him as before.

3 And the LORD ſaid unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred: and I will be with thee.

4 And Jacob ſent and called Rachel and Leah to the field unto his flock,

5 And ſaid unto them, I ſee your fathers countenance, that it is not toward me as before: but the God of my father hath been with me.

6 And ye know that with all my power I have ſerved your father.

7 And your father hath deceived me, and changed my wages ten times: but God ſuffered him not to hurt me.

8 If he ſaid thus, the ſpeckled ſhall be thy wages; then all the cattle bare ſpeckled: and if he ſaid thus, The ring-ſtraked ſhall be thy hire; then bare all the cattle ring-ſtraked.

9 Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me.

10 And it came to paſs at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and ſaw in a dream, and behold, the rams which leaped upon the cattle were ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and griſled.

11 And the angel of God ſpake unto me in a dream, ſaying, Jacob: And I ſaid, Here am I.

12 And he ſaid, Lift up now thine eyes and ſee, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and griſled: for I have ſeen all that Laban doeth unto thee.

13 I am the God of Beth-el, where thou anointedſt the pillar, and where thou vowedſt a vow unto me: now ariſe, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred.

14 And Rachel and Leah anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our fathers houſe?

15 Are we not counted of him ſtrangers? for he hath ſold us, and hath quite devoured alſo our money.

16 For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is ours, and our childrens: now then whatſoever God hath ſaid unto thee, do.

17 ¶ Then Jacob roſe up, and ſet his ſons and his wives upon camels.

18 And he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods, which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram; for to go to Iſaac his father in the land of Canaan.

19 And Laban went to ſhear his ſheep: and Rachel had ſtolen the images that were her fathers.

20 And Jacob ſtole away unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled.

21 So

21 So he fled with all that he had, and he roſe up, and paſſed over the river, and ſet his face toward the mount Gilead.

22 And it was told Laban on the third day that Jacob was fled.

23 And he took his brethren with him, and purſued after him ſeven days journey; and they overtook him in the mount Gilead.

24 And God came to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and ſaid unto him, Take heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob either good or bad.

25 ¶ Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount: and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

26 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, What haſt thou done, that thou haſt ſtolen away unawares to me, and carried away my daughters, as captives taken with the ſword?

27 Wherefore didſt thou flee away ſecretly, and ſteal away from me? and didſt not tell me, that I might have ſent thee away with mirth, and with ſongs, with tabret, and with harp?

28 And haſt not ſuffered me to kiſs my ſons and my daughters? thou haſt now done fooliſhly in ſo doing.

29 It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the God of your father ſpake unto me yeſternight, ſaying, Take thou heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob either good or bad.

30 And now though thou wouldeſt needs be gone, becauſe thou ſore longedſt after thy fathers houſe; yet wherefore haſt thou ſtolen my gods?

Before Christ 1739.

31 And Jacob anſwered and ſaid to Laban, Becauſe I was afraid: for I ſaid, Peradventure thou wouldeſt take by force thy daughters from me.

32 With whomſoever thou findeſt thy gods, let him not live: before our brethren diſcern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee: for Jacob knew not that Rachel had ſtolen them.

33 And Laban went into Jacobs tent, and into Leahs tent, and into the two maid-ſervants tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leahs tent, and entered into Rachels tent.

34 Now Rachel had taken the images, and put them in the camels furniture, and ſat upon them: and Laban ſearched all the tent, but found them not.

35 And ſhe ſaid to her father, Let it not diſpleaſe my lord that I cannot riſe up before thee; for the cuſtom of women is upon me: and he ſearched, but found not the images.

36 ¶ And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban: and Jacob anſwered, and ſaid to Laban, What is my treſpaſs? what is my ſin that thou haſt ſo hotly purſued after me?

37 Whereas thou haſt ſearched all my ſtuff, what haſt thou found of all thy houſhold-ſtuff? ſet it here before my brethren and thy brethren, that they may judge betwixt us both.

39 That which was torn of beaſts, I brought not unto thee: I bare the loſs of it; of my hand didſt thou require it, whether ſtolen by day, or ſtolen by night.

40 Thus I was, in the day the drought conſumed me, and the froſt by night; and my ſleep departed from mine eyes.

41 Thus have I been twenty years in thy houſe; I ſerved thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and ſix years for thy cattle: and thou haſt changed my wages ten times.

42 Except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the fear of Iſaac had been with me, ſurely thou hadſt ſent me away now empty. God hath ſeen mine affliction and the labour of my hands, and rebuked thee yeſternight.

43 ¶ And Laban anſwered and ſaid unto Jacob, Theſe daughters are my daughters, and theſe children are my children, and theſe cattle are my cattle, and all that thou ſeeſt is mine: and what can I do this day unto theſe my daughters, or unto their children which they have borne?

44 Now therefore come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou; and let it be for a witneſs between me and thee.

45 And Jacob took a ſtone, and ſet it up for a pillar.

46 And Jacob ſaid unto his brethren, Gather ſtones; and they took ſtones, and made an heap: and they did eat there upon the heap.

47 And Laban called it Jegar-ſahadutha: but Jacob called it Galeed.

Before Chriſt 1739.

48 And Laban ſaid, This heap is a witneſs between me and thee this day. Therefore was the name of it called Galeed:

49 And Mizpah; for he ſaid, The LORD watch between me and thee, when we are abſent one from another.

50 If thou ſhalt afflict my daughters, or if thou ſhalt take other wives beſides my daughters, no man is with us; See, God is witneſs betwixt me and thee.

51 And Laban ſaid to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar, which I have caſt betwixt me and thee;

52 This heap be witneſs, and this pillar be witneſs, that I will not paſs over this heap to thee, and that thou ſhalt not paſs over this heap and this pillar unto me, for harm.

53 The God of Abraham, and the God of Nahor, the God of their father, judge betwixt us. And Jacob ſware by the fear of his father Iſaac.

54 Then Jacob offered ſacrifice upon the mount, and called his brethren to eat bread: and they did eat bread, and tarried all night in the mount.

55 And early in the morning Laban roſe up, and kiſſed his ſons and his daughters, and bleſſed them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place.

AND Jacob went on his way, and the angels of God met him.

2 And when Jacob ſaw them, he ſaid, This is Gods hoſt: and he called the name of that place Mahanaim.

3 And Jacob ſent meſſengers before him to Eſau his brother, unto the land of Seir, the country of Edom.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto my lord Eſau; Thy ſervant Jacob ſaith thus, I have ſojourned with Laban, and ſtayed there until now.

5 And I have oxen, and aſſes, flocks, and men-ſervants, and women-ſervants: and I have ſent to tell my lord, that I may find grace in thy ſight.

6 ¶ And the meſſengers returned to Jacob, ſaying, We came to thy brother Eſau, and alſo he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him.

7 Then Jacob was greatly afraid, and diſtreſſed: and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels into two bands;

8 And ſaid, If Eſau come to the one company and ſmite it, then the other company which is left ſhall eſcape.

11 Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Eſau: for I fear him, leſt he will come and ſmite me, and the mother with the children.

12 And thou ſaidſt, I will ſurely do thee good, and make thy ſeed as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.

13 ¶ And he lodged there that ſame night; and took of that which came to his hand, a preſent for Eſau his brother;

14 Two hundred ſhe-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ews, and twenty rams, 15 Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine, and ten bulls, twenty ſhe-aſſes, and ten foles.

16 And he delivered them into the hand of his ſervants, every drove by themſelves; and ſaid unto his ſervants, Paſs over before me, and put a ſpace betwixt drove and drove.

Ver. 2. Mahanaim.] This word ſignifies two hoſts, or camps; the angels appearing like two armies drawn up on each ſide for his defence.

Ver. 3. Sent meſſengers—to Eſau, &c.] Though Jacob had the greateſt reaſon to rely on the good providence of God for protection, and not to fear his brother; yet this did not hinder, but that he might uſe prudential means to bring him to friendſhip, and a good underſtanding.

Ver. 7. Greatly afraid.] Such is the terror of guilt: Jacob being conſcious to himſelf of having injured his brother, could not refrain from fear, even though he beheld a guard of angels about him.

Into two bands.] The policy and prudence of Jacob is here very conſpicuous. He put a ſpace betwixt drove and drove, that they might be the longer time in paſſing by Eſau, and ſo give time to his paſſion to cool; and in caſe the firſt drove might meet with an unwelcome reception, the diſtance between, would admit of the ſecond's haſtening back with intelligence to their maſter.

Ver. 10. With my ſtaff.] Or as in the Chaldee, by myſelf, or alone.

Ver. 13. Which came to his hand.] Not that he took the firſt thing that offered, but it ſignifies, what he had in his power to preſent him withal, his cattle.

18 Then thou ſhalt ſay, They be thy ſervant Jacobs; it is a preſent ſent unto my lord Eſau: and behold alſo he is behind us.

19 And ſo commanded he the ſecond, and the third, and all that followed the droves, ſaying, On this manner ſhall you ſpeak unto Eſau when you find him.

20 And ſay ye moreover, Behold, thy ſervant Jacob is behind us: For he ſaid, I will appeaſe him with the preſent that goeth before me, and afterward I will ſee his face; peradventure he will accept of me.

21 So went the preſent over before him: and himſelf lodged that night in the company.

22 And he roſe up that night, and took his two wives, and his two women-ſervants, and his eleven ſons, and paſſed over the ford Jabbok.

23 And he took them, and ſent them over the brook, and ſent over that he had.

24 ¶ And Jacob was left alone: and there wreſtled a man with him, until the breaking of the day.

25 And when he ſaw that he prevailed not againſt him, he touched the hollow of his thigh: and the hollow of Jacobs thigh was out of joint, as he wreſtled with him.

26 And he ſaid, Let me go, for the day breaketh: And he ſaid, I will not let thee go, except thou bleſs me.

27 And he ſaid unto him, What is thy name? And he ſaid, Jacob.

Before Chriſt 1739.

28 And he ſaid, Thy name ſhall be called no more Jacob, but Iſrael: for as a prince haſt thou power with God and with men, and haſt prevailed.

29 And Jacob aſked him, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name: And he ſaid, Wherefore is it, that thou doſt aſk after my name? and he bleſſed him there.

30 And Jacob called the name of the place Peniel: for I have ſeen God face to face, and my life is preſerved.

31 And as he paſſed over Penuel the ſun roſe upon him, and he halted upon his thigh.

32 Therefore the children of Iſrael eat not of the ſinew which ſhrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: becauſe he touched the hollow of Jacobs thigh, in the ſinew that ſhrank.

3 And he paſſed over before them, and bowed himſelf to the ground ſeven times, until he came near to his brother.

4 And Eſau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him: and they wept.

5 And he lifted up his eyes, and ſaw the women and the children; and ſaid, Who are thoſe with thee? And he ſaid, The children which God hath graciouſly given thy ſervant.

6 Then the handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themſelves.

7 And Leah alſo with her children came near, and bowed themſelves: and after came Joſeph near and Rachel, and they bowed themſelves.

8 And he ſaid, What meaneſt thou by all this drove, which I met? and he ſaid, Theſe are to find grace in the ſight of my lord.

9 And Eſau ſaid, I have enough; my brother, keep that thou haſt unto thyſelf.

10 And Jacob ſaid, Nay, I pray thee, if now I have found grace in thy ſight, then receive my preſent at my hand: for therefore I have ſeen thy face, as though I had ſeen the face of God, and thou waſt pleaſed with me.

11 Take, I pray thee, my bleſſing that is brought to thee; becauſe God hath dealt graciouſly with me, and becauſe I have enough: and he urged him, and he took it.

Before Chriſt 1739.

12 And he ſaid, Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before thee.

13 And he ſaid unto him, My lord knoweth that the children are tender, and the flocks and herds with young are with me; and if men ſhould over-drive them one day, all the flock will die.

14 Let my lord, I pray thee, paſs over before his ſervant: and I will lead on ſoftly, according as the cattle that goeth before me, and the children be able to endure; until I come unto my lord unto Seir.

15 And Eſau ſaid, Let me now leave with thee ſome of the folk that are with me: And he ſaid, What needeth it? Let me find grace in the ſight of my lord.

16 ¶ So Eſau returned that day on his way unto Seir.

17 And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, and built him an houſe, and made booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called Succoth.

18 ¶ And Jacob came to Shalem a city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-aram; and pitched his tent before the city.

2 And when Shechem the ſon of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country ſaw her, he took her, and lay with her, and defiled her.

3 And his ſoul clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damſel, and ſpake kindly unto the damſel.

4 And Shechem ſpake unto his father Hamor, ſaying, Get me this damſel to wife.

5 And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter, (now his ſons were with his cattle in the field:) and Jacob held his peace, until they were come.

6 ¶ And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to commune with him.

7 And the ſons of Jacob came out of the field, when they heard it, and the men were grieved, and they were very wroth: becauſe he had wrought folly in Iſrael, in lying with Jacobs daughter; which thing ought not to be done.

Before Christ 1732. 8 And Hamor communed with them, ſaying, The ſoul of my ſon Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give her him to wife.

9 And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you.

10 And ye ſhall dwell with us: and the land ſhall be before you; dwell and trade you therein, and get you poſſeſſions therein.

11 And Shechem ſaid unto her father, and unto her brethren, Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye ſhall ſay unto me I will give.

12 Aſk me never ſo much dowry and gift, and I will give according as ye ſhall ſay unto me: but give me the damſel to wife.

13 And the ſons of Jacob anſwered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully, and ſaid, (becauſe he had defiled Dinah their ſiſter.)

16 Then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.

17 But if ye will not hearken unto us to be circumciſed; then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, becauſe he had delight in Jacobs daughter: and he was more honourable than all the houſe of his father.

20 ¶ And Hamor and Shechem his ſon came unto the gate of their city, and communed with the men of their city, ſaying, 21 Theſe men are peaceable with us, therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them: let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters.

22 Only herein will the men conſent unto us, for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumciſed, as they are circumciſed.

23 Shall not their cattle, and their ſubſtance, and every beaſt of theirs be ours? only let us conſent unto them, and they will dwell with us.

24 And unto Hamor and unto Shechem his ſon hearkened all that went out of the gate of his city: and every male was circumciſed, and all that went out of the gate of his city.

25 ¶ And it came to paſs on the third day, when they were ſore, that two of the ſons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinahs brethren, took each man his ſword, and came upon the city boldly, and ſlew all the males.

29 And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and ſpoiled even all that was in the houſe.

30 And Jacob ſaid to Simeon and Levi, Ye have troubled me, to make me to ſtink among the inhabitants of the land, amongſt the Canaanites, and the Perizzites: and I being few in number, they ſhall gather themſelves together againſt me, and ſlay me; and I ſhall be deſtroyed I and my houſe.

4 And they gave unto Jacob all the ſtrange gods which were in their hand, and all their ear-rings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under the oak which was by Shechem.

5 And they journeyed: and the terror of God was upon the cities that were round about them, and they did not purſue after the ſons of Jacob.

8 But Deborah Rebekahs nurſe died, and ſhe was buried beneath Beth-el, under an oak: and the name of it was called Allon-bachuth.

9 ¶ And God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-aram; and bleſſed him.

13 And God went up from him, in the place where he talked with him.

AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that the butler of the king of Egypt and his baker had offended their lord the king of Egypt.

2 And Pharaoh was wroth againſt two of his officers, againſt the chief of the butlers, and againſt the chief of the bakers.

3 And he put them in ward in the houſe of the captain of the guard, into the priſon, the place where Joſeph was bound.

4 And the captain of the guard charged Joſeph with them, and he ſerved them; and they continued a ſeaſon in ward.

7 And he aſked Pharaohs officers that were with him in the ward of his lords houſe, ſaying, Wherefore look ye ſo ſadly to day?

8 And they ſaid unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, Do not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you. Before Chriſt 1718.

12 And Joſeph ſaid unto him, This is the interpretation of it: The three branches are three days.

13 Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh lift up thine head, and reſtore thee unto thy place: and thou ſhalt deliver Pharaohs cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou waſt his butler.

Offended.] The Targum of Jonathan aſſerts, that they were both accuſed of an attempt to poiſon the king.

Ver. 4. The captain of the guard charged Joſeph, &c.] This captain of the guard, was the ſame Potiphar who had been his maſter, and was now convinced of his innocence; but ſtill detained him in priſon, the better to conceal his wife's guilt, allowing him every privilege the place afforded.

Ver. 5. Each man according to the interpretation, &c.] That is, their dreams were agreeable to the reſpective offices which they held, and to the events which were to follow them.

Ver. 8. There is no interpreter, &c.] The Egyptian magicians made it one principal part of their profeſſion, to interpret dreams; and therefore they were frequently conſulted in this matter, by the people, and theſe officers lamented their want of opportunity to repair to them, which was by reaſon of their confinement.

Do not interpretations belong to God?] As if he had ſaid, do you think the deity whom I ſerve, cannot enable me to interpret your dreams, as well (yea better) than your heathen deities enable thoſe who are your prieſts, to interpret them?

Ver. 13. Lift up thine head.] This phraſe is too literally tranſlated, Before Christ 1718. 16 When the chief baker ſaw that the interpretation was good, he ſaid unto Joſeph, I alſo was in my dream, and behold, I had three white baſkets on my head.

17 And in the uppermoſt baſket there was of all manner of bake-meats for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the baſket upon my head.

18 And Joſeph anſwered, and ſaid, This is the interpretation thereof: The three baſkets are three days.

19 Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh lift up thy head from off thee, and ſhall hang thee on a tree; and the birds ſhall eat thy fleſh from off thee.

20 ¶ And it came to paſs the third day, which was Pharaohs birth-day, that he made a feaſt unto all his ſervants: and he lifted up the head of the chief-butler, and of the chief baker among his ſervants.

1715. 21 And he reſtored the chief butler unto his butlerſhip again; and he gave the cup into Pharaohs hand:

tranſlated, and relates to the examination only, and not the ſentence; it implies, in the original, that Pharaoh would, within three days, reckon with, or call them to account; and ſo it is ſaid, ver. 20. he lifted up the head of the chief butler, and of the chief baker; that is, examined them; for only one was hanged. The word Jiſha, tranſlated lift up, ſignifies to reckon; and Roſh, rendered the head, the ſum total of a thing.

Ver. 19. Thy head from off thee, and ſhall hang thee, &c.] It may ſeem ſtrange to ſome, that the baker ſhould firſt be beheaded, and afterwards hanged; but it was cuſtomary to ſtrike off the criminal's head in the firſt place, and then to hang him by the hands or feet. See Lam. v. 12.

Ver. 20. Pharaoh's birth-day.] Heroclotus obſerves, that the eaſtern nations kept the anniverſary of their kings birth-day, with great feſtivity; and it is likely, that upon this joyful occaſion (as we find it was cuſtomary upon others. See Matt. xxvii. 15.) they made a diſcharge of ſome one or more priſoners, which was the reaſon why the butler was ſet at liberty, and the baker puniſhed; for they ſeem to have been alike guilty.

He lifted up the head, &c.] See ver. 13.

Ver. 23. Yet did not the chief butler remember Joſeph.] Sunk in the eaſe and pleaſures of a court, he ſoon forgot the ſufferings of his friend, who had given him the firſt joyful aſſurance of a releaſe. He declared himſelf by this, to be a perſon of a moſt ignoble and ungrateful ſpirit; however, that diſpoſition of his was ſo providentially ordered, that it might be inſtrumental to Joſeph's advancement; for had he been ſet at liberty before Pharaoh's dream, he had miſſed the opportunity of being raiſed to ſuch an height of grandeur.

Ver. 2. Kine.] As theſe were the cattle made uſe of in ploughing, and other parts of huſbandry, they were very ſignificant reſemblances, to point out the future fertility and famine; as was their riſing out of the river Nile, to the overflowings of which Egypt owed its fertility.

9 ¶ Then ſpake the chief butler unto Pharaoh, ſaying, I do remember my faults this day.

10 Pharaoh was wroth with his ſervants, and put me in ward in the captain of the guards houſe, both me, and the chief baker.

11 And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he: we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream.

12 And there was there with us a young man an Hebrew, ſervant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he interpreted to us our dreams; to each man according to his dream he did interpret.

13 And it came to paſs, as he interpreted to us, ſo it was: me he reſtored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

14 ¶ Then Pharaoh ſent and called Joſeph, and they brought him haſtily out of the dungeon: and he ſhaved himſelf, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh.

15 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and I have heard ſay of thee, that thou canſt underſtand a dream, to interpret it.

25 ¶ And Joſeph ſaid unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one: God hath ſhewed Pharaoh what he is about to do.

26 The ſeven good kine are ſeven years; and the ſeven good ears are ſeven years: the dream is one.

27 And the ſeven thin and ill-favoured kine that came up after them, are ſeven years; and the ſeven empty ears blaſted with the eaſt wind, ſhall be ſeven years of famine.

Before Christ 1715. ſpoken unto Pharaoh: What God is about to do, he ſheweth unto Pharaoh.

29 Behold, there come ſeven years of great plenty throughout all the land of Egypt.

30 And there ſhall ariſe after them ſeven years of famine; and all the plenty ſhall be forgotten in the land of Egypt: and the famine ſhall conſume the land,

31 And the plenty ſhall not be known in the land, by reaſon of that famine following: for it ſhall be very grievous.

32 And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice; it is becauſe the thing is eſtabliſhed by God, and God will ſhortly bring it to paſs.

33 Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man diſcreet and wiſe, and ſet him over the land of Egypt.

34 Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the ſeven plenteous years.

35 And let them gather all the food of thoſe good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities.

36 And that food ſhall be for ſtore to the land, againſt the ſeven years of famine, which ſhall be in the land of Egypt; that the land periſh not through the famine.

38 And Pharaoh ſaid unto his ſervants, Can we find ſuch a one as this is, a man in whom the ſpirit of God is?

39 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Foraſmuch as God hath ſhewed thee all this, there is none ſo diſcreet and wiſe as thou art.

40 Thou ſhalt be over my houſe, and according unto thy word ſhall all my people be ruled: only in the throne will I be greater than thou.

41 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, See, I have ſet thee over all the land of Egypt.

42 And Pharaoh took off his ring from his hand, and put it upon Joſephs hand, and arayed him in veſtures of fine linen, and put a gold chain about his neck.

43 And he made him to ride in the ſecond chariot which he had; and they cried before him, Bow the knee: and he made him ruler over all the land of Egypt.

44 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I am Pharaoh, and without thee ſhall no man lift up his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt.

45 And Pharaoh called Joſephs name Zaphnath-paaneah; and he gave him to wiſe Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah prieſt of On: and Joſeph went out over all the land of Egypt.

46 ¶ And Joſeph was thirty years old when

Ver. 32. The thing is eſtabliſhed by God.] Here he refers Pharaoh to God, as the author of this event. It is certain it could not be a natural cauſe; for Pliny obſerves, that when the Nile roſe no more than twelve cubits, great ſcarcity always followed; when it roſe to ſixteen, they had a luxuriant plenty; and yet a greater, when it roſe to eighteen, the higheſt it was ever known to riſe to. That this river ſhould overflow conſtantly, for ſeven years together, ſo as to cauſe ſuch plenty, and riſe ſo little for the next ſeven, as to occaſion a grievous famine, can be aſcribed only to a preternatural cauſe; viz. the interpoſition of the deity.

Ver. 35. Corn.] This ſhould be tranſlated zea, or ſpelt, which was a fine flower, called by ſome, Olyra, the bread made with it, they called Calleſtis, from its glutinous quality. The Egyptians eſteemed it a reproach to eat bread, made either of wheat or barley.

Ver. 42. His ring from his hand.] The ring, or ſignet, worn by Eaſtern kings, was a badge of regal dignity, which deſcended ſtill to the next heir; the ceremony, therefore, was conferred on Joſeph, both as a mark of favour, and of authority.

Veſtures of fine linen.] The linen of Egypt was celebrated for its fineneſs all the world over.

Ver. 45. Zaphnath-paaneah.] It is the opinion of moſt commentators, that this is a word borrowed from the Coptic language, and that it ſignifies a revealer of ſecrets.

The daughter of Poti-pherah.] The public adminiſtration of affairs was in the hands of the prieſthood, and therefore, Pharaoh, in order to eſtabliſh Joſeph in his high poſt, and to take away all prejudice and envy, on account of his being a ſtranger, married him to the daughter of Potipherah.

Before Chriſt 1715. when he ſtood before Pharaoh king of Egypt: And Joſeph went out from the preſence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

48 And he gathered up all the food of the ſeven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field which was round about every city, laid he up in the ſame.

49 And Joſeph gathered corn as the ſand of the ſea, very much, until he left numbering: for it was without number.

50 And unto Joſeph were born two ſons, before the years of famine came: which Aſenath, the daughter of Potipherah prieſt of On, bare unto him.

53 ¶ And the ſeven years of plenteouſneſs that was in the land of Egypt, were ended.

1708. 54 And the ſeven years of dearth began to come, according as Joſeph had ſaid: and the dearth was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

55 And when all the land of Egypt was famiſhed, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh ſaid unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joſeph; what he ſaith to you, do. Before Chriſt 1708.

56 And the famine was over all the face of the earth: And Joſeph opened all the ſtore-houſes, and ſold unto the Egyptians; and the famine waxed ſore in the land of Egypt.

57 And all countries came into Egypt to Joſeph for to buy corn; becauſe that the famine was ſo ſore in all the lands.

1 Jacob ſendeth his ten ſons to buy corn in Egypt: 6 They are impriſoned by Joſeph for ſpies: 18 They are ſet at liberty, on condition to bring Benjamin: 21 They have remorſe for Joſeph. 24 Simeon is kept for a pledge: 25 They return with corn, and their money. 29 Their relation to Jacob. 36 Jacob refuſeth to ſend Benjamin.

NOW when Jacob ſaw that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob ſaid unto his ſons, Why do ye look one upon another? 1707.

2 And he ſaid, Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt: get you down thither, and buy for us from thence; that we may live, and not die.

3 ¶ And Joſephs ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt.

4 But Benjamin, Joſephs brother, Jacob ſent not with his brethren: for he ſaid, Leſt peradventure miſchief befal him.

7 And Joſeph ſaw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himſelf ſtrange unto them, and ſpake roughly unto them; and he ſaid unto them, Whence come ye? And they ſaid, From the land of Canaan to buy food.

8 And Joſeph knew his brethren, but they knew not him.

9 And Joſeph remembered the dreams which he dreamed of them, and ſaid unto them, Ye are ſpies; to ſee the nakedneſs of the land you are come.

10 And they ſaid unto him, Nay, my lord, but to buy food are thy ſervants come.

Bowed down themſelves, &c.] This was the Jewiſh, but not Egyptian form of ſalutation, and fulfilled the dreams of Joſeph, for which his brethren had ſhewn him ſo much envy: this circumſtance, no doubt, brought them to his remembrance.

Ver. 8. Knew not him.] And no wonder, for it was now twenty years ſince they had ſeen him, which muſt have made ſome alteration in his features; and not only that, but his dreſs, and the pomp in which he appeared, as alſo his ſpeaking to them by an interpreter, muſt have greatly diſguiſed him.

24 And he turned himſelf about from them, and wept; and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon, and bound him before their eyes.

25 ¶ Then Joſeph commanded to fill their ſacks with corn, and to reſtore every mans money into his ſack, and to give them proviſion for the way: and thus did he unto them.

26 And they laded their aſſes with the corn, and departed thence.

27 And as one of them opened his ſack to give his aſs provender in the inn, he eſpied his money: for behold it was in his ſacks mouth.

28 And he ſaid unto his brethren, My money is reſtored; and lo, it is even in my ſack: and their heart failed them, and they were afraid, ſaying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?

29 ¶ And they came unto Jacob their father, unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befell unto them, ſaying, 33 And the man the lord of the country ſaid unto us, Hereby ſhall I know that ye are true men; leave one of your brethren here with me, and take food for the famine of your houſholds, and be gone.

34 And bring your youngeſt brother unto me: then ſhall I know that you are no ſpies, but that you are true men: ſo will I deliver you your brother, and ye ſhall traffick in the land.

35 ¶ And it came to paſs as they emptied their ſacks, that behold, every mans bundle of money was in his ſack: and when both they and their father ſaw the bundles of money, they were afraid.

His being thus ſevere is not to be attributed to reſentment; but a deſire of being informed concerning his family, without aſking any direct queſtion.

Ver. 24. He turned,—and wept.] The behaviour of Joſeph upon this occaſion is exceedingly affecting; as is the whole ſcene, and painted in the moſt natural and lively colours.

Took from them Simeon, &c.] He was the principal agent in the maſſacre of the Shechemites, and the Rabbins ſay, it was he that put Joſeph into the pit; it was fit, therefore, that he ſhould be left as an hoſtage.

They conſidered this circumſtance of the money being laid in their ſack's mouth, as a ſnare to take away their lives; and immediately their conſciences repreſented it to them as a juſt judgment, for their cruelty and inhumanity to their brother.

AND the famine was ſore in the land.

2 And it came to paſs when they had eaten up the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, their father ſaid unto them, Go again, buy us a little food.

3 And Judah ſpake unto him, ſaying, The man did ſolemnly proteſt unto us, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except your brother be with you.

5 But if thou wilt not ſend him, we will not go down: for the man ſaid unto us, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except your brother be with you.

6 And Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore dealt ye ſo ill with me, as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother?

7 And they ſaid, The man aſked us ſtraitly of our ſtate, and of our kindred, ſaying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the tenor of theſe words: Could we certainly know that he would ſay, Bring your brother down?

Ver. 5. We will not go down.] This may ſound ſomewhat like undutifulneſs, but he was very willing to be obedient unto the commands of his father; only he reminds him of the abſolute neceſſity of Benjamin's going wtih him, as it was a condition made between them, and the viceroy of Egypt.

Ver. 2. Put my cup, &c.] This was an artifice of Joſeph's, to detain his brother Benjamin, being ignorant of his father Jacob's charge concerning him; and perhaps, in order to diſcover what affection the reſt of the brethren had towards him; to wit, whether or no, they would be willing to leave him in captivity.

Ver. 5. He divineth.] Not that Joſeph pretended to the art of divination; but as this ſteward ſeems to have been privy to the whole affair, and as divining was a thing uſed by the Egyptians, he ſpake thus, the better to carry on the deluſion.

NOTES on Chap. XLV.

Ver. 1 Joſeph could not refrain, &c.] This whole ſcene between Joſeph and his brethren, is deſcribed in ſuch a natural, unaffected manner, and has ſo much of the pathos in it, as no deſcription of the ancients can parallel.

2 And he wept aloud: and the Egyptians and the houſe of Pharaoh heard.

3 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, I am Joſeph; Doth my father yet live? and his brethren could not anſwer him: for they were troubled at his preſence.

4 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you; and they came near: and he ſaid, I am Joſeph your brother, whom ye ſold into Egypt.

5 Now therefore be not grieved, nor angry with yourſelves, that ye ſold me hither: for God did ſend me before you, to preſerve life.

1706. 6 For theſe two years hath the famine been in the land: and yet there are five years, in the which there ſhall neither be earing nor harveſt.

7 And God ſent me before you, to preſerve you a poſterity in the earth, and to ſave your lives by a great deliverance.

8 So now it was not you that ſent me hither, but God: and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his houſe, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

9 Haſte you, and go up to my father, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith thy ſon Joſeph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt; come down unto me, tarry not.

11 And there will I nouriſh thee (for yet there are five years of famine;) leſt thou, and thy houſhold, and all that thou haſt, come to poverty.

12 And behold your eyes ſee, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that ſpeaketh unto you.

13 And you ſhall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have ſeen; and ye ſhall haſte, and bring down my father hither.

14 And he fell upon his brother Benjamins neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck.

15 Moreover, he kiſſed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that his brethren talked with him.

16 ¶ And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaohs houſe, ſaying, Joſephs brethren are come: and it pleaſed Pharaoh well, and his ſervants.

17 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye; lade your beaſts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan;

18 And take your father, and your houſholds, and come unto me: and I will give you the good of the land of Egypt, and ye ſhall eat the fat of the land.

19 Now thou art commanded, this do ye; Take you waggons out of the land of Egypt for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father, and come.

Ver. 2. He wept aloud, &c.] It is moſt certain, that the leſſer ſorrows are more outwardly expreſſed, but the greater, aſtoniſh and ſtupify, render the body oft-times motionleſs, and the tongue ſpeechleſs. Ver. 3. Doth my father yet live?] The firſt thing he enquires after, when he had made himſelf known, was his father; thereby expreſſing his filial piety. Honour thy father and thy mother, ſays the Divine command, that thy days may be long in the land.

21 And the children of Iſrael did ſo: and Joſeph gave them waggons, according to the commandment of Pharaoh, and gave them proviſion for the way.

22 To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment: but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of ſilver, and five changes of raiment.

23 And to his father he ſent after this manner; ten aſſes laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten ſhe-aſſes laden with corn and bread and meat for his father by the way.

24 So he ſent his brethren away, and they departed: and he ſaid unto them, See that ye fall not out by the way.

25 ¶ And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father, 26 And told him, ſaying, Joſeph is yet alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt. And Jacobs heart fainted, for he believed them not.

27 And they told him all the words of Joſeph, which he had ſaid unto them: and when he ſaw the waggons which Joſeph had ſent to carry him, the ſpirit of Jacob their father revived.

AND Iſrael took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beer-ſheba, and offered ſacrifices unto the God of his father Iſaac.

2 And God ſpake unto Iſrael in the viſions of the night, and ſaid, Jacob, Jacob: And he ſaid, Here am I.

3 And he ſaid, I am God, the God of thy father: fear not to go down into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation.

4 I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will alſo ſurely bring thee up again: and Joſeph ſhall put his hand upon thine eyes.

5 And Jacob roſe up from Beer-ſheba: and the ſons of Iſrael carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the waggons which Pharaoh had ſent to carry him.

Ver. 28. It is enough.] It was ſufficient, that his ſon, (who to him was dead) was now alive again; all his pomp and glory in the land of Egypt could add nothing to this happineſs, of his being yet in the land of the living.

NOTES on Chap. XLVI.

Ver. 1. Beer-ſheba.] Here Abraham had formerly planted a grove, and Iſaac erected an altar; and now Jacob makes choice of the ſame place, for the worſhip of God, it being conſecrated by his fore-fathers.

Ver. 3. Fear not to go down, &c.] There were ſeveral reaſons, that might diſcourage Jacob from purſuing his journey into Egypt; or at leaſt that might make him fear the conſequences. Firſt, Abraham had been injured there, Gen. xii. 15. Secondly, God had forbidden Iſaac, in a time of the like dearth, to go thither, Gen. xxvi. 2. Thirdly, Canaan was become, as it were, Jacob's native country. And laſtly, it was foretold to his grandfather, that his ſeed ſhould be a ſtranger in a land that was not theirs, and ſhould ſerve them, and they ſhould afflict them four hundred years.

Ver. 4. I will go down with thee.] I will attend you with my good providence, which ſhall direct both you and yours, and in due time ſhall bring forth thy poſterity from among that people.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 Joſeph preſenteth five of his brethren, 7 and his father before Pharaoh: 11 He giveth them habitation and maintenance: 13 He getteth all the Egyptians money, 16 their cattle, 18 their lands to Pharaoh. 22 The prieſts land was not bought: 23 He letteth the land to them for a fifth part. 28 Jacobs age: 29 He ſweareth Joſeph to bury him with his fathers.

THEN Joſeph came and told Pharaoh, and ſaid, My father and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and behold, they are in the land of Goſhen. Before Christ 1706.

2 And he took ſome of his brethren, even five men, and preſented them unto Pharaoh.

3 And Pharaoh ſaid unto his brethren, What is your occupation? And they ſaid unto Pharaoh, Thy ſervants are ſhepherds, both we and alſo our fathers.

4 They ſaid moreover unto Pharaoh, For to ſojourn in the land are we come: for thy ſervants have no paſture for their flocks, for the famine is ſore in the land of Canaan: now therefore, we pray thee, let thy ſervants dwell in the land of Goſhen.

5 And Pharaoh ſpake unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee:

6 The land of Egypt is before thee; in the beſt of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell, in the land of Goſhen let them dwell: and if thou knoweſt any man of activity amongſt them, then make them rulers over my cattle.

7 And Joſeph brought in Jacob his father, and ſet him before Pharaoh: and Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh.

8 And Pharaoh ſaid unto Jacob, How old art thou?

9 And

Ver. 34. An abomination unto the Egyptians.] For what reaſons perſons of this profeſſion were ſo abominated by them, we cannot underſtand; ſome think, it was on account that ſhepherds, in thoſe days, were addicted to robbery; others, becauſe they had been ſufferers by the Phœnician ſhepherds, who penetrated Egypt, deſtroyed their cities and temples, and murdered the inhabitants: Or elſe, that thoſe ſhepherds are here meant, who eat fleſh; the Egyptians only grazing cattle for their wool, milk, &c. Whatever were the reaſons, Joſeph adviſed his father to make this confeſſion; that ſo they might enjoy a place ſeparate to themſelves, and be ſevered from the corruptions of the Egyptians.

NOTES on Chap. XLVII.

Ver. 3. Both we and alſo our fathers.] An employ to which we were bred by our anceſtors, who followed the ſame.

Ver. 6. Make them rulers over my cattle.] It is plain, that as they fed cattle themſelves, their hatred to ſhepherds was not general, but particular; and for ſome reaſons, they might have had a peculiar averſion to thoſe of Arabia, Phœnicia, Ethiopia, and other bordering nations. It is to be noted, that the princes of the Eaſt, raiſed a great part of their revenue from cattle, and placed officers over the inferior ſhepherds, to ſuper-intend them.

Before Chriſt 1706. 9 And Jacob ſaid unto Pharaoh, The days of the years of my pilgrimage are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage.

10 And Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

11 ¶ And Joſeph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a poſſeſſion in the land of Egypt, in the beſt of the land, in the land of Rameſes, as Pharaoh had commanded.

12 And Joſeph nouriſhed his father, and his brethren, and all his fathers houſhold with bread, according to their families.

13 ¶ And there was no bread in all the land: for the famine was very ſore, ſo that the land of Egypt, and all the land of Canaan, fainted by reaſon of the famine.

14 And Joſeph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joſeph brought the money into Pharaohs houſe.

1702. 15 And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joſeph, and ſaid, Give us bread: for why ſhould we die in thy preſence? for the money faileth.

16 And Joſeph ſaid, Give your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if money fail.

17 And they brought their cattle unto Joſeph: and Joſeph gave them bread in exchange for horſes, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of the herds, and for the aſſes; and he fed them with bread, for all their cattle, for that year. Before Chriſt 1702.

18 When that year was ended, they came unto him the ſecond year, and ſaid unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is ſpent; my lord alſo hath our herds of cattle: there is not ought left in the ſight of my lord, but our bodies, and our lands.

19 Wherefore ſhall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be ſervants unto Pharaoh: and give us ſeed, that we may live and not die, that the land be not deſolate.

20 And Joſeph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians ſold every man his field, becauſe the famine prevailed over them: ſo the land became Pharaohs. 1701.

21 And as for the people, he removed them to cities from one end of the borders of Egypt, even to the other end thereof.

22 Only the land of the prieſts bought he not; for the prieſts had a portion aſſigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them; wherefore they ſold not their lands.

Ver. 9. Of my pilgrimage.] Life is here, properly repreſented as a pilgrimage. This world affords us no conſtant place of abode: We wander up and down in it like ſtrangers, who have loſt their home. It hath likewiſe been compared to an inn, in which we continue a ſhort time to refreſh ourſelves, as we travel on our road to heaven, our native country.

Few and evil, &c.] What then ſhall we call our lives, which are much ſhorter? The patriarch lived one hundred and thirty years; whereas the days of our years are but three, or at the moſt, fourſcore, as the Pſalmiſt obſerves; and even thoſe are ſhortened by the reigning luxury and exceſs. So that few and evil indeed, are the lives of moſt men now.

Ver. 11. Rameſes.] So called, either from a king of that name, who reigned over this country; or, as others are of opinion, from a city, which was afterwards built by the Hebrews, for Pharaoh. It was a part of Goſhen.

Ver. 21. He removed them, &c.] That ſo the ancient owners, being far ſeparated from each other, there might be no combination in after times, to regain the lands which they had formerly ſold.

Ver. 22. The land of the prieſts bought he not.] They had their maintenance conſtantly from the king, and therefore needed not to ſell their lands, which were given to them purpoſely for the ſupport of their dignity.

Ver. 23. Behold, I have bought you, &c.] Though he cer-

24 And it ſhall come to paſs in the increaſe, that you ſhall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts ſhall be your own, for ſeed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your houſholds, and for food for your little ones.

25 And they ſaid, Thou haſt ſaved our lives: let us find grace in the ſight of my lord, and we will be Pharaohs ſervants.

26 And Joſeph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh ſhould have the fifth part; except the land of the prieſts only, which became not Pharaohs.

27 ¶ And Iſrael dwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goſhen; and they had poſſeſſions therein, and grew, and multiplied exceedingly.

28 And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt ſeventeen years: ſo the whole age of Jacob was an hundred forty and ſeven years.

29 And the time drew nigh that Iſrael muſt die: and he called his ſon Joſeph, and ſaid unto him, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, and deal kindly and truly with me; bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt.

30 But I will lie with my fathers, and thou ſhalt carry me out of Egypt, and bury me in their burying-place. And he ſaid, I will do as thou haſt ſaid. Before Chriſt 1689.

31 And he ſaid, Swear unto me: And he ſware unto him. And Iſrael bowed himſelf upon the beds head.

certainly had a right to inſiſt upon the performance of the contract; yet he generouſly beſtowed upon them their freedom, and their eſtates.

Here is ſeed for you, &c.] As this was the laſt year of the famine, he gave them corn ſufficient to ſow their land, as well as for food. In the firſt ſix years, there was neither ſowing nor reaping.

Ver. 24. The fifth part unto Pharaoh.] He only laid this tax on them, for the ſupport of the Egyptian government, and as a tribute of their vaſſallage.

Ver. 29. Put—thy hand under my thigh.] Jacob had no doubt within himſelf, but his ſon Joſeph would perform his deſire; but that being bound by the obligation of an oath, he might the more eaſily perſuade Pharaoh to a compliance with his requeſt.

Ver. 31. Upon his bed's head.] This word, ſignifies alſo the top or extremity of a ſtaff; accordingly, it is here rendered by the ſeptuagint; he worſhipped, or leaned upon the top of his ſtaff. This then appears to have been an act of religious worſhip, by which the patriarch returned God thanks for all bleſſings, and the aſſurance of the accompliſhment of the Divine promiſe in his poſterity.

NOTES on Chap. XLVIII.

Ver. 2. Iſraelt ſtrengthened himſelf.] There are a great many inſtances in hiſtory, concerning the wonderful effects of joy upon the human frame.

Ver. 5. Are mine.] That is, like mine own children, they in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine: as Reuben and Simeon, they ſhall be mine.

6 And thy iſſue which thou begetteſt after them, ſhall be thine, and ſhall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance.

7 And as for me, when I came from Padan, Rachel died by me in the land of Canaan, in the way, when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath, the ſame is Beth-lehem.

8 And Iſrael beheld Joſephs ſons, and ſaid, Who are theſe?

9 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, They are my ſons, whom God hath given me in this place: And he ſaid, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bleſs them.

10 (Now the eyes of Iſrael were dim for age, ſo that he could not ſee:) And he brought them near unto him; and he kiſſed them, and embraced them.

11 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, I had not thought to ſee thy face: and lo, God hath ſhewed me alſo thy ſeed.

12 And Joſeph brought them out from betwen his knees, and he bowed himſelf with his face to the earth.

14 And Iſrael ſtretched out his right hand, and laid it upon Ephraims head, who was the younger, and his left hand upon Manaſſehs head: guiding his hands wittingly; for Manaſſeh was the firſt-born.

15 ¶ And he bleſſed Joſeph, and ſaid, God, before whom my fathers Abraham and Iſaac did walk, the God which fed me all my life long unto this day,

16 The Angel which redeemed me from all evil, bleſs the lads; and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Iſaac: and let them grow into a multitude in the midſt of the earth.

17 And when Joſeph ſaw that his father laid his right hand upon the head of Ephraim, it diſpleaſed him: and he held up his fathers hand, to remove it from Ephraims head unto Manaſſehs head.

18 And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, Not ſo, my father: for this is the firſt-born; put thy right hand upon his head.

19 And his father refuſed, and ſaid, I know it, my ſon, I know it; he alſo ſhall become a people, and he alſo ſhall be great: but truly his younger brother ſhall be greater than he, and his ſeed ſhall become a multitude of nations.

20 And

they ſhall become the heads of two diſtinct tribes; accordingly, he gave them a double portion in the diviſion of the Promiſed Land.

Ver. 6. Shall be thine.] The other children, which might be born to Joſeph after Jacob's arrival in Egypt, were to have only the portion of grandchildren.

After the name of their brethren.] They ſhall not be diſtinct tribes, but ſhall be included in the inheritance of Ephraim and Manaſſeh.

Ver. 7. Rachel died.] It ſeems as if Jacob adopted theſe two grandchildren, Ephraim and Manaſſeh, in honour to his wife's memory.

Ver. 8. Who are theſe?] Jacob had diſcourſed of them hitherto as abſent, his ſight being ſo very dim he did not perceive them.

Ver. 14. And laid it upon Ephraim's head.] This cuſtom always continued among the Hebrews; and from them was derived to us Chriſtians, who uſe this ceremony of laying on of hands in ordinations, benedictions, and conſecrations.

Guiding his hands wittingly.] Or knowingly, and not by miſtake; for he foreſaw by the ſpirit of prophecy, how much Ephraim would excel Manaſſeh.

Ver. 16. The angel.] The word angel, in the original Hebrew, ſignifies a meſſenger; ſome think therefore, it was the Meſſiah, who is termed the meſſenger of the covenant, Mal. iii. 1.

Ver. 19. Shall be greater than he.] Theſe, among others, are inſtances of Ephraims pre-eminence. His children were numbered eight thouſand three hundred more than Manaſſeh's; and in encamping about the tabernacle of the Lord, he was ſet before him, and diſtinguiſhed, by having the ſtandard.

Before Chriſt 1689.

20 And he bleſſed them that day, ſaying, In thee ſhall Iſrael bleſs, ſaying, God make thee as Ephraim, and as Manaſſeh: and he ſet Ephraim before Manaſſeh.

21 And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Behold, I die; but God ſhall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers.

22 Moreover, I have given to thee one portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of the Amorite with my ſword and with my bow.

CHAP. XLIX.

1 Jacob calleth his ſons to bleſs them. 3 Their bleſſing in particular: 29 He chargeth them about his burial: 33 He dieth.

AND Jacob called unto his ſons, and ſaid, Gather yourſelves together, that I may tell you that which ſhall befal you in the laſt days.

2 Gather yourſelves together, and hear, ye ſons of Jacob; and hearken unto Iſrael your father.

Before Chriſt 1689.

3 ¶ Reuben, thou art my firſt-born, my might, and the beginning of my ſtrength, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power.

4 Unſtable as water, thou ſhalt not excel, becauſe thou wenteſt up to thy fathers bed: then defiledſt thou it; he went up to my couch.

5 ¶ Simeon and Levi are brethren: inſtruments of cruelty are in their habitations.

6 O my ſoul, come not thou into their ſecret; unto their aſſembly, mine honour, be not thou united: for in their anger they ſlew a man, and in their ſelfwill they digged down a wall.

7 Curſed be their anger, for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel: I will divide them in Jacob, and ſcatter them in Iſrael.

8 ¶ Judah

Ver. 20. In thee ſhall Iſrael bleſs.] Such ſhall be the proſperity of theſe two tribes, that it ſhall hereafter become a proverbial form of wiſhing proſperity; God make you as happy as Ephraim and Manaſſeh.

Ver. 22. One portion above thy brethren.] This we are to underſtand of the land which he bought of Hamor, the father of Shechem, and prince of the country.

Which I took.] It is conjectured that when he removed to another part of the land of Canaan, the Amorites ſeized upon it in his abſence, and would not reſtore it; but that he was forced to recover it by force. Though ſome underſtand the phraſe in a prophetic ſenſe, and read the future for the preter-imperfect, thus; which I ſhall take, forſeeing the Ephraimites would help to conquer the land; to whoſe inheritance that country was to fall.

Notes on Chap. XLIX.

Ver. 1. Which ſhall befal you in the laſt days.] By this, is to be underſtood a remote period of time. He addreſſes his ſons as the chiefs of families, and not as individuals: ſo that what he here utters by the ſpirit of prophecy, relates to them collectively, as a people.

Ver. 3. Thou art my firſt-born, &c.] Reuben had juſtly forfeited the right of primogeniture by his unnatural crime of inceſt.

Ver. 4. Unſtable as water.] As prone to flow as water that is poured out, and tends downward; ſo ſhalt thou fall; and inſtead of enjoying ſuperior privileges, thou ſhalt ſink into a level with the reſt of thy brethren.

Thou ſhalt not excel.] Accordingly, nothing great is recorded of this tribe, which continued obſcure; whilſt the prerogatives of birthright deſcended to the younger families. Levi enjoyed the prieſthood, Judah the government, and Joſeph had the double portion.

He went up to my couch.] This is a figure in ſpeech, called, Apoſtrophe; and is one, among the many beauties in writing, which we meet with in this chapter: Jacob, fired with indignation at the recollection of Reuben's crime, turns from him, and addreſſes himſelf to his other ſons.

Ver. 5. Are brethren.] Not only the children of one mother, but brethren in their cruelty; and whoſe manners and diſpoſitions are ſimilar.

Ver 6. Unto their aſſembly, mine honour, be not thou united:] According to Grotius, the meaning is; I have not ſtained my reputation by conſenting to, or being an accomplice in their conſpiracy and maſſacre.

Slew a man.] It ſhould be in the plural, men; ſo the Greek reads it. It relates to the murder of the Shechemites.

Digged down a wall.] The Hebrew word SHOR, may be rendered an enemy, as well as a wall; and then it will be, in their fury, or unruly paſſion, they digged down, or, as the original ſignifies, extirpated the enemy.

Ver. 7. Curſed be their anger.] It may be obſerved, that the execration is thrown out, not againſt the perſons of his ſons, but againſt their cruel paſſions.

I will divide them in Jacob.] This was eminently fulfilled; for the tribe of Levi, had no portion or inheritance to themſelves, but were diſperſed among the other tribes, and had a certain number of cities in each. And that of Simeon, had only a portion of Judah's inheritance; inſomuch, that they were obliged to go in ſearch of an habitation, as far as Mount Seir, and the valley of Gedor, and ſo were divided from the reſt, 1 Chr. iv. 39. There is a tradition among the Jews, that the tribe of Simeon were ſo ſtraitened in circumſtances, that they were obliged to ſeek a ſubſiſtence among the other tribes, by inſtructing their children.

Ver. 8. Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren ſhall praiſe.] The ſignification of Judah, is praiſe, and therefore the patriarch alludes to his name. Kidder takes notice, that the word Joduka, for ſhall praiſe, may be rendered, ſhall confeſs thee; and thinks this prophecy was fulfilled in the nation, being named Jews, and the whole country Judea, from Judah.

Thy hand ſhall be in the neck, &c.] That is, thou ſhalt ſurpaſs the reſt in warlike exploits, and ſhalt prevail over thine enemies.

Thy fathers children ſhall bow down.] This was fulfilled, when God choſe David out of this tribe, and ſettled the ſucceſſion in his family; but more remarkably, in the Meſſiah's being born of it, the great king of kings, to whom every knee ſhall bow.

Ver. 9. A lion's whelp,—a lion,—an old lion.] Here is a fine and regular gradation, expreſſing the beginning, the increaſe, and heighth of power. The firſt compariſon to a lions whelp, fills the mind with terror; but the next, viz. a grown lion, appears ſtill more terrible; and that of a lioneſs, (which is the meaning of the word Labi, tranſlated an old lion, and is conſiderably fiercer than the male) conveys a ſtill greater degree of terror. We find the tribe of Judah, diſtinguiſhed by its valour, leading the van in the Iſraelitiſh army, and the firſt that poſſeſſed the land of Canaan.

From the prey,—thou art gone up.] The patriarch ſeems to have the accompliſhment of this prediction before his eyes, and ſo ſpeaks of it, though future, as a thing paſt. This is a beautiful metaphor, in alluſion to lions, which after they have ſatiated themſelves with their prey in the vallies, retire to the mountains: So, ſays he, ſhall Judah return triumphing, and laden with the ſpoils of his enemies.

Who ſhall rouſe him up?] There will be leſs danger to provoke the rage of a ſlumbering lion, than to diſturb the quiet of this tribe.

Ver. 10. The ſcepter ſhall not depart, &c.] The word ſcepter, in this place, is not meant as an emblem of Judah's power and dominion over all the tribes of Iſrael; for there was a prince, or chief, of every tribe, who judged his own people; therefore each had a ſcepter, and a law-giver, as well as Judah: But the true meaning is, that the ſceptre, i. e. the power and dominion of Judah's tribe, ſhould not ceaſe until the latter times, but ſhould continue longer than any of the reſt.

Nor a lawgiver.] A governor. The ſenſe of the prophecy ſeems to be this, that there ſhould be either kings or governors, continued in the tribe of Judah, even till the coming of the Meſſiah. Which was literally true; for from the days of Saul to the Babyloniſh captivity, they maintained the ſcepter more than five ages; and again, after ſeventy years captivity (for we are not to underſtand it of an entire and uninterrupted dominion, but one which after a ſhort ceſſation, ſhould be again recovered) they lived by their own laws, and in their own country. In the Perſian, Grecian, Egyptian, and Roman conqueſts, though they were under the empire of others, yet they had governors of their own, who adminſtered their affairs, even till their city and temple were laid waſte by Titus Veſpaſian.

From between his feet.] The word feet, have been made to ſignify the extremity; and ſo is to be underſtood of the lateſt poſterity, and the time when this ſtate and commonwealth ſhould be drawing to a concluſion.

Shiloh.] This word has been rendered ſeveral ways. Some underſtand by it Pacificus, the peace-maker; ſome Mittendus, the perſon to be ſent; and others Filius ejus, his ſon; all which plainly refer to the Meſſiah, and the moſt ancient Jewiſh doctors have appropriated the term Shiloh to him.

Unto him ſhall the gathering of the people be.] When Shiloh, (Meſſiah) is come, all nations ſhall be obedient to him, and ſerve him, and there ſhall be no more difference between Jew and Gentile. Then ſhall the partition wall be broken down, and the Jews, having loſt all form of government, and having neither king nor commonwealth among them, both ſhall become one flock, under one ſhepherd, Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 11. Binding his fole unto the vine, &c.] The different expreſſions in this verſe, are only made uſe of to deſcribe the fertility of the land which fell to Judah's ſhare; and to indicate, that vines were ſo plenty there, they ſhould tie their aſſes with their foles, to them. We read of a ſingle bunch of grapes brought from the valley of Eſhcol, ſo large as to require the aſſiſtance of two men to carry it. See Numb. xiii. 23.

Ver. 13. Zebulun.] It is obſervable, that Zebulun was was younger than Iſſachar, and yet the patriarch bleſſes him firſt; perhaps this preference, might be on account that his lot was the principal reſidence of the Meſſiah, who dwelt at Nazareth, a city in this tribe; and who, from thence, was denominated a Nazarene.

At the haven of the ſea.] Thus did Jacob, directed by the divinity, deſcribe exactly, Zebulun's lot in the land of Canaan, two hundred years before it was determined. It was extended from the Mediterranean ſea on the weſt, to the lake of Genneſareth on the eaſt, in which were many commodious havens for ſhipping.

Ver. 14. Iſſachar is a ſtrong aſs.] In the Hebrew, an aſs of bone. To deſcribe his great ſtrength. The aſs was in thoſe countries employed in labour, and is here uſed as a proper ſymbol of agriculture. It ſignifies, that Iſſachar's poſterity ſhould purſue tillage and huſbandry.

Couching down between, &c.] This is a repreſentation of the paſſive and indolent temper of this tribe; for they would rather ſubmit to the heavieſt taxes and impoſitions, than part with their quiet by engaging in war.

Ver. 15. Became a ſervant unto tribute.] Fulfilled in the time of the judges, when the Iſraelites became tributary to the neighbouring princes, and particularly Iſſachar's poſterity, which was in poſſeſſion of one of the moſt fertile tracts of Canaan.

Ver. 16. Dan ſhall judge his people, &c.] Dan ſignifies judging, and the meaning is, that notwithſtanding he was the ſon of a concubine, and for that reaſon inferior to his brethren, nevertheleſs, his poſterity ſhould be governed by an head of their own tribe, even as the reſt. So that Jacob took away all diſtinction between the ſons of his concubines, and thoſe of his wives, Leah and Rachel.

Ver. 17. A ſerpent by the way, &c.] The ſerpent is conſidered as an emblem of ſubtilty; therefore it is intimated here, that the Danites ſhould be remarkable for warlike ſtratagems, and that they ſhould defeat their enemies, more by policy, than open force. See inſtances of this, Judges xviii. 27.

An adder in the path; that biteth, &c.] The word Nachaſh will ſignify any kind of ſerpent; but Shiphiphin, tranſlated adder may be rendered the Ceraſtes, which conceals itſelf in the ſand, and ſuddenly ſprings on its prey.

Ver. 18. I have waited for thy ſalvation, O Lord.] The patriarch perceiving his approaching death, and that his ſpirits began to fail him, in the midſt of his ſpeech breaks out into this exclamation; which, according to all, both Jewiſh and Chriſtian commentators, has a reſpect to the ſalvation of mankind by Chriſt.

Ver. 19. Gad, a troop ſhall overcome him.] As the word Gad ſignifies a troop, Jacob ſpeaks in alluſion to it. This prophecy was fulfilled, Gad's lot being on the other ſide Jordan, in a frontier country, his poſterity were continually expoſed to the incurſions of the Ammonites, who encamped in Gilead.

He ſhall overcome at the laſt.] Theſe enemies were ſubdued by Jeptha, and ſome conſiderable time after that, by the aſſiſtance of Reuben and Manaſſeh, they gained a compleat victory over the Hagarenes and Arabs. In one battle, they took 50,000 camels, 250,000 ſheep, and 2000 aſſes, beſides 100,000 priſoners.

Ver. 20. Aſher, his bread ſhall be fat, &c.] That tract of land inhabited by the poſterity of Aſher, abounded with all ſorts of proviſions neceſſary for human life; the choiceſt fruits, and the moſt luxuriant productions of the earth. It was particularly remarkable for delicious oil, and producing the beſt corn in Paleſtine.

Ver. 21. Naphtali is an hind let looſe: he giveth, &c.] It is the nature of the hind to rove at large, and when at any time he eſcapes the toils, to run over the plains with great ſwiftneſs and impetuoſity. It has been thought, therefore, to denote in this tribe, a ſpirit of liberty and freedom; but then, there is a great inconſiſtency in what follows, viz. An hind's giving goodly words. Now, the word Ailah, tranſlated an hind, ſignifies a great tree, and goodly words, may be rendered its pleaſant branches; and then it will be a ſymbol of prolification, and this ſenſe of the prophecy will be verified; for Naphtali had but four ſons when he came into Egypt, and in leſs than two hundred and twenty years, they increaſed to the number of 53,000. See Numb. i. 42.

Ver. 22. Joſeph is a fruitful bough.] From him deſcended two tribes, and both remarkable for their popularity.

By a well.] In a well watered ſoil.

Ver. 23. The archers, &c.] His brethren, by whom he was ſold; his miſtreſs, by whom he was tempted, and falſely accuſed; and his maſter, by whom he was impriſoned and fettered.

24 But his bow abode in ſtrength, and the arms of his hands were made ſtrong, by the hands of the mighty God of Jacob: from thence is the ſhepherd, the ſtone of Iſrael.

25 Even by the God of thy father, who ſhall help thee, and by the Almighty, who ſhall bleſs thee with bleſſings of heaven above, bleſſings of the deep that lieth under, bleſſings of the breaſts, and of the womb.

26 The bleſſings of thy father have prevailed above the bleſſings of my progenitors, unto the utmoſt bound of the everlaſting hills; they ſhall be on the head of Joſeph, and on the crown of the head of him that was ſeparate from his brethren.

27 ¶ Benjamin ſhall ravin as a wolf: in the morning he ſhall devour the prey, and at night he ſhall divide the ſpoil.

28 ¶ All theſe are the twelve tribes of Iſrael: and this is it that their father ſpake unto them, and bleſſed them; every one according to his bleſſing he bleſſed them.

29 And he charged them, and ſaid unto them, I am to be gathered unto my people: bury me with my fathers, in the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite,

30 In the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite, for a poſſeſſion of a buryingplace.

31 (There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife; there they buried Iſaac and Rebekah his wife; and there I buried Leah.)

32 The purchaſe of the field and of the cave that is therein, was from the children of Heth.

33 And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his ſons, he gathered up his feet into the bed, and yielded up the ghoſt, and was gathered unto his people.

Ver. 24. His bow abode in ſtrength, &c.] Like the tough bow, which, though it has been long uſed in battle, continues the ſame; ſo he ſuſtained all the ſhocks of his enemies, with a manly fortitude and reſolution.

Thence is the ſhepherd, the ſtone, &c.] This is a thankful recognition of Joſeph's kindneſs to his father, and his family, in providing them with corn in the time of famine, and ſupporting them in the land of Canaan; even as a ſhepherd does his ſheep, thereby becoming the foundation ſtone, or, as it were, the baſis of the houſe of Jacob.

Ver. 25. By the God.] It may be rendered, from the God; to ſhew that theſe bleſſings proceeded from Divine providence.

Bleſſings of the deep.] Viz. ſprings and rivers.

Ver. 26. The bleſſings of thy father have prevailed, &c.] I have been more liberal in my bleſſings to thy children, than my progenitors were to theirs; and may they all, both thoſe promiſed to me and my forefathers, be doubled upon Joſeph's head.

Unto the utmoſt bound of the everlaſting hills.] May theſe bleſſings endure, as long as the hills endure.

Ver. 27. Benjamin ſhall ravin as a wolf.] He is compared to a ravenous wolf, and that, on account of his fierce and warlike diſpoſition. We find that the tribe of Benjamin maintained a war alone, with all the other tribes, and overcame them, though they had ſixteen to one; farther, we are told, there were ſeven hundred choſen men among them, left-handed, every one of whom could fling ſtones to an hair's breadth, and not miſs. In the long oppoſition, which the houſe of Saul, who was deſcended from this tribe, made againſt David's acceſſion to the throne, they could not be ſuppreſſed till Abner their general forſook them.

In the morning,—and at night, &c.] By the morning, is meant the beginning, and by the night, the end of the Jewiſh ſtate; conſequently the meaning is, that he ſhould continue till the final deſtruction of the Jewiſh polity; and ſo his poſterity did, for upon the diviſion of the kingdom after the death of Solomon, the tribe of Benjamin adhered to that of Judah, and continued till the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by the Romans; whereas the other ten tribes, were, for many years before, no longer a people.

Ver. 29. In the cave, &c.] In this and the next verſes, the patriarch is thus particular in his deſcription, that they might not miſtake the place; and that (as they had been abſent ſome years) they might, by theſe marks, ſhew their title to it, in caſe it had been diſputed.

Ver. 33. Gathered up his feet.] He pronounced theſe bene-

4 And when the days of his mourning were paſt, Joſeph ſpake unto the houſe of Pharaoh, ſaying, If now I have found grace in your eyes, ſpeak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, ſaying,

NOTES on Chap. L.

Ver. 1. Kiſſed him.] After he had cloſed his father's eyes, as God had promiſed to Jacob; he then (as was the cuſtom) parted from him with a kiſs.

Ver. 2. His ſervants the phyſicians.] In Egypt, (as Herodotus informs us) every diſtemper had its peculiar phyſician, conſequently, every great family, as well as city, ſwarmed with the faculty.

To embalm.] The Egyptians excelled all others in the art of embalming human bodies; many of them remain to this day, under the name of Mummies. It was performed in this manner: They drew out the brains through the noſtrils, with a crooked iron inſtrument, and filled the vacancy with ſpices; after that, they made an inciſion on the left ſide of the belly, taking out all the inteſtines, except the heart and kidneys; the entrails were cleaned and waſhed, with Palm wine, and perfumed with aromatic odours: Then the belly was filled with pounded myrrh, caſſia, and other odoriferous drugs, and the inciſion ſewed up. After the former operation, to compleat the proceſs of embalming, the body was laid in nitre, the uſe of which was to dry up the ſuperfluous moiſture; or elſe, it was carefully anointed with oil of cedar, and other ointments. Then they waſhed it all over, binding fillets of fine linnen round every part, that were dipped in myrrh, and covered with a certain gum, which the Egyptians uſed inſtead of glue. The time of mourning, was ſo long as the body remained with the embalmers, in the whole threeſcore and ten days.

Ver. 4. Spake unto the houſe of Pharaoh.] To the great officers of the court; for mourners, according to the eaſtern cuſtom, never entered into the royal preſence.

Ver. 9. A very great company.] The pomp and magnificence of Jacob's funeral has ſcarce a parallel in hiſtory. Here were for mourners, a great part of the officers of Pharaoh's court, the deputies of his provinces, all the houſe of Joſeph, his brethren, and his father's houſe, and a number of guards, for ſtate and defence; and the whole conducted for near three hundred miles.

Ver. 10. The threſhing floor of Atad.] Atad ſignifies brambles, and accordingly the Arabic tranſlates it the threſhing-floor of brambles. It is ſuppoſed to be ſituated about two leagues from Jericho, and about fifty miles diſtant from Hebron.

Which is beyond Jordan.] That is, in reſpect to the place where Moſes was when he wrote this hiſtory, which was in Arabia, on the eaſt ſide of this river; conſequently Atad is on the weſt.

Before Chriſt 1689.

11 And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, ſaw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they ſaid, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called Abel-mizraim, which is beyond Jordan.

12 And his ſons did unto him according as he commanded them.

13 For his ſons carried him into the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah which Abraham bought with the field for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place, of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre.

14 ¶ And Joſeph returned into Egypt, he and his brethren, and all that went up with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

15 ¶ And when Joſephs brethren ſaw that their father was dead, they ſaid, Joſeph will peradventure hate us, and will certainly requite us all the evil which we did unto him.

16 And they ſent meſſengers unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father did command before he died, ſaying, 17 So ſhall ye ſay unto Joſeph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the treſpaſs of thy brethren, and their ſin; for they did unto thee evil. And now, we pray thee, forgive the treſpaſs of the ſervants of the God of thy father. And Joſeph wept when they ſpake unto him.

Before Chriſt 1689.

18 And his brethren alſo went and fell down before his face: and they ſaid, Behold, we be thy ſervants.

19 And Joſeph ſaid unto them, Fear not: for am I in the place of God?

20 But as for you, ye thought evil againſt me; but God meant it unto good, to bring to paſs, as it is this day, to ſave much people alive.

21 Now therefore fear ye not: I will nouriſh you, and your little ones. And he comforted them, and ſpake kindly unto them.

22 ¶ And Joſeph dwelt in Egypt, he and his fathers houſe: and Joſeph lived an hundred and ten years. 1635.

23 And Joſeph ſaw Ephraims children, of the third generation: the children alſo of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, were brought up upon Joſephs knees.

24 And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, I die: and God will ſurely viſit you, and bring you out of this land, unto the land which he ſware to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob.

25 And Joſeph took an oath of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, God will ſurely viſit you, and ye ſhall carry up my bones from hence.

26 So Joſeph died, being an hundred and ten years old: and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

There they mourned, &c.] The reaſon of their mourning in this place, is not here mentioned; perhaps it might be cuſtomary to fall into lamentations at the very entrance of the country where the corps was to be interred.

Seven days.] This was the time of mourning among the Jews, in after-times. Eccluſ. xxii. 12.

Ver. 11. Abel Mizraim.] That is, the mourning of the Egyptians.

Ver. 19. Am I in the place of God?] Theſe words may be rendered poſitively, I am in the place of God, an inſtrument under him, to ſupport and preſerve you; and is it poſſible you can entertain ſuch thoughts of me, that I bear malice in my heart; or that I ſhall now go to be revenged on you, after my father's death?

Ver. 24. Viſit you] Meaning in mercy.

Ver. 25. Carry up my bones.] He was ſo confident that God would give them Canaan, that made him requeſt this; and accordingly, when they went thither, they depoſited his bones in Shechem, with the reſt of the patriarchs.

Ver. 26. A coffin.] Undoubtedly one of thoſe, in which bodies embalmed were depoſited, called Thecai. They were made in the ſhape of a man, and placed in cells, reared up an end againſt the wall.

The Second BOOK of MOSES,

CALLED

EXODUS.

The ARGUMENT.

The principal ſubject of this book, is the departure of the Iſraelites out of Egypt; hence it has taken the name of Exodus, form the Greek Word Ex out, and Odos, a way: in Hebrew, it is called Veeleh Shemoth, from the two firſt words with which it begins. It comprehends in the whole, about the ſpace of one hundred and forty five years.

CHAP. I.

1 The children of Iſrael after Joſephs death do multiply, &c.

Before Chriſt 1706. NOW theſe are the names of the children of Iſrael, which came into Egypt; every man and his houſhold came with Jacob.

2 Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah,

3 Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin,

4 Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Aſher. Before Chriſt 1635.

5 And all the ſouls that came out of the loins of Jacob, were ſeventy ſouls: for Joſeph was in Egypt already.

6 And Joſeph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation.

7 ¶ And the children of Iſrael were fruitful, and increaſed abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty; and the land was filled with them.

8 Now there aroſe up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joſeph.

Notes on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. Theſe are the names, &c.] Moſes here gives an account of the number of perſons who came into Egypt; to demonſtrate, that God had fulfilled his promiſe made to Abraham, of multiplying his ſeed.

Ver. 6. Joſeph died, and all his brethren, &c.] If it be conſidered that Levi and Amram lived one hundred and thirty ſeven years, it will be found that a long ſpace of time muſt be underſtood.

Ver. 8. Which knew not Joſeph.] Who did not at all eſteem him, or entertain any grateful remembrance of his paſt ſervices.

Before Christ 1635. 9 And he ſaid unto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Iſrael are more and mightier than we.

10 Come on, let us deal wiſely with them: leſt they multiply, and it come to paſs, that when there falleth out any war, they join alſo unto our enemies, and fight againſt us, and ſo get them up out of the land.

11 Therefore they did ſet over them taſk-maſters, to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treaſure-cities, Pithom and Raamſes.

12 But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Iſrael to ſerve with rigour.

14 And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, in morter, and in brick, and in all manner of ſervice in the field: all their ſervice, wherein they made them ſerve, was with rigour.

15 And the king of Egypt ſpake to the Hebrew midwives (of which the name of one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah:)

16 And he ſaid, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and ſee them upon the ſtools; if it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him; but if it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall live. Before Chriſt 1635.

17 But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but ſaved the men-children alive.

18 And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and ſaid unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have ſaved the men-children alive?

19 And the midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women: for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them.

20 Therefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to paſs, becauſe the midwives feared God, that he made them houſes.

22 And Pharaoh charged all his people, 1573. ſaying, Every ſon that is born ye ſhall caſt into the river, and every daughter ye ſhall ſave alive.

CHAP.

Ver. 9. More and mightier than we.] Will be (in time to come) more numerous and powerful: Or, it may ſignify more prolific and healthy; the Egyptians living in luxury, whilſt the Iſraelites were inured to labour.

Ver. 10. Leſt—they join alſo unto our enemies, &c.] The Iſraelites conſidered themſelves only, as ſojourners; and it is natural to ſuppoſe, they had given frequent intimations of their deſign of leaving Egypt; which was, doubtleſs, the reaſon of this jealouſy in the king.

Ver. 11. To afflict them, &c.] As the Iſraelites were the choſen people of God, and ſince he is ſaid not to afflict willingly; we may preſume, that he thus chaſtiſed them with the rod of affliction, (for ſo he does every ſon whom he loves) as a puniſhment for ſome great and national crime; perhaps, for their neglect of the worſhip of the true God; or, a too great compliance with the idolatrous cuſtoms of the Egyptians.

Treaſure-cities.] Magazines for preſerving ſtores of corn, and alſo treaſuries for money.

Ver. 12. The more they afflicted them, the more, &c.] It is in vain to oppoſe the decrees of the Almighty; There is no wiſdom, nor counſel, nor underſtanding againſt the Lord. Prov. xxi. 30.

Ver. 15. Shiprah,—and Puah.] Theſe were two of the moſt eminent of the midwives, under whoſe direction, it is probable, the reſt acted.

Ver. 16. If it be a ſon, &c.] It was only from the males, that danger was apprehended.

Ver. 19. They are lively, &c.] The Hebrew women, being inured to toil and labour, were conſequently of a more robuſt and vigorous conſtitution, than the ſoft Egyptians.

Ver. 21. He made them houſes.] That which ſeems to be the moſt likely interpretation of this paſſage, is, that Pharaoh, reſolving to put a ſtop to the great increaſe of the Iſraelites, (finding, he could not have his orders concerning them ſtrictly executed, while they lived ſcattered up and down the fields, in tents) he built them houſes contiguous; that ſo, the perſons ſet to ſuperintend them, might know where to find every family, and take an account of the children that might be born. The word them, is in the original of the maſculine gender, and therefore cannot refer to the midwives.

Ver. 22. Pharaoh charged all his people, &c.] Finding he was diſappointed by the midwives, he iſſued out orders for all his ſubjects, to be the executioners of his cruel decree.

AND there went a man of the houſe of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi.

2 And the woman conceived, and bare a ſon: and when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, ſhe hid him three months.

3 And when ſhe could not longer hide him, ſhe took for him an ark of bulruſhes, and daubed it with ſlime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and ſhe laid it in the flags, by the rivers brink.

4 And his ſiſter ſtood afar off, to wit what would be done to him.

5 ¶ And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to waſh herſelf at the river; and her maidens walked along by the rivers ſide: and when ſhe ſaw the ark among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when ſhe had opened it, ſhe ſaw the child: and behold, the babe wept. And ſhe had compaſſion on him, and ſaid, This is one of the Hebrews children.

Before Chriſt 1571.

7 Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaohs daughter, Shall I go, and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhe may nurſe the child for thee?

8 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Go. And the maid went, and called the childs mother.

9 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid unto her, Take this child away, and nurſe it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nurſed it.

10 And the child grew, and ſhe brought him unto Pharaohs daughter, and he became her ſon. And ſhe called his name Moſes: and ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drew him out of the water.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs in thoſe days, when Moſes was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: and he ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

12 And he looked this way and that way, and when he ſaw that there was no man, he ſlew the Egyptian, and hid him in the ſand. 1531.

A daughter.] Jochebed. See Numb. xxvi. 59.

Ver. 2. Bare a ſon.] Moſes was not the firſt child; for both Miriam and Aaron were elder than he.

A goodly child, &c.] Joſephus tells us, he was remarkable for his ſize and beauty. Now it was cuſtomary amongſt the ancients to expoſe deformed children, though it is not to be imagined, that Moſes's mother would have expoſed him, had he been ſuch; but his beauty, no doubt, ſtrengthened her natural affection, and was an inducement to her, to intereſt herſelf in his preſervation.

Ver. 3. Bulruſhes.] Or rather a kind of flaggy ſhrub, called Papyrus, which grew in great plenty upon the banks of the river Nile.

She laid it in the flags, &c.] The Egyptians uſed to make boats of the papyrus, and it is probable, this ark of Moſes's was a kind of boat, and was intended (in caſe the ſtream had by any accident carried it away) to ſwim in the river.

Ver. 4. His ſiſter, &c.] Miriam, for we read of no other ſiſter. Numb. xxvi. 59.

Ver. 5. Daughter of Pharaoh.] Joſephus calls her name Thermuthis.

Ver. 9. Take this child away, and nurſe it for me.] How conſpicuous was the hand of providence in this affair! Had the child happened to have fallen into any other hand, he muſt have periſhed; but here God turned the heart of the enemy, who, unknowingly, put the expoſed infant to nurſe to his own mother.

Ver. 10. He became her ſon.] Joſephus informs us, that as he grew up, he diſcovered an uncommon genius; and Pharaoh's daughter ſhewed him great regard, adopting him for her own ſon, and giving him a princely education.

Moſes.] This name is ſaid to be derived from the Egyptian word Mo, water, and Iſes, or Yſes, preſerved; conſequently it ſignifies ſaved, or preſerved from the waters.

Ver. 11. Went out unto his brethren.] Forſook the pleaſures of the Egyptian court, and joined himſelf to his brethren; chuſing rather to ſuffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleaſures of ſin for a ſeaſon. Hebr. xi. 24, 25.

Ver. 12. He ſlew the Egyptian.] Philo relates, that this Before Chriſt 1531. day, behold, two men of the Hebrews ſtrove together: and he ſaid to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow?

14 And he ſaid, Who made thee a prince and a judge over us? intendeſt thou to kill me, as thou killedſt the Egyptian? And Moſes feared, and ſaid, Surely this thing is known.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he ſought to ſlay Moſes. But Moſes fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſat down by a well.

16 Now the prieſt of Midian had ſeven daughters: and they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their fathers flock.

17 And the ſhepherds came and drove them away: but Moſes ſtood up and helped them, and watered their flock.

18 And when they came to Reuel their father, he ſaid, How is it that you are come ſo ſoon to day?

19 And they ſaid, An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the ſhepherds, and alſo drew water enough for us, and watered the flock.

Before Chriſt 1531. 20 And he ſaid unto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye have left the man? Call him, that he may eat bread.

21 And Moſes was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter.

22 And ſhe bare him a ſon, and he called his name Gerſhom: for he ſaid, I have been a ſtranger in a ſtrange land.

23 ¶ And it came to paſs in proceſs of time, that the king of Egypt died, and the children of Iſrael ſighed by reaſon of the bondage, and they cried; and their cry came up unto God, by reaſon of the bondage.

24 And God heard their groaning, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Iſaac, and with Jacob.

25 And God looked upon the children of Iſrael, and God had reſpect unto them.

this Egyptian was one of the taſk-maſters, who fell unmercifully upon the Hebrew, becauſe he did not work ſo faſt as he required; and that he had almoſt beat him to death. It has been queſtioned, whether or no this action of Moſes was juſtifiable, and whether he ought not to have had recourſe to a public magiſtrate, for juſtice in this caſe; but if it be conſidered that the civil magiſtrate was himſelf become their oppreſſor, it is very unlikely he ſhould have found any redreſs that way; and ſeeing the ſociety were confederates in oppreſſion and injuſtice, it was lawful for him to uſe reſiſtance, even as againſt a band of robbers.

Ver. 15. The land of Midian.] This is ſuppoſed to be part of Arabia Petrea, bordering on Goſhen. In this deſert place, as in the ſchool of adverſity, he acquired virtues, which rendered him more capable of delivering his brethren; forgetting by degrees his former ſplendor, and the luxuries of a court.

Ver. 16. Prieſt of Midian.] The original will ſignify either a prieſt or prince; but the inſolence of the ſhepherds towards his daughter, ſeems to ſpeak him not the latter. If a prieſt, (as is moſt likely) he was undoubtedly a worſhipper of the true God; this may be inferred from Moſes's marrying his daughter, and inviting him to offer ſacrifices to the Lord. See Exod. xviii. 12. Some think he was deſcended from Midian, the ſon of Abraham, by Keturah.

Ver. 17. Drove them away.] There being great ſcarcity of water in thoſe countries, each ſhepherd endeavoured to get the firſt poſſeſſion of the wells, leſt there ſhould not be enough left for his cattle.

Ver. 18. Reuel.] He is alſo called Hobab, Ceni, and Jethro. See Numb. x. 29. Jud. i. 16. Exod. iii. 1.

Ver. 21. Gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter.] As it is probable, after he had been ſome time in the country, and had given proof of his virtues.

Ver. 22. Gerſhom.] That is, a ſtranger or alien.

Ver. 23. In proceſs of time.] That is, as St. Stephen counts, when forty years were expired. Acts vii. 30.

The king of Egypt.] His name was Rameſis, according to Uſher; who places his death in the year of the world 2494. His ſucceſſor's name was Amenophis, who was drowned in the Red ſea.

EXODUS. Chap: 3. Verſe, 2.

And the Angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a Flame of Fire out of the midst of the Bush

Before Christ 1491.

ſide of the deſart, and came to the mountain of God, even to Horeb.

2 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a flame of fire out of the midſt of a buſh: and he looked, and behold, the buſh burned with fire, and the buſh was not conſumed.

3 And Moſes ſaid, I will now turn aſide, and ſee this great ſight, why the buſh is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD ſaw that he turned aſide to ſee, God called unto him out of the midſt of the buſh, and ſaid, Moſes, Moſes. And he ſaid, Here am I.

5 And he ſaid, Draw not nigh hither: put off thy ſhoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt is holy ground.

6 Moreover he ſaid, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moſes hid his face: for he was afraid to look upon God.

7 ¶ And the LORD ſaid, I have ſurely ſeen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have heard their cry, by reaſon of their taſk-maſters: for I know their ſorrows.

Before Christ 1491.

8 And I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land, unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and hony; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites.

9 Now therefore behold, the cry of the children of Iſrael is come unto me: and I have alſo ſeen the oppreſſion wherewith the Egyptians oppreſs them.

10 Come now therefore, and I will ſend thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayeſt bring forth my people the children of Iſrael out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto God, Who am I, that I ſhould go unto Pharaoh, and that I ſhould bring forth the children of Iſrael out of Egypt?

12 And he ſaid, Certainly I will be with thee; and this ſhall be a token unto thee, that I have ſent thee: When thou thought that Moſes, during this time of ſolitude, and happy retirement, wrote the book of Job, for the conſolation of his brethren, the Iſraelites; by the example of his admirable patience, under their Egyptian bondage; and likewiſe the book of Geneſis, for their better underſtanding of the promiſes of God to their anceſtors, and that the time of their accompliſhment was now drawing near.

The backſide of the deſart.] That is, the more inner parts, where there was better paſture.

The mountain of God.] Either from its height, all high mountains being anciently called the mountains of God; or elſe, by way of anticipation, becauſe God afterwards ſanctified it by his viſible appearance.

Horeb.] Horeb is a mountain of Arabia Petrea, ſituated at ſo ſmall a diſtance from mount Sinai, that they appear to be two tops of the ſame mountain. Sinai lies to the eaſt, and Horeb to the weſt.

Ver. 2. In a flame of fire.] The glory of the Lord (as the Shekinah is often called) appeared in the likeneſs of flaming fire, exceedingly bright, and with a moſt amazing ſplendor.

Out of the midſt of a buſh.] Interpreters underſtand by the buſh, the Iſraelites under affliction in Egypt, and God's appearing in the midſt, as a ſymbolical repreſentation of his preſence with his people, in the midſt of their tribulations.

Ver. 5. Put off thy ſhoes, &c] The taking off the ſhoes from off the feet, is a reverential cuſtom among Turks to this day, whenever they enter their moſques. Certainly there is a beautiful metaphor in this direction of God to Moſes. Shoes contract, and gather the ſoil as we paſs; hence our affections have been termed the feet of the ſoul. Put off thy ſhoes therefore, ſignifies unclog thy affections from ſin and ſenſuality; God will be ſanctified in thoſe who approach him.

Ver. 6. The God of Abraham, &c.] And ſo the God of all the holy patriarchs, but of theſe in a more particular manner; becauſe of his covenant with them, and the promiſe made to each, of the holy ſeed to proceed from their loins.

Hid his face.] In token of the profoundeſt humility and veneration.

Ver. 8. A land flowing with milk and honey.] An expreſſion denoting the richneſs of the ſoil. Modern travellers have obſerved, that Paleſtine is now exceedingly barren; but this may be entirely owing to the want of proper culture.

Ver. 11. Who am I, &c.] Moſes modeſtly declines this ſervice, and conſiders his own inſufficiency for ſo divine a miſſion; and though when in Egypt, he knew he was born to this end, ſee Acts vii. 25. yet he might imagine, he was to procure his brethren's freedom, by means 13 And Moſes ſaid unto God, Behold, when I come unto the children of Iſrael, and ſhall ſay unto them, The God of your fathers hath ſent me unto you; and they ſhall ſay to me, What is his name? What ſhall I ſay unto them?

14 And God ſaid unto Moſes, I AM THAT I AM: And he ſaid, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the children of Iſrael, I AM hath ſent me unto you.

15 And God ſaid moreover unto Moſes, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the children of Iſrael, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob, hath ſent me unto you: this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial unto all generations.

16 Go, and gather the elders of Iſrael together, and ſay unto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Iſaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, ſaying, I have ſurely viſited you, and ſeen that which is done to you in Egypt.

17 And I have ſaid, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, unto a land flowing with milk and hony.

Before Christ 1491. 18 And they ſhall hearken to thy voice: and thou ſhalt come, thou and the elders of Iſrael, unto the king of Egypt, and you ſhall ſay unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews hath met with us; and now let us go (we beſeech thee) three days journey into the wilderneſs, that we may ſacrifice to the LORD our God.

19 ¶ And I am ſure that the king of Egypt will not let you go, no, not by a mighty hand.

20 And I will ſtretch out my hand, and ſmite Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midſt thereof: and after that he will let you go.

21 And I will give this people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians: and it ſhall come to paſs, that when ye go, ye ſhall not go empty:

22 But every woman ſhall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that ſojourneth in her houſe, jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment: and ye ſhall put them upon your ſons, and upon your daughters; and ye ſhall ſpoil the Egyptians.

of his intereſt at Pharaoh's court, and might now think himſelf diſcharged from that duty, ſince he wanted the means to effect it.

Ver. 14. I am that I am.] The Hebrew properly ſignifies, I will be that I will be; and the Greek, I am he that is. This appellation is expreſſive of the incomprehenſible nature of the deity. It may be obſerved, that the religion of names aroſe from an idolatrous polytheiſm, and the name here given, implying eternity and ſelf-exiſtence, directly oppoſes that idolatry. That this compliance with the religion of names, was a new indulgence to the prejudices of this people, is evident from the following words: And God ſpake unto Moſes, and ſaid unto him, I am the Lord; and I appeared unto Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob, by the name of God Almighty, but by my name Jehovah, was I not known to them. Exod. vi. 3. i. e. as the God of Abraham, I before condeſcended to have a name of diſtinction; but now in compliance to another prejudice, I condeſcend to have a name of honour. Div. Legat.

Ver. 18. Let us go three days journey, &c.] Not that they intended to return, but to render Pharaoh the more inexcuſable, who ſhould deny them ſo ſmall a requeſt. Mount Sinai was but three days journey from Egypt.

Ver. 22. Every woman ſhall borrow, &c] The word which we render borrow, ſignifies properly to aſk; and then the ſenſe is, every woman ſhall aſk of her neighbour, and of her that ſojourneth in her houſe, jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, i. e. as ſome compenſation of the injuries the Iſraelites had received from

2 And the LORD ſaid unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he ſaid, A rod.

3 And he ſaid, Caſt it on the ground; and he caſt it on the ground, and it became a ſerpent: and Moſes fled from before it.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail. And he put forth his hand, and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand:

5 That they may believe that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared unto thee.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy boſom; and he put his hand into his boſom: and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous as ſnow.

7 And he ſaid, Put thine hand into thy boſom again; and he put his hand into his boſom again, and plucked it out of his boſom, and behold, it was turned again as his other fleſh.

8 And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the firſt ſign, that they will believe the voice of the latter ſign.

10 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, O my lord, I am not eloquent, neither heretofore, nor ſince thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant: but I am ſlow of ſpeech, and of a ſlow tongue.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Who hath made mans mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the ſeeing, or the blind? have not I the LORD?

12 Now therefore go, and I will be with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou ſhalt ſay.

13 And he ſaid, O my Lord, ſend, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wilt ſend.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Moſes, and he ſaid, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can ſpeak well. And alſo behold, he cometh forth to meet thee: and when

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 2. A rod.] As Moſes was at this time feeding his father-in-law's flocks, this was probably his ſhepherd's ſtaff.

Ver. 5. That they may believe.] This was a ſufficient proof of his Divine miſſion, and indeed an irreſiſtible one. Such miracles were neceſſary to convince them; for we find from the following verſe, that the Jews were even then mighty incredulous, ſince God impowered Moſes to uſe no leſs than three ſigns, in order to overcome their incredulity.

Ver. 8. The voice of the firſt ſign.] There is great energy and propriety in the expreſſion here uſed, the voice of a ſign; for ſure ſuch ſurpriſing miracles ſpake aloud in the ear of reaſon, and bade them believe in him, as one whom God had certainly ſent.

Ver. 10. I am ſlow of ſpeech, &c.] Moſt interpret this of ſtuttering or ſtammering; notwithſtanding which impediment, his diſcourſe might be grave and weighty, though he had not a pronunciation anſwerable to it. It is probable, that God removed this defect in him; for we find him afterwards making ſeveral diſcourſes to the people; an excellent one before his death; and in his ſong, there is ample demonſtration that he did not want eloquence. St. Stephen alſo bears witneſs, that he was mighty in words, Acts vii. 22.

Ver. 13. Send—by the hand of him whom thou wilt ſend.] This is a modeſt declining of the commiſſion given him by God, out of a conſciouſneſs of his unfitneſs for it. Some have thought that Moſes meant, by the hand of him whom thou wilt ſend, the Meſſias; as the moſt proper perſon for ſuch an undertaking.

Ver. 14. The anger of the Lord was kindled, &c.] The anger, that is, the diſpleaſure, ſuch as that of a parent he ſeeth thee, he will be glad in his heart.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, and put words in his mouth: and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye ſhall do.

16 And he ſhall be thy ſpokeſman unto the people: and he ſhall be, even he ſhall be to thee inſtead of a mouth, and thou ſhalt be to him inſtead of God.

17 And thou ſhalt take this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou ſhalt do ſigns.

18 ¶ And Moſes went and returned to Jethro his father in law, and ſaid unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren, which are in Egypt, and ſee whether they be yet alive. And Jethro ſaid to Moſes, Go in peace.

19 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes in Midian, Go, return into Egypt: for all the men are dead which ſought thy life.

20 And Moſes took his wife, and his ſons, and ſet them upon an aſs, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moſes took the rod of God in his hand.

21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, When thou goeſt to return into Egypt, ſee that thou do all thoſe wonders before Pharaoh which I have put in thine hand: but I will harden his heart, that he ſhall not let the people go.

Before Christ 1491.

22 And thou ſhalt ſay unto Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the LORD, Iſrael is my ſon, even my firſt-born.

23 And I ſay unto thee, Let my ſon go, that he may ſerve me: and if thou refuſe to let him go, behold, I will ſlay thy ſon, even thy firſt-born.

24 ¶ And it came to paſs by the way in the inn, that the LORD met him, and ſought to kill him.

25 Then Zipporah took a ſharp ſtone, and cut off the foreſkin of her ſon, and caſt it at his feet, and ſaid, Surely a bloody huſband art thou to me.

26 So he let him go: then ſhe ſaid, A bloody huſband thou art, becauſe of the circumciſion.

27 ¶ And the LORD ſaid to Aaron, Go into the wilderneſs to meet Moſes. And he went and met him in the mount of God, and kiſſed him.

28 And Moſes told Aaron all the words of the LORD, who had ſent him, and all to his child, when he will not hearken to his juſt remonſtrances. Moſes's backwardneſs at firſt, proceeded from a modeſt diffidence of himſelf; but when God had promiſed him ſucceſs, and to remove all difficulties, it was then his duty to comply without farther heſitation.

That he can ſpeak well.] Moſes excelled in wiſdom and conduct, and Aaron his brother in eloquence.

Ver. 16. Inſtead of God.] Thou ſhalt be his oracle, and ſhall deliver to him my mind and will; which he ſhall declare again to the people.

Ver. 17. Take this rod in thine hand.] Not that there was any virtue in the rod, but only as it was what God was pleaſed to uſe in all his glorious works, to ſhew with what mean inſtruments he could confound his enemies; hence it was called the rod of God, ver. 20. This was the badge of Moſes's office, and gave him authority in the ſight of the people. Many are of opinion, that the cuſtom of magiſtrates bearing wands, took its riſe from hence.

Ver. 21. I will harden his heart.] I will ſuffer his heart to be hardened. By this is meant, that God would not interpoſe, but permit him to be carried by the bent of his own paſſions; would leave him to himſelf. God, who knew all things, ſaid, I am ſure the king of Egypt will not let you go, i. e. he will harden his heart. Exod. iii. 19.

Ver. 22. Iſrael is my ſon, —my firſt born.] God is indeed the common parent of the univerſe, and his mercies extend to all; and if he choſe the Iſraelites to be the depoſitories of his laws and religion, it was for the benefit of mankind in general, and that all the nations of the earth might at laſt be bleſſed in them.

Ver. 24. The Lord met him.] An angel ſent from God, is here to be underſtood.

Sought to kill him.] Appeared to him in a threatening poſture; the reaſon of which was, becauſe Zipporah, Moſes's wife, had either neglected or refuſed to let her ſon be circumciſed, and Moſes had complied with her humour, againſt the plain command of God.

Ver. 25. Took a ſharp ſtone.] Zipporah, in order to ſave her huſband's life, went haſtily about the operation herſelf, which ſhe performed with a knife made of flint, ſuch as was anciently uſed.

A bloody huſband art thou to me.] The Septuagint renders it thus; Zipporah, having circumciſed the child, fell at Moſes's feet and ſaid, the circumciſion is ſtopped; and having ſaid ſo, ſhe went away from him, i. e. ſhe returned to Midian with her child, as ſoon as the danger was all the ſigns which he had commanded him.

29 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron went, and gathered together all the elders of the children of Iſrael.

30 And Aaron ſpake all the words, which the Lord had ſpoken unto Moſes, and did the ſigns in the ſight of the people.

31 And the people believed: and when they heard that the Lord had viſited the children of Iſrael, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worſhipped.

CHAP. V.

1 Pharaoh chideth Moſes and Aaron for their meſſage, &c.

AND afterwards Moſes and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, Let my people go, that they may hold a feaſt unto me in the wilderneſs.

2 And Pharaoh ſaid, Who is the Lord, that I ſhould obey his voice to let Iſrael go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Iſrael go.

3 And they ſaid, The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days journey into the deſart, and ſacrifice unto the Lord our God; leſt he fall upon us with peſtilence, or with the ſword.

Before Chriſt 1491.

4 And the king of Egypt ſaid unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moſes and Aaron, let the people from their works? get you unto your burdens.

5 And Pharaoh ſaid, Behold, the people of the land now are many, and you make them reſt from their burdens.

6 And Pharaoh commanded the ſame day the taſk-maſters of the people, and their officers, ſaying,

7 Ye ſhall no more give the people ſtraw to make brick as heretofore: let them go and gather ſtraw for themſelves.

8 And the tale of the bricks which they did make heretofore, you ſhall lay upon them; you ſhall not diminiſh ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, ſaying, Let us go and ſacrifice to our God.

9 Let there more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein: and let them not regard vain words.

Some ſay, that theſe words were not directed to the huſband, but the child; who on the day of his circumciſion, it is ſaid, was called Chatan, i. e. ſpouſe; as being then eſpouſed to God; and that here was no angry or opprobious language uſed, but ſuch as was pronounced whenever this ceremony was duly performed.

Ver. 30. Did the ſigns.] That is, he (Moſes) did the ſigns; and not Aaron.

Notes on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. Went in, and told Pharaoh.] After they had firſt convinced the elders of Iſrael; a body of whom they took along with them, as they were commanded.

Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael.] It ſhould be tranſlated, Jehovah the God of Iſrael, as appears from Pharaoh's anſwer.

Ver. 2. Who is the Lord?] Who is Jehovah? He either profanely queſtioned the exiſtence of the God of the Hebrews, as knowing no ſuperior to himſelf; or elſe, by thus inſulting the great Jehovah, he meant to aggrandize his own deities, and ſhew his piety towards them.

Ver. 3. The God of the Hebrews.] Seeing Pharaoh lent a deaf ear to the name of Jehovah, the Lord of all; they next deſcribe him under the character of the God of the Hebrews, i. e. the tutelary deity of their nation, whom they and their anceſtors had worſhipped for many generations.

Three days journey into the deſart.] This was not a very unreaſonable requeſt; and Moſes was under no obligation to let Pharaoh into the whole deſign.

Ver. 4. Get you unto your burdens.] Theſe words are directed not to the elders, but to Moſes and Aaron; and therefore ſome commentators underſtand it, that Pharaoh commanded them to take their ſhare of the burdens with the reſt, as a puniſhment for their ſedition.

Ver. 6. Their officers.] Theſe officers were Iſraelites, under the Egyptian taſk-maſters, and appointed to ſuperintend the reſt, and to be accountable for their neglect.

Ver. 7. Ye ſhall no more give the people ſtraw.] The uſe of the ſtraw, was either to intermix with the clay, to render the bricks more ſolid; or elſe to heat the kilns; and perhaps to cover the bricks, leſt they ſhould be cracked with the heat of the ſun.

Ver. 9. Vain words.] In the Hebrew, lying words; ſo he was pleaſed to call the meſſage of Moſes and Aaron.

Before Chriſt 1491. ſpake to the people, ſaying, Thus ſaith Pharaoh, I will not give you ſtraw.

11 Go ye, get you ſtraw where you can find it: yet not ought of your work ſhall be diminiſhed.

12 So the people were ſcattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt, to gather ſtubble inſtead of ſtraw.

13 And the taſk-maſters haſted them, ſaying, Fulfil your works, your daily taſks, as when there was ſtraw.

14 And the officers of the children of Iſrael, which Pharaohs taſk-maſters had ſet over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your taſk in making brick, both yeſterday and to day, as heretofore?

15 ¶ Then the officers of the children of Iſrael came and cried unto Pharaoh, ſaying, Wherefore dealeſt thou thus with thy ſervants?

16 There is no ſtraw given unto thy ſervants, and they ſay to us, Make brick: and behold, thy ſervants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people.

17 But he ſaid, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye ſay, Let us go, and do ſacrifice to the LORD.

18 Go therefore now and work: for there ſhall no ſtraw be given you, yet ſhall ye deliver the tale of bricks.

19 And the officers of the children of Iſrael did ſee that they were in evil caſe, after it was ſaid, Ye ſhall not miniſh ought from your bricks of your daily taſk. Before Chriſt 1491.

20 ¶ And they met Moſes and Aaron, who ſtood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh.

21 And they ſaid unto them, The LORD look upon you, and judge; becauſe you have made our ſavour to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his ſervants, to put a ſword in their hands to ſlay us.

22 And Moſes returned unto the LORD, and ſaid, Lord, wherefore haſt thou ſo evil-intreated this people? why is it that thou haſt ſent me?

23 For ſince I came to Pharaoh to ſpeak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; neither haſt thou delivered thy people at all.

Ver. 15. Came and cried unto Pharaoh.] Being ignorant from whence all this rigour and ſeverity proceeded, they humbly addreſſed themſelves to the ſovereign, whoſe place it certainly was, to redreſs the grievances of his ſubjects.

Ver. 20. They met Moſes and Aaron.] Who it is likely waited in ſome convenient place, in order to learn what reception the officers met with from Pharaoh.

Ver. 22. Returned unto the Lord.] He had recourſe once more to God by prayer.

Wherefore haſt thou ſo evil intreated this people?] Moſes was ſo much afflicted with this oppreſſion of his brethren, that he ſeemed for that inſtant, to be ſomewhat diffident or forgetful of the Divine promiſe. Such is the great weakneſs of human nature!

Ver. 25. The heads of the fathers of the Levites.] All this is a ſhort digreſſion, in order to ſhew the lineage of Moſes and Aaron, the inſtruments under God, of delivering the children of Iſrael; therefore nothing is, or needed to be ſaid here of the other tribes.

Ver. 1. Made thee a God to Pharaoh.] That is, inſtead of a God, to repreſent me as head of this ambaſſage; thy orders ſhall be delivered to Pharaoh, by Aaron, thine orator and interpreter.

Ver. 3. Multiply my ſigns.] Since the firſt will have no other effect upon Pharaoh, but to ſhew his obſtinacy and perverſeneſs; I will repeat my miracles and plagues, till my deſign is accompliſhed.

Ver. 5. Shall know that I am the Lord.] Not the God of the Hebrews only, but Jehovah, or Lord of the univerſe. For the Gods of the Egyptians, were mere local deities, and their power was not thought to extend beyond a particular region.

Ver. 11. The wiſe men, and the ſorcerers.] It was thought by the learned in Egypt, that prodigies, miracles, and omens, were cauſed by the influences of the elements, and planetary bodies; and that ſuch ſtudents, who were deeply verſed in natural myſteries, could cauſe ſuch things by the power of art and magical incantation: Pharaoh, therefore, (ſtruck with the miracle) ſends immediately for thoſe wiſe and learned adepts, to ſee if they could effect the like; that ſo he might the better determine, whether the rod's being converted into a ſerpent, was performed by natural means, or whether it was (as it appeared to be) the finger of God.

Ver. 12. They became ſerpents.] Some have thought, God permitted, at this time, the evil ſpirits to aſſiſt the magicians, or wiſe men, to produce ſerpents, to ſerve his own purpoſes. But they rather ſeem to have effected it, merely by the uſe of natural means. That this was Pharaoh's notion of the thing, ſeems plain, becauſe when he perceived them do the ſame miracles, viz. convert their rods into ſerpents, produce frogs, and turn the rivers into blood, he did not think them real miracles; and for that reaſon, refuſed to let the people go; but when the magicians attempted to bring lice, and could not, both he and they concluded, that this was the finger of God.

Aaron's rod ſwallowed up their rods.] This was ſure a ſufficient demonſtration of the ſuperior power by which Moſes acted, and muſt have convinced Pharaoh, had not the magicians perſuaded him, that in time they would find a power ſuperior to that of Moſes: Beſides, he was ſo averſe to parting with the Iſraelites, that he would not ſuffer the miracle to make any impreſſion on his heart.

Ver. 13. He hardened Pharaoh's heart.] This ought to be rendered, and the heart of Pharaoh is, or was hardened. For it is ſo in the original Hebrew, and in the Septuagint, Chaldee, and Arabic verſions.

Ver. 15. Lo, he goeth out unto the water.] Perhaps he was going to pay his morning devotion to the river Nile, which was held ſacred among the Egyptians: Or it may be, to bathe, in order to purify himſelf for the offering up his adoration to the riſing ſun.

Ver. 17. In this thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord.] By my converting the waters of that river into blood, to which thou payeſt ſo great veneration.

Ver. 19. Stretch out thine hand upon the waters, &c.] Not that all the waters, ſtreams, &c. are meant; but that which was at hand, in token of the Divine malediction, which moſt miraculouſly diffuſed its influences over the reſt.

21 And the fiſh that was in the river died: and the river ſtank, and the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river: and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

22 And the magicians of Egypt did ſo with their inchantments: and Pharaohs heart was hardened, neither did he hearken unto them; as the LORD had ſaid.

23 And Pharaoh turned and went into his houſe, neither did he ſet his heart to this alſo.

24 And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for water to drink: for they could not drink of the water of the river.

25 And ſeven days were fulfilled, after that the LORD had ſmitten the river.

4 And the frogs ſhall come up both on thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy ſervants.

5 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the ſtreams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cauſe frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.

6 And Aaron ſtretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt; and the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.

7 And the magicians did ſo with their inchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.

8 ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid, Intreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may do ſacrifice unto the LORD.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto Pharaoh, Glory

Ver. 21. The fiſh that was in the river died: and the river ſtank.] This was a very heavy judgment upon the Egyptians. Water was the liquor they generally drank, but the putrefaction made them loath it; beſides, the Nile was the only river that contained the water for the inhabitants; and then, their food conſiſted only in fruits, herbs, &c. and the fiſh of the Nile; for they abſtained from moſt ſorts of animals.

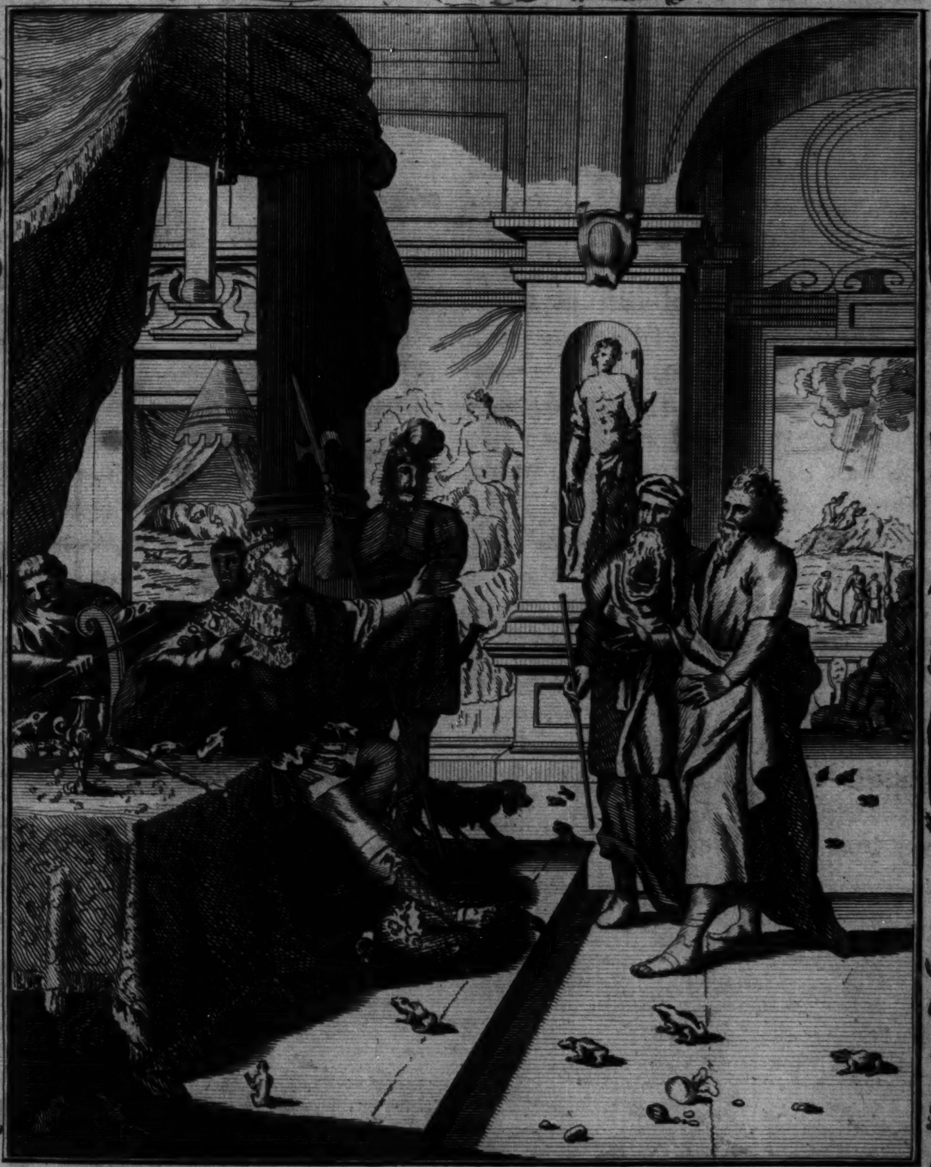
Ver. 22. The magicians—did ſo with their inchantments.] If God did permit them to work a real change in the waters, (which is to be queſtioned) it was only to render their folly more conſpicuous; for hereby they increaſed plagues upon themſelves and their countrymen, which they were not able to remove. And what though theſe ſorcerers were able to mimic a few of the firſt miracles of Moſes, yet they were obliged to ſubmit at laſt, and confeſs themſelves entirely overcome by the inimitable power of God.

Neither did he hearken unto them] Though he perceived the magicians were not able, with all their art, to remove this dreadful calamity; yet, without the leaſt remorſe, he leaves his whole kingdom to periſh under it. Such was the ſtubbornneſs of his diſpoſition, even as God, who knows the hearts of all men, foretold Moſes.

Ver. 24. Digged round about.] Expecting that the water, by percolation through the earth, would be purified; which, in part, it is probable it might happen to be.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 8. Intreat the Lord, &c] The proud heart of Pharaoh, who had before ſpake with ſo much arrogance, ſaying, Who is the Lord? is now a little humbled: For though the magicians could imitate the miracle, they could not imitate the remedy, by delivering them from the plague.



And Aaron stretched out his hand over the Waters of Egypt; and the Frogs came up, and covered the Land of Egypt.

25 ¶ And Pharaoh called for Moſes, and for Aaron, and ſaid, Go ye, ſacrifice to your God in the land.

26 And Moſes ſaid, It is not meet ſo to do; for we ſhall ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians to the Lord our God: Lo, ſhall we ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and will they not ſtone us?

27 We will go three days journey into the wilderneſs, and ſacrifice to the Lord our God, as he ſhall command us.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid, I will let you go, that ye may ſacrifice to the Lord your God, in the wilderneſs; only you ſhall not go very far away: intreat for me.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Behold, I go out from thee, and I will intreat the Lord, that the ſwarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people, to morrow: but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more in not letting the people go to ſacrifice to the Lord.

30 And Moſes went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the Lord.

31 And the Lord did according to the word of Moſes; and he removed the ſwarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people: there remained not one.

32 And Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time alſo, neither would he let the people go.

CHAP. IX.

1 The murrain of beaſts. 8 The plague of boils, and blains, &c.

THEN the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

2 For if thou refuſe to let them go, and wilt hold them ſtill,

3 Behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horſes, upon the aſſes, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the ſheep: there ſhall be a very grievous murrain.

4 And the Lord ſhall ſever between the cattle of Iſrael, and the cattle of Egypt: and there ſhall nothing die of all that is the childrens of Iſrael.

5 And the Lord appointed a ſet time, ſaying, To morrow the Lord ſhall do this thing in the land.

6 And the Lord did that thing on the morrow, and all the cattle of Egypt died: but of the cattle of the children of Iſrael died not one.

7 And Pharaoh ſent, and behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Iſraelites dead,

Ver. 26. Shall we ſacrifice the abomination, &c.] The meaning is, ſhall we offer thoſe creatures, which you eſteem as Gods; and will you not be highly diſguſted, to ſee us ſacrifice your Gods to ours? For the Egyptian God, Oſiris, was worſhipped in the ſhape of an Ox, and Iſis, in the likeneſs of a Calf; therefore they conſidered the ſlaying theſe creatures, and alſo the ſheep, as criminal; and theſe were what the Iſraelites uſed in ſacrifice.

Ver. 28. Shall not go very far.] Such an event as this, viz. the Iſraelites departure out of Egypt, being what they ever expected, according to the Divine promiſe, was no doubt known to the Egyptians, who had learnt it from them. And Pharaoh, jealous of their deſign, was loth to let them go far, or indeed to go at all.

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 6. All the cattle of Egypt died.] It would be better tranſlated, All the cattle that died, were of Egypt, i. e. belonged to the Egyptians; for ſome of the cattle eſcaped the peſtilence. See ver. 19.

dead. And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

8 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of aſhes of the furnace, and let Moſes ſprinkle it towards the heaven in the ſight of Pharaoh.

9 And it ſhall become ſmall duſt in all the land of Egypt, and ſhall be a boil breaking forth with blains, upon man, and upon beaſt, throughout all the land of Egypt.

10 And they took aſhes of the furnace, and ſtood before Pharaoh; and Moſes ſprinkled it up toward heaven: and it became a boil breaking forth with blains, upon man, and upon beaſt.

11 And the magicians could not ſtand before Moſes, becauſe of the boil: for the boil was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians.

12 And the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them; as the Lord had ſpoken unto Moſes.

13 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.

Befor Chriſt 1491.

14 For I will at this time ſend all my plagues upon thine heart, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people: that thou mayeſt know that there is none like me in all the earth.

15 For now I will ſtretch out my hand, that I may ſmite thee and thy people with peſtilence; and thou ſhalt be cut off from the earth.

16 And in very deed for this cauſe have I raiſed thee up, for to ſhew in thee my power; and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth.

17 As yet exalteſt thou thyſelf againſt my people, that thou wilt not let them go?

18 Behold, to morrow about this time, I will cauſe it to rain a very grievous hail, ſuch as hath not been in Egypt, ſince the foundation thereof, even until now.

19 Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle, and all that thou haſt in the field: for upon every man and beaſt which ſhall be found in the field, and ſhall not be brought home, the hail ſhall come down upon them, and they ſhall die.

20 He that feared the word of the Lord amongſt the ſervants of Pharaoh, made his ſervants and his cattle flee into the houſes.

Ver. 10. It became a boil breaking forth.] A ſad mortification to ſo delicate and voluptuous a people as the Egyptians! viz. aching boils, nauſeous ulcers, and a burning itch; ſuch this plague is thought to have been.

Ver. 11. The magicians could not ſtand before Moſes.] The magicians (I ſhould ſay the jugglers) were at length entirely defeated; abaſhed, and aſhamed, they durſt not make their appearance any more, for they are not ſo much as mentioned again; perhaps they had loſt all their credit with Pharaoh.

Ver. 14. That thou mayeſt know there is none like me, &c.] Three reaſons are aſſigned for theſe judgments upon Pharaoh and his people. One, to teach him experimentally that the Divine power was ſuperior to all other: Another, to give an exemplary and demonſtrative proof to all nations, of God's juſtice: A third, that the Iſraelites, and their poſterity, might be engaged to worſhip this God alone, as the God of all things.

Ver. 15. That I may ſmite thee and thy people with peſtilence.] This paſſage ſhould be read in the preter, inſtead of the future tenſe; becauſe Pharaoh and his people were not deſtroyed by peſtilence; and then it will run thus: For now I had ſtretched out my hand to ſmite thee, and thy people, with peſtilence, and thou hadſt been cut off from the earth.

Ver. 16. Have I raiſed thee up.] Have preſerved thee from being deſtroyed by the former plague, that I might ſhew my power in the land of Egypt. The Hebrew word Hagnamid does not ſignify to call a thing into being; accordingly, the Greek tranſlation reads it, for this cauſe thou haſt been preſerved.

Ver. 18. To-morrow.] The preciſe time is here marked out, that it might not be thought to have happened by chance; and to ſhew that the elements, fire, hail, thunder, and ſtorm, are obedient to God's voice.

Grievous hail.] Great hail-ſtones, (they muſt have been of a prodigious ſize, becauſe they killed both man and beaſts, that were not under ſhelter) attended with a terrible ſtorm of thunder and lightning.

of the LORD, left his ſervants and his cattle in the field.

22 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be hail in all the land of Egypt, upon man, and upon beaſt, and upon every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt.

23 And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod toward heaven, and the LORD ſent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt.

24 So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, ſuch as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt, ſince it became a nation.

25 And the hail ſmote throughout all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beaſt: and the hail ſmote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field.

26 Only in the land of Goſhen, where the children of Iſrael were, was there no hail.

27 ¶ And Pharaoh ſent, and called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid unto them, I have ſinned this time: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

28 Intreat the LORD (for it is enough) that there be no more mighty thunderings and hail; and I will let you go, and ye ſhall ſtay no longer.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, As ſoon as I am gone out of the city, I will ſpread abroad my hands unto the LORD: and the thunder ſhall ceaſe, neither ſhall there be any more hail; that thou mayeſt know, how that the earth is the LORDS.

Before Christ 1491.

30 But as for thee and thy ſervants, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God.

31 And the flax, and the barley was ſmitten: for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was bolled.

32 But the wheat and the rie were not ſmitten: for they were not grown up.

33 And Moſes went out of the city from Pharaoh, and ſpread abroad his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceaſed, and the rain was not poured upon the earth.

34 And when Pharaoh ſaw, that the rain, and the hail, and the thunders were ceaſed, he ſinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his ſervants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Iſrael go; as the LORD had ſpoken by Moſes.

CHAP. X.

1 God threateneth to ſend locuſts, &c.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh: for I have hardened his heart, and the heart of his ſervants;

Ver. 24. Fire mingled with the hail.] One flaſh of lightning taking hold of another, and infolding themſelves together. It appears to have been a fiery whirlwind, that ſcorches up and deſtroys every thing before it. This judgment was the more terrible in Egypt, where rain (and much more hail) was ſeldom ſeen.

Ver. 25. The hail ſmote every herb, &c.] This expreſſion is to be taken in a limited ſenſe; namely, that the plants and trees were in general ſhattered, and a great many of every kind deſtroyed.

Ver. 28. That there be no more mighty thunderings.] In the Hebrew it is, no more voice of God. It is a metaphor, expreſſing the awfulneſs of the Almighty being.

Ver. 29. That the earth is the Lord's.] His power and dominion is not limited as your deities, which extend no farther than the territories of their brother Gods; but Jehovah is the ſovereign Lord of the whole earth.

Ver. 31. The flax was bolled.] That is, it was grown up in a round ſtem, or ſtalk.

Ver. 32. The wheat and the rie were not ſmitten.] It was the manner of the Egyptians, to ſow all ſorts of grain at one time, and that was, when the lands were ready after the retreat of the river Nile. Barley, being of a quicker growth than wheat and rye, was conſequently much forwarder.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 4. 5. Will I bring the locuſts.—And they ſhall cover, &c.] The word in the original, ſignifies multitudes, to denote their nature. In that part of Scythia which the Coſſacks now inhabit, there are infinite numbers of them, eſpecially in dry ſeaſons, which the north eaſt wind brings over from Tartary, like a vaſt cloud, ſometimes fifteen or eighteen miles long, and about ten or twelve miles broad, ſo that they quite darken the ſky, and make the brighteſt day obſcure; and wherever they light, they devour all the corn in leſs than two hours time, and frequently make a famine in the country. Theſe inſects live about ſix months; and when they are dead, the ſtench of them ſo corrupts and infects the air, that it very often occaſions dreadful peſtilences. ‘ Thevenot.’

The ordinary locuſt is deſcribed by Pliny, to be an animal ſo formidable, that a ſingle one would kill a ſerpent. How dreadful then were thoſe with which God plagued the Egyptians, being ſuch as neither their fathers, nor their fathers fathers had ſeen, ver. 6.

Ver. 7. How long ſhall this man be a ſnare unto us?] That is, the occaſion of our falling into ſuch dire calamities.

Ver. 9. We will go with our young and with our old.] It was cuſtomary at ſuch ſolemn aſſemblies, as the holding a feaſt unto the Lord, for the whole body of the nation, men, women, and children, to be preſent and aſſiſt.

Ver. 10. Let the Lord be ſo with you, as I will let you go.] An imprecation, as it ſeems; as though he had ſaid, may your God Jehovah aſſiſt you to my ruin, if I ever let you go, upon thoſe terms which you offer me.

Ver. 11. Ye that are men.] To part with them, would have been to the detriment and public loſs of the nation in general, on account of the labour of ſo numerous a people; for which reaſon, Pharaoh contrived to have their children left behind as hoſtages.

brought an eaſt wind upon the land all that day, and all that night: and when it was morning, the eaſt wind brought the locuſts.

14 And the locuſts went up over all the land of Egypt, and reſted in all the coaſts of Egypt: very grievous were they; before them there were no ſuch locuſts as they, neither after them ſhall be ſuch.

15 For they covered the face of the whole earth, ſo that the land was darkened; and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left: and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

16 ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron in haſte; and he ſaid, I have ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and againſt you.

17 Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my ſin only this once, and intreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death only.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mighty ſtrong weſt wind, which took away the locuſts, and caſt them into the Red ſea: there remained not one locuſt in all the coaſts of Egypt.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand toward heaven, that there may be darkneſs over the land of Egypt, even darkneſs which may be felt.

22 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a thick darkneſs in all the land of Egypt three days.

23 They ſaw not one another, neither roſe any from his place for three days: but all the children of Iſrael had light in their dwellings.

24 ¶ And Pharaoh called unto Moſes, and ſaid, Go ye, ſerve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be ſtayed: let your little ones alſo go with you.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Thou muſt give us alſo ſacrifices, and burnt-offerings, that we may ſacrifice unto the LORD our God.

26 Our cattle alſo ſhall go with us; there ſhall not an hoof be left behind: for thereof muſt we take to ſerve the LORD our God; and we know not with what we muſt ſerve the LORD, until we come thither.

Ver. 16. I have ſinned againſt the Lord.] Locuſts were always looked upon by the ancients, as marks of God's diſpleaſure; therefore Pharaoh confeſſes, I have ſinned againſt Jehovah.

Ver. 17. This death.] Or, deadly plague, which kills and deſtroys the fruits of the earth.

Ver. 19. The Red ſea.] It is now called the Arabian gulph, and lies ſouth-eaſt of Egypt. In the original Hebrew, it goes by the name of the ſea of Suph, a ſort of weed peculiar to that ſea, and growing there in great abundance. The Phœnicians termed it, the ſea of Edom, from its neighbourhood to Idumæa; this proper name, the Greeks turned into an appellative, calling it the Red ſea, EDOM, in Hebrew, ſignifying red.

Ver. 21. Even darkneſs which may be felt.] But if this darkneſs had conſiſted of black vapours and exhalations, condenſed in ſuch a manner as to be perceived by the organs of touch, it is plain none could have lived in ſuch a medium: Therefore it ſeems rather to expreſs ſuch a total darkneſs, as would oblige men to feel about, in order to find their way.

Ver. 23. Saw not one another, neither, &c] This paints the great degree of darkneſs, and the horror and diſmay on the minds of the Egyptians on that account, in the ſtrongeſt colours.

Ver 24. Let your flocks and—herds be ſtayed.] So terrible were theſe judgments, that in deſpight of Pharaoh's ſelf, they ſhook his obſtinacy. At firſt, he wholly rejected their petition, nor would ſuffer any to depart; but afterwards, he was willing to diſmiſs them, with a proviſo they would leave their children behind as hoſtages; and now at laſt, he inſiſts only on the flocks and herds being left, hoping that they might be a means of haſtening their return.

4 And Moſes ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, About midnight will I go out into the midſt of Egypt.

in order to commemorate ſo great an event, as that of their deliverance from Egyptian bondage, it is ordered to commence for the future, from this month, which they called Abib, an ear of corn, the corn being then eared in that country. It anſwers nearly to our March.

Ver. 3. In the tenth day of this month.] This ſpace was allotted them, becauſe it would have been very difficult for them to have provided themſelves with ſo many lambs and kids in Egypt, eſpecially as their departure was to be ſo ſudden. In after-times, they did not begin their preparation till the thirteenth day, or the eve of the paſſover.

Of the firſt year.] Otherwiſe it could not properly be called a lamb; neither would it, after that age, with propriety, be an emblem of purity and innocence.

Ver. 6. In the evening.] In the Hebrew, between the two evenings. For the Hebrews divided the afternoon into two evenings, the firſt began at noon, i. e. after the ſun had paſſed the meridian, and laſted till ſun-ſet; the other from ſun-ſet till night, or the end of twilight. Between the two evenings, viz. about half an hour after three o'clock, when the daily evening ſacrifice was ended, the paſchal began, and continued till ſun-ſet.

Ver. 7. The blood, and ſtrike it on the two ſide-poſts, &c.] They were not to ſtain the threſhold, it being conſidered as a profane thing to tread on blood. It is very obſervable, that the memory of this tranſaction continued among the Egyptians, (as we learn from Epiphanius) till after Jeſus Chriſt: For, till then, they uſed to mark their ſheep, their trees, their houſes and land, with red, the day before the paſſover: This they did, no doubt, hoping to prevent the like plague and mortality for the future, by ſuch a kind of taliſman, whereby they thought Moſes had formerly ſecured the Iſraelites from that great plague, only by ſprinkling the blood of the lamb of the paſſover, on the upper door poſt of their houſes. Allix.

14 And this day ſhall be unto you for a memorial; and you ſhall keep it a feaſt to the LORD, throughout your generations: you ſhall keep it a feaſt by an ordinance for ever.

15 Seven days ſhall ye eat unleavened bread: even the firſt day ye ſhall put away leaven out of your houſes: for whoſoever eateth leavened bread, from the firſt day until the ſeventh day, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael.

16 And in the firſt day there ſhall be an holy convocation, and in the ſeventh day there ſhall be an holy convocation to you: no manner of work ſhall be done in them, ſave that which every man muſt eat, that only may be done of you.

17 And ye ſhall obſerve the feaſt of unleavened bread; for in this ſelf-ſame day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore ſhall ye obſerve this day in your generations, by an ordinance for ever.

18 ¶ In the firſt month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even ye ſhall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even.

19 Seven days ſhall there be no leaven found in your houſes: for whoſoever eateth that which is leavened, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from the congregation of Iſrael, whether he be a ſtranger or born in the land.

Before Chriſt 1491.

20 Ye ſhall eat nothing leavened: in all your habitations ſhall ye eat unleavened bread.

21 ¶ Then Moſes called for all the elders of Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Draw out and take you a lamb, according to your families, and kill the paſſover.

22 And ye ſhall take a bunch of hyſſop, and dip it in the blood that is in the baſon, and ſtrike the lintel, and the two ſide-poſts, with the blood that is in the baſon: and none of you ſhall go out at the door of his houſe until the morning.

23 For the LORD will paſs through to ſmite the Egyptians, and when he ſeeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two ſide-poſts, the LORD will paſs over the door, and will not ſuffer the deſtroyer to come in unto your houſes to ſmite you.

24 And ye ſhall obſerve this thing for an ordinance to thee, and to thy ſons for ever.

25 And it ſhall come to paſs, when ye be come to the land, which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promiſed, that ye ſhall keep this ſervice.

26 And it ſhall come to paſs, when your children ſhall ſay unto you, What mean you by this ſervice?

27 That ye ſhall ſay, It is the ſacrifice of the LORDS paſſover, who paſſed over the houſes of the children of Iſrael in Egypt, when he ſmote the Egyptians, and delivered our houſes. And the people bowed the head and worſhipped.

28 And the children of Iſrael went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moſes and Aaron, ſo did they.

29 ¶ And

Ver. 16. An holy convocation.] A ſacred feſtivity, the people being aſſembled by the ſound of trumpets, to the ſolemnity of religious duties.

Ver. 18. At even.] When the Jewiſh feſtivals began.

Ver. 19. A ſtranger.] Meaning a proſelyte, or perſon of a different nation, who had embraced the Jewiſh religion; for other ſtrangers were not ſuffered to be preſent at this feaſt.

Ver. 22. None of you ſhall go out.] This injunction was not obſerved afterwards, it being only enjoined for the preſent, to avoid the danger of death by the deſtroying angel.

Ver. 23. When he ſeeth the blood.] This was a type of Chriſt, whoſe blood was ſhed to reconcile us to God, and to take away the ſins of the world.

Before Christ 1491.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs that at midnight the Lord ſmote all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, from the firſt-born of Pharaoh, that ſat on his throne, unto the firſt-born of the captive that was in the dungeon; and all the firſt-born of cattle.

30 And Pharaoh roſe up in the night, he and all his ſervants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt: for there was not a houſe where there was not one dead.

31 ¶ And he called for Moſes and Aaron by night, and ſaid, Riſe up, and get you forth from amongſt my people, both you and the children of Iſrael: and go, ſerve the Lord, as ye have ſaid.

32 Alſo take your flocks, and your herds, as ye have ſaid, and be gone: and bleſs me alſo.

33 And the Egyptians were urgent upon the people, that they might ſend them out of the land in haſte: for they ſaid, We be all dead men.

34 And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their kneading-troughs being bound up in their clothes upon their ſhoulders.

35 And the children of Iſrael did according to the word of Moſes: and they borrowed of the Egyptians jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment.

36 And the Lord gave the people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians, ſo that they lent unto them ſuch things as they required: and they ſpoiled the Egyptians.

Before Christ 1491.

37 And the children of Iſrael journeyed from Rameſes to Succoth, about ſix hundred thouſand on foot that were men, beſides children.

38 And a mixed multitude went up alſo with them; and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle.

39 And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough, which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened; becauſe they were thruſt out of Egypt, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themſelves any victual.

40 ¶ Now the ſojourning of the children of Iſrael, who dwelt in Egypt, was four hundred and thirty years.

41 And it came to paſs, at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the ſelf-ſame day it came to paſs, that all the hoſts of the Lord went out from the land of Egypt.

42 It is a night to be much obſerved unto the Lord, for bringing them out from the land of Egypt: this is that night of the Lord to be obſerved of all the children of Iſrael, in their generations.

43 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the paſſover: there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof.

44 But

Ver. 34. Took their dough before it was leavened.] The word in the original, ſignifies flour as well as dough, therefore it had been better rendered, and the people took their flour before it was leavened. For they had not wanted time to leaven their dough, if they could have found time to have made it.

Ver. 35. They borrowed.] More properly, they aſked.

Ver. 36. They lent unto them.] Or rather, they gave them. They even bribed them to be gone.

Ver. 40. Four hundred and thirty years.] That is, the ſojourning of the Hebrew nation, from the time that Abraham relinquiſhed his native country, to their deliverance, was juſt 430 years.

Ver. 41. The hoſts of the Lord.] The Iſraelites are ſo called, from the good order in which they went out of Egypt, like troops marching in battle array.

Before Chriſt 1491.

44 But every mans ſervant that is bought for money, when thou haſt circumciſed him, then ſhall he eat thereof.

45 A foreigner, and an hired ſervant ſhall not eat thereof.

46 In one houſe ſhall it be eaten; thou ſhalt not carry forth ought of the fleſh abroad out of the houſe: neither ſhall ye break a bone thereof.

47 All the congregation of Iſrael ſhall keep it.

48 And when a ſtranger ſhall ſojourn with thee, and will keep the paſſover to the Lord, let all his males be circumciſed, and then let him come near and keep it; and he ſhall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumciſed perſon ſhall eat thereof.

49 One law ſhall be to him that is home-born, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Iſrael; as the Lord commanded Moſes and Aaron, ſo did they.

51 And it came to paſs the ſelf-ſame day, that the Lord did bring the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt, by their armies.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The firſt-born ſanctified. 3 The memorial of the paſſover is commanded. 21 God guideth them by a pillar of a cloud, and by fire.

Before Chriſt 1491.

2 Sanctify unto me all the firſt-born, whatſoever openeth the womb among the children of Iſrael, both of man and of beaſt: it is mine.

3 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the people, Remember this day, in which ye came out from Egypt, out of the houſe of bondage; for by ſtrength of hand the Lord brought you out from this place: there ſhall no leavened bread be eaten.

4 This day came ye out, in the month Abib.

5 ¶ And it ſhall be when the Lord ſhall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and hony, that thou ſhalt keep this ſervice in this month.

6 Seven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread, and in the ſeventh day ſhall be a feaſt to the Lord.

7 Unleavened bread ſhall be eaten ſeven days: and there ſhall no leavened bread be ſeen with thee, neither ſhall there be leaven ſeen with thee in all thy quarters.

8 ¶ And thou ſhalt ſhew thy ſon in that day, ſaying, This is done becauſe of that which the Lord did unto me, when I came forth out of Egypt.

9 And it ſhall be for a ſign unto thee upon thine hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes; that the Lords law may be in thy mouth: for with a ſtrong hand

Ver. 46. Neither ſhall ye break a bone thereof.] This prohibition was typical of Chriſt, the great redeemer of mankind: The ſoldiers brake not his legs, though it was cuſtomary to do ſo to ſuch as were crucified.

Ver. 48. No uncircumciſed perſon, &c.] Many of thoſe Iſraelites who had neglected this rite, were now circumciſed, in order to qualify themſelves to keep the paſſover.

Ver. 2. Sanctify.] Hallow, or conſecrate, to remind them of the divine mercy, in ſparing their firſt-born, when thoſe of the Egyptians were deſtroyed.

Both of man and beaſt: it is mine.] It is to be remarked, that God afterwards took the Levites in exchange for the firſt-born of the people.

Ver. 9. For a ſign,—upon thine hand, &c.] It was cuſtomary with the Jews, to write four particular ſections of the law, upon pieces of parchment, and to fold them up, and tie them upon their heads, from the crown to the forehead. The ſame, wrote upon another ſkin, they faſtened on the inſide of their left arm, above the elbow. At firſt, they wore them for devotion, but afterwards through ſuperſtition; imagining them to be as charms againſt diſeaſes, &c. They were called in Greek, Phylacteries, or preſervers of memory.

10 Thou ſhalt therefore keep this ordinance in his ſeaſon from year to year.

11 ¶ And it ſhall be when the LORD ſhall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, as he ſware unto thee and to thy fathers, and ſhall give it thee,

12 That thou ſhalt ſet apart unto the LORD all that openeth the matrix: and every firſtling that cometh of a beaſt, which thou haſt, the males ſhall be the LORDS.

13 And every firſtling of an aſs thou ſhalt redeem with a lamb; and if thou wilt not redeem it, then thou ſhalt break his neck: and all the firſt-born of man amongſt thy children ſhalt thou redeem.

14 ¶ And it ſhall be when thy ſon aſketh thee in time to come, ſaying, What is this? that thou ſhalt ſay unto him, By ſtrength of hand the LORD brought us out from Egypt, from the houſe of bondage.

15 And it came to paſs when Pharaoh would hardly let us go, that the LORD ſlew all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, both the firſt-born of man, and the firſt-born of beaſt: therefore I ſacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the matrix, being males; but all the firſt-born of my children I redeem.

Before Chriſt 1491.

16 And it ſhall be for a token upon thine hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes: for by ſtrength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

17 ¶ And it came to paſs, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philiſtines, although that was near: for God ſaid, Leſt peradventure the people repent when they ſee war, and they return to Egypt.

18 But God led the people about, through the way of the wilderneſs of the Red ſea: and the children of Iſrael went up harneſſed out of the land of Egypt.

19 And Moſes took the bones of Joſeph with him: for he had ſtraitly ſworn the children of Iſrael, ſaying, God will ſurely viſit you; and ye ſhall carry up my bones away hence with you.

20 ¶ And they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderneſs.

21 And the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire,

Ver. 13. Firſtling of an aſs.] Some underſtand by this, all unclean beaſts, i. e. ſuch as were not uſed in ſacrifice; becauſe in Numb. xviii. 15. it is ſaid of unclean beaſts in general. Theſe were to die by ſome means or other, and not to be employed, even in common uſe.

Ver. 17. Not through the way of the land of the Philiſtines.] From Egypt to Canaan, through the Philiſtines land, was but a few days journey; yet ſeeing the Iſraelites had lately endured ſuch fatigues and hardſhips, they would have been quite diſcouraged, to ſee the fierce Philiſtines come armed againſt them; and though God could have wrought a miracle for them in this caſe, yet it is not his way to multiply ſuch, when they may be diſpenſed with.

Ver. 18. God led the people about.] The pillar of fire went before them, and conducted them through the wilderneſs, God ordering them to take their rout along the coaſts of the Red ſea; and not the neareſt way to Canaan, which was but about three days journey.

Went up harneſſed.] The Hebrew word, comes from a root, which ſignifies five; hence, ſome think, they were marſhalled in ranks by five and five; others, that they were girt about the fifth rib with ſword belts, and conſequently that it ſignifies they were armed. The Septuagint renders it in the fifth generation; for it was promiſed Gen. xv. 16. that they ſhould come out in the fourth generation, which may include the children of the fifth.

Ver. 20. Etham.] Etham lay on the border of the wilderneſs of Shur, next to Egypt.

Ver. 21. The Lord went before.] Seeing Jeſus Chriſt appeared upon ſome extraordinary occaſions, before he became manifeſted in the fleſh: it is highly probable, he conducted the Iſraelites, and was preſent under theſe phænomena.

CHAP. XIV.

5 Pharaohs purſuit. 22 The Iſraelites paſs the Red-ſea. 27 The Egyptians drowned.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they turn and encamp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the ſea, over againſt Baal-zephon: before it ſhall ye encamp by the ſea.

3 For Pharaoh will ſay of the children of Iſrael, They are entangled in the land, the wilderneſs hath ſhut them in.

4 And I will harden Pharaohs heart, that he ſhall follow after them; and I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his hoſt; that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did ſo.

5 ¶ And it was told the King of Egypt, that the people fled: and the heart of Pharaoh and of his ſervants was turned againſt the people, and they ſaid, Why have we done this, that we have let Iſrael go from ſerving us?

6 And he made ready his chariot, and took his people with him.

7 And he took ſix hundred choſen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt, and captains over every one of them. Before Chriſt 1491.

8 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he purſued after the children Iſrael: and the children of Iſrael went out with an high hand.

9 But the Egyptians purſued after them (all the horſes and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horſemen, and his army) and overtook them encamping by the ſea, beſide Pi-hahiroth before Baal-zephon.

10 ¶ And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Iſrael lifted up their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them, and they were ſore afraid: and the children of Iſrael cried out unto the LORD.

11 And they ſaid unto Moſes, Becauſe there were no graves in Egypt, haſt thou taken us away to die in the wilderneſs? Wherefore haſt thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt?

12 Is not this the word that we did tell thee in Egypt, ſaying, Let us alone, that we may ſerve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to ſerve the Egyptians, than that we ſhould die in the wilderneſs.

13 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the people, Fear ye not, ſtand ſtill, and ſee the ſalvation

NOTES on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 2. That they turn, &c.] They intended at firſt, to have entered the wilderneſs from Etham, but are now ordered to the right, and to keep along the weſt ſide of the Red ſea.

Pi-hahiroth.] The word pi, ſignifies a mouth; it is likely therefore, this was a frith, or narrow paſſage, between the mountains of Hiroth. It was about ſixteen miles from Etham.

Baal-zephon.] The idol of Zephon. Probably ſome idolatrous place of worſhip, belonging to the Egyptians: So Baal-peor was the idol of the Moabites.

Migdol.] As this word ſignifies a caſtle, it was probably ſome fortreſs, erected on one of the mountains of Pi-hahiroth.

Ver. 3. Intangled in the land.] Hemmed in; the rocks being on one ſide, and the ſea on the other.

The wilderneſs hath ſhut them in.] Or rather, the wild rugged mountains, which lay near the ſhore of the Red ſea, and were almoſt impaſſable.

Ver. 5. That the people fled.] Inſtead of making a three day's journey as they had ſaid, he had learnt that that they were endeavouring to make their eſcape into the deſerts of Arabia.

Ver. 8. He purſued after the children of Iſrael.] Of all the infatuations that ever poſſeſſed a king or people, this was ſurely the moſt ſenſeleſs, after they had ſuffered ſo much by judgments, which were viſibly the hand of God. Perhaps they thought, that the God of Iſrael was not alike powerful in all places. Pharaoh's obſtinacy in this caſe, proves the truth of the prophet's aſſertion, viz.

That

vation of the LORD, which he will ſhew to you to day: for the Egyptians whom ye have ſeen to day, ye ſhall ſee them again no more for ever.

14 The LORD ſhall fight for you, and ye ſhall hold your peace.

15 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Wherefore crieſt thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they go forward.

16 But lift thou up thy rod, and ſtretch out thine hand over the ſea, and divide it: and the children of Iſrael ſhall go on dry ground through the midſt of the ſea.

17 And I, behold I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they ſhall follow them: and I will get me honour upon Pharaoh, and upon all his hoſt, upon his chariots, and upon his horſemen.

18 And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I have gotten me honour upon Pharaoh, upon his chariots, and upon his horſemen.

19 ¶ And the angel of God, which went before the camp of Iſrael, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face and ſtood behind them.

20 And it came between the camp of the Egyptians, and the camp of Iſrael; and it was a cloud and darkneſs to them, but it gave light by night to theſe: ſo that the one came not near the other all the night.

21 And Moſes ſtretched out his hand over the ſea; and the LORD cauſed the ſea to go back by a ſtrong eaſt wind all that night, and made the ſea dry land, and the waters were divided.

22 And the children of Iſrael went into the midſt of the ſea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left.

23 ¶ And the Egyptians purſued, and went in after them, to the midſt of the ſea, even all Pharaohs horſes, his chariots, and his horſemen.

24 And it came to paſs that in the morning-watch the LORD looked unto the hoſt of the Egyptians, through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and troubled the hoſt of the Egyptians,

25 And took off their chariot-wheels, that they drave them heavily: ſo that the Egyptians ſaid, Let us flee from the face of Iſrael; for the LORD fighteth for them, againſt the Egyptians.

26 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch

That it is as eaſy for the Æthiopian to change his ſkin, or the leopard his ſpots, as for them who have been accuſtomed to do evil, to learn to do good.

With an high hand.] That is, bravely and boldly.

Ver. 15. That they go forward.] This is a leſſon of inſtruction, and may teach us, that obedience muſt accompany faith; and that we muſt add endeavours to our prayers, if we expect ſucceſs.

Ver. 17. I will get me honour.] My power and juſtice ſhall be known unto men in theſe mighty works. It is repreſented by the rabbins, that Jethro, the firſt proſelyte, was converted by theſe great miracles; and we find the Philiſtines crying, Woe unto us, theſe are the Gods that ſmote the Egyptians with all the plagues. 1 Sam. iv. 8.

Ver. 21. The Lord cauſed the ſea to go back, &c.] Some ſceptical writers, have endeavoured to account for this in a natural way, viz. by the ebbing and flowing of the tide. But the clouds conducting them, and the ſeas retiring, at the inſtant that Moſes lift up his rod, and ſtanding on an heap on both ſides, and flowing in again upon the like ſign, and overwhelming the Egyptians, are circumſtances which prove it to be truly miraculous. Strabo, and other ancient authors, mention it as an extraordinary event, and contrary to the courſe of nature.

Ver. 23. The Egyptians purſued, &c.] Not knowing where they were, but thinking themſelves ſtill upon the land, or at leaſt upon the ſea ſhore: The darkneſs of the cloud interpoſing between them and the Iſraelites, would not ſuffer them to ſee the mountains of water on each ſide.

Ver. 24. Troubled the hoſt of the Egyptians.] Either the bright ſide of the cloud was now turned toward them, which confounded them with amazing ſplendor, by flaſhing in their faces; or, as Joſephus the Jewiſh hiſtorian informs us, by a terrible tempeſt, with thunder and hail-ſtones ſhot from the cloud, and whatever elſe could make their condition terrible. To this the Pſalmiſt bears witneſs, Pſalm lxxvii. 17.

Ver. 25. Took off their chariot wheels.] Brake them, by the lightning and tempeſt.

Before Chriſt 1491.

Stretch out thine hand over the ſea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horſemen.

27 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand over the ſea, and the ſea returned to his ſtrength when the morning appeared, and the Egyptians fled againſt it: and the Lord overthrew the Egyptians in the midſt of the ſea.

28 And the waters returned and covered the chariots, and the horſemen, and all the hoſt of Pharaoh that came into the ſea after them: there remained not ſo much as one of them.

29 But the children of Iſrael walked upon dry land in the midſt of the ſea: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left.

30 Thus the Lord ſaved Iſrael that day out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Iſrael ſaw the Egyptians dead upon the ſea-ſhore.

31 And Iſrael ſaw that great work which the Lord did upon the Egyptians: and the people feared the Lord, and believed the Lord, and his ſervant Moſes.

CHAP. XV.

1 Moſes ſong. 22 The people want water. 23 The bitter Waters of Marah, 25 are ſweetned.

Before Chriſt 1491.

THEN ſang Moſes and the children of Iſrael this ſong unto the Lord, and ſpake, ſaying, I will ſing unto the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriouſly; the horſe and his rider hath he thrown into the ſea.

2 The Lord is my ſtrength and ſong, and he is become my ſalvation: he is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation: my fathers God, and I will exalt him.

3 The Lord is a man of war: the Lord is his name.

4 Pharaohs chariots and his hoſt hath he caſt into the ſea: his choſen captains alſo are drowned in the Red ſea.

5 The depths have covered them: they ſank into the bottom as a ſtone.

6 Thy right hand, O Lord, is become glorious in power: thy right hand, O Lord, hath daſhed in pieces the enemy.

7 And in the greatneſs of thine excellency thou haſt overthrown them that roſe up againſt thee: thou ſenteſt forth thy wrath, which conſumed them as ſtubble.

8 And with the blaſt of thy noſtrils the waters were gathered together: the floods ſtood upright as an heap, and the depths were congealed in the heart of the ſea.

Ver. 27. The ſea returned to his ſtrength.] The waters, hitherto ſuſpended by Divine power, were now permitted to take their courſe; when they came rolling in upon the Egyptians, with the greateſt rage and impetuoſity.

Ver. 29. The children of Iſrael walked on dry land, &c.] It ſhould be rendered, they had walked, for they were ſafely arrived on the Arabian ſhore, at the time when the Egyptians were drowning in the ſea.

Ver. 31. The people feared the Lord.] Being ſtruck with the moſt awful ideas of God's majeſty, by reaſon of this great miracle. But this proved only a temporary fit of religion; for theſe devout impreſſions (as we ſhall find) were ſoon effaced by the ſubſequent difficulties and dangers they met with. Thus are the great mercies of God apt to ſlip out of our remembrance.

Notes on Chap. XV.

Ver. 1. Then ſang Moſes, &c.] This ſong is certainly the moſt ancient piece of poetry in the world, and contains two things the moſt eſſential to poetry; which are, elevation of ſentiment, and ſublimity of expreſſion; and though it is not eaſy to determine in what kind of meaſure it is compoſed, yet at the ſame time, the arrangement of the words is ſo happy, that they are perfectly adapted to be ſung to muſical inſtruments.

Ver. 2. He is my God, &c.] It had been better tranſlated, He is my God, and I will honour him; which anſwers to the other part of the ſentence, My father's God, and I will exalt him.

Ver. 3. A man of war.] It ſhould be rendered with the Arabic, the Lord is mighty in war.

Ver. 8. With the blaſt of thy noſtrils.] A poetical expreſſion for the wind, which by order of the Almighty, blew with a prodigious violence.

11 Who is like unto thee, O LORD, amongſt the gods? who is like thee, glorious in holineſs, fearful in praiſes, doing wonders?

12 Thou ſtretchedſt out thy right hand, the earth ſwallowed them.

13 Thou in thy mercy haſt led forth the people which thou haſt redeemed: thou haſt guided them in thy ſtrength unto thy holy habitation.

14 The people ſhall hear, and be afraid: ſorrow ſhall take hold on the inhabitants of Paleſtina.

15 Then the dukes of Edom ſhall be amazed, the mighty men of Moab trembling ſhall take hold upon them: all the inhabitants of Canaan ſhall melt away.

16 Fear and dread ſhall fall upon them: by the greatneſs of thine arm they ſhall be as ſtill as a ſtone: till thy people paſs over, O LORD, till the people paſs over, which thou haſt purchaſed.

18 The LORD ſhall reign for ever and ever.

19 For the horſe of Pharaoh went in with his chariots, and with his horſe-men into the ſea, and the LORD brought again the waters of the ſea upon them: but the children of Iſrael went on dry land in the midſt of the ſea.

20 ¶ And Miriam the propheteſs, the ſiſter of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand: and all the women went out after her, with timbrels, and with dances.

21 And Miriam anſwered them, Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed glorioully: the horſe and his rider hath he thrown into the ſea.

22 So Moſes brought Iſrael from the Red ſea, and they went out into the wilderneſs of Shur: and they went three days in the wilderneſs, and found no water.

23 ¶ And when they came to Marah, they could not drink of the waters of Marah; for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called Marah.

24 And the people murmured againſt Moſes, ſaying, What ſhall we drink?

AND they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael came unto the wilderneſs of Sin, which is between Elim, and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the ſecond month, after their departing out of the land of Egypt.

2 And the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron in the wilderneſs.

3 And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we ſat by the fleſh-pots, and when we did eat bread to the full: for ye have brought us forth into this wilderneſs, to kill this whole aſſembly with hunger.

6 And Moſes and Aaron ſaid unto all the children of Iſrael, At even, then ye ſhall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt.

7 And in the morning, then ye ſhall ſee the glory of the LORD; for that he heareth your murmurings againſt the LORD: And what are we, that ye murmur againſt us?

8 And Moſes ſaid, This ſhall be when the LORD ſhall give you in the evening fleſh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur againſt him: And what are we? your murmurings are not againſt us, but againſt the LORD.

Ver. 9. Come near before the Lord.] Aſſemble yourſelves together before the cloud, wherein the glorious preſence of Jehovah is manifeſted.

Before Christ 1491. 10 And it came to paſs, as Aaron ſpake unto the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael, that they looked toward the wilderneſs; and behold, the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael; ſpeak unto them, ſaying, At even ye ſhall eat fleſh, and in the morning ye ſhall be filled with bread: and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD your God.

13 And it came to paſs, that at even the quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning the dew lay round about the hoſt.

14 And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderneſs there lay a ſmall round thing, as ſmall as the hoar froſt on the ground.

15 And when the children of Iſrael ſaw it, they ſaid one to another, It is manna: for they wiſt not what it was. And Moſes ſaid unto them, This is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat.

16 ¶ This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man according to his eating; an omer for every man, according to the number of your perſons; take ye every man for them which are in his tents.

17 And the children of Iſrael did ſo, and gathered, ſome more, ſome leſs. Before Christ 1491.

18 And when they did mete it with an omer, he that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered little, had no lack: they gathered every man according to his eating.

19 And Moſes ſaid, Let no man leave of it till the morning.

20 Notwithſtanding they hearken not unto Moſes; but ſome of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms and ſtank: And Moſes was wroth with them.

21 And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating: and when the ſun waxed hot, it melted.

22 ¶ And it came to paſs that on the ſixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moſes.

23 And he ſaid unto them, This is that which the LORD hath ſaid, To morrow is the reſt of the holy ſabbath unto the LORD: bake that which ye will bake, to day, and ſeethe that ye will ſeethe; and that which remaineth over, lay up for you to be kept until the morning.

24 And they laid it up till the morning, as Moſes bad: and it did not ſtink, neither was there any worm therein.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Eat that to day; for

Ver. 13. The quails came up.] Some think, that inſtead of quails, it ſhould be tranſlated locuſts; but the Pſalmiſt expreſsly ſays, God rained fleſh on them as duſt, and feathered fowls as the ſand of the ſea, Pſ. lxxviii. 27. which cannot with any tolerable propriety, be applied to inſects. It is to be remembered too, that this happened in the middle of April, when it is known thoſe birds fly out of Egypt croſs the Red ſea, in great quantities; the ſum of the miracle therefore will conſiſt, not ſo much in the prodigious number of them (though that was extraordinary) that fell in the Iſraelitiſh camp, as in God's directing them thither, and in that very evening too, according to his promiſe, and his ſervant Moſes's prediction.

Ver. 15. Manna.] This was by no means common manna, but of a quite different property; for the common ſort is hardened by the rays of the ſun, whereas this melted away.

They wiſt not what it was.] This is an apparent contradiction; they call it by a name, and at the ſame time knew not what it was. Some therefore render it, they ſaid one to another what is this? for they wiſt not what it was; and obſerve, that the word by which they aſked, what is this? ſignifies alſo meat ready prepared; and therefore it was afterwards named by the ſame word.

Ver. 16. An omer,] This contained about three quarts, Engliſh wine meaſure.

Ver. 35. They did eat manna, &c.] In this miracle were ſeveral extraordinary circumſtances. Firſt, it fell but ſix days in the week. Secondly, it came in ſuch vaſt quantities, that it ſuſtained near three millions of people. Thirdly, every Friday, there fell a double quantity, ſufficient to ſerve them for the next day, which was the ſabbath. Fourthly, it kept not ſweet for two days, except what was gathered on a Friday. Fifthly, it continued falling, as long as the Iſraelites dwelt in the wilderneſs; but ceaſed, as ſoon as they entered Canaan, and had corn to eat.

6 Behold, I will ſtand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou ſhalt ſmite the rock, and there ſhall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moſes did ſo in the ſight of the elders of Iſrael.

7 And he called the name of the place Maſſah, and Meribah, becauſe of the chiding of the children of Iſrael, and becauſe they tempted the Lord, ſaying, Is the Lord among us, or not?

8 ¶ Then came Amalek, and fought with Iſrael in Rephidim.

9 And Moſes ſaid unto Joſhua, Chooſe us out men, and go out, fight with Amalek: to morrow I will ſtand on the top of the hill, with the rod of God in mine hand.

10 So Joſhua did as Moſes had ſaid to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moſes, Aaron, and Hur, went up to the top of the hill.

11 And it came to paſs when Moſes held up his hand, that Iſrael prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed.

Before Christ 1491.

12 But Moſes hands were heavy, and they took a ſtone and put it under him, and he ſat thereon: and Aaron and Hur ſtayed up his hands, the one on the one ſide, and the other on the other ſide; and his hands were ſteady until the going down of the ſun.

13 And Joſhua diſcomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the ſword.

14 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearſe it in the ears of Joſhua: for I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven.

15 And Moſes built an altar, and called the name of it JEHOVAH-niſſi.

And Moſes did ſo in the ſight of the elders.] It became a conſtant fountain or ſtream of water, which rendered this part of Arabia habitable in future ages. At the foot of mount Horeb, there is ſtill to be ſeen a brook of water; but as for the rock itſelf, which is a vaſt large ſtone, ſtanding ſeparate by itſelf, there is no water that now runs from it; though there are at preſent to be ſeen twelve holes or mouths, as it were, from whence the water did flow heretofore.

Ver. 7. Maſſah.] That is, temptation.

Meribah.] That is chiding.

Ver. 8. Then came Amalek and fought with Iſrael.] The Amalekites inhabited ſome part of Arabia Petrea, near Rephidim; they were the poſterity of Amalek, one of the ſons of Eſau, and the ground of their enmity againſt the Iſraelites, is ſuppoſed to have been, on account of Jacob's depriving their progenitor both of his birthright and bleſſing. This battle, however, is certainly related out of due order of time, for it appears from Deut. 25. that it was fought before the miracle at Horeb.

Ver. 9. Joſhua.] He was appointed to be Moſes's general and ſucceſſor, on account of his diſtinguiſhed merit, valour, and conduct.

Ver. 10. Hur.] He was head or prince of the tribe of Judah, which had pre-eminence over the reſt. By this junction of Moſes, Hur, and Aaron; the prophet, prince, and prieſt, now praying for the public welfare; the whole body of the people was repreſented.

Ver. 14. I will utterly put out, &c.] God denounces this ſad doom upon them, on account of their inveterate malice to the Iſraelites; but more eſpecially, becauſe they had offered an affront to his divine majeſty, by endeavouring to fruſtrate the deſigns of his providence; knowing the Iſraelites were pre-ordained by him, to be put in poſſeſſion of Canaan. Accordingly we find, that they were partly deſtroyed by Saul, David, and the children of Simeon.

5 And Jethro, Moſes father in law, came with his ſons and his wife unto Moſes into the wilderneſs, where he encamped at the mount of God.

6 And he ſaid unto Moſes, I thy father in law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two ſons with her.

7 ¶ And Moſes went out to meet his father in law, and did obeiſance, and kiſſed him, and they aſked each other of their welfare: and they came into the tent.

8 And Moſes told his father in law all that the Lord had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Iſraels ſake, and all the travel that had come upon them by the way, and how the Lord delivered them.

20 And thou ſhalt teach them ordinances and laws, and ſhalt ſhew them the way wherein they muſt walk, and the work that they muſt do.

21 Moreover, thou ſhalt provide out of all the people able men, ſuch as fear God, men of truth, hating covetouſneſs; and place ſuch over them, to be rulers of thouſands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

22 And let them judge the people at all ſeaſons: and it ſhall be, that every great matter they ſhall bring unto thee, but every ſmall matter they ſhall judge: So ſhall it be eaſier for thyſelf, and they ſhall bear the burden with thee.

23 If thou ſhalt do this thing, and God command thee ſo, then thou ſhalt be able to endure, and all this people ſhall alſo go to their place in peace.

24 So Moſes hearkened to the voice of his father in law, and did all that he had ſaid.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Lo, I come unto thee in a thick cloud, that the people may hear when I ſpeak with thee and believe thee for ever. And Moſes told the words of the people unto the LORD.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go unto the people, and ſanctify them to day and to morrow, and let them waſh their clothes,

Ver. 11 The Lord will come down, &c.] Seeing God is equally preſent at all times, and in all places, this is to be underſtood only of the external ſymbol of the Divine preſence.

Ver. 13. There ſhall not an hand touch it.] Such ſevere examples, were abſolutely neceſſary with ſo perverſe and ſtiff necked a people, in order to impreſs on their mind, a profound veneration for God and his laws.

Ver. 15. Come not at your wives.] To be fit for this ſpiritual intercourſe with God, abſtain from lawful pleaſures.

Ver. 16. There were thunders and lightenings, &c.] Awful and tremendous was the deſcent of God on mount Sinai. Milton has thus deſcribed the diſplay of the Divine majeſty, in his excellent poem.

——————— Clouds began
To darken all the hill, and ſmoke to roll
In duſky wreaths, reluctant flames, the ſight
Of wrath awak'd: nor with leſs dread the loud
Ethereal trumpet from on high 'gan blow.

Ver. 18. The Lord deſcended upon it in fire.] The Divine majeſty deſcended upon it in a cloud, with a numerous retinue of angels, who appeared like flames of fire. Thus Moſes himſelf expounds it, He came with ten thouſands of ſaints, from his right hand went a fiery law for them. Deut. xxxiii. 2.

Ver. 19. Moſes ſpake, and God anſwered him, &c.] The ſacred writers of the Old Teſtament, have not informed us what the words were, which were uttered by Moſes on this occaſion; but the Apoſtle to the Hebrews has ſupplied this deficiency, So terrible was the ſight, that Moſes ſaid, I exceedingly fear and quake, Heb. xii. 21. But the Divine majeſty encouraged him by a voice, which bid him diſmiſs his fears, and come up.

20 And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moſes up to the top of the mount, and Moſes went up.

21 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go down, charge the people, leſt they break through unto the LORD to gaze, and many of them periſh.

22 And let the prieſts alſo which come near to the LORD, ſanctify themſelves, leſt the LORD break forth upon them.

23 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou, chargedſt us, ſaying, Set bounds about the mount, and ſanctify it.

24 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou ſhalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the prieſts and the people break through, to come up unto the LORD, leſt he break forth upon them.

25 So Moſes went down unto the people, and ſpake unto them.

Ver. 20. Moſes went up.] He was not permitted to enter into the cloud, but only approached the thick darkneſs, ſtanding between the Divine preſence and the people.

Ver. 21. Go down, charge the people.] It ſeems, as if ſome of them were for approaching nearer, out of curioſity, to ſee if they could diſcover more of the Divine majeſty.

Ver. 22. Let the prieſts alſo, &c.] The tribe of Levi were not as yet ſeparated for the prieſthood; therefore this muſt mean the firſt-born, who were ſanctified and devoted to God, as his miniſters. See Exod. xiii. 2. Or elſe, Aaron and his ſons, who were appointed to the office by the nomination of Moſes, and the choice of the people, and were afterwards confirmed by God himſelf.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. God ſpake all theſe words, &c.] That is, the decalogue or ten commandments, containing the fundamental principles of morality. This law was given by the mediation of angels, repreſenting the Divine majeſty, and ſpeaking in his name. Gal. iii. 19. Heb. ii. 2.

Ver. 2. I am the Lord.] I am Jehovah, who have an abſolute and univerſal dominion over all created beings, becauſe I made them, and for my pleaſure they are, and were created, Rev. iv. 11. As the great creator therefore, and Lord of the univerſe, I challenge obedience, love, reſpect, fear, reverence, homage, and gratitude from men.

Thy God.] The Almighty entered into a ſpecial covenant with the people of Iſrael, by which they became heirs of the Promiſe; he took them under his more immediate protection, delivering them in a very ſignal manner from their Egyptian bondage; for theſe reaſons he calls himſelf their God: But is he the God of the Jews only, and not of the Gentiles alſo? Yes, of them likewiſe, for they too are the people of his hand, and the ſheep of his paſture. Yea, he is become ſo to us Chriſtians, in a more excellent manner than he was to the Jews. Their temporal redemption from the Egyptian bondage was but a type of our eternal redemption by Chriſt, from the bondage of ſin, ſatan, and death. Their earthly Canaan, did but pre-figure our Heavenly inheritance. So that our obligations to obedience, as Chriſtians, are much ſtronger, becauſe our redemption is more important.

Ver. 3. Thou ſhalt have no other Gods before me.] This command is intended to direct us in the object of our worſhip, to ſecure us againſt Atheiſm, Polytheiſm, and Idolatry. They ſin againſt this commandment, who do not love God above all things, who deſpiſe and neglect the Divine precepts, or diſbelieve the fundamental articles of faith; who neglect to pray to God; who too paſſionately purſue any temporal end or advantage.

Ver. 4. Thou ſhalt not make unto thee any graven image.] The firſt commandment confines us to the worſhip of the one true God; this, forbids us to worſhip that God, under any external repreſentation whatever. He is a ſpirit, therefore ſays Chriſt, they that worſhip him, muſt worſhip him in ſpirit and in truth. They ſin againſt this commandment, who frame too low and unworthy notions of the Deity, and who in their devotion do not raiſe their minds above groſs ſenſe and fancy; who, while they have their hands lift up to Heaven, have their hearts on the world, &c.

Ver. 5. A jealous God.] Jealous of mine honour, leſt what is due to me, ſhould be given to another; and who cannot endure a rival in worſhip.

7 Thou ſhalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltleſs that taketh his name in vain.

8 Remember the ſabbath-day, to keep it holy.

9 Six days ſhalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

of the deity. But the true ſolution of the caſe is, God ſpeaks here of viſiting the iniquity of the fathers, on ſuch of their children only, as inherit their vices, and imitate their bad examples. This is evident, from the words immediately following; to the third and fourth generation of them that hate me, that is; contemn and deſpiſe me.

Ver. 6. Shewing mercy unto thouſands.] That is, unto thouſands of generations. Thus does our benficent Creator delight in works of mercy, more than in acts (though of juſt) ſeverity; for, if he viſits for iniquity to three or four generations, yet his mercy extends unto thouſands. Thus does mercy rejoice againſt judgment.—It may be noted here, that this ſecond commandment, which prohibits image worſhip, is omitted by moſt of the Roman Catholics, in their manuals.

Ver. 7. Thou ſhalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.] This prohibition, is againſt perjury, and vain ſwearing. They ſin againſt this commandment, who take into their polluted mouths, the name of the great Jehovah, in their oaths and execrations; they who provoke others to ſwear, or who ſwear to things uncertain or unknown, &c.

The Lord will not hold him guiltleſs.] That is, he ſhall not go unpuniſhed.

Ver. 8. Remember the ſabbath day to keep it holy.] The word Sabbath, properly ſignifies Reſt. God originally ordered the ſeventh day to be the ſabbath, or day of reſt, in memory of his ceaſing then from all his glorious works of creation. Before the flood, however, men grew ſo very wicked, that they made no diſtinction between this day and others. Abraham, we may preſume, preſerved the memory of it in his family; though not with ſo ſtrict an abſtinence from labour, as was afterwards enjoined. The Iſraelites in Egypt, were kept ſo cloſe to their ſervitude, that it is likely, all obſervation of the ſabbath was laid aſide; but when God brought them out of ſlavery, he then renewed this commandment, with this addition (in memory of the Egyptian bondage) that they ſhould reſt from all labour on that day.

Though this injunction was only given to the Jews; yet it is as plain, that God ought ſtill to be honoured with public worſhip, and that ſome particular times ſhould be devoted to that purpoſe; therefore the Chriſtian diſpenſation has its day of reſt too, and appointed by Chriſt himſelf, who is Lord of the ſabbath. The old ſabbath, he inſtituted in memory of his works of creation; the new, or Chriſtian, in memory of his works of redemption. The former being only a type of the latter.

They ſin againſt this commandment, who do, or compel others to do, any ſervile work on this day; but in caſes of neceſſity, to be eſtimated by the rules of prudence and religion. They who neglect the public worſhip: They who ſpend the day in vain recreations: They who go unneceſſary journies, or in purſuit of pleaſure.

Ver. 12. Honour thy father and thy mother.] It means our natural parents; the duty we owe them, being next to that which we owe to God. They ſin againſt this commandment, who deſpiſe their parents, and refuſe to comply with their lawful commands.

It is to be noted, that under the name of father and mother, all ſuperiors are likewiſe to be underſtood; and for this reaſon, they too ſin againſt this commandment, who rebel againſt their lawful prince; or who ſpeak evil of the ruler of their people: They who diſobey the juſt commands of the legal magiſtrate: They who repine at the orders and injunctions of their maſters, &c. They who behave with rudeneſs and incivility towards the aged.

Ver. 13. Thou ſhalt not kill.] This precept is intended for the preſervation of ſociety, and order among men, which cannot ſubſiſt without the obſervation of it. The horrid crime of murder is hereby prohibited, whether of ourſelves, or others. They likewiſe ſin againſt this commandment, who endeavour to take away another man's reputation: They who oppreſs their neighbours: They who ſow the ſeeds of ſtrife and contention among them.

Ver. 14. Thou ſhalt not commit adultery.] Adultery is 19 And they ſaid unto Moſes, Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God ſpeak with us, leſt we die.

20 And Moſes ſaid unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye ſin not.

21 And the people ſtood afar off, and Moſes drew near unto the thick darkneſs where God was.

a crime of the deepeſt dye, becauſe it is a violation of the moſt ſacred bond of all ſociety; it cauſes diſſentions between families, and diſſolves the friendſhip of the moſt intimate acquaintance. They ſin againſt this command, who are guilty of fornication, inceſt, or uncleanneſs: They who uſe obſcenity, and filthy diſcourſe: They who delight in revellings, lewd ſongs, &c.

Ver. 15. Thou ſhalt not ſteal.] This precept is intended to preſerve men's lawful rights; and not only they ſin againſt it, who injnre them by open violence, but they alſo who practiſe underminings, and cozening, in traffic: They who become debtors by extravagance, indolence, &c. They who make a trade of uſury and extortion: They who game at cards, &c. with an intent to defraud, or detriment others.

Ver. 16. Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs, &c.] They ſin againſt this commandment, who ſpeak falſe things in judgment, and accuſe wrongfully: They who flatter, or ſlander, or backbite: They who ſecretly raiſe jealouſies and ſuſpicions without cauſe.

Ver. 17. Thou ſhalt not covet thy neighbours houſe, &c.] This command is intended to prohibit all unjuſt deſires and appetites. They ſin againſt it, who paſſionately deſire to be poſſeſſed of what is their neighbours: They who envy the proſperity of other men: They who greedily purſue riches, honours, pleaſures, &c.

Ver. 24. In all places where I record my name.] Where I exhibit myſelf to be honoured and worſhipped.

Ver. 25 If thou wilt make me altar.] This ſeems rather a permiſſion, than a precept. The Iſraelites had been long uſed to the ceremonies of Egypt, it was therefore difficult to reclaim them at once, from their inveterate habits, and bring them to reliſh the native ſimplicity of the true religion. If then they erected a ſtone altar, it was to be plain and ſimple, to convince them, that religion did not conſiſt in modes and forms, but in the devotion of the mind.

Ver. 26. That thy nakedneſs be not diſcovered thereon.] The garments worn by the inhabitants of the eaſtern nations, were looſe and flowing, and therefore were eaſily blown aſide. This precaution is uſed for the ſake of decency in God's worſhip; a thing which ought ſtrictly to be obſerved.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. Judgments, &c.] Rather the laws, or the principal articles of the moral law of the Jews, which were in this ſolemn manner, delivered by God to Moſes, as they follow in this, and the ſucceeding chapters. 27 For that is his covering only, it is his raiment for his ſkin: wherein ſhall he ſleep? And it ſhall come to paſs, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear: for I am gracious.

28 ¶ Thou ſhalt not revile the gods, nor curſe the ruler of thy people.

29 ¶ Thou ſhalt not delay to offer the firſt of thy ripe fruits, and of thy liquors: the firſt-born of thy ſons ſhalt thou give unto me.

30 Likewiſe ſhalt thou do with thine oxen, and with thy ſheep: ſeven days it ſhall be with his dam; on the eighth day thou ſhalt give it me.

31 ¶ And ye ſhall be holy men unto me: neither ſhall ye eat any fleſh that is torn of beaſt in the field: ye ſhall caſt it to the dogs.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 The laws continued. 20 Bleſſings promiſed.

Before Chriſt 1491.

THOU ſhalt not raiſe a falſe report: put not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witneſs.

2 ¶ Thou ſhalt not follow a multitude to do evil; neither ſhalt thou ſpeak in a cauſe, to decline after many, to wreſt judgment:

3 ¶ Neither ſhalt thou countenance a poor man in his cauſe.

4 ¶ If thou meet thine enemies ox or his aſs going aſtray, thou ſhalt ſurely bring it back to him again.

5 If thou ſee the aſs of him that hateth thee, lying under his burden, and wouldeſt forbear to help him; thou ſhalt ſurely help with him.

6 Thou ſhalt not wreſt the judgment of thy poor in his cauſe.

7 Keep thee far from a falſe matter: and the innocent and righteous ſlay thou not: for I will not juſtify the wicked.

8 ¶ And thou ſhalt take no gift: for the gift blindeth the wiſe, and perverteth the words of the righteous.

9 ¶ Alſo thou ſhalt not oppreſs a ſtranger: for ye know the heart of a ſtranger, ſeeing ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt.

10 And ſix years thou ſhalt ſow thy land, and ſhalt gather in the fruits thereof:

11 But the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let it reſt, and lie ſtill; that the poor of thy people may eat: and what they leave, the beaſts

Ver. 25. Thou ſhalt not be to him as an uſurer.] An exacting creditor, rigid, and urgent.

Ver. 26. By that the ſun goeth down.] The Hebrew canons ſay, that when one takes a pledge of his neighbour, if he be a poor man, and his pledge be a thing that he hath need of, it is commanded that he reſtore the pledge, when he needeth it; he is to reſtore him his bedding at night, that he may ſleep on it; and his working tools by day, that he may not neglect his buſineſs; if he doth not reſtore the inſtrument of the day, by day, and the inſtrument of the night, at night, he tranſgreſſeth the law.

Ver. 28. Thou ſhalt not revile the Gods.] By this, the people were taught due reverence to magiſtrates, as God's vicegerents. The Hebrew word ELOHIM, ſignifying likewiſe princes, judges, or magiſtrates.

Ver. 29. Ripe fruits.] Wheat, barley, grapes, figs, dates, pomegranates, and olives.

Liquors.] That is, wine and oil.

Ver. 30. Thy ſheep.] Or goats, for the Hebrew word ſignifies both, and both were offered in ſacrifice. See Lev. i. 10.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 3. Neither ſhalt thou countenance a poor man.] That is, thou ſhalt not diſregard the juſtice of the cauſe, out of pity to his extreme poverty.

Ver. 4. If thou meet thine enemies ox, &c.] Though private injuries are ſufficient reaſons to decline treating a man as a friend, or familiar companion; yet they can never juſtify our denying him the common offices of humanity, for this would be a breach of the law of nature. Though we remember a man is not our friend, yet we ought not to forget that he is a man.

Ver. 11. Let it reſt, and lie ſtill.] This was in order to beaſts of the field ſhall eat. In like manner thou ſhalt deal with thy vineyard, and with thy olive-yard.

12 Six days thou ſhalt do thy work, and on the ſeventh day thou ſhalt reſt: that thine ox and thine aſs may reſt, and the ſon of thy handmaid, and the ſtranger may be refreſhed.

13 And in all things that I have ſaid unto you, be circumſpect: and make no mention of the names of other gods, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

14 ¶ Three times thou ſhalt keep a feaſt unto me in the year.

15 Thou ſhalt keep the feaſt of unleavened bread: thou ſhall eat unleavened bread ſeven days, as I commanded thee in the time appointed of the month Abib: for in it thou cameſt out from Egypt: and none ſhall appear before me empty:

16 And the feaſt of harveſt, the firſt-fruits of thy labours, which thou haſt ſown in the field: and the feaſt of in-gathering, which is in the end of the year, when thou haſt gathered in thy labours out of the field.

17 Three times in the year all thy males ſhall appear before the LORD God.

18 Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leavened bread; neither ſhall the fat of my ſacrifice remain until the morning.

19 The firſt of the firſt-fruits of thy land thou ſhalt bring into the houſe of the LORD thy God. Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mothers milk.

20 ¶ Behold, I ſend an Angel before thee to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared.

21 Beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not: for he will not pardon your tranſgreſſions; for my name is in him.

22 But if thou ſhalt indeed obey his voice, and do all that I ſpeak; then I will be an enemy unto thine enemies, and an adverſary unto thine adverſaries.

23 For mine Angel ſhall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites: and I will cut them off.

24 Thou ſhalt not bow down to their gods, nor ſerve them, nor do after their works: but thou ſhalt utterly overthrow them, and quite break down their images.

25 And ye ſhall ſerve the LORD your God, and he ſhall bleſs thy bread, and thy water: and I will take ſickneſs away from the midſt of thee.

26 ¶ There ſhall nothing caſt their young, nor be barren in thy land: the number of thy days I will fulfil.

27 I will ſend my fear before thee, and will deſtroy all the people to whom thou ſhalt come, and I will make all thine enemies turn their backs unto thee.

to beget in them truſt in God, and dependance on his providence. It was likewiſe a curb to avarice, and cauſed them to exerciſe humanity towards their ſlaves, and beaſts, and to ſhew mercy and liberality to the poor.

Ver. 14. Three times thou ſhalt keep a feaſt.] The feaſt of the paſſover, pentecoſt, and tabernacles, at which three ſolemn ſeaſons, the whole body of the nation aſſembled.

Ver. 16. The feaſt of harveſt.] Called alſo the feaſt of weeks, being ſeven weeks after the paſſover; and pentecoſt, which in the Greek ſignifies the fiftieth, becauſe it fell on the fiftieth day after the paſſover.

The feaſt of in-gathering.] Called the feaſt of tabernacles. Levit. xxiii. 34.

Ver. 19. Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mother's milk.] Dr. Chudworth informs us, that it was a prevalent cuſtom amongſt ancient idolaters, at the time when they had gathered in the fruits of the earth, to ſeethe a kid in his mother's milk, and to ſprinkle the trees, fields, and gardens with the broth, after a magical manner, to render them the more fruitful the next year. The reaſon of the prohibition therefore is evident, viz. that they ſhould not practiſe ſuch ſuperſtition.

Ver. 25. Thy bread and thy water.] This ſignifies proviſion in general.

Ver. 26. The number of thy days I will fulfil.] The number of days here ſpoken of, is the common period of human life at that time, which was ſeventy, or eighty years. See Pſalm xc. 10.

Ver. 27. Will ſend my fear.] Will ſtrike a terror and pannic, into the inhabitants of Canaan.

Before Christ 1491.

28 And I will ſend hornets before thee, which ſhall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite from before thee.

29 I will not drive them out from before thee in one year; leſt the land become deſolate, and the beaſt of the field multiply againſt thee.

30 By little and little I will drive them out from before thee, until thou be increaſed, and inherit the land.

31 And I will ſet thy bounds from the Red ſea even unto the ſea of the Philiſtines, and from the deſert unto the river: for I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand; and thou ſhalt drive them out before thee.

32 Thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods.

33 They ſhall not dwell in thy land, leſt they make thee ſin againſt me: for if thou ſerve their gods, it will ſurely be a ſnare unto thee.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Moſes called up into the mountain. 3 The peoples promiſe. 9 The glory of the Lord.

AND he ſaid unto Moſes, Come up unto the LORD, thou and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael: and worſhip ye afar off.

2 And Moſes alone ſhall come near the LORD: but they ſhall not come nigh; neither ſhall the people go up with him.

Before Christ 1491.

3 ¶ And Moſes came and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people anſwered with one voice, and ſaid, All the words, which the LORD hath ſaid, will we do.

4 And Moſes wrote all the words of the LORD, and roſe up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael.

5 And he ſent young men of the children of Iſrael, which offered burnt-offerings, and ſacrificed peace-offerings of oxen unto the LORD.

6 And Moſes took half of the blood, and put it in baſons; and half of the blood he ſprinkled on the altar.

7 And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people: and they ſaid, all that the LORD hath ſaid, will we do, and be obedient.

8 And Moſes took the blood, and ſprinkled it on the people, and ſaid, Behold the blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you concerning all theſe words.

9 ¶ Then went up Moſes and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael.

10 And they ſaw the God of Iſrael: and there was under his feet, as it were a paved

Ver. 28. I will ſend hornets before thee.] Theſe words are uſually underſtood as metaphorical, but Joſhua tells us, they were literally performed. Joſ. xxiv. 12.

Ver. 31. From the Red ſea, even unto the ſea of the Philiſtines.] From the Red ſea on the ſouth-eaſt, to the Mediterranean ſea on the north-weſt.

From the deſert unto the river.] From the deſart of Arabia, to the river Euphrates.

Ver. 32. With them nor with their Gods.] Have no correſpondence with them, in matters either politic or religious.

NOTES on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 1. Nadab and Abihu.] Aaron's eldeſt ſons.

Ver. 4. An altar,—and twelve pillars.] The altar was to repreſent God, the one and chief party in the covenant; and the twelve pillars, the twelve tribes, the other party in the ſaid covenant.

Ver. 5. Young men.] Theſe were the eldeſt ſons of the principal families, appointed to the prieſthood.

Burnt-offerings,—and peace-offerings.] Burnt offerings, ſometimes ſignify ſacrifices in general, but properly, only ſuch as were wholly conſumed by fire. Peace-offerings, were made in gratitude for favours received.

Ver. 8. Took the blood.] The other half of it that remained.

On the people.] Or this may be underſtood of the twelve pillars, which repreſented the people. It is to be noted, that one way of making covenants anciently, was by ſprinkling the blood of the ſacrifice on both parties.

Ver. 10. They ſaw the God of Iſrael.] Both the Jewiſh and Chriſtian religion teach, that God is of a ſpiritual nature, and inviſible; we are not therefore to imagine that they ſaw any viſible ſhape, but only the ſymbol of the Divine majeſty, or ſigns of his glory. Accordingly, the Chaldee expounds it, the glory of the God of Iſrael.

Before Christ 1491. paved work of a ſapphire-ſtone, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearneſs.

11 And upon the nobles of the children of Iſrael he laid not his hand: alſo they ſaw God, and did eat and drink.

12 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Come up to me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee tables of ſtone, and a law, and commandments which I have written; that thou mayeſt teach them.

13 And Moſes roſe up, and his miniſter Joſhua: and Moſes went up into the mount of God.

14 And he ſaid unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us, until we come again unto you: and behold, Aaron and Hur are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them.

15 And Moſes went up into the mount, and a cloud covered the mount.

16 And the glory of the Lord abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it ſix days: and the ſeventh day he called unto Moſes out of the midſt of the cloud.

17 And the ſight of the glory of the Lord was like devouring fire on the top of the mount, in the eyes of the children of Iſrael.

18 And Moſes went into the midſt of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount: and Moſes was in the mount forty days, and forty nights.

1 Of the tabernacle. 10 The ark. 17 The mercy-ſeat. 23 The table. 31 The candleſtick.

Before Christ 1491. AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they bring me an offering: of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart, ye ſhall take my offering.

3 And this is the offering which he ſhall take of them; gold, and ſilver, and braſs,

4 And blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats hair,

5 And rams ſkins dyed red, and badgers ſkins, and ſhittim wood,

6 Oil for the light, ſpices for anointing oil, and for ſweet incenſe,

7 Onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet in the ephod, and in the breaſt-plate.

8 And let them make me a ſanctuary; that I may dwell amongſt them.

9 According to all that I ſhew thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the inſtruments thereof, even ſo ſhall ye make it.

10 ¶ And they ſhall make an ark of ſhittim-wood: two cubits and an half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

11 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without ſhalt thou overlay it: and ſhalt make upon it a crown of gold round about.

12 And thou ſhalt caſt four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners thereof; and two rings ſhall be in the one ſide of it, and two rings in the other ſide of it.

Ver. 4. Scarlet.] In the Hebrew, the worm of ſcarlet, becauſe inſects were made uſe of in dying that colour.

Ver. 5. Shittim-wood] It is generally thought to be the wood of the cedar tree; though ſome think it rather the wood of a certain tree, which grows common in ſome parts of the wilderneſs, and reſembles the Acacia of Egypt.

Ver. 7. The Ephod.] See ch. xxviii. ver. 6.

Breaſt-plate.] See ch. xxviii. ver 15.

Ver. 10. An ark.] It was a cheſt or coffer, overlaid with gold. It was called the ark of the covenant, being a ſymbol of the covenant which God made with his people, and contained the two tables, the pot of manna, and Aaron's miraculous rod.

Ver. 11. A crown of gold round about.] A cornice, or rich moulding of maſſy gold, was to go round the top of it.

Before Chriſt 1491.

13 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

14 And thou ſhalt put the ſtaves into the rings, by the ſides of the ark, that the ark may be borne with them.

15 The ſtaves ſhall be in the rings of the ark: they ſhall not be taken from it.

16 And thou ſhall put into the ark the teſtimony which I ſhall give thee.

17 And thou ſhalt make a mercy-ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and a half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

18 And thou ſhalt make two cherubims of gold: of beaten work ſhalt thou make them, in the two ends of the mercy-ſeat.

19 And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end: even of the mercy-ſeat ſhall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

20 And the cherubims ſhall ſtretch forth their wings on high, covering the mercy-ſeat with their wings: and their faces ſhall look one to another: toward the mercy-ſeat ſhall the faces of the cherubims be.

21 And thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark; and in the ark thou ſhalt put the teſtimony that I ſhall give thee.

22 And there I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee, from above the mercy-ſeat, from between the two cherubims which are upon the ark of the teſtimoy, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1491.

23 ¶ Thou ſhalt alſo make a table of ſhittim-wood: two cubits ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof.

24 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown of gold round about.

25 And thou ſhalt make unto it a border of an hand-breadth round about, and thou ſhalt make a golden crown to the border thereof round about.

26 And thou ſhalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof.

27 Over againſt the border ſhall the rings be for places of the ſtaves to bear the table.

28 And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be borne with them.

29 And thou ſhalt make the diſhes thereof, and ſpoons thereof, and covers thereof, and bowls thereof, to cover withal: of pure gold ſhalt thou make them.

30 And thou ſhalt ſet upon the table, ſhew-bread before me alway.

31 ¶ And thou ſhalt make a candleſtick of pure gold: of beaten work ſhall the candleſtick be made; his ſhaft, and his

Ver. 18. Two cherubims of gold.] By what may be learnt from the general deſcription of Moſes, theſe cherubims were human figures, with wings ſtretched out, and covering the mercy-ſeat, and as it may reaſonably be concluded, in a bowing poſture. Theſe repreſented the angels, which ſtand before the celeſtial glory; as the ſanctuary did Heaven, and the mercy-ſeat the throne of God.

Ver. 31. A candleſtick of pure gold.] The branches of this candleſtick were placed at equal diſtances, adorned with ſix flowers like lillies, and as many knobs like apples, and alſo little bowls, like half almond ſhells; theſe were put alternately: Upon each of the branches, there was a golden lamp, which was lighted every evening, and extinguiſhed every morning.

33 Three bowls made like unto almonds, with a knop and a flower in one branch; and three bowls made like almonds in the other branch, with a knop and a flower: ſo in the ſix branches that come out of the candleſtick.

34 And in the candleſtick ſhall be four bowls made like unto almonds, with their knops and their flowers.

35 And there ſhall be a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches that proceed out of the candleſtick.

36 Their knops and their branches ſhall be of the ſame: all it ſhall be one beaten work of pure gold.

37 And thou ſhalt make the ſeven lamps thereof: and they ſhall light the lamps thereof, that they may give light over againſt it.

38 And the tongs thereof, and the ſnuffdiſhes thereof ſhall be of pure gold.

39 Of a talent of pure gold ſhall he make it, with all theſe veſſels.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The curtains. 31 The vail.

MOREOVER, thou ſhalt make the tabernacle with ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work ſhalt thou make them.

2 The length of one curtain ſhall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain, four cubits: and every one of the curtains ſhall have one meaſure.

3 The five curtains ſhall be coupled together one to another; and other five curtains ſhall be coupled one to another.

4 And thou ſhalt make loops of blue upon the edge of the one curtain, from the ſelvedge in the coupling; and likewiſe ſhalt thou make in the uttermoſt edge of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond.

5 Fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the edge of the curtain that is in the coupling of the ſecond; that the loops may take hold of one another.

6 And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of gold, and couple the curtains together with the taches: and it ſhall be one tabernacle.

7 ¶ And thou ſhalt make curtains of goats hair to be a covering upon the tabernacle: eleven curtains ſhalt thou make.

8 The length of one curtain ſhall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain, four cubits: and the eleven curtains ſhall be all of one meaſure.

9 And thou ſhalt couple five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves, and ſhalt double the ſixth curtain in the forefront of the tabernacle.

10 And thou ſhalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is outmoſt in the coupling, and fifty loops in the edge of the curtain which coupleth the ſecond.

Ver. 39. A talent of pure gold.] A talent contained 3000 ſhekels, or 5464 pounds Sterling.

NOTES on Chap. XXVI.

Ver. 1. Moreover thou ſhalt make the tabernacle.] The Hebrew word, OBEL, ſignifies a tent; this ſacred place was therefore to be conſtructed in ſuch a manner, as to be eaſily ſet up, and taken down; which was neceſſary, on account of their frequent marches.

Before Chriſt 1491.

11 And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of braſs, and put the taches into the loops, and couple the tent together that it may be one.

12 And the remnant that remaineth of the curtains of the tent, the half-curtain that remaineth, ſhall hang over the backſide of the tabernacle.

13 And a cubit on the one ſide, and a cubit on the other ſide of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it ſhall hang over the ſides of tabernacle, on this ſide, and on that ſide, to cover it.

14 And thou ſhalt make a covering for the tent, of ram ſkins dyed red, and a covering above of badgers ſkins.

15 ¶ And thou ſhalt make boards for the tabernacle, of ſhittim-wood, ſtanding up.

16 Ten cubits ſhall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half ſhall be the breadth of one board.

17 Two tenons ſhall there be in one board, ſet in order one againſt another: thus ſhalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

18 And thou ſhalt make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the ſouth ſide, ſouthward.

19 And thou ſhalt make forty ſockets of ſilver, under the twenty boards; two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons.

20 And for the ſecond ſide, of the tabernacle on the north ſide, there ſhall be twenty boards.

Before Chriſt 1491.

21 And their forty ſockets of ſilver: two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

22 And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſtward, thou ſhalt make ſix boards.

23 And two boards ſhalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides.

24 And they ſhall be coupled together beneath, and they ſhall be coupled together above the head of it unto one ring: thus ſhall it be for them both; they ſhall be for the two corners.

25 And they ſhall be eight boards, and their ſockets of ſilver, ſixteen ſockets; two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

26 ¶ And thou ſhalt make bars of ſhittim-wood; five for the boards of the one ſide of the tabernacle,

27 And five bars for the boards of the other ſide of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the ſide of the tabernacle for the two ſides weſtward.

28 And the middle bar in the midſt of the boards ſhall reach from end to end.

29 And thou ſhalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places for the bars: and thou ſhalt overlay the bars with gold.

30 And thou ſhalt rear up the tabernacle according to the faſhion thereof, which was ſhewed thee in the mount.

Ver. 14. A covering.] The tabernacle had three different ſorts of coverings. Ver. 24. And they ſhall be coupled together beneath.] The meaning ſeems to be this; that they ſhould be uniformly joined at the bottom, and alſo at the top, in ſimilar rings, or ſtaples.

Ver. 26. Bars.] Theſe went through the rings which were in each plank, and ſo joined them together. It is not ſaid whether theſe rings and bars were placed on the inſide, or the outſide of the tabernacle; but it ſeems moſt probable, they were on the outſide.

Ver. 27. For the two ſides weſtward.] It ought to be rendered, for the ſide weſtward.

Ver. 31. Thou ſhalt make a vail.] This vail, made a diviſion of the tabernacle into two parts, and ſeparated the holy, from the moſt holy place; it was adorned with cherubims, feſtoons, and other ornaments, curiouſly embroidered upon it.

twined linen of cunning work: with cherubims ſhall it be made.

32 And thou ſhalt hang it upon four pillars of ſhittim-wood, overlaid with gold: their hooks ſhall be of gold, upon the four ſockets of ſilver.

33 ¶ And thou ſhalt hang up the vail under the taches, that thou mayeſt bring in thither within the vail, the ark of the teſtimony: and the vail ſhall divide unto you, between the holy place and the moſt holy.

34 And thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat upon the ark of the teſtimony, in the moſt holy place.

35 And thou ſhalt ſet the table without the vail, and the candleſtick over againſt the table on the ſide of the tabernacle toward the ſouth: and thou ſhalt put the table on the north ſide.

36 And thou ſhalt make an hanging for the door of the tent, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needle-work.

37 And thou ſhalt make for the hanging five pillars of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold, and their hooks ſhall be of gold: and thou ſhalt caſt five ſockets of braſs for them.

Before Christ 1491.

AND thou ſhalt make an altar of ſhittim-wood, five cubits long, and five cubits broad: the altar ſhall be four-ſquare; and the height thereof ſhall be three cubits.

2 And thou ſhalt make the horns of it upon the four corners thereof: his horns ſhall be of the ſame: and thou ſhalt overlay it with braſs.

3 And thou ſhalt make his pans to receive his aſhes, and his ſhovels, and his baſons, and his fleſh-hooks, and his fire-pans: all the veſſels thereof thou ſhalt make of braſs.

4 And thou ſhalt make for it a grate of net-work of braſs; and upon the net ſhalt thou make four braſen rings in the four corners thereof.

5 And thou ſhalt put it under the compaſs of the altar beneath, that the net may be even to the midſt of the altar.

6 And thou ſhalt make ſtaves for the altar, ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with braſs.

7 And the ſtaves ſhall be put into the rings, and the ſtaves ſhall be upon the two ſides of the altar to bear it.

Ver. 33. The moſt holy.] This place is, in the New Teſtament, made a figure of Heaven, into which Chriſt our high prieſt is entered, as our forerunner.

Ver. 34. Thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat upon the ark of the teſtimony, in the moſt holy place.] The tabernacle was a type of our redeemer, dwelling in our nature; the mercy-ſeat, placed upon the ark of the teſtimony, was an emblem of him, from whoſe mouth we received a law, founded upon better promiſes; by whoſe interceſſion, we have acceſſion, with boldneſs, to the throne of grace; and whoſe ſatisfaction, is our true propitiatory, or mercy-ſeat.

Ver. 36. The door of the tent.] The ark and mercy-ſeat, were placed at the weſt end of the tabernacle; ſo that the door fronted the eaſt, and the Iſraelites, in worſhipping the great Jehovah, turned their faces towards the weſt, and from the ſun, the idol of the nations.

NOTES on Chap. XXVII.

Ver. 1. And thou ſhalt make an altar of ſhittim-wood.] It may be aſked, how it was poſſible to prevent the burning of the altar, by reaſon of the continual fire, notwithſtanding the braſs covered it: To this it is anſwered, that the top, with its crown or frame, was fixed ſo as to be at ſome ſmall diſtance above the wood of the altar.

Ver. 2. And thou ſhalt make the horns of it.] By horns, we are to underſtand little pyramids, or ſpires, made out of the ſame wood with the altar, and placed one at each corner; their uſe was, both to tie the ſacrifice to, and alſo to keep the wood from falling off. It was cuſtomary for thoſe who fled to the altar for refuge, to lay hold on theſe horns.

Ver. 3 Baſons.] Theſe were to receive the blood of the ſacrifice.

Ver. 9. Court of the tabernacle.] The tabernacle ſtood in a large oblong court, incloſed with hangings, and ſupported by pillars overlaid with ſilver; and towards the upper end, between which and the entrance, was placed the altar of burnt-offerings, in the open air, that ſo the ſmoke might not ſoil the inſide of the tabernacle. Thus, the habitation of God, was divided into three parts; the outward court, which was in the open light and view of all; the holy place, which received light from the ſeven lamps of the golden candleſtick; and the Holy of Holies, which had no external light; but the preſence of God, reſted on the mercy-ſeat between the cherubims.

5 And they ſhall take gold, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen.

6 ¶ And they ſhall make the ephod of gold, of blue, and of purple, of ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, with cunning work.

7 It ſhall have the two ſhoulder-pieces thereof joined at the two edges thereof; and ſo it ſhall be joined together.

14 And two chains of pure gold at the ends; of wreathen work ſhalt thou make them, and faſten the wreathen chains to the ouches.

of wiſdom.] Skilful artiſts. God diſpenſes divers gifts and endowments to different people; and mechanical ingenuity is to be aſcribed to God as the author, who forms the mind with all its powers; for from him cometh every good and perfect gift.

Ver. 4. A breaſt-plate.] Where the ephod croſſed the high-prieſt's breaſt, there was a ſquare ornament, called the breaſt-plate, or pectoral; in this, were ſet in gold, twelve precious ſtones, in four rows, three in each row, with the names of the twelve tribes engraven, on each ſtone one. The whole was faſtened to the ephod, at the four corners; the top, by a golden hook or ring, at the end of a wreathed chain, to each ſhoulder-piece; the bottom, to the girdle of the ephod, by two blue ſtrings or ribbons, having likewiſe two rings or hooks.

An ephod. This was a kind of ſquare cloak, about two feet in length, hanging down from the ſhoulders, curiouſly wrought with gold, and other embroidery; on the top, on each ſhoulder, were two ſhoulder-pieces, to which were faſtened two precious ſtones, ſet in gold, upon which were engraved the names of the twelve tribes, ſix on each ſtone.

A robe.] This was a long garment, made of blue cloth, hanging down to the heels: It was faſhioned like a ſurplice, the ſkirts wrought with blue, purple, and ſcarlet yarn, in the ſhape of pomegranates, between each of which, hung a bell of gold.

A broidered coat.] This was the undermoſt garment, not much unlike to a ſhirt; it was made of fine linen, embroidered, ſtuck pretty cloſe to the body, and likewiſe reached to the heels.

A miter.] The miter was made of fine linen, it covered the head, and upon the forehead there was a plate of gold, whereon were engraven theſe words, holineſs to the Lord; and this was tied behind the head with two ribbons, faſtened to its two ends.

A girdle.] This was made of gold thread, and others of different colours; it was brought from behind the neck, and over the two ſhoulders, then put croſs upon the ſtomach, carried round the waiſt, and brought back again about the body, where it guided the tunic like a ſaſh, and ſo fell down before, hanging as low as the feet.

Ver. 9. Grave on them the names of the children of Iſrael.] The ſtone on the right ſhoulder of the ephod, had the names of Reuben, Levi, Iſſachar, Naphtali, Gad, and Joſeph; and that on the left, thoſe of Simeon, Judah, Zabulon, Dan, Aſher, and Benjamin.

Ver. 15. The breaſt-plate of judgment.] So called, becauſe the high-prieſt wore it upon his breaſt, whenever he went to aſk counſel or judgment, from God.

Before Christ 1491.

16 Four-ſquare it ſhall be being doubled; a ſpan ſhall be the length thereof, and a ſpan ſhall be the breadth thereof.

17 And thou ſhalt ſet in it ſettings of ſtones, even four rows of ſtones; the firſt row ſhall be a ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this ſhall be the firſt row.

18 And the ſecond row ſhall be an emerald, a ſapphire, and a diamond.

19 And the third row a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt.

20 And the fourth row a beryl, and an onyx, and a jaſper: they ſhall be ſet in gold in their encloſings.

21 And the ſtones ſhall be with the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names; like the engraving of a ſignet, every one with his name ſhall they be according to the twelve tribes.

22 ¶ And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate chains at the ends, of wreathen work, of pure gold.

23 And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate two rings of gold, and ſhalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breaſt-plate.

24 And thou ſhalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breaſt-plate.

Before Christ 491.

25 And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains, thou ſhalt faſten in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the ephod before it.

26 ¶ And thou ſhalt make two rings of gold, and thou ſhalt put them upon the two ends of the breaſt-plate, in the border thereof, which is in the ſide of the ephod inward.

27 And two other rings of gold thou ſhalt make, and ſhalt put them on the two ſides of the ephod, underneath towards the fore-part thereof, over againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod.

28 And they ſhall bind the breaſt-plate by the rings thereof, unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſt-plate be not looſed from the ephod.

29 And Aaron ſhall bear the names of the children of Iſrael in the breaſt-plate of judgment, upon his heart, when he goeth in unto the holy place, for a memorial before the LORD continually.

30 ¶ And thou ſhalt put in the breaſt-plate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim; and they ſhall be upon Aarons heart, when he goeth in before the LORD;

Ver. 17. A ſardius.] This ſtone is of a red flaming colour, ſemi-pellucid, or half tranſparent, and has ſometimes a yellow caſt in it. Our modern jewellers, call it a cornelian, of which there are ſeveral ſpecies.

A topaz.] This precious ſtone is tranſparent, of a beautiful yellow, or gold colour; it derives its name from Topazus, an iſland in the Red ſea, where it was firſt diſcovered.

A carbuncle.] This is a ſpecies of the ruby, of a glowing red colour, and is ſo named from Carbo, an hot coal.

Ver. 18. An emerald.] It is of a moſt lively green, tranſparent, and free from the leaſt mixture of any other colour, and for that reaſon the moſt grateful to the eye of all other gems.

A ſapphire.] This ſtone is of a fine blue.

A diamond.] This gem is eſteemed above all others, on account of its ſuperior hardneſs and luſtre.

Ver. 19. A ligure.] This is generally thought to be a kind of jacinth, nearly of the colour of amber.

An agate.] This is partly tranſparent, and partly opake, being for the moſt part variegated with veins, diſpoſed in a very elegant manner.

An amethyſt.] This precious ſtone is of a violet colour, bordering on purple, or nearly the colour of red wine.

Ver. 20. A beryl.] It is a gem of a pale green, generally known by the name of aqua marina, from its reſemblance of ſea water in colour.

An onyx.] This reſembles an human nail in colour, from whence it derives its name; it is ſo variegated in a very regular manner, with zones of a brown colour.

A jaſper.] This gem is generally of a green colour, ſpeckled with yellow, brown, white, and blue.

Ver. 21. The ſtones ſhall be with the names of the children of Iſrael.] Upon the ſardius, was engraven the name of Reuben; the topaz, Simeon; the carbuncle, Levi; the emerald, Judah; the ſapphire, Iſſachar; the diamond, Zabulon; the ligure, Dan; the agate, Naphtali; the amethyſt, Gad; the beryl, Aſher; the onyx, Joſeph; and the jaſper, Benjamin.

31 ¶ And thou ſhalt make the robe of the ephod all of blue.

32 And there ſhall be an hole in the top of it, in the midſt thereof: it ſhall have a binding of woven work, round about the hole of it, as it were the hole of an habergeon, that it be not rent.

33 ¶ And beneath upon the hem of it thou ſhalt make pomegranates of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet round about the hem thereof; and bells of gold between them round about.

34 A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe round about.

35 And it ſhall be upon Aaron to miniſter: and his ſound ſhall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy place before the Lord, and when he cometh out; that he die not.

36 ¶ And thou ſhalt make a plate of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engravings of a ſignet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

37 And thou ſhalt put it on a blue lace, that it may be upon the miter: upon the fore-front of the miter it ſhall be.

38 And it ſhall be upon Aarons forehead, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts: and it ſhall be always upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the Lord.

39 ¶ And thou ſhalt embroider the coat of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the miter of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the girdle of needle-work.

40 ¶ And for Aarons ſons thou ſhalt make coats, and thou ſhalt make for them girdles, and bonnets ſhalt thou make for them, for glory and for beauty.

41 And thou ſhalt put them upon Aaron thy brother, and his ſons with him: and ſhalt anoint them, and conſecrate them, and ſanctify them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

42 And thou ſhalt make them linen breeches to cover their nakedneſs: from the loins even unto the thighs they ſhall reach.

43 And they ſhall be upon Aaron, and upon his ſons, when they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto the altar to miniſter in the holy place; that they bear not iniquity, and die. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto him, and his ſeed after him.

divers opinions concerning the true meaning of theſe words, but that which appears moſt probable, is this; that when Moſes was commanded to put into the breaſtplate, the Urim and Thummim, i. e. lights and perfections, it implied, that he ſhould chuſe the moſt precious ſet of ſtones, and cauſe them to be poliſhed in the moſt elegant manner, in order to increaſe their natural luſtre. What we read, ver. 30 confirms this conjecture, where after God had given particular directions for making the breaſtplate, he adds, And thou ſhalt put in the breaſt-plate of judgment, the Urim and the Thummim, which, when literally tranſlated, runs thus, And thou ſhalt give to the breaſt-plate of judgment, thoſe lights and perfections, viz. of the twelve ſtones.

They ſhall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the Lord.] In what manner God was conſulted by Urim and Thummim, hath been variouſly conjectured; it ſeems to have been as follows; the high-prieſt preſented himſelf with his breaſt-plate on, over his robes, and ſtood oppoſite the mercy-ſeat, where the Shekinah, or viſible glory reſted, and God gave him anſwers from thence with an audible voice, as he did to Moſes.

The judgment.] The breaſt-plate of judgment.

Ver. 35. His ſound ſhall be heard when he goeth in, &c.] What the number of bells were, we are not told, but only their uſe. When the high-prieſt was going into the ſanctuary, he wore theſe little bells on the hem of his robe, as well to give notice to the people, to prepare and fix their attention, as out of reſpect to the Divine preſence, reſiding in the Sanctum Sanctorum, or Holy of Holies; firſt, deſiring as it were, permiſſion to enter, and that he might not be puniſhed with death for an unmannerly intruſion.

Ver. 36. Holineſs to the Lord.] This motto could not fail to remind the prieſt, that he was conſecrated to Jehovah, the Great God of all things.

Ver. 38. That Aaron may bear the iniquity of the Holy things.] That he may obtain pardon for the omiſſions and deficiences of the people, in their performance of religious duties.

1 The ceremonies of conſecrating the prieſts. 38 The continual burnt-offering.

AND this is the thing that thou ſhalt do unto them to hallow them, to miniſter unto me in the prieſts office: Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemiſh,

3 And thou ſhalt put them into one baſket, and bring them in the baſket, with the bullock and the two rams.

4 And Aaron and his ſons thou ſhalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhalt waſh them with water.

5 And thou ſhalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breaſt-plate, and gird him with the curious girdle of the ephod.

6 And thou ſhalt put the miter upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the miter.

7 Then ſhalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him.

8 And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and put coats upon them.

9 And thou ſhalt gird them with girdles (Aaron and his ſons) and put the bonnets on them; and the prieſts office ſhall be theirs for a perpetual ſtatute: and thou ſhalt conſecrate Aaron and his ſons.

12 And thou ſhalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon the horns of the altar with thy finger, and pour all the blood beſide the bottom of the altar.

13 And thou ſhalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul that is above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and burn them upon the altar.

14 But the fleſh of the bullock, and his ſkin, and his dung ſhalt thou burn with fire without the camp: it is a ſin-offering.

15 ¶ Thou ſhalt alſo take one ram; and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

16 And thou ſhalt ſlay the ram, and thou ſhalt take his blood, and ſprinkle it round about upon the altar.

17 And thou ſhalt cut the ram in pieces, and waſh the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them unto his pieces, and unto his head.

NOTES on Chap. XXIX.

Ver. 1. And this is the thing.] This chapter deſcribes the manner of conſecrating the Jewiſh prieſts, the ceremonies of which were, doubtleſs in order to give them and the people, a deep ſenſe of the ſacredneſs of their office. The high-prieſt, was a manifeſt type of Chriſt Jeſus, our Great High-prieſt, who is gone into the Heavens, there to appear before God, and make interceſſion for us. This matter is fully explained in the epiſtle to the Hebrews.

Ver. 4. And ſhalt waſh them with water.] Ablution was an ancient ceremony, and obſerved in acts of worſhip, as an emblem of inward purity.

Ver. 6. The Holy crown.] The golden plate, upon which was engraved, Holineſs to the Lord.

Ver. 10. Shall put their hands upon the head of the bullock.] By this ſignifying, that they diſburdened themſelves of their ſins, and laid them upon the head of the ſacrifice to be killed. This pre-figured Chriſt, the Great Sacrifice, upon whom was laid the iniquity of us all.

Ver. 14. Without the camp.] Intimating, that the guilt of ſin was carried out far from the people. So Chriſt ſuffered without the gate.

the LORD: it is a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

19 ¶ And thou ſhalt take the other ram; and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram.

20 Then ſhalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his ſons, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

21 And thou ſhalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing oil, and ſprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon the garments of his ſons with him: and he ſhall be hallowed, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him.

22 Alſo thou ſhalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right ſhoulder; for it is a ram of conſecration:

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the baſket of the unleavened bread, that is before the LORD.

24 And thou ſhalt put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his ſons; and ſhalt wave them for a wave-offering before the LORD.

Before Christ 1491.

25 And thou ſhalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt-offering, for a ſweet ſavour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou ſhalt take the breaſt of the ram of Aarons conſecrations, and wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD: and it ſhall be thy part.

27 And thou ſhalt ſanctify the breaſt of the wave-offering, and the ſhoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up of the ram of the conſecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his ſons.

28 And it ſhall be Aarons and his ſons by a ſtatute for ever, from the children of Iſrael: for it is an heave-offering: and it ſhall be an heave-offering from the children of Iſrael of the ſacrifice of their peace-offerings, even their heave-offering unto the LORD.

29 ¶ And the holy garments of Aaron ſhall be his ſons after him, to be anointed therein, and to be conſecrated in them.

30 And that ſon that is prieſt in his ſtead ſhall put them on ſeven days, when he cometh into the tabernacle of the congregation to miniſter in the holy place.

Ver. 20. Put it upon the tip of the right ear, &c.] The ear is the ſymbol of obedience, the hand of action, and the foot of the path, or conduct of life; therefore, the prieſts were taught by this ceremony, to apply their ears diligently to the ſtudy of the law, to employ their hands with the like diligence in the work of the ſacred miniſtry, and to direct their feet to walk in the way of God's commandments.

Ver. 27. The wave-offering, and—the heave-offering.] The words wave, and heave, are uſed to ſignify any offering whatever; however, the Rabbins make a diſtinction, and tell us, that the firſt was waved up and down, eaſt, weſt, north, and ſouth; to denote that God was the Lord of the earth, as well as the Heaven; the laſt was only lifted up toward Heaven, in token of its being devoted to God.

Ver. 30. Shall put them on ſeven days.] That is, the ſeven days of conſecration, before he undertook to miniſter, during which time, the prieſts were not to ſtir from the door of the tabernacle, by night or day. It is obſervable, that the number ſeven is much regarded in ſacred matters. The blood of the atonement, was ſprinkled before the mercy ſeat, ſeven times; the conſecrating oil, was ſprinkled on the altar ſeven times; the leper was ſprinkled ſeven times; the days appointed for his cleanſing, were ſeven; the time for the conſecration of prieſts, was ſeven days; and ſo for purifying the unclean; Naaman, was commanded to waſh in Jordan ſeven times; Jericho was ſeven days beſieged; the ſeven prieſts, blew with ſeven trumpets; every ſeventh day was a ſabbath; every ſeventh year, a year of reſt; and every ſeven times ſeven, the year of jubilee.

Before Chriſt 1491.

31 ¶ And thou ſhalt take the ram of the conſecration, and ſeethe his fleſh in the holy place.

32 And Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat the fleſh of the ram, and the bread that is in the baſket, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

33 And they ſhall eat thoſe things, wherewith the atonement was made, to conſecrate and to ſanctify them: but a ſtranger ſhall not eat thereof, becauſe they are holy.

34 And if ought of the fleſh of the conſecrations, or of the bread remain unto the morning, then thou ſhalt burn the remainder with fire: it ſhall not be eaten, becauſe it is holy.

35 And thus ſhalt thou do unto Aaron, and to his ſons, according to all things which I have commanded thee: ſeven days ſhalt thou conſecrate them.

36 And thou ſhalt offer every day a bullock for a ſin-offering, for atonement: and thou ſhalt cleanſe the altar, when thou haſt made an atonement for it, and thou ſhalt anoint it to ſanctify it.

37 Seven days thou ſhalt make an atonement for the altar, and ſanctify it; and it ſhall be an altar moſt holy: whatſoever toucheth the altar ſhall be holy.

38 ¶ Now this is that which thou ſhalt offer upon the altar; two lambs of the firſt year, day by day continually.

39 The one lamb thou ſhalt offer in the morning; and the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even.

40 And with the one lamb a tenth-deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil: and thefourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering.

Before Chriſt 1491.

41 And the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even, and ſhalt do thereto according to the meat-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof, for a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

42 This ſhall be a continual burnt-offering throughout your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the LORD: where I will meet you, to ſpeak there unto thee.

43 And there I will meet with the children of Iſrael, and the tabernacle ſhall be ſanctified by my glory.

44 And I will ſanctify the tabernacle of the congragation, and the altar: I will ſanctify alſo both Aaron and his ſons, to miniſter to me in the prieſts office.

45 ¶ And I will dwell amongſt the children of Iſrael, and will be their God.

46 And they ſhall know that I am the LORD their God, that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell amongſt them: I am the LORD their God.

CHAP. XXX.

1 The altar of incenſe. 11 The ranſom of ſouls. 22 The anointing oil. 34 The perfume.

AND thou ſhalt make an altar to burn incenſe upon: of ſhittim-wood ſhalt thou make it.

2 A cubit ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof (four-ſquare ſhall it be) and two cubits ſhall be the height thereof: the horns thereof ſhall be of the ſame.

3 And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, the top thereof, and the ſides thereof

NOTES on Chap. XXX.

Ver. 1. An altar to burn incenſe upon.] This altar was depoſited within the tabernacle, before the vail, between the table of ſhew-bread, and the golden candleſtick. It was extremely neceſſary, to perfume the ſanctuary, which, by reaſon of the number of beaſts ſlain, cut in pieces, waſhed, and burnt, muſt otherwiſe have been very offenſive. As the other parts, utenſils, &c. of the tabernacle, were typical of Chriſt the Redeemer, ſo this altar of incenſe, denoted his powerful interceſſion for us.

Before Christ 1491.

of round about, and the horns thereof: and thou ſhalt make unto it a crown of gold round about.

4 And two golden rings ſhalt thou make to it under the crown of it, by the two corners thereof, upon the two ſides of it ſhalt thou make it: and they ſhall be for places for the ſtaves to bear it withal.

5 And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold.

6 And thou ſhalt put it before the vail, that is by the ark of the teſtimony; before the mercy-ſeat, that is over the teſtimony, where I will meet with thee.

7 And Aaron ſhall burn thereon ſweet incenſe every morning: when he dreſſeth the lamps he ſhall burn incenſe upon it.

8 And when Aaron lighteth the lamps at even, he ſhall burn incenſe upon it; a perpetual incenſe before the LORD, throughout your generations.

9 Ye ſhall offer no ſtrange incenſe thereon, nor burnt-ſacrifice, nor meat-offering; neither ſhall ye pour drink-offering thereon.

10 And Aaron ſhall make an atonement upon the horns of it once in a year, with the blood of the ſin-offering of atonements: once in the year ſhall he make atonement upon it, throughout your generations: it is moſt holy unto the LORD.

11 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 When thou takeſt the ſum of the children of Iſrael, after their number; then ſhall they give every man a ranſom for his ſoul unto the LORD, when thou numbereſt them: that there be no plague amongſt them, when thou numbereſt them.

Before Christ 1491.

13 This they ſhall give, every one that paſſeth among them that are numbered; half a ſhekel after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary (a ſhekle is twenty gerahs) an half-ſhekel ſhall be the offering of the LORD.

14 Every one that paſſeth among them that are numbered from twenty years old and above, ſhall give an offering unto the LORD.

15 The rich ſhall not give more, and the poor ſhall not give leſs than half a ſhekel, when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

16 And thou ſhalt take the atonement-money of the children of Iſrael, and ſhalt appoint it for the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael before the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

17 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Thou ſhalt alſo make a laver of braſs, and his foot alſo of braſs, to waſh withal: and thou ſhalt put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou ſhalt put water therein.

19 For

Ver. 7. Sweet incenſe.] This incenſe was compounded of many fragrant and odoriferous ſpices. See ver. 34.

Ver. 12. Then ſhall they give every man a ranſom for his ſoul.] This tax was an acknowledgment to God, who had redeemed them from the bondage of Egypt.

Ver. 13. Half a ſhekel.] About fourteen-pence of our money.

After the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.] Some have ſuppoſed that there was an ordinary, and an holy ſhekel, and that the latter was twice as much as the former; but it is moſt likely, there was but one kind of ſhekel, and that it is here called of the ſanctuary, becauſe there was one kept there, as a proof, or ſtandard, by which all theſe coins were maintained in their juſt value, goodneſs, and weight.

Twenty gerahs.] This gerah, was ſomething more than a penny.

Ver. 15. The rich ſhall not give more, and the poor ſhall not give leſs.] All ſouls are equal and alike, in the eſteem of God who made them all.

Ver. 18. A laver of braſs.] This, by reaſon of its extraordinary ſize, was called the brazen ſea. It was placed in the court of the tabernacle, at a little diſtance from the altar of burnt-offerings.

Before Chriſt 1491.

19 For Aaron and his ſons ſhall waſh their hands and their feet thereat.

20 When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they ſhall waſh with water, that they die not: or when they come near to the altar to miniſter, to burn offering made by fire unto the LORD.

21 So they ſhall waſh their hands and their feet, that they die not; and it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever to them, even to him and to his ſeed throughout their generations.

22 ¶ Moreover the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Take thou alſo unto thee principal ſpices, of pure myrrh five hundred ſhekels, and of ſweet cinnamon half ſo much, even two hundred and fifty ſhekels, and of ſweet calamus two hundred and fifty ſhekels,

24 And of caſſia five hundred ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, and of oil-olive an hin.

25 And thou ſhalt make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the apothecary: it ſhall be an holy anointing oil.

26 And thou ſhalt anoint the tabernacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the teſtimony,

Before Chriſt 1491.

27 And the table and all his veſſels, and the candleſtick and his veſſels, and the altar of incenſe,

28 And the altar of burnt-offering with all his veſſels, and the laver and his foot.

29 And thou ſhalt ſanctify them, that they may be moſt holy: whatſoever toucheth them, ſhall be holy.

30 And thou ſhalt anoint Aaron and his ſons, and conſecrate them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office.

31 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This ſhall be an holy anointing oil unto me, throughout your generations.

32 Upon mans fleſh ſhall it not be poured, neither ſhall ye make any other like it, after the compoſition of it: it is holy, and it ſhall be holy unto you.

33 Whoſoever compoundeth any like it, whoſoever putteth any of it upon a ſtranger, ſhall even be cut off from his people.

34 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take unto thee ſweet ſpices, ſtacte, and onycha, and galbanum: theſe ſweet ſpices with pure frankincenſe: of each ſhall there be a like weight.

35 And

Ver. 23. Of pure myrrh.] The word Mor, in the original, is generally ſuppoſed to mean myrrh; though ſome take it to be ambergreaſe, and others frankincenſe.

Five hundred ſhekels.] Something more than twenty pounds weight.

Sweet cinnamon.] It has been thought that the cinnamon of the ancients, differed from ours, and for this reaſon, becauſe it is not known at preſent, to be produced in any other parts of the eaſt, but only in Ceylon, an iſland of the India ſea: Yet we have been informed, that it grows in other parts of the world, beſides this.

Sweet calamus.] This is a ſpicy root, belonging to a particular Flag, or Iris; called Calamus Aromaticus, or Sweet Cane.

Ver. 24. Caſſia.] As the drug now known by the name of Caſſia, is not aromatic, it is thought that the ancient Coſtus is here meant, which was ſometimes burnt on the Heathen altars; and the beſt ſort grew in Arabia. There are ſaid to be various kinds of it, but that in uſe with us, is brought from the Eaſt Indies, and has a fragrant ſmell, not unlike that of violets.

Ver. 34. Stacte.] The beſt ſorts of myrrh, which flows ſpontaneouſly from the tree. Some think it was liquid-ſtorax, which is the produce of a particular tree growing near Suez in Arabia, and in eſteem among the eaſtern people.

Onycha.] Commentators are divided in their opinions, concerning this Onycha. Some take it for the ſhell of a fiſh, which fed upon ſpikenard, found in certain ponds and lakes, the beſt of which, Dioſcorides affirms, was brought from the Red ſea. The Arabic verſion has it, Ladanum, an aromatic gum, made uſe of by the Arabians in the compoſition of their perfumes. Some again, think it was Bdellium.

Galbanum.] This was the gum or liquor of a plant, like fennel, and grew in Syria. Some tranſlations render this, Galbanum of ſweet odour, to diſtinguiſh it from the common ſort, which is of a diſagreeable ſcent. There was a particular ſpecies, the product of mount Amana, in Syria, of a very pleaſing odour.

Frankincenſe.] This is a reſinous ſubſtance, of an agreeable ſmell, common in ſome parts of Arabia; particularly in that called Sabæa.

Before Chriſt 1491.

35 And thou ſhalt make it a perfume, a confection after the art of the apothecary, tempered together, pure and holy.

36 And thou ſhalt beat ſome of it very ſmall, and put of it before the teſtimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, where I will meet with thee: it ſhall be unto you moſt holy.

37 And as for the perfume which thou ſhalt make, you ſhall not make to yourſelves according to the compoſition thereof: it ſhall be unto thee holy for the LORD.

38 Whoſoever ſhall make like unto that, to ſmell thereto, ſhall even be cut off from his people.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Bezaleel called to the work of the tabernacle. 13 The ſabbath. 18 Moſes receiveth the tables.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 See, I have called by my name, Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah:

3 And I have filled him with the ſpirit of God, in wiſdom, and in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip,

4 To deviſe cunning works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs,

5 And in cutting of ſtones to ſet them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanſhip.

6 And I, behold, I have given with him, Aholiab the ſon of Ahiſamach of the tribe of Dan; and in the hearts of all that are wiſe-hearted I have put wiſdom; that they may make all that I have commanded thee:

Before Chriſt 4191.

7 The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the teſtimony, and the mercy-ſeat that is thereupon, and all the furniture of the tabernacle,

8 And the table and his furniture, and the pure candleſtick with all his furniture, and the altar of incenſe,

9 And the altar of burnt-offering with all his furniture, and the laver and his foot,

10 And the clothes of ſervice, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons, to miniſter in the prieſts office,

11 And the anointing oil, and ſweet incenſe for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee, ſhall they do.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

13 Speak thou alſo unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Verily my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep: for it is a ſign between me and you, throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth ſanctify you.

14 Ye ſhall keep the ſabbath therefore: for it is holy unto you. Every one that defileth it, ſhall ſurely be put to death: for whoſoever doth any work therein, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from amongſt his people.

Ver. 36. Put of it before the teſtimony.] Upon the altar of incenſe, placed before the ark, but without the vail.

NOTES on Chap. XXXI.

Ver. 8. The pure candleſtick.] Called ſo, either on account of its being conſecrated, or becauſe it was made of pure gold; though moſt probably on the latter account.

Ver. 10. The clothes of ſervice.] The vail, curtains, and coverings of the tabernacle, the hangings of the court; and alſo the coverings which ſerved to wrap up the holy things in, in their removals.

Ver. 13. Verily my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep.] It would have been better rendered, nevertheleſs my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep. Notwithſtanding I have been thus particular in my directions, concerning the number, form, and materials, of all theſe things, yet do not imagine, that all I require, conſiſts merely in ſuch externals, which will not acquit you of your neglect of other duties, and in particular, the obſervation of my ſabbath.

It is a ſign between me and you.] By which you ſignify, that you are the worſhippers of the one ſupreme being, who in the ſpace of ſix days created all things, and on the ſeventh reſted, or ceaſed from his works.

Before Chriſt 1491.

15 Six days may work be done; but in the ſeventh is the ſabbath of reſt, holy to the LORD: whoſoever doeth any work in the ſabbath-day, he ſhall ſurely be put to death.

16 Wherefore the children of Iſrael ſhall keep the ſabbath, to obſerve the ſabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.

17 It is a ſign between me and the children of Iſrael for ever: for in ſix days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the ſeventh day he reſted, and was refreſhed.

18 ¶ And he gave unto Moſes, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, two tables of teſtimony, tables of ſtone, written with the finger of God.

CHAP. XXXII.

1. Of the golden calf. 19 Moſes breaketh the tables. 27 The idolaters ſlain.

AND when the people ſaw that Moſes delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themſelves together unto Aaron, and ſaid unto him, Up, make us gods which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

Before Chriſt 1491.

2 And Aaron ſaid unto them, Break off the golden ear-rings which are in the ears of your wives, of your ſons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me.

3 And all the people brake off the golden ear-rings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron.

4 And he received them at their hand, and faſhioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they ſaid, Theſe be thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

5 And when Aaron ſaw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made proclamation, and ſaid, To morrow is a feaſt to the LORD.

6 And they roſe up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings: and the people ſat down to eat, and to drink, and roſe up to play.

7 ¶ And

Ver. 15. The ſabbath of reſt.] In the Hebrew, it is the reſt of reſts; and ſignifies, that of all others, this day ought moſt religiouſly to be obſerved, and kept with great punctuality.

Ver. 18. Tables of ſtone, written with the finger of God.] Many look upon this as a metaphorical expreſſion, implying, that the words of the decalogue were written by the hand of Moſes, by the particular direction of God; though the phraſe ſeems rather to ſignify, that God employed neither Moſes, nor any other inſtrument in writing them, but that he did it by his own powerful operation.

NOTES on Chap. XXXII.

Ver. 1. Up, make us Gods.] It ſhould be rendered in the ſingular, up, make us a God. It is evident from hence, that the Iſraelites had imbibed the idolatrous notions of the Egyptians, who worſhipped the golden calf. They had waited above a month for Moſes's return from the mount, but now deſpairing of it, they thought it neceſſary to have a God of ſome kind, to direct them in their way through the wilderneſs. Some are of opinion, that the Iſraelites evidently intended the worſhip of the true God under this ſimilitude; accordingly, we find ver. 5, their feaſt was proclaimed to the Lord, or Jehovah. However, not only to worſhip a falſe deity, but alſo the true, by any external image, was equally forbidden by the ſecond commandment.

Which ſhall go before us.] As God had been their guide hitherto, conducting them by the pillar of the cloud, which at this time reſted on the mount, perhaps they ſubſtituted this viſible repreſentation in its room, to go before them at their pleaſure.

Ver. 4. And faſhioned it with a graving-tool.] The verb Tzur, ſignifies alſo to bind, or tie up, and Cherret, a bag, as well as a graving tool; this paſſage therefore may be tranſlated, And he received them, (viz. the golden ear-rings) at their hand, and tied them in a bag, and cauſed them to be caſt into a molten calf.

A molten calf.] In imitation of the Egyptian God Apis, or Serapis, which was a living ox, as well as an image made in the likeneſs of that creature.

Ver. 5. Aaron made proclamation.] Some have endeavoured to vindicate the conduct of Aaron upon this occaſion, but certainly it will admit of no excuſe: Such examples of human frailty and weakneſs, ought to teach us to be conſtantly on our guard, and carefully to avoid every ſinful temptation.

Ver. 6. To play.] Or, to rejoice. It was the manner of the Egyptians, when they had found out their God Apis, to bring him with great pomp and ſolemnity to Memphis, the royal city, the children going before in pro-

Before Christ 1491.

7 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Go, get thee down: for thy people which thou broughteſt out of the land of Egypt, have corrupted themſelves.

8 They have turned aſide quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worſhipped it, and have ſacrificed thereunto, and ſaid, Theſe be thy gods, O Iſrael, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

9 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, I have ſeen this people, and behold, it is a ſtiff-necked people.

10 Now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot againſt them, and that I may conſume them: and I will make of thee a great nation.

11 And Moſes beſought the Lord his God, and ſaid, Lord, why doth thy wrath wax hot againſt thy people, which thou haſt brought forth out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and with a mighty hand?

12 Wherefore ſhould the Egyptians ſpeak and ſay, For miſchief did he bring them out, to ſlay them in the mountains, and to conſume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil againſt thy people.

13 Remember Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael thy ſervants, to whom thou ſwareſt by thy own ſelf, and ſaidſt unto them, I will multiply your ſeed as the ſtars of heaven, and all this land that I have ſpoken of, will I give unto your ſeed, and they ſhall inherit it for ever.

14 And the Lord repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.

Before Christ 1491.

15 ¶ And Moſes turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the teſtimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their ſides; on the one ſide and on the other were they written.

16 And the tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God graven upon the tables.

17 And when Joſhua heard the noiſe of the people as they ſhouted, he ſaid unto Moſes, There is a noiſe of war in the camp.

18 And he ſaid, It is not the voice of them that ſhout for maſtery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for being overcome: but the noiſe of them that ſing, do I hear.

19 ¶ And it came to paſs as ſoon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he ſaw the calf, and the dancing: and Moſes anger waxed hot, and he caſt the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount.

20 And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and ſtrawed it upon the water, and made the children of Iſrael drink of it.

21 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee, that thou haſt brought ſo great a ſin upon them?

22 And Aaron ſaid, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knoweſt the people that they are ſet on miſchief.

Ver. 14. The Lord repented.] A figurative expreſſion, adapted to the ſentiments and affections of human nature.

Ver. 19. Brake them beneath the mount.] Purpoſely, that he might give them to underſtand, they had broken their ſolemn covenant with God, through their idolatry.

Ver. 20. He took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, &c.] Melted it down and reduced it to duſt; perhaps with files, or ſome inſtruments of that kind.

Made the children of Iſrael to drink of it.] To render them the more ſenſible of their folly, in worſhipping that for a God, which was to paſs through their bodies.

Ver. 22. They are ſet on miſchief.] That is, they are prone to the ſin of idolatry.

Before Christ 1491.

23 For they ſaid unto me, Make us gods which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

24 And I ſaid unto them, Whoſoever hath any gold, let them break it off: So they gave it me: then I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf.

25 ¶ And I when Moſes ſaw that the people were naked (for Aaron had made them naked unto their ſhame, amongſt their enemies)

26 Then Moſes ſtood in the gate of the camp, and ſaid, Who is on the LORDS ſide? let him come unto me. And all the ſons of Levi gathered themſelves together unto him.

27 And he ſaid unto them, thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Put every man his ſword by his ſide, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and ſlay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour.

28 And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moſes: and there fell of the people that day about three thouſand men.

29 For Moſes had ſaid, Conſecrate yourſelves to day to the LORD, even every man upon his ſon, and upon his brother; that he may beſtow upon you a bleſſing this day.

Before Christ 1491.

30 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Moſes ſaid unto the people, Ye have ſinned a great ſin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; peradventure I ſhall make an atonement for your ſin.

31 And Moſes returned unto the LORD, and ſaid, Oh, this people have ſinned a great ſin, and have made them gods of gold.

32 Yet now, if thou wilt, forgive their ſin: and if not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou haſt written.

33 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Whoſoever hath ſinned againſt me, him will I blot out of my book.

34 Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have ſpoken unto thee: Behold, mine Angel ſhall go before thee: Nevertheleſs, in the day when I viſit, I will viſit their ſin upon them.

Ver. 24. I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf.] Thus Aaron diſſembled, and endeavoured to extenuate his crime, by pretending that the calf was made rather by chance, than deſign.

Ver. 25. Were naked.] Some underſtand by this, that they were diveſted of their virtue and piety; but, (though this was true) it ſeems likewiſe to ſignify, that they wanted arms, and for that reaſon, were not in a capacity to reſiſt the Levites, a few of whom ſlew 3000 of the people.

Ver. 26. All the ſons of Levi gathered themſelves together.] Hence we may underſtand, that not only all the other tribes had joined in the idolatrous feaſt, but even ſome of the Levites; becauſe Moſes commands them, to ſlay every man his brother, and every man his companion, in caſe he ſhould come in his way.

Ver. 28. The children of Levi did according to the word of Moſes.] This zeal of the tribe of Levi, was amply rewarded; for it not only helped to wipe of that blemiſh, their anceſtors had entailed upon them, on account of the murder of the Shechemites; but in a ſhort time, procured them the Levitical prieſthood, which, though inferior to the Aaronical, entitled them to the tythe, or tenth part; to the lower miniſtry of the tabernacle, and afterwards of the temple; to a place in the tribunal of each city and town; to the property of thirty-five cities of refuge; and other privileges.

Ver. 29. Conſecrate yourſelves to day, &c.] The margin renders this, Conſecrate yourſelves to day to the Lord, becauſe every man hath been againſt his ſon, and againſt his brother; &c.

3 Unto a land flowing with milk and hony: for I will not go up in the midſt of thee; for thou art a ſtiff-necked people: leſt I conſume thee in the way.

4 ¶ And when the people heard theſe evil tidings, they mourned: and no man did put on him his ornaments.

5 For the Lord had ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto the children of Iſrael, Ye are a ſtiff-necked people; I will come up into the midſt of thee in a moment and conſume thee: therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee.

6 And the children of Iſrael ſtript themſelves of their ornaments, by the mount Horeb.

7 And Moſes took the tabernacle, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, and called it the Tabernacle of the congregation. And it came to paſs, that every one which ſought the Lord, went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp.

8 And it came to paſs, when Moſes went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people roſe up, and ſtood every man at his tent door, and looked after Moſes, until he was gone into the tabernacle.

9 And it came to paſs, as Moſes entered into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar deſcended, and ſtood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moſes.

Before Chriſt 1491.

10 And all the people ſaw the cloudy pillar ſtand at the tabernacle-door: and all the people roſe up and worſhipped, every man in his tent-door.

11 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes face to face, as a man ſpeaketh unto his friend. And he turned again into the camp; but his ſervant Joſhua, the ſon of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle.

12 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the Lord, See, thou ſayeſt unto me, Bring up this people: and thou haſt not let me know whom thou wilt ſend with me. Yet thou haſt ſaid, I know thee by name, and thou haſt alſo found grace in my ſight.

13 Now therefore, I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy ſight, ſhew me now thy way that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy ſight: and conſider that this nation is thy people.

14 And he ſaid, My preſence ſhall go with thee, and I will give thee reſt.

15 And he ſaid unto him, If thy preſence go not with me, carry us not up hence.

16 For wherein ſhall it be known here, that I and thy people have found grace in thy ſight? Is it not in that thou goeſt with us? So ſhall we be ſeparated, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth.

17 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, I will do this thing alſo that thou haſt ſpoken: for thou haſt found grace in my ſight, and I know thee by name.

18 And he ſaid, I beſeech thee, ſhew me thy glory.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 The tables renewed. 5 The name of the Lord proclaimed. 10 God maketh a covenant, &c.

AND the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt: and I will write upon theſe tables the words that were in the firſt tables which thou breakeſt.

2 And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and preſent thyſelf there to me, in the top of the mount.

Before Chriſt 1491.

3 And no man ſhall come up with thee, neither let any man be ſeen throughout all the mount: neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount.

4 ¶ And he hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt; and Moſes roſe up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the Lord had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of ſtone.

5 And the Lord deſcended in the cloud, and ſtood with him there, and proclaimed the name of the Lord.

6 And the Lord paſſed by before him, and proclaimed, The Lord, The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-ſuffering, and abundant in goodneſs and truth,

7 Keeping mercy for thouſands, forgiving iniquity and tranſgreſſion and ſin, and that will by no means clear the guilty; viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the childrens children, unto the third and to the fourth generation.

8 And Moſes made haſte, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worſhipped.

9 And he ſaid, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, O Lord, let my Lord, I pray thee, go amongſt us (for it is a ſtiff-necked people) and pardon our iniquity

Ver. 19. I will make all my goodneſs paſs before thee.] This means, that God would diſplay his glory before him, in ſuch degree, as ſhould not harm, but rather gratify and delight him; or it may ſignify, his gracious intentions concerning the Iſraelites.

Will be gracious, to whom I will be gracious, &c.] As I know the hearts of all men, I am the only true judge, who are the proper objects of my grace and mercy.

Ver. 20. There ſhall no man ſee me, and live.] Becauſe of the weakneſs and infirmities of human nature, on the one hand, which cannot bear the refulgence of the Divine preſence; and of ſin on the other, becauſe God is of purer eyes than to behold iniquity.

Ver. 23. Thou ſhalt ſee my back-parts: but my face ſhall not be ſeen.] Moſes here ſpeaks of the deity, in terms borrowed from groſs ſenſe: For though God is a pure ſpirit, without either body or parts, yet as we can underſtand nothing, but by the mediation of our ſenſes, it was abſolutely neceſſary for him to uſe ſuch terms. By his back-parts, we may underſtand the brightneſs of his majeſty, though not in its full glory; by his face, his full glory, and his brightneſs unveiled; by his hand, with which he covered Moſes, may be conceived, a cloud which he caſt about him, that he might not receive hurt by the refulgence of the Divine rays.

NOTES on Chap. XXXIV.

Ver. 1. Hew thee two tables of ſtone, &c,] This command indicates, how greatly God had been offended; for the firſt tables were the work of God, and written with his finger; but theſe the work of men.

32 And afterward all the children of Iſrael came nigh: and he gave them in commandment all that the Lord had ſpoken with him in mount Sinai.

33 And till Moſes had done ſpeaking with them, he put a vail on his face.

34 But when Moſes went in before the Lord to ſpeak with him, he took the vail off, until he came out. And he came out and ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that which he was commanded.

35 And the children of Iſrael ſaw the face of Moſes, that the ſkin of Moſes face ſhone: and Moſes put the vail upon his face again until he went in to ſpeak with him.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 The ſabbath. 4 Gifts for the tabernacle.

AND Moſes gathered all the congregation of the children of Iſrael together, and ſaid unto them, Theſe are the words which the Lord hath commanded that ye ſhould do them.

Before Christ 1491.

2 Six days ſhall work be done, but on the ſeventh day there ſhall be to you an holy day, a ſabbath of reſt to the Lord: whoſoever doeth work therein, ſhall be put to death.

3 Ye ſhall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the ſabbath-day.

4 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the Lord commanded, ſaying,

5 Take ye from amongſt you an offering unto the Lord; Whoſoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the Lord; gold, and ſilver, and braſs,

7 And rams ſkins dyed red, and badgers ſkins, and ſhittim-wood,

8 And oil for the light, and ſpices for anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe,

9 And onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate.

10 And every wiſe-hearted among you ſhall come and make all that the Lord hath comanded;

11 The tabernacle, his tent, and his covering, his taches, and his boards, his bars, his pillars, and his ſockets,

12 The ark and the ſtaves thereof, with the mercy-ſeat, and the vail of the covering,

13 The table and his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, and the ſhew-bread,

14 The candleſtick alſo for the light, and his furniture, and his lamps, with the oil for the light,

15 And

Ver. 29. The ſkin of his face ſhone.] The word in the Hebrew ſignifies, HORNED. Being permitted ſo near an approach to the Divine glory, he carried off (though unknown to himſelf) ſuch a beamy luſtre, as played about his head and face for a conſiderable time. The Heathens (and perhaps from hence) uſed to repreſent their Gods, with a beamy glory around their heads. The Roman emperors, who were honoured as a ſort of deities, were thus repreſented. Pliny, in his panegyric, makes radiatum Domitiani caput, the ſhining head of Domitian, the ſubject of ſome banter. So Homer, makes Minerva irradiate the head and armour of Diomede.

15 And the incenſe-altar, and his ſtaves, and the anointing oil, and the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the door at the entering in of the tabernacle,

16 The altar of burnt-offering with his braſen grate, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver and his foot,

17 The hangings of the court, his pillars, and their ſockets, and the hanging for the door of the court,

19 The clothes of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons to miniſter in the prieſts office.

20 ¶ And all the congregation of the children of Iſrael departed from the preſence of Moſes.

21 And they came, every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up, and every one whom his ſpirit made willing, and they brought the LORDS offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his ſervice, and for the holy garments.

22 And they came both men and women, as many as were willing-hearted, and brought bracelets, and ear-rings, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold: and every man that offered, offered an offering of gold unto the LORD.

23 And every man with whom was found blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goats hair, and red ſkins of rams, and badgers ſkins, brought them.

24 Every one that did offer an offering of ſilver and braſs, brought the LORDS offering: and every man with whom was found ſhittim-wood for any work of the ſervice, brought it.

Before Christ 1491.

25 And all the women that were wiſe-hearted, did ſpin with their hands, and brought that which they had ſpun, both of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine linen.

26 And all the women whoſe heart ſtirred them up in wiſdom, ſpun goats hair.

27 And the rulers brought onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate:

28 And ſpice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe.

29 The children of Iſrael brought a willing offering unto the LORD, every man and woman, whoſe heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made, by the hand of Moſes.

30 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, See, the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah:

31 And he hath filled him with the Spirit of God, in wiſdom, in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip;

32 And to deviſe curious works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs,

33 And in the cutting of ſtones to ſet them, and in carving of wood to make any manner of cunning work.

1 The offerings given to the workmen, 5 The liberality of the people reſtrained. 8 The tabernacle made.

THEN wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whom the LORD put wiſdom and underſtanding, to know how to work all manner of work for the ſervice of the ſanctuary, according to all that the LORD had commanded.

2 And Moſes called Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whoſe heart the LORD had put wiſdom, even every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up to come unto the work to do it.

3 And they received of Moſes all the offering which the children of Iſrael had brought, for the work of the ſervice of the ſanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free-offerings every morning.

4 And all the wiſe men that wrought all the work of the ſanctuary, came every man from his work which they made.

5 ¶ And they ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, The people bring much more than enough for the ſervice of the work which the LORD commanded to make.

6 And Moſes gave commandment, and they cauſed it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, ſaying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the ſanctuary. So the people were reſtrained from bringing.

7 For the ſtuff they had was ſufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.

8 ¶ And every wiſe-hearted man, among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle, made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them.

9 The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one ſize.

10 And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another.

11 And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain, from the ſelvedge in the coupling: likewiſe he made in the uttermoſt ſide of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond.

12 Fifty loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the ſecond: the loops held one curtain to another.

13 And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches. So it became one tabernacle.

14 ¶ And he made curtains of goats hair, for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them.

15 The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one ſize.

17 And he made fifty loops upon the uttermoſt edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain, which coupleth the ſecond.

18 And he made fifty taches of braſs to couple the tent together, that it might be one.

19 And he made a covering for the tent of rams ſkins dyed red, and a covering of badgers ſkins above that.

20 ¶ And he made boards for the tabernacle of ſhittim-wood, ſtanding up.

21 The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half.

22 One board had two tenons, equally diſtant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

23 And he made boards for the tabernacle; twenty boards for the ſouth ſide, ſouthward:

24 And forty ſockets of ſilver he made under the twenty boards; two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons.

25 And for the other ſide of the tabernacle which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards,

26 And their forty ſockets of ſilver; two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board.

27 And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſtward, he made ſix boards.

28 And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides.

29 And they were coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners.

30 And there were eight boards; and their ſockets were ſixteen ſockets of ſilver, under every board two ſockets.

31 ¶ And he made bars of ſhittim-wood; five for the boards of the one ſide of the tabernacle, Before Chriſt 1490.

32 And five bars for the boards of the other ſide of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the ſides weſtward.

33 And he made the middle bar to ſhoot through the boards from the one end to the other.

34 And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

35 ¶ And he made a vail of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work.

36 And he made thereunto four pillars of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold: their hooks were of gold, and he caſt for them four ſockets of ſilver.

37 ¶ And he made an hanging for the tabernacle-door, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, of needle-work,

38 And the five pillars of it with their hooks: and he overlaid their chapiters, and their fillets with gold: but their five ſockets were of braſs.

3 And he caſt for it four rings of gold, to be ſet by the four corners of it: even two rings upon the one ſide of it, and two rings upon the other ſide of it.

6 ¶ And he made the mercy-ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and a half was the length thereof, and one cubit and a half the breadth thereof.

7 And he made two cherubims of gold, beaten out of one piece made he them, on the two ends of the mercy-ſeat;

8 One cherub on the end on this ſide, and another cherub on the other end on that ſide: out of the mercy-ſeat made he the cherubims on the two ends thereof.

9 And the cherubims ſpread out their wings on high, and covered with their wings over the mercy-ſeat, with their faces one to another; even to the mercy-ſeat-ward were the faces of the cherubims.

21 And a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches going out of it.

22 Their knops and their branches were of the ſame: all of it was one beaten work of pure gold.

23 And he made his ſeven lamps, and his ſnuffers, and his ſnuff-diſhes, of pure gold.

NOTES on Chap. XXXVII.

Ver. 7. Two cherubims] Grotius, and ſome others, have conjectured from the creatures which Ezekiel ſaw in his viſion, chap. i. 5. and x. 15. and which he calls cherubims, that they had an human face, eagles wings, a lion's main, and the feet of an ox; by which the miniſtry of angels was ſymbolically repreſented, as they were employed in the diſpenſations of Divine providence: The lion being an emblematical repreſentation of God's juſtice; the eagle, of the celerity of his bounty; the man, of his goodneſs and mercy; and the ox, of his ſlowneſs to anger.

Ver. 9. With their faces one to another, even to the mercy-ſeat-ward.] From this deſcription, it has been the opinion of ſeveral, that the cherubims were in the form of flying oxen, becauſe otherwiſe, ſay they, they could not have their faces at the ſame time towards one another, and towards the mercy-ſeat: Yet moſt think they were of an human form, (which ſeems the better opinion) being perſuaded that they might be turned towards each other, and at the ſame time have their eyes directed downwards to the mercy-ſeat.

26 And he overlaid it with pure gold, both the top of it, and the ſides thereof round about, and the horns of it: alſo he made unto it a crown of gold round about.

27 And he made two rings of gold for it under the crown thereof, by the two corners of it, upon the two ſides thereof, to be places for the ſtaves to bear it withal.

28 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold.

29 ¶ And he made the holy anointing oil, and the pure incenſe of ſweet ſpices, according to the work of the apothecary.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 The altar of burnt-offering. 8 The brazen laver. 9 The court. 21 The ſum of the offerings.

AND he made the altar of burnt-offering of ſhittim-wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof (it was four-ſquare) and three cubits the height thereof.

2 And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it; the horns thereof were of the ſame, and he overlaid it with braſs.

3 And he made all the veſſels of the altar, the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons, and the fleſh-hooks, and the fire-pans: all the veſſels thereof made he of braſs.

4 And he made for the altar a braſen grate of net-work, under the compaſs thereof, beneath unto the midſt of it.

Before Christ 1490.

5 And he caſt four rings for the four ends of the grate of braſs, to be places for the ſtaves.

6 And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with braſs.

7 And he put the ſtaves into the rings on the ſides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards.

8 ¶ And he made the laver of braſs, and the foot of it of braſs, of the looking-glaſſes of the women aſſembling, which aſſembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

9 ¶ And he made the court: on the ſouth ſide ſouthward, the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen, an hundred cubits.

10 Their pillars were twenty, and their braſen ſockets twenty: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets were of ſilver.

11 And for the north ſide, the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their ſockets of braſs twenty: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of ſilver.

12 And for the weſt ſide were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their ſockets ten: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of ſilver.

13 And for the eaſt ſide eaſtward fifty cubits.

14 The hangings of the one ſide of the gate were fifteen cubits, their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

15 And for the other ſide of the court-gate, on this hand and that hand, were hangings of fifteen cubits, their pillars three, and their ſockets three.

16 All the hangings of the court round about, were of fine twined linen.

NOTES on Chap. XXXVIII.

Ver. 8. Looking-glaſſes.] It would be better tranſlated looking-plates, for glaſs was not invented at this time; but anciently, looking-plates were of poliſhed braſs. Pliny informs us, that ſuch as were made of a mixture of braſs and tin, were in moſt eſteem, before thoſe of ſilver came in uſe.

Which aſſembled at the door of the tabernacle, &c.] The ancients aſſembled in great numbers, to perform religious duties, and relieved each other at ſtated times. Theſe brazen mirrors therefore, might be made uſe of for dreſſing and adorning the women's heads, that ſo they might appear with greater decency in the ſacred place.

Before Chriſt 1490.

17 And the ſockets for the pillars were of braſs; the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of ſilver; and the overlaying of their chapiters of ſilver: and all the pillars of the court were filleted with ſilver.

18 And the hanging for the gate of the court was needle-work, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth was five cubits, anſwerable to the hangings of the court.

19 And their pillars were four, and their ſockets of braſs four; their hooks of ſilver, and the overlaying of their chapiters, and their fillets, of ſilver.

20 And all the pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about, were of braſs.

21 ¶ This is the ſum of the tabernacle, even of the tabernacle of teſtimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moſes, for the ſervice of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, ſon to Aaron the prieſt.

22 And Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

23 And with him was Aholiab, ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, and in ſcarlet, and fine linen.

24 All the gold that was occupied for the work, in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents, and ſeven hundred and thirty ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

Before Chriſt 1490.

25 And the ſilver of them that were numbered of the congregation, was an hundred talents, and a thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore and fifteen ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

26 A bekah for every man that is, half a ſhekel, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty men.

27 And of the hundred talents of ſilver were caſt the ſockets of the ſanctuary, and the ſockets of the vail; an hundred ſockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a ſocket.

28 And of the thouſand ſeven hundred ſeventy and five ſhekels, he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filleted them.

29 And the braſs of the offering was ſeventy talents, and two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels.

30 And therewith he made the ſockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the braſen altar, and the braſen grate for it, and all the veſſels of the altar.

31 And the ſockets of the court round about, and the ſockets of the court-gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

Ver. 21. For the ſervice of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar.] The particle for, is not in the Hebrew; and by, would have made the ſenſe more evident, thus; This is the ſum (the charge) of the tabernacle; even of the tabernacle of teſtimony, by the miniſtry of the Levites, under the conduct of Ithamar.

Ver. 25. The ſilver of them that were numbered.] As the number of the people who offered, were 603,550, and they offered half a ſhekel each, if we allow two ſhillings and four-pence to the ſhekel, the ſum total will be 35,207£. Sterling, or 301,775 ſhekels.

holy garments of Aaron; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

2 And he made the ephod, of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen.

3 And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the ſcarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work.

4 They made ſhoulder-pieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together.

5 And the curious girdle of his ephod that was upon it, was of the ſame, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

6 ¶ And they wrought onyx-ſtones incloſed in ouches of gold, graven as ſignets are graven, with the names of the children of Iſrael.

7 And he put them on the ſhoulders of the ephod, that they ſhould be ſtones for a memorial to the children of Iſrael; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

8 ¶ And he made the breaſt-plate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen.

9 It was four-ſquare; they made the breaſt-plate double: a ſpan was the length thereof, and a ſpan the breadth thereof, being doubled.

10 And they ſet in it four rows of ſtones: the firſt row was a ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the firſt row.

11 And the ſecond row, an emerald, a ſapphire, and a diamond.

Before Christ 1490.

12 And the third row a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt.

13 And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jaſper; they were incloſed in ouches of gold in their incloſings.

14 And the ſtones were according to the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a ſignet, every one with his name, according to the twelve tribes.

15 And they made upon the breaſt-plate chains, at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold.

16 And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings: and put the two rings in the two ends of the breaſt-plate.

17 And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breaſt-plate.

18 And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they faſtened in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the ephod, before it.

19 And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breaſt-plate, upon the border of it, which was on the ſide of the ephod inward.

20 And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two ſides of the ephod underneath, toward the fore-part of it, over againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod:

21 And they did bind the breaſt-plate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod, with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſt-plate might not be looſed from the ephod; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 ¶ And he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue.

NOTES on Chap. XXXIX.

Ver. 8. He made the breaſt-plate, &c.] Moſes here gives an account of the breaſt-plate, and its apurtenances, but takes no notice of the Urim and Thummim; an argument this, that they were not diſtinct things, and that the latter only, related to the precious ſtones of the breaſt-plate. See Chap. xxviii. 30.

Before Chriſt 1490.

23 And there was a hole in the midſt of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it ſhould not rent.

24 And they made upon the hems of the robe, pomegranates of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and twined linen.

25 And they made bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates, upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates;

26 A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate round about the hem of the robe to miniſter in; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

27 ¶ And they made coats of fine linen, of woven work, for Aaron for his ſons.

28 And a miter of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and linen breeches of fine twined linen,

29 And a girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, of needle-work; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

2 On the firſt day of the firſt month ſhalt thou ſet up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation:

3 And thou ſhalt put therein the ark of the teſtimony, and cover the ark with the vail.

4 And thou ſhalt bring in the table, and ſet in order the things that are to be ſet in order upon it; and thou ſhalt bring in the candleſtick, and light the lamps thereof.

5 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of gold for the incenſe before the ark of the teſtimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of the burnt-offering, before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.

7 And thou ſhalt ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and ſhalt put water therein.

8 And thou ſhalt ſet up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court-gate.

9 And thou ſhalt take the anointing oil, and anoint the tabernacle and all that is therein, and ſhalt hallow it, and all the veſſels thereof: and it ſhall be holy.

10 And thou ſhalt anoint the altar of the burnt-offering, and all his veſſels, and ſanctify the altar: and it ſhall be an altar moſt holy.

Ver. 15. An everlaſting prieſthood.] The inferior prieſts, by this unction, were conſecrated once for all, and inſtalled in their office; the calling paſſing from father to ſon throughout their generations, and the anointing was no more required to be reiterated in their poſterity; only the high-prieſts were anointed afterwards.

Ver. 17, 18. It came to paſs in the firſt month, &c.] At this time (See ver. 2.) Moſes ſet up the tabernacle, and began to conſecrate it, together with the altar of burnt-offering, in the performance of which ceremony, ſeven days were taken up, and then the conſecration of the prieſts began, and continued ſeven days more; being finiſhed on the fourteenth day, when a ſolemn paſſover was kept. Numb. ix. 1. 3. The tabernacle and prieſts, were not, as ſome have thought, conſecrated together; for in the conſecration of Aaron and his ſons, ſacrifices were to be offered upon the altar, which ſuppoſes it to have been already conſecrated; and we find God delivering his command to Moſes, out of the tabernacle, before the conſecration of the prieſts. Lev. i. 1. compared with chap. viii. 1. therefore the tabernacle was conſecrated before the prieſts.

23 And he ſet the bread in order upon it, before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moſes.

24 ¶ And he put the candleſtick in the tent of the congregation, over againſt the table, on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward.

25 And he lighted the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

26 ¶ And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation, before the vail.

27 And he burnt ſweet incenſe thereon, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

28 ¶ And he ſet up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle.

29 And he put the altar of burnt-offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

30 ¶ And he ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation, and the altar, and put water there, to waſh withal.

Before Christ 1490.

31 And Moſes, and Aaron and his ſons, waſhed their hands and their feet thereat.

32 When they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they waſhed; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

33 And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and ſet up the hanging of the court-gate: ſo Moſes finiſhed the work.

34 Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

35 And Moſes was not able to enter into the tent of the congregation, becauſe the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

36 And when the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Iſrael went onward in all their journies:

37 But if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not, till the day that it was taken up.

38 For the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire was on it by night, in the ſight of all the houſe of Iſrael, throughout all their journies.

Ver. 34. A cloud covered the tent.] This cloud had for ſome time reſted on the tent of Moſes, but the tabernacle being finiſhed, it removed from the former, and took poſſeſſion of the latter, where it continued in the form of a cloud by day, and a glorious light by night, till they entered Canaan. This tabernacle was a type of Chriſt dwelling in our nature, the word was made fleſh, and dwelt among us.

Ver. 35. Was not able to enter, &c.] The glory of the Lord appeared ſo bright and ſplendid.

Ver. 36. When the cloud was taken up.] This cloud guided the camp of Iſrael through the wilderneſs; while it continued on the tabernacle, they reſted, and when that removed, they removed alſo; it being purely under the Divine conduct.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 2. If any man of you bring an offering, &c.] Jewiſh, as well as Chriſtian writers, have remarked from this paſſage, that the offering of ſacrifices was not a poſitive, but rather a permiſſive injunction. Sacrifices and ceremonies, were common in the world, long before the Moſaical inſtitution; therefore, as man is directed by the light of nature, to honour and pay homage to his maker, the law-giver took it for granted, the people would be inclined to bring offerings, as they had been formerly accuſtomed to do.

be accepted for him to make atonement for him.

5 And he ſhall kill the bullock before the LORD: and the prieſts Aarons ſons ſhall bring the blood, and ſprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

6 And he ſhall ſlay the burnt-offering, and cut it into his pieces.

7 And the ſons of Aaron the prieſt ſhall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire.

8 And the prieſts Aarons ſons ſhall lay the parts, the head, and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar.

9 But his inwards and his legs ſhall he waſh in water: and the prieſt ſhall burn all on the altar, to be a burnt ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

10 ¶ And if his offering be of the flocks, namely of the ſheep, or of the goats, for a burnt-ſacrifice; he ſhall bring it a male without blemiſh.

Before Chriſt 1490.

11 And he ſhall kill it on the ſide of the altar northward before the LORD: and the prieſts Aarons ſons ſhall ſprinkle his blood round about upon the altar.

12 And he ſhall cut it into his pieces, with his head and his fat: and the prieſts ſhall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar.

13 But he ſhall waſh the inwards and the legs with water: and the prieſt ſhall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

14 ¶ And if the burnt-ſacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowls, then he ſhall bring his offering of turtle-doves, or of young pigeons.

15 And the prieſt ſhall bring it unto the altar, and wring off his head, and burn it on the altar: and the blood thereof ſhall be wrung out at the ſide of the altar.

16 And he ſhall pluck away his crop with his feathers, and caſt it beſide the altar on the eaſt part, by the place of the aſhes.

17 And

Ver. 3. Let him offer a male without blemiſh.] A male, becauſe eſteemed the more excellent; and without blemiſh, becauſe offered to a pure God.

Of his own voluntary will.] There were many voluntary offerings of particular perſons, beſides thoſe ſtated ones for the whole congregation, offered up continually year by year, two every day, called the morning and evening ſacrifice, and the additional ones, every ſabbath, new-moon, and feſtival, together with thoſe for private perſons on particular occaſions, ſuch as are ſpecified in the law.

Ver. 4. He ſhall put his hand upon the head of the burnt-offering.] By this action acknowledging his ſins, and transferring them upon the ſacrifice, relying by faith, on its expiation for him. This was a moſt lively pre-figuration of Chriſt the redeemer, on whom was laid the iniquity of us all, and by whoſe blood we are ſaved, thro' faith.

It ſhall be accepted for him.] Through God's gracious mercy accepting it, though an imperfect ſervice.

Ver. 5. He ſhall kill, &c.] They ſhall kill, i. e. the prieſts and Levites, whoſe charge it was; thus the Greek renders it in the plural number.

The prieſts Aarons ſons ſhall bring the blood, &c.] The blood is in ſcripture, conſidered as the life of the creature, the prieſt therefore, by ſprinkling it upon the altar, did it as a ranſom for the life of the offerer; this ſhewed in a lively manner, the demerit of ſin, and the mercy of God towards the penitent perſon.

Ver. 7. Shall put fire upon the altar.] Shall increaſe it, by adding freſh fuel to it; for the fire was before on the altar, which fell from Heaven, Chap. ix. 24. and the law ſays, The fire upon the altar ſhall be burning in it, it ſhall not be put out, chap. vi. 12.

Ver. 8. The prieſts ſhall lay the parts, &c.] The pureſt parts of the fat, with the head, being laid on firſt, helped by their flame to burn the reſt.

Ver. 9. His inwards and his legs ſhall be waſh in water.] In the court of the temple, there was a private room for this purpoſe, and probably there was ſome conveniency of the ſame kind in the tabernacle.

The prieſt ſhall burn all on the altar.] All; both the inward and outward parts; ſignifying that the inward and outward man, the ſoul and the body, are to be wholly and entirely devoted to God.

Ver. 14. If the burnt-ſacrifice—be of fowls.] He who could not afford a ſheep or a goat, might bring a bird for an offering; and even if he had not that, an offering of flour; ſo that it was not the gift, but the diſpoſition of the giver, which God regarded; Provided it was done in ſincerity, a turtle-dove was as acceptable to the Almighty, as the choiceſt of the herd and the flock.

Before Chriſt 1490.

17 And he ſhall cleave it, with the wings thereof, but ſhall not divide it aſunder: and the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: it is a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

CHAP. II.

1 Of the meat offering, and, 12 Of the firſt-fruits.

AND when any will offer a meat-offering unto the LORD, his offering ſhall be of fine flour; and he ſhall pour oil upon it, and put frankincenſe thereon.

2 And he ſhall bring it to Aarons ſons the prieſts: and he ſhall take thereout his handful of the flour thereof, and of the oil thereof, with all the frankincenſe thereof; and the prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

3 And the remnant of the meat-offering ſhall be Aarons and his ſons: it is a thing moſt holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

8 And thou ſhalt bring the meat-offering that is made of theſe things, unto the LORD: and when it is preſented unto the prieſt, he ſhall bring it unto the altar.

9 And the prieſt ſhall take from the meat-offering a memorial thereof, and ſhall burn it upon the altar: it is an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

10 And that which is left of the meat-offering, ſhall be Aarons and his ſons: it is a thing moſt holy, of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

Ver 13. Every oblation of thy meat-offering, ſhalt thou ſeaſon with ſalt.] Salt has two remarkable qualities, the firſt of ſeaſoning, the ſecond of preſerving meat; and therefore, the New Teſtament teaches us to conſider its uſe in a moral light, as denoting the integrity and purity of the heart, which renders both our perſons and ſervices acceptable to God. Plutarch tells us, the Egyptians never uſed any ſalt in their bread, this injunction might therefore be in oppoſition to them.

The peace-offerings

Ver. 14. Corn.] The Hebrew word properly ſignifies, a certain kind of wheat which grew upon mount Carmel, of exquiſite goodneſs.

Notes on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. A ſacrifice of peace-offering.] Peace-offering; the word implies every kind of proſperity and happineſs. Burnt-offerings, were purely expreſſive of adoration, and for that reaſon were wholly burnt; peace-offerings had regard to God, as being the great benefactor to his creatures, from whom all good gifts and bleſſings flow, and therefore were divided between the altar, the prieſt, and the offerer; this participation, beſpoke harmony and agreement, and was a ſymbol of friendſhip between God and man; or a confirmation of the covenant of peace. The Greeks called theſe offerings Chariſteria, offerings of thankſgiving.

Whether it be a male or female.] This permiſſion, to offer either ſex, provided it was without blemiſh, ſhews us that God regards only our ſincere intentions, and not any pretended worth or excellency; though the maſculine, in Grammar, is ſaid to be more worthy than the feminine; yet let it be remembered, there is neither male nor female in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 4. The caul above the liver.] The greateſt lobe of the liver.

Ver. 5. Shall burn it on the altar, upon the burnt-ſacrifice.] The peace-offering is enjoined upon, or after, the burnt-ſacrifice; to ſhew that expiation, or atonement for ſin, muſt firſt be made, before ever either we, or our ſervices can become acceptable to God.

Ver. 9. The whole rump.] Moſes mentions the rumps of ſheep, becauſe in the eaſtern countries they were remarkably large and fat. Pliny informs us, that in Syria they were a cubit long; and modern travellers report, they frequently weigh twenty-five pounds.

Before Chriſt 1490. and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

11 And the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire unto the Lord.

12 ¶ And if his offering be a goat, then he ſhall offer it before the Lord.

13 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of it, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and the ſons of Aaron ſhall ſprinkle the blood thereof upon the altar round about.

14 And he ſhall offer thereof his offering, even an offering made by fire unto the Lord; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards.

15 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

16 And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire, for a ſweet ſavour. All the fat is the Lords.

CHAP. IV.

1 The ſin-offerings of ignorance.

Before Chriſt 1490.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a ſoul ſhall ſin through ignorance againſt any of the commandments of the Lord (concerning things which ought not to be done) and ſhall do againſt any of them:

3 If the prieſt that is anointed do ſin according to the ſin of the people; then let him bring for his ſin which he hath ſinned, a young bullock without blemiſh, unto the Lord for a ſin-offering.

4 And he ſhall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the Lord; and ſhall lay his hand upon the bullocks head, and kill the bullock before the Lord.

5 And the prieſt that is anointed ſhall take of the bullocks blood, and bring it to the tabernacle of the congregation.

6 And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in the blood, and ſprinkle of the blood ſeven times before the Lord, before the vail of the ſanctuary.

7 And the prieſt ſhall put ſome of the blood

Ver. 11. It is the food of the offering made by fire unto the Lord.] The ſacrifice is repreſented as the meat of God, which fed the fire of the altar, and which is alſo called God's table. The Heathens uſed the ſame idioms, with regard to their ſacrifices.

Ver. 16. The fat.] This does not mean the fat intermixed with the fleſh, which might be eaten, Deut. xxxii. 14. but the ſewet only.

Ver. 17. Throughout all your dwellings.] Not only in the public ſacrifices, but in your private houſes; where it is likely, thoſe kinds of fat not offered to God, were, with the blood, thrown away.

That ye eat neither fat nor blood.] This was a leſſon of inſtruction, by which they were taught to be neither carnal, nor cruel.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 2. Shall ſin through ignorance.] Thoſe who out of contempt of the law, ſinned knowingly and preſumptuouſly, were intirely to be cut off; but if any being ignorant of the law, fell into tranſgreſſion unawares, in ſuch a caſe, the remedy was provided; and the offender might expiate his ſin of ignorance, by a ſin-offering, which God was pleaſed to accept, in pity to the weakneſs and frailty of human nature.

Shall do againſt any of them.] Then he ſhall bring an offering for his ſin; this is to be underſtood.

Ver. 3. If the prieſt that is anointed do ſin.] The prieſts office did not ſo far excuſe his crimes, that they ſhould be pardoned without ſacrifice; nor yet did it aggravate them ſo far, but that they might be pardoned if he offered his ſacrifice: However, the ſins of ſuch are more enormous, ſince bad examples weaken the force of precepts, and as it is ſaid, the ſins of teachers, are the teachers of ſins.

For a ſin-offering.] The Levitical law mentions two kinds of expiatory ſacrifices; one it calls Chattah, which we render ſin-offering; the other Aſcham, which we render treſpaſs-offering; but wherein the difference conſiſts, it is not ſo eaſy to determine.

Ver. 6. Shall ſprinkle of the blood ſeven times.] This ceremony, was peculiar only to the moſt ſolemn ſacrifice; the number ſeven, is often mentioned in ſacred writ, and it is probable the Jews paid a regard to it, on account of the creation of the world completed in ſeven days.

8 And he ſhall take off from it all the fat of the bullock for the ſin-offering; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards:

9 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away,

10 As it was taken off from the bullock of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar of the burnt-offering.

11 And the ſkin of the bullock, and all his fleſh, with his head, and with his legs, and his inwards, and his dung,

12 Even the whole bullock ſhall he carry forth without the camp, unto a clean place, where the aſhes are poured out, and burn him on the wood with fire: where the aſhes are poured out ſhall he be burnt.

13 ¶ And if the whole congregation of Iſrael ſin through ignorance, and the thing be hid from the eyes of the aſſembly, and they have done ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and are guilty;

14 When the ſin which they have ſinned againſt it is known, then the congregation ſhall offer a young bullock for the ſin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation.

Before Chriſt 1490.

15 And the elders of the congregation ſhall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD: and the bullock ſhall be killed before the LORD.

16 And the prieſt that is anointed, ſhall bring of the bullocks blood to the tabernacle of the congregation.

17 And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in ſome of the blood, and ſprinkle it ſeven times before the LORD, even before the vail.

18 And he ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar, which is before the LORD, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of the burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

19 And he ſhall take all his fat from him, and burn it upon the altar.

20 And he ſhall do with the bullock as he did with the bullock for a ſin-offering, ſo ſhall he do with this; and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for them, and it ſhall be forgiven them.

21 And he ſhall carry forth the bullock without the camp, and burn him as he burned the firſt bullock: it is a ſin-offering for the congregation.

22 ¶ When a ruler hath ſinned, and done ſomewhat through ignorance againſt any of the commandments of the LORD his God, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and is guilty;

Ver. 12. Unto a clean place where the aſhes are poured out.] There was a place for the reception of the aſhes after they were taken from the altar, on the eaſt part of the tabernacle; after which they were carried to a clean place without the camp.

Ver. 23. Or if his ſin, &c.] And if his ſin; or, as ſoon as his ſin appear to him.

He ſhall bring—a kid, &c.] There was a great difference between the ſin-offering for a ruler, and that for the high-prieſt, or the whole congregation; for the latter, a bullock was required; for the former, a kid of the goats only; the one was to be burnt without the camp, for the other there was no ſuch precept; intimating, the pernicious conſequences of the ſin of the high-prieſt, above that of others.

25 And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out his blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering.

26 And he ſhall burn all his fat upon the altar, as the fat of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him as concerning his ſin, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

27 ¶ And if any one of the common people ſin through ignorance, while he doeth ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the Lord, concerning things which ought not to be done, and be guilty;

28 Or if his ſin, which he hath ſinned, come to his knowledge: then he ſhall bring his offering, a kid of the goats, a female without blemiſh, for his ſin which he hath ſinned.

29 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the ſin-offering, and ſlay the ſin-offering in the place of the burnt-offering.

30 And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar.

31 And he ſhall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat is taken away from off the ſacrifice of peace-offerings; and the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar, for a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

32 And if he bring a lamb for a ſin-offering, he ſhall bring it a female without blemiſh.

33 And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the ſin-offering, and ſlay it for a ſin-offering, in the place where they kill the burnt-offering.

34 And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar.

35 And he ſhall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar, according to the offerings made by fire unto the Lord: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for his ſin that he hath committed, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

CHAP V.

1 Of concealing the knowledge of touching an unclean thing. 14 The treſpaſs offerings.

AND if a ſoul ſin, and hear the voice of ſwearing, and is a witneſs, whether he hath ſeen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he ſhall bear his iniquity.

2 Or if a ſoul touch any unclean thing, whether it be a carcaſe of an unclean beaſt, or a carcaſe of unclean cattle, or the carcaſe of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him; he alſo ſhall be unclean, and guilty.

Ver. 28. A female.] A ſin-offering, for one of the common people, was to be a female, but for a ruler, a male; and herein conſiſted the circumſtantial difference.

Ver. 29. In the place of the burnt-offering.] Where he ſlays the burnt-offering.

Ver. 35. It ſhall be forgiven him.] He ſhall be reſtored to all the privileges of a member of the Jewiſh community, which he had forfeited by his ſin.

Ver. 1. Hear the voice of ſwearing.] That is, of adjuration; it being uſual in thoſe times, for judges to adjure thoſe who came before them, in the name of God, to declare the whole truth. See Matt. xxvi. 63. It does not mean the taking an oath.

Ver. 2. He alſo ſhall be unclean.] Till the evening; when

5 And it ſhall be, when he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe things, that he ſhall confeſs that he hath ſinned in that thing.

6 And he ſhall bring his treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD for his ſin which he hath ſinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats, for a ſin-offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him concerning his ſin.

7 And if he be not able to bring a lamb, then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs which he hath committed, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, unto the LORD; one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering.

8 And he ſhall bring them unto the prieſt, who ſhall offer that which is for the ſin-offering firſt, and wring off his head from his neck, but ſhall not divide it aſunder.

9 And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood of the ſin-offering upon the ſide of the altar; and the reſt of the blood ſhall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar: it is a ſin-offering. Before Chriſt 1490.

10 And he ſhall offer the ſecond for a burnt-offering, according to the manner: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, for his ſin which he hath ſinned, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

11 ¶ But if he be not able to bring two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons; then he that ſinned ſhall bring for his offering the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a ſin-offering: he ſhall put no oil upon it, neither ſhall he put any frankincenſe thereon: for it is a ſin-offering.

12 Then ſhall he bring it to the prieſt, and the prieſt ſhall take his handful of it, even a memorial thereof, and burn it on the altar, according to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: it is a ſin-offering.

13 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, as touching his ſin that he hath ſinned in one of theſe, and it ſhall be forgiven him: and the remnant ſhall be the prieſts, as a meat-offering.

Ver. 4. If a ſoul ſwear pronouncing with his lips, &c.] The word which we tranſlate pronouncing, ſignifies to pronounce raſhly, or to ſpeak unadviſedly, therefore it is better rendered thus; If a ſoul ſhall ſwear, pronouncing raſhly to do evil, or to do good.

Ver. 5. He ſhall confeſs, &c.] It was a received maxim among the Jews, that without confeſſion to God, there could be no pardon; the guilty perſon therefore, coming to offer for his ſin, laid his hand upon the head of the victim, confeſſing his crime in this form: O God, I have ſinned, I have done perverſely: I have treſpaſſed before thee, and have done ſo and ſo: Lo! I repent, and am aſhamed of my doings, and I will do ſo no more.

Ver. 7. If he be not able to bring a lamb, then he ſhall bring, &c.] That a man's poverty might not be a bar in the way of his pardon, and that the poor might pacify their conſciences under a ſenſe of guilt, they who had not ability to procure a lamb, might bring a pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons; and even if they could not purchaſe theſe, a pottle of fine flour was accepted.

Before Chriſt 1490.

15 If a ſoul commit a treſpaſs, and ſin through ignorance, in the holy things of the Lord; then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs unto the Lord, a ram withour blemiſh out of the flocks, with thy eſtimation by ſhekels of ſilver, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for a treſpaſs-offering.

16 And he ſhall make amends for the harm that he hath done in the holy thing, and ſhall add the fifth part thereto and give it unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him with the ram of the traſpaſs-offering, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

16 And the remainder thereof ſhall Aaron and his ſons eat: with unleavened bread ſhall it be eaten in the holy place: in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation they ſhall eat it.

17 It ſhall not be baken with leaven: I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire; it is moſt holy, as is the ſin-offering, and as the treſpaſs-offering.

Before Chriſt 1490. 18 All the males among the children of Aaron ſhall eat of it: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations concerning the offerings of the LORD made by fire: Every one that toucheth them ſhall be holy.

19 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

20 This is the offering of Aaron, and of his ſons, which they ſhall offer unto the LORD, in the day when he is anointed; the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering perpetual, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night.

21 In a pan it ſhall be made with oil; and when it is baken, thou ſhalt bring it in; and the baken pieces of the meat-offering ſhalt thou offer for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

22 And the prieſt of his ſons, that is anointed in his ſtead ſhall offer it: It is a ſtatute for ever unto the LORD, it ſhall be wholly burnt.

23 For every meat-offering for the prieſt ſhall be wholly burnt: it ſhall not be eaten.

24 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

25 Speak unto Aaron and to his ſons, ſaying, This is the law of the ſin-offering: In the place where the burnt-offering is killed, ſhall the ſin-offering be killed before the LORD: it is moſt holy.

26 The prieſt that offereth it for ſin, ſhall eat it: in the holy place ſhall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 The law of the treſpaſs, and of the peace-offerings. 26 Blood forbidden.

LIkewiſe this is the law of the treſpaſs-offering: it is moſt holy.

2 In the place where they kill the burnt-offering, ſhall they kill the treſpaſs-offering: and the blood thereof ſhall he ſprinkle round about upon the altar.

3 And he ſhall offer of it, all the fat thereof; the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards,

4 And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away.

5 And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar, for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a treſpaſs-offering.

6 Every male among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it ſhall be eaten in the holy place: it is moſt holy.

7 As the ſin-offering is, ſo is the treſpaſs-offering: there is one law for them: the prieſt that maketh atonement therewith, ſhall have it.

8 And the prieſt that offereth any mans burnt-offering, even the prieſt ſhall have to himſelf the ſkin of the burnt-offering which he hath offered.

9 And all the meat-offering that is baken in the oven, and all that is dreſſed in the frying-pan, and in the pan, ſhall be the prieſts that offereth it.

10 And every meat-offering mingled with oil, and dry, ſhall all the ſons of Aaron have, one as much as another.

11 And this is the law of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which he ſhall offer unto the LORD.

12 If he offer it for a thankſgiving, then he ſhall offer with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour, fried.

13 Beſides the cakes, he ſhall offer for his offering, leavened bread, with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving of his peace-offerings.

14 And of it he ſhall offer one out of the whole oblation, for an heave-offering unto the LORD, and it ſhall be the prieſts that ſprinkleth the blood of the peace-offerings.

15 And the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings for thankſgiving, ſhall be eaten the ſame day that it is offered; he ſhall not leave any of it until the morning.

16 But if the ſacrifice of his offering be a vow,

Ver. 28. The earthen veſſel wherein it was ſodden, ſhall be broken.] This is not to be underſtood of ſacred veſſels, none of which were of earth; but of thoſe which private perſons ſometimes employed in dreſſing the meat of their ſacrifices, being apt from their porous nature, to imbibe a tincture from the juices of the ſacrifice; whereas braſs veſſels might be cleanſed by ſcouring.

NOTES on Chap. VII.

Ver. 7. Sin-offering.] This ſtrictly implies an offering for an offence committed directly againſt God. Treſpaſs-offering.] This ſignifies an offering for an offence committed more immediately againſt man. Sometimes a ſin-offering, and a treſpaſs-offering, are put indiſcriminately one for the other.

Ver. 8. Shall have to himſelf the ſkin.] The prieſt had the ſkin, viz. of ſuch burnt-offerings as were offered by particular perſons; for the profit of the daily ones, for the congregation, were for the repair of the ſanctuary.

Ver. 11. Peace-offerings.] The conſideration of theſe is deferred to the laſt place, they being various, and requiring various rites.

17 But the remainder of the fleſh of the ſacrifice on the third day, ſhall be burnt with fire.

18 And if any of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it ſhall not be accepted, neither ſhall it be imputed unto him that offereth it; it ſhall be an abomination, and the ſoul that eateth of it, ſhall bear his iniquity.

19 And the fleſh, that toucheth any unclean thing, ſhall not be eaten; it ſhall be burnt with fire: and as for the fleſh, all that be clean ſhall eat thereof.

20 But the ſoul that eateth of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings, that pertain unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

21 Moreover, the ſoul that ſhall touch any unclean thing, as the uncleanneſs of man, or any unclean beaſt, or any abominable unclean thing, and eat of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings which pertain unto the LORD, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

22 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Ye ſhall eat no manner of fat, of ox, or of ſheep, or of goat.

24 And the fat of the beaſt that dieth of itſelf, and the fat of that which is torn with beaſts, may be uſed in any other uſe: but ye ſhall in no wiſe eat of it.

25 For whoſoever eateth the fat of the beaſt, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the ſoul that eateth it ſhall be cut off from his people. Before Christ 1490.

26 Moreover, ye ſhall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl or of beaſt, in any of your dwellings.

27 Whatſoever ſoul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

28 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

29 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, He that offereth the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings unto the LORD, ſhall bring his oblation unto the LORD of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings.

30 His own hands ſhall bring the offerings of the LORD made by fire, the fat with the breaſt, it ſhall he bring, that the breaſt may be waved for a wave-offering before the LORD.

31 And the prieſt ſhall burn the fat upon the altar: but the breaſt ſhall be Aarons and his ſons.

32 And the right ſhoulder ſhall ye give unto the prieſt for an heave-offering, of the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings.

33 He among the ſons of Aaron that offereth the blood of the peace-offerings, and the fat, ſhall have the right ſhoulder for his part.

34 For the wave-breaſt, and the heave-ſhoulder have I taken of the children of Iſrael, from off the ſacrifices of their peace-offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the prieſt, and unto his ſons, by a ſtatute

Ver. 19. The fleſh that toucheth any unclean thing, &c.] The offerer was wholly to burn the ſacrifice, and not preſume to eat the leaſt bit of it, in caſe it had accidentally touched any thing, or perſon, legally unclean; and this it might do, as it was carrying from the altar, to the place where it was intended to be feaſted upon.

CHAP. VIII.

The conſecration of Aaron and his ſons.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Take Aaron and his ſons with him, and the garments, and the anointing oil, and a bullock for the ſin-offering, and two rams, and a baſket of unleavened bread;

3 And gather thou all the congregtion together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And Moſes did as the Lord commanded him; and the aſſembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

Before Chriſt 1490.

5 And Moſes ſaid unto the congregation, This is the thing which the Lord commanded to be done.

6 And Moſes brought Aaron and his ſons, and waſhed them with water.

7 And he put upon him the coat, and girded him with the girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith.

8 And he put the breaſt-plate upon him: alſo he put in the breaſt-plate the Urim and Thummim.

9 And he put the miter upon his head; alſo upon the miter, even upon his forefront, did he put the golden plate, the holy crown; as the Lord commanded Moſes.

10 And Moſes took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and ſanctified them.

11 And he ſprinkled thereof upon the altar ſeven times, and anointed the altar, and all his veſſels, both the laver and his foot, to ſanctify them.

12 And he poured of the anointing oil upon Aarons head, and anointed him to ſanctify him.

13 And Moſes brought Aarons ſons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, and put bonnets upon them; as the Lord commanded Moſes.

14 And he brought the bullock for the ſin-offering: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the ſin-offering.

15 And he ſlew it, and Moſes took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar,

16 And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moſes burned it upon the altar.

17 But the bullock and his hide, his fleſh and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

18 And he brought the ram for the burnt-offering: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram:

19 And he killed it, and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

20 And he cut the ram into pieces, and Moſes burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat.

21 And he waſhed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moſes burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt-ſacrifice for a ſweet ſavour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 ¶ And he brought the other ram, the ram of conſecration: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram.

23 And he ſlew it, and Moſes took of the blood of it, and put it upon the tip of Aarons right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot.

24 And he brought Aarons ſons, and Moſes put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet: and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about.

25 And he took the fat and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys and their fat, and the right ſhoulder.

26 And out of the baſket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them on the fat, and upon the right ſhoulder.

27 And he put all upon Aarons hands, and upon his ſons hands, and waved them for a wave-offering before the LORD.

28 And Moſes took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar, upon the burnt-offering: they were conſecrations for a ſweet ſavour: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

29 And Moſes took the breaſt, and waved it for a wave-offering before the LORD: for of the ram of conſecration it was Moſes part; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

30 And Moſes took of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and ſprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon his ſons garments with him; and ſanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him.

31 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and to his ſons, Boyl the fleſh at the door of the tabernacle of the congregtion: and there eat it with the bread that is in the baſket of conſecrations, as I commanded, ſaying, Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat it.

36 So Aaron and his ſons did all things which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. IX.

The Offerings, for Aaron and the people. 23 Moſes and Aaron bleſs the people.

AND it came to paſs on the eighth day, that Moſes called Aaron and his ſons, and the elders of Iſrael;

2 And he ſaid unto Aaron, Take thee a young calf for a ſin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering, without blemiſh, and offer them before the LORD.

3 And unto the children of Iſrael thou ſhalt ſpeak, ſaying, Take ye a kid of the goats for a ſin-offering; and a calf, and a lamb, both of the firſt year, without blemiſh, for a burnt-offering;

4 Alſo a bullock and a ram, for peace-offerings, to ſacrifice before the LORD; and a meat-offering mingled with oil; for to day the LORD will appear unto you.

5 ¶ And they brought that which Moſes commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and ſtood before the LORD.

Before Chriſt 1490.

6 And Moſes ſaid, This is the thing which the LORD commanded, that ye ſhould do: and the glory of the LORD ſhall appear unto you.

7 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Go unto the altar, and offer thy ſin-offering, and thy burnt-offering, and make an atonement for thyſelf and for the people: and offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement for them; as the LORD commanded.

8 ¶ Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and ſlew the calf of the ſin-offering, which was for himſelf.

9 And the ſons of Aaron brought the blood unto him: and he dipt his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar.

10 But the fat and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the ſin-offering he burnt upon the altar; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

11 And the fleſh and the hide he burnt with fire, without the camp.

12 And he ſlew the burnt-offering; and Aarons ſons preſented unto him the blood, which he ſprinkled round about upon the altar.

13 And they preſented the burnt-offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head: and he burnt them upon the altar.

In ſeven days] Some or other of the prieſts, were to watch there the whole time, night and day; nor might they enter into the tabernacle, till the ceremony was performed.

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 3. Take ye a kid of the goats, &c.] The Hebrew word SIER ſignifies an he-goat. Maimonides tells us (agreeable to the Jewiſh ſuperſtition) that the reaſon why ſo many he-goats were appointed for ſacrifice was, that moſt of the Idolaters of that age ſacrificed to Dæmons; which uſed to appear in the form of he-goats.

Ver. 7. Make an atonement for thyſelf and for the people.] For the high-prieſts under the law were themſelves ſinners, and therefore obliged, as for the people, ſo alſo for themſelves, to offer for ſins; but Jeſus Chriſt our goſpel high-prieſt, is holy and undefiled, without ſpot or blemiſh, and therefore a fit propitiation for us.

Ver. 8. And ſlew the calf of the ſin-offering.] Some interpreters think, that by this appointment of a calf for a ſin offering for Aaron, his ſin in worſhipping the molten calf, is intimated.

Before Chriſt 1490.

14 And he did waſh the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt-offering on the altar.

15 ¶ And he brought the peoples offering and took the goat which was the ſin-offering, for the people, and ſlew it, and offered it for ſin, as the firſt.

16 And he brought the burnt-offering, and offered it according to the manner.

17 And he brought the meat-offering, and took an handful thereof, and burnt it upon the altar, beſide the burnt-ſacrifice of the morning.

18 He ſlew alſo the bullock and the ram, for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which was for the people: and Aarons ſons preſented unto him the blood (which he ſprinkled upon the altar round about)

19 And the fat of the bullock, and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver.

20 And they put the fat upon the breaſts, and he burnt the fat upon the altar:

21 And the breaſts and the right ſhoulder Aaron waved for a wave-offering before the LORD; as Moſes commanded.

22 And Aaron lifted up his hand towards the people, and bleſſed them; and came down from offering of the ſin-offering, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

Before Chriſt 1490.

23 And Moſes and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and bleſſed the people: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the people.

24 And there came a fire out from before the LORD, and conſumed upon the altar the burnt-offering, and the fat: which when all the people ſaw, they ſhouted, and fell on their faces.

CHAP. X.

1 The death of Nadab and Abihu. 12 The law of eating holy things.

AND Nadab and Abihu, the ſons of Aaron, took either of them his cenſer, and put fire therein, and put incenſe thereon, and offered ſtrange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not.

2 And there went out fire from the LORD and devoured them, and they died before the LORD.

3 Then Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD ſpake, ſaying, I will be ſanctified in them that come nigh me, and before all the peope I will be glorified. And Aaron held his peace.

4 And Moſes called Miſhael and Elzaphan, the ſons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and ſaid unto them, Come near, carry

---

Ver. 23. Went into the tabernacle.] The Jewiſh writers ſay, they went in to pray for the appearance of the divine glory; but it is moſt likely, it was to carry in the blood of the ſacrifices for ſin. Lev. iv. 7, 16. and afterwards returned to the court, to pour out the reſt of the blood, at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offerings, Ver. 9. after which the fire came down and burnt the ſacrifices. Others ſay that Moſes went in, in order to inſtruct Aaron how to perform his office in that place.

Ver. 24. There came a fire out from before the Lord, &c.] The prieſts were commanded to keep this ſacred fire continually burning upon the altar. Accordingly, it was continued till the time of the dedication of the temple by Solomon, when the fire came down upon the ſacrifice again, and conſumed it; and was preſerved till the deſtruction of the ſaid temple.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Offered ſtrange fire before the Lord.] Offered the incenſe with common fire, and not with that which had juſt before fallen from heaven.

Ver. 2. There went out fire from the Lord and conſumed them.] That is, they were ſtruck dead in a moment, with a flaſh of lightning; by this exemplary judgment others were taught, not to do contrary to the divine commands.

5 So they went near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moſes had ſaid.

6 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his ſons, Uncover not your heads, neither rend your clothes; leſt you die, and leſt wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the the whole houſe of Iſrael, bewail the burning which the Lord hath kindled.

7 And ye ſhall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt you die: for the anointing oil of the Lord is upon you. And they did according to the word of Moſes.

8 ¶ And the Lord ſpeak unto Aaron, ſaying,

9 Do not drink wine nor ſtrong drink, thou, nor thy ſons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt ye die: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations:

10 And that ye may put difference between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean;

11 And that ye may teach the children of Iſrael all the ſtatutes which the Lord hath ſpoken unto them by the hand of Moſes.

12 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar his ſons that were left, Take the meat-offering that remaineth of the offerings of the Lord made by fire, and eat it without leaven beſide the altar: for it is moſt holy.

13 And ye ſhall eat it in the holy place, becauſe it is thy due and thy ſons due of the ſacrifices of the Lord made by fire: for ſo I am commanded. Before Christ 1490.

14 And the wave-breaſt and heave-ſhoulder ſhall ye eat in a clean place; thou, and thy ſons, and thy daughters with thee: for they be thy due, and thy ſons due, which are given out of the ſacrifices of peace-offerings of the children of Iſrael.

15 The heave-ſhoulder, and the wave-breaſt ſhall they bring, with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave-offering before the Lord; and it ſhall be thine, and thy ſons with thee, by a ſtatute for ever; as the Lord hath commanded.

16 ¶ And Moſes diligently ſought the goat of the ſin-offering, and behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazer and Ithamar, the ſons of Aaron, which were left alive, ſaying,

17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the ſin-offering in the holy place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it to you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the Lord?

18 Behold, the blood of it was not brought in within the holy place: ye ſhould indeed have eaten it in the holy place, as I commanded.

19 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, this day have they offered their ſin-offering, and their burnt-offering before the Lord; and ſuch things have befallen me: and if I had eaten the ſin offering to day, ſhould it have been accepted in the ſight of the Lord?

20 And

Ver. 7. The anointing oil of the Lord is upon you.] You are wholly conſecrated to God; therefore your thoughts and affections muſt be entirely devoted to his ſervice; for which alone you ought to be concerned, and not to regard inferior concerns.

Ver. 9. Do not drink wine nor ſtrong drink.] From this precept immediately ſubjoined, it is probable, that Nadab and Abihu at the ſacrifice for their inſtalment, had intoxicated themſelves with liquor; which was the cauſe of their miſcarriage.

Ver. 19. If I had eaten the ſin-offering to day, ſhould it have been accepted in the ſight of the Lord?] Feaſts ought to be celebrated with chearfulneſs; for which reaſon Aaron argues; would the Lord have been pleaſed with me, if I had eaten ſacrifice in ſuch confuſion and heavineſs of heart? and it was impoſſible for me, on this melancholly occaſion, to be otherwiſe diſpoſed.

Before Christ 1490.

20 And when Moſes heard that, he was content.

CHAP. XI.

1 What beaſts may, 4 and what may not be eaten.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and to Aaron, ſaying unto them,

3 Whatſoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud among the beaſts, that ſhall ye eat.

4 Nevertheleſs, theſe ſhall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

5 And the coney, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

6 And the hare, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you.

7 And the ſwine, though he divide the hoof, and be cloven-footed; yet he cheweth not the cud; he is unclean to you.

11 They ſhall be even an abomination unto you: ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, but you ſhall have their carcaſes in abomination.

12 Whatſoever hath no fins nor ſcales in the waters, that ſhall be an abomination unto you.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 2. Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat.] Various reaſons have been aſſigned, why God was pleaſed to allow of ſome kinds of creatures for food, and to prohibit others. Maimonides thinks thoſe which are here called unclean, were forbid to be eaten, becauſe they were unwholſome food. Another reaſon for this diſtinction between clean and unclean, is ſaid to be in order to raiſe in the Jews an high opinion of their peculiar dignity and pre-eminence, and to diſtinguiſh them from other people: Another, that it was to exerciſe their obedience: Another, that moſt of the creatures were had in veneration by the heathens, being uſed in their ſacrifices and divinations, and were therefore prohibited: Another, becauſe they were the repreſentations of ſome particular vices in men, from which they ought to abſtain. Perhaps each of theſe might, in ſome meaſure, be the reaſon of the prohibition.

Ver. 5. The coney.] This is thought to be wrong tranſlated; ſince the hebrew word SCAPHAN, properly ſignifies a large ſpecies of the rat, abounding in Egypt and Paleſtine.

Ver. 6. The hare.] This is eſteemed a very laſcivious animal.

Ver. 7. The ſwine.] This creature is ſubject to the leproſy, and alſo a diſeaſe called Scrophula, very like the king's evil; together with the meaſles, another contagious diſorder.

Ver. 10. All that have not fins nor ſcales, &c.] Fiſh without ſcales incline ſooneſt to putrefaction.

Ver. 13. The eagle.] This is known to be a rapacious bird.

The oſſifrage.] This bird is a ſpecies of the eagle, and breaks the bones of its prey, from which it derives its name.

The oſpray.] Bochart takes this to be the Melanætas, or Black-eagle. Homer celebrates it in his Iliad, as the ſtrongeſt and ſwifteſt of all birds.

Ver. 14. The vulture.] This is a ravenous bird, and lives moſtly on dead bodies and carrion.

The kite.] The kite kind are all birds of prey.

Ver. 15. The raven.] The raven is rapacious; and the crow, of which kind this bird is, is moſt filthy; delighting to feed on the carcaſſes of dead animals, when they begin to putrify.

Ver. 16. The owl.] It is the nature of this bird to conceal itſelf all day, and (as tho' it hated the light) to look out in the evening from time to time, to ſee when it is dark, when it will come forth and fly abroad.

The night-hawk.] The Hebrew word implies impious, or unnatural;

Before Christ 1490.

17 And the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl,

18 And the ſwan, and the pellican, and the gier-eagle,

19 And the ſtork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

20 All fowls that creep, going upon all four, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

21 Yet theſe may ye eat of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet, to leap withal upon the earth;

22 Even theſe of them ye may eat; the locuſt after his kind, and the bald-locuſt after his kind, and the beetle after his kind, and the graſhopper after his kind.

23 But all other flying creeping things, which have four feet, ſhall be an abomination unto you.

24 And for theſe ye ſhall be unclean: whoſoever toucheth the carcaſe of them, ſhall be unclean until the even.

25 And whoſoever beareth ought of the carcaſe of them, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

26 The carcaſes of every beaſt which divideth the hoof, and is not cloven-footed, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them ſhall be unclean.

27 And whatſoever goeth upon his paws, among all manner of beaſts, that go on all four, thoſe are unclean unto you: whoſo toucheth their carcaſe ſhall be unclean until the even.

28 And he that beareth the carcaſe of them ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you.

29 ¶ Theſe alſo ſhall be unclean unto you among the creeping things that creep upon the earth; the weaſel, and the mouſe, and the tortoiſe after his kind,

30 And the ferret, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the ſnail, and the mole.

31 Theſe are unclean to you among all that creep: whoſoever doth touch them when they be dead, ſhall be unclean until the even.

32 And upon whatſoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it ſhall be unclean; whether it be any veſſel of wood, or raiment, or ſkin, or ſack, whatſoever veſſel it be, wherein any work is done, it muſt be put into water, and it ſhall be unclean until the even; ſo it ſhall be cleanſed.

33 And every earthen veſſel, whereinto any of them falleth, whatſoever is in it ſhall be unclean; and ye ſhall break it.

unnatural; therefore Bochart is of opinion, that the male-oſtrich is here meant. It was ſaid to be a bird that treated its young with great cruelty.

The cuckow.] Bochart, Septuagint and vulgate, render it a didapper or ſea-mew.

The hawk.] All the birds of this kind are fierce, cruel, and rapacious.

Ver. 17. The little owl.] It is rendered a night-raven in the Septuagint.

The cormorant.] This bird is of a gluttinous nature.

Ver. 18. The ſwan.] Heb. THINSEMETH, is by ſome rendered a bat; but Bochart thinks it a ſpecies of the owl.

The pelican.] It is a moſt voracious, as well as a ſolitary bird, its favourite reſidence being in remote and uncultivated places.

The gier-eagle.] Gier is an old Engliſh word for vulture; therefore it is to be read the vulture-eagle.

Ver. 19. The ſtork.] Heb. CHASIDA, which implies tenderneſs. Theſe birds are very tender towards their young, and have been celebrated by authors, for their pity and love to their parents.

The heron.] Thoſe of this kind are ſolitary birds, being generally alone night and day.

The lapwing.] It builds its neſt on the ground, open and expoſed to view.

The bat.] From the hebrew ATALEPH, the bird of darkneſs: the Greeks likewiſe gave it the epithet of the bird of night.

Ver. 20. All fowls that creep, &c.] All flying things that go upon four.

Ver. 29. Among the creeping things that creep.] Whoſe legs are ſo ſhort that they appear to creep.

The weaſel.] In the hebrew CHOLED: the word ſignifies to dig or penetrate into the earth; for which reaſon Bochart renders it the mole.

The mouſe.] Heb. GRASCHAL-BAR, the deſtroyer of the field, i. e. the field-mouſe.

The tortoiſe.] The land-crocodile; a ſpecies of the land-lizard, near a cubit long, frequently met with in Arabia, and which Jerom informs us, the Syrians uſed for food.

Ver. 30. The ferret.] Heb. ANAKA, the crier; it is ſuppoſed to mean the frog by ſome commentators, who think the hebrew word alludes to its croaking.

The chamelion and the lizard, &c.] It is obſerved, that theſe reptiles are very ſubject to putrefaction, and their ſmell when putrified is exceedingly offenſive; whence it is concluded, that their juices are greatly alkaleſcent.

Before Chriſt 1490. on which ſuch water cometh ſhall be unclean: and all drink that may be drunk in every ſuch veſſel ſhall be unclean.

35 And every thing, whereupon any part of their carcaſe falleth, ſhall be unclean; whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they ſhall be broken down: for they are unclean, and ſhall be unclean unto you.

36 Nevertheleſs, a fountain or pit, wherein there is plenty of water, ſhall be clean: but that which toucheth their carcaſe ſhall be unclean.

37 And if any part of their carcaſe fall upon any ſowing-ſeed which is to be ſown, it ſhall be clean.

38 But if any water be put upon the ſeed, and any part of their carcaſe fall thereon, it ſhall be unclean unto you.

39 And if any beaſt of which ye may eat, die; he that toucheth the carcaſe thereof ſhall be unclean until the even.

40 And he that eateth of the carcaſe of it ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he alſo that beareth the carcaſe of it ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even.

41 And every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth ſhall be an abomination: it ſhall not be eaten.

42 Whatſoever goeth upon the belly, and whatſoever goeth upon all four, or whatſoever hath more feet among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, them ye ſhall not eat; for they are an abomination.

43 Ye ſhall not make yourſelves abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth, neither ſhall ye make yourſelves unclean with them, that ye ſhould be defiled thereby. Before Chriſt 1490.

44 For I am the LORD your God: ye ſhall therefore ſanctify yourſelves, and ye ſhall be holy; for I am holy: neither ſhall ye defile yourſelves with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

45 For I am the LORD that bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: ye ſhall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

46 This is the law of the beaſts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature that moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth:

47 To make a difference between the unclean and the clean, and between the beaſt that may be eaten, and the beaſt that may not be eaten.

CHAP. XII.

1 The purification of a woman after childbirth: 6 Her offerings for her purifying.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, if a woman have conceived ſeed, and borne a man-child: then ſhe ſhall be unclean ſeven days; according to the days of the ſeparation for her infirmity ſhall ſhe be unclean.

3 And in the eighth day, the fleſh of his foreſkin ſhall be circumciſed.

4 And

Ver. 35. Ranges for pots.] It might be better rendered by the ſingle word, thus; whether it be oven, or pots; comprehending all ſuch veſſels in which they either baked or boiled.

Ver. 40. Be unclean until the evening.] Not that theſe things defiled the conſcience, but only they contracted a ceremonial uncleanneſs thereby, which continued until the evening; and ſeemed to point out the evening of the world, when all ceremonial pollutions were to ceaſe by the death of Chriſt.

Ver. 44. Ye ſhall therefore ſanctify yourſelves, and ye ſhall be holy.] The Jews were a people peculiarly devoted to God, and therefore were diſtinguiſhed by a peculiarity of diet, calculated to put them in mind of that relation, and ſerving in an emblematical way, to remind them of their obligation to ſtudy and practiſe moral purity. The inhabitants of Indoſtan, and other pagan and mahometan nations, have adopted this practice, which they borrowed from the Jews.

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 3. In the eighth day, the fleſh of his foreſkin ſhall be circumciſed.] This rite was never to be deferred, unleſs upon account of the ſickneſs, or weakneſs of the child. Other creatures were not fit to be offered to God till the eighth day, according to the law. The Turks circumciſe their children at about a fortnight old.

Before Christ 1490.

4 And ſhe ſhall then continue in the blood of her purifying three and thirty days: ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing, nor come into the ſanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fullfilled.

5 But if ſhe bear a maid-child, then ſhe ſhall be unclean two weeks, as in her ſeparation: and ſhe ſhall continue in the blood of her purifying threeſcore and ſix days.

6 And when the days of her purifying are fullfilled, for a ſon, or for a daughter; ſhe ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove for a ſin-offering, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the prieſts:

7 Who ſhall offer it before the LORD, and make an atonement for her; and ſhe ſhall be cleanſed from the iſſue of her blood. This is the law for her that hath born a male or a female.

8 And if ſhe be not able to bring a lamb, then ſhe ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons; the one for the burnt-offering, and the other for a ſin-offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her; and ſhe ſhall be clean.

CHAP. XIII.

The laws and tokens whereby the prieſt is to be guided in diſcerning the leproſy.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, ſaying,

2 When a man ſhall have in the ſkin of his fleſh, a riſing, a ſcab, or bright ſpot, and it be in the ſkin of his fleſh like the plague of leproſy; then he ſhall be brought unto Aaron the prieſt, or unto one of his ſons the prieſts.

Before Christ 1490.

3 And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague in the ſkin of the fleſh: and when the hair in the plague is turned white, and the plague in ſight be deeper than the ſkin of his fleſh; it is a plague of leproſy: and the prieſt ſhall look on him, and pronounce him unclean.

4 If the bright ſpot be white in the ſkin of his fleſh, and in ſight be not deeper than the ſkin, and the hair thereof be not turned white; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the plague, ſeven days.

5 And the prieſt ſhall look on him the ſeventh day: and behold, if the plague in his ſight be at a ſtay, and the plague ſpread not in the ſkin; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days more.

6 And the prieſt ſhall look on him again the ſeventh day: and behold, if the plague be ſomewhat dark, and the plague ſpread not in the ſkin; the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: it is but a ſcab: and he ſhall waſh his clothes, and be clean.

7 But if the ſcab ſpread much abroad in the ſkin, after that he hath been ſeen of the prieſt for his cleanſing; he ſhall be ſeen of the prieſt again.

Ver. 4. Three and thirty days: ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing, &c.] This law not only ſerved to repreſent that reverence and reſpect, which is due to the publick worſhip of God; but was alſo a political inſtitution, and ſupported by natural reaſon, the weakneſs of women at this time, requiring repoſe and little company.

Ver. 5. She ſhall be unclean two weeks.] The time of purification was doubled for the birth of a female; which law ſeemed to remind them of the fall of man, in which the woman was the firſt and principal in the tranſgreſſion.

Ver. 6. She ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year, &c.] This law it is likely, as well as ſeveral others, were intended only during the peregrination of the Jewiſh commonwealth.

Ver. 7. She ſhall be cleanſed.] Shall be reſtored to the liberty of attending the public worſhip, and of partaking of the holy things.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 2. The plague of leproſy.] What is now called the leproſy, is of a quite different nature from that which is here mentioned. Galen in his deſcription of it informs us, that it arrives in time to ſuch a degree of inſenſibility, that the wriſt, feet, and even the largeſt tendons, may be pierced with a needle without the patient's feeling any pain: at laſt, the noſe, fingers, toes, &c. fall off intire. The ancient leproſy therefore appears to have been one of thoſe diſeaſes, with which providence occaſionally inflicts mankind,

Before Christ 1490.

8 And if the prieſt ſee, that behold, the ſcab ſpreadeth in the ſkin: then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a leproſy.

9 ¶ When the plague of leproſy is in a man, then he ſhall be brought unto the prieſt:

10 And the prieſt ſhall ſee him: and behold, if the riſing be white in the ſkin, and it have turned the hair white, and there be quick raw fleſh in the riſing;

11 It is an old leproſy in the ſkin of his fleſh, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean, and ſhall not ſhut him up: for he is unclean.

12 And if a leproſy break out abroad in the ſkin, and the leproſy cover all the ſkin of him that hath the plague, from his his head even to his foot, whereſoever the prieſt looketh;

13 Then the prieſt ſhall conſider: and behold, if the leproſy have covered all his fleſh, he ſhall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned white: he is clean.

14 But when raw fleſh appeareth in him, he ſhall be unclean.

15 And the prieſt ſhall ſee the raw fleſh, and pronounce him to be unclean: for the raw fleſh is unclean: it is a leproſy.

16 Or if the raw fleſh turn again, and be changed unto white; he ſhall come unto the prieſt:

17 And the prieſt ſhall ſee him: and behold, if the plague be turned into white; then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

Before Christ 1490.

18 ¶ The fleſh alſo, in which, even in the ſkin thereof, was a bile, and is healed,

19 And in the place of the bile there be a white riſing, or a bright ſpot white, and ſomewhat reddiſh, and it be ſhewed to the prieſt;

20 And if when the prieſt ſeeth it, behold, it be in ſight lower than the ſkin, and the hair thereof be turned white; the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leproſy broken out of the bile.

21 But if the prieſt look on it, and behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the ſkin, but be ſomewhat dark; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days.

22 And if it ſpread much abroad in the ſkin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean; it is a plague.

23 But if the bright ſpot ſtay in his place, and ſpread not, it is a burning bile; and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean.

24 ¶ Or if there be any fleſh, in the ſkin whereof there is a hot burning, and the quick fleſh that burneth have a white bright ſpot, ſomewhat reddiſh, or white;

25 Then the prieſt ſhall look upon it: and behold, if the hair in the bright ſpot be turned white, and it be in ſight deeper than the ſkin; it is a leproſy broken out of the burning: wherefore the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leproſy.

mankind, in certain ages and countries, and which continue but a certain period. The Rabbins aſſert, it was a judgment inflicted upon the rebellious Jews. Calmet ſays this diſtemper is owing to little worms or animalculas, which though not perceptible to the eye, may be eaſily diſcovered by microſcopes, as frequently happens in other cutaneous diſorders.

Ver. 13. It is all turned white: he is clean.] It may ſeem ſomewhat ſtrange, that a man all over leprous ſhould be declared clean, and one who was but partly ſo, unclean; therefore it means, that when the whole body was turned white, it was not a ſymptom of leproſy; but when ſome parts of the ſkin were remarkably white, and others retained the natural colour, that præternatural whiteneſs, was to be deemed to ariſe from a leproſy. By the leproſy covering all the fleſh then is to be underſtood, that the body was all over white, as though the diſeaſe had covered the whole fleſh. In ſeveral places of this chapter, the word leproſy is uſed to denote merely the appearance of that diſorder.

Ver. 16. Turn again, &c.] That thoſe biles grow univerſally over the whole body.

Before Chriſt 1490.

26 But if the prieſt look on it, and behold, there be no white hair on the bright ſpot, and it be no lower than the other ſkin, but be ſomewhat dark; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days.

27 And the prieſt ſhall look upon him the ſeventh day: and if it be ſpread much abroad in the ſkin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leproſy.

28 And if the bright ſpot ſtay in his place, and ſpread not in the ſkin, but it be ſomewhat dark; it is a riſing of the burning, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning.

29 ¶ If a man or woman hath a plague upon the head or the beard;

30 Then the prieſt ſhall ſee the plague: and behold, if it be in ſight deeper than the ſkin, and there be in it a yellow thin hair; then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry ſcall, even a leproſy upon the head or beard.

31 And if the prieſt look on the plague of the ſcall, and behold, it be not in ſight deeper than the ſkin, and that there is no black hair in it; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the plague of the ſcall ſeven days.

32 And in the ſeventh day the prieſt ſhall look on the plague: and behold, if the ſcall ſpread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the ſcall be not in ſight deeper than the ſkin;

33 He ſhall be ſhaven, but the ſcall ſhall he not ſhave: and the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the ſcall ſeven days more.

34 And in the ſeventh day the prieſt ſhall look on the ſcall: and behold, if the ſcall be not ſpread in the ſkin, nor be in ſight deeper than the ſkin; then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: and he ſhall waſh his clothes, and be clean.

Before Chriſt 1490.

35 But if the ſcall ſpread much in the ſkin after his cleanſing;

36 Then the prieſt ſhall look on him: and behold, if the ſcall be ſpread in the ſkin, the prieſt ſhall not ſeek for yellow hair; he is unclean.

37 But if the ſcall be in his ſight at a ſtay, and that there is black hair grown up therein; the ſcall is healed, he is clean; and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean.

38 ¶ If a man alſo or a woman have in the ſkin of their fleſh bright ſpots, even white bright ſpots;

39 Then the prieſt ſhall look: and behold, if the bright ſpots in the ſkin of their fleſh be darkiſh white; it is a freckled ſpot that groweth in the ſkin; he is clean.

40 And the man whoſe hair is fallen off his head, he is bald: yet is he clean.

41 And he that hath his hair fallen off from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead-bald: yet is he clean.

42 And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddiſh ſore; it is a leproſy ſprung up in his bald head, or his bald forehead.

43 Then the prieſt ſhall look upon it: and behold, if the riſing of the ſore be white reddiſh in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leproſy appeareth in the ſkin of the fleſh;

44 He is a leprous man, he is unclean: the prieſt ſhall pronounce him utterly unclean; his plague is in his head.

45 And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes ſhall be rent, and his head bare, and he ſhall put a covering upon his upper lip, and ſhall cry Unclean, unclean.

Ver. 36. Shall not ſeek.] The ſymptom of the ſpreading of the diſeaſe, is ſufficient of itſelf, without the addition of the changing of the colour of the hair.

Ver. 47. Shall cry Unclean, unclean.] To give every one warning not to touch, or come near him. See Lam. iv. 15.

46 All the days wherein the plague ſhall be in him, he ſhall be defiled; he is unclean: he ſhall dwell alone; without the camp ſhall his habitation be.

47 ¶ The garment alſo that the plague of leproſy is in, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment;

48 Whether it be in the warp, or woof, of linen or of woollen; whether in a ſkin, or in any thing made of ſkin:

49 And if the plague be greeniſh or reddiſh in the garment, or in the ſkin, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of ſkin, it is a plague of leproſy, and ſhall be ſhewed unto the prieſt.

50 And the prieſt ſhall look upon the plague, and ſhut up it that hath the plague ſeven days.

51 And he ſhall look on the plague on the ſeventh day: if the plague be ſpread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a ſkin, or in any work that is made of ſkin; the plague is a fretting leproſy; it is unclean.

52 He ſhall therefore burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or any thing of ſkin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leproſy: it ſhall be burnt in the fire.

53 And if the prieſt ſhall look, and behold, the plague be not ſpread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of ſkin;

54 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they waſh the thing wherein the plague is, and he ſhall ſhut it up ſeven days more.

55 And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague after that it is waſhed: and behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not ſpread; it is unclean, thou ſhalt burn it in the fire; it is fret inward, whether it be bare within or without.

56 And if the prieſt look, and behold, the plague be ſomewhat dark after the waſhing of it; then he ſhall rend it out of the garment, or out of the ſkin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof.

57 And if it appear ſtill in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of ſkin; it is a ſpreading plague: thou ſhalt burn that wherein the plague is with fire.

58 And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatſoever thing of ſkin it be, which thou ſhalt waſh, if the plague be departed from them, then it ſhall be waſhed the ſecond time, and ſhall be clean.

59 This is the law of the plague of leproſy in a garment of woollen or linen, either in the warp or woof, or any thing of ſkins, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

CHAP. XIV.

Of cleanſing the leper and his houſe.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 This ſhall be the law of the leper, in the day of his cleanſing: He ſhall be brought unto the prieſt:

3 And the prieſt ſhall go forth out of the camp: and the prieſt ſhall look, and behold, if the plague of leproſy be healed in the leper;

4 Then ſhall the prieſt command to take for him that is to be cleanſed, two birds alive, and clean, and cedar-wood, and ſcarlet, and hyſſop.

5 And

Ver. 47. The garment alſo, &c.] This leproſy in the garments, and in the houſes. Chap. xiv. 34. was not like the infection of the plague in clothes, utenſils, and houſes, infected by exhalations of the air, excrements, and the like; which lying upon the ſuperficies, might be cleanſed and purified; but it was a corruption peculiar to thoſe times, and places, rotting, and knawing them, and ſpreading as in a living body. There is no mention of any ſuch diſeaſe elſewhere.

5 And the prieſt ſhall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen veſſel, over running water.

6 As for the living bird, he ſhall take it, and the cedar-wood, and the ſcarlet, and the hyſſop, and ſhall dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water.

7 And he ſhall ſprinkle upon him that is to be cleanſed from the leproſy ſeven times, and ſhall pronounce him clean, and ſhall let the living bird looſe into the open field.

8 And he that is to be cleanſed ſhall waſh his clothes, and ſhave off all his hair, and waſh himſelf in water, that he may be clean: and after that he ſhall come into the the camp, and ſhall tarry abroad out of his tent ſeven days.

6 But it ſhall be on the ſeventh day, that he ſhall ſhave all his hair off his head and his beard and his eye-brows, even all his hair he ſhall ſhave off: and he ſhall waſh his clothes, alſo he ſhall waſh his fleſh in water, and he ſhall be clean.

10 And on the eighth day he ſhall take two he-lambs without blemiſh, and one ew-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh, and three tenth-deals of fine flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil.

11 And the prieſt that maketh him clean, ſhall preſent the man that is to be made clean, and thoſe things before the Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation:

hyſſop bound with ſcarlet round a ſtick of cedar, ſerved as an inſtrument to ſprinkle the blood and water. The juice or rine of cedar, together with hyſſop, were eſteemed medicinal for cutaneous diſtempers; the former was particularly uſed in curing the Elephantiaſis, a ſpecies of leproſy known only in Egypt. By ſcarlet in this place, is meant ſcarlet wool, which perhaps was likewiſe conſidered as ſanative in ſuch diſorders.

Ver. 7. He ſhall let the living bird looſe into the field.] To ſignify that the leper being cleanſed, he was no longer under reſtraint and confinement, but was at his liberty to go where he pleaſed.

Ver. 10 One log of oil.] Dr. Cumberland informs us, that it contained upwards of half a pint of our meaſure.

Ver. 12. And offer him for a treſpaſs-offering.] Not that there was any treſpaſs in the diſeaſe itſelf, but that ſin being the cauſe of diſeaſes, that ſacrifice was an act of humiliation for ſin, from whence all the evils and miſeries incident to our nature take their riſe. The very Pagans themſelves acknowleged, the moral, to be the cauſe of natural evil.

Ver. 34. And I put the plague of leproſy in a houſe.] We cannot aſſign a natural cauſe of this ſtrange plague, but muſt reſolve it into the power of the God of nature; for ſhall there be evil in a city, and the Lord hath not done it? Thus we read of the plague of Athens, the plagues of Florence, Marſeilles, and others.

Before Chriſt 1490.

38 Then the prieſt ſhall go out of the houſe to the door of the houſe, and ſhut up the houſe ſeven days.

39 And the prieſt ſhall come again the ſeventh day, and ſhall look: and behold, if the plague be ſpread in the walls of the houſe;

40 Then the prieſt ſhall command that they take away the ſtones, in which the plague is, and they ſhall caſt them into an unclean place without the city.

41 And he ſhall cauſe the houſe to be ſcraped within round about, and they ſhall pour out the duſt that they ſcrape off, without the city into an unclean place.

42 And they ſhall take other ſtones, and put them in the place of thoſe ſtones; and he ſhall take other morter, and ſhall plaiſter the houſe.

43 And if the plague come again, and break out in the houſe, after that he hath taken away the ſtones, and after he hath ſcraped the houſe, and after it is plaiſtered;

44 Then the prieſt ſhall come and look, and behold, if the plague be ſpread in the houſe, it is a fretting leproſy in the houſe: it is unclean.

45 And he ſhall break down the houſe, the ſtones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the morter of the houſe: and he ſhall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place.

46 Moreover, he that goeth into the houſe all the while that it is ſhut up, ſhall be unclean until the even.

47 And he that lieth in the houſe, ſhall waſh his clothes: and he that eateth in the houſe, ſhall waſh his clothes.

48 And if the prieſt ſhall come in, and look upon it, and behold, the plague hath not ſpread in the houſe, after the houſe was plaiſtered: then the prieſt ſhall pronounce the houſe clean, becauſe the plague is healed.

52 And he ſhall cleanſe the houſe with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar-wood, and with the hyſſop, and with the ſcarlet.

53 But he ſhall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and make an atonement for the houſe: and it ſhall be clean.

Ver. 1. And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, &c.] Inſtructing them in the other caſes of uncleanneſs in man or woman, intended not only to teach the neceſſity of moral purity; but alſo to put a reſtraint upon carnal indulgencies.

4 Every bed whereon he lieth that hath the iſſue, is unclean: and every thing whereon he ſitteth, ſhall be unclean.

5 And whoſoever toucheth his bed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

6 And he that ſitteth on any thing whereon he ſat that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

7 And he that toucheth the fleſh of him that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even.

8 And if he that hath the iſſue ſpit upon him that is clean; then he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unlcean until the even.

9 And what ſaddle ſoever he rideth upon, that hath the iſſue, ſhall be unclean.

12 And the veſſel of earth, that he toucheth which hath the iſſue, ſhall be broken: and every veſſel of wood ſhall be rinſed in water.

13 And when he that hath an iſſue, is cleanſed of his iſſue; then he ſhall number to himſelf ſeven days for his cleanſing, and waſh his clothes, and bathe his fleſh in running water, and ſhall be clean.

Ver. 31. When they defile my tabernacle.] It is plain from hence, that theſe laws were intended to inſpire the minds of that carnal people, with a reſpect and veneration for the worſhip of God. If then ſuch kind of pollutions as were (natural and unavoidable) their affliction, and not their ſin; if theſe rendered them unfit for communion either with God or man; how thankful ought we to be for our privileges, under the Chriſtian diſpenſation, that we are not ſubject to theſe carnal ordinances, and that nothing but ſin can now defile us?

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, after the death of the two ſons of Aaron, &c.] This chapter ſhould have ſucceeded the tenth immediately, where there is a relation of their deaths; but it is placed here, as it gave occaſion to declare the above laws, concerning the uncleanneſs that rendered an Iſraelite incapable of approaching the ſanctuary.

Ver. 2. That he come not at all times.] Only once a year, which was on the day of general expiation or atonement, for ſins of ignorance, forgetfulneſs, or careleſsneſs; from which the people had not been purged by the ordinary ſacrifices.

For I will appear in the cloud upon the mercy-ſeat.] This is meant of the ſmoke of the incenſe, which the high-prieſt burnt, when he entered into the moſt-holy place: The mercy-ſeat being at that time covered with this cloud.

Ver. 3. With a young bullock for a ſin-offering, &c.] When the high-prieſt thus entered into the moſt holy place, he was to prepare himſelf, by offering two ſacrifices for himſelf, and family; a bullock for a ſin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering. The Talmud adds, that he was obliged to abſtain, for the ſpace of ſeven days, from whatever might occaſion an accidental pollution, which might render him unfit for the diſcharge of his duty.

Ver. 4. He ſhall put on the holy linen coat, &c.] As this was a day of general repentance and humiliation for ſin, the high-prieſt, in token of ſuch humiliation, was to wear thoſe linen clothes only, which he wore in common with the inferior prieſts; and was not to be apparelled in his rich garments, nor to put on the ephod, with the precious ſtones.

Before Christ 1490.

and he ſhall have the linen breeches upon his fleſh, and ſhall be girded with the linen girdle, and with the linen miter ſhall he be attired: theſe are holy garments; therefore ſhall he waſh his fleſh in water, and ſo put them on.

5 And he ſhall take of the congregation of the children of Iſrael, two kids of the goats for a ſin-offering, and one ram for a burnt-offering.

6 And Aaron ſhall offer his bullock of the ſin-offering, which is for himſelf, and make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe.

7 And he ſhall take the two goats, and preſent them before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

8 And Aaron ſhall caſt lots upon the two goats; one lot for the LORD, and the other lot for the ſcape-goat.

9 And Aaron ſhall bring the goat upon which the LORDS lot fell, and offer him for a ſin offering.

10 But the goat on which the lot fell to be the ſcape-goat, ſhall be preſented alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him, and to let him go for a ſcape-goat into the wilderneſs.

11 And Aaron ſhall bring the bullock of the ſin-offering, which is for himſelf, and ſhall make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe, and ſhall kill the bullock of the ſin-offering which is for himſelf. Before Christ 1409.

12 And he ſhall take a cenſer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar before the LORD, and his hands full of ſweet incenſe beaten ſmall, and bring it within the vail.

13 And he ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of the incenſe may cover the mercy-ſeat that is upon the teſtimony, that he die not.

14 And he ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy-ſeat eaſtward: and before the mercy-ſeat ſhall he ſprinkle of the blood with his finger ſeven times.

15 ¶ Then ſhall he kill the goat of the ſin-offering that is for the people, and bring his blood within the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it upon the mercy-ſeat, and before the mercy-ſeat.

16 And he ſhall make an atonement for the holy place, becauſe of the uncleanneſs

Ver. 6. For his houſe] That is for all the prieſts.

Ver. 8. Aaron ſhall caſt lots upon the two goats, &c.] The ancient Jews inform us, that there was an urn or veſſel brought to the high-prieſt, into which he threw two wooden lots, that upon one was written the words, for the Lord; and upon the other, for Azazel; that after he had ſhook them, he put both his hands into the urn, and brought up the lots, the one in his right-hand, and the other in his left; and as the goats ſtood on each ſide, their fate was determined by that lot which come up in the hand next to them. Hence, perhaps, aroſe that ancient pagan cuſtom, of deciding affairs by caſting of lots; and by this we may account for the ſortes virgilianæ et homericæ.

The ſcape-goat.] The meaning of the hebrew AZAZEL, has much puzzled expoſitors. Some have taken it for the name of a mountain in Judæa, about eleven thouſand paces diſtant from Jeruſalem; others, for a ſteep craggy precipice, down which the goat was thrown. The moſt probable opinion is, that this goat was ſymbolically charged with the ſins of the whole nation, and therefore being unworthy to be offered to the Lord, Jehovah, or to be admitted into the reſt of the flock; was to be ſent away to AZAZEL, the foul ſpirit, dwelling in the wilderneſs. Milton mentions him, as the ſtandard bearer in the devil's army. It is certain, that deſerts and uninhabited places, are repreſented in ſcripture, as the peculiar reſidences of Dæmons and impure ſpirits. See. Matt. iv, 1, and xii, 43. Luke viii. 29. Hence it is probable aroſe the opinion of the ancients, that ſuch places were haunted by ſatyrs, which they repreſented as beings of a malignant and diabolical nature.

Ver. 9. Lot fell.] Heb. Aſcended, or went up, as in the margin; alluding to the lots being taken out of the urn or veſſel.

Ver 12. And bring it within the vail.] That is to ſay, within the holy of holies, which was ſeparated by a vail from the holy place. This appears to have been the firſt time of Aaron's entering into it.

Ver. 13. He ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire, &c.] He was ordered at his entrance, to caſt incenſe on the burning coals; by which the holy place was filled with a cloud of ſmoke, preventing him from ſeeing the ark, leſt he ſhould have been overpowerd by the refulgence iſſuing from thence.

Ver. 14. And he ſhall take of the blood, &c.] For which he was obliged to come without the vail.

Ver. 16. He ſhall make an atonement for the holy-place, &c.] By way of acknowledgement; that this place was, by the ſins of the paſt years, rendered an unworthy dwelling for the divine preſence.

Ver. 21. And confeſs over him.] It does not appear that God preſcribed any particular form of confeſſion at this time; though in the latter ages of the Jewiſh church, the high-prieſt uſed this ſet form: "O Lord, thy people, the houſe of Iſrael, have ſinned; have rebelled "againſt thee. And now, O Lord, I beſeech thee, for-"give their ſins, rebellions, and backſlidings, by which "they have offended thee, according as it is written in "the law of thy ſervant Moſes." In that day he ſhall make atonement for you, he ſhall cleanſe you; and ye ſhall be clean before the Lord.

Ver. 22. Bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land not inhabited.] A ſymbolical repreſentation this, that by an unfeigned repentance, they might obtain pardon for all their ſins; and like the ſcape goat, bear them into the land of forgetfulneſs, and hide them in oblivion.

He ſhall let go the goat in the wilderneſs.] That is, he was to be ſet at liberty in the wilderneſs. Afterwards, there was a cuſtom of leading him to a frightful precipice, remote from Jeruſalem, and caſting him down from the ſummit; and the Jews tell us, there was a cauſeway made from the city to the precipice, on purpoſe for this buſineſs.

Ver. 32. And the prieſt whom he ſhall anoint, &c.] It would be better rendered, And the prieſt who ſhall be anointed, and who ſhall be conſecrated.

Ver. 34. To make an atonement,—once a year.] The ceremonies uſed by the Jews on the day of expiation, are ſaid to be greatly different from thoſe of the ancients. They prepare themſelves for this day of humiliation, by prayer, which done, they repair to their burial place, beg pardon for their ſins, in conſideration of the merit of the ſaints there interred; then plunge themſelves into the water, to complete the ablution. In the evening the ſolemnity begins, when they repair to the ſynagogue, ſinging, and carrying a wax taper lighted; the women light up candles in their houſes, and draw preſages from them; if they burn clear, their ſins are pardoned; if dull, they are tormented with ſcruples; and if the tallow or wax runs, they dread the Divine vengeance. The next day they go to the ſynagogue again, and in a long prayer, declare, that all the oaths and promiſes, not having been performed within the year, are void, ſince atonement has been made for ſin. Thus the ſolemnity concludes, when the rabbi, with up-lifted hands, gives a benediction to the people, and the people in token of reſpect, put their hands before their eyes, and cover their faces. They ſound an horn in commemoration of the jubilee, and ſo every one departs home, fully perſuaded that his ſins are forgiven him; when they are come to their reſpective dwellings, they dreſs themſelves in clean white clothes, ſit down to table, and break their faſts, having till then, entirely abſtained from eating and drinking.

NOTES on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 3. What man ſoever there be of the houſe of Iſrael, that killeth an ox or lamb.] Though the ox or lamb was killed for food, as well as if it had been for ſacrifice; for thoſe animals ſlain by an Iſraelite for family uſe, were firſt of all preſented to God, by way of peace-offering, the blood was poured out at the bottom of the altar, and the fat burned thereon; but this law was reſtrained only to beaſts that were ſacrificed; after they came into the land of Canaan.

Ver. 4. Blood ſhall be imputed unto that man, &c.] He was to ſuffer for ſuch offence, as a murderer who had ſpilt innocent blood: Such was the rigour of the laws againſt idolatry.

6 And the prieſt ſhall ſprinkle the blood upon the altar of the Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and burn the fat for a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

7 And they ſhall no more offer their ſacrifices unto devils, after whom they have gone a whoring: This ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto them throughout their generations.

8 ¶ And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Whatſoever man there be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers which ſojourn among you, that offereth a burnt-offering or ſacrifice, 14 For it is the life of all fleſh, the blood of it is for the life thereof: therefore I ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Ye ſhall eat the blood of no manner of fleſh: for the life of all fleſh is the blood thereof: whoſoever eateth it ſhall be cut off.

Ver 7. And they ſhall no more offer their ſacrifices unto devils.] The Hebrew properly ſignifies, a Goat, and denotes thoſe idols which were worſhipped under the form of a goat; a ſpecies of idolatry to which the Iſraelites were greatly addicted, while in Egypt, and which ſome of them retained in the wilderneſs; Have ye offered unto me ſacrifices and offerings in the wilderneſs forty years, O houſe of Iſrael? But ye have borne the tabernacle of your Moloch, and Chiun, your images, the ſtar of your God, which ye made for yourſelves. Maimonides informs us, that the Zabians worſhipped dæmons, under the figure of goats, imagining them to appear in that form; whence they called them Segnirim, that is, rough or rugged, like hairy goats. This cuſtom being almoſt univerſal, gave occaſion to the precept.

Ver. 10. Or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, &c.] By ſtrangers, is meant proſelytes or converts, from Paganiſm. The Scripture mentions three ſorts of ſtrangers; profeſſed idolaters, who were not permitted to dwell in the land of Iſrael; thoſe who did not practiſe idolatry, but yielded to ſome chief grounds of true religion, and theſe might dwell in the gates or cities of Iſrael; and laſtly, Pagan converts, who were bound to obſerve all the law equally with the Jews, and which are the ſtrangers mentioned in this chapter.

Ver. 13. He ſhall even pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with duſt.] Becauſe it was ſacred, being a ranſom for the forfeited lives of ſinners; it was therefore to be treated with reverence, and covered out of ſight, leſt any beaſt ſhould lick it up, or leſt idolaters (as was their manner) ſhould make it ſubſervient to ſuperſtitious purpoſes.

Ver. 5. Which if a man do he ſhall live in them.] In the Chaldaic and Arabic, it is, he ſhall live by them to life eternal. But man, by original ſin, has deprived himſelf of the power of attaining perfect obedience; this then muſt be underſtood of the diſciplinary and external accompliſhment of the law, which hath moreover its temporary reward.

I am the Lord.] In the Hebrew, I am Jehovah, who keep covenant, and fulfil my promiſes; therefore he who keeps my laws, ſhall ſurely live.

Ver. 6. None of you ſhall approach to any that is near of kin.] Theſe laws relate to the ſeventh commandment; and ſeeing they are conſonant to nature and right reaſon, are without all doubt, obligatory to us under the goſpel.

Ver. 21. Thou ſhalt not let any of thy ſeed paſs through the fire to Molech.] Molech, ſignifies king; this was the ſame with Baal, the ſun, worſhipped by all the eaſtern nations, and particularly the Ammonites. The Rabbins inform us, it was an idol of braſs, ſitting upon a throne of the ſame metal, that his head was like that of a calf, adorned with a royal crown, his arms being extended, as if ready to embrace ſuch as approached him. This cruel practice of ſacrificing children to idols, was common to other Heathen nations, particularly the Carthaginians. When infants were ſacrificed to this idol, it was made hot, by kindling a fire in the inſide of it, and being heated to an intenſe degree, the wretched victim was put into its arms, and quickly conſumed by the violence of

Ver. 13. The wages of him that is hired, ſhall not abide with thee all night.] That is, they were by no means to refuſe the wages of a labouring perſon, when he required them: theſe were generally the ſole means of his ſubſiſtence, and the detaining them was the greateſt cruelty and oppreſſion. The excellence of the Moſaic Law is therefore ſhewn in this merciful proviſion for the poor.

Ver. 14. Thou ſhalt not curſe the deaf.] To curſe, calumniate, and defame any one, is repugnant to the laws of humanity; but it is much more heinious, when it is done to ſuch as are incapable of reſiſting, or anſwering for themſelves.

Ver. 16. Thou ſhalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer.] Nothing can be more baſe than to go about picking up ſcandal, and to propagate the ſame. People guilty of this, commonly aggravate circumſtances, and miſrepreſent them, mixing truth with falſhood. This practice is oppoſite to charity, and odious to God and man; it is alſo contrary to the precept of our bleſſed Saviour, which enjoins us firſt to take the beam out of our own eye, before we ſee, i. e. expoſe the moat in our brother's eye.

Ver. 17. Thou ſhalt not hate thy brother in thine heart.] Hatred and malice is diabolical. To be angry upon ſome occaſions is reaſonable. That precept of the apoſtle is moſt juſt, be angry, but ſin not.

Rebuke thy neighbour, and not ſuffer ſin upon him.] Inſtead of retaining a ſecret grudge for an injury or evil done, and ſecretly waiting an opportunity of revenge, it is the greateſt charity to reprove the offender, and to reclaim thoſe who are fallen into an error by reducing them into the right path.

Ver. 18. Thou ſhalt not avenge, &c.] Revenge is as black a crime as a man can well be guilty of, and was forbid as well by the law of Moſes, as by that of Jeſus Chirſt.

But thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf.] Do to him as you would be done by. The word neighbour was uſed in a very limited ſenſe by the Jews, as if it had meant thoſe of their own nation only; and ſo Mahomet in his alcoran gives this command, " Thou ſhalt kill no Turks, but thou art at liberty to kill as many Chriſtians as fall in thy way.

Ver. 19. Thou ſhalt not let thy cattle gender with a divers kind.] The reaſon of this law might have been, partly to preſerve the nature of things as they were at firſt created, and to hinder the vanity or curioſity of men from attempting to alter the form or nature of God's creatures; or to ſeem to make a greater diverſity, than he thought proper to create at firſt. Though as naturaliſts obſerve, nature has taken care that monſters or creatures of a middle nature, ſuch as mules, ſhould not be capable of propagating their ſpecies.

Thou ſhalt not ſow thy field with mingled ſeed.] This precept was perhaps to ſet bounds to the huſbandman's covetouſneſs; and not only ſo, but the ſowing ground with mixed ſeeds, is thought by ſome an effectual way to wear it out.

A garment mingled of linen and woollen.] Perhaps linſey-woolſey cloaths were worn by the Heathens, whom they were forbid to imitate.

Ver. 23. Three years ſhall it be as uncircumciſed unto you: it ſhall not be eaten of.] God required as the firſt of other things, ſo of fruits; which for the firſt three years were as inconſiderable as a calf or lamb under eight days old; but ſeeing he has an undoubted right to the very beſt of all, he would not accept of them till in their perfection, nor was man to be allowed the uſe of them before he had the firſt-fruits; till the fourth year then they were to be eſteemed uncircumciſed, and unfit for uſe, even as an animal under eight days old, their growth being but ſcanty, wateriſh, and unconcocted: therefore it was the practice of the Jews, to pluck off the fruit from their young trees as ſoon as they perceived it knit; as gardeners ſometimes do to aſſiſt their growth.

Verſ 26. Uſe inchantment, nor obſerve times.] Seek not after, nor conſult dark dealers in ſecrets, and vain pretenders to preſcience; nor be ſuperſtitious in obſerving certain days indifferent in themſelves; neither regard common accidents, in a prognoſtic or judicial light; nor be ſo weak and timerous as to be alarmed at every trivial occurrence. Theſe are all the relicts of paganiſm, of heatheniſh errors and abſurdities.

Ver. 27. Ye ſhall not round the corners of your heads.] Herodotus informs us, that it was the ſuperſtitious practice of the Arabians, to cut the extremities of their hair round, in order to reſemble their god Bacchus. Some think that as the Heathens worſhipped the hoſts of heaven, they cut their hair round to make them reſemble the cæleſtial globe.

Ver. 28. Ye ſhall not make any cuttings in your fleſh, &c.] Which was a ſuperſtitious rite of mourning for the dead; the Egyptians in particular uſed to ſhave their whole beards and heads, and to cut their fleſh in their mournings for their god Oſiris.

Ver. 29. Do not proſtitute thy daughter.] Which ſort of uncleanneſs, ſeems to have been practiſed by the Heathens in their idolatrous worſhip.

Ver. 31. Regard not them that have familiar ſpirits.] Who have an intercourſe with ſpirits of an impure diabolical nature. Moſt of thoſe who pretended to a familiarity with evil ſpirits and dæmons, were mere cheats and impoſtors, and amuſed the credulous vulgar with dark and ambiguous predictions, ſuch as were calculated to anſwer the event, let it happen which way it would.

Neither ſeek after wizards.] The Hebrew TYREGNONIN, is derived from JUDAHN, to know; and anſwers to thoſe perſons whom we call fortune-tellers, or cunning-men.

Ver. 32. Thou ſhalt riſe up before the hoary head.] This honour is one of the dictates of nature, and has been injoined by all the wiſe legiſlators of antiquity. The prophet deſcribes it as a mark of degeneracy, when the child ſhall behave himſelf proudly againſt the ancient. Iſaiah. iii. 5. Juvenal tells us that it was eſteemed highly criminal, in the moſt virtuous age of the world, for a young man not to riſe to an old man.

the woman and the beaſt: they ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them.

17 And if a man ſhall take his ſiſter, his fathers daughter, or his mothers daughter, and ſee her nakedneſs, and ſhe ſee his nakedneſs; it is a wicked thing; and they ſhall be cut off in the ſight of their people: he hath uncovered his ſiſters nakedneſs, he ſhall bear his iniquity.

18 And if a man ſhall lie with a woman having her ſickneſs, and ſhall uncover her nakedneſs; he hath diſcovered her fountain, and ſhe hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them ſhall be cut off from among their people.

19 And thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mothers ſiſter, nor of thy fathers ſiſter: for he uncovereth his near kin: they ſhall bear their iniquity.

20 And if a man ſhall lie with his uncles wife, he hath uncovered his uncles nakedneſs: they ſhall bear their ſin, they ſhall die childleſs.

21 And if a man ſhall take his brothers wife, it is an unclean thing: he hath uncovered his brothers nakedneſs, they ſhall be childleſs.

22 ¶ Ye ſhall therefore keep all my ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land whither I bring you to dwell therein, ſpue you not out.

23 And ye ſhall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I caſt out before you: for they committed all theſe things, and therefore I abhorred them.

Before Chriſt 1490.

24 But I have ſaid unto you, Ye ſhall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to poſſeſs it, a land that floweth with milk and hony: I am the LORD your God, which have ſeparated you from other people.

25 Ye ſhall therefore put difference between clean beaſts and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean: and ye ſhall not make your ſouls abominable by beaſt, or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that creepeth on the ground, which I have ſeparated from you as unclean.

26 And ye ſhall be holy unto me: for I the LORD am holy, and have ſevered you from other people, that ye ſhould be mine.

27 ¶ A man alſo or woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, or that is a wizard, ſhall ſurely be put to death: they ſhall ſtone them with ſtones: their blood ſhall be upon them.

Ver. 18. If a man lie with a woman having her ſickneſs, &c.] The obſervation of this law might be preſcribed, leſt the jewiſh common-wealth ſhould be overſtocked with weak and ſickly people. God faſtened a blot upon leprous perſons, becauſe they were ſuppoſed to have been conceived at this time.

Ver. 27. A man alſo or woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, ſhall ſurely be put to death.] Thoſe who pretended to a ſpirit of divination, or to practiſe ſorcery and conjuring.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. There ſhall none be defiled for the dead.] If any one touched a dead body, or entered an houſe where it lay, or aſſiſted at a funeral, or even touched a grave, he was unclean for ſeven days. The Hebrew Canons ſay, that if a man came within ſix foot of the dead, he was unclean. The laws contained in this chapter relate to the prieſts; and were intended to denote their dignity, and to preſerve the honour of the ſacred function.

Ver. 2. But for his kin, that is near unto him, &c.] Here God indulges a natural affection, and diſpenſes with their attendance for the ſpace of ſeven days, in caſe of the death of a parent, a child, or a brother; to have denied the payment of theſe laſt duties would have been cruel, but God ever eſteems mercy before ſacrifice.

3 And for his ſiſter a virgin, that is nigh unto him, which hath had no huſband: for her may he be defiled.

4 But he ſhall not defile himſelf, being a chief man among his people, to profane himſelf.

5 They ſhall not make baldneſs upon their head, neither ſhall they ſhave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their fleſh.

6 They ſhall be holy unto their God, and not profane the name of their God: for the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and the bread of their God they do offer: therefore they ſhall be holy.

7 They ſhall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane; neither ſhall they take a woman put away from her huſband: for he is holy unto his God.

8 Thou ſhalt ſanctify him therefore, for he offereth the bread of thy God: he ſhall be holy unto thee: for I the LORD which ſanctify you, am holy.

9 ¶ And the daughter of any prieſt, if ſhe profane herſelf by playing the whore, ſhe profaneth her father: ſhe ſhall be burnt with fire.

10 And he that is the high prieſt among his brethren, upon whoſe head the anointing oil was poured, and that is conſecrated to put on the garments, ſhall not uncover his head, nor rent his clothes:

11 Neither ſhall he go in to any dead body, nor defile himſelf for his father, or for his mother:

Before Christ 1490.

12 neither ſhall he go out of the ſanctuary, nor profane the ſanctuary of his God; for the crown of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

15 Neither ſhall he profane his ſeed among his people: for I the LORD do ſanctify him.

16 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Speak unto Aaron, ſaying, Whoſoever he be of thy ſeed in their generations, that hath any blemiſh, let him not approach to offer the bread of his God:

18 For whatſoever man he be that hath a blemiſh, he ſhall not approach: a blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat noſe, or any thing ſuperfluous,

21 No man that hath a blemiſh of the ſeed of Aaron the prieſt, ſhall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire; he hath a blemiſh, he ſhall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God.

22 He ſhall eat the bread of his God, both of the moſt holy, and of the holy.

23 Only he ſhall not go in unto the vail, nor come nigh unto the altar, becauſe

Ver. 9. She profaneth her father.] By diſparaging the good example and education ſhe received, ſhe wounds her father's honour, as well as ſtains her own reputation.

Ver. 10. Nor rent his clothes.] But ſince we find that on ſome other occaſions, it was cuſtomary with them to rend their clothes, as in caſe of blaſphemy; this prohibition was doubtleſs reſtrained to the high-prieſts garments, and the times of mourning.

Ver. 11. Nor defile himſelf for his father.] The high-prieſt might not enter an houſe where a dead body lay, though it were that of father or mother.

CHAP. XXII.

The prieſts when to abſtain from holy things.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, that they ſeparate themſelves from the holy things of the children of Iſrael, and that they profane not my holy name, in thoſe things which they hallow unto me: I am the LORD.

3 Say unto them, Whoſoever he be of all your ſeed among your generations, that goeth unto the holy things, which the children of Iſrael hallow unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from my preſence: I am the LORD.

4 What man ſoever of the ſeed of Aaron is a leper, or hath a running iſſue; he ſhall not eat of the holy things, until he be clean. And whoſo toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or a man whoſe ſeed goeth from him:

5 Or whoſoever toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or a man of whom he may take uncleanneſs, whatſoever uncleanneſs he hath:

6 The ſoul which hath touched any ſuch ſhall be unclean until even, and ſhall not eat of the holy things, unleſs he waſh his fleſh with water.

7 And when the ſun is down, he ſhall be clean, and ſhall afterward eat of the holy things, becauſe it is his food.

Befor Chriſt 1490.

8 That which dieth of itſelf, or is torn with beaſts, he ſhall not eat to defile himſelf therewith: I am the LORD.

9 They ſhall therefore keep mine ordinance, leſt they bear ſin for it, and die therefore, if they profane it: I the LORD do ſanctify them.

10 There ſhall no ſtranger eat of the holy thing: a ſojourner of the prieſt, or an hired ſervant ſhall not eat of the holy thing.

11 But if the prieſt buy any ſoul with his money, he ſhall eat of it, and he that is born in his houſe: they ſhall eat of his meat.

12 If the prieſts daughter alſo be married unto a ſtranger, ſhe may not eat of an offering of the holy things.

13 But if the prieſts daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her fathers houſe, as in her youth, ſhe ſhall eat of her fathers meat; but there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof.

14 ¶ And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he ſhall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and ſhall give it unto the prieſt, with the holy thing.

15 And they ſhall not profane the holy things of the children of Iſrael which they offer unto the LORD:

16 Or ſuffer them to bear the iniquity of treſpaſs, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do ſanctify them.

Ver. 10. There ſhall no ſtranger eat of the holy thing.] The term ſtranger, is ſet to ſignify any perſon, whether a Gentile, Proſelyte, or a Jew, not being of the prieſt's family.

Ver. 14. And ſhall give it unto the prieſt, with the holy thing.] He was to pay the full value of the thing ſo eaten, and a fifth part more. This law relates to laymen, who, through ignorance or inadvertency, had appropriated to their own uſe the firſt-fruits, or other things conſecrated to God.

and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Whatſoever he be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers in Iſrael, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his free-will-offerings, which they will offer unto the Lord for a burnt-offering:

19 Ye ſhall offer at your own will a male without blemiſh of the beeves, of the ſheep, or of the goats.

20 But whatſoever hath a blemiſh, that ſhall ye not offer: for it ſhall not be acceptable for you.

21 And whoſoever offereth a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the Lord, to accompliſh his vow, or a free-will-offering in beeves, or ſheep, it ſhall be perfect, to be accepted: there ſhall be no blemiſh therein.

22 Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, ye ſhall not offer theſe unto the Lord, nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the Lord.

23 Either a bullock, or a lamb that hath any thing ſuperfluous or lacking in his parts, that mayeſt thou offer for a free-will-offering; but for a vow it ſhall not be accepted.

24 Ye ſhall not offer unto the Lord that which is bruiſed, or cruſhed, or broken, or cut; neither ſhall you make any offering thereof in your land.

25 Neither from a ſtrangers hand ſhall ye offer the bread of your God of any of theſe; becauſe their corruption is in them, and blemiſhes be in them: they ſhall not be accepted for you.

26 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

27 When a bullock, or a ſheep, or a goat is brought forth, then it ſhall be ſeven days under the dam; and from the eighth day and thenceforth, it ſhall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the Lord.

28 And whether it be cow or ew, ye ſhall not kill it and her young both in one day.

29 And when ye will offer a ſacrifice of thankſgiving unto the Lord, offer it at your own will.

30 On the ſame day it ſhall be eaten up, ye ſhall leave none of it until the morrow: I am the Lord.

31 Therefore ſhall ye keep my commandments, and do them: I am the Lord.

32 Neither ſhall ye profane my holy name, but I will be hallowed among the children of Iſrael: I am the Lord which hallow you,

33 That brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the Lord.

Of feaſts, and 26 the day of atonement.

Ver. 28. Cow or ew ye ſhall not kill it and her young both in one day.] This precaution ſerved to teach the Iſraelites humanity; indeed, there is ſomething cruel in the idea of butchering both parent and offspring at the ſame time, and to bring the dam to the altar, while it is ſtill mourning the loſs of its young, ſlain in its ſight. The law here injoined, is ſimilar with that of Deuteronomy, xxii. 6. If a bird is found ſetting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young.

Notes on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 2. Concerning the feaſts of the Lord.] Under this general term, is comprehended the day of atonement, which was not a feſtival, but a faſt, or day of ſolemn humiliation; therefore the Hebrew word Moghade, ſhould have been rendered, ſolemn aſſemblies or ſeaſons, which it properly ſignifies.

Before Christ 1490.

4 ¶ Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, even holy covocations, which ye ſhall proclaim in their ſeaſons.

5 In the fourteenth day of the firſt month, at even is the LORDS paſſover.

6 And on the fifteenth day of the ſame month, is the feaſt of unleavened bread unto the LORD: ſeven days ye muſt eat unleavened bread.

7 In the firſt day ye ſhall have an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

8 But ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD ſeven days: in the ſeventh day is an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and ſhall reap the harveſt thereof, then ye ſhall bring a ſheaf of the firſt-fruits of your harveſt unto the prieſt:

11 And he ſhall wave the ſheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the ſabbath the prieſt ſhall wave it.

Before Christ 1490.

12 And he ſhall offer that day when ye wave the ſheaf, an he-lamb without blemiſh, of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering unto the LORD.

13 And the meat-offering thereof ſhall be two tenth-deals of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a ſweet ſavour: and the drink-offering thereof ſhall be of wine, the fourth part of an hin.

14 And ye ſhall eat neither bread, nor parched corn, nor green ears, until the ſelf-ſame day that ye have brought an offering unto your God: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

15 ¶ And ye ſhall count unto you from the morrow after the ſabbath, from the day that ye brought the ſheaf of the wave-offering; ſeven ſabbaths ſhall be complete:

Ver. 4. In their ſeaſons.] The ſeaſons for theſe ſolemnities, God appointed to be in March, May, and September, agreeable to our preſent computation, and not in the winter; travelling being then uncomfortable, by reaſon of the ſhortneſs of the days, and the badneſs of the way; nor yet in the height of the ſummer ſeaſon, becauſe then, in thoſe countries, they could but ill be ſpared from their employ in gathering in the harveſt and vintage.

Ver. 10. When ye be come into the land—and ſhall reap the harveſt, &c.] Or more properly, are about to reap the harveſt; for the ſheaf was to be brought before the reſt of the harveſt was cut.

The firſt-fruits of your harveſt unto the prieſt.] Theſe firſt-fruits, uſed to be reaped by men choſen for that purpoſe, and they were preſented to the prieſt, in the name of the whole community, who waved them towards the four quarters of the world, as a ſign of their being conſecrated to the Lord of the univerſe, and by this all the ſheaves in the field were made holy. This ceremony was conſtantly obſerved the day after the paſchal ſolemnity, and at the ſame time, there was offered an he-lamb without blemiſh, of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering unto the Lord. The whole was an evident type of the reſurrection of Chriſt, and its benefits to us: As the ſheaf was lifted up and waved, and the lamb was offered on that day, ſo he died, and offered himſelf up to God; and on the day following the ſabbath, was lifted up, or raiſed from the dead, our corruption hallowed in him, and our mortality conſecrated to all eternity.

Ver. 11. On the morrow after the ſabbath.] Or, the ſecond day of unleavened bread, (and not the weekly ſabbath) the firſt being termed ſabbath or reſt, becauſe it was a feſtival in which they were to deſiſt from all ſervile labour.

Ver. 14. And ye ſhall eat neither bread, &c.] That is, ye ſhall eat nothing of this year's growth, till you have firſt made an offering to God.

Ver. 15. From the morrow after the ſabbath.] See note on ver. 11.

Seven ſabbaths.] That is, ſeven weeks complete, from the ſixteenth day of the ſecond month, or the ſecond of unleavened bread.

Ver. 16. Unto the morrow after the ſeventh ſabbath, ſhall ye number fifty days, and—offer a new meat-offering.] This feaſt is called pentecoſt or weeks, being obſerved fifty days, or ſeven weeks after the paſſover. It is called likewiſe the feaſt of harveſt, Exod. xxiii. 16. the finiſhing of the corn harveſt being ſolemnized at it. It was inſtituted in remembrance of the giving of the law on mount Sinai, the fifteenth day after they came out of Egypt.

and ye ſhall offer a new meat-offering unto the Lord.

17 Ye ſhall bring out of your habitations two wave-loaves, of two tenth-deals: they ſhall be of fine flour, they ſhall be baken with leaven, they are the firſt-fruits unto the Lord.

18 And ye ſhall offer with the bread ſeven lambs without blemiſh, of the firſt year, and one young bullock and two rams: they ſhall be for a burnt-offering unto the Lord, with their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, even an offering made by fire of ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

19 Then ye ſhall ſacrifice one kid of the goats, for a ſin-offering, and two lambs of the firſt year, for a ſacrifice of peace offerings.

20 And the prieſt ſhall wave them with the bread of the firſt-fruits, for a wave-offering before the Lord, with the two lambs: they ſhall be holy to the Lord for the prieſt.

21 And ye ſhall proclaim on the ſelf-ſame day, that it may be an holy convocation unto you: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

22 ¶ And when ye reap the harveſt of your land, thou ſhalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field when thou reapeſt, neither ſhalt thou gather any gleaning of thy harveſt: thou ſhalt leave them unto the poor, and to the ſtranger: I am the Lord your God.

Before Chriſt 1490.

25 Ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein; but ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord.

26 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

27 Alſo on the tenth day of this ſeventh month, there ſhall be a day of atonement, it ſhall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls, and offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord.

28 And ye ſhall do no work in that ſame day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the Lord your God.

29 For whatſoever ſoul it be that ſhall not be afflicted in that ſame day, he ſhall be cut off from among his people.

30 And whatſoever ſoul it be that doeth any work in that ſame day, the ſame ſoul will I deſtroy from among his people.

31 Ye ſhall do no manner of work: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

32 It ſhall be unto you a ſabbath of reſt, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls in the ninth day of the month at even: from even unto even ſhall ye celebrate your ſabbath.

33 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

34 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The fifteenth day of this ſeventh month ſhall be the feaſt of tabernacles for ſeven days unto the Lord.

Ver. 17. They ſhall be baken with leaven.] This is different from the eſtabliſhed law, relating to other meat-offerings of this kind: but it is to be conſidered, that part of the latter were burnt upon the altar, whereas the former were only waved before the Lord, and given to the prieſt for his portion.

Ver. 24. A memorial of blowing of trumpets.] More properly, a feſtival for commemorating and praiſing God, with the ſound of the trumpets. They blew the trumpet every new-moon; but in that of the ſeventh month, it was to be done with a more than ordinary ſolemnity, the trumpets ſounding from ſun-riſe till ſun-ſet.

Ver. 34. The fifteenth day of this ſeventh month, ſhall be the feaſt of tabernacles.] This feaſt was inſtituted in memory of their having dwelt in tents in the wilderneſs for forty years, under the protection of the Almighty. Some have thought, that it was inſtituted as a feaſt of thankſgiving

Before Chriſt 1490.

35 On the firſt day ſhall be an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

36 Seven days ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord: on the eighth day ſhall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord: it is a ſolemn aſſembly, and ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein.

37 Theſe are the feaſts of the Lord, which ye ſhall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord, a burnt-offering, and a meat-offering, a ſacrifice, and drink-offerings, every thing upon his day:

38 Beſides the ſabbaths of the Lord, and beſides your gifts, and beſides all your vows, and beſides all your free-will-offerings, which ye give unto the Lord.

39 Alſo in the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye ſhall keep a feaſt unto the Lord ſeven days: on the firſt day ſhall be a ſabbath, and on the eighth day ſhall be a ſabbath.

40 And ye ſhall take you on the firſt day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm-trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook; and ye ſhall rejoice before the Lord your God ſeven days.

giving for the concluſion of their harveſt and vintage, which in Paleſtine ended about this time, viz. the beginning of our October. The particular trees mentioned ver. 40. of which theſe booths were made, and the manner of their conſtruction, are not eaſily underſtood; and indeed all that is ſuppoſed to be meant, is, that they ſhould chuſe ſuch trees, as afforded the moſt laſting and agreeable verdure and fragrancy. The firſt day of this feſtival was uſhered in, by a general proceſſion, in which they carried branches of palm-trees in their hands, waving them about towards the four winds, and ſinging pſalms and hymns ſuitable to the occaſion, at the ſame time crying Hoſannah! or, ſave, we beſeech thee: from this word, the laſt day of the feaſt, and the ceremony of carrying palm-branches, round about the altar, was called Hoſannah-rabbah, or the day of the great Hoſannah. The hundred and eighteenth pſalm, is likewiſe ſuppoſed to have been ſung on this feſtival, if not compoſed on purpoſe for it; there being ſeveral expreſſions in it, that have a great affinity to this feaſt, as well as from the very analogy of the compoſure with its ceremonies.

Ver. 36. It is a ſolemn aſſembly.] In the Hebrew. Gnatsereth, a reſtraint or detention, was a term uſed for the laſt day of every great feſtival, becauſe all work was prohibited, and the people were detained in the holy places.

Ver. 40. Ye ſhall rejoice before the Lord.] Theſe ſeven days were ſpent in rejoicing, and returning thanks to God, who had brought them from the barren wilderneſs, to a fertile land. We are informed, that the chief of this rejoicing, conſiſted in pouring out of water, which they uſed to fetch from the pool of Siloam, with great ſolemnity, in a golden veſſel containing about three pints, and to carry it to the altar, pouring it out with the wine of the daily ſacrifice. This cuſtom ſeems to have taken its riſe, from that miraculous water which iſſued from the rock in the wilderneſs, and ſaved the Iſraelites from periſhing. The Jews attribute the inſtitution of it, to the prophets Haggai and Zachariah; though it is thought to have been introduced but a little before our Saviour's birth.

Before Christ 1490. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations.

4 He ſhall order the lamps upon the pure candleſtick before the Lord continually.

5 ¶ And thou ſhalt take fine flour, and bake twelve cakes thereof: two tenth-deals ſhall be in one cake.

6 And thou ſhalt ſet them in two rows, ſix on a row, upon the pure table before the Lord.

7 And thou ſhalt put pure frankincenſe upon each row, that it may be on the bread for a memorial, even an offering made by fire unto the Lord.

8 Every ſabbath he ſhall ſet it in order before the Lord continually, being taken from the children of Iſrael by an everlaſting covenant.

9 And it ſhall be Aarons and his ſons, and they ſhall eat it in the holy place: for it is moſt holy unto him, of the offerings of the Lord made by fire, by a perpetual ſtatute.

Notes on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 10. This ſon of an Iſraelitiſh woman, and a man of Iſrael ſtrove together.] The Jews tell us, that this perſon attempted to ſet up his tent among the Danites, in right of his mother, who belonged to their tribe, and that being oppoſed, and told, that as his father was an Egyptian, he had no right ſo to do, he was thereupon enraged, and uttered blaſphemies againſt God.

Ver. 11. Blaſphemed.] It is imagined that his cauſe came before the judges, and that their determination was, he had no right to the privileges of a true Iſraelite, and that he being aggrieved by the Divine appointment, which made this diſtinction between the Iſraeſites and ſtrangers, he audaciouſly reproached both the law and the law-maker, and ſet them at defiance.

Ver. 12. That the mind of the Lord might be ſhewed them.] This ſignifies, that Moſes was to pronounce ſentence, according as God ſhould direct him.

Ver. 14. Let all the congregation ſtone him.] Every perſon preſent, caſt his ſtone at the blaſphemer, to ſignify that himſelf was wounded by the blow, levelled by the impious perſon at the Almighty. The putting blaſphemers to death, has been looked upon as a moral law, as well among Chriſtians as Jews, and therefore ſuch were condemned by Juſtinian.

Ver. 20. Eye for eye, tooth for tooth.] We Chriſtians indeed, live under a milder diſpenſation, and perhaps for that reaſon, may think this to have been a very ſevere decree: But the laws of other nations as well as the Jewiſh, ſhew they did not think it unreaſonable; for it obtained a place among the celebrated Roman laws of the twelve tables.

reſtore it: and he that killeth a man, he ſhall be put to death.

22 Ye ſhall have one manner of law, as well for the ſtranger, as for one of your own country: for I am the Lord your God.

23 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould bring forth him that had curſed, out of the camp, and ſtone him with ſtones: and the children of Iſrael did as the Lord commanded Moſes.

CHAP. XXV.

The jubile. 14 Of oppreſſion. 35 Of compaſſion.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, in mount Sinai, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then ſhall the land keep a ſabbath unto the Lord.

3 Six years thou ſhalt ſow thy field, and ſix years thou ſhalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof.

4 But in the ſeventh year ſhall be a ſabbath of reſt unto the land, a ſabbath for the Lord: thou ſhalt neither ſow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

5 That which groweth of its own accord of thy harveſt, thou ſhalt not reap, neither gather the grapes of thy vine undreſſed: for it is a year of reſt unto the land.

6 And the ſabbath of the land ſhall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy ſervant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired ſervant, and for thy ſtranger that ſojourneth with thee,

7 And for thy cattle, and for the beaſt that are in thy land, ſhall all the increaſe thereof be meat.

8 ¶ And thou ſhalt number ſeven ſabbaths of years unto thee, ſeven times ſeven years, and the ſpace of the ſeven ſabbaths of years ſhall be unto thee forty and nine years.

9 Then ſhalt thou cauſe the trumpet of the jubile to ſound, on the tenth day of the ſeventh month; in the day of atonement ſhall ye make the trumpet ſound throughout all your land.

10 And ye ſhall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof: it ſhall be a jubile unto you, and ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion, and ye ſhall return every man unto his family.

Before Christ 1490.

Notes on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 2. The land keep a ſabbath.] The ſanctification of the ſabbath was the moſt ancient of all divine inſtitutions, calculated to keep up the knowledge and worſhip of God among men; Moſes therefore not only revived the obſervation of the weekly ſabbath, but likewiſe inſtituted a ſabbatical year, for the advancement of its glory.

Ver. 5. A year of reſt unto the land.] This year of reſt was appointed, not for any natural, or œconomical reſpect, that the tired land might gain ſtrength, which is the uſual practice, but for an holy and religious reſt, dedicated to God's ſervice, and typical of the eternal reſt in heaven.

Ver. 8. Thou ſhalt number ſeven ſabbaths of years.] Over and above the ſabbatical year; Moſes inſtituted another, to be celebrated every fiftieth year, diſtinguiſhed from the former, in that all ſlaves were then releaſed, all debts cancelled, every man reſtored to his lands, poſſeſſions, &c. however alienated, and every Hebrew ſervant or ſlave, to his own tribe and family, liberty and property, on what account ſoever he had been deprived of them during theſe fifty years. This law was a wiſe proviſion for fixing the Jews in the land of Canaan, and to preſerve the diſtinction between tribes and families, by which that of the Meſſiah when born, might certainly be known to be of the tribe of Judah, and lineage of David, as foretold by the prophets.

Ver. 9. The trumpet of the jubile.] In the Hebrew, JERUGHATH, i. e. the trumpet of loud ſound; becauſe the trumpets were ſounded loud at the beginning of the jubilee, in every quarter of the land, to ſignify that the whole year was to be celebrated with great joy, it being intended to remind them of their Egyptian bondage, and to prevent them from the like oppreſſion of their own brethren. The day of reſtoration took not place till the tenth day of the month, otherwiſe called the day of expiation; but the nine days preceding this, the ſlaves were exempted from all work, and ſpent that interval in eating, drinking, and diverſions; and alſo wore garlands on their heads, after the manner of the Romans during the Saturnalia: the tenth day being come, the Sanhedrim cauſed the trumpet to ſound throughout the land, and at that inſtant, every one was reſtored to his liberty, and poſſeſſions.

Before Chriſt 1490.

11 A jubile ſhall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye ſhall not ſow, neither reap that which groweth of itſelf in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undreſſed.

12 For it is the jubile, it ſhall be holy unto you: ye ſhall eat the increaſe thereof out of the field.

13 In the year of this jubile ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion.

14 And if thou ſell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyeſt ought of thy neighbours hand; ye ſhall not oppreſs one another.

15 According to the number of years after the jubile, thou ſhalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he ſhall ſell unto thee:

16 According to the multitude of years thou ſhalt increaſe the price thereof, and according to the fewneſs of years thou ſhalt diminiſh the price of it: for according to the number of the years of the fruits doth he ſell unto thee.

17 Ye ſhall not therefore oppreſs one another; but thou ſhalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.

18 ¶ Wherefore ye ſhall do my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; and ye ſhall dwell in the land in ſafety.

19 And the land ſhall yield her fruit, and ye ſhall eat your fill, and dwell therein in ſafety.

20 And if ye ſhall ſay, What ſhall we eat the ſeventh year? behold, we ſhall not ſow, nor gather in our increaſe:

Before Chriſt 1490.

21 Then I will command my bleſſing upon you in the ſixth year, and it ſhall bring forth fruit for three years.

22 And ye ſhall ſow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit, until the ninth year; until her fruits come in, ye ſhall eat of the old ſtore.

23 ¶ The land ſhall not be ſold for ever: for the land is mine, for ye are ſtrangers and ſojourners with me.

24 And in all the land of your poſſeſſion, ye ſhall grant a redemption for the land.

25 ¶ If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath ſold away ſome of his poſſeſſion, and if any of his kin come to redeem it, then ſhall he redeem that which his brother ſold.

26 And if the man have none to redeem it, and himſelf be able to redeem it:

27 Then let him count the years of the ſale thereof, and reſtore the overplus unto the man to whom he ſold it; that he may return unto his poſſeſſion.

28 But if he be not able to reſtore it to him, then that which is ſold, ſhall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it, until the year of jubile: and in the jubile it ſhall go out, and he ſhall return unto his poſſeſſion.

29 And if a man ſell a dwelling-houſe in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is ſold: within a full year may he redeem it.

30 And if it be not redeemed within the ſpace of a full year: then the houſe that

---

Ver. 15. According to the number of years, &c.] There was not the leaſt injuſtice in this law, nor any reaſon to complain; ſince every purchaſer of an eſtate, was well apprized of the year of jubilee; and in the ſale of lands it was always conſidered, and they ſold at an higher or lower price, according as it was nearer or more remote.

Ver. 20. If ye ſhall ſay what ſhall we eat, &c.] That they might not object againſt ſo wiſe and good a law, the Almighty graciouſly promiſed them, that their lands ſhould bring forth ſo abundantly in the preceding year, as ſhould be ſufficient to ſupply all their wants.

Ver. 29. If a man ſell a dwelling houſe, &c.] Houſes in the city if not redeemed within a year, were never more to return to their firſt owner, not even at the jubilee; but country houſes, as being a part of their hereditary eſtates, were ſubject to the ſame law as their eſtates. This proviſion ſeems to have been made for the encouragement of ſtrangers and proſelytes, to come and ſettle among them, who though they could not purchaſe land to them and their heirs, yet might purchaſe houſes within walled cities, as being moſt convenient for thoſe who were ſuppoſed to live by trade.

Before Chriſt 1490.

that is in the walled city, ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever to him that bought it, throughout his generations: it ſhall not go out in the jubile.

31 But the houſes of the villages which have no walls round about them, ſhall be counted as the fields of the country: they may be redeemed, and they ſhall go out in the jubile.

32 Notwithſtanding, the cities of the Levites, and the houſes of the cities of their poſſeſſion, may the Levites redeem at any time.

33 And if a man purchaſe of the Levites, then the houſe that was ſold, and the city of his poſſeſſion ſhall go out in the year of jubile: for the houſes of the cities of the Levites are their poſſeſſion among the children of Iſrael.

34 But the field of the ſuburbs of their cities may not be ſold, for it is their perpetual poſſeſſion.

35 ¶ And if thy brother be waxen poor, and fallen in decay with thee; then thou ſhalt relieve him: yea, though he be a ſtranger, or a ſojourner; that he may live with thee.

36 Take thou no uſury of him, or increaſe: but fear thy God; that thy brother may live with thee.

37 Thou ſhalt not give him thy money upon uſury, nor lend him thy victuals for increaſe.

38 I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

Before Chriſt 1490.

39 ¶ And if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be ſold unto thee; thou ſhalt not compel him to ſerve as a bond-ſervant:

40 But as an hired ſervant, and as a ſojourner, he ſhall be with thee, and ſhall ſerve thee unto the year of jubile.

41 And then ſhall he depart from thee, both he and his children with him, and ſhall return unto his own family, and unto the poſſeſſion of his fathers ſhall he return.

42 For they are my ſervants, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: they ſhall not be ſold as bond-men.

43 Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigour; but ſhalt fear thy God.

44 Both thy bond-men, and thy bond-maids, which thou ſhalt have, ſhall be of the heathen that are round about you; of them ſhall ye buy bond-men and bond-maids.

45 Moreover, of the children of the ſtrangers that do ſojourn among you, of them ſhall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land: and they ſhall be your poſſeſſion.

46 And ye ſhall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a poſſeſſion, they ſhall be your

Ver. 34. But the field of the ſuburbs.] The Hebrews inform us, that round the cities of the Levites, a thouſand cubits (about a quarter of a mile) was meaſured for their ſuburbs; without which, all round, were meaſured two thouſand more, to feed their cattle in, and for vineyards: this portion being undivided, and lying in common, no particular perſon had any power to bargain for it.

Ver. 36. May live with thee.] May live happily with thee.

Ver. 39. Thou ſhalt not compel him to ſerve as a bond-ſervamt.] A ſlave whom they bought of other nations, or took in their wars, over whom they had an abſolute dominion, and might ſell them and their children at pleaſure.

Ver. 42. They are my ſervants.] The meaneſt as well as the moſt oppulent Iſraelite was the peculiar ſervant and worſhipper of the true God, and therefore as ſerving one common maſter, they were ſecured from the ſlavery and oppreſſion of their brethren.

Ver. 43. Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigour.] The practice againſt which this precept is levelled, is but too frequent among men; and it is a melancholly conſideration, that chriſtians ſhould violate it, by their inhuman treatment of their Negroe-ſlaves in the American Colonies; notwithſtanding the Jewiſh Rabbins aſſert, that a man may uſe his ſlave as he pleaſes, provided he does not maim him; this is contrary to religion and humanity.

Before Christ 1490. your bond-men for ever: but over your brethren the children of Iſrael, ye ſhall not rule one over another with rigour.

47 ¶ And if a ſojourner or ſtranger wax rich by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and ſell himſelf unto the ſtranger or ſojourner by thee, or to the ſtock of the ſtrangers family:

48 After that he is ſold, he may be redeemed again; one of his brethren may redeem him:

49 Either his uncle, or his uncles ſon may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him, of his family, may redeem him; or if he be able, he may redeem himſelf.

50 And he ſhall reckon with him that bought him, from the year that he was ſold to him, unto the year of jubile: and the price of his ſale ſhall be according unto the number of years, according to the time of an hired ſervant ſhall it be with him.

51 If there be yet many years behind; according unto them he ſhall give again the price of his redemption, out of the money that he was bought for.

52 And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubile, then he ſhall count with him, and according unto his years ſhall he give him again the price of his redemption.

53 And as a yearly hired ſervant ſhall he be with him: and the other ſhall not rule with rigour over him in thy ſight. Before Christ 1490.

54 And if he be not redeemed in theſe years, then he ſhall go out in the year of jubile, both he, and his children with him.

55 For unto me the children of Iſrael are ſervants, they are my ſervants whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 Of idolatry. 3 A bleſſing promiſed. 14 A curſe threatned.

YE ſhall make you no idols nor graven image, neither rear you up a ſtanding image, neither ſhall ye ſet up any image of ſtone in your land, to bow down unto it: for I am the LORD your God.

2 Ye ſhall keep my ſabbaths, and reverence my ſanctuary: I am the LORD.

3 ¶ If ye walk in my ſtatutes, and keep my commandments, and do them;

4 Then I will give you rain in due ſeaſon, and the land ſhall yield her increaſe, and the trees of the field ſhall yield their fruit.

5 And your threſhing ſhall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage ſhall reach unto the ſowing-time: and ye ſhall eat your bread to the full, and dwell in your land ſafely.

6 And I will give peace in the land, and ye ſhall lie down, and none ſhall make you afraid:

NOTES on Chap. XXVI.

Ver. 1. A ſtanding image.] Theſe ſeem to have been a kind of rude ſtones, which the Heathens erected to their gods, and paid to them Divine worſhip.

Ver. 2. An image of ſtone.] In the original, the words ſignify a pictured ſtone, or ſtones painted with pictures, like thoſe of the Egyptian hieroglyphics. The Septuagint renders it, a ſtone conſecrated to the gods inſpectors, or the tutelar deities of the country.

Ver. 4. I will give you rain in due ſeaſon.] In Canaan and Syria, it was not common to have rain but at two ſeaſons; in the ſpring before harveſt, and at the end of autumn, at ſeed-time; called by the prophet, the former, and the latter rain, Jer. v. 24. When either of theſe failed, the year was quite barren; hence thoſe countries were ſubject to famine. This promiſe therefore of rain in due ſeaſon, was a moſt gracious one, and an invaluable bleſſing.

Ver. 5. Your threſhing ſhall reach unto the vintage.] God promiſed that their fruits ſhould be produced in abundance, and ſucceſſively, ſo that there ſhould be no ceſſation; before they had reaped their corn, their vintage would be ready, and before the vintage was finiſhed, the ſowing ſeaſon would commence. The ploughman overtook the reaper, and the treader of grapes, him that ſoweth ſeed. Amos ix. 13.

10 And ye ſhall eat old ſtore, and bring forth the old becauſe of the new.

11 And I will ſet my tabernacle amongſt you: and my ſoul ſhall not abhor you.

12 And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people.

13 I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye ſhould not be their bondmen, and I have broken the bands of your yoke, and made you go upright.

14 ¶ But if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all theſe commandments;

15 And if ye ſhall deſpiſe my ſtatutes, or if your ſoul abhor my judgments, ſo that ye will not do all my commandments, but that ye break my covenant:

17 And I will ſet my face againſt you, and ye ſhall be ſlain before your enemies: they that hate you ſhall reign over you, and ye ſhall flee when none purſueth you.

18 And if ye will not yet for all this hearken unto me, then I will puniſh you ſeven times more for your ſins.

19 And I will break the pride of your power; and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as braſs:

20 And your ſtrength ſhall be ſpent in vain: for your land ſhall not yield her increaſe, neither ſhall the trees of the land yield their fruits.

21 ¶ And if ye walk contrary unto me, and will not hearken unto me; I will bring ſeven times more plagues upon you, according to your ſins.

22 I will alſo ſend wild beaſts among you, which ſhall rob you of your children, and deſtroy your cattle, and make you few in number, and your high-ways ſhall be deſolate.

23 And if ye will not be reformed by me by theſe things, but will walk contrary unto me:

24 Then will I alſo walk contrary unto you, and will puniſh you yet ſeven times for your ſins.

25 And I will bring a ſword upon you, that ſhall avenge the quarrel of my covenant: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, I will ſend the peſtilence among you; and ye ſhall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

NOTES on Chap. XXVII.

Ver. 2. When a man ſhall make a ſingular vow.] Promiſing in a ſolemn manner to ſeparate any common thing to a ſacred uſe. It is thought that ſome devout people, affected with what Moſes had delivered to them in the preceeding chapter, took a reſolution of dedicating themſelves, their children, and their effects to God, and to the ſervice of the tabernacle, and that God accepted of this their zeal. This chapter therefore concerning vows is added as an appendix, cloſing up the book of ſtatutes.

The perſons ſhall be for the Lord by thy eſtimation.] If a man conſecrated himſelf or his child to the ſervice of the tabernacle, ſuch as ſweeping the floor, carrying out aſhes, running on errands, or the like; the perſons ſo conſecrated, ſhould be for the Lord, that is, God will accept the good will; but ſeeing there was an whole tribe devoted to this ſervice, thoſe who were vowed, were not wanted, but were to be redemed; and the redemption money employed for repairs of the tabernacle and other uſes.

Before Chriſt 1490.

if he ſhall at all change beaſt for beaſt; then it, and the exchange thereof ſhall be holy.

11 And if it be any unclean beaſt, of which they do not offer a ſacrifice unto the Lord; then he ſhall preſent the beaſt before the prieſt:

12 And the prieſt ſhall value it, whether it be good or bad: as thou valueſt it who art the prieſt, ſo ſhall it be.

13 But if he will at all redeem it, then he ſhall add a fifth part thereof unto thy eſtimation.

14 ¶ And when a man ſhall ſanctify his houſe to be holy unto the Lord; then the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, ſo ſhall it ſtand.

15 And if he that ſanctified it, will redeem his houſe, then he ſhall add the fifth part of the money of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be his.

16 And if a man ſhall ſanctify unto the Lord ſome part of a field of his poſſeſſion; then thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſeed thereof: an homer of barley-ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels of ſilver.

17 If he ſanctify his field from the year of jubile, according to thy eſtimation it ſhall ſtand.

18 But if he ſanctify his field after the jubile; then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the money according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubile, and it ſhall be abated from thy eſtimation.

19 And if he that ſanctified the field, will in any wiſe redeem it; then he ſhall add the fifth part of the money of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be aſſured to him.

Before Chriſt 1490.

20 And if he will not redeem the field, or if he have ſold the field to another man; it ſhall not be redeemed any more.

21 But the field, when it goeth out in the jubile, ſhall be holy unto the Lord, as a field devoted: the poſſeſſion thereof ſhall be the prieſts.

22 And if a man ſanctify unto the Lord a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his poſſeſſion;

23 Then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the worth of thy eſtimation, even unto the year of the jubile: and he ſhall give thine eſtimation in that day, as a holy thing unto the Lord.

24 In the year of the jubile, the field ſhall return unto him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the poſſeſſion of the land did belong.

25 And all thy eſtimations ſhall be according to the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: twenty gerahs ſhall be the ſhekel.

26 ¶ Only the firſtling of the beaſts, which ſhould be the Lords firſtling, no man ſhall ſanctify it; whether it be ox, or ſheep: it is the Lords.

27 And if it be of an unclean beaſt, then he ſhall redeem it according to thine eſtimation, and ſhall add a fifth part of it thereto: or if it be not redeemed, then it ſhall be ſold according to thy eſtimation.

28 Notwithſtanding, no dovoted thing that a man ſhall devote unto the Lord of all that he hath, both of man and beaſt, and of the field of his poſſeſſion, ſhall be ſold or redeemed: every dovoted thing is moſt holy unto the Lord.

Ver. 16. An homer of barley ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels.] As much land as an homer of barley will ſow, ſhall be rated at fifty ſhekels. (About five pounds ſeventeen ſhillings) The Ghomer, Exod. xvi. 16. 36. was the tenth part of an ephah; but the Homer, or meaſure ſpoken of in this place, was ten ephahs; that is, about ten buſhels.

Ver. 19. He ſhall add the fifth part.] If the owner was purpoſed to redeem himſelf, he might not purchaſe his redemption ſo cheap as another, but was to add a fifth part of the price: by this God would lead men into into a ſerious conſideration before they vowed.

Ver. 29. None devoted, which ſhall be devoted of men, ſhall be redeemed; but ſhall ſurely be put to death.] This paſſage has given riſe to many diſputes; but the true ſenſe ſeems to be this, every thing which is devoted of men, ſhall not be redeemed, but ſhall ſurely die, i. e. he ſhall die in that devoted ſtate. Our verſion indeed has it, he ſhall ſurely be put to death; but in the original it is, dying he ſhall die; which is not to be underſtood of being ſacrificed, or put to a violent death; but that he is to continue till death in a devoted ſtate. See 1 Sam. i. 11.

Ver. 32. Whatſoever paſſeth under the rod.] The Jews underſtand it of the tything-rod coloured with oker, with which, the perſon placing himſelf at the door of the fold numbered the cattle as they came out, and marked every tenth with his rod. Maimonides ſays, the manner of decimating cattle was this; they ſhut up all the lambs, kids, or calves, in a ſtable, having but one door, ſo ſtrait, that two could not get abreaſt, and then brought their dams to the door, that the young ones hearing their voice, might ſtrive to get out by paſſing under the rod; as faſt as they came out, thoſe who ſtood by, marked every tenth with red lead, and whether a male or female, with or without blemiſh, the owner ſaid; this ſhall be conſecrated to pay the tythes.

The Fourth BOOK of MOSES, CALLED NUMBERS.

The ARGUMENT.

This Book is called Numbers by the Greek interpreters, becauſe it begins with an account of the numbering or muſtering, of the children of Iſrael*; this was done in the beginning of the ſecond year, after their coming out of* Egypt. It contains likewiſe, ſeveral additional laws, civil and religious, comprehending in the whole, an hiſtory of about 38 years.

CHAP. I.

1 God commandeth Moſes to number the people.

Before Chriſt 1490.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the firſt day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 Take ye the ſum of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their poll: Before Chriſt 1490.

3 From twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Iſrael; thou and Aaron ſhall number them by their armies.

4 And with you there ſhall be a man of every tribe; every one head of the houſe of his fathers.

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, &c.] It was now about thirteen months ſince the Iſraelites had left Egypt, reſiding near twelve at mount Sinai, in which place they received

Before Chriſt 1490.

5 ¶ And theſe are the names of the men that ſhall ſtand with you: Of the tribe of Reuben; Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

6 Of Simeon; Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

7 Of Judah; Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

8 Of Iſſachar; Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

9 Of Zebulun; Eliab the ſon of Helon.

10 Of the children of Joſeph: of Ephraim, Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud; of Manaſſeh, Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

11 Of Benjamin; Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

12 Of Dan; Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

13 Of Aſher; Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

14 Of Gad; Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.

15 Of Naphtali; Ahira the ſon of Enan.

16 Theſe were the renowned of the congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, heads of thouſands in Iſrael.

17 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron took theſe men, which are expreſſed by their names.

18 And they aſſembled all the congregation together on the firſt day of the ſecond month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their poll.

Before Chriſt 1490.

19 As the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo he numbered them in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

20 And the children of Reuben Iſraels eldeſt ſon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their poll, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

21 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and ſix thouſand and five hundred.

22 ¶ of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, thoſe that were numbered of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

23 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred.

received all the foregoing laws: But before they left this ſtation, Moſes and Aaron received an order from God, to make a general muſter, and take an exact poll of all the Hebrew men, from twenty years of age and upwards, the Levites excepted.

On the firſt day of the ſecond month.] That is, the firſt day of the ſecond month, of the ſecond year; anſwering to part of our April and May.

Ver. 2. Take ye the ſum of all, &c.] This numbering of the people, ſeems to have been ordered for ſeveral reaſons: For by it, the accompliſhment of the promiſe made to Abraham, of multiplying his ſeed, was evidently ſeen to have been fulfilled; the number of Jacob's family when he went down into Egypt, being no more than ſeventy-five perſons, was now found to have increaſed to upwards of 600,000 men. By this means too, God provided for aſcertaining the genealogy of the Meſſiah, by a careful diſtinction of each particular tribe, family, and houſhold. Theſe were the general reaſons; but the more particular deſign of numbering them at this time, was in order to their being marſhalled into ſeveral diſtricts, that they might be the better diſpoſed about the tabernacle, that juſtice might more eaſily be adminiſtred, and that they might march with greater regularity through the wilderneſs.

The word all, is not to be underſtood abſolutely; for the women were excepted, and all the males under twenty years of age, the Levites, and thoſe who were diſabled, through age or infirmity. The cuſtom of numbering all that were capable of bearing arms, and obliging them to go forth to battle, was common among other nations; for which reaſon it is, we read of ſuch mighty armies being ſent into the field, as appears ſcarce credible in theſe days.

Ver. 5. Of the tribe of Reuben.] It is to be noted, that the tribes are not placed in the order of their birth, but of their mothers who bear them; the children of Leah firſt; then of Rachel; and laſtly, the children of the two handmaids.

Ver. 14. The ſon of Duel.] Who is called Reuel. Chap. ii. 14.

Ver. 16. Theſe were the renowned of the congregation, princes, generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

25 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thouſand ſix hundred and fifty.

¶ 26 Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

27 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred.

28 ¶ Of the children of Iſſachar, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

29 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Iſſachar, were fifty and four thouſand and four hundred.

30 ¶ Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

31 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and ſeven thouſand and four hundred.

32 ¶ Of the children of Joſeph, namely, of the children of Ephraim, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

33 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Ephraim, were forty thouſand and five hundred.

34 ¶ Of the children of Manaſſeh, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

35 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Manaſſeh, were thirty and two thouſand and two hundred.

36 ¶ Of the children of Benjamin, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

37 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thouſand and four hundred.

38 ¶ Of the children of Dan, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

39 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Dan, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred.

40 ¶ Of the children of Aſher, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

41 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Aſher, were forty and one thouſand and five hundred.

princes, &c.] That is, they were perſons of rank and diſtinction in their reſpective tribes; this is apparent from their noble offerings at the dedication of the altar, chap. vii. 2. It is very probable they were judges and officers.

from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war;

43 Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

44 Theſe are thoſe that were numbered, which Moſes and Aaron numbered, and the princes of Iſrael, being twelve men: each one was for the houſe of his fathers.

45 So were all thoſe that were numbered of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Iſrael;

46 Even all they that were numbered, were ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty.

47 ¶ But the Levites, after the tribe of their fathers, were not numbered among them.

48 For the Lord hath ſpoken unto Moſes, ſaying,

49 Only thou ſhalt not number the tribe of Levi, neither take the ſum of them among the children of Iſrael:

50 But thou ſhalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of teſtimony, and over all the veſſels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they ſhall bear the tabernacle, and all the veſſels thereof, and they ſhall miniſter unto it, and ſhall encamp round about the tabernacle.

51 And when the tabernacle ſetteth forward, the Levites ſhall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites ſhall ſet it up: and the ſtranger that cometh nigh, ſhall be put to death.

Before Chriſt 1490.

52 And the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch their tents every man by his own camp, and every man by his own ſtandard, throughout their hoſts.

53 But the Levites ſhall pitch round about the tabernacle of teſtimony; that there be no wrath upon the congregation of the children of Iſrael: and the Levites ſhall keep the charge of the tabernacle of teſtimony.

54 And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

CHAP. II.

The order of the tribes in their tents.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 Every man of the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch by his own ſtandard, with the enſign of their fathers houſe: far off about the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall they pitch.

3 ¶ And on the eaſt ſide toward the riſing of the ſun, ſhall they of the ſtandard of the camp of Judah pitch, throughout their armies: and Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab ſhall be captain of the children of Judah.

Ver. 46. All they that were numbered.] The ſum total of this muſter, is 603,550 men; the very ſame with that mentioned Exod. xxxviii. 26. It may be that a few odd numbers are omitted in both; ſince it cannot well be ſuppoſed, that not a man of them died ſince their laſt numbering, which was ſeven months ago.

principal tribes were, a lion, borne by the tribe of Judah, being the moſt noble among wild beaſts; an ox by that of Ephraim, the moſt noble among beaſts of labour; an eagle by Dan, the moſt noble among birds; and a man's head by Reuben, being the moſt noble of all other creatures. But ſome reject this account of the modern Jews, thinking it improbable, that Moſes would have permitted ſuch images to be expoſed to the view of a people ſo prone to idolatry. It is therefore more probable, that each ſtandard was diſtinguiſhed, with the name of its reſpective tribe or tribes.

Ver. 34. And ſo they ſet forward.] This was the order of the Iſarelites marching; whenever they were to decamp, which always was when the pillar of the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle; the trumpet ſounded, and upon the firſt alarm, the ſtandard of Judah being raiſed, the three tribes belonging to it ſet forward; whereupon the tabernacle was immediately taken down, and the Gerſhonites and Merarites attended the waggons, with the boards and ſtaves of it. Theſe being on their march, a ſecond alarm was ſounded; upon which the ſtandard of Reuben's camp advanced, with the three tribes under it; after them followed the Kohathites, bearing the ſanctuary, which being more ſacred, and not ſo cumberſome as the pillars and boards of the tabernacle, was not put into a waggon, but carried upon their ſhoulders: next followed the ſtandard of Ephraim's camp, with his three tribes; and laſt of all, the three tribes under the ſtandard of Dan, brought up the rear.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. Theſe alſo are the generations, &c.] The proper ſignification of the word Generations is, poſterity and deſcendants; but Aaron's poſterity being only named, it is moſt natural to underſtand it in this place, as implying paſſages in their hiſtory; or a relation of what happened to them. So the word is uſed Gen. ii, 4.

Ver. 4. Eelazar and Ithamar miniſtered in the prieſts office.] The reaſon why Aarons ſons were ſettled in the prieſthood, while thoſe of Moſes were only Levites, was probably becauſe the ſons of Moſes had an Egyptian to their mother, and not deſcended from any of the tribes of Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1490.

6 Bring the tribe of Levi near, and preſent them before Aaron the prieſt, that they may miniſter unto him.

7 And they ſhall keep his charge, and the charge of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of the congregation, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle.

8 And they ſhall keep all the inſtruments of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the children of Iſrael, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle.

9 And thou ſhalt give the Levites unto Aaron and to his ſons: they are wholly given unto him out of the children of Iſrael.

Ver. 6. Preſent them before Aaron the prieſt, that they may miniſter unto him.] That they may receive their orders of Aaron, and aſſiſt him and the reſt of the prieſts, who were the immediate miniſters of God. In the wilderneſs the Levites had a peculiar charge; which was not only to guard the tabernacle, by keeping watch about it day and night; but likewiſe to take it down, to carry it in their removals, and ſet it up again whenever they reſted: when ſettled in Canaan they had leſs to do of this kind; though ſtill the charge of the tabernacle lay upon them; and their miniſtration to the prieſts. The Levites killed the ſacrifices; the prieſts needed only to ſprinkle the blood, and burn the fat; the Levites prepared the incenſe; the prieſts burned it. In David's time, ſome of the Levites were appointed ſingers, and players upon inſtruments, in the morning and evening ſervice; others ſtood at ſeveral gates of the tabernacle, and afterwards of the temple, as guards of the ſacred treaſury, and of ſuch things as were dedicated to God: and they were diſtributed into different claſſes or courſes, for the more regular diſcharge of their functions.

Ver. 9. They are wholly given unto him out of the children of Iſrael.] Are ſeparated from the body of Iſrael, to ſerve under the prieſts, in the ſacred miniſtry of the tabernacle: and as they attended on the public ſervice, ſo they had a public maintenance allowed them.

Ver. 12. I have taken the Levites inſtead of the firſt-born.] Every firſt-born was conſecrated to the ſervice of God, in memory of their preſervation in Egypt: but he was now pleaſed to releaſe the Iſraelites from this obligation, by ſubſtituting the tribe of Levi, to be the perpetual miniſters of religion, inſtead of the firſt-born males. The Levites obtained this favour for their religious zeal againſt the Idolaters. See Exod. xxxii. 28.

Ves. 15. Every male from a month old.] The other tribes were numbered from twenty years old and upwards, to know how many were fit to bear arms; but the Levites were numbered, only to know how many there were in all; that ſo they might be exchanged for an equal number of the firſt born; therefore it was requiſite all ſhould be numbered without diſtinction; even from a month old, the age at which the firſtling males were appointed to be redeemed.

Ver. 23. The family of the Gerſhonites, ſhall pitch behind the tabernacle weſtward.] The camp of the prieſts and Levites was directed to be of a ſquare form, like that of the other Iſraelites, The ſons of Gerſhon, were on the weſt ſide; the ſons of Kohath, on the ſouth; the ſons of Merari, on the north; and the tents of Moſes and Aaron, were pitched before the entrance of the tabernacle on the eaſt.

Ver. 38. The ſtranger, &c.] By ſtranger, in this place, is to be underſtood any one, except Aaron and his ſons: by this they were forbid to invade the prieſts office; and the prieſts were charged to be the door-keepers in God's houſe, and not to ſuffer any to enter in who were forbidden by the law. The Jews tell us, that in after times there was hung over the door of the temple, a golden ſword; (perhaps alluding to the flaming ſword at the entrance of the garden of Eden, on which was engraven, The ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death.

Ver. 39. Were twenty and two thouſand.] The particular ſums mentioned ver. 22, 28, and 34. amount in all to 22,300, but the three hundred are here omitted; becauſe it is ſuppoſed that number was the firſt-born of the Levites themſelves, who as ſuch did already belong to God; and for that reaſon could not be ſet down inſtead of the firſt-born of the people, as the other Levites were. Mr. Kennicot ſuppoſes there is an error in the ſum of the Gerſhonites, where the letter that denotes two hundred might eaſily be miſtaken for that which denotes five hundred.

Ver. 43. And all the firſt-born males—were twenty and two thouſand two hundred and threeſcore and thirteen.] It is to be remembred, that thoſe only were numbered, who had been born ſince the ſlaughter of the Egyptians, which was but a little above a year ago; it being only from that time, that the firſt-born were to be conſecrated to God; elſe it might ſeem ſtrange, that from more than 600,000, full grown Men, there ſhould be no more firſt-born ſons.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 3. From thirty years old, &c.] Thoſe who were numbered out of the other tribes to go forth to war, were from twenty years of age and upwards; but of the Levites for the ſervice of God, only from thirty to fifty. God requires the beſt of our ſtrength and the prime of our years.

To do the work of the tabernacle.] It ſhould have been tranſlated about the tabernacle; they not being permitted to enter into it. The work of the Levites was the carrying the ark, and other ſacred things on their ſhoulders, which was very laborious; but then ſuch perſons were ſelected out of the forementioned families of the Levites, as were moſt ſtrong and able for the purpoſe.

Before Chriſt 1490. to the hoſt, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 This ſhall be the ſervice of the ſons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about the moſt holy things.

5 ¶ And when the camp ſetteth forward, Aaron ſhall come and his ſons, and they ſhall take down the covering vail, and cover the ark of the teſtimony with it:

6 And ſhall put thereon the covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall ſpread over it a cloth wholly of blue, and ſhall put in the ſtaves thereof.

7 And upon the table of ſhew-bread they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the diſhes, and the ſpoons, and the bowls, and covers to cover withal: and the continual bread ſhall be thereon.

8 And they ſhall ſpread upon them a cloth of ſcarlet, and cover the ſame with a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put in the ſtaves thereof.

9 And they ſhall take a cloth of blue, and cover the candleſtick of the light, and his lamps, and his tongs, and his ſnuff-diſhes, and all the oil veſſels thereof, wherewith they miniſter unto it.

10 And they ſhall put it and all the veſſels thereof within a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put it upon a bar.

11 And upon the golden altar they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put to the ſtaves thereof.

12 And they ſhall take all the inſtruments of miniſtry, wherewith they miniſter in the ſanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put them on a bar. Before Chriſt 1490.

13 And they ſhall take away the aſhes from the altar, and ſpread a purple cloth thereon:

14 And they ſhall put upon it all the veſſels thereof, wherewith they miniſter about it, even the cenſers, the fleſh-hooks, and the ſhovels, and the baſons, all the veſſels of the altar; and they ſhall ſpread upon it a covering of badgers ſkins, and put to the ſtaves of it.

15 And when Aaron and his ſons have made an end of covering the ſanctuary, and all the veſſels of the ſanctuary, as the camp is to ſet forward; after that, the ſons of Kohath ſhall come to bear it: but they ſhall not touch any holy thing, leſt they die. Theſe things are the burden of the ſons of Kohath, in the tabernacle of the congregation.

16 ¶ And to the office of Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, pertaineth the oil for the light, and the ſweet incenſe, and the daily meat-offering, and the anointing oil, and the overſight of all the tabernacle, and of all that therein is, in the ſanctuary, and in the veſſels thereof.

17 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

Ver. 6. The covering of badgers ſkins.] The firſt covering of the ark was with the vail; then there were two others, one of leather, and the other of blue ſtuff. The uſe of theſe coverings, was not only to defend the ſacred things from the weather; but likewiſe to conceal them from the curious eyes of the multitude. It is thought that the Hebrew words which we tranſlate badgers ſkins, are improperly rendered; the badger being eſteemed unclean by the law of Moſes.

Put in the ſtaves thereof.] Theſe ſtaves were never to be taken out of the rings. See Exod. xxv. 15.

Ver. 10. Shall put it upon a bar.] Or rather a bier; ſince the word ſignifies an inſtrument, by which any thing may be moved from place to place.

Ver. 14. Spread upon it a covering. &c.] Previous to a journey, the great altar was made clean, and packed up with all its veſſels and appurtenances, in two of the forementioned coverings, being carried by its own ſtaves.

Merarites	3,200	3,000	6,200

It is well worth obſerving, how providence ordered it, that the Merarites, though upon the whole feweſt in number; yet as the heavieſt burden, and the greateſt labour was allotted them; ſuch as the boards of the ſanctuary, the pillars, and the ſockets, they produced the largeſt number of effective men.

Notes on Chap. V.

Ver. 2. That they put out of the camp every leper.] It is probable the camp of each tribe had a vacant ſpace left, which was reckoned without the camp, and that they lodged the unclean there by themſelves; ſince to baniſh them quite beyond the bounds of the camp, at a great diſtance from their friends and relations, ſeems too ſevere. Such legal pollutions were a figure of the pollutions of ſin; and the removing them out of the camp was a ſad emblem or repreſentation of the excluſion of impure and impenitent ſinners, out of the kingdom of heaven.

Ver. 6. That perſon be guilty.] Or rather, be ſenſible of his guilt.

Before Christ 1490.

7 Then they ſhall confeſs their ſin which they have done: and he ſhall recompenſe his treſpaſs with the principal thereof, and add unto it the fifth part thereof, and give it unto him againſt whom he hath treſpaſſed.

8 But if the man have no kinſman to recompenſe the treſpaſs unto, let the treſpaſs be recompenſed unto the LORD, even to the prieſt: beſide the ram of the atonement, whereby an atonement ſhall be made for him.

9 And every offering of all the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they bring unto the prieſt, ſhall be his.

10 And every mans hallowed things ſhall be his: whatſoever any man giveth the prieſt, it ſhall be his.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, If any mans wife go aſide, and commit a treſpaſs againſt him,

13 And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her huſband, and be kept cloſe, and ſhe be defiled, and there be no witneſs againſt her, neither ſhe be taken with the manner;

14 And the ſpirit of jealouſy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be defiled; or if the ſpirit of jealouſy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be not defiled:

Before Christ 1490.

15 Then ſhall the man bring his wife unto the prieſt, and he ſhall bring her offering for her, the tenth part of an ephah of barley-meal; he ſhall pour no oil upon it, nor put frankincenſe thereon, for it is an offering of jealouſy, an offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to remembrance.

16 And the prieſt ſhall bring her near, and ſet her before the LORD.

17 And the prieſt ſhall take holy water in an earthen veſſel, and of the duſt that is in the floor of the tabernacle the prieſt ſhall take, and put it into the water.

18 And the prieſt ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD, and uncover the womans head, and put the offering of memorial in her hands, which is the jealouſy-offering: and the prieſt ſhall have in his hand the bitter water that cauſeth the curſe.

19 And the prieſt ſhall charge her by an oath, and ſay unto the woman, if no man have lien with thee, and if thou haſt not gone aſide to uncleanneſs with another in ſtead of thy huſband, be thou free from this bitter water that cauſeth the curſe:

Ver. 7. Then they ſhall confeſs.] Or, and if they ſhall confeſs.

Ver. 13. No witneſs againſt her.] No witneſs of her committing the ſin; for if her crime could be proved upon evidence, the woman was not to be tried after the manner here preſcribed, but was to be put to death.

Ver. 14. And he be jealous of his wife.] It was neceſſary that there ſhould appear ſome juſt cauſe for ſuſpicion, before the huſband could oblige his wife to ſubmit to the trial of the bitter water. The rule they laid down was, "If the huſband had ſaid unto his wife, be not thou in "ſecret with ſuch a man; and notwithſtanding the ad"monition, it ſhould be afterwards proved, that ſhe was "in ſecret with that man, he might then compel her to "drink the bitter water."

Ver. 17. Put it into the water.] Or upon the water; for the Hebrews ſay, he put the duſt upon the top of the water, that it might be ſeen upon the ſurface; and as duſt was a ſign of ſorrow and affliction, and this was the duſt of the tabernacle; it taught her to fear judgment from the Lord. The water itſelf with a little duſt on on it, could be no natural cauſe of what ſollowed; neither could it have any tendency to do either good or hurt; but the operation was wholly miraculous.

Ver. 18. Uncover the womans head.] By ſhaving the woman's head, or at leaſt cutting off her curls; they add, that they tore her cloaths down to her breaſt, and tied them with a packthread: Others ſay, that her cloaths were exchanged for a black ſuit, in token of mourning, and in this manner ſhe was expoſed to public view. Theſe circumſtances, they tell us, had ſomething ſo terrible in them to the Jewiſh women, eſpecially ſuch as had any deſire of maintaining their character for chaſtity, that they ſtudied nothing more than to keep themſelves free from any ſuſpicion, that might expoſe them to this trial, which they dreaded worſe than death. Univ. Hiſt.

Ver. 19. The prieſt ſhall charge her by an oath.] That is, he ſhall adjure her in the name of God, to declare the truth, aſſuring her, if ſhe was conſcious of her innocence, ſhe had nothing to fear; but if ſhe was guilty, ſhe muſt expect to ſuffer every thing threatened in the law.

Before Chriſt 1490.

20 But if thou haſt gone aſide to another in ſtead of thy huſband, and if thou be defiled, and ſome man hath lien with thee beſides thine huſband:

21 Then the prieſt ſhall charge the woman with an oath of curſing, and the prieſt ſhall ſay unto the woman, The LORD make thee a curſe and an oath among thy people, when the LORD doth make thy thigh to rot, and thy belly to ſwell;

22 And this water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall go into thy bowels, to make thy belly to ſwell, and thy thigh to rot: And the woman ſhall ſay, Amen, amen.

23 And the prieſt ſhall write theſe curſes in a book, and he ſhall blot them out with the bitter water:

24 And he ſhall cauſe the woman to drink the bitter water that cauſeth the curſe: and the water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, and become bitter.

25 Then the prieſt ſhall take the jealouſy-offering out of the womans hand, and ſhall wave the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar.

Before Chriſt 1490.

26 And the prieſt ſhall take an handful of the offering, even the memorial thereof, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward ſhall cauſe the woman to drink the water.

27 And when he hath made her to drink the water, then it ſhall come to paſs, that if ſhe be defiled, and have done treſpaſs againſt her huſband; that the water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly ſhall ſwell, and her thigh ſhall rot: and the woman ſhall be a curſe among her people.

28 And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean; then ſhe ſhall be free, and ſhall conceive ſeed.

29 This is the law of jealouſies, when a wife goeth aſide to another in ſtead of her huſband, and is defiled;

30 Or when the ſpirit of jealouſy cometh upon him, and he be jealous over his wife, and ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD, and the prieſt ſhall execute upon her all this law.

31 Then ſhall the man be guiltleſs from iniquity, and this woman ſhall bear her iniquity.

CHAP.

Ver. 21. The Lord make thee a curſe.] The Lord make thee ſo dreadful a monument of his vengeance, that it may become a common imprecation to ſay, if I ſwear falſely, may God puniſh me as he did ſuch a woman.

Ver. 23. He ſhall blot them out with the bitter water.] Or, he ſhall blot them out into the bitter water; for he was to ſcrape them into it; or elſe waſh them with it, till they were quite obliterated, that the woman might, as it were, drink the words of the execration.

Ver. 24. He ſhall cauſe the woman to drink.] That is, if ſhe ſaid I am pure, they then proceeded to trial; but in caſe ſhe refuſed to make confeſſion of her guilt, and to drink the bitter water, they compelled her to it: If ſhe ſaid I am defiled, the prieſt then flung down the water, and caſt her offering among the aſhes; and ſhe was not put to death, but was divorced, and loſt her dowry.

Ver. 27. The water that cauſeth the curſe, ſhall enter into her, &c.] The Jews tell us, that if ſhe was guilty, the conſequences were immediately ſeen in her countenance; for ſhe grew pale, and her eyes ſeemed ready to ſtart out of her head; and leſt the temple ſhould be polluted by her death, ſhe was immediately carried out, and died inſtantly, with all the ignominious circumſtances related in the curſe.

Ver. 29. This is the law of jealouſies.] The methods to be obſerved in diſcovering the crime of adultery; but it was never made uſe of after the return of the Jews from the Babyloniſh captivity, and for theſe reaſons firſt, becauſe adulteries became ſo frequent, that the performing the ceremonies on theſe occaſions, would have engroſſed the whole time of the prieſts; and ſecondly, becauſe they deemed it unpardonable to eraze the name of God ſo often in the waters of bitterneſs: Inſtead of which, when the huſband had any juſt ground of ſuſpecting his wife's fidelity, and could produce witneſſes, to depoſe that they had ſeen her privately with the ſuſpected perſon, contrary to the charge of her huſband, ſhe was immediately divorced, and deprived of her dowry.

It is obſervable, that the Jews were not the only people who had recourſe to ſuch portentous and extraordinary methods, for diſcovering the truth, in caſe of ſuſpected guilt. The Heathens had in like manner, their water of conviction, which Philoſtratus informs us, had a mild aſpect, and taſted ſweet to thoſe who had ſworn conſcientiouſly; but had ſuch an effect upon the perjured, that firſt their eyes, their hands, their feet, were affected; and then their whole body broke out into bliſters, and impoſtumes. Dampier ſays, he had been informed by ſeveral who had been in Guinea, that the inhabitants of the Gold coaſt, gave a ſolemn potion, called bitter-water, by way of trial upon any light ſuſpicion of injury, and eſpecially for adultery; and that the event was ſaid to be, if the perſons were guilty, this water

1 The law of the Nazarites. 22 The form of bleſſing the people.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When either man or woman ſhall ſeparate themſelves to vow a vow of a Nazarite, to ſeparate themſelves unto the LORD:

3 He ſhall ſeparate himſelf from wine, and ſtrong drink, and ſhall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of ſtrong drink, neither ſhall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moiſt grapes or dried.

4 All the days of his ſeparation ſhall he eat nothing that is made of the vine-tree, from the kernels even to the huſk.

5 All the days of the vow of his ſeparation, there ſhall no razor come upon his head: until the days be fulfilled in the which he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall be holy; and ſhall let the locks of the hair of his head grow.

6 All the days that he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall come at no dead body.

7 He ſhall not make himſelf unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his ſiſter, when they die: becauſe the conſecration of his God is upon his head.

8 All the days of his ſeparation, he is holy unto the LORD.

9 And if any man die very ſuddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his conſecration; then he ſhall ſhave his head in the day of his cleanſing, on the ſeventh day ſhall he ſhave it.

10 And on the eighth day he ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons to the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

11 And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he ſinned by the dead, and ſhall hallow his head that ſame day.

immediately ſwelled their bodies till they burſt; but if innocent, they were not hurt by it; and adds, that a guilty perſon, ordinarily ſo dreaded the being brought to this trial, that for the moſt part, he or ſhe choſe rather to ſuffer the puniſhment of the country; which is, to be ſold to Europeans as ſlaves. Among our Saxon anceſtors, the manner of trial of fire-ordeal, and others of the ſame kind, had a great affinity to this of the Jews, it being expected that God would work a miracle to clear the innocent, or convict the guilty. Grotius juſtly remarks, that it was no wonder that the Almighty ſhould among his own people, produce a miraculous effect for detecting a moſt heinous crime, and very difficult to be proved; ſince inſtances of the ſame kind, are found in the hiſtory of other nations.

NOTES on Chap. VI.

Ver. 2. When either man or woman ſhall ſeparate themſelves.] A woman might make the vow of a Nazarite, as well as a man; but then ſhe muſt be at her own diſpoſal, and not under the power of a parent or huſband; for by their authority, the vow might be annulled.

A vow of a Nazarite.] The word Nazarite, ſignifies ſeparated; becauſe ſuch as came under this vow, ſeparated themſelves from company, and the gaities and diverſions of the world. There were two ſorts of theſe vows; the one perpetual, for life; the other for a certain time only; the latter of which is here mentioned. It is likely, there were ſome who went under the character of Nazarites, before the making of this law; for the vow is ſpoken of as a thing already known, only the obligation was reduced to a greater certainty.

Ver. 4. From the kernels to the huſk.] That is, no liquor made from any part of the grape.

Ver. 5. There ſhall no razor come upon his head.] He was to let the locks of his hair and beard grow, to ſignify his auſterity, renunciation of the pleaſures of the world, and betaking himſelf to a ſeverer ſort of life. And ſuch perſons not only let their hair grow, but alſo wore an hairy garment, as St. John did; Matt. iii. 4. and Elijah before him, 2 Kings i. 8.

Ver. 7. The conſecration of God is upon his head.] The word which we render conſecration, ſignifies alſo a crown; therefore Le Clerc reads it, the crown of his God is upon his head. So the wiſe man tells us, that the hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteouſneſs. Prov. xvi. 31.

Ver. 9. He hath defiled the head of his conſecration.] As the whole perſon was defiled, conſequently the hair of his head; which therefore was unfit to be offered to God, and burnt to his honour; but the polluted hair was to be ſhaved clean off, that new might grow in its ſtead.

Ver. 11. He ſinned by the dead.] Contracting a legal uncleanneſs, which, though it was involuntary, was a breach of the ceremonial law, and was to be purged after this manner.

Before Chriſt 1490.

12 And he ſhall conſecrate unto the Lord the days of his ſeparation, and ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year for a treſpaſs-offering: but the days that were before ſhall be loſt, becauſe his ſeparation was defiled.

13 ¶ And this is the law of the Nazarite: When the days of his ſeparation are fulfilled, he ſhall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

14 And he ſhall offer his offering unto the Lord, one he-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh, for a burnt-offering, and one ew-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh, for a ſin-offering, and one ram without blemiſh, for peace-offerings,

15 And a baſket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, and wafers of unleavened bread anointed with oil, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings.

16 And the prieſt ſhall bring them before the Lord, and ſhall offer his ſin-offering, and his burnt-offering.

17 And he ſhall offer the ram for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the Lord, with the baſket of unleavened bread: the prieſt ſhall offer alſo his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

18 And the Nazarite ſhall ſhave the head of his ſeparation, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and ſhall take the hair of the head of his ſeparation, and put it in the fire which is under the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings.

19 And the prieſt ſhall take the ſodden ſhoulder of the ram, and one unleavened cake out of the baſket, and one unleavened wafer; and ſhall put them upon the hands of the Nazarite, after the hair of his ſeparation is ſhaven.

Before Chriſt 1490.

20 And the prieſt ſhall wave them for a wave-offering before the Lord: that is holy for the prieſt, with the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder: and after that, the Nazarite may drink wine.

21 This is the law of the Nazarite, who hath vowed, and of his offering unto the Lord for his ſeparation, beſides that that his hand ſhall get: according to the vow which he vowed, ſo he muſt do after the law of his ſeparation.

22 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Speak unto Aaron and unto his ſons, ſaying, On this wiſe ye ſhall bleſs the children of Iſrael, ſaying unto them,

24 The Lord bleſs thee, and keep thee:

25 The Lord make his face ſhine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee:

26 The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace.

27 And they ſhall put my name upon the children of Iſrael, and I will bleſs them.

CHAP. VII.

1 The princes offerings. 89 God ſpeaketh to Moſes.

AND it came to paſs on the day that Moſes had fully ſet up the tabernacle, and had anointed it, and ſanctified it, and all the inſtruments thereof, both the altar and all the veſſels thereof, and had anointed them, and ſanctified them;

2 That the princes of Iſrael, heads of the houſe of their fathers (who were the princes of the tribes, and were over them that were numbered) offered:

Ver. 12. The days that were before ſhall be loſt.] Shall not be reckoned: For, if he had vowed to be a Nazarite for an whole year, and happened to touch a dead carcaſe in the twelfth month, all the preceding eleven months were accounted nothing, but he was to renew his vow for another year.

Ver. 25. The Lord make his face ſhine upon thee.] A metaphor taken from the ſun, whoſe kindly influences cheers and enlivens the face of nature; ſo does the Divine favour ſhine forth upon the ſoul, comforting and cheriſhing it.

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. On the day that Moſes had fully ſet up the tabernacle.] The day after the things relating to the tabernacle, the prieſts, Levites, &c. were finiſhed; the camp formed, and the tribes ranged under their ſeveral ſtandards.

Before Chriſt 1490.

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, ſix covered waggons, and twelve oxen; a waggon for two of the princes, and for each one an ox: and they brought them before the tabernacle.

4 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

5 Take it of them, that they may be to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou ſhalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to his ſervice.

6 And Moſes took the waggons and the oxen, and gave them unto the Levites.

7 Two waggons and four oxen, he gave unto the ſons of Gerſhon, according to their ſervice.

8 And four waggons and eight oxen he gave unto the ſons of Merari, according unto their ſervice, under the hand of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

9 But unto the ſons of Kohath he gave none: becauſe the ſervice of the ſanctuary belonging unto them, was that they ſhould bear upon their ſhoulders.

10 ¶ And the princes offered for dedicating of the altar, in the day that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.

Before Chriſt 1490.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, They ſhall offer the offering, each prince on his day, for the dedicating of the altar.

12 ¶ And he that offered his offering the firſt day, was Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah.

13 And his offering was one ſilver charger, the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

14 One ſpoon of ten ſhekels of gold, full of incenſe:

15 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering:

16 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

17 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

18 ¶ On the ſecond day Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar, prince of Iſſachar, did offer.

Ver. 10. Princes offered for dedicating of the altar.] As there were a great number of ſacrifices offered, it is inferred, that the wilderneſs could not be entirely deſert, but muſt have had paſtures in many places; ſince the Iſraelites had ſtill ſo many cattle, as to be able to ſupply the offerings here mentioned, as well as to celebrate the paſſover which required a very great number both of kids and lambs. Thus we find mention made of the flocks of the Amalekites, and of thoſe of Nabal, in the wilderneſs of Paran. 1 Sam. xv. 9.

Ver. 11. They ſhall offer—each prince on his day.] It is not eaſy to determine abſolutely, when theſe offerings began; though it may be reaſonably computed thus; the tabernacle was erected on the firſt day, of the firſt month, of the ſecond year, after the Iſraelites came out of Egypt. Exod. xl. 17. In the conſecration of that and the altar, &c. were ſpent ſeven days, Chap. xxix. 37. The conſecration of the prieſts began on the eighth day, which laſted ſeven days longer, Levit. viii. 33. The paſſover and the feaſt of unleavened bread, was kept on the fourteenth day, and laſted till the twenty ſecond, Numb. ix 5. The remainder of the month we may ſuppoſe to have been ſpent, in delivering the laws mentioned, in Leviticus. Upon the firſt day of the ſecond month began the numbering of the people, Numb. i. which may be ſuppoſed to have laſted three days: the Levites were numbered on the fourth, Numb. iii. 14. The next day we may imagine they were offered to God, and given to the prieſts. On the ſixth day their conſecration followed, Chap. viii. 7. Their ſeveral charges were delivered on the ſeventh, Chap. iv. After which we may ſuppoſe the princes began to offer on the eighth day, of the ſecond month, which laſted twelve days, that is to ſay, till the nineteenth incluſive, and on the twentieth of the ſecond month, they removed to the wilderneſs of Paran.

Ver. 13. One ſilver charger.] All the veſſels of the ſanctuary were of gold; this charger therefore or broad diſh, ſeems to have been deſigned for the altar of burnt-offerings in the court of the tabernacle: its uſe it is likely, was to receive the fleſh, which was offered at the altar, or the fine flour for meat-offerings.

An hundred and thirty ſhekels.] Or, about ſixty-five ounces.

9 And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou ſhalt gather the whole aſſembly of the children of Iſrael together:

10 And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the LORD, and the children of Iſrael ſhall put their hands upon the Levites:

11 And Aaron ſhall offer the Levites before the LORD, for an offering of the children of Iſrael; that they may execute the ſervice of the LORD.

12 And the Levites ſhall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks: and thou ſhalt offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites.

13 And thou ſhalt ſet the Levites before Aaron, and before his ſons, and offer them for an offering unto the LORD.

14 Thus ſhalt thou ſeparate the Levites from among the children of Iſrael: and the Levites ſhall be mine.

15 And after that ſhall the Levites go in, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou ſhalt cleanſe them, and offer them for an offering.

Ver. 2. Shall give light over againſt the candleſtick.] Or, ſhall ſhine from before the face of the candleſtick; i. e. ſhall give light to every part of the room; for the ſanctuary had no windows, and conſequently no light, but what proceeded from the lamps placed on the candleſtick.

Ver. 3. He lighted the lamps thereof.] They uſed to light the middlemoſt lamp from the fire on the altar, and then all the others were lighted from that lamp.

Over againſt the candleſtick.] Or, he lighted the lamps placed on all the branches of the candleſtick. Maimonides ſays, that the ſix lamps which were faſtened on the branches, which proceeded from the candleſtick, had all of them their faces, and their wicks, turned towards the middlemoſt lamp, which was on the body of the candleſtick.

Ver. 7. Sprinkle water of purifying upon them.] Water of purification from ſin; which was prepared with the aſhes of a red heifer, that had been offered up for a burnt-offering, Chap. xix. 17.

Ver. 10. The children of Iſrael ſhall put their hands upon the Levites.] The children of Iſrael by this ſign, expreſſed their ſeparating the Levites to the ſervice of the ſanctuary, inſtead of their firſt-born; and their transferring to the former, the charge which would otherwiſe have belonged to the latter.

Ver. 11. Aaron ſhall offer, &c.] In the Hebrew, Shall wave the Levites for a wave-offering. Le Clerc conjectures, that they were only preſented before God at the altar, or went round about it at Aaron's command; for the word often ſignifies to offer in general.

Ver. 14. The Levites ſhall be mine.] They were to attend wholly on the ſervice of the tabernacle, as God's peculiar ſervants, and mininſters; and for that reaſon they were exempted from all taxes and military ſervices.

Ver. 15. Thou ſhalt cleanſe them.] It ought to be rendered, after thou haſt cleanſed them.

Before Chriſt 1490.

16 For they are wholly given unto me from among the children of Iſrael; in ſtead of ſuch as open every womb, even in ſtead of the firſt-born of all the children of Iſrael, have I taken them unto me.

17 For all the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael are mine, both man and beaſt: on the day that I ſmote every firſt-born in the land of Egypt, I ſanctified them for myſelf.

18 And I have taken the Levites for all the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael.

19 And I have given the Levites as a gift to Aaron, and to his ſons, from among the children of Iſrael; to do the ſervice of the children of Iſrael in the tabernacle of the congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Iſrael: that there be no plague among the children of Iſrael, when the children of Iſrael, come nigh unto the ſanctuary.

20 And Moſes and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael did to the Levites according unto all that the Lord commanded Moſes concerning the Levites, ſo did the children of Iſrael unto them.

21 And the Levites were purified, and they waſhed their clothes: and Aaron offered them as an offering before the Lord: and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanſe them.

22 And after that went the Levites in, to do their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron, and before his ſons: as the Lord had commanded Moſes concerning the Levites, ſo did they unto them.

23 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

24 This is it that belongeth unto the Levites: from twenty and five years old and upward, they ſhall go in to wait upon the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation:

25 And from the age of fifty years they ſhall ceaſe waiting upon the ſervice thereof, and ſhall ſerve no more:

26 But ſhall miniſter with their brethren in the tabernacle of the congregation, to keep the charge, and ſhall do no ſervice. Thus ſhalt thou do unto the Levites touching their charge.

CHAP. IX.

1 The paſſover enjoined. 15 A cloud guideth the Iſraelites.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, in the firſt month of the ſecond year, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 Let the children of Iſrael alſo keep the paſſover at his appointed ſeaſon.

3 In the fourteenth day of this month at even, ye ſhall keep it in his appointed ſeaſon: according to all the rites of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof ſhall ye keep it.

4 And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould keep the paſſover.

5 And they kept the paſſover on the fourteenth day of the firſt month at even, in the wilderneſs of Sinai: according to all that the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo did the children of Iſrael.

Ver. 26. And ſhall do no ſervice.] That is, they ſhall not do any ſervile work, but only ſhall inſtruct others how ſuch work is to be done.

Ver. 5. They kept the paſſover on the fourteenth of the firſt month at even, in the wilderneſs.] Where they reſted near upon an whole year. This was the ſecond time of their keeping this feaſt, after their coming out of Egypt; and the laſt time of their keeping it, till they entered into the land of Canaan.

7 And thoſe men ſaid unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed ſeaſon among the children of Iſrael?

8 And Moſes ſaid unto them, Stand ſtill, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If any man of you or of your poſterity ſhall be unclean by reaſon of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he ſhall keep the paſſover unto the LORD.

11 The fourteenth day of the ſecond month at even they ſhall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

12 They ſhall leave none of it unto the morning, nor break any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the paſſover, they ſhall keep it.

13 But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the paſſover; even the ſame ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people, becauſe he brought not the offering of the LORD in his appointed ſeaſon: that man ſhall bear his ſin.

14 And if a ſtranger ſhall ſojourn among you, and will keep the paſſover unto the LORD, according to the ordinance of the paſſover, and according to the manner thereof, ſo ſhall he do: ye ſhall have one ordinance, both for the ſtranger, and for him that was born in the land. Before Chriſt 1490.

15 ¶ And on the day that the tabernacle was reared up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the teſtimony: and at even there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance of fire, until the morning.

16 So it was alway: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

17 And when the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle; then after that the children of Iſrael journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Iſrael pitched their tents.

18 At the commandment of the LORD the children of Iſrael journeyed, and at the commandment of the LORD they pitched: as long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle they reſted in the tents.

19 And when the cloud tarried long upon the tabernacle many days, then the children of Iſrael kept the charge of the LORD, and journeyed not.

20 And ſo it was when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment

Ver. 7. Wherefore are we kept back, &c.] The law of the paſſover, required every Iſraelite to eat of it; but they who had contracted any ceremonial pollution, were by the ſubſequent laws, forbid to eat of the holy things: Here then was a very difficult dilemma, for if they neglected to come to this ſacred ordinance, they were guilty of a contempt of it; and if they came polluted, they were guilty of a profanation of it; ſo that it was neceſſary, and a proof their wiſdom, to lay their complaint before Moſes.

Ver. 8. I will hear what the Lord will command.] I will go into the ſanctuary, and conſult the oracle of God.

Ver. 10. If a man be unclean by reaſon of a dead body, &c.] And the ſame is likewiſe to be underſtood of all other caſes of legal uncleanneſs.

Ver. 13. Shall be cut off.] Shall be ſeparated from the community, either by death, baniſhment, or excommunication; though it is generally thought to ſignify a cutting off by death.

Ver. 14. If a ſtranger.] Here is a clauſe added in favour of ſtrangers. This kind admiſſion of thoſe who were not native Iſraelites, (though it was neceſſary they ſhould be circumciſed) to eat of the paſſover, was an intimation of the favour God deſigned to beſtow upon the Gentiles at the coming of Chriſt; namely, that he would make of Jew and Gentile one people.

Ver. 16. The cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.] That which appeared like a cloud by day, appeared as a fire all night; a cloud only, had not been viſible in the night; nor would a fire have been ſo conſpicuous and diſcernable in the day time.

Before Chriſt 1490. commandment of the LORD they journeyed.

21 And ſo it was when the cloud abode from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed: whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed.

22 Or whether it were two days, or a month, or a year that the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, remaining thereon, the children of Iſrael abode in their tents, and journeyed not: but when it was taken up, they journeyed.

23 At the commandment of the LORD they reſted in the tents, and at the commandment of the LORD they journeyed: they kept the charge of the LORD, at the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. X.

1 The uſe of the trumpets. 35 Moſes his bleſſing.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, saying,

2 Make thee two trumpets of ſilver; of an whole piece ſhalt thou make them: that thou mayeſt uſe them for the calling of the aſſembly, and for the journeying of the camps. Before Chriſt 1490.

3 And when they ſhall blow with them, all the aſſembly ſhall aſſemble themſelves to thee, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

4 And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes, which are heads of the thouſands of Iſrael, ſhall gather themſelves unto thee.

5 When ye blow an alarm, then the camps that lie on the eaſt-parts ſhall go forward.

6 When you blow an alarm the ſecond time, then the camps that lie on the ſouth ſide, ſhall take their journey: they ſhall blow an alarm for their journeys.

7 But when the congregation is to be gathered together; you ſhall blow, but you ſhall not ſound an alarm.

8 And the ſons of Aaron, the prieſts, ſhall blow with the trumpets; and they ſhall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

9 And if ye go to war in your land againſt the enemy that oppreſſeth you, then

Ver. 21. Whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed.] However impatient the people might be to arrive at the promiſed land, in which they expected the enjoyment of ſo many temporal bleſſings; and however tedious their journies proved, we never find them (though otherwiſe refractory enough) murmuring when this ſignal was made them, let it happen by night or day. As long, and as far as the cloud moved, ſo long, and ſo far they marched; and juſt where it continued, they pitched their tents.

Ver. 23. They kept the charge.] That is the watch. In the Hebrew, obſerved the obſervation. There were centinels appointed to ſtand day and night, within view of the cloud of fire, to give timely notice to the camp of its beginning to riſe, and alſo when it ſtood ſtill.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 2. Make thee two trumpets.] For the two prieſts, Eleazar and Ithamar, the ſons of Aaron: Afterwards, as the prieſts were increaſed, ſo were the number of trumpets. In Solomon's time, we read of an hundred and twenty prieſts, ſounding with trumpets. 2 Chr. v 12.

Ver. 3. When they ſhall blow with them.] When the prieſts ſhall blow an equal and uniform ſound.

Ver. 5. When ye blow an alarm.] That is, a quick, broken, and quavering ſound.

Ver. 7. When the congregation is to be gathered together, you ſhall blow; but—not ſound an alarm.] An alarm was ordered to be ſounded in the former caſe, becauſe a broken, ſharp ſound, was fitteſt to ſtir up and encourage the minds of the people to riſe, and march forward, in battle againſt the Canaanites; but when the congregation was to be aſſembled, then it was ordered, they ſhould blow a continued, equal ſound, as being beſt adapted to the quiet aſſembling of the people.

Ver. 8. The ſons of Aaron ſhall blow with the trumpets.] Only the prieſts were appointed to this office; that the people might bear the greater regard to the ſoundings, as hearing God calling upon them by his miniſters, to attend his ſummons.

For ever.] Namely, as long as your eſtabliſhment laſts.

ye ſhall blow an alarm with the trumpets: and ye ſhall be remembered before the LORD your God, and ye ſhall be ſaved from your enemies.

10 Alſo in the day of your gladneſs, and in your ſolemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye ſhall blow with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings; that they may be to you for a memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God.

11 ¶ And it came to paſs on the twentieth day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of the teſtimony.

12 And the children of Iſrael took their journeys out of the wilderneſs of Sinai; and the cloud reſted in the wilderneſs of Paran.

13 And they firſt took their journey, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

14 ¶ In the firſt place went the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Judah according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

15 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, was Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

Before Chriſt 1490.

16 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, was Eliab the ſon of Helon.

17 And the tabernacle was taken down; and the ſons of Gerſhon, and the ſons of Merari ſet forward, bearing the tabernacle.

18 ¶ And the ſtandard of the camp of Reuben ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Elizur the ſon of Shedeur.

19 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Simeon, was Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

20 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.

21 And the Kohathites ſet forward, bearing the ſanctuary; and the other did ſet up the tabernacle againſt they came.

22 ¶ And the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Ephraim ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud.

23 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, was Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

24 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, was Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

25 ¶ And the ſtandard of the camp of the raelites going to war, they were called together, to implore a bleſſing on their arms; and a faſt was proclaimed by the ſound of trumpet, at the ſame time that an alarm of war was ſounded. Blow ye the trumpet in Zion, ſays the prophet, ſanctify a faſt, call a ſolemn aſſembly. Joel ii. 15.

Ye ſhall be remembered.] The trumpets were ſounded by the command of God; and was therefore a kind of call upon him for aſſiſtance. Accordingly we find, that when Judah ſaw themſelves beſet with dangers before and behind, they cried unto the Lord, and the prieſts ſounded with the trumpets, &c. 2 Chron. xiii. 14.

Ver. 10. That they may be to you for a memorial.] Exciting you to worſhip God with earneſtneſs and fervor.

Ver. 12. The wilderneſs of Paran.] The wilderneſs of Paran, is thought by Dr. Wells, to ſignify in a ſtrict ſenſe, that part of the deſart of Arabia only, between Hazaroth on the weſt, and mount Seir on the eaſt; but in a larger ſenſe, to denote all the deſart, lying between the wilderneſs of Shur weſtward, towards Egypt; and mount Seir, or the land of Edom, eaſtward; and between the land of Canaan northward, and the Red ſea ſouthward; in which ſenſe it comprehended Kibroth, Hattaavah, and Hazzaroth, and ſeems to be meant by Moſes in this place, and alſo Deut. i. 19.

Ver. 17. The tabernacle was taken down.] The taking down and removing the tabernacle, ſignified the inſtability of that legal, figurative worſhip, the unſettled ſtate of the church, and all its members in this world; as alſo the removal of the church from one place and nation to another, from Jews to Gentiles.

Ver. 21. The other did ſet up the tabernacle againſt they came.] The Gerſhonites and Merarites, who before had ſet forward with the waggons, bearing the boards, pillars, &c. of the ſanctuary, between the ſtandard of Judah and Reuben.

the children of Dan ſet forward, which was the rére-ward of all the camps throughout their hoſts: and over his hoſt was Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

26 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Aſher, was Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

27 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, was Ahira the ſon of Enan.

28 Thus were the journeyings of the children of Iſrael, according to their armies, when they ſet forward.

29 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Hobab the ſon of Raguel the Midianite, Moſes father in law, We are journeying unto the place of which the Lord ſaid, I will give it you: come thou with us, and we will do thee good: for the Lord hath ſpoken good concerning Iſrael.

30 And he ſaid unto him, I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred.

31 And he ſaid, Leave us not, I pray thee; foraſmuch as thou knoweſt how we are to encamp in the wilderneſs, and thou mayeſt be to us in ſtead of eyes.

32 And it ſhall be, if thou go with us, yea, it ſhall be, that what goodneſs the Lord ſhall do unto us, the ſame will we do unto thee.

Before Chriſt 1490.

33 ¶ And they departed from the mount of the Lord three days journey: and the ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them in the three days journey, to ſearch out a reſting-place for them.

34 The cloud of the Lord was upon them by day, when they went out of the camp.

35 And it came to paſs when the ark ſet forward, that Moſes ſaid, Riſe up, Lord, and let thine enemies be ſcattered; and let them that hate thee, flee before thee.

36 And when it reſted, he ſaid, Return, O Lord, unto the many thouſands of Iſrael.

Manna lothed. 16 Seventy elders. 31 Quails given.

AND when the people complained, it diſpleaſed the Lord: and the Lord heard it; and his anger was kindled; and the fire of the Lord burnt among them, and conſumed them that were in the uttermoſt parts of the camp.

2 And the people cried unto Moſes; and when Moſes prayed unto the Lord, the fire was quenched.

Ver. 29. Hobab the ſon of Raguel.] Raguel is another name for Jethro, who being returned to his country, Hobab his ſon, and the brother of Moſes's wife, had accompanied Moſes all the time the Iſraelites encamped at Sinai, not far from Midian; but ſince the people were now marching towards Canaan, he was deſirous of returning to his father.

Ver. 31. Leave us not.] Moſes urges this requeſt with ſome warmth; becauſe that Hobab living on the borders of the wilderneſs, was conſequently acquainted with every part of it, and able to ſhew them the conveniences and inconveniences of the places they paſt through, and to adviſe them how to conduct themſelves, in caſe of being attacked by the neighbouring nations. But there is alſo another interpretation of this paſſage. Leave us not, for we cannot make thee amends for doing ſo many kind offices for us, and ſharing our hardſhips in the wilderneſs, unleſs thou go with us to the promiſed land.

Thou mayeſt be to us inſtead of eyes.] Or, as a guide to the blind. The Syriac has it, thou ſhalt be dear to us as our eyes.

Ver. 33. The ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them.] Or, the ark of the Lord marched in their preſence; the cloud being over it in the midſt of their army.

To ſearch out a reſting place.] That is, to direct them where to find one.

Notes on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. The people complained.] They began ſecretly to murmur among themſelves, being weary of living on manna; and wanting a variety of food.

The fire of the Lord burnt among them.] Some underſtand this of lightning which is called the fire of God, 2 Kings, i. 12. Job, i. 16. proceeding either immediately from Heaven, or from the pillar of the cloud: others think it might be one of thoſe hot blighting winds, common in the deſerts of Arabia, and which the prophet ſpeaks of Ezek. xix. 12.

Ver. 2. Was quenched.] That is, ceaſed from deſtroying.

Before Chriſt 1490.

3 And he called the name of the place Taberah: becauſe the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

4 ¶ And the mixt multitude that was among them, fell a luſting: and the children of Iſrael alſo wept again, and ſaid, Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat?

5 We remember the fiſh which we did eat in Egypt freely; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlick:

6 But now our ſoul is dried away; there is nothing at all, beſides this manna, before our eyes.

7 And the manna was as coriander-ſeed, and the colour thereof as the colour of bdellium.

8 And the people went about, and gathered it and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and the taſte of it was as the taſte of freſh oil.

9 And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

10 ¶ Then Moſes heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent: and the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly; Moſes alſo was diſpleaſed.

Before Chriſt 1490.

11 And Moſes ſaid unto the the LORD, Wherefore haſt thou afflicted thy ſervant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy ſight, that thou layeſt the burden of all this people upon me?

12 Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay unto me, Carry them in thy boſom (as a nurſing-father beareth the ſucking child) unto the land which thou ſwareſt unto their fathers?

13 Whence ſhould I have fleſh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, ſaying, Give us fleſh that we may eat.

14 I am not able to bear all this people alone, becauſe it is too heavy for me.

15 And if thou deal thus with me, kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy ſight; and let me not ſee my wretchedneſs.

16 ¶ And

Ver. 3. Taberah.] That is, burning.

Ver. 5. We remember the fiſh.] The Egyptian proſelytes appear to have been the fomenters of this murmuring, and to have ſpread the ſpirit of diſſention among the Iſraelites, openly reproaching their deliverer, as having decoyed them from a very plentiful country, abounding with a variety of delicious fiſh, ſuch as the lake Mæris, and the river Nile in Egypt were famed for; and a rich ſoil, producing the beſt herbs, ſallads, and fruits; all which they had now exchanged for a miſerable ſtarving condition. and had nothing but manna to cloy them—A ſtrong picture of the ſlaviſh, and illiberal, as well as diſcontented, and ungrateful ſpirit of the Jewiſh nation; for ought not this people to have remembered likewiſe, how they ſighed while they were in Egypt, by reaſon of the bondage? and if they remembred the fiſh, the cucumbers, and the melons; they ſhould have reflected at the ſame time, on the brick-kilns, and the taſk-maſters, the voice of the oppreſſor, and the ſmart of the whip.

Ver. 6. Our ſoul is dried away.] Our life and ſtrength is diſſipated.

Ver. 7. Coriander ſeed.] The coriander in botany, is a genus of the pentandria digynia claſs of plants; the fruit is a ſpherical, ſtriated berry, and contains two hemiſpherical ſeeds, of an ageeable aromatic ſmell and pleaſant taſte. Two of them joined together by their flat ſides. repreſent a ſphere, and are about the ſize of a pea.

The colour thereof as the colour of bdellium.] The Arabic bdellium was of a whitiſh yellow, which is agreeable to the deſcription of the manna in Exodus, which was like coriander ſeed white, &c. chap. xvi. 31.

Ver. 8. The taſte of it was like the taſte of freſh oil.] Newly fallen, it had the taſte of honey; but when prepared by boiling or baking, it taſted like freſh oil; it was at once ſoft as oil, and ſweet as honey.

Ver. 10. The anger of the Lord.] We are not to underſtand this, and the like paſſages of ſcripture in a literal ſenſe; for God is not moved or actuated by paſſion; but ſuch expreſſions are only accommodated to our capacities, and manner of ſpeaking.

Ver. 12. Thou ſhouldeſt ſay unto me, carry them in thy boſom, as a nurſing father beareth the ſucking child.] Thou haſt made me as it were their common father, ſo that I cannot help feeling their grievances, and being anxiouſly concerned for them, as a tender parent for his child. notwithſtanding their peeviſhneſs. Such ought to be the tenderneſs, ſuch the paternal affection, of princes towards their people.

18 And ſay thou unto the people, Sanctify yourſelves againſt to morrow, and ye ſhall eat fleſh (for you have wept in the ears of the LORD, ſaying, Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt) therefore the LORD will give you fleſh, and ye ſhall eat.

19 Ye ſhall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days;

20 But even a whole month, until it come out at your noſtrils, and it be lothſome unto you: becauſe that ye have deſpiſed the LORD which is among you, and have wept before him, ſaying, Why came we forth out of Egypt?

22 Shall the flocks and the herds be ſlain for them, to ſuffice them? or ſhall all the fiſh of the ſea be gathered together for them, to ſuffice them?

23 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Is the LORDS hand waxed ſhort? thou ſhalt ſee now whether my word ſhall come to paſs unto thee, or not.

not live to ſee the miſeries, which they are inevitably drawing upon themſelves, by their perverſneſs, while the enemies of God inſult over them, and rejoice in their deſtruction.

Ver. 16. Seventy of the elders of Iſrael.] Notwithſtanding there had been aſſiſting magiſtrates conſtituted by the advice of Jethro, it is likely they were appointed only to hear and determine in ſmaller cauſes; but the weighty points, and the laſt appeals, even in ſmaller matters, were ſtill left upon Moſes: therefore choice was made of theſe ſeventy elders, i. e. in dignity, to eaſe him of his burden; men whoſe age, experience, and education, rendered them venerable; and who were of ſuperior capacities and underſtandings, and aſſiſted by the ſpirit of God. The Jews, as well as ſome chriſtians, Grotius in particular, will have this aſſembly of the ſeventy elders, to be the ſame with that famous council, which afterwards obtained the name of SANHEDRIM; though others think, they only aſſiſted Moſes during their abode in the wilderneſs, and that their aſſembly terminated at their entrance into the land of Canaan.

Ver. 18. Sanctify yourſelves.] Make ready to receive this preſent from God with gratitude.

Ver. 20. Until it come out at your noſtrils.] Until your impatient appetites be glutted, and you are convinced to your ſhame, of your monſtrous ingratitude to God.

Ver. 22. The ſea.] That is, the Red ſea; which was not far off.

Ver. 23. Is the Lord's hand waxed ſhort?] Is not the ſame omnipotence that created the world, the ſame power that divided the ſea, and opened the rocks, ſtill able to procure bread for his people?

Ver. 25. Took of the ſpirit that was upon him and gave it to the ſeventy elders.] That is, beſtowed upon them the gifts of inſpiration or prophecy, viz. an uncommon power of words.

They propheſied.] They employed their wiſdom in perſuading the people to reſignation to the will of Jehovah, and to the conduct of his ſervant Moſes.

And did not ceaſe. Or, more agreeable to the original; and added not, that is, they propheſied that day, but not afterwards.

27 And there ran a young man, and told Moſes, and ſaid, Eldad and Medad do propheſy in the camp.

28 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of Moſes, one of his young men anſwered and ſaid, My lord Moſes, forbid them.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, Envieſt thou for my ſake? would God that all the LORDS people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his ſpirit upon them.

30 And Moſes gat him into the camp, he and the elders of Iſrael.

31 ¶ And there went forth a wind from the LORD, and brought quails from the ſea, and let them fall by the camp, as it were a days journey on this ſide, and as it were a days journey on the other ſide, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high, upon the face of the earth.

Before Chriſt 1490.

32 And the people ſtood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: he that gathered leaſt, gathered ten homers: and they ſpread them all abroad for themſelves round about the camp.

33 And while the fleſh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed; the wrath of the LORD was kindled againſt the people, and the LORD ſmote the people with a very great plague.

while the reſt were aſſembled, ſuch as a ceremonial pollution; but moſt think they declined coming to the tabernacle out of an exceſs of modeſty and humility.

Ver. 28. My lord Moſes, forbid them.] Some have thought that Joſhua was himſelf one of the ſeventy, and that this made him zealous for the honour of the order, deſiring they might be reſtrained; ſince he took it for granted they were not inſpired as the reſt were.

Ver. 29. Envieſt Thou?] Moſes reproves his adviſer, and rejects his counſel; becauſe, ſuppoſing they had been guilty of, an irregularity, Joſhua was too warm upon them. Our zeal ſhould always be tempered with meekneſs and wiſdom.

Would God that all the Lords people were prophets.] That they were all inſpired to ſing the praiſes of Jehovah, and recommend virtue and religion one to another: But then, he wiſhes that the Lord would put his ſpirit upon them, and would not have thoſe ſet up for prophets, who are not duly qualified. Let thoſe vain, formal, and illiterate pretenders conſider this, who intrude themſelves into the ſacred office.

Ver. 31. There went forth a wind from the Lord.] A ſouth wind, Pſalm lxxviii. From the Lord, becauſe directed by his providence.

And brought quails from the ſea, &c.] In like manner as before, Exod. xvi. 13. God thought proper to ſend them quails both times; not but he could as eaſily have provided other kinds of proviſion, ſeeing all the beaſts of the foreſt are his, and ſo are the cattle upon a thouſand hills: but he had no mind to pamper their appetites with a needleſs variety, or to multiply miracles without a juſt occaſion. Some commentators indeed have imagined, that God did here give them that variety they luſted after, becauſe the original word ſignifies both locuſts and quails; but this interpretation ſeems not juſt, for the reaſon aſſigned in note on Exod. chap. xvi. ver. 13. Both theſe events happened in the ſpring, when as it has been already taken notice of in that place, quails (which are found in great quantities upon the coaſts of the Red ſea) paſs from Aſia into Europe. God cauſed a wind to ariſe, which forcibly drove them in their flight towards the camp of the Iſraelites. According to the eaſtern tradition, the wind was ſo violent, that it broke their wings, cauſing them to fall at a convenient diſtance, and in a proper condition to be taken up.

Ver. 32. Ten homers.] This quantity, it is likely, is to be taken indefinitely, as is common in ſcripture; and then it means, he who gathered leaſt gathered them in heaps.

Ver. 33. The wrath of the Lord was kindled.] Becauſe it was not with them now as before; when they firſt murmured, they were really in want of proviſion, and therefore God pitied their diſtreſs, and ſent them a ſupply; but now they complained not out of need, but wantonneſs; ſince they had a plenty of manna.

Ver. 34. Kibroth-hattaavah.] Or, the graves of luſt.

5 And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth.

6 And he ſaid, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myſelf known unto him in a viſion, and will ſpeak unto him in a dream.

Before Chriſt 1490.

8 With him will I ſpeak mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark ſpeeches; and the ſimilitude of the LORD ſhall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to ſpeak againſt my ſervant Moſes?

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt them, and he departed.

10 And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle, and behold, Miriam became leprous, white as ſnow: And Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold, ſhe was leprous.

11 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Alas, my lord, I beſeech thee, lay not the ſin upon us, wherein we have done fooliſhly, and wherein we have ſinned.

12 Let

Miriam in contempt, called an Ethiopian though it ſhould be rendered the Cuſhite, or Arabian woman; ſhe being a native of Midian, a diſtrict of Arabia.

Ver. 2. And they ſaid, Hath the Lord indeed ſpoken only by Moſes, &c.] It is conjectured that this difference between Moſes, his brother, and ſiſter, aroſe from hence—When Jethro his father-in-law was in the camp, Moſes at his inſtigation, inſtituted judges to determine inferior cauſes; and afterwards finding his ſon Hobab very ſerviceable to him, he intreated him to continue with him, repoſing great confidence in him: in the preceeding chapter too, we read that ſeventy elders were nominated by Moſes, without conſulting Aaron and Miriam; therefore this ſtory of their quarrel being immediately ſubjoined, it looks as if they thought themſelves neglected, and that they were angry becauſe their advice was not aſked, in an affair of ſuch importance; but being afraid to charge Moſes directly, they vented their ſpleen upon his wife, and gave her opprobrious names, and it may be too, complained to the people of the too great influence, which Zipporah and Hobab had over Moſes.

Ver. 3. Now the man Moſes was very meek.] Let none wonder to hear Moſes ſpeak in his own praiſe, ſince it was what was common among the heroes of antiquity. An encomium on a man's ſelf, can be no breach of modeſty, when, as it was here, it ſerves as a neceſſary vindication of himſelf from calumny and detraction.

Ver. 6. Will make myſelf known unto him in a viſion, &c.] Though there were ſeveral others who did partake of the prophetic inſpirations, yet they were not ſo ſtrongly communicated to them, ſince they were received in dreams or viſions only.

Ver. 7. My ſervant Moſes is not ſo.] He is a prophet of an higher rank, to whom I impart my mind in a far more noble and extenſive manner; who in his interview with God, is not intranced in viſions, but is always awake and perfect maſter of himſelf.

Who is faithful in all mine houſe.] Who executed the divine commands with great exactneſs, doing nothing of himſelf, as he was now faſlly accuſed. Moſes in this, was a type of Chriſt, who is head of the church, though with a far greater extent of power and authority, Heb. iii. 2.

Ver. 8. With him will I ſpeak mouth to mouth.] In a familiar way, as one friend ſpeaks to another.

The ſimilitude of the Lord ſhall be behold.] This as we tranſlate it, is directly contrary to what Moſes himſelf expreſsly declares, Deut. iv. 15. that he ſaw no ſimilitude; therefore it ſhould be rendered as follows, being connected with the foregoing words: not in dark ſpeeches, and in a figure, ſhall he behold the Lord.

Ver. 10. The cloud departed from off the tabernacle.] Standing at a diſtance, till Miriam was removed from the tabernacle, and carried out of the camp.

Miriam became leprous.] Which leproſy did not proceed, as was the uſual caſe, from a previous ill diſpoſition of the blood and juices, but it ſeized her inſtantaneouſly, and was turned ſuddenly into that infinity of ſmall imperceptible, and corroding worms, which naturally were the more immediate cauſe of that diſtemper—a fit puniſhment for her pride and detraction!

Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold ſhe was leprous.] Aaron was appointed to be a judge of leproſy, which office he could not have performed, had he been a leper himſelf. And the reaſon why the ſame puniſhment was not inflicted upon him, ſeems to have been, becauſe that as he was ſo lately conſecrated an high-prieſt, God did not think fit for the preſervation of his authority, ſo ſoon to render him vile and contemptible in the eyes of the people: it is thought too not improbable, that Miriam might be the firſt in the tranſgreſſion, and that ſhe drew Aaron (who ſeems in other inſtances a perſon of too much facility) over to her party.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 2. Send thoſe men, that they may ſearch the land.] From Deut. i. 22, 23. it appears, that the people firſt of all requeſted that ſpies might be ſent; therefore ſeeing it is here ſaid, that God directed Moſes to ſend them, it ſeems to ſignify, that Moſes conſulting God upon this occaſion, he allowed him to gratify the people in this matter, and to permit them to walk in their own counſels. They had a better opinion of their own politics, than God's wiſdom; for they would not take his word, that it was a good land; nor would they truſt the pillar of the cloud to direct them in the way to it. So apt are men to walk by ſight, rather than by faith; but ſure, if we receive the witneſs of men, the witneſs of God is greater.

Ver. 16. Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun, Jehoſhua.] When he went to fight the Amalekites, Exod. xvii. 9. he was called Joſhua, a word of the ſame import with Jeſus, which ſignifies a ſaviour; and he is more than once called by that name in the Septuagint tranſlation. He was too, a type of Chriſt; for as he led the Iſraelites into Canaan, ſo does our bleſſed Saviour bring us to the Heavenly Canaan, the reſt which remaineth for the people of God.

Before Christ 1490. Get you up this way ſouthward, and go up into the mountain:

18 And ſee the land what it is, and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be ſtrong or weak, few or many;

19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in ſtrong holds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land (now the time was the time of the firſt-ripe grapes.)

21 ¶ So they went up, and ſearched the land, from the wilderneſs of Zin, unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath.

22 And they aſcended by the ſouth, and came unto Hebron; where Ahiman, Sheſhai, and Talmai, the children of Anak were (now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt.)

23 And they came unto the brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

24 The place was called the brook Eſhcol, becauſe of the cluſter of grapes which the children of Iſrael cut down from thence.

Before Christ 1490.

25 And they returned from ſearching of the land after forty days.

26 ¶ And they went and came to Moſes, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Iſrael unto the wilderneſs of Paran, to Kadeſh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and ſhewed them the fruit of the land.

27 And they told him, and ſaid, We came unto the land whither thou ſenteſt us, and ſurely it floweth with milk and hony; and this is the fruit of it.

28 Nevertheleſs, the people be ſtrong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover, we ſaw the children of Anak there.

29 The Amalekites dwell in the land of the ſouth; and the Hittites, and the Jebuſites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains: and the Canaanites dwell by the ſea, and by the coaſt of Jordan.

Ver. 22. The children of Anak.] A gigantic race of men, who took their name from Anak their founder: They were ſo terrible to their neighbours, that it was a proverbial ſaying among them, Who can ſtand before the children of Anak?

Ver. 23. A branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bear it between two upon a ſtaff.] Both on account of its weight, and to preſerve it from bruiſing. That there are vines and grapes of a prodigious ſize, in the eaſtern and ſouthern parts of the world, is recorded by ſeveral writers. Strabo, for inſtance, tells us, that in Margiana, and the neighbouring countries, there were vines ſo very thick, that two men could ſcarce fathom them, and that they produced bunches of grapes of two cubits long, Pliny, that in the inland parts of Africa, there are bunches bigger than young children. Olearius, in his travels into Perſia, informs us, that not far from Aſtracan, he ſaw vines which a man could hardly graſp with both his arms. The learned Huetius ſays, that in Crete, Chios, and other iſlands of the Archiepelago, there are bunches of grapes, from ten to forty pounds weight.

Ver. 30. Let us go up at once and poſſeſs it.] Such was the confidence of Caleb, that he made no doubt of conqueſt; therefore he ſaid not, let us go up and conquer it, but, let us go up at once and poſſeſs it, as if it was already conquered.

32 And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had ſearched, unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land through which we have gone to ſearch it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and all the people that we ſaw in it are men of a great ſtature.

33 And there we ſaw the giants the ſons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own ſight as graſhoppers, and ſo we were in their ſight.

CHAP. XIV.

The people murmuring at the report are threatened.

AND all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept that night.

2 And all the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron: and the whole congregation ſaid unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt, or would God we had died in this wilderneſs.

3 And wherefore hath the LORD brought us unto this land, to fall by the ſword, that our wives and our children ſhould be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

4 And they ſaid one to another, Let us make a captain, and let us return into Egypt.

5 Then Moſes and Aaron fell on their faces before all the aſſembly of the congregation of the children of Iſrael.

6 ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of them that ſearched the land, rent their clothes.

7 And they ſpake unto all the company of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land which we paſſed through to ſearch it, is an exceeding good land.

8 If the LORD delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us: a land which floweth with milk and hony.

9 Only rebel not ye againſt the LORD, neither fear ye the people of the land; for they are bread for us: their defence is departed from them, and the LORD is with us: fear them not.

Ver. 32. A land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof.] An expreſſion which ſeems to relate to the vaſt number of inhabitants, and to ſignify they were ſo very numerous, that the land was ſcarce ſufficient for their maintenance.

Ver. 33. We were in our own ſight as graſhoppers, &c.] This is an hyperbole, and appears with great ſtrength and beauty.

NOTES on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 1. All the congregation lifted up their voice and cried.] Nothing but lamentations was to be heard, and grievous complaints of the ſad condition of themſelves and families; who as they falſely imagined, after all their hardſhips, were now to be expoſed to the mercy of their cruel enemies.

Ver. 3. Wherefore hath the Lord brought us unto this land?] They not only accuſe Moſes, but even God himſelf, as if he had dealt deceitfully with them.

Ver. 4. Let us make a captain, and let us return into Egypt.] Their outrageous diſcontent, had infatuated their minds; for how could they propoſe to get thither without food? Did they think God would ſend it them from Heaven, after they had ſo ſhamefully forſaken him? How were they to find their way, when the cloud which directed them was withdrawn? Or if they did, how were they to contend with the nations that ſhould oppoſe them in their paſſage? And after all, when they came into Egypt, what reception could they expect, from a people who had been ſuch ſufferers through them? It is amazing, that notwithſtanding all theſe difficulties, they ſhould perſiſt in their madneſs, and reſolve to chuſe a new commander to lead them back again! Nehemiah tells us, that they did actually appoint them a captain. Ch. ix. 17.

Ver. 15. Then the nations which have heard the fame of thee, will ſpeak, ſaying, &c.] Moſes lays the honour of God nearer to heart, than his own intereſt. He pleads, that the eyes both of Egypt and Canaan were upon them, and that great expectations were raiſed concerning them; and that if this people, who had made ſo great noiſe in the world, were to be all conſumed, he inſinuates what conſtruction would thoſe Heathen nations put upon ſuch an event, would they not raſhly conclude, that it was for want of power in their God, to bring them ſafely through the wilderneſs, into the promiſed land?

Ver. 17. Let the power of my Lord be great.] Let it be magnified among the nations, by ſubduing the enemies of the Lord's people.

Ver. 18. And by no means clearing the guilty.] The word guilty is not in the original, and ſeeing it is directly oppoſite to the intention of Moſes's petition; the paſſage would be better rendered as follows; who will not make quite deſolate, though he viſit the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, &c.

Ver. 19. As thou haſt forgiven this people, from Egypt, even until now.] Spare them this once: Add this one inſtance of Divine mercy and patience, to the many thou haſt already given. Surely the boundleſs extent of the Divine goodneſs, is ſtill a foundation of hope to the greateſt ſinners: If they repent, they have no reaſon abſolutely to deſpair, ſince the mercy of God endureth for ever.

turn you, and get you into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red ſea.

26 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

27 How long ſhall I bear with this evil congregation which murmur againſt me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, which they murmur againſt me.

28 Say unto them, As truly as I live, ſaith the LORD, as ye have ſpoken in mine ears, ſo will I do to you:

29 Your carcaſes ſhall fall in this wilderneſs; and all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured againſt me,

30 Doubtleſs ye ſhall not come into the land concerning which I ſware to make you dwell therein, ſave Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

31 But your little ones, which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, them will I bring in, and they ſhall know the land which ye have deſpiſed.

32 But as for you, your carcaſes they ſhall fall in this wilderneſs.

33 And your children ſhall wander in the wilderneſs forty years, and bear your whoredoms, until your carcaſes be waſted in the wilderneſs.

34 After the number of the days in which ye ſearched the land, even forty days (each day for a year) ſhall ye bear your iniquities, even forty years, and ye ſhall know my breach of promiſe.

35 I the LORD have ſaid, I will ſurely do it unto all this evil congregation, that are gathered together againſt me: in this wilderneſs they ſhall be conſumed, and there they ſhall die.

36 And the men which Moſes ſent to ſearch the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur againſt him, by bringing up a ſlander upon the land;

37 Even thoſe men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, died by the plague before the LORD.

38 But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to ſearch the land, lived ſtill.

39 And Moſes told theſe ſayings unto all the children of Iſrael: and the people mourned greatly.

40 ¶ And they roſe up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, ſaying, Lo, we be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promiſed: for we have ſinned.

41 And Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do you tranſgreſs the commandment of the LORD? but it ſhall not proſper.

42 Go not up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye be not ſmitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekites, and the Canaanites

Turn you.] Since you are not courageous enough, notwithſtanding all the promiſes made you, to look the Canaanites in the face, it will be your wiſdom to remove hence; and inſtead of going forward to take poſſeſſion of the land, return through the wilderneſs towards the Red ſea, from whence ye came.

Ver. 33. Your children ſhall wander in the wilderneſs forty years.] A melancholly reflection this; that being juſt arrived upon the borders of the promiſed land, and expecting to take immediate poſſeſſion, not only the preſent generation were doomed to periſh in the wilderneſs, and never to enter it; but alſo their poſterity, were deſtined to wander in that wilderneſs forty years, from place to place, in queſt of food, after the manner of the Arabian ſhepherds, who frequently remove their tents, in order to find freſh paſture for their flocks.

Shall bear your whoredoms.] Shall feel the effects of your idolatry and defection from your God.

Ver. 34. My breach of promiſe.] Or rather, my reſentment.

Ver. 40. We be here, and will go up, &c.] The Iſraelites now repented of their folly, acknowledging their fault; and would fain have taken poſſeſſion of the land, to which they were averſe before; but now it was too late, the decree was gone forth, and the conſumption of the people determined. This ought to teach ſinners, not to proceed reſolutely in their ſins, but to conſider, when judgment is determined, repentance comes too late.

CHAP. XV.

1 The law of ſundry offerings. 32 The ſabbath-breaker ſtoned.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you,

3 And will make an offering by fire unto the Lord, a burnt-offering or a ſacrifice, in performing a vow, or in a free-will-offering, or in your ſolemn feaſts, to make a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord, of the herd or of the flock:

4 Then ſhall he that offereth his offering unto the Lord, bring a meat-offering of a tenth-deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of oil.

5 And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering ſhalt thou prepare, with the burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, for one lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou ſhalt prepare for a meat-offering, two tenth-deals of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oil.

7 And for a drink-offering, thou ſhalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

8 And when thou prepareſt a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or peace-offerings unto the Lord:

9 Then ſhall he bring with a bullock a meat-offering of three tenth-deals of flour mingled with half an hin of oil.

10 And thou ſhalt bring for a drink-offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

11 Thus ſhall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid.

12 According to the number that ye ſhall prepare, ſo ſhall ye do to every one according to their number.

13 All that are born of the country, ſhall do theſe things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

Ver. 1. The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, &c.] The ſubſequent laws ſeem to have been given near the period of their wandering in the wilderneſs, but were not to be obſerved till they came into Canaan; becauſe they could not be provided with neceſſaries requiſite for the performance of thoſe ceremonies.

Ver. 4. A tenth deal of flour.] About half a peck.

The fourth part of an hin of oil.] A quart of oil.

Ver. 14. And if a ſtranger ſojourn with you, &c.] By a ſtranger is meant, one who had renounced idolatry, and become a proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion. This law, which made no diſtinction between them and the Iſraelites, in matters relating to Divine worſhip, was wiſely calculated fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord: as ye do, ſo he ſhall do.

15 One ordinance ſhall be both for you of the congregation, and alſo for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, ſo ſhall the ſtranger be before the Lord.

16 One law, and one manner ſhall be for you, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you.

17 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land whether I bring you,

19 Then it ſhall be, that when ye eat of the bread of the land, ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering unto the Lord.

20 Ye ſhall offer up a cake of the firſt of your dough, for an heave offering: as ye do the heave-offering of the threſhing-floor, ſo ſhall ye heave it.

21 Of the firſt of your dough ye ſhall give unto the Lord, an heave-offering in your generations.

22 ¶ And if ye have erred, and not obſerved all theſe commandments which the Lord hath ſpoken unto Moſes,

23 Even all that the Lord hath commanded you by the hand of Moſes, from the day that the Lord commanded Moſes, and henceforward among your generations:

24 Then it ſhall be, if ought be committed by ignorance without the knowledge of the congregation; that all the congregation ſhall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering, for a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord, with his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the manner, and one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering.

Before Christ 1490.

25 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and it ſhall be forgiven them, for it is ignorance: and they ſhall bring their offering, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the Lord, and their ſin-offering before the Lord, for their ignorance.

26 And it ſhall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them; ſeeing all the people were in ignorance.

27 ¶ And if any ſoul ſin through ignorance, then he ſhall bring a ſhe-goat of the firſt year for a ſin-offering.

28 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for the ſoul that ſinneth ignorantly, when he ſinneth by ignorance before the Lord, to make an atonement for him; and it ſhall be forgiven him.

29 You ſhall have one law for him that ſinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born amongſt the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them.

30 ¶ But the ſoul that doeth ought preſumptuouſly (whether it be born in the land, or a ſtranger) the ſame reproacheth the Lord; and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people.

Ver. 30. The ſoul that doth ought preſumptuouſly.] In the Hebrew with an high hand, and the Greek with the hand of pride. That is, whoever ſhall in any caſe, violate the commands of God, not only knowingly and deliberately, but preſumptuouſly, in contempt of the law, and the authority of the Divine law-giver, and againſt all advice and admonition; that delinquent ſhall be cut off by death, and no atonement ſhall be admitted. Theſe preſumptuous violations of the laws are to be underſtood of thoſe relating to religious worſhip; which if not direct idolatry, were at leaſt a degree of apoſtacy from the true religion. It is to be obſerved, that the guilt of preſumptuous ſins, lies not ſo much in the crime itſelf, as in the manner of committing it; and when it is accompanied with ſuch daring circumſtances of impiety, as amount even to blaſphemy; which is here called, reproaching the Lord, and deſpiſing his word. Every wilful ſin is indeed a reproach or diſhonour to God, and is in effect to ſay, that his commandments are not wiſe, juſt, and good; and that we know what is fitting for us, better than God himſelf.

32 ¶ And while the children of Iſrael were in the wilderneſs they found a man that gathered ſticks upon the ſabbath-day.

33 And they that found him gathering ſticks, brought him unto Moſes and Aaron, and unto all the congregation.

34 And they put him in ward, becauſe it was not declared what ſhould be done to him.

35 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, The man ſhall be ſurely put to death: all the congregation ſhall ſtone him with ſtones without the camp.

36 And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and ſtoned him with ſtones, and he died; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

37 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

Before Chriſt 1490.

41 I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of land land of Egypt to be your God: I am the LORD your God.

CHAP. XVI.

The rebellion of Korah, and its puniſhment.

NOW Korah the ſon of Izhar, the ſon of Kohath, the ſon of Levi; and Dathan and Abiram the ſons of Eliab, and On the ſon of Peleth, ſons of Reuben, took men.

2 And

Ver. 32. A man that gathered ſticks upon the ſabbath day.] The uſe of thoſe ſticks were undoubtedly to make a fire with; but they were commanded to bake and ſeethe what they had occaſion for on the day before the ſabbath; and though this may ſeem but a ſmall offence, yet we are to obſerve, it was a violation of the law of the ſabbath; and conſequently an implicit contempt of the Creator, to whoſe honour it was dedicated. It was an infringement upon the whole law, about which the ſabbath was intended for an hedge.

Ver. 35. The man ſhall be ſurely put to death.] The reaſon why the breach of the ſabbath was ſo ſeverely puniſhed was, becauſe it was an implicit denying God to be the Creator of the world. The ſabbath was a ſign, by which the worſhippers of that great Being were diſtinguiſhed from Idolaters, who thought the world to be eternal, and adored the heavenly luminaries, the ſun, moon, and ſtars as deities; and a multiplicity of other nominal gods. The violation of this inſtitution implied, a defection from the true religion to polytheiſm and idolatry.

Ver. 38. That they make them fringes in the borders of their garments.] This ornament was intended to diſtinguiſh them in their dreſs, as circumciſion did their perſons, from other nations; and that whenever they looked upon this mark, they might be reminded of their being the worſhippers of the true God, an holy and peculiar people. Many of the Jews conſidered theſe ornaments in a very different light, and prided themſelves in wearing them. The Phariſees in our Saviour's time, uſed to enlarge their fringes, that they might be more obſerveable, and gain them the reputation of ſuperior ſanctity, Matt. xxiii. 5.

Ver. 39. To go a whoring.] This is an uſual phraſe in ſcripture for idolatry. Exod. xxxiv. 15. God is ever conſidered as the ſpiritual ſpouſe of his church.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. Now Korah, &c.] The ſacred hiſtorian has not informed us, at what time, and in what encampment this rebellion of Korah happened; but as to the cauſe of the mutiny, the general opinion is, that it was his reſentment upon the advancement of Aaron and his family to the office of high-prieſt; and becauſe he thought himſelf undervalued by the poſt he was in, being only an inferior Levite, at the ſame time that he was couſin german to Moſes; and ſeeing he had now no hopes of arriving at that dignity as things ſtood, he was determined to endeavour after it, by obliging them to change their meaſures, or by depriving them forcibly of their authority; and therefore in order the better to carry on his deſign, he drew Dathan and Abiram, and others of the Reubenites into rebellion; and being joined by two and fifty perſons of authority among the other tribes, they became a party, and declared themſelves for a change of government.

On the ſon of Peleth.] On is here mentioned as one of the

2 And they roſe up before Moſes, with certain of the children of Iſrael, two hundred and fifty princes of the aſſembly, famous in the congregation, men of renown.

3 And they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, and ſaid unto them, Ye take too much upon you, ſeeing all the congregation are holy every one of them, and the LORD is among them: wherefore then lift you up yourſelves above the congregation of the LORD?

4 And when Moſes heard it, he fell upon his face:

5 And he ſpake unto Korah, and unto all his company, ſaying, Even to morrow the LORD will ſhew who are his, and who is holy; and will cauſe him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath choſen, will he cauſe to come near unto him.

6 This do; Take you cenſers, Korah and all his company;

7 And put fire therein, and put incenſe in them before the LORD to morrow: and it ſhall be that the man whom the LORD doth chooſe, he ſhall be holy: ye take too much upon you, ye ſons of Levi:

8 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye ſons of Levi:

Before Chriſt 1490.

9 Seemeth it but a ſmall thing unto you, that the God of Iſrael hath ſeparated you from the congregation of Iſrael, to bring you near to himſelf, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to ſtand before the congregation, to miniſter unto them?

10 And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the ſons of Levi with thee: and ſeek ye the prieſthood alſo?

11 For which cauſe both thou, and all thy company are gathered together againſt the LORD: and what is Aaron, that ye murmur againſt him?

12 ¶ And Moſes ſent to call Dathan and Abiram the ſons of Eliab: which ſaid, We will not come up.

13 Is it a ſmall thing that thou haſt brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and hony, to kill us in the wilderneſs, except thou make thyſelf altogether a prince over us?

14 Moreover, thou haſt not brought us into a land that floweth with milk and hony, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou put out the eyes of theſe men? we will not come up.

the heads of the faction, but is not mentioned afterwards; it is thought therefore, either that he repented, and left their party, or that he did not render himſelf ſo remarkable as Dathan and Abiram.

Sons of Reuben.] Of the poſterity and tribe of Reuben. As Korah was diſguſted at the preferment of Aaron to the prieſthood, and perhaps too on account that Elizaphan was appointed chief of the family of the Kohathites; ſo it is likely that the Reubenites, the firſt-born of Iſrael, were offended becauſe of the preference given to Judah, and that they themſelves were not placed in the front of the camp.—The Kohathites encamped on the ſouth ſide of the tabernacle, as well as the Reubenites; and therefore might the more conveniently aſſociate together; and Korah had an opportunity of drawing in the Reubenites to to his faction and rebellion.

Took men.] The word men is not in the original, and ſince took is the firſt word in the text, it would be more natural if tranſlated thus: Korah took both Dathan and Abiram, &c. i. e. he aſſociated them to himſelf in his rebellion.

Ver. 3. Againſt Moſes.] As if he had advanced his brother and family to the prieſthood, by his own authority; and not by the direction of God.

Ye take too much upon you.] The prieſthood ought not to be confined to your family alone; you ought to think it ſufficient, to be on a level with your bretheren, who are all members of the community, and alike favoured with the Divine preſence and protection,

Ver. 5. Will cauſe him to come near unto him.] Meaning, that perſon who is to ſerve him in the ſacred offices.

Ver. 9. Seemeth it but a ſmall thing.] As if he had ſaid; you ought inſtead of repining, becauſe Aaron's family is advanced above yours; to conſider your own privileges, who are diſtinguiſhed above the other tribes, by being ordained Levites: ambition, like covetouſneſs, knows no bounds.

Ver. 11. What is Aaron.] He has done nothing of himſelf, God is the doer of all, Exod. xvi. 7.

Ver. 12. Moſes ſent to call Dathan and Abiram.] ſuſpecting they had been drawn into the conſpiracy, by the artifice and inſinuations of Korah; he ſends for them to argue the caſe mildly.

Ver. 13. Thou haſt brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey.] This ſeems a ſarcaſtical reflexion on Moſes, who in his deſcriptions of the promiſed land, uſed to paint it as a land flowing with milk and honey.

Ver. 14. Wilt thou put out the eyes of theſe men?] Doſt thou

Before Chriſt 1471.

15 And Moſes was very wroth, and ſaid unto the LORD, Reſpect not thou their offering: I have not taken one aſs from them, neither have I hurt one of them.

16 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron to morrow:

17 And take every man his cenſer, and put incenſe in them, and bring ye before the LORD every man his cenſer, two hundred and fifty cenſers; thou alſo and Aaron each of you his cenſer.

18 And they took every man his cenſer, and put fire in them, and laid incenſe thereon, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moſes and Aaron.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation againſt them, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the congregation.

20 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

21 Separate yourſelves from among this congregation, that I may conſume them in a moment.

22 And they fell upon their faces, and ſaid, O God, the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſhall one man ſin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?

23 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

Before Chriſt 1471.

24 Speak unto the congregation, ſaying, Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

25 And Moſes roſe up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Iſrael followed him.

26 And he ſpake unto the congregation, ſaying, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of theſe wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, leſt ye be conſumed in all their ſins.

27 So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram on every ſide: and Dathan, and Abiram came out, and ſtood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their ſons, and their little children.

28 And Moſes ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know that the LORD hath ſent me to do all theſe works; for I have not done them of mine own mind.

29 If theſe men die the common death of all men, or if they be viſited after the viſitation of all men; then the LORD hath not ſent me.

30 But if the LORD make a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and ſwallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick into the pit; then ye ſhall underſtand that theſe men have provoked the LORD.

31 ¶ And it came to paſs as he had made an end of ſpeaking all theſe words, thou think to blind us, ſo that none of us ſhall be able to diſcern this impoſture? or ſhall we ſuffer thee to lead us about after this manner, like blind men, whither thou pleaſeſt; ſometimes towards Canaan, and now back again towards Egypt?

Ver. 19. Korah gathered all the congregation againſt them.] A plain indication, that the people in general were inclined, if not to throw off, at leaſt to doubt of the authority of Moſes and Aaron.

Ver. 22. The God of the ſpirits of all fleſh.] O thou the God and father of the ſpirits of all fleſh, wilt thou not have mercy upon thoſe ſpirits which thou haſt created; whoſe frame thou knoweſt, and canſt diſtinguiſh between the leaders and the miſled?

Ver. 24. From about the tabernacle.] It is thought theſe rebels had erected a tabernacle in the midſt of the tents of their families, in which they kept court, met in council, and as it were, hung out a flag of defiance againſt Moſes; here called the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

Ver. 30. A new thing.] A new and unparalleled kind of judgment; for God has many arrows in his quiver, and though they might think themſelves ſecure becauſe at a diſtance from the Shekinah, whence the fire of the Lord had ſometimes iſſued, and might ſay, perhaps; Qui procul a Jove, procul a fulmine: Yet God let them know he was not tied up to one way of puniſhing, and that the earth when he pleaſed, ſhould execute his will as well as the fire.

Into the pit.] The word which we render pit, ſometimes ſignifies the grave, or receptacle for dead bodies; and ſometimes the region of departed ſouls: here it evidently denotes the grave, or cavity of the earth, in which theſe men were ſwallowed up.

Before Chriſt 1471.

that the ground clave aſunder that was under them:

32 And the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, and their houſes, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods.

33 They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth cloſed upon them: and they periſhed from among the congregation.

34 And all Iſrael that were round about them, fled at the cry of them: for they ſaid, Leſt the earth ſwallow us up alſo.

35 And there came out a fire from the LORD, and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incenſe.

36 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, that he take up the cenſers out of the burning, and ſcatter thou the fire yonder; for they are hallowed.

38 The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed: and they ſhall be a ſign unto the children of Iſrael.

39 And Eleazar the prieſt took the brazen cenſers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

40 To be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael, that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the LORD; that he be not as Korah, and as his company: as the LORD ſaid to him by the hand of Moſes.

Befor Chriſt 1471.

41 ¶ But on the morrow, all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, ſaying, ye have killed the people of the LORD.

42 And it came to paſs when the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and behold, the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared.

43 And Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation.

44 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

45 Get you up from among this congregation, that I may conſume them as in a moment: and they fell upon their faces.

46 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a cenſer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incenſe, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun.

47 And Aaron took as Moſes commanded, and ran into the midſt of the congregation; and behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incenſe, and made an atonement for the people.

48 And he ſtood between the dead and the living, and the plague was ſtayed.

49 Now they that died in the plague, were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred.

Ver. 35 A fire from the Lord and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men.] That is, the men who had aſſumed the prieſts office.

Ver. 38. The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls.] It may better be rendered, The cenſers of theſe ſinners are ſanctified by their intentions.

Ver. 41. All the congregation of Iſrael murmured, &c.] It might have been expected, that ſuch a ſignal vengeance, would effectually have ſilenced all murmurings; but it had a different effect upon that inflexible people; for the very next day, they aſſembled in a tumultuous manner, charging Moſes and Aaron with the blood of thoſe men.

Ver. 49. They that died in the plague were fourteen thouſand, and ſeven hundred.] Thoſe in compariſon were but few, who died about the affair of Korah; the ring leaders only being made the examples; yet as the people were not led to repentance by that cataſtrophe, but inſtead of it, exclaimed againſt the death of a few hundred delinquints; God now ſilences their complaints, by the ſlaughter of many thouſands. Thoſe who will not reſign to leſſer judgments, only prepare themſelves for greater.

CHAP. XVII.

Aaron's rod budding is laid up for a memorial.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and take of every one of them a rod, according to the houſe of their fathers, of all their princes, according to the houſe of their fathers, twelve rods: write thou every mans name upon his rod.

3 And thou ſhalt write Aarons name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod ſhall be for the head of the houſe of their fathers.

4 And thou ſhalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation, before the teſtimony, where I will meet with you.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that the mans rod whom I ſhall chooſe, ſhall bloſſom: and I will make to ceaſe from me the murmuring of the children of Iſrael, whereby they murmur againſt you.

6 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, and every one of their princes gave him a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers houſes, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods.

Before Chriſt 1471.

7 And Moſes laid up the rods before the LORD, in the tabernacle of witneſs.

8 And it came to paſs that on the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs: and behold, the rod of Aaron for the houſe of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds.

9 And Moſes brought out all the rods from before the LORD unto all the children of Iſrael: and they looked, and took every man his rod.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Bring Aarons rod again, before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the rebels; and thou ſhalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not.

11 And Moſes did ſo: as the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

12 And the children of Iſrael ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Behold, we die, we periſh, we all periſh.

NOTES on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 5. I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael.] By working a miracle, ſufficient to prevent their murmuring any more about this matter; and ſuch as will be a ſtanding teſtimony to them, of the perſons on whom I have conferred the prieſthood.

Ver. 6 Every one of their princes gave him a rod apiece.] The learned are of opinion, that the rods which the ſeveral princes brought to Moſes, were not common walking ſtaves, nor yet the wands which they wore in their reſpective tribes as the badges of their authority; but twigs, cut off from an almond tree; and perhaps from one and the ſame tree, that there might be no manner of difference between them.

Ver. 8. Was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds.] It ſeems, that in ſome parts of the rod, there was an appearance of buds coming forth; in others, they were fully thruſt out; in others, opening into bloſſoms; and in other parts, thoſe bloſſoms knotted, and grown into almonds: all theſe changes happening in the ſpace of one night was truly amazing; that the ſame rod ſhould thus produce leaves, buds, bloſſoms, and ripe fruit, all at one time! we find the Iſraelites ſo thoroughly convinced by this miraculous ſign, that they never after called the authority of Aarons prieſthood in queſtion.

Ver. 10. Before the teſtimony.] It has been a matter of enquiry whether Aaron's rod was put within the ark of the covenant, or only by it; God commanded Moſes only to put it in the tabernacle, there to be preſerved. St. Paul ſays it was placed within the ark. Heb. ix. 4. together with a pot of manna, and the tables of the law. In the 1 Kings viii. 9. it ſeems to intimate, that there was nothing in the ark, but the tables of the law; and for that reaſon others will have it, that it was only placed on the ſide of the ark.

To be kept for a token.] To convince the conſciences of men, and to ſilence all diſputes concerning the prieſthood. It is no where mentioned in ſcripture, how long this wonderful rod continued in this ſacred repoſitory. When the ark was brought into the temple of Solomon, there is no notice taken of it; yet it is reaſonable to think it was preſerved for ſome conſiderable time, in the verdure in which it now appeared, for the conviction of poſterity.

Ver. 12. We die, we periſh, we all periſh.] This is a natural picture of the great conſternation of their minds. The

CHAP. XVIII.

The charge of the prieſts and Levites, and their portion.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Aaron, Thou and thy ſons and thy fathers houſe with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary: and thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood.

2 And thy brethren alſo of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be joined unto thee, and miniſter unto thee: but thou and thy ſons with thee, ſhall miniſter before the tabernacle of witneſs.

3 And they ſhall keep thy charge, and the charge of all the tabernacle: only they ſhall not come nigh the veſſels of the ſanctuary and the altar, that neither they, nor you alſo die.

4 And they ſhall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the ſervice of the tabernacle: and a ſtranger ſhall not come nigh unto you.

5 And ye ſhall keep the charge of the ſanctuary, and the charge of the altar; that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Iſrael.

6 And I, behold, I have taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Iſrael: to you they are given as a gift for the LORD, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 Therefore thou and thy ſons with thee, ſhall keep your prieſts office for every thing of the altar, and within the vail, and ye ſhall ſerve: I have given your prieſts office unto you, as a ſervice of gift: and the ſtranger that cometh nigh, ſhall be put to death.

Before Christ 1471. 8 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, Behold, I alſo have given thee the charge of mine heave-offerings, of all the hallowed things of the children of Iſrael; unto thee have I given them, by reaſon of the anointing, and to thy ſons by an ordinance for ever.

9 This ſhall be thine of the moſt holy things, reſerved from the fire: every oblation of theirs, every meat-offering of theirs, and every ſin-offering of theirs, and every treſpaſs-offering of theirs, which they ſhall render unto me, ſhall be moſt holy for thee and for thy ſons.

10 In the moſt holy place ſhalt thou eat it; every male ſhall eat it: it ſhall be holy unto thee.

11 And this is thine; the heave-offering of their gift, with all the wave-offerings of the children of Iſrael: I have given them unto thee, and to thy ſons, and to thy daughters with thee, by a ſtatute for ever: every one that is clean in thy houſe ſhall eat of it.

12 All the beſt of the oil, and all the beſt of the wine, and of the wheat, the firſt-fruits of them which they ſhall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee.

13 And whatſoever is firſt ripe in the land, which they ſhall bring unto the LORD, ſhall be thine; every one that is clean in thine houſe, ſhall eat of it.

Iſraelites were ever in extremes; either daring and preſumptuous, or abject and deſponding.

NOTES on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 1. Shall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary.] Shall take care, that ſuch people as are legally defiled, do not approach the tabernacle; this charge lieth upon you, who, if you ſuffer theſe inſtitutions to be profaned through your negligence, you ſhall bear the puniſhment of ſuch profanation. Theſe declarations were of uſe, to remove the envy of the people from the prieſts, whoſe dignity they ſaw attended with ſo great danger.

Ver. 8. By reaſon of the anointing.] Becauſe thou art anointed with ſacred oil, and conſecrated to the office of a prieſt.

Ver. 10. In the moſt holy place.] Or, the court of the tabernacle; termed moſt holy, in reſpect of the camp.

Before Chriſt 1471.

14 Every thing devoted in Iſrael ſhall be thine.

15 Every thing that openeth the matrix in all fleſh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men or beaſts, ſhall be thine: nevertheleſs the firſt-born of man ſhalt thou ſurely redeem, and the firſtling of unclean beaſts ſhalt thou redeem.

16 And thoſe that are to be redeemed from a month old ſhalt thou redeem according to thine eſtimation, for the money of five ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, which is twenty gerahs.

17 But the firſtling of a cow, or the firſtling of a ſheep, or the firſtling of a goat thou ſhalt not redeem, they are holy: thou ſhalt ſprinkle their blood upon the altar, and ſhalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

18 And the fleſh of them ſhall be thine, as the wave-breaſt, and as the right ſhoulder are thine.

19 All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael offer unto the LORD have I given thee, and thy ſons, and thy daughters with thee, by a ſtatute for ever: it is a covenant of ſalt for ever, before the LORD, unto thee and to thy ſeed with thee.

20 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, Thou ſhalt have no inheritance in their land, neither ſhalt thou have any part among them: I am thy part, and thine inheritance among the children of Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1471.

21 And behold, I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Iſrael, for an inheritance, for their ſervice which they ſerve, even the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation.

22 Neither muſt the children of Iſrael henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt they bear ſin, and die.

23 But the Levites ſhall do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they ſhall bear their iniquity: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations, that among the children of Iſrael they have no inheritance.

24 But the tithes of the children of Iſrael, which they offer as an heave-offering unto the LORD, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have ſaid unto them, Among the children of Iſrael they ſhall have no inheritance.

25 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

26 Thus ſpeak unto the Levites, and ſay unto them, When ye take of the children of Iſrael the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering of it for the LORD, even a tenth part of the tithe.

27 And this your heave offering ſhall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threſhing-floor, and as the fulneſs of the wine-preſs.

28 Thus you alſo ſhall offer an heave-offering unto the LORD, of all your tithes which ye received of the children of Iſrael:

Ver. 19. A covenant of ſalt.] That is, a firm and inviolable covenant; and one that ſhall continue as long as the diſpenſation laſts. A perpetual covenant, was termed a covenant of ſalt, becauſe ſalt is of a preſerving nature. It was a ſymbol of friendſhip and fidelity. It is probable, that in all ſolemn covenants which were confirmed by ſacrifice, it was an ancient practice to offer ſalt with the ſacrifice, to denote the perpetuity of the covenant.

Ver. 20. Neither ſhalt thou have any part among them: I am thy part, &c.] There was an ample proviſion made for the prieſts, whoſe proportion without any ſhare in the land of Canaan, upon computation, will be found to have been far richer than that of any other perſons.

Ver. 23. Shall bear their iniquity.] That is, the effect or puniſhment of iniquity.

Ver. 24. The tithes which they offer unto the Lord, I have given to the Levites.] It was indeed highly reaſonable, that they ſhould be provided for by the public, who had parted with their own inheritance to them; had yielded up many national advantages to other tribes; and eaſed the nation by their ſervices.

29 Out of all your gifts ye ſhall offer every heave-offering of the LORD, of all the beſt thereof, even the hallowed part thereof, out of it.

30 Therefore thou ſhalt ſay unto them, When ye have heaved the beſt thereof from it, then it ſhall be counted unto the Levites, as the increaſe of the threſhing-floor, and as the increaſe of the wine-preſs.

31 And ye ſhall eat it in every place, ye and your houſholds: for it is your reward for your ſervice, in the tabernacle of the congregation.

32 And ye ſhall bear no ſin by reaſon of it, when ye have heaved from it the beſt of it: neither ſhall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Iſrael, leſt ye die.

CHAP. XIX.

The water of ſeparation,---and its uſe.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying, Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they bring thee a red heifer without ſpot, wherein is no blemiſh, and upon which never came yoke.

3 And ye ſhall give her unto Eleazar the prieſt, that he may bring her forth without the camp, and one ſhall ſlay her before his face.

Before Christ 1471.

4 And Eleazar the prieſt ſhall take of her blood with his finger, and ſprinkle of her blood directly before the tabernacle of the congregation ſeven times.

5 And one ſhall burn the heifer in his ſight; her ſkin, and her fleſh, and her blood, with her dung, ſhall he burn.

6 And the prieſt ſhall take cedar-wood, and hyſſop, and ſcarlet, and caſt it into the midſt of the burning of the heifer.

7 Then the prieſt ſhall waſh his clothes, and he ſhall bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward he ſhall come into the camp, and the prieſt ſhall be unclean until the even.

8 And he that burneth her, ſhall waſh his clothes in water, and bathe his fleſh in water, and ſhall be unclean until the even.

9 And a man that is clean ſhall gather up the aſhes of the heifer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it ſhall be kept for the congregation of the children of Iſrael, for a water of ſeparation: it is a purification for ſin.

10 And he that gathereth the aſhes of the heifer, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it ſhall be unto

Ver. 31. In every place.] That is, at their own houſes, or wherever elſe they pleaſed.

Ver. 32. Leſt ye die.] In the Hebrew, nor ſhall ye die; to wit, as they did, who intermeddled with thoſe ſacred things; which God had reſerved for his miniſters.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 2. A red heifer.] The original word properly ſignifies, a young cow, between the age of a calf and an heifer; one that is not paſt three years old, and which has not yet felt the yoke. The reaſon why this ſacrifice was required to be an heifer, ſeems to be in oppoſition to the ſuperſtition of the Egyptians, who, though they offered bullocks in ſacrifice, yet they held cows in great veneration.

Ver. 3. Ye ſhall give her unto Eleazar.] Had the high prieſt been employed in the following work, he would have been defiled, a thing which he was carefully to avoid; but as it was an affair of great concern, it was to be performed by one next to Aaron in dignity.

Ver. 9. A water of ſeparation: it is a purification for ſin.] It has been a matter of diſpute, why this water, mixed with the aſhes of a red heifer, ſhould purify the unclean, and yet pollute not only thoſe who aſſiſted at the ſlaying, burning, and gathering the aſhes of it; but even thoſe who ſprinkled the unclean perſon with it. For as the ſcriptures make white an emblem of innocence, ſo do they ſcarlet an emblem of great guilt: Though your ſins be as ſcarlet, they ſhall be as white as ſnow; though they be red like crimſon, they ſhall be as wool. Iſaiah i. 18. The author of the epiſtle to the Hebrews, has taught us to conſider this ſacrifice as a type of Chriſt, whoſe blood was of much greater efficacy, towards the purifying and ſanctifying of men; than that of bulls and goats, the aſhes of an heifer, or any other legal ſacrifice. Heb. xiii. 11, 12. and ix. 13.

Before Christ 1471. unto the children of Iſrael, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them, for a ſtatute for ever.

11 ¶ He that toucheth the dead body of any man, ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

12 He ſhall purify himſelf with it on the third day, and on the ſeventh day he ſhall be clean: but if he purify not himſelf the third day, then the ſeventh day he ſhall not be clean.

13 Whoſoever toucheth the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himſelf, defileth the tabernacle of the LORD; and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael: becauſe the water of ſeparation was not ſprinkled upon him, he ſhall be unclean; his uncleanneſs is yet upon him.

14 This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent; all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

15 And every open veſſel which hath no covering bound upon it, is unclean.

16 And whoſoever toucheth one that is ſlain with a ſword in the open fields, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

17 And for an unclean perſon they ſhall take of the aſhes of the burnt heifer of purification for ſin, and running water ſhall be put thereto in a veſſel:

18 And a clean perſon ſhall take hyſſop, and dip it in the water, and ſprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the veſſels, and upon the perſons that were there, and upon him that touched a bone, or one ſlain, or one dead, or a grave: Before Christ 1471.

19 And the clean perſon ſhall ſprinkle upon the unclean on the third day, and on the ſeventh day: and on the ſeventh day he ſhall purify himſelf, and waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and ſhall be clean at even.

20 But the man that ſhall be unclean, and ſhall not purify himſelf, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among the congregation: becauſe he hath defiled the ſanctuary of the LORD, the water of ſeparation hath not been ſprinkled upon him, he is unclean.

21 And it ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute unto them, that he that ſprinkleth the water of ſeparation, ſhall waſh his clothes, and he that toucheth the water of ſeparation ſhall be unclean until even.

22 And whatſoever the unclean perſon toucheth, ſhall be unclean: and the ſoul that toucheth it, ſhall be unclean until even.

Ver. 20. That ſoul ſhall be cut off.] The ceremonial pollution, by neglecting the purification preſcribed, became a moral guilt, and the delinquent was to be cut off. It is a dangerous thing to deſpiſe Divine inſtitutions, however minute they may ſeem to us. A ſmall ſin unrepented of, will hazard our ſalvation: Yet the wound is not ſo fatal as the contempt of the remedy.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. Then came the children of Iſrael,—into the deſert of Zin, in the firſt month.] They had now wandered in the wilderneſs near forty years, and that generation of murmurers being almoſt extinct, they were brought back to Kadeſh. The tranſactions of thirty eight years of the Iſraelites peregrinations in the wilderneſs, are paſſed over in ſilence, there probably being no new laws delivered in all that time; for it muſt be remembered, that Moſes wrote not as an hiſtorian, but a legiſlator.

Miriam died there, and was buried there.] She was ſiſter of Moſes and Aaron, and daughter of Amram and Jochebed, was born about ten or twelve years before Moſes, and about the year of the world 2424, and was probably about ten or twelve years of age, at the time her brother was expoſed upon the banks of the Nile; where ſhe was watching when Pharaoh's daughter found him. It is thought that Miriam married Hur, of the tribe of Judah; ſhe was enlightened with the ſupernatural

2 And there was no water for the congregation: and they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron.

3 And the people chode with Moſes, and ſpake, ſaying, Would God that we had died when our brethren died before the LORD.

4 And why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderneſs, that we and our cattle ſhould die there?

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of ſeed, or of figs, or vines, or of pomegranates, neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moſes and Aaron went from the preſence of the aſſembly, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they fell upon their faces: and the glory of the LORD appeared unto them.

7 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying.

8 Take the rod, and gather thou the aſſembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and ſpeak ye unto the rock before their eyes, and it ſhall give forth his water, and thou ſhalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: ſo thou ſhalt give the congregation, and their beaſts drink.

Before Chriſt 1453.

9 And Moſes took the rod from before the LORD, as he commanded him.

10 And Moſes and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he ſaid unto them, Hear now, ye rebels; muſt we fetch you water out of this rock.

11 And Moſes lift up his hand, and with his rod he ſmote the rock twice: and the water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beaſts alſo.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, Becauſe ye believed me not, to ſanctify me in the eyes of the children of Iſrael; therefore ye ſhall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them.

13 This is the water of Meribah, becauſe the children of Iſrael ſtrove with the LORD: and he was ſanctified in them.

ral gift of prophecy, as ſhe herſelf inſinuates, Ch. xii. 2. She died in the firſt month, of the fortieth year, after the Iſraelites left Egypt; and was buried here at Kadeſh, in the wilderneſs of Sin. Joſephus ſays, ſhe was interred with great ſolemnity, at the charge of the public; and that they mourned for her an whole month. Her ſepulchre, as Euſebius records, was ſtill extant in his time at Kadeſh, a ſmall diſtance from the city of Petra, the metropolis of Arabia Petrea.

Ver. 2. There was no water for the congregation.] The water which had hitherto ſupplied them from Horeb, now failed; intimating that they were now upon entering into the land of promiſe, a land abounding with ſprings and rivers.

They gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron.] Notwithſtanding this new generation had ſo evidently ſeen the accompliſhment of the Divine judgments threatened to their parents, who were now almoſt all dead; yet the pain of thirſt threw them into the very ſame ſin of murmuring and mutinying.

Ver. 10. Hear now, ye rebels; muſt we fetch you water out of this rock?] It is to this paſſage the Pſalmiſt ſeems to allude, where he ſays of Moſes, that he ſpake unadviſedly with his lips, Pſalm cvi. 33. Perhaps he might be guilty of arrogating too much to himſelf and Aaron, on this occaſion; for he ſays, without mentioning God, muſt we fetch you water out of this rock? as if they could do it by their own power.

Ver. 11. And Moſes lift up his hand, and with his rod he ſmote the rock twice.] This looked ſomewhat like impatience, his not waiting at all for the eruption of the water upon the firſt ſtroke; add to which, that this behaviour was in public, in the ſight of the Iſraelites, to whom Moſes and Aaron were deſigned to be examples of faith and patience, meekneſs and hope.

Ver. 12. Becauſe ye believed me not.] That is, they had a leſs degree of faith than was required, or than they ought to have had at this time; for it is evident they did not actually diſbelieve, ſince they ſmote the rock, which was an indication that they entertained ſome hope of the water flowing from thence, upon the ſign given.

Ye ſhall not bring the congregation into the land.] As Moſes, the miniſter of the law, conducted the people through the wilderneſs to the borders of the promiſed land, but could not bring them into it; but Joſhua put them into poſſeſſion; ſo neither can the works of that law, or legal diſpenſation, put us in poſſeſſion of Heaven; but our ſpiritual Joſhua, or Jeſus, only can do this.

Ver. 13. Meribah.] Strife or contention. In Deut. xxxii. 51. it is called Meribah-Kadeſh, to diſtinguiſh it from that other Meribah at Horeb, where the Iſraelites were guilty of the ſame crime. Exod. xvii. 7.

16 And when we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and ſent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and behold, we are in Kadeſh, a city in the uttermoſt of thy border.

17 Let us paſs, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not paſs through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the kings high-way, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have paſſed thy borders.

18 And Edom ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not paſs by me, leſt I come out againſt thee with the ſword.

19 And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto him, We will go by the high-way: and if I and my cattle drink of thy water, then I will pay for it: I will only (without doing any thing elſe) go through on my feet.

22 ¶ And the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation journeyed from Kadeſh, and came unto mount Hor.

Ver. 14. Moſes ſent meſſengers from Kadeſh unto the king of Edom.] It is ſaid, Deut. xx. 10. When thou comeſt nigh unto a city to fight againſt it, then proclaim peace unto it. On which text the Jews have founded a tradition, that the Iſraelites were obliged to ſend an herald, to offer peace to every city and people in their name, before ever they made any attempts to conquer it by the ſword; that if they accepted it, they became tributaries only; if not, they were devoted to deſtruction.—The neareſt paſſage to the land of Canaan was through the country of Edom or Idumea.

Ver. 20. Thou ſhalt not go through.] As Eſau hated Jacob, on account of his having obtained the bleſſing; ſo old hatred now revived, when the bleſſing was juſt going to be inherited.

Ver. 22. Mount Hor.] This was a mountain, or rather a chain of mountains, on the eaſtern border of the land of Edom; and as it is probable, named ſo from Hori, who was the firſt poſſeſſor of it. Gen. xxxvi. 30.

Ver. 24. Shall be gathered unto his people.] Aaron is not cut off, as it was uſually expreſſed concerning thoſe who died by the hand of juſtice; but he is gathered unto his people, as one who died in the arms of Divine grace.

For he ſhall not enter into the land, which I have given unto the children of Iſrael.] Therefore, ſomething beſides an earthly Canaan, was to be expected from the promiſes of God, ſeeing the beſt men were not permitted to enter into it; and doubtleſs the fathers looked not only for temporary promiſes, but conceived an heavenly, to be typified under an earthly Canaan.

Ver. 28. And Aaron died there in the top of the mount.] Aaron was the ſon of Amram and Jochebed, of the tribe of Levi, and was born in the year of the world 2430, a year before the edict of Pharaoh, which enjoined the Hebrews to drown all their male children as ſoon as born, and conſequently he was three years older than his brother

CHAP. XXI.

The people plagued with ſerpents, are healed by a brazen ſerpent.

AND when king Arad the Canaanite, which dwelt in the ſouth, heard tell that Iſrael came by the way of the ſpies; then he fought againſt Iſrael, and took ſome of them priſoners.

2 And Iſrael vowed a vow unto the LORD, and ſaid, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly deſtroy their cities.

3 And the LORD hearkened to the voice of Iſrael, and delivered up the Canaanites: and they utterly deſtroyed them and their cities: and he called the name of the place Hormah.

Before Christ 1452.

4 ¶ And they journeyed from mount Hor, by the way of the Red ſea, to compaſs the land of Edom: and the ſoul of the people was much diſcouraged becauſe of the way.

5 And the people ſpake againſt God, and againſt Moſes, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the wilderneſs? for there is no bread, neither is there any water, and our ſoul lotheth this light bread.

6 And the LORD ſent fiery ſerpents among the people; and they bit the people, and much people of Iſrael died.

7 ¶ Therefore the people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned, for we have ſpoken againſt the LORD, and againſt thee; pray unto the LORD that he take away the ſerpents from us: and Moſes prayed for the people.

8 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent, and ſet it upon a pole: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one ther Moſes. In point of dignity, he was regarded next to him, being immediately appointed by God, to exerciſe the office of prieſthood in the tabernacle, and his ſons for ever after him. He married Eliſheba, the daughter of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah, by whom he had four ſons, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. He died here in mount Hor, in the arms of Moſes his brother, and Eleazar his ſon, in the year of the world 2552, at the age of 123 years, and was buried by Moſes and his ſons in a cave of this mountain. The Hebrews fix the day of his death on the firſt of the fifth month, Ab; anſwering pretty nearly to our July; ſuppoſing the year to begin at Eaſter. They keep a faſt on that day.

NOTES on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. When king Arad the Canaanite.] Or more agreeable to the hebrew, and all the ancient verſions; the Canaanitiſh king of Arad: for there was ſuch a city in Canaan. Joſh. xii. 14. Judg. i. 16.

By the way of the ſpies.] The ſame way by which the ſpies entered Canaan thirty-eight years before, when they went to view the land.

Ver. 3. Hormah.] Utter deſtruction. See note on Chap. xiv. 45.

Ver. 5. There is no bread, neither is there any water.] It was their rage cauſed them to utter falſehoods; for they had both, being fed with manna from Heaven, and ſupplied with water from the rock.

Ver. 6. The Lord ſent fiery ſerpents among the people.] The wilderneſs was all along infeſted with theſe ſerpents, but that God who reſided in the pillar of the cloud, had cauſed every noxious creature to fly before them; till now they renewed their rebellions, he was ſo angry, that he removed his ſafeguard, and the ſerpents reſumed their natural venom. The original ſignifies burning, or winged ſerpents; a name given to them, either on account of their bright and glaring colours; or elſe becauſe of the heat and thirſt they created by biting. It was now in the heat of ſummer, when creatures of this kind are naturally moſt venomous, and they raiſed ſuch ſores and ſudden inflammations where-ever they fell, as occaſioned death in ſome of the guilty, and violent pains in all. Theſe creatures are ſo very common both in Egypt and Arabia, that the countries would not be habitable, had not providence ordained means to prevent their too great multiplication.

Herodotus ſays, that at the beginning of the ſpring, when theſe ſerpents endeavoured to come out of Arabia into Egypt, the bird called Ibis, uſed to deſtroy great numbers; he adds elſewhere, that they were not large; he tells us moreover, that their wings were not feathered, but were like thoſe of bats. The Arabians affirm, that after they have coupled together, the female never fails to kill the male; and that her young ones kill her, as ſoon as they are hatched.

Ver. 8. Make thee a fiery ſerpent.] It proves a conſiderable difficulty to the Jews, why God who had forbidden all manner of images, ſhould upon this occaſion command one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live.

9 And Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs, and put it upon a pole, and it came to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived.

10 ¶ And the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and pitched in Oboth.

11 And they journeyed from Oboth, and pitched at Ije-abarim, in the wilderneſs which is before Moab, toward the ſun-riſing.

12 ¶ From thence they removed, and pitched in the valley of Zared.

13 From thence they removed, and pitched on the other ſide of Arnon, which is in the wilderneſs that cometh out of the coaſts of the Amorites: for Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites.

14 Wherefore it is ſaid in the book of the wars of the Lord, What he did in the Red ſea, and in the brooks of Arnon, 15 And at the ſtream of the brooks that goeth down to the dwelling of Ar, and lieth upon the border of Moab.

Before Chriſt 1452.

19 And from thence they went to Beer: that is the well whereof the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, Gather the people together, and I will give them water.

17 ¶ Then Iſrael ſang this ſong, Spring up, O well, ſing ye unto it:

18 The princes digged the well, the nobles of the people digged it, by the direction of the law-giver, with their ſtaves. And from the wilderneſs they went to Mattanah:

19 And from Mattanah to Nahaliel: and from Nahaliel to Bamoth:

20 And from Bamoth in the valley that is in the country of Moab, to the top of Piſgah, which looketh toward Jeſhimon.

21 ¶ And Iſrael ſent meſſengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, ſaying,

22 Let me paſs through thy land; we will not turn into the fields, or into the vineyards, we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the kings

mand one to be made; but did they know Chriſt, they would quickly perceive, that it was an eminent type of his paſſion and crucifixion.

And ſet it upon a pole.] The word which we render a pole, properly ſignifies a banner or enſign; erected with an intention that the people ſhould gather unto it.

Ver. 9. And Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs.] A figure of the Sharaph, the ſerpent above mentioned.

The brazen ſerpent continued among the Jews above ſeven hundred years, even till the time of king Hezekiah; but the people having made it the object of idolatry, and having for ſome time offered incenſe, and paid adoration to it; that pious prince cauſed it to be broken in pieces, and by way of contempt called it Nehuſhtan, i. e. a brazen bawble or trifle. See 2 Kings, xviii. 4.

When he beheld the ſerpent of braſs he lived.] This healing virtue was derived from God alone, and in it he diſplayed his great power, and would make the Iſraelites ſenſible, that thoſe ſerpents were ſent by him; and that if he was their enemy he could employ any inſtrument to their deſtruction, and if their friend, he could provide a remedy for the worſt of evils. The ſurprizing effects of the brazen ſerpent upon thoſe who looked upon it, was a lively repreſentation of the virtue which true believers received from the death of their Redeemer. This is the application which our bleſſed Saviour himſelf makes of this myſterious remedy: As Moſes lifted up the ſerpent in the wilderneſs, even ſo muſt the Son of man be lifted up; that whoſoever believeth in him, ſhould not periſh, but have everlaſting life. John. iii. 14, 15.

Ver. 11. Ije-abarim.] The Heaps of Abarim; theſe were a range of mountains on the eaſtern borders of the land of Moab.

Ver. 13. Arnon.] This river took its riſe in the mountains of Arabia, and fell into the Dead ſea; being a boundary between the kingdoms of Moab and the Amorites. It was divided into ſeveral leſſer ſtreams, called the brooks of Arnon. ver. 14.

Ver. 14. In the book of the wars of the Lord.] It is difficult to determine what book this was. Moſt interpreters take it to be ſome ancient record of theſe countries to which Moſes refers. Le Clerc, underſtands by the wars of the Lord, the wars of the Iſraelites, who fought under the banner and direction of Jehovah.

Ver. 17. Sing ye unto it.] It ſhould be rendered, anſwer unto it; it being the ancient manner to ſing alternately, See Exod. xv. 12. This ſhort hymn of praiſe was compoſed by ſome of the devout people, to be ſung on this occaſion.

Ver. 20. To the top of Piſgah.] Or rather, to the beginning of Piſgah. A part of the mountains of Abarim.

Which looketh towards Jeſhimon.] Or, towards the wilderneſs. Thus the word is rendered, Deut. xxxii. 10.

Ver. 22. Let me paſs through thy land.] It is uſually reckoned good policy in a general, when he would paſs through kings high-way, until we be paſt thy borders.

Before Christ 1452.

23 And Sihon would not ſuffer Iſrael to paſs through his border: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out againſt Iſrael into the wilderneſs: and he came to Jahaz, and fought againſt Iſrael.

24 And Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of the ſword, and poſſeſſed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok, even unto the children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong.

25 And Iſrael took all theſe cities: and Iſrael dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heſhbon, and in all the villages thereof.

26 For Heſhbon was the city of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had fought againſt the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

27 Wherefore they that ſpeak in proverbs, ſay, Come into Heſhbon, let the city of Sihon be built and prepared.

28 For there is a fire gone out of Heſhbon, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath conſumed Ar of Moab, and the lords of the high places of Arnon.

Before Christ 1452.

29 Wo to thee, Moab; thou art undone, O people of Chemoſh: he hath given his ſons that eſcaped, and his daughters, into captivity unto Sihon king of the Amorites.

30 We have ſhot at them; Heſhbon is periſhed even unto Dibon, and we have laid them waſte even unto Nophah, which reacheth unto Medeba.

31 ¶ Thus Iſrael dwelt in the land of the Amorites.

32 And Moſes ſent to ſpie out Jaazer, and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorites that were there.

33 ¶ And they turned and went up by the way of Baſhan: and Og the king of Baſhan went out againſt them, he, and all his people, to the battle at Edrei.

34 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Fear him not: for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land; and thou ſhalt do to him as thou didſt unto Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heſhbon.

35 So they ſmote him and his ſons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive: and they poſſeſſed his land.

through a neutral country, on any grand deſign; firſt to enter the country, and then deſire permiſſion for his troops to march through; but Moſes firſt of all ſent ambaſſadors with a peaceable meſſage.

Ver. 24. Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of the ſword.] The Amorites were become irreclaimably wicked, and had filled up the meaſure of their iniquity. Therefore the Almighty gave them up to national deſtruction, and according to his promiſe, Deut. ii. 33, 34. Moſes had ſent a civil meſſage to the Amoritiſh king, only requeſting leave to paſs quietly through his country; the moſt therefore he ought to have done, would have been to have ſtood on the defenſive; but as he ſet himſelf at the head of his forces, and marched out to fight without provocation, this muſt be deemed an unjuſt war, and conſequently he met with his deſert in the fate he ſuffered.

Ver. 27. They that ſpeak in proverbs.] Who ſpeak or write in a lofty and figurative ſtile, ſuch as the following appears to be; and was a compoſition of ſome ancient poet among the Amorites, on Sihon's victory over the Moabites. This quotation is inſerted in ſacred writ, to ſhew that this country belonged to the Amorites, and not to the Moabites, at the time when Iſrael ſubdued it.

Come into Heſhbon, let the city of Sihon be built.] Let Heſhbon now become the city of Sihon, and be made fit for his royal ſeat.

Ver. 28. For there is a fire gone out of Heſhbon.] The poet here riſes into raptures, and prophecies the conqueſt of the whole country, by the deſolating army of Sihon marching out of Heſhbon. By fire is meant war: I will kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it ſhall devour the palaces thereof, with ſhouting in the day of battle, with a tempeſt in the day of the whirlwind. Amos. i. 14.

Ver. 29. O people of Chemoſh.] So he calls the Moabites, on account of their worſhipping the god Chemoſh. 1 Kings xi. 7. Le Clerc takes Chemoſh for the ſun.

Ver. 33. Baſhan.] This mountain is much celebrated in ſcripture, for its rich paſtures, excellent breed of cattle, and ſtately oaks.

Og the king of Baſhan.] He was of the remnant of the giants, a mighty people of that country. Joſh. xii. 4.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Balaks ſends for Balaam. 22 An angel aſſays to kill Balaam. 25 Is ſaved by his aſs. 36 Balak meeteth him.

AND the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab, on this ſide Jordan by Jericho.

2 ¶ And Balak the ſon of Zippor ſaw all that Iſrael had done to the Amorites.

3 And Moab was ſore afraid of the people, becauſe they were many: and Moab was diſtreſſed, becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

4 And Moab ſaid unto the elders of Midian, Now ſhall this company lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the graſs of the field. And Balak the ſon of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time.

5 He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam the ſon of Beor, to Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, ſaying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the face of the earth, and they abide over againſt me.

6 Come now therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people, for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I ſhall prevail, that we may ſmite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou bleſſeſt, is bleſſed, and he whom thou curſeſt, is curſed.

Before Chriſt 1452.

7 And the elders of Moab, and the elders of Midian departed, with the rewards of divination in their hand; and they came unto Balaam, and ſpake unto him the words of Balak.

8 And he ſaid unto them, Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again as the LORD ſhall ſpeak unto me: And the princes of Moab abode with Balaam.

9 And God came unto Balaam, and ſaid, What men are theſe with thee?

10 And Balaam ſaid unto God, Balak the ſon of Zippor, king of Moab, hath ſent unto me, ſaying, 11 Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: Come now, curſe me them; peradventure I ſhall be able to overcome them, and drive them out.

12 And God ſaid unto Balaam, Thou ſhalt not go with them, thou ſhalt not curſe the people: for they are bleſſed.

13 And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſaid unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your land: for the LORD refuſeth to give me leave to go with you.

14 And the princes of Moab roſe up, and they went unto Balak, and ſaid, Balaam refuſeth to come with us.

15 ¶ And Balak ſent yet again princes, more, and more honourable than they.

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. In the plains of Moab.] Which formerly belonged to Moab, but were now in the poſſeſſion of the Amorites.

Ver. 4. Moab ſaid unto the elders of Midian.] That is, by his meſſengers, whom he ſent unto the elders, princes of Midian; and invited them to join with him as confederates againſt the Iſraelites, whom he repreſented as their common enemy.

As the ox licketh up the graſs of the field.] By this metaphor he ſignified, with what eaſe the Iſraelites would conquer them, and what an univerſal deſolation they would make, in caſe they did not meet with timely oppoſition.

Ver. 5. He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam.] The ſcripture expreſsly calls Balaam a prophet; and ſome are of opinion, that he had been a good man, till loving the wages of unrighteouſneſs, he apoſtatized from God; and betaking himſelf to idolatry, fell under the deluſion of ſatan. 2 Pet. ii. 15. Notwithſtanding, ſeeing the preſervation of Iſrael was concerned, God might at this juncture, think fit to appear to him, and to vouchſafe him revelations.

Ver. 6. Curſe me this people.] Some of the wiſeſt nations among the Heathens, believed the perſons of their prophets to be in ſuch great eſteem with their gods, that they would liſten to, and ratify their benedictions or execrations, and that ſuch had effect, not only on private perſons, but even whole communities. The Romans looked upon their imprecations, to be ſo very efficacious, that whoever fell under them could not poſſibly eſcape.

Ver. 9. God came to Balaam.] That is, manifeſted his will to him by an angel. ver. 23.

Ver. 12. They are bleſſed.] They are under the protection of Heaven, and no imprecations againſt them will avail.

Before Christ 1452.

16 And they came to Balaam, and ſaid to him, Thus ſaith Balak the ſon of Zippor, Let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me:

17 For I will promote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatſoever thou ſayeſt unto me: Come therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people.

18 And Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto the ſervants of Balak, If Balak would give me his houſe-full of ſilver and gold, I cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do leſs or more.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye alſo here this night, that I may know what the LORD will ſay unto me more.

20 And God came unto Balaam at night, and ſaid unto him, If the men come to call thee, riſe up, and go with them; but yet the word which I ſhall ſay unto thee, that ſhalt thou do.

21 And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſaddled his aſs, and went with the princes of Moab.

22 ¶ And Gods anger was kindled, becauſe he went: and the angel of the LORD ſtood in the way for an adverſary againſt him: Now he was riding upon his aſs, and his two ſervants were with him.

23 And the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand: and the aſs turned aſide out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam ſmote the aſs to turn her into the way.

24 But the angel of the LORD ſtood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this ſide, and a wall on that ſide.

25 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe thruſt herſelf unto the wall, and cruſht Balaams foot againſt the wall: and he ſmote her again.

26 And the angel of the LORD went further, and ſtood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

27 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe fell down under Balaam: and Balaams anger was kindled, and he ſmote the aſs with a ſtaff.

28 And the LORD opened the mouth of the aſs, and ſhe ſaid unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou haſt ſmitten me theſe three times?

29 And

Ver. 18. If Balak would give me his houſe-full of ſilver and Gold, &c.] His regard to the divine command, had ſome aſcendancy over his covetouſneſs and ambition; but yet thoſe paſſions were not entirely ſubdued; ſince the next words ſhew, he would have gratified them, if he could by any means have ſatisfied his conſcience.

Ver. 19. Tarry ye here alſo this night.] The iniquity of his heart began to diſcloſe itſelf: he had an avaricious eye on the tempting rewards, and therefore inſinuated to the meſſengers, that there was ſome hope upon his interceſſions, that the councils of Heaven might be altered; and that the unchangeable Being might poſſibly recede from his former decree. This impious temptation of God, fatally recoiled upon his own head.

Ver. 20. If the men come to call thee, riſe up and go with them.] LXX. and Vulgate; Since the men are come, therefore follow thine own inclinations. He would not hearken to the voice of God, and ſo was left to periſh by his own devices; and was, together with the princes of Moab, ſlain by the Iſraelites. Joſh. xiii. 22.

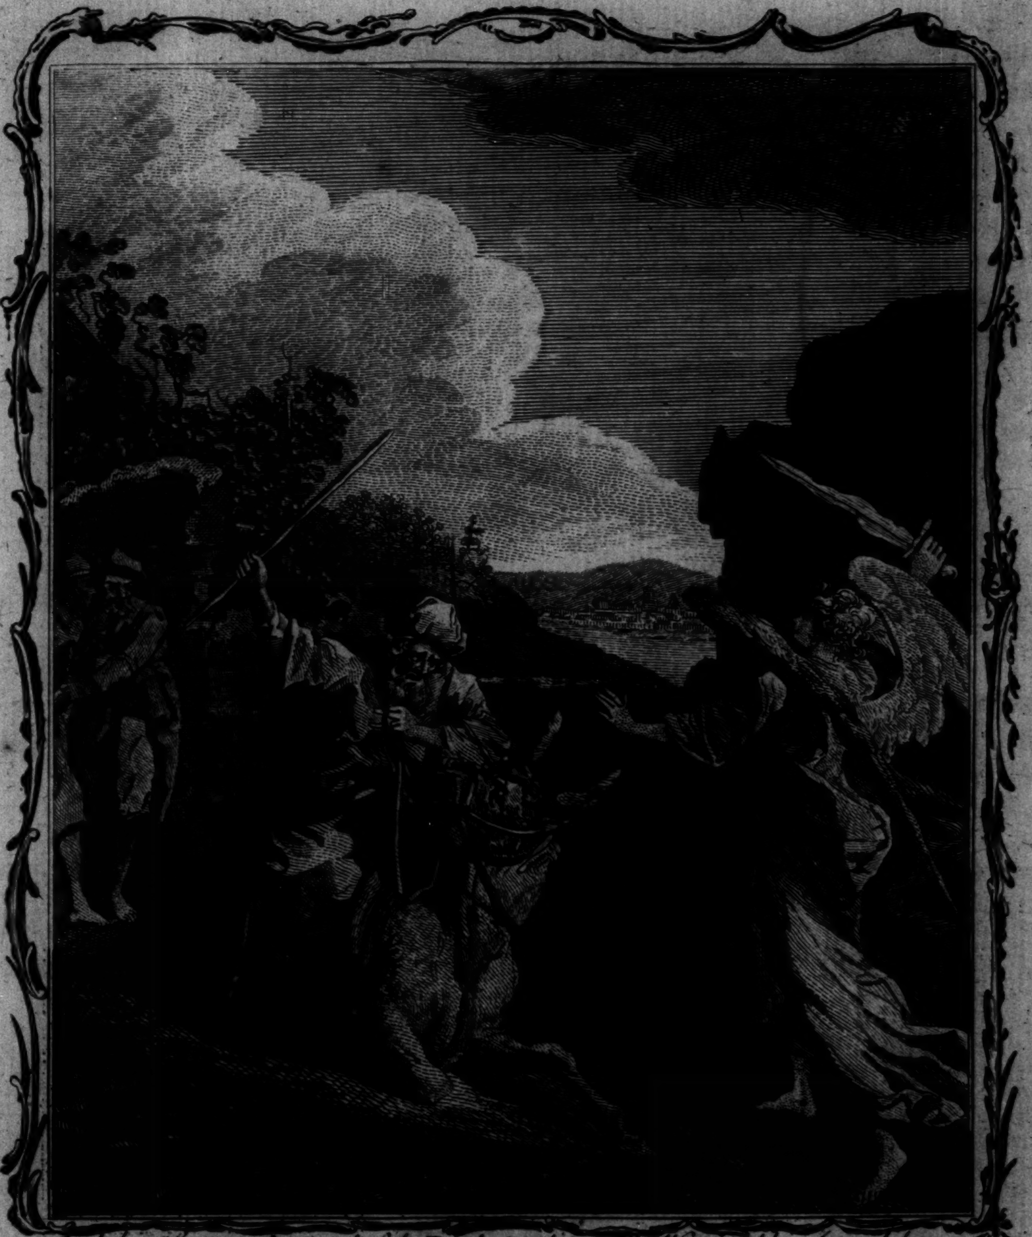
But yet the word which I ſhall ſay unto thee, that ſhalt thou do.] It ſeems to ſignify, that he might go with the meſſengers of Balak, provided they did not require him to do any thing, contrary to what God had before commanded him.

Ver. 21. Balaam roſe up early.] His great haſte betrayed the inclinations of his heart, and ſhewed how he hankered after the wages of unrighteouſneſs; and his wicked intention of curſing the Iſraelites.

Ver. 22. God's anger was kindled becauſe he went.] Becauſe he went of himſelf; and never waited for the meſſengers to call him; in all probability, ſetting out with an intention to curſe Iſrael, according to the earneſt deſire of Balak.

Ver. 23. The aſs ſaw the angel—and turned aſide out of the way.] Terrifyed as it ſeems, by the brightneſs and luſtre of this appearance of the angel; which yet the eyes of Balaam did not perceive, being blinded with the duſt of filthy lucre, with bribery and corruption; and having his head and heart filled with the greateſt expectations from Balak.

Ver. 28. Opened the mouth of the aſs.] Some commentators have thought that all this happened to Balaam in a viſion; but there is not the leaſt intimation of it in this place; nor is there any ſhadow for diſbelieving it in a literal ſenſe, if we conſider with what eaſe omnipotence could effect this miracle.



And the Aſs saw the Angel of the Lord standing in the Way, and his Sword drawn in his Hand: And the Aſs turn aside out of the way & went into the Field: and Balaam smote the Aſs to turn her into the way. Numbers XXII. 23.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto the aſs, Becauſe thou haſt mocked me: I would there were a ſword in mine hand, for now would I kill thee.

30 And the aſs ſaid unto Balaam, Am not I thine aſs, upon which thou haſt ridden ever ſince I was thine, unto this day? was I ever wont to do ſo unto thee? And he ſaid, Nay.

31 Then the LORD opened the eyes of Balaam, and he ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head, and fell flat on his face.

32 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherefore haſt thou ſmitten thine aſs theſe three times? behold, I went out to withſtand thee, becauſe thy way is perverſe before me.

33 And the aſs ſaw me, and turned from me theſe three times: unleſs ſhe had turned from me, ſurely now alſo I had ſlain thee, and ſaved her alive.

34 And Balaam ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I have ſinned; for I knew not that thou ſtoodeſt in the way againſt me: now therefore if it diſpleaſe thee, I will get me back again.

35 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Balaam, Go with the men: but only the word that I ſhall ſpeak unto thee, that thou ſhalt ſpeak: So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

Before Chriſt 1452.

36 ¶ And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him, unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmoſt coaſt.

37 and Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Did I not earneſtly ſend unto the to call thee? Wherefore cameſt thou not unto me? Am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour?

38 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to ſay any thing? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that ſhall I ſpeak.

39 And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto Kirjath-huzoth.

40 And Balak offered oxen and ſheep, and ſent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him.

41 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal, that thence he might ſee the utmoſt part of the people.

CHAP.

Ver. 29. Balaam ſaid unto the aſs, &c.] Some have thought it ſtrange, that Balaam ſhould expreſs no manner of ſurprize at this prodigy; but it is likely he had imbibed the doctrine of the metempſychoſis, or tranſmigration of ſouls, which then was, and is even at this day, very prevalent in the eaſt; if ſo, he might be the leſs aſtoniſhed at hearing a brute ſpeak: and yet we are not ſure he was not ſurprized at it, though Moſes has not mentioned it; for his narration is ſo very conciſe, that many particulars are doubtleſs omitted, as being of no moment to be told; and his aſtoniſhment upon ſuch an occaſion, ſeemed a natual conſequence. Joſephus tells us he was greatly aſtoniſhed at it—That paſſage in Homer's Iliad, in which one of Hector's horſes is repreſented as ſpeaking to his maſter, may poſſibly owe its origin to this part of ſcripture.

Becauſe thou haſt mocked me.] Expoſed me to ſcorn.

Ver. 31. The Lord opened the eyes of Balaam.] Preſenting the angel to his view, who was concealed before; or elſe awakening his attention, ſo as that he might take notice of him, whom he had not hitherto obſerved.

He bowed down his head, and fell flat on his face.] In extaſy and aſtoniſhment.

Ver. 35. Go with the men.] The angel having warned him againſt gratifying Balak and the Moabites in their unreaſonable deſires, gave him permiſſion to purſue his journey. A man of ſo covetous a diſpoſition as Balaam, not daring to imprecate evil againſt the Iſraelites, though prompted by the greateſt rewards, was a ſufficient token and aſſurance to the Moabites, that they were the peculiar care of providence; and therefore Balaam's journey was of the utmoſt conſequence to convince them.

Ver. 39. Kirjath-huzoth.] In the Hebrew, the city of ſtreets, or of many ſtreets. Perhaps it was another name for Ar, the metropolis of Moab.

Ver. 41. Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal.] Baal ſignifies Lord; and was a name given to many different deities both male and female. Some think that by Baal, the god of this country, was meant Chemoſh, a deity not greatly different from Priapus. This God, like moſt in pagan countries, was worſhipped

Before Chriſt 1452.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 Balaks ſacrifice. 7---18 Balaams parable

AND Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven oxen, and ſeven rams.

2 And Balak did as Balaam had ſpoken; and Balak and Balaam offered on every altar a bullock and a ram.

3 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Stand by thy burnt-offering, and I will go: peradventure the LORD will come to meet me: and whatſover he ſheweth me, I will tell thee. And he went to an high place.

4 And God met Balaam; and he ſaid unto him, I have prepared ſeven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram.

5 And the LORD put a word in Balaams mouth, and ſaid, Return unto Balak, and thus thou ſhalt ſpeak.

6 And he returned unto him, and lo, he ſtood by his burnt-ſacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab.

7 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram, out of the mountains of the eaſt, ſaying, Come, curſe me Jacob, and come, defy Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1452.

8 How ſhall I curſe, whom God hath not curſed? or how ſhall I defy, whom the LORD hath not defied?

9 For from the top of the rocks I ſee him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, the people ſhall dwell alone, and ſhall not be reckoned among the nations.

10 Who can count the duſt of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Iſrael? Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my laſt end be like his.

11 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, What haſt thou done unto me? I took thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt bleſſed them altogether.

12 And he anſwered and ſaid, Muſt I not take heed to ſpeak that which the LORD hath put in my mouth?

13 And Balak ſaid unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from whence thou mayeſt ſee them: thou ſhalt ſee but the utmoſt part of them, and ſhalt not ſee them all: and curſe me them from thence.

worſhipped on hills planted with groves, whoſe ſolemn gloom inſpired their votaries with a kind of religious awe. And as it was deemed neceſſary in ſolemn imprecations, to have the perſons devoted preſent to the view of him who pronounced the Anathema; therefore Balak conducted Balaam to the high places of Baal, that he might from thence have a full proſpect of the camp of Iſrael.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 1. Seven altars and ſeven rams.] Theſe ſacrifices were obſerved, according to the religious rites in worſhipping the God of Iſrael. The number ſeven was, in ſome meaſure become ſacred, becauſe God had reſted from his work of creation on the ſeventh day.

Ver. 3. He went to an high place.] In the margin, he went ſolitary, or into the moſt retired part of the grove; for he was already in an high place.

Ver. 5. The Lord put a word in Balaam's mouth.] In the Hebrew Jehovah put a word, &c. Hence it is reaſonable to conclude, that Balaam was a prophet of the true God.

Ver. 7. His parable.] That is, his prophetical ſpeech.

Ver. 8 How ſhall I curſe, &c.] How can I perform an impoſſibility, and curſe thoſe whom God Almighty has determined to bleſs?

Ver. 9. The people ſhall dwell alone.] Shall be ſeparated from all other nations, by laws, religion, and manners peculiar to them alone.

Ver. 10. Who can count the duſt of Jacob?] The LXX. Who can count the ſeed of Jacob? A people like the duſt in multitude!

Let me die the death of the righteous.] The righteous, that is, the Iſraelites, who were a righteous people compared with the reſt of the world. He wiſhes to die like them, in the favour of God, after having enjoyed a long and proſperous life in this world.

Let my laſt end be like his.] The hebrew, which we tranſlate laſt end, ſignifies in its natural or proper ſenſe, a future ſtate after death. Balaam then deſires the hope of that future reward which is reſerved for the righteous in the other world; a proof this, that a future ſtate was generally believed and acknowledged in thoſe ancient times.

Ver. 14. The field of Zophim.] That is, the field of the watchmen; who were placed on the top of Piſgah, a very high mountain in the country of Moab, to give notice of an built ſeven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

15 And he ſaid unto Balak, Stand here by thy burnt-offering, while I meet the LORD yonder.

16 And the Lord met Balaam, and put a word in his mouth, and ſaid, Go again unto Balak, and ſay thus.

17 And when he came to him, behold, he ſtood by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak ſaid unto him, What hath the Lord ſpoken?

18 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Riſe up, Balak, and hear; hearken unto me, thou ſon of Zippor:

19 God is not a man, that he ſhould lie, neither the ſon of man, that he ſhould repent: hath he ſaid, and ſhall he not do it? or hath he ſpoken, and ſhall he not make it good?

20 Behold, I have received commandment to bleſs; and he hath bleſſed, and I cannot reverſe it.

21 He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, neither hath he ſeen perverſeneſs in Iſrael: the Lord his God is with him, and the ſhout of a king is among them.

22 God brought them out of Egypt; he hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn.

23 Surely there is no enchantment againſt Jacob, neither is there any divination againſt Iſrael: according to this time it ſhall be ſaid of Jacob, and of Iſrael, What hath God wrought!

Before Christ 1452

24 Behold, the people ſhall riſe up as a great lion, and lift up himſelf as a young lion: he ſhall not lie down until he eat of the prey, and drink the blood of the ſlain.

25 ¶ And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Neither curſe them at all, nor bleſs them at all.

26 But Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto Balak, Told not I thee, ſaying, All that the Lord ſpeaketh, that I muſt do?

27 ¶ And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place; peradventure it will pleaſe God, that thou mayeſt curſe me them from thence.

28 And Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor, that looketh toward Jeſhimon.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven bullocks, and ſeven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam had ſaid, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

CHAP. XXIV.

Balaam propheſieth Iſraels happineſs.

AND when Balaam ſaw that it pleaſed the Lord to bleſs Iſrael, he went an enemy's approach. It ſeems probable, that it was a plain on the top of the mountain, where theſe watchmen were placed.

---

Ver. 19. God is not a man that he ſhould lie.] It is in vain for me to importune a Being who is in his nature immutable, to alter his purpoſe; and to curſe Iſrael, whom he hath ſaid he will bleſs.

Ver. 21. He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, &c.] The Hebrew word rendered iniquity, in ſcripture is often ſet to ſignify an idol. Accordingly the Vulgate renders it; there is no idol in Jacob, neither is there any image ſeen in Iſrael. Intimating, that notwithſtanding the Iſraelites might have been guilty of violating the divine laws in many inſtances; yet ſo long as they kept themſelves from the worſhip of falſe Gods, the true one whom they ſerved, would preſerve them from their enemies; and crown them with ſucceſs in all their undertakings.

Ver 22. He hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn.] Some commentators take the hebrew word Rem, tranſlated unicorn, for the rhinoceros; a creature which from its make, and the ſtructure of its body, appears to be the ſtrongeſt of quadrupedes, the elephant not excepted. Many think it a kind of mountain, or wild goat, of a conſiderable ſize, of which there are multitudes in Arabia.

Ver. 23. There is no enchantment againſt Jacob.] No imprecations whatever utttered by a diviner, can affect a people who are under the immediate protection of an Almighty Being.

Ver. 28. Balak brought Balaam to the top of Peor.] This was the moſt famous eminence in all the country of Moab, where Selden conjectures Baal had a temple, and was therefore called Baal-peor. So Jupiter when worſhipped at Olympus, was thence denominated Jupiter Olympus.

not as at other times, to ſeek for enchantments, but he ſet his face toward the wilderneſs.

2 And Balaam lift up his eyes, and he ſaw Iſrael abiding in his tents, according to their tribes, and the ſpirit of God came upon him.

3 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man whoſe eyes are open, hath ſaid:

4 He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, which ſaw the viſion of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

5 How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Iſrael!

6 As the valleys are they ſpread forth, as gardens by the rivers ſide, as the trees of lign-aloes which the Lord hath planted, and as cedar-trees beſide the waters.

7 He ſhall pour the water out of his buckets, and his ſeed ſhall be in many waters, and his king ſhall be higher than Agag, and his kingdom ſhall be exalted.

8 God brought him forth out of Egypt, he hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn: he ſhall eat up the nations his enemies, and ſhall break their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows.

9 He couched, he lay down as a lion, and as a great lion: who ſhall ſtir him up? Bleſſed is he that bleſſeth thee, and curſed is he that curſeth thee.

Before Chriſt 1452.

10 ¶ And Balaks anger was kindled againſt Balaam, and he ſmote his hands together: and Balak ſaid unto Balaam, I called thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt altogether bleſſed them theſe three times.

11 Therefore now flee thou to thy place: I thought to promote thee unto great honour, but lo, the Lord hath kept thee back from honour.

12 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Spake I not alſo to thy meſſengers which thou ſenteſt unto me, ſaying, 13 If Balak would give me his houſefull of ſilver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the Lord ſaith, that will I ſpeak?

14 And now behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and I will advertiſe thee, what this people ſhall do to thy people in the latter days.

15 ¶ And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon Beor hath ſaid, and the man whoſe eyes are open, hath ſaid:

16 He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the moſt High, which ſaw the viſion of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17 I

Ver. 3. The man whoſe eyes are open hath ſaid.] In the margin, who had his eyes ſhut, but now open; alluding to his not ſeeing the angel.

Ver. 4. Falling into a trance, but having his eyes opened.] It ſhould be rendered, falling, and his eyes were opened; in alluſion to what happened in the way to Balaam's falling out with his aſs; and then having his eyes opened.

Ver. 6. As the trees of lign-aloes.] The tree here ſpoken of grows in Arabia and the Eaſt Indies, and diffuſes a very fragrant odour. It is not to be confounded with the common aloe, which is a bitter purgative plant.

Ver. 7. He ſhall pour the water out of his buckets.] God ſhall bleſs them with plentiful harveſts; to which rain greatly contributes in thoſe countries.

His ſeed ſhall be in many waters.] It ſhould have been rendered by many waters; it ſhall be ſown in a well watered ground, and conſequently produce a plentiful crop. It may, by a metaphor, imply the great increaſe of the Iſraelites.

His king ſhall be higher than Agag.] Agag was a general name for the kings of the Amalekites, as Ptolemy, in after-times, was for the kings of Egypt. He was the moſt powerful in that part of the world; but ſays Balaam, his king, i. e. Chriſt the King of Iſrael, ſhall be higher than Agag; ſhall be exalted above all the kings of the earth.

Ver. 9. He couched, &c.] This imports that the Iſraelites, after having conquered the Canaanites, ſhould ſettle in their land; and that all attempts to diſturb them would be as ineffectual, as if a weak animal ſhould endeavour to rouſe a lion in his den.

Ver. 11. The Lord hath kept thee back from honour.] He inſinuates to him, that he had been more tenacious of pleaſing Jehovah, (whom he took only for the tutelar Deity of the Hebrews) than Baal-peor; and thereby deprived himſelf of great honours and advantages.

Ver. 14. Come,—and I will advertiſe thee.] It is probable that Balaam here gave to Balak that pernicious counſel, chap. xxxi. 16. Accordingly it is here inſerted in the Chaldaic, Jeruſalem, and Jonathan's paraphraſes.

Before Christ 1452.

17 I ſhall ſee him, but not now: I ſhall behold him, but not nigh: there ſhall come a Star out of Jacob, and a ſcepter ſhall riſe out of Iſrael, and ſhall ſmite the corners of Moab, and deſtroy all the children of Sheth.

18 And Edom ſhall be a poſſeſſion, Seir alſo ſhall be a poſſeſſion for his enemies, and Iſrael ſhall do valiantly.

19 Out of Jacob ſhall come he that ſhall have dominion, and ſhall deſtroy him that remaineth of the city.

20 And when he looked on Amalek, he took up his parable, and ſaid, Amalek was the firſt of the nations, but his latter end ſhall be that he periſh for ever.

21 And he looked on the Kenites; and took up his parable, and ſaid, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou putteſt thy neſt in a rock.

Before Chriſt 1452.

22 Nevertheleſs, the Kenite ſhall be waſted until Aſſhur ſhall carry thee away.

23 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Alas, who ſhall live when God doeth this!

24 And ſhips ſhall come from the coaſt of Chittim, and ſhall afflict Aſſhur, and ſhall afflict Eber, and he alſo ſhall periſh for ever.

25 And Balaam roſe up, and went and returned to his place: and Balak alſo went his way.

---

Ver. 17. I ſhall ſee him, but not now; I ſhall behold him, but not nigh.] In the Hebrew language it is common to uſe the future inſtead of the preſent tenſe; conſequently the true ſenſe of the paſſage is, I ſee him (the perſon of whom he is about to ſpeak) though not yet in being: I behold him, though as yet afar off.

There ſhall come a ſtar out of Jacob, and a ſcepter ſhall riſe out of Iſrael.] This prophecy may poſſibly, in ſome ſenſe, relate to David; but, without doubt, it belongs principally to Chriſt; for we muſt remember, that the Egyptians had two ſorts of alphabetic letters; one popular, the other myſterious: here the metaphor of a ſcepter was common and popular, to denote a ruler, like David; by the ſtar, though, like the other, is ſignified in the prophetic writing, a temporal prince; yet it had an hidden and myſterious meaning likewiſe, and in the Egyptian hieroglyphics denoted a God: hence we may conclude, that the metaphor here uſed, of a ſtar, was of that myſterious kind, and ſo to be underſtood; and conſequently it related only to Chriſt, the eternal Son of God. Div. Leg.

It appears, from the words of the eaſtern ſages, that it was the opinion of the Orientals, that a ſtar or comet denoted the birth of ſome eminent perſon. Where is he that is born King of the Jews; for we have ſeen his ſtar in the eaſt? Matth. ii. 2. Chriſt was the bright and morning ſtar, Rev. xxii. 16.

Shall ſmite the corners of Moab.] Shall totally deſtroy the Moabites. It means ſpiritually Chriſt's victory over the Gentiles; not by deſtroying their bodies, as David did thoſe of the Moabites; but by captivating their minds to the love of goodneſs, and ſubduing their affections to the ſervice of the true God.

And deſtroy all the children of Seth] Seth ſignifies a drunkard, and they might properly be called the children of the drunkard; ſeeing they derived their being as a people from their father Lot's being in liquor; hence their country was called Shittim, Chap. xxv. 1. Balaam repeats circumſtances under different names; thus, the duſt of Jacob, and the fourth part of Iſrael; Edom ſhall be a poſſeſſion, Seir alſo, &c. Seir was a mountain of Edom.

Ver. 19. Out of Jacob ſhall come he that ſhall have dominion.] This prophecy was fulfilled literally in David, and was ſpiritually accompliſhed in Chriſt; the univerſality of whoſe kingdom is deſcribed in theſe words: He ſhall have his dominion alſo from ſea to ſea, and from the river to the ends of the earth.

Ver. 20. Amalek was the firſt of the nations.] The moſt antient and illuſtrious of all the neighbourtng nations. It appears from the iv chap. of Geneſis, that they were poſſeſſed of theſe countries before the days of Abraham and Lot.

But his latter end ſhall be that he periſh for ever.] This prediction was literally fulfilled by Saul, 1 Sam. 15 18.

Ver. 21. And he looked on the Kenites.] By the Kenites we ſhould underſtand the Midianites, Jethro's poſterity, who is called the Kenite. Judg. i. 16. Theſe were joined in a league with the Moabites.

Ver. 22. Nevertheleſs, the Kenite ſhall be waſted until Aſhur ſhall carry them away captive.] The power and number of the Kenites ſhall decline, till in the end they are all carried away captive by the Aſſyrians: accompliſhed, when Salmanezar king of Aſſyria, led the ten tribes into captivity, and with them the Kenites: ſo that notwithſtanding they put their neſt in a rock i. e. dwelt in the craggy mountains, and thought themſelves ſecure, they were at length totally waſted.

Ver. 23. Alas, who who ſhall live when God doth this!] A pathetic exclamation! Alas! who ſhall eſcape the ravages of the Aſſyrians, when God ſhall permit them to over-run a great part of the world.

Ver. 24. Ships ſhall come from the coaſt of Chittim, &c.] By Shittim is meant Greece, Gen. x. 4. and this propheſy was fulfilled, when the Perſian empire, which included the Chaldeans and Aſſyrians, was ſubverted by Alexander the great.

Shall afflict Eber.] Probably the neighbouring nations, bordering upon the river Euphrates.

everlaſting prieſthood. 16 The Midianites are to be vexed.

AND Iſrael abode in Shittim, and the people begun to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab.

2 And they called the people unto the ſacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed down to their gods.

3 And Iſrael joined himſelf unto Baal-peor: and the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Iſrael.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the LORD againſt the ſun, that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Iſrael.

5 And Moſes ſaid unto the judges of Iſrael, Slay ye every one his men, that were joined unto Baal-peor.

6 ¶ And behold, one of the children of Iſrael came and brought unto his brethren a Midianitiſh woman, in the ſight of Moſes, and in the ſight of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, who were weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

7 And when Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, ſaw it, he roſe up from amongſt the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand;

8 And he went after the man of Iſrael into the tent, and thruſt both of them through, the man of Iſrael, and the woman through her belly: So the plague was ſtayed from the children of Iſrael.

9 And thoſe that died in the plague, were twenty and four thouſand.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

11 Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, hath turned my wrath away from the children of Iſrael (while he was zealous for my ſake among them) that I conſumed not the children of Iſrael in my jealouſy.

12 Wherefore ſay, Behold, I give unto him my covenant of peace.

13 And he ſhall have it, and his ſeed after him, even the covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood; becauſe he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Iſrael.

14 Now the name of the Iſraelite that was ſlain, even that was ſlain with the Midianitiſh woman was Zimra the ſon of Salu, a prince of a chief houſe among the Simeonites.

NOTES on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 1. The people began to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab.] Theſe women expoſed themſelves to the Iſraelites, and enticed them to idolatry by the advice of Balaam; who having learnt that the welfare of the Iſraelites, depended on their adhearing to the divine laws, deviſed this mean ſtratagem to deprive them of the favour of the Almighty, and to bring them under a curſe.

Ver. 2. They called the people to the ſacrifices of their Gods.] The feaſts following theſe ſacrifices were accompanied with muſic and dancing, which had a great tendency to inflame their carnal appetites, which theſe fair deluders would not permit them to ſatisfy, till they had firſt conſented to worſhip their idols.

Ver. 4. Take all the heads of the people and hang them up.] This paſſage would be more properly tranſlated; "Take "all the heads, or judges of the people, to thy aſſiſtance, "and hang them up;" that is, all thoſe who have quitted God for Baal-peor. This interpretation is confirmed by the following verſe, in which Moſes directs the judges to do their duty, by puniſhing the delinquents.

Ver. 5. Slay ye every one his men.] It ſeems the judges were very dilatory in executing this order; ſeeing God himſelf thought proper to viſit the heads of offenders, with exemplary puniſhment.

Ver. 8. Thruſt both of them through.] There is no neceſſity in this place, to have recourſe to any extraordinary motion of the ſpirit, to authorize this action of Phinehas; nor yet to that Jus zelotarum, aſſerted by ſome among the Jews; for he did it by the expreſs command of Moſes the ſupreme magiſtrate, who ordered the judges of the people, (of whom Phinehas was one) to fall upon thoſe who had joined themſelves to Baal-peor, and to ſlay every one his men. ver. 5.

Ver. 9. Thoſe that died of the plague were twenty and four thouſand.] St. Paul in 1 Cor. 10. 8. mentions only twenty and three thouſand, who fell on one day: ſo that one thouſand were ſlain by the judges as it ſeems, and twenty and three thouſand by the hand of God. ver. 5.

Ver. 11. He was zealous for my ſake.] Or, he was jealous with my jealouſy. Such was his zeal for the honour of God, and the national intereſt; he could not bear ſo notorious a breach of allegiance.

15 And the name of the Midianitiſh woman that was ſlain, was Cozbi the daughter of Zur; he was head over a people, and of a chief houſe in Midian.

16 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Vex the Midianites, and ſmite them:

18 For they vex you with their wiles, wherewith they have beguiled you, in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a Prince of Midian their ſiſter, which was ſlain in the day of the plague, for Peors ſake.

3 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt ſpake with them in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, ſaying,

Ver. 10. The earth ſwallowed them up with Korah.] Though theſe words ſeem to imply that Korah was ſwallowed up with Dathan and Abiram; yet it is moſt probable, that he was conſumed with the fire of God, with thoſe who offered incenſe unbidden, See Chap. xvi. 35.

Ver. 1. Then came the daughter of Zelophehad.] In the laſt regiſter of the Iſraelitiſh women, notice was taken of Zelophehad, who died without male iſſue, leaving only five Daughters. Theſe apprehending, that being females, they were to be excluded from all ſettled inheritance in the lands and eſtates of the country, drew up a repreſentation of their caſe, and preſented it to Moſes, then in the great court of judicature at the tabernacle.

12 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Get thee up into this mount Abarim, and ſee the land which I have given unto the children of Iſrael.

13 And when thou haſt ſeen it, thou alſo ſhalt be gathered unto thy people, as Aaron thy brother was gathered.

14 For ye rebelled againſt my commandment (in the deſert of Zin, in the ſtrife of the congregation) to ſanctify me at the water, before their eyes: that is the water of Meribah in Kadeſh in the wilderneſs of Zin.

15 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the Lord, ſaying,

16 Let the Lord, the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſet a man over the congregation,

17 Which may go out before them, and which may go in before them, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the Lord be not as ſheep which have no ſhepherd.

20 And thou ſhalt put ſome of thine honour upon him, that all the congregation of the children of Iſrael may be obedient.

21 And he ſhall ſtand before Eleazar the prieſt, who ſhall aſk counſel for him, after the judgment of Urim before the Lord: at his word ſhall they go out, and at his word they ſhall come in, both he, and all the children of Iſrael with him, even all the congregation.

22 And Moſes did as the Lord commanded him: and he took Joſhua and ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation.

23 And he laid his hands upon him, and gave him a charge, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 Offerings are to be obſerved. 3 The continual burnt-offering. 9 The offering on the ſabbath, 11 on the new-moons, 16

Ver. 12. Get thee up into this mount Abarim.] Theſe Words were ſpoken, after all that follows in this book, and in Deuteronomy, as appears from Deut. chap. xxxii. 49.

Ver. 14. Ye rebelled, &c.] See chap. xx. ver. 12.

Ver. 18. Take thee Joſhua the ſon of Nun.] So that this high office of judge of Iſrael, was not to be hereditary; nor did Moſes endeavour to perpetuate ſuch an honour in his own family: but as it required a perſon of the moſt eminent qualifications, God appointed Joſhua to be Moſes's ſucceſſor, who was not only of another family, but alſo of another tribe, viz. that of Ephraim.

Lay thine hand upon him.] Moſes, by this ceremony, transferred the public truſt upon Joſhua, which was delegated to him from God.

Ver. 20. Put ſome of thine honour upon him.] Moſes is ordered to permit him to ſhare with him immediately in the government, that the people might therefore have the greater reſpect for this his ſucceſſor.

Ver. 21. He ſhall ſtand before Eleazar the prieſt.] Both Jewiſh and Chriſtian interpreters are of opinion, that none but perſons of prime dignity were permitted to conſult the divine oracle after this manner. This privilege then, ſhews the pre-eminence Joſhua had above other Iſraelites, who, though he was not permitted to ſo near an intercourſe with God as Moſes, yet he was here aſſured, he ſhould not want direction from the oracle, in any doubt, by conſulting the high-prieſt who was to receive the anſwer.

After the judgment of Urim.] See note on Exodus, chap. xxviii. ver. 30.

Ver. 22. Moſes did as the Lord commanded him.] This is an evident proof of the diſintereſtedneſs of Moſes; for he readily ſubmitted to have the government of Iſrael transferred from his own family and tribe unto another, who was of the tribe of Ephraim, while his own children were not ſo much as prieſts, but mere Levites. This ſhews him to have been directed by a principle, which places him above all other law-givers, who always took care to advance their own family.

NOTES on Chap. XXVIII.

Ver. 1. The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying.] The ſtated ſacrifices and ſervice of the tabernacle, having now, for many years, by reaſon of the frequent and tedious journies of the Iſraelites been very much interrupted; and this new generation, not having heard the ordinances relating to them at their firſt inſtitution, and being now ſhortly to take up their reſidence in the promiſed land, where they were obliged to conform to a moſt punctual obſervance of them; God commands Moſes to repeat them to the people, in the following order of daily, weekly, monthly, and anniverſary ſacrifices.

Ver. 2. My offering and my bread.] Thoſe ſacrifices which were conſumed on the altar, were conſumed as the food of God, Lev. 3. 11.

Ver. 3. Two lambs of the firſt year.] The firſt national ſacrifice was to be offered every day, morning, and evening, throughout the whole year.

Ver. 9. On the ſabbath-day two lambs.] The ſecond national ſacrifice was weekly. On this day the burnt offerings, and meat-offerings, were ordered to be double, as appears from ver. 10.

Ver. 11. In the beginning of your months ye ſhall offer, &c.] The third ſtated ſacrifice was monthly, to be offered upon the firſt day of every month. This ſacrifice to God, is thought by ſome to have been ordained in oppoſition to the idolatry of the Gentiles, who uſed to worſhip the new moon, with great rejoicings, Spencer de Leg. Heb. But as one of the moſt natural diviſions of time is, by the periodical revolutions of the moon, which, in theſe ſerene climates, could be eaſily obſerved by all; ſo it is natural to think, that the ſolemn celebration of the new moon, in honour of the true God, was in uſe even before the riſe of idolatry, and probably made a part of the patriarchal religion.

Ver. 16. The fourteenth day is the paſſover.] This fourth and national ſacrifice was annually, viz. the great paſſover feſtival, with the feaſt of unleavened bread annexed to it, Exod. xii. 5, 6.

Ver. 24. After this manner ye ſhall offer.] This ſolemn feſtival was deſigned as an acknowledgment of God's goodneſs, in bringing them forth from Egypt, and making them a free people, which was the foundation of all their future happineſs.

26 In the day of the firſt fruits.] The firſt national ſacrifice was alſo annual, viz. at the harveſt feſtival, when the firſt fruits of corn were to be offered up.

After your weeks be out.] Seven weeks, to be counted from Eaſter to Pentecoſt, Lev. xxiii. 15, 16.

Notes on Chap. XXIX.

Ver. 1. In the ſeventh month, &c.] The ſixth national and annual ſacrifice, was to be perfomed on the feaſt of trumpets, about the time of our September. As the ſcripture no where gives the reaſon of this feſtival. authors are much divided about it: the Jews in general, believe it was inſtituted in memory of the creation, which happened at the time of the year, on which this feaſt was ordered to be celebrated. Some of the fathers are of opinion, it was in memory of the law given on Mount Sinai, at which time the trumpet and thunder was heard. Others, from ſome of the ceremonies obſerved by the Jews, by way of preparation for, and from ſome of their notions about this feſtival; have conceived that it was intended to put mankind in remembrance of the general reſurrection, which is to be uſhered in with the ſound of the trumpet. AND Moſes ſpake unto the heads of the tribes, concerning the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commmanded.

2 If a man vow a vow unto the LORD, or ſwear an oath to bind his ſoul with a bond; he ſhall not break his word, he ſhall do according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth.

NOTES on Chap. XXX.

Ver. 1. Unto the heads of the tribes.] This law was delivered to them, that they might inſtruct thoſe committed to their charge, explain the law to them, give them neceſſary cautions upon it; and alſo call them to account for the breach of their vows.

Ver. 2. If a man vow a vow unto the Lord.] Vows were early in uſe among the Hebrews: thus Jacob vowed the tenth of all his acquiſitions to the Lord, when he retired into Padan Aram, for fear of his brother Eſau, Gen. xxviii. 20. Theſe vows were commonly undertaken by thoſe who were ſollicitous to procure ſome bleſſing from God: ſo Hannah, deſirous of a ſon, in order to obtain her requeſt, vowed before hand to conſecrate him to God. 1 Sam. i. 11.

An oath to bind his ſoul.] A promiſe to a man is but a bond upon the eſtate; but a promiſe to God is a bond upon the ſoul.

Before Christ 1452.

3 If a woman alſo vow a vow unto the Lord, and bind herſelf by a bond, being in her fathers houſe in her youth;

4 And her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, and her father ſhall hold his peace at her: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

5 But if her father diſallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows or of her bonds wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand: and the Lord ſhall forgive her, becauſe her father diſallowed her.

6 And if ſhe had at all an huſband when ſhe vowed, or uttered ought out of her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul;

7 And her huſband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows ſhall ſtand, and her bonds wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

8 But if her huſband diſallow her on the day that he heard it; then he ſhall make her vow which ſhe vowed, and that which ſhe uttered with her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, of none effect: and the Lord ſhall forgive her.

9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their ſouls, ſhall ſtand againſt her.

10 And if ſhe vowed in her huſbands houſe, or bound her ſoul by a bond with an oath;

Before Christ 1452.

11 And her huſband heard it, and held his peace at her, and diſallowed her not: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

12 But if her huſband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatſoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her ſoul, ſhall not ſtand: her huſband hath made them void, and the Lord ſhall forgive her.

13 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the ſoul, her huſband may eſtabliſh it, or her huſband may make it void.

14 But if her huſband altogether hold his peace at her, from day to day; then he eſtabliſheth all her vows, or all her bonds which are upon her: he confirmeth them, becauſe he held his peace at her, in the day that he heard them.

15 But if he ſhall any ways make them void after that he hath heard them; then he ſhall bear her iniquity.

16 Theſe are the ſtatutes which the Lord commanded Moſes between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter being yet in her youth in her fathers houſe.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites:

Ver. 3. If a woman alſo vow a vow.] Thoſe who were at their own diſpoſal, and ſui juris, and their underſtanding and memory ſound, whatever they vowed, provided it was poſſible and lawful, they were bound to perform: but if the perſon vowing was under the dominion of another, that perſon was diſcharged from the obligation of the vow: for inſtance, if a woman unmarried, and conſequently at her parents diſpoſal, ſhould vow a vow, the law here orders that her vow ſhould be no further obligatory, than as her parents conſent to it at firſt making thereof; and it was the ſame with regard to wives, orphans, and ſervants, who are under the power of their huſbands, guardians, and maſters.

Ver. 14. If the huſband hold his peace.] His ſilence, or not contradicting it at the firſt propoſal, ſhall be interpreted a conſent, nor ſhall it be in the huſband's or father's power to retract that conſent, or hinder her from performing her vow; if he does, he ſhall bear her iniquity: God ſhall puniſh him, and not her, for a breach of ſacred faith.

NOTES on Chap. XXXI.

Ver. 2. Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites.] The Midianites were the poſterity of Abraham by Keturah: ſome of them ſettled ſouth of Canaan, among whom Jethro lived, and they retained the worſhip of the true God; but theſe were ſettled eaſt of Canaan, and were Midianites: afterward ſhalt thou be gathered unto thy people.

3 And Moſes ſpake unto the people, ſaying, Arm ſome of yourſelves unto the war, and let them go againſt the Midianites, and avenge the LORD of Midian.

4 Of every tribe a thouſand, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſhall ye ſend to the war.

5 So there were delivered out of the thouſands of Iſrael, a thouſand of every tribe, twelve thouſand armed for war.

6 And Moſes ſent them to the war, a thouſand of every tribe, them and Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, to the war, with the holy inſtruments, and the trumpets to blow, in his hand.

7 And they warred againſt the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moſes; and they ſlew all the males.

8 And they ſlew the kings of Midian, beſide the reſt of them that were ſlain; namely; Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: Balaam alſo the ſon of Beor they ſlew with the ſword.

9 And the children of Iſrael took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the ſpoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods.

Before Christ 1452.

10 And they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly caſtles with fire.

11 And they took all the ſpoil, and all the prey, both of men and of beaſts.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the ſpoil unto Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the camp at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

13 ¶ And Moſes, and Eleazar the prieſt, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp.

14 And Moſes was wroth with the officers of the hoſt, with the captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the battel.

15 And Moſes ſaid unto them, Have ye ſaved all the women alive?

16 Behold, theſe cauſed the children of Iſrael, through the counſel of Balaam, to commit treſpaſs againſt the LORD in the matter of Peor, and there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD.

17 Now therefore kill every male among were idolaters, neighbours to, and in confederacy with the Moabites. Their land was not deſigned to be given to the Iſraelites, nor had they interrupted them, if they had not in conformity to the counſel given them by Balaam, drawn the Iſraelites to uncleanneſs, and the worſhip of their gods; for which Moſes is here ordered to ſend an army againſt them, and utterly to deſtroy them.

Ver. 4. Of every tribe a thouſand.] To let them ſee they were to rely more upon God, than the ſtrength of their army. A thouſand men out of a tribe, ſeemed but an handful againſt ſo numerous a people.

Ver. 6. And Phinehas.] Some have thought, that from the late courageous act of Phinehas, Chap xxv. 8. he was appointed to command the troops who were to avenge the Lord of Midian. In after ages, it is certain the Maccabees, (who were of the families of the prophets) were appointed chief commanders; but then the Maccabees were the ſupreme governors of the people, and as ſuch had an undoubted right to the military command; and ſeeing Moſes, in the war with the Amorites, had ſent the forces under the conduct of Joſhua, it is moſt probable he was commander of the army at this time, and that the province appointed Phinehas was only to take care of the holy things.

With the holy inſtruments and the trumpets.] It is a queſtion not eaſily reſolveable what theſe inſtruments were; but the moſt probable opinion is, that the ark of the covenant, and what was included in it, is here to be underſtood. The ark in the following ages uſed to be carried into the field, when the people went to fight againſt their enemies; and Joſhua, not long after this, ordered it to be carried round Jericho, with the princes blowing the trumpets before it; ſo here, the holy inſtruments are joined with the trumpets. Moſes ran no riſque in venturing the ark on this occaſion, ſeeing God had aſſured them of victory.

Ver. 7. They ſlew all the males.] That is, all they met with, giving no quarter. But it is not to be underſtood of all the males of the nation; becauſe the Midianites of this country, who are reckoned with the children of the eaſt, Judg. vi. 3. were a potent and formidable enemy to Iſrael in the days of Gideon.

Ver. 17. Kill every male.] Moſes ordered the male children mong the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying with him.

18 But all the women-children that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourſelves.

19 And do ye abide without the camp ſeven days: whoſoever hath killed any perſon, and whoſoever hath touched any ſlain, purify both yourſelves and your captives, on the third day, and on the ſeventh day.

20 And purify all your raiment, and all that is made of ſkins, and all work of goats hair, and all things made of wood.

21 ¶ And Eleazar the prieſt ſaid unto the men of war which went to the battel, This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD commanded Moſes;

22 Only the gold, and the ſilver, the braſs, the iron, the tin, and the lead,

23 Every thing that may abide the fire, ye ſhall make it go through the fire, and it ſhall be clean: nevertheleſs it ſhall be purified with the water of ſeparation: and all that abideth not the fire, ye ſhall make go through the water.

24 And ye ſhall waſh your clothes on the ſeventh day, and ye ſhall be clean, and afterward ye ſhall come into the camp.

25 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

26 Take the ſum of the prey that was taken, both of man and of beaſt, thou, and Eleazar the prieſt, and the chief fathers of the congregation:

27 And divide the prey into two parts; between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battel, and between all the congregation.

Before Christ 1452.

28 And levy a tribute unto the LORD of the men of war, which went out to battel: one ſoul of five hundred, both of the perſons, and of the beeves, and of the aſſes, and of the ſheep.

29 Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the prieſt, for an heave-offering of the LORD.

30 And of the children of Iſraels half, thou ſhalt take one portion of fifty, of the perſons, of the beeves, of the aſſes, and of the flocks, of all manner of beaſts, and give them unto the Levites, which keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD.

31 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

32 And the booty being the reſt of the prey which the men of war had caught, was ſix hundred thouſand and ſeventy thouſand and five thouſand ſheep,

33 And threeſcore and twelve thouſand beeves,

34 And threeſcore and one thouſand aſſes,

35 And thirty and two thouſand perſons in all, of women that had not known man by lying with him.

36 And the half which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thouſand and ſeven and thirty thouſand and five hundred ſheep;

37 And the LORDS tribute of the ſheep was ſix hundred and threeſcore and fifteen.

children to be ſlain, that he might thereby extirpate the whole nation, as far as lay in his power, and prevent their revenging the death of their parents, in caſe they were ſuffered to live to man's eſtate.

Kill every woman that hath known man.] Why he was ſo ſevere againſt the women, we need not wonder, if we conſider, that either by proſtituting themſelves, or their daughters, they had been the chief inſtruments in drawing the Iſraelites to idolatry.

Ver. 18. All the women children—keep alive.] Seeing they were young, there was ſome hope of their being reformed from idolatry, and becoming proſelytes to the jewiſh religion.

Ver. 27. Divide the prey.] This was, as it ſeems, only the captives and cattle; but as to the plate, jewels, and other goods, every man kept what he took, See ver. 50, and 53.

Before Chriſt 1452.

38 And the beeves were thirty and ſix thouſand, of which the LORDS tribute was threeſcore and twelve.

39 And the aſſes were thirty thouſand and five hundred, of which the LORDS tribute was threeſcore and one.

40 And the perſons were ſixteen thouſand, of which the LORDS tribute was thirty and two perſons.

41 And Moſes gave the tribute which was the LORDS heave-offering, unto Eleazar the prieſt, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

42 And of the children of Iſraels half, which Moſes divided from the men that warred,

43 (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation, was three hundred thouſand and thirty thouſand and ſeven thouſand and five hundred ſheep,

44 And thirty and ſix thouſand beeves,

45 And thirty thouſand aſſes and five hundred,

46 And ſixteen thouſand perſons)

47 Even of the children of Iſraels half, Moſes took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beaſt, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

48 ¶ And the officers which were over thouſands of the hoſt, the captains of thouſands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moſes:

49 And they ſaid unto Moſes, Thy ſervants have taken the ſum of the men of war which are under our charge, and there lacketh not one man of us.

Before Chriſt 1452.

50 We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, ear-rings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our ſouls before the LORD.

51 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of them, even all wrought jewels.

52 And all the gold of the offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thouſands, and of the captains of hundreds, was ſixteen thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty ſhekels.

53 (For the men of war had taken ſpoil, every man for himſelf)

54 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of the captains of thouſands, and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, for a memorial for the children of Iſrael before the LORD.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 The Reubenites and Gadites ſue for their inheritance. 33 Moſes aſſigneth them the land. 39 They conquer it.

NOW the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they ſaw the land of Jazer, and the land of Gilead, that, behold, the place was a place for cattle;

Ver. 49. There lacketh not one man of us.] Here was an evident proof that omnipotence fought for them, and defended them under the ſhadow of his wings; this was ſo extraordinary an inſtance of the divine protection, as can ſcarce be paralleled in hiſtory. In the fifth chapter of the firſt book of the Maccabees indeed, ver. 54, we have an account of a victory of a like nature, when Judas after having ſeveral times defeated Timotheus, the heathen general, aſſaulted the city of Ephron a day and a night, and all without the loſs of a man.

Ver. 52. Sixteen thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty ſhekels.] About five talents and an half, or twenty ſeven thouſand nine hundred and nineteen pounds ſterling: three hundred ſhekels made a talent.

NOTES on Chap. XXXII.

Ver. 1. Now the children of Reuben, &c.] The country on this ſide Jordan being now entirely conquered, the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, obſerving that the country was fertile, and ſtored with good paſturage, deſired they might be permitted to ſettle there, as a place very commodious for them, having large ſtocks of cattle.

Before Chriſt 1452. Moſes, and to Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the princes of the congregation, ſaying,

3 Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and Nimrah, and Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Shebam, and Nebo, and Beon;

4 Even the country which the Lord ſmote before the congregation of Iſrael, is a land for cattle, and thy ſervants have cattle.

5 Wherefore, ſaid they, if we have found grace in thy ſight, let this land be given unto thy ſervants for a poſſeſſion, and bring us not over Jordan.

6 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and ſhall ye ſit here?

7 And wherefore diſcourage ye the heart of the children of Iſrael from going over into the land which the Lord hath given them?

8 Thus did your fathers, when I ſent them from Kadeſh-barnea to ſee the land.

9 For when they went up unto the valley of Eſhcol, and ſaw the land, they diſcouraged the heart of the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould not go into the land which the Lord had given them.

10 And the Lords anger was kindled the ſame time, and he ſware, ſaying,

11 Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, ſhall ſee the land which I ſware unto Abraham, unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob; becauſe they have not wholly followed me:

12 Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun: for they have wholly followed the Lord. Before Chriſt 1452.

13 And the Lords anger was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he made them wander in the wilderneſs forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the ſight of the Lord was conſumed.

14 And behold, ye are riſen up in your fathers ſtead, an increaſe of ſinful men, to augment yet the fierce anger of the Lord toward Iſrael.

15 For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderneſs, and ye ſhall deſtroy all this people.

16 ¶ And they came near unto him, and ſaid, We will build ſheep-folds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones.

17 But we ourſelves will go ready armed before the children of Iſrael, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones ſhall dwell in the fenced cities, becauſe of the inhabitants of the land.

18 We will not return unto our houſes, until the children of Iſrael have inherited every man his inheritance:

19 For we will not inherit with them, on yonder ſide Jordan, or forward; becauſe our inheritance is fallen to us on this ſide Jordan eaſtward.

20 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the Lord to war,

21 And will go all of you armed over

Jordan

Ver. 6. And Moſes ſaid, &c.] This requeſt ſeemed to Moſes to ariſe from an ill principle; it argued a contempt of the land of promiſe, a diſtruſt of God's power to diſpoſſeſs the Canaanites; it ſpoke covetouſneſs, they conſidering it as moſt convenient for their cattle, and alſo a neglect of their brethren, as if they cared not what became of them, themſelves being provided for.

Ver. 7. Wherefore diſcourage ye the heart, &c.] Moſes ſuſpected that it was either cowardice, or a love of eaſe, that made them petition to ſtay where they were; which ill example might have proved of bad conſequence, in diſheartening the reſt of their brethren.

Ver. 17. But we ourſelves will go ready armed, &c.] It is uncertain, whether this was originally their deſign or no; it is an inſtance, how often that which is honeſtly meant, is unhappily interpreted: Moſes, however, had reaſon to ſuſpect the worſt, and the rebuke he gave them, proceeded from the abundance of his care for the whole body; and therefore he was excuſable in this matter. The offer which they made to go in the front of the battle, and riſque their lives againſt ſuch potent enemies, without any farther advantage to themſelves, was an expreſſion of their faith in God, and love to their brethren.

Jordan before the Lord, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him, 22 And the land be ſubdued before the Lord: then afterward ye ſhall return, and be guiltleſs before the Lord, and before Iſrael; and this land ſhall be your poſſeſſion before the Lord.

23 But if ye will not do ſo, behold, ye have ſinned againſt the Lord: and be ſure your ſin will find you out.

24 Build ye cities for your little ones, and folds for your ſheep; and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth.

25 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Thy ſervants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, ſhall be there in the cities of Gilead.

27 But thy ſervants will paſs over, every man armed for war, before the Lord to battle, as my lord ſaith.

28 So concerning them Moſes commanded Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael:

29 And Moſes ſaid unto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben will paſs with you over Jordan, every man armed to battle before the Lord, and the land ſhall be ſubdued before you; then ye ſhall give them the land of Gilead for a poſſeſſion:

Before Christ 1452.

30 But if they will not paſs over with you armed, they ſhall have poſſeſſions among you in the land of Canaan.

31 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, anſwered, ſaying, As the Lord hath ſaid unto thy ſervants, ſo will we do.

32 We will paſs over armed before the Lord into the land of Canaan, that the poſſeſſion of our inheritance on this ſide Jordan may be ours.

33 And Moſes gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph, the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Baſhan, the land with the cities thereof, in the coaſts, even the cities of the country round about.

34 ¶ And the children of Gad built Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer,

35 And Atroth, Shophan, and Jazer, and Jogbehah,

36 And Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, fenced cities: and folds for ſheep.

37 And the children of Reuben, built Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Kirjathaim,

38 And Nebo, and Baal-meon (their names

Ver. 33. Moſes gave unto them, &c.] The dominions of Sihon and Og, the two vanquiſhed kings of the Amorites, extended from the river Arnon to mount Hermon. Of theſe countries, Moſes gave to the tribe of Reuben the ſouth-weſt part; being bounded on the ſouth by the river Arnon; on the weſt by Jordan; and on the north and eaſt by the tribe of Gad. The tribe of Gad was bounded by the river Jordan on the weſt; by the half tribe of Manaſſeh on the north; by the kingdom of the Amorites on the eaſt; and by the tribe of Reuben on the ſouth. The part belonging to the half tribe of Manaſſeh, was bounded by the tribe of Gad on the ſouth, by the ſea of Galilee, together with part of the river of Jordan, from its ſource to the ſaid ſea on the weſt; by mount Lebanon on the north-eaſt; and by the mountains of Gilead on the eaſt.

And unto half the tribe of Manaſſeh.] Sacred hiſtory does not mention, why the half tribe of Manaſſeh choſe to ſettle on the eaſt ſide of Jordan; perhaps, they finding the tribe of Reuben and Gad had ſucceeded in their petition, repreſented in like manner the ſtock of cattle which they had, and that this country would be equally commodious for them; which, though not large enough for three tribes, might contain two and an half. Moſes, no doubt, was inclinable to liſten to their allegation, on account that the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, had by their valour, ſubdued a great part of the country where they ſettled.

Even of the cities of the country round about.] It is obſervable, that as theſe tribes were firſt ſettled before the others; ſo they were afterwards diſplaced before them, being, for their idolatry, firſt carried captive into Aſſyria, 1 Chron. v. 25, 26. Probably, their early defection from the true religion, was owing to their being placed at ſo great a diſtance from the public worſhip. We ſee by this, how providence proportions his diſpenſations, by balancing proſperity and adverſity, and ſettling the one againſt the other.

39 And the children of Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh went to Gilead, and took it, and diſpoſſeſſed the Amorite which was in it.

40 And Moſes gave Gilead unto Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh; and he dwelt therein.

41 And Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh went and took the ſmall towns thereof, and called them Havoth-jair.

THeſe are the journeys of the children of Iſrael, which went forth out of the land of Egypt, with their armies, under the hand of Moſes and Aaron.

2 And Moſes wrote their goings out according to their journeys, by the commandment of the LORD: and theſe are their journeys according to their goings out.

3 And they departed from Rameſes in the firſt month, on the fifteenth day of the firſt month: on the morrow after the paſſover, the children of Iſrael went out with an high hand in the ſight of all the Egyptians.

4 (For the Egyptians buried all their firſt-born which the LORD had ſmitten among them: upon their gods alſo the LORD executed judgments)

5 And the children of Iſrael removed from Rameſes, and pitched in Succoth.

6 And they departed from Succoth, and pitched in Etham, which is in the edge of the wilderneſs.

Before Christ 1452.

7 And they removed from Etham, and turned again unto Pi-hahiroth, which is before Baal-zephon: and they pitched before Migdol.

8 And they departed from before Pi-hahiroth, and paſſed through the midſt of the ſea into the wilderneſs, and went three days journey in the wilderneſs of Etham, and pitched in Marah.

9 And they removed from Marah, and came unto Elim: and in Elim were twelve fountains of water, and threeſcore and ten palm-trees; and they pithed there.

10 And they removed from Elim, and encamped by the Red ſea.

11 And they removed from the Red ſea, and encamped in the wilderneſs of Sin.

12 And they took their journey out of the wilderneſs of Sin, and encamped in Dophkah.

13 And they departed from Dophkah, and encamped in Aluſh.

14 And they removed from Aluſh, and encamped at Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drink.

15 And they departed from Rephidim, and pitched in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

16 And they removed from the deſert of Sinai, and pitched at Kibroth-hattaavah.

17 And they departed from Kibroth-hattaavah, and encamped at Hazeroth.

18 And they departed from Hazeroth, and pitched in Rithmah.

19 And they departed from Rithmah, and pitched at Rimmon-parez.

20 And they departed from Rimmon-parez, and pitched in Libnah.

NOTES on Chap. XXXIII.

Ver. 1. Theſe are the journeys of the children of Iſrael.] As the peculiar providence of God remarkably appears in the protection of the Iſraelites, from their departure out of Egypt, till they came to the borders of Canaan; ſo Moſes was particularly commiſſioned to preſerve their hiſtory for the benefit of poſterity; therefore, he here recapitulates the principal ſtages of this long journey, ſetting them all before the reader in one view, that all who would take pains to examine things, might be ſatisfied, by what a train of miracles ſuch a multitude of people were fed every day, for forty years together, in a barren and inhoſpitable deſert.

48 And they departed from the mountains of Abarim, and pitched in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

49 And they pitched by Jordan from Beth-jeſimoth, even unto Abel-ſhittim, in the plains of Moab.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 The borders of the land. 16 The names of the men which ſhall divide the land.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Command the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan (this is the land that ſhall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan with the coaſts thereof)

3 Then your ſouth quarter ſhall be from the wilderneſs of Zin, along by the coaſt of Edom, and your ſouth border ſhall be the outmoſt coaſt of the ſalt ſea eaſtward.

4 And your border ſhall turn from the ſouth to the aſcent of Akrabbim, and paſs unto Zin: and the going forth thereof ſhall be from the ſouth to Kadeſh-barnea, and

Ver. 52. Deſtroy all their pictures.] See note on Levit. xxvi. 1.

Pluck down all their high places.] The groves and altars erected in mountains, which places they ſuppoſed nearer to their deities, than other parts of the earth.

Ver. 54. Ye ſhall divide the land by lot.] This partition of the country by lot, was a moſt prudent contrivance; tending to prevent effectually, all diſagreements among ſuch an obſtinate people: as the lots, however, were to bear a proportion to each tribe and family, it is ſuppoſed, from what followed, that each tribe firſt drew its lot for its own canton; and then that proper perſons were appointed to meaſure out a quantity of land for each family, according to their bigneſs: but whether this laſt was done by this, or any other method; whether the ſub-diviſions between the families, were likewiſe carried on by lot, or otherwiſe; ſure it is, that we read of no broils or jealouſies, that it ever occaſioned among them.

Ver. 55 Pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your ſides.] The eye is a part the moſt ſenſibly affected by pain; and therefore this image, pathetically expreſſes, the grievous afflictions they ſhould ſuffer by thoſe of the inhabitants, whom they neglected to extirpate, according to the divine command.

Notes on Chap. XXXIV.

Ver. 2. Command the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them.] The Iſraelites had already a ſtrict charge given them, concerning the manner of treating the inhabitants, whoſe country they were about to take poſſeſſion of: in the next place, the boundaries of the land was fixed and deſcribed to them, as God had promiſed it to Abraham, that ſo they might know where to ſtop their conqueſts; and alſo to prevent them from making encroachments on their neighbours.

Ver. 3. Your ſouth quarter ſhall be from the wilderneſs of Zin.] The ſouthern boundaries were to terminate, at the laſt point of the Salt or Dead-ſea, running by the borders of Idumea, to the moſt northern part of the river Nile; and to the Mediterranean-ſea weſtward, and along by the wilderneſs of Zin, meeting the bounds of the river Jordan.

Your ſouth border ſhall be the utmoſt coaſt of the Salt-ſea.] So that the determined boundary of the land of Canaan on the ſouth, was Idumea and the deſerts of Arabia.

Ver. 4. From the ſouth to the aſcent of Akrabbim.] Maaleh-acrabbim, or the mount of Scorpions, Joſh. xv. 3. ſo called from the multitude of ſcorpions found there.

and ſhall go on to Hazar-addar, and paſs on to Azmon.

5 And the border ſhall fetch a compaſs from Azmon unto the river of Egypt, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſea.

6 And as for the weſtern border, you ſhall even have the great ſea for a border: this ſhall be your weſt border.

7 And this ſhall be your north border; from the great ſea, you ſhall point out for you mount Hor.

8 From mount Hor ye ſhall point out your border unto the entrance of Hamath: and the goings forth of the border ſhall be to Zedad.

9 ¶ And the border ſhall go on to Ziphron, and the goings out of it ſhall be at Hazar-enan: this ſhall be your north border.

10 And ye ſhall point out your eaſt border from Hazar-enan to Shepham.

11 And the coaſt ſhall go down from Shepham to Riblah, on the eaſt ſide of Ain; and the border ſhall deſcend, and ſhall reach unto the ſide of the ſea of Chinnereth eaſtward.

Before Christ 1452.

12 And the border ſhall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſalt ſea: This ſhall be your land with the coaſts thereof round about.

13 And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the land which ye ſhall inherit by lot, which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half-tribe.

14 For the tribe of the children of Reuben, according to the houſe of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad, according to the houſe of their fathers, have received their inheritance, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh have received their inheritance.

15 The two tribes and the half-tribe have received their inheritance on this ſide Jordan near Jericho, eaſtward, toward the ſun-riſing.

16 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Theſe are the names of the men which ſhall divide the land unto you: Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

18 And ye ſhall take one prince of every

Ver. 5. From Azmon, unto the river of Egypt.] That is, to the river Nile. It is certain, the Iſraelites never did extend their conqueſts thus far, but they nevertheleſs had a permiſſion to do it.

At the ſea.] That is, the Mediterranean-ſea, called the Great Sea, ver 6.

Ver. 7. You ſhall point out for you mount Hor.] This does not mean that mountain on which Aaron died, which was on the eaſt of Canaan; whereas this is on the north, and probably the ſame with Hermon; it was a long ridge of hills, of which one part might be called Hor, the other parts Shenir, Syrion, Sion, Miſar, ſee Deut. iii. 9 and iv. 48. and Pſalm xlii. 6. and therefore the general name, is ſometimes expreſſed, in the plural Hermonim, i. e. the Hermonian hills.

Ver. 8. Unto the entrance of Hamath.] This city was afterwards called Epiphania, not far from Rehob, ch. xiii. 21.

Ver. 9. The border ſhall go on to Ziphron.] This was likewiſe a town in thoſe parts, but is no where elſe mentioned in the ſcripture.

The goings out of it ſhall be at Hazar-enan.] That is, the village of the fountain, viz. of Jordan, which took its riſe in that tract.

Ver. 11. The coaſt ſhall go down from Shepham to Riblah.] Shepham and Riblah, were two towns on the banks of the river Jordan; ſo that the eaſtern bounds of the land, began from the head of Jordan, and extended along the whole courſe of the river to the Dead-ſea, until it met with the ſouth bounds in the borders of Edom.

The ſea of Chinnereth.] This is called, in the New Teſtament, the ſea of Tiberias, or Galilee.

Ver. 12. The goings out of it ſhall be at the ſalt-ſea.] Here the eaſtern and ſouthern borders met.

Ver. 13. This is the land which ye ſhall inherit.] This is repeated, that they might not extend their deſires beyond the bounds of God's gracious grant to them. From the foregoing deſcription, it appears, that they were placed in a very pleaſant country; being bounded on the ſouth by lofty mountains, which ſheltered them from the ſultry air of the Arabian deſerts; on the weſt by the Mediterranean-ſea, which ſent them refreſhing breezes; on the north by mount Lebanon, which kept off the colder blaſts from that quarter; and on the eaſt, by the delightful plains of Jordan.

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the ſon of Ammihud.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the ſon of Chiſlon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the ſon of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joſeph, for the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, Hanniel the ſon of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the ſon of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the ſon of Parnach.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, Paltiel the ſon of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Aſher, Ahihud the ſon of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the ſon of Ammihud.

29 Theſe are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Iſrael in the land of Canaan.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 Eight and forty cities for the Levites with their ſuburbs, and meaſure thereof. 6 Six of them are to be cities of refuge. 9 The laws of murder. 31 No ſatisfaction for murder.

AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, ſaying,

2 Command the children of Iſrael, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion, cities to dwell in: and ye ſhall give alſo unto the Levites ſuburbs for the cities round about them.

NOTES on Chap. XXXV.

Ver. 2. That they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion, cities to dwell in.] As the land was ordered to be divided by lot among the tribes of Iſrael, it was reaſonable that ſome proviſion ſhould be made for the prieſts and Levites, who were a diſtinct body from the reſt of the nation, and had no ſhare in the diviſion of the land. The Levites indeed were plentifully provided for, by the laws concerning tythes and offerings; but then it was not convenient, when they came to Canaan, that they ſhould continue as in the wilderneſs, to dwell about the tabernacle; therefore proper habitations are provided for them, where they might live comfortably and uſefully.

Suburbs.] Theſe were certain ſpaces of ground about, and belonging to the cities, for paſtures, orchards, gardens, ſheep-houſes, barns, and other little rural conveniencies; but the Levites were not to employ themſelves in tillage, therefore they were neither tilled nor planted with vines

Ver. 4. A thouſand cubits.] It is 2000 in the Greek verſion; which, in the next verſe, is proved to be the right reading. Two thouſand cubits is about three fourths of a mile.

give unto the Levites, there ſhall be ſix cities for refuge, which ye ſhall appoint for the man-ſlayer, that he may flee thither: and to them ye ſhall add forty and two cities.

7 So all the cities which ye ſhall give to the Levites, ſhall be forty and eight cities: them ſhall ye give with their ſuburbs.

8 And the cities which ye ſhall give, ſhall be of the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael: from them that have many, ye ſhall give many; but from them that have few, ye ſhall give few: every one ſhall give of his cities unto the Levites, according to his inheritance which he inheriteth.

9 ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, when ye be come over Jordan, into the land of Canaan:

11 Then ye ſhall appoint you cities, to be cities of refuge for you; that the ſlayer may flee thither which killeth any perſon at unawares.

12 And they ſhall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger; that the man-ſlayer die not, until he ſtand before the congregation in judgment.

13 And of theſe cities which ye ſhall give, ſix cities ſhall ye have for refuge.

Before Christ 1452.

14 Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan, and three cities ſhall ye give in the land of Canaan, which ſhall be cities of refuge.

15 Theſe ſix cities ſhall be a refuge, both for the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger, and for the ſojourner among them: that every one that killeth any perſon unawares, may flee thither.

16 And if he ſmite him with an inſtrument of iron (ſo that he die) he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

17 And if he ſmite him with throwing a ſtone (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

18 Or if he ſmite him with an hand-weapon of wood (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

19 The revenger of blood himſelf ſhall ſlay the murderer: when he meeteth him, he ſhall ſlay him.

20 But if he thruſt him of hatred, or hurl at him by laying of wait, that he die;

21 Or in enmity ſmite him with his

Ver. 6. Six cities for refuge.] The Levites were to have in all forty-eight cities, ver 7. out of theſe, ſix were to be privileged places, or cities of refuge; whither any perſon, who had the misfortune to kill another by accident, might flee and take ſanctuary. And what more juſt and merciful conſtitution could be deviſed? Thither the innocent man-ſlayer might eſcape, and by that means avoid the rage of the deceaſed perſons relations, who, according to the cuſtoms of thoſe times, were permitted, and did often times immediately revenge their kindred's death. Theſe aſylums, however, were very different from thoſe of other nations; they did not ſcreen them who were guilty of wilful murder, but ſuch, according to the tenor of the ſame law, were to be dragged even from the horns of the altar.

That he might flee thither.] Theſe cities of refuge were ſituated in different parts of the country; ſo that the man-ſlayer, in whatever part of the land he dwelt, might each one or other of them in half a day's time, and the beſt proviſion was made for ſuch a perſon's eſcape; the ways that led to the cities of refuge, were to be made very plain and broad, and kept in good repair; two ſtudents of law were to accompany him; that if the avenger of blood ſhould overtake him, before he got to the city, they might endeavour to pacify him by wiſe perſuaſions; and leſt he ſhould miſs his way, there were poſts erected, where two or three ways met, with the word Micklal, i. e. the city of refuge, inſcribed thereon, to direct him in the right road.

Ver. 16. If he ſmite him with an iuſtrument of iron.] It was preſumed, if he aſſaulted a man with a weapon, he intended him a miſchief; though perhaps there was no malice prepenſe, and he did it in a paſſion.

Ver. 19. When he meeteth him, he ſhall ſlay him.] The Chaldaic paraphráſe inſtead of when he meeteth him, ſays, when he ſhall be condemned unto him by judgment; and ſo ſome underſtand this privilege to be, after the lawful judgment of the magiſtrate.

hand, that he die: he that ſmote him ſhall ſurely be put to death; for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood ſhall ſlay the murderer, when he meeteth him.

22 But if he thruſt him ſuddenly without enmity, or have caſt upon him any thing without laying of wait;

23 Or with any ſtone wherewith a man may die, ſeeing him not, and caſt it upon him that he die, and was not his enemy, neither ſought his harm:

24 Then the congregation ſhall judge between the ſlayer, and the revenger of blood, according to theſe judgments.

25 And the congregation ſhall deliver the ſlayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation ſhall reſtore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he ſhall abide in it unto the death of the high prieſt, which was anointed with the holy oil.

26 But if the ſlayer ſhall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled;

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the ſlayer; he ſhall not be guilty of blood:

28 Becauſe he ſhould have remained in the city of his refuge, until the death of the high prieſt: but after the death of the high prieſt, the ſlayer ſhall return into the land of his poſſeſſion.

Before Christ 1452.

29 So theſe things ſhall be for a ſtatute of judgment unto you, throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

30 Whoſo killeth any perſon, the murderer ſhall be put to death by the mouth of witneſſes: but one witneſs ſhall not teſtify againſt any perſon, to cauſe him to die.

31 Moreover, ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is guilty of death: but he ſhall be ſurely put to death.

32 And ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he ſhould come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the prieſt.

33 So ye ſhall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood it defileth the land: and the land cannot be cleanſed of the blood that is ſhed therein, but by the blood of him that ſhed it.

34 Defile not therefore the land which ye ſhall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for I the LORD dwell among the children of Iſrael.

Ver. 25. He ſhall abide in it unto the death of the high prieſt.] The cities of refuge were all Levitical cities, and the high prieſt, being the head of the tribe of Levi, conſequently had a peculiar dominion over thoſe cities, as well as the perſons confined in them; at his ſuit as it were, the delinquent was impriſoned; and therefore at his death, it fell; Actio moritur cum perſona. The reaſon given by the Jews, why the man-ſlayer was baniſhed till the deceaſe of the high prieſt is, that the death of ſo great a man, was a proper motive to make all reſentment on the part of the proſecutor ceaſe. Chriſtian interpreters however, conſider the high prieſt in this reſpect, as a type of Chriſt; by whoſe death mankind obtain a ſpiritual freedom and deliverance.

Ver. 27. And the revenger of blood find him without the borders—and—kill the ſlayer; he ſhall not be guilty.] If the offender was at any time caught ſtraggling out of the borders, or ſtealing home again, he forfeited the benefit of protection. If Chriſtians, who have flown to Chriſt for ſuccour, forſake and wander from him, they cannot without an abſurdity, expect to be protected and ſaved by him: to draw back, is to draw back unto perdition.

Ver. 30. One witneſs ſhall not teſtify againſt any perſon.] In right reaſon there ſhould be two; for the witneſs who affirms, and the accuſed who denies, make an equal balance; a third therefore is neceſſarily required to incline the ſcale.

Ver. 31. Ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for the life of a murderer.] This rigid ſeverity of the law, in ſuffering no compenſation to be accepted for the life of a murder ſerved to imprint on the minds of the people, a deep ſenſe of the heinouſneſs of the crime of murder; ſince nothing leſs than the blood of the criminal, could expiate that guilt, and cleanſe the land from its pollution.

Before Chriſt 1452.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 The inconvenience of the inheritance of daughters, 5 is remedied by marrying in their own tribes, 7 leſt the inheritance ſhould be removed from the tribe. 10 The daughters of Zelophehad marry their fathers brothers ſons.

AND the chief fathers of the families of the children of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of the ſons of Joſeph, came near, and ſpake before Moſes, and before the princes the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael:

2 And they ſaid, The Lord commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Iſrael: and my lord was commanded by the Lord to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother, unto his daughters.

3 And if they be married to any of the ſons of the other tribes of the children of Iſrael; then ſhall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and ſhall be put to the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

4 And when the jubile of the children of Iſrael ſhall be, then ſhall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

Before Chriſt 1452.

5 And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael, according to the word of the Lord, ſaying, The tribe of the ſons of Joſeph hath ſaid well.

6 This is the thing which the Lord doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, ſaying, Let them marry to whom they think beſt; only to the family of the tribe of their father ſhall they marry:

7 So ſhall not the inheritance of the children of Iſrael remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

8 And every daughter that poſſeſſeth an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Iſrael, ſhall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Iſrael may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers.

9 Neither ſhall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to his own inheritance.

10 Even as the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo did the daughters of Zelophehad.

Notes on Chap. XXXVI.

Ver. 1. The chief fathers of the families.] The portion that hath been given to the daughters of Zelophehad; and the laws which ordered the eſtates of thoſe who died without iſſue male, ſhould deſcend to their daughters, gave the elders of Iſrael ſome reaſon to fear, that by theſe heireſſes marrying into different tribes, the parts allotted to each would be confounded; as theſe eſtates would be of courſe alienated from their own tribe, and incorporated into another by the right of their huſbands; nor would the year of jubilee rectify this inconvenience, ſince theſe inheritances would, by the common right of marriage, deſcend at the jubilee, to the heirs of thoſe women who married into another tribe. Theſe conſiderations induced them to preſent a petition to Moſes, to deſire him to prevent this inconvenience by a particular law.

Ver. 6. Let them marry to whom they think beſt.] They were not confined to any particular perſon, but were permitted to chuſe among thoſe deſcended from the ſame ſtock, with this proviſo, that they did not marry a man of another tribe, nor a man of another family, in their own tribe. This was injoined to preſerve order in the commonwealth; and particularly to prevent the mixture of the tribe of Judah (from which the Meſſiah was to deſcend) with other tribes.

Ver. 8. Every daughter that poſſeſſeth an inheritance.] Heireſſes were to obſerve what is here commanded; but thoſe who had no inheritance, might marry into what tribe they pleaſed.

The Fifth BOOK of MOSES,

CALLED

DEUTERONOMY.

The ARGUMENT.

This book is called from the Greek Deuteronomy, i. e. a ſecond law, it being a recapitulation of the ſeveral laws already delivered. Thoſe Iſraelites, to whom the law was firſt given in the wilderneſs, being dead; a repetition of it ſeemed neceſſary to this new generation of men. Here then are contained ſeveral additional laws, explications, and enlargements, enforced by the ſtrongeſt and moſt pathetic motives to obedience, taking up the ſpace of one month.

CHAP. I.

Moſes rehearſes the ſtory of God's promiſe.

Before Chriſt 1451.

THESE be the words which Moſes ſpake unto all Iſrael, on this ſide Jordan in the wilderneſs, in the plain over againſt the Red ſea, between Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Dizahab.

NOTES on Chap. I.

and Og the king of Baſhan, which dwelt at Aſtaroth in Edrei.

5 On this ſide Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moſes to delare this law, ſaying,

6 The LORD our God ſpake unto us in Horeb, ſaying, Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount:

7 Turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the ſouth, and by the ſea-ſide, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river the river Euphrates.

8 Behold, I have ſet the land before you: go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, to give unto them, and to their ſeed after them.

9 ¶ And I ſpake unto you at that time, ſaying, I am not able to bear you myſelf alone:

10 The LORD your God hath multiplied you, and behold, you are this day as the ſtars of heaven for multitude.

11 (The LORD God of your fathers make you a thouſand times ſo many more as ye are, and bleſs you as he hath promiſed you!)

12 How can I myſelf alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden, and your ſtrife?

13 Take ye wiſe men and underſtanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you.

14 And ye anſwered me, and ſaid, The thing which thou haſt ſpoken, is good for us to do.

15 So I took the chief of your tribes, wiſe men, and known, and made them heads over you, captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes.

16 And I charged your judges at that time, ſaying, Hear the cauſes between your brethren, and judge righteouſly between every man and his brother, and the ſtranger that is with him.

month, and on the firſt day of the twelfth month, Moſes is ſuppoſed to have died. This laſt part of his life, therefore, he ſpent in laying before the Iſraelites an account of their travels, with the many providences, ſignal mercies, and judgments attending them; in repeating the ſeveral laws before preſcribed, and adding new ones; and enforcing the whole, with the moſt preſſing exhortations to a grateful and dutiful obedience.

On this ſide Jordan.] That is on the eaſt, where they were encamped at this time.

Over againſt the Red-ſea.] Thus the Greek and Chaldaic paraphraſe render it; adding the word ſea. Others keep the Hebrew name Zuph, which is in the margin, and ſignifies flags or ruſhes, ſuch as grow by the ſea and rivers ſides: theſe interpreters explain it, not of the Sea Zuph, (the ordinary Hebrew name for the Red or Arabian ſea, the children of Iſrael being now at a great diſtance from thence) but underſtand it rather of ſome flaggy place on the banks of the river Jordan; or elſe on the ſides of the Dead-ſea, towards the wilderneſs of Arabia.

Ver. 2. There are eleven days journey.] The way between Horeb and the plains of Moab, is but a few days journey; even to thoſe who go to Kadeſh-barnea. This was inſerted to ſhew, that it was the will and pleaſure of the Almighty, (and could not ariſe from their having miſtaken the way) that what might have been effected in eleven days, the Iſraelites ſhould not accompliſh in leſs than than thirty and eight years.

Ver. 4. Aſtaroth.] This was an ancient city in the country of Baſhan.

Ver. 6. In Horeb.] Rather by or near Horeb; for God delivers his oracle, not from the monnt, but from the tabernacle.

Ver. 7. Go to the mount of the Amorites—in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the ſouth.] The word ar ſignifies a mount, but was likewiſe the proper name of a place, Numb. xxi. 28. Arebah commonly ſignifies a plain, but why might it not be a name given to certain diſtricts; as alſo Shapelah a vale, and Negeb the ſouth, be proper names of places? This paſſage will then run thus: Go unto Ar of the Amorites, and unto all the places nigh thereunto, in Arebah, in Ar, in Shapelah, and in Negeb. And this will give the reader a more diſtinct idea of the country, than when the words are rendered by appellatives.

Ver. 14. The thing which thou haſt ſpoken is good for us to do.] Moſes mentions this, not from a principle of vanity; not to court their applauſe, or to remind them of their approbation, but to aggravate the ſin of their mutinies and diſcontents afterwards; and to ſhew them, that the government they quarrelled with, was what they themſelves had conſented to.

Before Christ 1490.

17 Ye ſhall not reſpect perſons in judgment, but you ſhall hear the ſmall as well as the great; you ſhall not be afraid of the face of man, for the judgment is Gods: and the cauſe that is too hard for you, bring it unto me, and I will hear it.

18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye ſhould do.

19 ¶ And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible wilderneſs, which you ſaw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the LORD our God commanded us; and we came to Kadeſh-barnea.

20 And I ſaid unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites, which the LORD our God doth give unto us.

21 Behold, the LORD thy God hath ſet the land before thee: go up and poſſeſs it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath ſaid unto thee; fear not, neither be diſcouraged.

22 ¶ And ye came near unto me every one of you, and ſaid, We will ſend men before us, and they ſhall ſearch us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we muſt go up, and into what cities we ſhall come.

23 And the ſaying pleaſed me well: and I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe.

24 And they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley of Eſhcol, and ſearched it out.

25 And they took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and ſaid, It is a good land which the LORD our God doth give us.

Before Christ 1451.

26 Notwithſtanding, ye would not go up, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God.

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hands of the Amorites, to deſtroy us.

28 Whither ſhall we go up? our brethren have diſcouraged our heart, ſaying, The people is greater and taller than we, the cities are great and walled up to heaven, and moreover we have ſeen the ſons of the Anakims there.

29 Then I ſaid unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them.

30 The LORD your God which goeth before you, he ſhall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes:

31 And in the wilderneſs, where thou haſt ſeen how that the LORD thy God bare thee as a man doth bear his ſon, in all the way that ye went, until ye came unto this place.

32 Yet in this thing ye did not believe the LORD your God,

33 Who went in the way before you to ſearch you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night to ſhew you by what way ye ſhould go, and in a cloud by day.

34 And

Ver. 17. The judgment is God's.] They were the miniſters of God, and acted by his authority, and therefore ought to give judgment with perfect equity, reſolution, and impartiality, remembering they were the repreſentatives of the Almighty, and therefore accountable to him.

Ver. 19. That great and terrible wilderneſs.] It is here called great, on account of the largeneſs of its extent, and terrible, becauſe almoſt every where deſolate, and inhabited for the moſt part by wild beaſts.

27 Becauſe the Lord hated us.] Such were their unworthy notions of the Deity. They ſuſpected he had brought them out of Egypt, only to render their condition worſe than before; whereas, ingenuous minds, would have conſidered this deliverance from ſlavery and oppreſſion, to be governed by laws and rulers of their own, as one of the greateſt bleſſings.

28 Walled up to heaven.] This is an hyperbolical expreſſion, very common in the oriental languages, and implies only, that the walls of their cities were exceeding lofty.

Ver. 31. God bare thee as a man doth bear his ſon.] This expreſſes the tender care of divine providence towards them.

Before Christ 1451.

34 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, and was wroth, and ſware, ſaying,

35 Surely there ſhall not one of theſe men of this evil generation ſee that good land, which I ſware to give unto your fathers;

36 Save Caleb the ſon of Jephuneh, he ſhall ſee it, and to him will I give the land that he hath trodden upon, and to his children, becauſe he hath wholly followed the LORD.

37 Alſo the LORD was angry with me for your ſakes, ſaying, Thou alſo ſhalt not go in thither.

38 But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, which ſtandeth before thee, he ſhall go in thither. Encourage him: for he ſhall cauſe Iſrael to inherit it.

39 Moreover, your little ones which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, and your children which in that day had no knowledge between good and evil, they ſhall go in thither, and unto them will I give it, and they ſhall poſſeſs it.

40 But as for you, turn ye, and take your journey into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red ſea.

41 Then ye anſwered and ſaid unto me, We have ſinned againſt the LORD, we will go up and fight, according to all that the LORD our God commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye were ready to go up into the hill.

Before Christ 1451.

42 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Say unto them, Go not up, neither fight, for I am not among you; leſt ye be ſmitten before your enemies.

43 So I ſpake unto you, and ye would not hear, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD, and went preſumptuouſly up into the hill.

44 And the Amorites which dwelt in that mountain, came out againſt you, and chaſed you as bees do, and deſtroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah.

45 And ye returned and wept before the LORD; but the LORD would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you.

46 So ye abode in Kadeſh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there.

CHAP. II.

THen we turned, and took our journey into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red ſea, as the LORD ſpake unto me: and we compaſſed mount Seir many days.

2 And the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying,

3 Ye have compaſſed this mountain long enough: turn you northward.

4 And command thou the people, ſaying, Ye are to paſs through the coaſt of your brethren the children of Eſau, which dwell in Seir, and they ſhall be afraid of you: take ye good heed unto yourſelves therefore.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. Then we turned, &c.] From the borders of Cannan to go ſouthward. It is remarkable, that Moſes, though he informs this new generation, how their fathers ſpent near thirty eight years in tedious marches, to and fro in that deſert country; yet he does not record what happened during that tedious march back again to the Red ſea; but paſſes it over in ſilence, as a dark time, and makes 5 Meddle not with them; for I will not give you of their land, no not ſo much as a foot-breadth, becauſe I have given mount Seir unto Eſau for a poſſeſſion.

6 Ye ſhall buy meat of them for money, that ye may eat; and ye ſhall alſo buy water of them for money, that ye may drink.

7 For the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee in all the works of thy hand: he knoweth thy walking through this great wilderneſs: theſe forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee, thou haſt lacked nothing.

8 And when we paſſed by from our brethren the children of Eſau, which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elath, and from Ezion-gaber, we turned and paſſed by the way of the wilderneſs of Moab.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Diſtreſs not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battel: for I will not give thee of their land for a poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given Ar unto the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion.

10 The Emims dwelt therein in times paſt, a people great and many, and tall as the Anakims;

12 The Horims alſo dwelt in Seir beforetime, but the children of Eſau ſucceeded them when they had deſtroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their ſtead, as Iſrael did unto the land of his poſſeſſion, which the LORD gave unto them.

13 Now riſe up, ſaid I, and get you over the brook Zered: and we went over the brook Zered.

14 And the ſpace in which we came from Kadeſh-barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were waſted out from among the hoſt, as the LORD ſware unto them.

15 For indeed the hand of the LORD was againſt them, to deſtroy them from among the hoſt, until they were conſumed.

16 ¶ So it came to paſs when all the men of war were conſumed and dead from among the people,

17 That the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying,

18 Thou art to paſs over through Ar, the coaſt of Moab, this day.

Ver. 5. Meddle not with them.] They were not to revenge the affront which they received from the Edomites, when they were refuſed a paſſage through their country. Before God brought the Iſraelites to deſtroy their enemies in Canaan, he taught them to forgive their enemies in Edom.

Ver. 6 Buy water.] We may may underſtand this of wells ready digged.

Ver. 10. The Emims dwelt therein.] As the original word ſignifies terrible, it was probably given them by the Moabites, from their being remarkably terrible to their neighbours.

Ver. 12. The Horims alſo dwelt in Seir.] The hiſtory of the expulſion of the Emims by the Moabites, and of the Horites by the Edomites, is no where recorded; but it ſeems to be mentioned in this place, by way of encouragement to the Iſraelites, not to fear the ſtouteſt enemies, that ſhould oppoſe their poſſeſſing themſelves of the promiſed land. If God had done thus much for the Moabites and Edomites, much more for Iſrael his peculiar people.

The ſtory of the conqueſt of Og king of Baſhan.

THen we turned, and went up the way to Baſhan: and Og the king of Baſhan came out againſt us, he and all his people, to battel at Edrei.

2 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Fear him not: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land into thy hand, and thou ſhalt do unto him as thou didſt unto Sihon king of the Amorites which dwelt at Heſhbon.

3 So the Lord our God delivered into our hands Og alſo the king of Baſhan, and all his people: and we ſmote him until none was left to him remaining. Before Chriſt 1451.

4 And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, threeſcore cities, all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

5 All theſe cities were fenced with high walls, gates and bars, beſides unwalled towns a great many.

6 And we utterly deſtroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king of Heſhbon, utterly deſtroying the men, women, and children of every city.

7 But all the cattle, and the ſpoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourſelves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites, the land that was on this ſide Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto mount Hermon:

Ver. 9. Which Hermon the Sidonians call Sirion.] This mountain had five different names or appellations; Hermon, Sirion, Shenir, Sion, and Hor. Sirion ſignifies a mountain; Hermon, by the Sidonians, was called by way of eminence, the mountain.

Ver. 1. Now therefore hearken, O Iſrael.] Moſes having thus laid before them, ſo long a train of divine diſpenſations towards their nation, exhorts them here, in the moſt ſerious and earneſt manner, to be punctually obedient to the laws of God, and cautious of offending him; this being the very intent for which they were conducted to the promiſed land, and the abſolute condition of their peaceful and happy enjoyment of it.

Ver. 2. Ye ſhall not add unto the word which I command you, neither ſhall you diminiſh ought from it.] You ſhall neither add to the law which I have given you, any heatheniſh ſuperſtitions, or modes of worſhip of your own invention; nor ſhall you wilfully omit any plain duty which it requires. But it muſt not be ſuppoſed, that no future prophet, commiſſioned by God, had power to alter any part, or even to change the whole of the Moſaic diſpenſation; For the ſame God who had commiſſioned Moſes, to inſtitute laws to the Jews, which were adapted to the preſent temper of that people, might commiſſion other prophets to abrogate, and ſet thoſe inſtitutions aſide, when the end of them was attained. And though the Almighty thought proper to conceal from Moſes, that his laws were to be only of a temporary duration, and that they had no other intention, than to introduce a better and more perfect diſpenſation; yet this did not hinder him from revealing that myſtery to others.

17 The likeneſs of any beaſt that is on the earth, the likeneſs of any winged fowl that flieth in the air,

18 The likeneſs of any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeneſs of any fiſh that is in the waters beneath the earth:

19 And leſt thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou ſeeſt the ſun, and the moon, and the ſtars, even all the hoſt of heaven, ſhouldeſt be driven to worſhip them, and ſerve them, which the LORD thy God hath divided unto all nations under the whole heaven.

Ver. 15. For ye ſaw no manner of ſimilitude.] God would not appear in the figure of a man, or any other object, that might ſeem to repreſent him to their ſenſes or imagination as a corporeal object, and ſo tempt them to make any image of him, to worſhip it after the manner of the heathens: Moſes therefore puts them in mind of this particular, as a ſtrong and everlaſting argument, to keep them clear of all ſuperſtitious or idolatrous worſhip of him, by the uſe of any kind of image, picture, or reſemblance of any created being.

Ver. 16. Leſt ye corrupt yourſelves, and make you a graven image, the ſimilitude of any figure.] It could never enter into the heart of a legiſlator, to have ſuppoſed any occaſion for ſuch a prohibition, had he not been a witneſs of thoſe horrid impieties and groſs idolatry which he had ſeen in Egypt, where gods of all ſorts were worſhipped, and even dead perſons deified; for, beſides the celeſtial, the Egyptians had their terreſtrial gods; for moſt of their princes, who had merited well of the people, were, after their death canonized, and invocated under the names of Sol, Saturnus, Rhea, Jupiter, Juno, Vulcanus, Veſta, and Mercurius, which, according to Diodorus, were the eight firſt hero gods which the Egyptians worſhipped; nay, and (what is ſcarce credible) they came at laſt to give divine honours to ſeveral animals, beaſts, birds, fiſhes, and reptiles, and that with ſo great a variety and diſagreement among themſelves, that except ſome of the principal deities, which were honoured all the kingdom over; there was almoſt in every town or village, a different god, held in veneration in one place, and deteſted in the next, which often occaſioned bitter animoſities, and ſometimes inveterate quarrels and dangerous wars. At length, they were even ſo ridiculous, as to worſhip vegetables, for which Juvenal ſatyrizes them, ſaying,

> O ſanctas gentes, quibus hæc naſcuntur in hortis > Numina!

Ver. 19. Leſt thou lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou ſeeſt the ſun.] The heavenly luminaries were the firſt objects of profane adoration, and the moſt plauſible idolatry, leading the adoration to thoſe creatures, that not only are in ſituation above us, but are moſt ſenſibly glorious in themſelves, and moſt generally ſerviceable to the world: the nations, ſtruck with the viſible ſplendor of the heavenly bodies, and with the ſenſible benefits derived from them, ſtopped ſhort in blind admiration of their beautiful appearance, inſtead of turning their attentive minds to the adoration of that viſible intelligence, by whom they were created. The plauſibility of this ſpecies of idolatry, made it the more dangerous, and the more neceſſary for Moſes to caution the people againſt it. "When thou ſeeſt the ſun, moon, and ſtars, ſays he, thou will ſo admire their height and brightneſs, their regular motion, and powerful influence, that thou wilt be ſtrongly tempted to give that glory to them, which is due to him that made them, and made them what they are to us, who gave them their beings, and made them bleſſings to the world:" ſo ſtrong is the temptation to ſenſe! ſo ſtrong the impulſe of a vain imagination, and the impetuous torrent of the cuſtom of the nations! and ſo weak is faith in an inviſible God, and an inviſible world!

20 But the LORD hath taken you, and brought you forth out of the iron furnace even out of Egypt, to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day.

21 Furthermore, the LORD was angry with me for your ſakes, and ſware that I ſhould not go over Jordan, and that I ſhould not go in unto that good land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

22 But I muſt die in this land, I muſt not go over Jordan: but ye ſhall go over and poſſeſs that good land.

23 Take heed unto yourſelves, leſt ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God which he made with you, and make you a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee.

24 For the LORD thy God is a conſuming fire, even a jealous God.

25 ¶ When thou ſhalt beget children, and childrens children, and ſhalt have remained long in the land, and ſhall corrupt yourſelves, and make a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, and ſhall do evil in the ſight of the LORD thy God, to provoke him to anger:

26 I call heaven and earth to witneſs againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſoon utterly periſh from off the land whereunto you go over Jordan to poſſeſs it: ye ſhall not prolong your days upon it, but ſhall utterly be deſtroyed.

27 And the LORD ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and ye ſhall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD ſhall lead you.

28 And there ye ſhall ſerve gods, the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone, which neither ſee, nor hear, nor eat, nor ſmell.

29 But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt find him, if thou ſeek him with all thy heart and with all thy ſoul.

31 (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God) he will not forſake thee, neither deſtroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he ſware unto them.

32 For aſk now of the days that are paſt, which were before thee, ſince the day that God created man upon the earth, and aſk from the one ſide of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any ſuch thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it?

33 Did ever people hear the voice of God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire, as thou haſt heard, and live?

34 Or hath God aſſayed to go and take him a nation from the midſt of another nation, by temptations, by ſigns, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?

10 And ſhewing mercy unto thouſands, of them that love me and keep my commandments.

11 Thou ſhalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltleſs that taketh his name in vain.

12 Keep the ſabbath-day to ſanctify it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee.

15 And remember that thou waſt a ſervant in the land of Egypt, and that the Lord thy God brought thee out thence, through a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm: therefore the Lord thy God commanded thee to keep the ſabbath-day.

Ver. 6. I am the Lord, &c.] See the note on Exodus, chap. 20.

Ver. 15. Remember that thou waſt a ſervant in the land of Egypt.] In Exodus, the obſervation of the ſabbath is enforced from the creation of the world; here the argument brought to enforce it is, the deliverance of the children of Iſrael out of Egypt; perhaps becauſe it was typical of our redemption by Chriſt, in memory of which the Chriſtian ſabbath was obſerved: this argument ſerved alſo as a motive to excite their compaſſion towards their ſervants, who were themſelves ſervants in Egypt, and to indulge them in a ſeventh day's reſt, in remembrance of their condition in Egypt, where no reſt from labour was allowed them.

Ver. 16. That it may go well with thee.] This is an addition to what we meet with in Exodus xx. 12. as a farther motive to obedience. The apoſtle takes notice of it, Epheſ. vi. 3.

Ver. 22. He added no more.] God pronounced the words of the decalogue immediately to the people; the reſt of the law was given to Moſes, who delivered it to the people.

Before Chriſt 1451.

23 And it came to paſs when ye heard the voice out of the midſt of the darkneſs (for the mountain did burn with fire) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders.

24 And ye ſaid, Behold, the Lord our God hath ſhewed us his glory, and his greatneſs, and we have heard his voice out of the midſt of the fire: we have ſeen this day that God doth talk with man, and he liveth.

25 Now therefore why ſhould we die? for this great fire will conſume us. If we hear the voice of the Lord our God any more, then we ſhall die.

26 For who is there of all fleſh that hath heard the voice of the living God, ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire (as we have) and lived?

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the Lord our God ſhall ſay; and ſpeak thou unto us all that the Lord our God ſhall ſpeak unto thee, and we will hear it, and do it.

28 And the Lord heard the voice of your words, when ye ſpake unto me; and the Lord ſaid unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have ſpoken unto thee: they have well ſaid all that they have ſpoken.

3 ¶ Hear

Ver. 29. O that there were ſuch an heart in them.] This expreſſion denotes, that mens compliance with their duty, and the happineſs which thence ariſes to them, are things highly pleaſing and acceptable to God, the moſt ſincere lover of ſouls. From theſe, and the like texts of ſcripture, ſome are apt to reaſon with themſelves, that if God be ſo deſirous of mens reformation, why does he not bring it about by his Almighty power; but though God could eaſily over-rule the liberty of man's will and choice, and reſtrain him from doing any thing but what is good, yet it is not conſonant to wiſdom, that his power ſhould be exerted this way; becauſe it would entirely deſtroy all the morality of mens actions, and take away the very nature of virtue and vice; they would be mere machines, rather than intelligent beings. Should God make uſe of the irreſiſtible influence of his power upon free-agents, their operations, however regular they might be, would no more be denominated virtuous, than the movements of a watch or clock. So far is it therefore from being unworthy of God, to forbear exerting his irreſiſtible power upon moral agents, that, on the contrary, it would be altogether unworthy of him to exerciſe that power; becauſe it would be to ſubvert his whole deſign in creating rational and intelligent beings. Moral agents muſt be influenced by moral motives, by reaſon and argument, by perſuaſion and conviction, by hopes and fears. Clarke.

Ver. 3. Obſerve to do it.] To do them, viz. the ſtatutes and commandments.

Ver. 4. The Lord our God is one Lord.] Polytheiſm was the great and prevailing error of the world; therefore, that there is but one ſupreme God, the alone object of worſhip, was made the principal article of the Jewiſh creed, in oppoſition to the idols and falſe gods of the heathens.—It is worth obſerving in this place, that the Jews did formerly give teſtimony to a plurality of perſons in the Godhead, though now, in oppoſition to Chriſtianity, they deny it. Rabbi Simeon, the ſon of Johai, produces a place out of Rabbi Ibba upon this very text, to prove this doctrine. The words in the Hebrew run thus: Jehovah Elohenu Jehovah Echad. He ſhews, that the firſt Jehovah, is God the Father; the ſecond word, Elohenu, our God, is God the Son; the third Jehovah, is God the Holy Ghoſt; and the fourth word, Echad, that is One, is to ſhew the unity of eſſence in this plurality of perſons.

Ver. 8. For a ſign upon thine hand, and as frontlets between thine eyes.] See note on Exodus xiii. 9.

Ver. 9. Thou ſhalt write them upon the poſts of thy houſe, and on thy gates.] Some uſed to write them on little rolls, which they faſtened to their gates; others incloſed them in a caſe, which they faſtened to the gates; or elſe put them into an hole in the wall; on this place the devotees laid their hands, as often as they went out, and ſaid, The Lord preſerve my going out, and my coming in.

Ver. 13. And ſhalt ſwear by his name.] The beſt ſenſe of this paſſage ſeems to be, that they were ſtrictly to adhere to the worſhip of the true God, and to the profeſſion of that religion which he had eſtabliſhed; thus to ſwear to the Lord of Hoſts, is to profeſs the true religion. Iſaiah xix. 18. and in Pſalm lxiii. 11. Every one that ſweareth by him, means every worſhipper of the true God. Some commentators, however, will have it to ſignify the taking an oath, in which they were only to ſwear by Jehovah, and not by any of the gods of the heathens.

Ver 15. Leſt the anger of the Lord.] It is obſerveable, that we never find, either in the law or in the prophets, anger, fury, jealouſy, or indignation, attributed to God, but upon occaſion of idolatry.

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers.

24 And the Lord commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the Lord our God, for our good always, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is at this day.

All communion with the nations is forbidden, for fear of idolatry.

WHen the Lord thy God ſhall bring thee into the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, and hath caſt out many nations before thee, the Hittites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, ſeven nations greater and mightier than thou:

2 And when the Lord thy God ſhall deliver them before thee: thou ſhalt ſmite them, and utterly deſtroy them, thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor ſhew mercy unto them:

3 Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou ſhalt not give unto his ſon, nor his daughter ſhalt thou take unto thy ſon.

4 For they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods: ſo will the anger of the Lord be kindled againſt you, and deſtroy thee ſuddenly.

5 But thus ſhall ye deal with them, ye ſhall deſtroy their altars, and break down their images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire.

Ver. 25. And it ſhall be our righteouſneſs.] The LXX render it by Eleemoſyne, Mercy ſhall be to us; or our way of obtaining mercy. Indeed, if men could perform the law, they might expect to be juſtified before God.

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 2. Thou ſhalt ſmite them and utterly deſtroy them.] The utter deſtruction of the Canaanites, may perhaps, at firſt ſight, carry in it the face of rigour and ſeverity; and it was this objection that was the chief pretence of the Marcionites and other heretics, for rejecting the Old Teſtament; but then it is to be conſidered, that though God has declared himſelf a God of mercy, to thoſe who endeavour to pleaſe him; yet he has ſaid, he will in no wiſe clear the guilty: theſe nations were guilty of every abominable wickedneſs; accordingly, in verſe 4, 5. God gives the reaſon of this his ſeverity; for they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods—ye ſhall therefore deſtroy their altars, and break down their images, &c. even the images of Chemoſh, and Peor, and Moloch, and other deteſtable idols, to whom they are ſaid to have offered human ſacrifices. Great was the corruption of their morals, ſince adultery and beſtiality of all kinds, inceſt and all manner of uncleanneſs, were avowedly practiſed by them. Therefore they made themſelves obnoxious to God's vindictive juſtice; and we may as well quarrel with his divine providence, when he ſends forth his deſtroying angel, armed with a famine, a peſtilence, or a deluge, which ſweeps away young and old together; as to be offended, becauſe his divine wiſdom and juſtice, had conſigned this wicked generation of men over to a general deſtruction.

Before Christ 1451. Lord thy God: the Lord thy God hath choſen thee to be a ſpecial people unto himſelf, above all people that are upon the face of the earth.

7 The Lord did not ſet his love upon you, nor chooſe you, becauſe ye were more in number than any people (for ye were the feweſt of all people)

8 But becauſe the Lord loved you, and becauſe he would keep the oath which he had ſworn unto your fathers, hath the Lord brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bond-men, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

9 Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thouſand generations;

10 And repayeth them that hate him, to their face, to deſtroy them: he will not be ſlack to him that hateth him, he will repay him to his face.

11 Thou ſhalt therefore keep the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which I command thee this day, to do them.

12 ¶ Wherefore it ſhall come to paſs, if ye hearken to theſe judgments, and keep and do them; that the Lord thy God ſhall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he ſware unto thy fathers.

13 And he will love thee, and bleſs thee, and multiply thee: he will alſo bleſs the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep, in the land which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee.

Before Christ 1451.

14 Thou ſhalt be bleſſed above all people: there ſhall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle.

15 And the Lord will take away from thee all ſickneſs, and will put none of the evil diſeaſes of Egypt, (which thou knoweſt) upon thee; but will lay them upon all them that hate thee.

16 And thou ſhalt conſume all the people which the Lord thy God ſhall deliver thee, thine eye ſhall have no pity upon them: neither ſhalt thou ſerve their gods, for that will be a ſnare unto thee.

17 If thou ſhalt ſay in thine heart, Theſe nations are more than I, how can I diſpoſſeſs them?

18 Thou ſhalt not be afraid of them: but ſhalt well remember what the Lord thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt;

19 The great temptations which thine eyes ſaw, and the ſigns, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the ſtretched out arm, whereby the Lord thy God brought thee out: ſo ſhall the Lord thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid.

20 Moreover, the Lord thy God will ſend the hornet among them, until they that are left and hide themſelves from thee, be deſtroyed.

Ver. 7. The Lord did not ſet his love upon you, &c.] It was not for any qualifications in you, that God Almighty conferred theſe ſingular privileges upon you; but you are indebted for all the diſtinguiſhed bleſſings of your nation, to the eminent virtues of your anceſtors; and to the faithfulneſs of God, in the completion of his promiſes made to them.

Ver. 18. Shalt well remember what the Lord thy God did unto Pharaoh.] That they might not be diſcouraged by the ſtrength of their enemies, they are reminded of the deſtruction of Pharaoh, and all the power of Egypt, together with the great ſigns and wonders which God wrought in their behalf.

Ver. 20. The Lord thy God will ſend the hornet among them.] God promiſed to ſupply the weakneſs and deficiency of their own forces, by ſending them his auxiliary troops of waſps and hornets, to terrify and annoy their enemies; and by that means, to make their numerous armies become an eaſy prey to them.

Before Chriſt 1451.

21 Thou ſhalt not be affrighted at them: for the LORD thy God is among you, a mighty God and terrible.

22 And the LORD thy God will put out thoſe nations before thee by little and little: thou mayeſt not conſume them at once, leſt the beaſts of the field increaſe upon thee.

23 But the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them unto thee, and ſhall deſtroy them with a mighty deſtruction, until they be deſtroyed.

24 And he ſhall deliver their kings into thine hand, and thou ſhalt deſtroy their name from under heaven: there ſhall no man be able to ſtand before thee, until thou have deſtroyed them.

25 The graven images of their gods ſhall ye burn with fire: thou ſhalt not deſire the ſilver or gold that is on them, nor take it unto thee, leſt thou be ſnared therein: for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God.

26 Neither ſhalt thou bring an abomination into thy houſe, leſt thou be a curſed thing like it: but thou ſhalt utterly deteſt it, and thou ſhalt utterly abhor it, for it is a curſed thing.

CHAP. VIII.

An exhortation to obedience in regard of Gods dealing with them.

Before Chriſt 1451.

ALL the commandments, which I command thee this day, ſhall ye obſerve to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and poſſeſs the land, which the LORD ſware unto your fathers.

2 And thou ſhalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God led thee theſe forty years in the wilderneſs, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldeſt keep his commandments, or no.

3 And he humbled thee, and ſuffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna; (which thou kneweſt not, neither did thy fathers know) that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live.

4 Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot ſwell theſe forty years.

5 Thou ſhalt alſo conſider in thine heart, that as a man chaſteneth his ſon, ſo the LORD thy God chaſteneth thee.

6 Therefore thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him.

7 For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, a land of brooks of water,

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 2. To know what was in thine heart.] This is ſpoken after the manner of men; for God knows all things: it means, that he put them to a proof of their virtues, and that entirely for their own benefit, that he might reward their faithfulneſs and obedience.

Ver. 3. Man doth not live by bread alone, &c.] He ſupplied your neceſſities by a ſeries of miracles; to ſhew you, that your life being ſuſtained, is not merely owing to bread or ordinary food, but to the word of God; i. e. to any means his wiſdom ſhall think fit to appoint for your nouriſhment, ſee Matthew iv. 4.

Ver. 4. Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot ſwell.] It is thought, that by a conſtant miracle, their cloaths did not decay, nor their feet ſwell, or grow callous, by travelling ſo great a length of time in hot and ſtrong places. The ſeptuagint adds, Thy ſhoes ſhall not wear out; and ſo in Deut. xxix. 5. The Jews ſay, that their cloaths grew in proportion to their ſtature: but it is obſerved, God never works miracles but when they are really neceſſary; yet here is a great miracle without any neceſſity: for, the Iſraelites were not ignorant of the art of weaving, as may be gathered from the curious work of the tabernacle; and that they had flocks of ſheep and goats, appears from Numb. vii. nor did any thing hinder, but that they might traffic with their Arabian neighbours; ſo that it is evident they might have been ſupplied with cloaths of their own manufacture, or elſe might purchaſe them. The words of Moſes, therefore, ſeem better explained thus: Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, i. e. providence has ſo liberally ſupplied your wants in the deſert, that you have never been obliged through poverty, to let your cloaths wax old upon you; but have been conſtantly ſupplied with new, before the old were worn out.

Before Christ 1451. water, of fountains, and depths that ſpring out of valleys and hills,

8. A land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig-trees, and pomegranates, a land of oil-olive, and hony,

9. A land wherein thou ſhalt eat bread without ſcarceneſs, thou ſhalt not lack any thing in it, a land whoſe ſtones are iron, and out of whoſe hills thou mayeſt dig braſs.

10 When thou haſt eaten and art full, then thou ſhalt bleſs the LORD thy God, for the good land which he hath given thee.

11. Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day:

12 Leſt when thou haſt eaten and art full, and haſt built goodly houſes, and dwelt therein;

13 And when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy ſilver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou haſt is multiplied:

14 Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the LORD thy God (which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage; Before Christ 1451.

15 Who led thee through that great and terrible wilderneſs, wherein were fiery ſerpents, and ſcorpions, and drought, where there was no water; who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint;

16 Who fed thee in the wilderneſs with manna, which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end)

17 And thou ſay in thine heart, My power and the might of my hand hath gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou ſhalt remember the LORD thy God: for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may eſtabliſh his covenant which he ſware unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

19. And it ſhall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and ſerve them, and worſhip them,

Ver. 9. Whoſe ſtones are iron.] Whoſe iron mines are as plentiful as quarries of ſtone in other places.

Braſs.] That is, copper, of which braſs is made.

Ver. 10. When thou haſt eaten and art full, then thou ſhalt bleſs the Lord thy God.] Hence it is made a general rule with the Jews, that every one bleſs God at their meals. And what more reaſonable, than thankfully to acknowledge God to be the giver of all good? and when is this acknowledgment more proper to be made, than when our hunger is ſatisfied, and our thirſt quenched by his bounty? yet, tell it not in Gath! This pious practice of antiquity is now growing obſolete; is almoſt out of faſhion, as if men were aſhamed of confeſſing their obligations to the Almighty.

Ver. 14. Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget, &c.] In the enjoyment of proſperity, we are too apt to be elevated above ourſelves; and the pleaſures of the world draw us off from greater and more important concerns. Men pride themſelves in affluence as their ultimate felicity; and by not conſidering the inſtability of human affairs, become ſelf-ſufficient, and forget their dependance on God.

Ver. 15. Fiery ſerpents.] See note on Numb. chap. xxi. ver. 6.

The rock of flint.] Dr. Shaw obſerves, that the rock of Meribah, which has continued down to this day, without the leaſt injury from time or accidents, and is in ſcripture called the rock of flint, may, from its purple or reddiſh colour, be more properly rendered the rock of amythyſt, or granate rock. It is about ſix yards ſquare, lying looſe, near the valley of Riphidim, and ſeems to have been formerly a cliff of mount Sinai, which hangs in a variety of precipices all over this valley: the ſtream which flowed withal, Pſalm lxxviii. 20. has hollowed acroſs one corner of this rock, a channel about two inches deep, and twenty wide; in this channel there are a great number of holes, four or five inches deep, the plain token of their having been formerly ſo many fountains.

Ver. 16. To do thee good at thy latter end.] That is, with reſpect to thy future ſtate. Undoubtedly, ſome of thoſe who died in the wilderneſs, were included in the merciful intention here declared; for, if the forbidding them entrance into the land of Canaan, muſt be ſuppoſed, to ſhut them out of heaven; then Moſes himſelf was excluded. Thoſe who had not their reward (the good here ſpoken of) in this world, without doubt received it in the other.

them, I teſtify againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſurely periſh.

20 As the nations which the LORD deſtroyeth before you face, ſo ſhall ye periſh: becauſe ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAP. IX.

Moſes diſſuadeth them from the opinion of their own righteouſneſs, by rehearſing their ſeveral rebellions.

HEar, O Iſrael: Thou art to paſs over Jordan this day, to go in to poſſeſs nations greater and mightier than thyſelf, cities great and fenced up to heaven,

2 A people great and tall, the children of the Anakims, whom thou knoweſt, and of whom thou haſt heard ſay, Who can ſtand before the children of Anak!

3 Underſtand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which goeth over before thee as a conſuming fire: he ſhall deſtroy them, and he ſhall bring them down before thy face: ſo ſhalt thou drive them out, and deſtroy them quickly, as the LORD hath ſaid unto thee.

4 Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath caſt them out from before thee, ſaying, For my righteouſneſs the LORD hath brought me in to poſſeſs this land: but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee.

5 Not for thy righteouſneſs, or for the uprightneſs of thine heart doſt thou go to poſſeſs their land: but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform the word which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob.

Before Chriſt 1451.

6 Underſtand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to poſſeſs it, for thy righteouſneſs; for thou art a ſtiff-necked people.

7 ¶ Remember, and forget not how thou provokedſt the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderneſs: from the day that thou didſt depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD.

8 Alſo in Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, ſo that the LORD was angry with you, to have deſtroyed you.

9 When I was gone up into the mount, to receive the tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights, I neither did eat bread nor drink water:

10 And the LORD delivered unto me two tables of ſtone written with the finger of God, and on them was written according to all the words which the LORD ſpake with you in the mount, out of the midſt of fire, in the day of the aſſembly.

11 And it came to paſs at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant.

12 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Ariſe, get

NOTES on Chap. IX.

Ver. 1. Thou art to paſs over Jordan this day.] That is, at this time, viz. very ſhortly: day is frequently uſed in ſcripture for time, as in 2 Cor. vi. 2. and other places.

Ver. 5. Not for thy righteouſneſs—but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations, &c.] The Canaanites were indeed expelled for their national wickedneſs; but it does not therefore follow, that the Iſraelites poſſeſſed their place on account of their virtues, or on the ſcore of their morality: it is evident from this, and other places of ſcripture, they did not: but God oftentimes chaſtiſes the wicked, by means of others as wicked as they.

Ver. 8. Alſo in Horeb ye provoked the Lord.] Or rather, even in Horeb: this is emphatically ſpoken; even then, when ye had newly received the law, with ſuch viſible repreſentations of the divine Majeſty, with whom ye had juſt then entered into covenant, ye ſo ſhamefully revolted, that he thought to have deſtroyed you, Exod. xxxii, 7, 10.

get thee down quickly from hence: for thy people which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt, have corrupted themſelves: they are quickly turned aſide out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image.

13 Furthermore, the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying, I have ſeen this people, and behold, it is a ſtiff-necked people.

14 Let me alone, that I may deſtroy them, and blot out their name from under heaven: and I will make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they.

15 So I turned, and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.

16 And I looked, and behold, ye had ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and had made you a motlen calf: ye had turned aſide quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you.

17 And I took the two tables, and caſt them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes.

18 And I fell down before the LORD, as at the firſt, forty days and forty nights; I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, becauſe of all your ſins which ye ſinned, in doing wickedly in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have deſtroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron alſo the ſame time.

21 And I took your ſin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and ſtamped it, and ground it very ſmall, even until it was as ſmall as duſt: and I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook that deſcended out of the mount.

22 And at Taberah, and at Maſſah, and at Kibroth-hattaavah, ye provoked the LORD to wrath.

23 Likewiſe when the LORD ſent you from Kadeſh-barnea, ſaying, Go up and poſſeſs the land which I have given you; then you rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice.

24 You have been rebellious againſt the LORD, from the day that I knew you.

25 Thus I fell down before the LORD forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the firſt; becauſe the LORD had ſaid he he would deſtroy you.

26 I prayed therefore unto the LORD, and ſaid, O Lord GOD, deſtroy not thy

Ver. 16. Ye had turned aſide quickly.] Very quickly indeed; for it was but a few weeks before, that God had commanded them not to worſhip any graven image; and immediately after, ordered Moſes to give them this precept, not to make them gods of ſilver, or gods of gold.

Ver. 21. I took your ſin.] A metonymy; the effect of your ſin, the calf which you had made.

Ver. 22. At Taberah, &c.] Remember, moreover, what paſſed at Taberah, Maſſah, Kibroth, and Kadeſh; the three former of which, have their names as a memorial, either of your ſin or puniſhment, Exod. xvii. 7. Numb. xi. 3, 34.

Ver. 25. Thus I fell down before the Lord, &c.] Having mentioned the ſeveral inſtances of their perverſeneſs, he returns to what he began to ſay, ver. 18, concerning his interceſſion for pardon, which he obtained not, but by long and great importunity.

Ver. 26. I prayed therefore unto the Lord.] From the matter of which prayer, it appears that the Iſraelites did not obtain pardon and reconciliation for any merit of their own; they had none to plead; yea, their advocate had nothing to urge in their favour; not a ſingle article in their behalf: he pleads the miracles God had wrought for them, which only aggravated their guilt, who were regardleſs

Before Christ 1451.

4 And he wrote on the tables, according to the firſt writing, the ten commandments, which the LORD ſpake unto you in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, in the day of the aſſembly: and the LORD gave them unto me.

5 And I turned myſelf and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made, and there they be, as the LORD commanded me.

Notes on Chap. X.

Ver. 6. Took their journey from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan to Moſera: there Aaron died.] It ſeems difficult to reconcile this paſſage, with the two other accounts in the Hebrew text, viz. Numb. xx. 28. and xxxiii. 38. where it is ſaid, that Aaron died at mount Hor, the ſeventh ſtation from Moſeroth. Mr. Kennicot ſays, there is a corruption in the Hebrew pentateuch, which probably happened early, or at leaſt before the Greek verſion was made. " The reader, ſays he, will be pleaſed to find, " that the Samaritan text, and its verſion, have deliver- " ed down the genuine and conſiſtent words of Moſes in " all particulars; for they have preſerved the many words " which have been careleſsly omitted in the Hebrew; and " they read in the following manner;" and the children of Iſrael journeyed from Moſeroth, and pitched in Bene-jaakan: from thence they journeyed, and pitched in Hagidgad: from thence they journeyed, and pitched in Jotbathah, a land of rivers of waters: from thence they journeyed, and pitched in Ebronah: from thence they journeyed, and pitched in Ezion-gaber: from thence they journeyed, and pitched in the wilderneſs of Zin, which is Kadeſh: from thence they journeyed, and pitched in mount Hor; and there Aaron died, &c. 11 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Ariſe, take thy journey before the people, that they may go in, and poſſeſs the land which I ſware unto their fathers to give unto them.

12 ¶ And now Iſrael, what doth the LORD thy God require of thee, but to fear the LORD thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to ſerve the LORD thy God with all thy heart and with all thy ſoul, 13 To keep the commandments of the LORD, and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day for thy good?

14 Behold, the heaven, and the heaven of heavens is the LORDS thy God, the earth alſo with all that therein is.

15 Only the LORD had a delight in thy fathers to love them, and he choſe their ſeed after them, even you above all people, as it is this day.

16 Circumciſe therefore the foreſkin of your heart, and be no more ſtiff-necked.

17 For the LORD your God is God of gods, and Lord of lords, a great God, a mighty, and a terrible, which regardeth not perſons, nor taketh reward.

18 He doth execute the judgment of the fatherleſs and widow, and loveth the ſtranger, in giving him food and raiment.

Ver. 14. The heaven, and the heaven of heavens, &c.] The firſt heaven comprehends the atmoſphere, the ſpace illuminated by the ſun, moon, and ſtars; the ſecond, or heaven of heavens, all the glorious region in which the throne of God is placed.

Ver. 16. Circumciſe therefore the foreſkin of your heart.] If you ſeek God's favour, do not rely on the obſervance of external rites and ceremonies, but endeavour to attain that inward holineſs, which is intended by circumciſion, and the other external ordinances.

Ver. 18. Loveth the ſtranger in giving him food and raiment.] God's tender mercies are over all, and he provides for them, they being alike the work of his hands; he makes a plentiful proviſion for all the inhabitants of the earth, giving them all things liberally to enjoy.

Ver. 2. For I ſpeak not with your children.] He addreſſed himſelf to the ſeniors of the people: all who were, at this time, above fifty years of age, could well remember their deliverance out of Egypt, (for all, except three, who at that time were turned of twenty, were dead; but many of thoſe who were then under twenty, were now living) to them he ſpeaks, and not to their children, who were acquainted with this matter by information only.

6 And what he did unto Dathan and Abiram, the ſons of Eliab, the ſon of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth and ſwallowed them up, and their houſholds, and their tents, and all the ſubſtance that was in their poſſeſſion in the midſt of all Iſrael.

7 But your eyes have ſeen all the great acts of the Lord which he did.

15 And I will ſend graſs in thy fields, for thy cattle, that thou mayeſt eat and be full.

16 Take heed to yourſelves, that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aſide, and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them:

Ver. 10. And watereſt it with thy foot.] Egypt, though fruitful, was a flat country, and watered not as others, with rain, but by the overflowing of the Nile, at a certain ſeaſon of the year; to the improvement of which, a great deal of the art and labour of the huſbandman was neceſſary; in ſome places, channels and ſmall ſtreams were derived from the river, in order to moiſten the land; and in others, (as we learn from Philo) machines for raiſing water were fixed on the banks of the Nile; and which were ſo contrived, as to be turned by the foot. That this country had no rain, is teſtified by the prophet, Zech. xiv. 18. and the poet Tibullus likewiſe, in his deſcription of it, ſays, ——nec pluvio ſupplicat herba Jovi.

The meaning therefore is, that whereas Egypt was watered by human art, Canaan was watered by rain from heaven: or, ſeeing the foot, is ſometimes uſed as a metaphor for labour; the phraſe may import, thou wateredſt it with great labour.

Ver. 12. A land which the Lord thy God careth for.] Not ſo much fertile in itſelf, as by conſequence of God's immediate bleſſings upon it. They were to expect a fruitful or a barren country, according as they were faithful or remiſs in their duty; God having declared, that he would both ſend and with-hold his rain. This argument demonſtrates the futility of their objection, who would endeavour to prove the ſcripture account of the land of Canaan to be falſe, according to the account of ſome modern travellers, who repreſent Paleſtine, at this day, as a barren and ſtony country.

Ver. 14. The firſt and the latter rain.] The rains falling at the autumnal equinox, cauſe the ſeed ſown to ſpring up; and thoſe at the vernal equinox, to nouriſh the corn until the harveſt.

and bind them for a ſign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes.

19 And ye ſhall teach them your children, ſpeaking of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up.

20 And thou ſhalt write them upon the door-poſts of thine houſe, and upon thy gates:

21 That your days may be multipled, and the days of your children, in the land which the Lord ſware unto your fathers to give them, as the days of heaven upon the earth.

22 ¶ For if ye ſhall diligently keep all theſe commandments which I command you to do them, to love the Lord your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him;

23 Then will the Lord drive out all theſe nations from before you, and ye ſhall poſſeſs greater nations, and mightier than yourſelves.

24 Every place whereon the ſoles of your feet ſhall tread, ſhall be yours: from the Wilderneſs, and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermoſt ſea, ſhall your coaſt be.

25 There ſhall no man be able to ſtand before you: for the Lord your God ſhall lay the fear of you, and the dread of you upon all the land that ye ſhall tread upon, as he hath ſaid unto you.

Before Chriſt 1451.

26 ¶ Behold, I ſet before you this day a bleſſing and a curſe:

27 A bleſſing, if ye obey the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you this day:

28 And a curſe, if ye will not obey the commandments of the Lord your God, but turn aſide out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods which ye have not known.

29 And it ſhall come to paſs when the Lord thy God hath brought thee in unto the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, that thou ſhalt put the bleſſing upon mount Gerizim, and the curſe upon mount Ebal.

30 Are they not on the other ſide Jordan, by the way where the ſun goeth down, in the land of the Canaanites, which dwell in the champian over againſt Gilgal, beſide the plains of Moreh?

31 For ye ſhall paſs over Jordan to go in to poſſeſs the land which the Lord your God giveth you, and ye ſhall poſſeſs it and dwell therein.

32 And ye ſhall obſerve to do all the ſtatutes and judgments which I ſet before you this day.

CHAP. XII.

Monuments of idolatry are to be deſtroyed.

THeſe are the ſtatutes and judgments which ye ſhall obſerve to do in the in the land which the Lord God of thy fathers giveth thee to poſſeſs it, all the days that ye live upon the earth.

Ver. 29. Thou ſhalt put the bleſſing.] That is, thou ſhalt cauſe it to be pronounced.

Upon mount Gerizim, and mount Ebal.] "In order to make you the more ſenſible, upon what terms you are to enjoy the promiſed land, there ſhall be a ſolemn meeting of your ſeveral tribes, ſome at mount Gerizim, and of others at mount Ebal; where, at the one place, the prieſt ſhall, in an audible and ſolemn manner, pronounce the ſeveral bleſſings of God promiſed upon your obedience; and, at the other, the curſes conſequent upon the practice of vice, injuſtice, and idolatry." Theſe two mountains, Gerizim, and Ebal, were ſeparated by a valley two hundred paces wide, and ſituated in the tribe of Ephraim, near the oaks or plains of Moreh. Here God firſt appeared to Abraham, after he came into the land of Canaan, who built an altar in this place: God therefore would put them in mind of the promiſe made to that patriarch, by ſending them thither to hear the bleſſing and the curſe. For further directions in this ſolemnity, ſee chap. xxvii. 11. and for the performance, Joſhua viii. 33.

Before Christ 1451.

2 Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy all the places wherein the nations which ye ſhall poſſeſs ſerved their gods, upon the high mountains, and upon the hills, and under every green tree.

3 And you ſhall overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire, and you ſhall hew down the graven images of their gods, and deſtroy the names of them out of that place.

4 Ye ſhall not do ſo unto the LORD your God.

5 But unto the place which the LORD your God ſhall chooſe out of all your tribes, to put his name there, even unto his habitation ſhall ye ſeek, and thither thou ſhalt come:

6 And thither ye ſhall bring your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices, and your tithes, and heave-offerings of your hand, and your vows, and your free-will-offerings, and the firſtlings of your herds, and of your flocks.

Before Christ 1451.

7 And there ye ſhall eat before the LORD your God, and ye ſhall rejoice in all that you put your hand unto, ye and your houſholds, wherein the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee.

8 Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here this day, every man whatſoever is right in his own eyes.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the reſt, and to the inheritance which the LORD your God giveth you.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you reſt from all your enemies round about, ſo that ye dwell in ſafety:

11 Then there ſhall be a place which the LORD your God ſhall chooſe to cauſe his name to dwell there, thither ſhall ye bring all that I command you; your burnt-offerings,

NOTES on Chap. XII.

Ver. 2. Upon the high mountains, and upon the hills.] The firſt altars ſeem to have been thoſe of nature's raiſing, viz. mountains and places of eminence; thither men repaired for contemplation. Hence ſuch places acquired a relative holineſs, and were conſidered as ſacred; but, in proceſs of time, the temples and altars there erected, were abuſed to the vileſt purpoſes of ſuperſtition, and became the ſcenes of barbarous idol-worſhip.

Ver. 3. And burn their groves with fire.] beſides mountains and hills, the heathens held their green trees and groves in great veneration; looking upon them as ſacred places, and the peculiar reſidence of their divinities. The ſolemn ſhade and ſilence of a grove, is indeed apt to diſpoſe to contemplation; but then the advantages, which thoſe retirements gave to the Gentiles, in the worſhip of their idols, was, that they concealed thoſe works of darkneſs, which could not bear the light: It was therefore fit they ſhould be totally deſtroyed, and buried in oblivion.

Ver. 5. To put his name there.] The Chaldaic paraphraſe expounds it, to cauſe his Majeſty, or divine preſence to dwell there, i. e. to ſettle there the ſigns of his preſence, and to have it conſecrated to him and his ſervice.

Ver. 6. Your tithes.] Not thoſe paid to the Levites, but ſuch as were uſed at ſolemn feſtivals; the tenth of the herd, and of the flock, which both prieſts and people were to bring, and ſlay before the Lord, and to eat them in Jeruſalem.

Ver. 8. Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here this day.] The Iſraelites, while in the wilderneſs, were deſtitute of many things neceſſary and requiſite to the exact performance of all their ſacred rites; and, for that reaſon, were excuſed from the obſervance of many of them; circumciſion, in particular, had been totally neglected, the whole time of their wandering in the wilderneſs.

Ver. 11. Thither ſhall ye bring all that I command you, your burnt offerings, &c.] This precept, by which they were all tied to bring their ſacrifices to that one altar, ſet up in the court of the tabernacle, and there to perform all the rituals of their religion, is more frequently inculcated than any other; becauſe this was a means to preſerve them from idolatry, to which they were ſo prone; to prevent them from introducing corrupt cuſtoms into the worſhip of God, and to maintain unity and brotherly love among them, by meeting in one place. One deſign of this inſtitution likewiſe, was to teach them not to have too high an opinion of ſacrifices, ſince they were not of ſuch account in the ſight of God, as to be accepted every where, but were limited to one place, and offered only by one family, and therefore were to be looked upon as the outward expreſſions only, of an internal obedience. Whereas, prayers and praiſes were to be offered every day by the people of God; and they were daily to keep up a communion with him, though perhaps they had not an opportunity, for many months together, of bringing a ſacrifice to his altar.

Before Chriſt 1451.

offerings, and your ſacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all your choice vows which ye vow unto the LORD.

12 And ye ſhall rejoice before the LORD your God, ye, and your ſons, and your daughters, and your men-ſervants, and your maid-ſervants, and the Levite that is within your gates; foraſmuch as he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

13 Take heed to thyſelf that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings in every place that thou ſeeſt.

14 But in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe in one of thy tribes, there thou ſhalt offer thy burnt-offerings, and there thou ſhalt do all that I command thee.

15 Notwithſtanding, thou mayeſt kill and eat fleſh in all thy gates, whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after, according to the bleſſing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee: the unclean and the clean may eat thereof, as of the roe-buck, and as of the hart.

16 Only ye ſhall not eat the blood; ye ſhall pour it upon the earth as water.

17 ¶ Thou mayeſt not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil, or the firſtlings of thy herds, or of thy flock, nor any of thy vows which thou voweſt, nor thy free-will-offerings, or heave-offering of thine hand;

18 But thou muſt eat them before the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe, thou, and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite that is within thy gates: and thou ſhalt rejoice before the LORD thy God in all that thou putteſt thine hands unto.

Before Chriſt 1451.

19 Take heed to thyſelf that thou forſake not the Levite as long as thou liveſt upon thy earth.

20 ¶ When the LORD thy God ſhall enlarge thy border, as he hath promiſed thee, and thou ſhalt ſay, I will eat fleſh, (becauſe thy ſoul longeth to eat fleſh) thou mayeſt eat fleſh whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after.

21 If the place which the LORD thy God hath choſen to put his name there, be too far from thee; then thou ſhalt kill of thy herd, and of thy flock, which the LORD hath given thee, as I have commanded thee, and thou ſhalt eat in thy gates whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after.

22 Even as the roe-buck and the hart is eaten, ſo thou ſhalt eat them: the unclean and the clean ſhall eat of them alike.

23 Only be ſure that thou eat not the blood: for the blood is the life, and thou mayeſt not eat the life with the fleſh.

24 Thou ſhalt not eat it; thou ſhalt pour it upon the earth as water.

25 Thou ſhalt not eat it, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the LORD.

26 Only

Ver. 18. The Levite that is within thy gates.] Within thy gates; thoſe who were diſperſed about the country, to inſtruct the people in the law, and to aſſiſt them in their devotions, theſe were to participate in the joy and feaſts of the people; as thoſe Levites, who attended at the altar, and aſſiſted the prieſts, were provided for by the eſtabliſhment of the Jewiſh church.

Ver. 23. Be ſure that thou eat not the blood.] When they could not bring the blood, the life of the creature, to the altar, to pour it there before the Lord, as belonging to him, the Being who gives life, then they were to pour it out upon the earth, as not belonging to them, but as an atonement to God, to whom life is forfeited. It is ſuppoſed, the Iſraelites were thus ſtrictly forbidden to abſtain from blood, becauſe of the ſuperſtition of the old idolaters, who thought their dæmons delighted in the blood of the ſacrifices, and imagined, that themſelves, by eating it, had communion with them.

26 Only thy holy things which thou haſt, and thy vows, thou ſhalt take, and go unto the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe:

27 And thou ſhalt offer thy burnt-offerings, the fleſh and the blood, upon the altar of the LORD thy God: and the blood of thy ſacrifices ſhall be poured out upon the altar of the LORD thy God, and thou ſhalt eat the fleſh.

28 Obſerve and hear all theſe words which I command thee, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee for ever, when thou doeſt that which is good and right in the ſight of the LORD thy God.

29 ¶ When the LORD thy God ſhall cut off the nations from before thee, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs them, and thou ſucceedeſt them, and dwelleſt in their land:

30 Take heed to thyſelf that thou be not ſnared by following them, after that they be deſtroyed from before thee, and that thou enquire not after their gods, ſaying, How did theſe nations ſerve their gods? even ſo will I do likewiſe.

31 Thou ſhalt not do ſo unto the LORD thy God: for every abomination to the LORD which he hateth, have they done unto their gods: for even their ſons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods.

32 What thing ſoever I command you, obſerve to do it: thou ſhalt not add thereto, nor diminiſh from it.

CHAP. XIII.

Enticers to idolatry, and idolatrous cities are not to be ſpared.

IF there ariſe among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a ſign or a wonder,

2 And the ſign or the wonder come to paſs, whereof he ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Let us go after other gods (which thou haſt not known) and let us ſerve them;

3 Thou ſhalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your ſoul.

4 Ye ſhall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and you ſhall ſerve him, and cleave unto him.

5 And that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams ſhall be put to death (becauſe he hath ſpoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondage, to thruſt thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in) ſo ſhalt thou put the evil away from the midſt of thee.

6 ¶ If

Ver. 31. Even their ſons, and their daughters, they have burnt in the fire to their gods.] This diabolical rite was practiſed by the Carthaginians, and ſo overſpread all nations, that at laſt, it found admittance among the refined Greeks. This barbarous and inhuman cuſtom, trampled upon the light and law of nature, and natural affection; and what is ſurpriſing, we find the Iſraelites, notwithſtanding this admonition, were induced to commit this horrid abomination: witneſs Jephthah's ſacrificing his daughter.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. If there ariſe among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, &c.] Moſes foreſeeing that the Iſraelites, in after ages, would be expoſed to the ſnares and deluſions of falſe prophets, lays down this certain rule, whereby to judge of ſuch pretenders to inſpiration; namely, that the exiſtence of the one true God, and the authority, goodneſs, and truth of his laws and religion, being already ſo fully demonſtrated by evidences of all kinds; and, on the contrary, the heathen dæmons, and idolatrous cuſtom of their worſhip, being, in the reaſon of things, ſo full of abſurdities, follies, and the worſt of wickedneſſes; it ought not to be thought, that a miracle, or the fulfilling of a prediction, ſhould be ſufficient to ſpeak the truth of the one, or gain credit to the other.

Before Chriſt 1451.

6 ¶ If thy brother the ſon of thy mother, or thy ſon, or thy daughter, or the wife of thy boſom, or thy friend, which is as thine own ſoul, entice thee ſecretly, ſaying, Let us go and ſerve other gods (which thou haſt not known, thou, nor thy fathers;

7 Namely, of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth)

8 Thou ſhalt not conſent unto him, nor hearken unto him; neither ſhall thine eye pity him, neither ſhalt thou ſpare, neither ſhalt thou conceal him.

9 But thou ſhalt ſurely kill him; thine hand ſhall be firſt upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people.

10 And thou ſhalt ſtone him with ſtones, that he die: becauſe he hath ſought to thruſt thee away from the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage.

11 And all Iſrael ſhall hear, and fear, and ſhall do no more any ſuch wickedneſs as this is among you.

12 ¶ If thou ſhalt hear ſay in one of thy cities, which the Lord thy God hath given thee to dwell there, ſaying,

13 Certain men, the children of Belial, are gone out from among you, and have withdrawn the inhabitants of their city, ſaying, Let us go and ſerve other gods (which ye have not known)

Before Chriſt 1451.

14 Then ſhalt thou enquire and make ſearch, and aſk diligently: and behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that ſuch abomination is wrought among you:

15 Thou ſhalt ſurely ſmite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the ſword, deſtroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the ſword,

16 And thou ſhalt gather all the ſpoil of it into the midſt of the ſtreet thereof, and ſhalt burn with fire the city, and all the ſpoil thereof every whit, for the Lord thy God: and it ſhall be an heap for ever, it ſhall not be built again.

17 And there ſhall cleave nought of the curſed thing to thine hand: that the Lord may turn from the fierceneſs of his anger, and ſhew thee mercy, and have compaſſion upon thee, and multiply thee, as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers;

18 When thou ſhalt hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, to keep all his commandments which I command thee this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the Lord thy God.

Ver. 6. If thy brother, &c.] The words ſhould be tranſpoſed, and read thus: If thy brother, or thy ſon, or thy daughter, or thy friend, or the wife of thy boſom, which is as thine own ſoul, &c. then the climax is perfect.

Ver. 9. Thou ſhalt ſurely kill him.] This injunction of Moſes, to puniſh the deareſt friend with death, who ſhould be found guilty of ſeducing them to idolatry, ſufficiently ſhews that ſin to be the higheſt treaſon againſt their religion and government.

Ver. 13. Children of Belial.] The word Belial ſignifies one who is ſubject to no law, and therefore a proper name for the devil, and all the ſons of diſobedience.

Notes on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 1. Ye ſhall not cut yonrſelves.] Like the heathen, who, in their lamentations for the dead, uſed to cut and ſlaſh themſelves, ſhewing thereby, that they had no comfort in death, no hopes of a future ſtate of exiſtence; but here the Iſraelites are reminded, that they were the children of the Lord their God; that, as ſuch, they were to

2 For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath choſen thee to be a peculiar people unto himſelf, above all the nations that are upon the earth.

3 ¶ Thou ſhall not eat any abominable thing.

4 Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat: the ox, the ſheep, and the goat,

5 The hart, and the roe-buck, and the fallow-deer, and the wild goat, and the pygarg, and the wild ox, and the chamois.

6 And every beaſt that parteth the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft in two claws, and cheweth the cud amongſt the beaſts; that ye ſhall eat.

7 Nevertheleſs, theſe ye ſhall not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the cony: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; therefore they are unclean unto you.

Before Christ 1451.

8 And the ſwine, becauſe it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, nor touch their dead carcaſe.

9 ¶ Theſe ye ſhall eat of all that are in the waters: all that have fins and ſcales, ſhall ye eat:

bear all evils, accidents, and afflictions with patience, being intitled, after death, to an heavenly and eternal inheritance; and therefore were not to ſorrow, as men without hope. The wiſer heathens themſelves ſaw into the abſurdity of thoſe barbarous cuſtoms, and ridiculed and condemned them. Cicero calls them, varia & deteſtabilia genera lugendi; and then inſtances the mulie͏bres lacerationes genarum, pectoris, femorum, capitis percuſſiones.

Nor make any baldneſs between your eyes.] That is, by plucking off, or ſhaving the hair between their eyes, viz. on the fore-part of their head.

Ver. 3. Thou ſhalt not eat any abominable thing.] This prohibition was, in order to preſerve them, even from common converſation with other nations; and thereby the more effectually to ſecure them from their idolatries. Therefore certain creatures, meats, and drinks, were made abominable and unclean to the Jews by the ordinance of God; though they were not ſo in themſelves, neither were they impoſed for ever, but till the time of reformation only.

Ver. 4. Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat.] See Leviticus, chap. xi.

The ox.] The antient Hebrews never cut or caſtrated any animal (Lev. xxii. 24.) and therefore had no term for what we call a bull, diſtinct from that of an ox or bullock; whenever then we meet in ſcripture with the word ox, we are to underſtand a bull by it; here all of that kind are ſignified.

Ver. 5. The hart.] The hart or deer, is interpreted by Dr. Shaw, as comprehending all the variety of the deer kind.

The roe-buck.] The word Tzebi (according to the ſame perſon) does not ſignify the roe-buck, but the antelope. This is a creature of the goat kind, a nimble and fine limbed animal; its horns are black, and poliſhed like the fineſt ebony, and are marked in circles round the ſeveral parts.

The fallow-deer.] More properly the wild beeve.

The wild goat.] The akko is a particular ſpecies of the wild goat, and ſhould be tranſlated the goat deer, as the ſeptuagint and vulgate have it.

The pygarg.] The pygarg denotes a creature, whoſe hinder parts are white, and may therefore be called the white-buttocks. It is ſhaped exactly like the antelope, and of the ſame colour, only its horns are twice as long; the animal itſelf being twice as big.

The wild ox.] This ſhould have been rendered the buffalo. The horns of this creature is as large as thoſe of our oxen, and of a coal-black colour; the body is generally of the dark iron grey, of which we ſee ſome of our cows. It has a very terrible aſpect, and is very fierce in the eaſt, where it is wild.

The chamois.] The Arabic verſion calls it the Jeraſſa, which ſtill continues to be the eaſtern name of that quadrupede: it is a ſort of mountain goat, or inhabitant of the rocks.

Ver. 7. The camel.] This is a beaſt of burden, having two bunches on his back, which ſeem formed by nature for that purpoſe. When this creature holds up its head, it is of an immoderate ſize with regard to height; it is affirmed they will continue ten or twelve days without drinking, and therefore the fitter for travelling in thoſe hot countries where it is a native. The Arabians, Perſians, and other people of the eaſt, eat the fleſh of camels, and it is ſerved up at the beſt tables.

Ver. 12. The eagle, &c.] See notes on Levit. chap. ii. ver. 13, 14, 15. &c.

19 And every creeping thing that flieth, is unclean unto you: they ſhall not be eaten.

20 But of all clean fowls ye may eat.

21 ¶ Ye ſhall not eat of any thing that dieth of itſelf: thou ſhalt give it unto the ſtranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it, or thou mayeſt ſell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people unto the Lord thy God. Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mothers milk.

Ver. 13. The glede.] The kite, we term a glede; probably from its gliding through the air from place to place.

Ver. 26. Thou ſhalt rejoice, &c.] The Jews were taught to employ part of their income in hoſpitality; to rejoice in the goodneſs of God, and to glad the hearts of the poor, the fatherleſs, and the widow, with a chearful entertainment. The Hebrew writers call it the tythe of feaſts, and the poor man's tythe.

Ver. 29. Shall eat and be ſatisfied.] The Hebrew writers tell us, that the owner of the field, when the poor paſſed by him, and he had there the tythe of the poor; gave to every one of them that paſſed by, ſo much of that tythe as would ſatisfy him. If it was of wheat, he gave him not leſs than half a cab; (the cab of corn was $2\frac{5}{8}$ pints) if of barley, or rye, not leſs than a cab; if of figs, not leſs than twenty-five ſhekels weight (about twelve pounds) of wine, not leſs than half a log; (nearly our pint) and of oil, not leſs than a quarter of a log; and if he gave him of any other fruits, it was not leſs than would enable him to purchaſe two meals meat.

3 Of a foreigner thou mayeſt exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother, thine hand ſhall releaſe:

4 Save when there ſhall be no poor among you: for the Lord ſhall greatly bleſs thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it:

5 Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to obſerve to do all theſe commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the Lord thy God bleſſeth thee, as he promiſed thee, and thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, but thou ſhalt not borrow; and thou ſhalt reign over many nations, but they ſhall not reign over thee.

7 ¶ If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren, within any of thy gates, in thy land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not harden thy heart, nor ſhut thine hand from thy poor brother:

8 But thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto him, and ſhalt ſurely lend him ſufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth.

9 Beware that there be not a thought in thy wicked heart, ſaying, The ſeventh year, the year of releaſe is at hand: and thine eye be evil againſt thy poor brother, and thou giveſt him nought, and he cry unto the Lord againſt thee, and it be ſin unto thee.

Before Chriſt 1451.

10 Thou ſhalt ſurely give him, and thine heart ſhall not be grieved when thou giveſt unto him: becauſe that for this thing the Lord thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy works, and in all that thou putteſt thine hand unto.

11 For the poor ſhall never ceaſe out of the land: therefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor and to thy needy, in thy land.

12 ¶ And if thy brother an Hebrew man or an Hebrew woman be ſold unto thee, and ſerve thee ſix years; then in the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou ſendeſt him out free from thee, thou ſhalt not let him go away empty:

14 Thou ſhalt furniſh him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy wine-preſs: of that wherewith the Lord thy God hath bleſſed thee, thou ſhalt give unto him.

15 And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in the land of Egypt, and the Lord thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day.

16 And it ſhall be if he ſay unto thee, I will not go away from thee (becauſe he loveth thee and thine houſe, becauſe he is well with thee;)

17 Then thou ſhalt take an aul, and thruſt it through his ear unto the door, and he ſhall be thy ſervant for ever; and alſo unto thy maid-ſervant thou ſhalt do likewiſe.

Notes on Chap. XV.

Ver. 4. Save when there ſhall be no poor among you] This is better rendered as in the marginal reading. To the end that there be no poor among you: or, that none among you be pinched by extreme poverty.

Ver. 9. Beware that there be not a thought in thy wicked heart, &c.] Leſt this law might make people cautious in lending to the poor, as being aſſured they ſhould loſe the debt at the ſeventh year, if they were not able to pay it before. Moſes here gives them a charge, that no Iſraelite ſhould be led by ſo mean a principle, but look upon every poor neighbour as a member of the ſame happy ſociety, equally related to God as himſelf; who therefore would be ſure to puniſh all uncharitableneſs to ſuch as were his own, as he would be to bleſs and reward thoſe, who, with a generous and bountiful heart, gratefully depended upon his providence, and obeyed his commands.

Before Chriſt 1451.

18 It ſhall not ſeem hard unto thee when thou ſendeſt him away free from thee; for he hath been worth a double hired ſervant to thee, in ſerving thee ſix years: and the Lord thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all that thou doeſt.

19 ¶ All the firſtling males that come of thy herd, and of thy flock, thou ſhalt ſanctify unto the Lord thy God: thou ſhalt do no work with the firſtling of thy bullock, nor ſhear the firſtlings of thy ſheep.

20 Thou ſhalt eat it before the Lord thy God year by year, in the place which the Lord ſhall chooſe, thou and thy houſhold.

21 And if there be any blemiſh therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemiſh, thou ſhalt not ſacrifice it unto the Lord thy God.

22 Thou ſhalt eat it within thy gates: the unclean and the clean perſon ſhall eat it alike, as the roe-buck, and as the hart.

23 Only thou ſhalt not eat the blood thereof: thou ſhalt pour it upon the ground as water.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The feaſt of the paſſover, 9 of weeks. 21 Groves and images are forbidden.

OBſerve the month of Abib, and keep the paſſover unto the Lord thy God: for in the month of Abib the Lord thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night.

Before Chriſt 1451.

2 Thou ſhalt therefore ſacrifice the paſſover unto the Lord thy God, of the flock and the herd, in the place which the Lord ſhall chooſe to place his name there.

3 Thou ſhalt eat no leavened bread with it: ſeven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction: (for thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt in haſte) that thou mayeſt remember the day when thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life.

4 And there ſhall be no leavened bread ſeen with thee in all thy coaſt ſeven days, neither ſhall there any thing of the fleſh which thou ſacrificedſt the firſt day at even, remain all night until the morning.

5 Thou mayeſt not ſacrifice the paſſover within any of thy gates, which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

6 But at the place which the Lord thy God ſhall chooſe to place his name in, there thou ſhalt ſacrifice the paſſover at even, at the going down of the ſun, at the ſeaſon that thou cameſt forth out of Egypt.

7 And thou ſhalt roaſt and eat it in the place which the Lord thy God ſhall chooſe: and thou ſhalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.

8 Six days thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread, and on the ſeventh day ſhall be a ſolemn aſſembly to the Lord thy God: thou ſhalt do no work therein.

18. Worth a double hired ſervant.] The uſual time for hiring mercenary ſervants, was not leſs than one year, nor more than three within three years, as the years of an hireling, ſays Iſaiah, xvi. 14. but the bond-ſervant, having ſerved ſix years, is therefore ſaid to be worth a double hired ſervant, in ſerving ſix years. The LXX and vulgate have it, he has done thee the yearly ſervice of an hired ſervant for ſix years.

Notes on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. Obſerve the month of Abib.] A feſtival inſtituted in commemoration of their Egyptian bondage, and their deliverance from it, was to be obſerved at the punctual time, and with all thoſe circumſtances mentioned, Exod. xii. Numb. xxviii. 17, &c.

Ver. 3. Bread of affliction.] It is ſo called, on account of its being inſipid, and not eaſily digeſted. It ſerved to remind them of their ſtate of affliction in Egypt.

Ver. 7. Thou ſhalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.] That is, unto thine own habitations, which were called tents, becauſe they had no other dwellings in the wilderneſs. The words are not abſolutely a command, but a permiſſion only: after you have eaten the paſchal lamb, you are permitted to return home, if you pleaſe.

Before Chriſt 1451.

9 ¶ Seven weeks ſhalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the ſeven weeks from ſuch time as thou beginneſt to put the ſickle to the corn.

10 And thou ſhalt keep the feaſt of weeks unto the LORD thy God with a tribute of a free-will-offering of thine hand, which thou ſhalt give unto the LORD thy God, according as the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee.

11 And thou ſhalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath choſen to place his name there.

12 And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in Egypt: and thou ſhalt obſerve and do theſe ſtatutes.

13 ¶ Thou ſhalt obſerve the feaſt of tabernacles ſeven days, after that thou haſt gathered in thy corn, and thy wine.

14 And thou ſhalt rejoice in thy feaſt, thou, and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite, the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

15 Seven days ſhalt thou keep a ſolemn feaſt unto the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe: becauſe the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy increaſe, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou ſhalt ſurely rejoice.

Before Chriſt 1451.

16 ¶ Three times in a year ſhall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God, in the place which he ſhall chooſe: in the feaſt of unleavened bread, and in the feaſt of weeks, and in the feaſt of tabernacles: and they ſhall not appear before the LORD empty.

17 Every man ſhall give as he is able, according to the bleſſing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee.

18 ¶ Judges and officers ſhalt thou make thee in all thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee throughout thy tribes: and they ſhall judge the people with juſt judgment.

19 Thou ſhalt not wreſt judgment, thou ſhalt not reſpect perſons, neither take a gift: for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wiſe, and pervert the words of the righteous.

20 That which is altogether juſt ſhalt thou follow, that thou mayeſt live, and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

21 ¶ Thou ſhalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou ſhalt make thee.

Ver. 9. Seven weeks ſhalt thou number.] The feaſt of Pentecoſt was kept in ſolemn commemoration of the awful delivery of the law at mount Sinai, and in thankfulneſs to God for the fruits of the year, ſee Exod. xxiii. 16.

Ver. 13. The feaſt of tabernacles.] This feaſt was inſtituted, in order to commemorate the preſervation of the Iſraelites, during their travels in the wilderneſs, ſee Levit, xxiii. 34,

Ver. 18. Judges and officers ſhalt thou make thee.] Accordingly they had judges appointed, and conſiſtories erected in every city, for determining all differences ariſing out of the law, though not as to the power of life and death, which was ſeldom granted them by their rulers, except in larger cities.

In all thy gates which the Lord thy God giveth thee throughout thy tribes,] It was cuſtomary with the Iſraelites to keep their courts in the gates, or in the chambers erected over the gates of their cities.

Ver. 20. That which is altogether juſt ſhalt thou follow, that thou mayeſt live, &c.] Live happily, and continue long in the land of Canaan. Nothing contributes more to the eſtabliſhment of the government, than the exact and impartial adminiſtration of juſtice.

Ver. 21. Thou ſhalt not plant thee a grove.] The word tranſlated grove, may more properly be rendered an idol, or an oratory erected for idolatrous purpoſes.

Before Chriſt 1451.

1 The things ſacrificed muſt be ſound. 2 Idolaters muſt be ſlain. 14 The election, 16 and duty of a king.

THou ſhalt not ſacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock, or ſheep, wherein is blemiſh, or any evil-favouredneſs: for that is an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

2 ¶ If there be found among you within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman that hath wrought wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD thy God, in tranſgreſſing his covenant,

3 And hath gone and ſerved other gods, and worſhipped them, either the ſun, or moon, or any of the hoſt of heaven, which I have not commanded;

4 And it be told thee, and thou haſt heard of it, and enquired diligently, and behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that ſuch abomination is wrought in Iſrael:

5 Then ſhalt thou bring forth that man or that woman (which have committed that wicked thing) unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and ſhalt ſtone them with ſtones until they die.

6 At the mouth of two witneſſes, or three witneſſes, ſhall he that is worthy of death, be put to death; but at the mouth of one witneſs he ſhall not be put to death.

7 The hands of the witneſſes ſhall be firſt upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hands of all the people: ſo thou ſhalt put the evil away from among you.

Before Chriſt 1451.

8 ¶ If there ariſe a matter too hard for thee in judgment, between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between ſtroke and ſtroke, being matters of controverſy within thy gates: then ſhalt thou ariſe, and get thee up into the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe;

9 And thou ſhalt come unto the prieſts the Levites, and unto the judge that ſhall be in thoſe days, and enquire; and they ſhall ſhew thee the ſentence of judgment.

10 And thou ſhalt do according to the ſentence which they of that place (which the LORD ſhall chooſe) ſhall ſhew thee, and thou ſhalt obſerve to do according to all that they inform thee:

11 According to the ſentence of the law which they ſhall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they ſhall tell thee thou ſhalt do: thou ſhalt not decline from the ſentence which they ſhall ſhew thee, to the right hand nor to the left.

12 And the man that will do preſumptuouſly, and will not hearken unto the prieſt (that ſtandeth to miniſter there before the LORD thy God) or unto the judge, even that man ſhall die: and thou ſhalt put away the evil from Iſrael.

13 And all the people ſhall hear, and fear, and do no more preſumptuouſly.

The Egyptians, for inſtance, worſhipped the dog-ſtar, imagining that the ſoul of Iſis had been tranſported thither after death: they called the planets gods, and were the firſt who, in honour of them, divided the days into weeks, according to the number of the planets. 17 Neither ſhall he multiply wives to himſelf, that his heart turn not away: neither ſhall he greatly multiply to himſelf ſilver and gold.

18 And it ſhall be when he ſitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he ſhall write him a copy of this law in a book, out of that which is before the prieſts the Levites.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The Lord is the prieſts and Levites inheritance. 15 Chriſt the Prophet is to be heard. 20 The preſumptuous prophet is to die.

THE prieſts the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, ſhall have no part nor inheritance with Iſrael: they ſhall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and his inheritance.

2 Therefore ſhall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD is their inheritance, as he hath ſaid unto them.

3 ¶ And this ſhall be the prieſts due from the people, from them that offer a ſacrifice, whether it be ox or ſheep; and they ſhall give unto the prieſt the ſhoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.

4 The firſt-fruit alſo of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the firſt of the fleece of thy ſheep ſhalt thou give him.

5 For the LORD thy God hath choſen him out of all thy tribes, to ſtand to miniſter in the name of the LORD, him and his ſons for ever.

Ver. 16. He ſhall not multiply horſes.] And that for the reaſon given in the next words. It was uſual to buy horſes out of Egypt, which cuſtom continued to the days of Solomon, ſee 1 Kings x. 28.

Ver. 17. Neither ſhall he multiply wives.] Leſt, by marrying ſuch women as were worſhippers of ſtrange gods, he might be ſeduced from the true religion: thus it was with Solomon.

Ver. 18. Shall write him a copy of this law.] By this, ſome underſtand the book of Deuteronomy, which is an abridgment of the law, while others were of opinion, it means the whole pentateuch. The Jews inform us, that he was obliged to write this copy with his own hand, that ſo it might be the more ſtrongly imprinted upon his memory.

Notes on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 3. The two cheeks and the maw.] By the maw is meant the ſtomach, which the ancients accounted a great dainty. Theſe were added to what was before appointed as the prieſt's portion.

6 If a Levite.] Any of the Levitical tribe, whether a prieſt, or an ordinary Levite only.

7 Then he ſhall miniſter in the name of the LORD his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which ſtand there before the LORD.

8 They ſhall have like portions to eat, beſides that which cometh of the ſale of his patrimony.

9 ¶ When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not learn to do after the abominations of thoſe nations.

10 There ſhall not be found among you any one that maketh his ſon or his daughter to paſs through the fire, or that uſeth divination, or an obſerver of times, or an enchanter, or a witch,

8 Like portions to eat.] The ſame continual allowance with the prieſts and Levites in waiting. This was an encouragement to thoſe of the ſacred order, to delight in the exerciſe of their miniſterial functions, and to promote the honour of divine ſervice.

Ver. 10. An obſerver of times.] The word, in the original, is thought to ſignify that kind of divination that was made, by obſerving the face of the heaven, the motion and figure of the clouds, the appearance of meteors, thunder, lightning, and the like.

An enchanter.] One who divines by means of ſerpents.

A witch.] That is, one who does miſchief to men or beaſts by evil arts.

Ver. 11. A charmer.] Or, one who pretends to tell future events, from the poſition of the planets, viz. an aſtrologer.

A Necromancer.] A conſulter of dead idols; or one who enquires of the dead. The manner of performing this was, by viſiting their graves in the night, and there laying down, and muttering certain words with a low voice. Thus they pretended they had communion with them by dreams, or by their appearing to them.

Ver. 15. God will raiſe up unto thee a prophet.] God will ſupply you with a ſucceſſion of truly inſpired prophets, to whom he will reveal his will and determinations concerning your republic. This is the natural ſenſe of the words; but, as they point at ſome prophet more eminent than the reſt, they may be interpreted of the Meſſiah. If they may be underſtood, as comprehending all thoſe that ſucceeded Moſes, then Chriſt, the Meſſiah, who was the moſt eminent of them all, is not to be excluded. The antient Jews, as Le Clerc obſerves, undoubtedly underſtood them, as peculiarly applicable to the Meſſiah, ſince St. Peter, who, as the apoſtolic manner was, reaſons with the Jews upon received principles, and accommodates theſe words to Jeſus of Nazareth, Acts iii. 22. and vii. 37.

Like unto me.] All the ſucceeding prophets may, in a limited ſenſe, be ſaid to be like unto Moſes; that is, truly called and inſpired by God as he was, in oppoſition to thoſe pretenders to divine inſpirations, whom he mentioned in the preceding verſes: but in a ſtrict ſenſe, and in their full meaning, are applicable to none but the Meſſiah, who alone was like unto Moſes in this, that he was a ſecond lawgiver, and had a near and familiar intercourſe with God; even ſuch as no other prophet had.

Unto him ſhall ye hearken.] The Jews, by this precept, were bound to give ear to all thoſe prophets who proved their commiſſion from God; to the Meſſiah then more eſpecially, who was greater than them all. To this paſſage, Le Clerc refers thoſe words of our Lord, Do not think that I will accuſe you to the father: there is one that accuſeth you, even Moſes, in whom ye truſt; for, had ye believed Moſes, ye would have believed me, for he wrote of me, John v. 45.

20 But the prophet which ſhall preſume to ſpeak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to ſpeak, or that ſhall ſpeak in the name of other gods, even that prophet ſhall die.

21 And if thou ſay in thine heart, How ſhall we know the word which the LORD hath not ſpoken?

22 When a prophet ſpeaketh in the name of the LORD, if the thing follow not nor come to paſs, that is the thing which the LORD hath not ſpoken, but the prophet hath ſpoken it preſumptuouſly: thou ſhalt not be afraid of him.

CHAP. XIX.

1 The cities of refuge. 16 The puniſhment of a falſe witneſs.

Before Chriſt 1451.

WHen the LORD thy God hath cut off the nations, whoſe land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou ſucceedeſt them, and dwelleſt in their cities, and in their houſes;

2 Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee in the midſt of thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it.

3 Thou ſhalt prepare thee a way, and divide the coaſts of thy land (which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit) into three parts, that every ſlayer may flee thither.

4 ¶ And this is the caſe of the ſlayer, which ſhall flee thither, that he may live: Whoſo killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not in time paſt, ſtances that attended the promulgation of the law on mount Sinai, but in a free and familiar manner. The Meſſiah, though he confirmed his doctrine and miſſion by miracles, yet they were not ſuch as rendered him an object of terror, but were calculated to promote the good and welfare of men.

Ver. 19. I will require it of him.] The Greek tranſlates it, I will take vengeance on him. I will ſeverely puniſh him. This was fully accompliſhed in that wicked race of Jews, who, refuſing to hearken to the kind invitations of the Meſſiah, and perſecuting him to death; God, for their diſobedience, burnt up their city and temple, and ſcattered them throughout the whole earth, ſo that they are no longer a people, but are fugitives and vagabonds, and monuments of divine vengeance.

Ver. 20. Even that prophet ſhall die.] Shall be judged and condemned to death by the lawful magiſtrate. The Jewiſh writers inform us, that there were three particular caſes that could be brought before no other court, nor be judged by any other power, but that of the Sanhedrim; namely, the trial of an whole tribe, of an high-prieſt, and of a ſuſpected falſe prophet. That famous council being held in Jeruſalem only, points out the propriety of our Saviour's words, It cannot be, that a prophet periſh out of Jeruſalem; and again, O Jeruſalem, Jeruſalem, which killeſt the prophets!

Ver. 22. If the thing follow not.] If the prophet appeals to ſome miracle, or future event, as an abſolute ſign of the truth of his miſſion, and the miracle fails, or the prediction does not come to paſs, he ſhall be conſidered as an impoſtor.

NOTES on Chap. XIX.

Ver. 2. In the midſt of thy land.] Within thy land; for, if they had been all three in the heart of the country, they would have defeated the intention in ſeparating them, which was, that they ſhould be placed at ſuch convenient diſtances, in different parts of the country, that men might flee to them from any part, eaſily and ſpeedily.

Ver. 3. Thou ſhalt prepare thee a way.] The Jewiſh magiſtrates were obliged to prepare the ways to the cities of refuge. On the fifteenth day of Adar, anſwering to our February; they ſet people every year upon this work, and took particular care to have the roads made convenient and broad, not leſs than thirty-two cubits in breadth; they removed all impediments and obſtructions, and levelled the whole way, ſuffering no riſing ground to remain in the road: they laid bridges over every ſtream of water, and where the roads ſeparated, and went two or three ways, they ſet up a direction in writing. Maimonides in his treatiſe of murder, ſee likewiſe note on Numb. xxxv. 6.

Divide the coaſts of thy land.] Thy poſſeſſions on the weſt of Jordan. Theſe they were to divide into three equal parts, and in the centre of each, open an aſylum, that ſo, they being nearly equidiſtant, the inhabitants of each diſtrict might enjoy the ſame benefit from them.

that he die; he ſhall flee unto one of thoſe cities, and live:

6 Leſt the avenger of the blood purſue the ſlayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, becauſe the way is long, and ſlay him, whereas he was not worthy of death, in as much as he hated him not in time paſt.

7 Wherefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee.

8 And if the LORD thy God enlarge thy coaſt (as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers) and give thee all the land which he promiſed to give unto thy fathers;

9 (If thou ſhalt keep all theſe commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his ways) then ſhalt thou add three cities more for thee, beſides theſe three:

10 That innocent blood be not ſhed in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and ſo blood be upon thee.

11 ¶ But if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and riſe up againſt him, and ſmite him mortally that he die, and fleeth into one of theſe cities:

12 Then the elders of his city ſhall ſend and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

13 Thine eye ſhall not pity him, but thou ſhalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Iſrael, that it may go well with thee.

Before Christ 1451.

14 ¶ Thou ſhalt not remove thy neighbours land-mark, which they of old time have ſet in thine inheritance which thou ſhalt inherit, in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it.

15 ¶ One witneſs ſhall not riſe up againſt a man for any iniquity, or for any ſin, in any ſin that he ſinneth: at the mouth of two witneſſes, or at the mouth of three witneſſes ſhall the matter be eſtabliſhed.

16 ¶ If a falſe witneſs riſe up againſt any man to teſtify againſt him that which is wrong:

17 Then both the men between whom the controverſy is, ſhall ſtand before the LORD, before the prieſts, and the judges which ſhall be in thoſe days.

18 And the judges ſhall make diligent inquiſition: and behold, if the witneſs be a falſe witneſs, and hath teſtified falſly againſt his brother:

19 Then ſhall he do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: ſo ſhalt thou put the evil away from among you.

20 And thoſe which remain ſhall hear, and fear, and ſhall henceforth commit no more any ſuch evil among you.

21 And thine eye ſhall not pity, but life ſhall go for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

CHAP.

Ver. 9, Then ſhalt thou add three cities more.] Notwithſtanding that, in David's time, the boundaries of the Iſraelites were extended to the river Euphrates; yet we no where read, that three cities of refuge were added to them. It is likely therefore, that David did not expel the heathens beyond Lebanon, but that he only made them tributary.

Ver. 12. The elders of his city ſhall ſend and fetch him thence.] Upon any ſuſpicion or information of murder, the magiſtrates of the town or diſtrict, where the fact was committed, ſhall ſend for the refugee out of the city of refuge, whither he had fled, and bring him to a fair trial; and if it appears, upon a clear evidence, that he is guilty of wilful murder, they ſhall paſs ſentence upon him, and cauſe execution to be done without fear or partiality, as they value the bleſſing of heaven, and deſire to free themſelves from the guilt of innocent blood, which otherwiſe would be required at their hands.

Ver. 14. Thou ſhalt not remove thy neighbours land-mark.] This is conſidered by Joſephus as a general prohibition, and forbids the removing the land-marks, not only of an Iſraelite, but of any of the neighbouring nations, with whom they were at peace; the breaking in upon thoſe bounds, being the cauſe of wars and inſurrections, which ariſe from their covetouſneſs, who would thus fraudulently enlarge their territories.

1 The prieſts exhortation to encourage the people to battel. 16 What cities muſt be devoted.

WHen thou goeſt out to battel againſt thine enemies, and ſeeſt horſes and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the LORD thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

2 And it ſhall be when ye are come nigh unto the battel, that the prieſt ſhall approach and ſpeak unto the people,

3 And ſhall ſay unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, you approach this day unto battel againſt your enemies: let not your hearts faint, fear not and do not tremble, neither be ye terrified becauſe of them.

4 For the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you againſt your enemies, to ſave you.

5 ¶ And the officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people, ſaying, What man is there that hath built a new houſe, and hath not dedicated it? let him go and return to his houſe, leſt he die in the battel, and another man dedicate it.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet eaten of it? let him alſo go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battel, and another man eat of it.

7 And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in battel, and another man take her.

8 And the officers ſhall ſpeak further unto the people, and they ſhall ſay, What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt his brethrens heart faint as well as his heart.

9 And it ſhall be when the officers have made an end of ſpeaking unto the people, that they ſhall make captains of the armies to lead the people.

10 ¶ When thou comeſt nigh unto a city to fight againſt it, then proclaim peace unto it.

11 And it ſhall be, if it make thee anſwer of peace, and open unto thee, then it ſhall be that all the people that is found therein, ſhall be tributaries unto thee, and they ſhall ſerve thee.

12 And if it will make no peace with thee,

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver. 1. Be not afraid of them,] Moſes exhorts them not to fear the moſt formidable of their enemies, but to depend entirely upon that God for protection, who had ſo frequently delivered them from their ſuperior forces.

Horſes and chariots.] The Iſraelitiſh army conſiſted entirely of foot, and their law ſeemed to oblige them to continue ſo, that their reliance might be the more upon God. The Canaanites, and other nations, had the advantage of chariots and horſes; but while they relied on theſe, the Iſraelites were taught to remember, and to truſt in the name of the Lord their God, Pſalm xx. 7.

Ver. 2. The prieſt ſhall approach and ſpeak unto the people.] There was a prieſt, who was appointed for this purpoſe: his office was to blow the trumpet when they were preparing for battle, and to exhort them to a courageous and undaunted performance of their duty; to look upon the cauſe to be the cauſe of God, and to aſſure themſelves of ſucceſs under his protection.

Ver. 5. The officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people.] The Iſraelites were to make proclamation, allowing an exemption from the war, to ſuch as had lately purchaſed eſtates, newly built houſes, and not yet ſettled in them; planted new vineyards, or were juſt married, leſt the thoughts of ſuch men, continually hankering after their private affairs, might diſpirit them from the buſineſs of the war, and the ſervice of the public.

Ver. 8. What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted.] We may obſerve, from this paſſage, that though the Iſraelites had the promiſe of a particular interpoſition of providence in their behalf, yet they were all along required to make uſe of the moſt proper human means to compaſs this end; thus, in the inſtance before us, though they were not abſolutely to rely on their own ſtrength and valour, and the conduct of their men for the victory; yet they were to employ only ſuch perſons in their wars, as had a mind diſpoſed and qualified for the buſineſs, and were worthy of a bleſſing upon their endeavours.

Ver. 10. Then proclaim peace unto it.] See note on Numb. chap. xx. 14.

Ver. 11. If it make thee anſwer of peace.] That is, if they accept the conditions offered, which were theſe: 1. That they ſhould renounce idolatry. 2. Become their ſubjects: and, 3. Pay an annual tribute.

15 Thus ſhalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of theſe nations.

16 But of the cities of theſe people which the Lord thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou ſhalt ſave alive nothing that breatheth:

17 But thou ſhalt utterly deſtroy them, namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee:

Ver. 18. That they teach thee not to do after all their abominations.] They were ſo abominably wicked and immoral, that God did not think them fit to live any longer on the earth; but eſteemed it a mercy to the human race in general, not to permit ſuch a wicked and contagious generation to ſubſiſt.

Ver. 19. Thou ſhalt not deſtroy the trees, &c.] They were forbid to make any unneceſſary waſte, it being ſhameful to deſtroy thoſe things which are uſeful to the ſupport of human life.

Notes on Chap. XXI.

Ver. 1. If one be found ſlain in the land.] The expiation ordained for a concealed murderer, when the criminal could not be found by the moſt diligent inquiſition, was attended with great ſolemnity; to ſhew the atrociouſneſs of the deed, and to deter others.

Ver. 2. The elders.] It is not here ſaid the elders of that city, as in the ſubſequent verſe (for it is not as yet known to what particular city it belongeth) but thy elders, O Iſrael, which were of the general ſtates of the land, members of the great council, or ſanhedrim.

Ver. 4. Unto a rough valley.] The original ſignifies alſo a ſtream or torrent; and ſeeing, that in the 6th verſe, the elders are commanded to waſh their hands over the heifer; it is natural to infer there was running water in the place, and that we are therefore to underſtand it a valley, with a brook running through it.

their word ſhall every controverſy and every ſtroke be tried.

6 And all the elders of that city that are next unto the ſlain man, ſhall waſh their hands over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley.

7 And they ſhall anſwer and ſay, Our hands have not ſhed this blood, neither have our eyes ſeen it.

8 Be merciful, O Lord, unto thy people Iſrael, whom thou haſt redeemed, and lay not innocent blood unto thy people of Iſraels charge. And the blood ſhall be forgiven them.

9 So ſhalt thou put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the Lord.

10 ¶ When thou goeſt forth to war againſt thine enemies, and the Lord thy God hath delivered them into thine hands, and thou haſt taken them captive,

13 And ſhe ſhall put the raiment of her captivity from off her, and ſhall remain in thine houſe, and bewail her father and her mother a full month: and after that, thou ſhalt go in unto her, and be her huſband, and ſhe ſhall be thy wife.

14 And it ſhall be if thou have no delight in her, then thou ſhalt let her go whether ſhe will, but thou ſhalt not ſell her at all for money, thou ſhalt not make merchandiſe of her, becauſe thou haſt humbled her.

15 ¶ If a man have two wives, one beloved, and another hated, and they have borne him children, both the beloved and the hated; and if the firſt-born ſon be hers that was hated:

16 Then it ſhall be, when he maketh his ſons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not make the ſon of the beloved, firſt-born, before the ſon of the hated, which is indeed the firſt-born:

17 But he ſhall acknowledge the ſon of the hated for the firſt-born, by giving him a double portion of all that he hath: for he is the beginning of his ſtrength, the right of the firſt-born is his.

Ver. 12. She ſhall ſhave her head and pare her nails.] The Chaldaic paraphraſe has it, ſhe ſhall let her nails grow; this to us ſeems moſt ſuitable to a ſtate of matrimony. It was the practice of ſome nations to neglect every ornament of dreſs, and even to abandon neatneſs and cleanlineſs: but ſeeing the original will permit either tranſlation, it has been variouſly rendered, according to the different faſhions of ſeveral countries, See Levit, xix. 27.

Ver. 13. The raiment of her captivity.] Namely the garments in which ſhe was taken; theſe ſhe was to lay aſide, and inſtead thereof put on mourning, which was another ſign of humiliation, and a means to withdraw the man's affection from her, if ſhe continued in her unbelief; a method which, in thoſe times, when neglect of perſon were the indications of diſtreſs, was likely to affect what was deſigned; but would have failed of ſucceſs, it is like, in theſe days, when ſtudied art and elegance are introduced, probably as an alleviation to the diſtreſs of the mind, and both the real and pretended mourner, are adorned with all the trappings of art.

Ver. 15. Two wives.] Bigamy was become general, and though God did permit it for a while, even in his own church, i. e. to the time of reformation; yet, it is plain, from our Saviour's remark, Matth. xix. 4, 5. That he approved not of it, and that it was contrary to God's firſt inſtitution. This corruption was inſtituted by the poſterity of Cain, ſee Geneſis iv. 19.

Ver. 18. If a man have a ſtubborn and rebellious ſon, &c.] This law is added for the regulation of families, by giving to parents a well tempered power over extravagant and incorrigible children—Their power was to extend thus far—When a parent found all means of admonition, and correction were loſt upon any ſon, and foreſaw nothing but ruin to the eſtate and family, he was directed to make complaint to the magiſtracy in court, who, upon ſufficient evidence againſt him, were to condemn him to death, as a terrible example of diſobedience to the divine laws. The Romans, and ſome countries in like manner, entruſted the parents with this power of puniſhing their ſons with death; but to their diſcretion was left the exerciſe of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that when they have chaſtened him, will not hearken unto them :

19 Then ſhall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place :

20 And they ſhall ſay unto the elders of his city, This our ſon is ſtubborn and rebellious, he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard.

21 And all the men of his city ſhall ſtone him with ſtones, that he die : ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you, and all Iſrael ſhall hear, and fear.

22 ¶ And if a man have committed a ſin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree :

23 His body ſhall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou ſhalt in any wiſe bury him that day (for he that is hanged, is accurſed of God) that thy land be not defiled, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

ciſe of that power : hence, as well as from many other inſtances, it appears, that the Moſaic diſpenſation, conſidered merely as a ſyſtem of laws, is vaſtly ſuperior to that of any other of the renowned legiſlators of antiquity.

Ver. 22. And thou hang him on a tree.] The Hebrews underſtand this, not of putting him to death by hanging, but of hanging a man up after he was ſtoned to death. The Romans afterwards changed this kind of puniſhment, by hanging or faſtening the malefactors to the tree alive; and ſuch was the death of our bleſſed Saviour.

Notes on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. Thou ſhalt not ſee thy brothers ox, &c.] From Exodus xxiii. 4. compared with our Lord's parable of the Samaritan, Luke x. 30. it is evident, that the word brother, implies every man without diſtinction.

Ver. 5. The woman ſhall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man.] If the ſexes were not diſtinguiſhed by their different habits, it would open a door to all manner of impurity ; for which reaſon alone, even if there was no other, this law was wiſe and pious.

Ver. 6. Thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young.] This is one of thoſe merciful conſtitutions in the law of Moſes, which reſpect the animal creation ; and tended to humanize the heart of that people, to beget in them a ſenſe of the divine providence, extending itſelf to all creatures, and to teach them to exerciſe dominion over them with gentleneſs.

Before Christ 1451.

then thou ſhalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not blood upon thine houſe, if any man fall from thence.

9 ¶ Thou ſhalt not ſow thy vineyard with divers ſeeds: leſt the fruit of thy ſeed which thou haſt ſown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled.

10 ¶ Thou ſhalt not plow with an ox and an aſs together.

17 And lo, he hath given occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, ſaying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet theſe are the tokens of my daughters virginity: and they ſhall ſpread the cloth beſore the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city ſhall take that man and chaſtiſe him.

19 And they ſhall amerce him in an hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and give them unto the father of the damſel, becauſe he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Iſrael: and ſhe ſhall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not ſound for the damſel:

21 Then they ſhall bring out the damſel to the door of her fathers houſe, and the men of her city ſhall ſtone her with ſtones that ſhe die: becauſe ſhe hath wrought folly in Iſrael, to play the whore in her fathers houſe: ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you.

22 ¶ If a man be found lying with a woman married to an huſband, then they

---

Ver. 8. Thou ſhalt make a battlement for thy roof.] This means a balluſtrade, or rails round the top of the houſe. The houſes of the Iſraelites were flat roofed, ſo that they walked on them, and from thence converſed with the people in the ſtreets. This illuſtrates the meaning of thoſe words of our bleſſed Saviour, where he mentions, ſpeaking and proclaiming on the houſe tops, Matth. x. 27. and Luke xii 3.

Ver. 10. Thou ſhalt not plow with an ox and an aſs together.] This law prohibits them from yoking clean and unclean animals together; and perhaps with this merciful intent, that the ox, a beaſt of greater ſtrength, might not ſtrain the aſs, a creature of leſs, beyond its ability, by being coupled together in the ſame carriage. Le Clerc underſtands it ſymbolically, viz. That the Iſraelites were not to make marriages with the unbelieving nations; confirming his opinion by a quotation from St. Paul. Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers, 2 Cor. vi. 14. though undoubtedly this was a poſitive command, whatever moral inferences may be drawn from it.

Ver. 17. Shall ſpread the cloth before the elders of the city.] The Jews, indeed, do not underſtand theſe words literally of a cloth, but figuratively, of an evident proof, laid open, like a cloth unfolded; ſuch, it is like, as the teſtimony of matrons: notwithſtanding, this appears to have been done in fact, and with ſolemn circumſtances and formalities.

Ver. 19. An hundred ſhekels.] i. e. about twelve pounds ſterling.

Ver. 20. If this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found, &c.] Then it is commanded, in the following verſe, that the damſel be brought to the door of her father's houſe, and that the men of the city ſtone her with ſtones that ſhe die. Her parents were, by this means, made partakers of the puniſhment of her crime, and their negligence was ſeverely puniſhed by ſuch a ſhameful execution, as reflected diſhonour upon the whole family. For this reaſon, the Jews were very careful of preſerving their daughters virginity. By the laws of God, concerning this ſtate, we ought to ſee, as Allix obſerves, what care God took, that the birth of the Meſſiah, even in this very article, might not be a fact too difficult to be acknowledged and eſtabliſhed, who, according to the promiſes concerning him, was to be born of a pure virgin, Iſaiah vii. 14.

25 ¶ But if a man find a betrothed damſel in the field, and the man force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her, ſhall die.

26 But unto the damſel thou ſhalt do nothing, there is in the damſel no ſin worthy of death: for as when a man only riſeth againſt his neighbour, and ſlayeth him, even ſo is this matter.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 3. An Ammonite or Moabite ſhall not enter into the congregation, &c.] A male of theſe nations being only mentioned, the Jews tell us, that their women were not concerned in this law. Thus, though an Iſraelitiſh woman, might not marry an Ammonite or Moabite; yet a man of Iſrael might marry one of their women, having firſt of all profeſſed the Jewiſh religion. So Boaz, the anceſtor of David, married Ruth the Moabiteſs.

Ver. 4. Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way.] To give ſtrangers, in their travels, the refreſhment of bread and water, i. e. of meat and drink, was a piece of ancient hoſpitality.

Ver. 6. Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace.] Thou ſhalt not enter into any public league or friendſhip with them; yet the duties of humane and civil ſociety, and of ordinary juſtice, are not here forbidden.

Ver. 7. Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite.] The Edomites were a kindred nation, being the deſcendants of Eſau, and uſed circumciſion; therefore they might make marriages with them, provided they worſhipped the true God.

Thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian.] As the Iſraelites had been treated for many years with great hoſpitality by the Egyptians; therefore God would not have thoſe former kindneſſes forgot, though they were afterwards treated with cruelty by one of their tyrants. By this injunction, it appears, how laſting the obligation of gratitude ought to be; and that the memory of paſt favours ſhould not be effaced by ſucceeding injuries.

Ver. 9. When the hoſt goeth forth againſt thine enemies, then keep thee from every wicked thing.] This indeed was a duty at all times, neceſſary and incumbent; but more eſpecially ſo, when they were going forth to battle againſt their enemies, there was then the greateſt need of abſtinence from ſin, becauſe the greateſt need of the divine protection and aſſiſtance, which they could not reaſonably hope for if they were wicked. It is God alone who, in famine, can redeem from death, and in war, from the power of the ſword. We ought not therefore to preſume to aſk ſucceſs, while we ſcruple not to offend that Being who alone can give it.

Ver. 13. Thou ſhalt have a paddle upon thy weapon.] The paddle was an iron inſtrument, the uſe of which is deſcribed in the remaining part of the verſe. Le Clerc renders it, thou ſhalt have a paddle beſides thy arms, which is full as agreeable to the original, as our tranſlation, and makes a much plainer ſenſe.

Ver. 14. For the Lord walketh in the midſt of thy camp.] The ark, which was the ſymbol of the divine preſence, went along with them; and therefore reverence to the divine majeſty required, that no uncleanneſs, natural or moral, ſhould be found among them.

Ver. 15. Thou ſhalt not deliver unto his maſter, the ſervant which is eſcaped unto thee.] This is thought to have a particular relation to times of war, when heathen ſoldiers or ſervants might deſert and come over to the Iſraelites, with intent to turn proſelytes to the true religion. The Hebrew doctors underſtand this precept in general, of the ſlaves of the neighbouring nations, who fled from their maſters into Judea, and embraced the religion of the Iſraelites.

Ver. 17. Nor a Sodomite.] This is thought more probably to ſignify a whore-maſter; for the Iſraelites were not notoriouſly guilty of thoſe abominable practices; nor do the ancient verſions give any countenance to our calling this a Sodomite.

Ver. 18. Thou ſhalt not bring the hire of an whore, or the price of a dog into the houſe of the Lord.] The moſt natural explication of this is, to take the word dog here in a figurative ſenſe, for the Sodomite or whore-maſter mentioned above; it being a known figure, in moſt languages, to call men of intemperate luſts, by the name of that animal, which they reſemble in their manners. Accordingly, men of beaſtly natures are called dogs, Matth. xv. 26.

Ver. 20. Unto a ſtranger thou mayeſt lend upon uſury.] As their neighbours the Sidonians, Tyrians, and Egyptians, made not lend upon uſury; that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand to, in the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

21 ¶ When thou ſhalt vow a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt not ſlack to pay it: for the LORD thy God will ſurely require it of thee; and it would be ſin in thee.

22 But if thou ſhalt forbear to vow, it ſhall be no ſin in thee.

23 That which is gone out of thy lips, thou ſhalt keep and perform; even a free-will-offering, according as thou haſt vowed unto the LORD thy God, which thou haſt promiſed with thy mouth.

24 ¶ When thou comeſt into thy neighbours vineyard, then thou mayeſt eat grapes thy fill, at thine own pleaſure; but thou ſhalt not put any in thy veſſel.

25 When thou comeſt into the ſtanding-corn of thy neighbours, then thou mayeſt pluck the ears with thine hand: but thou ſhalt not move a ſickle unto thy neighbours ſtanding-corn.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 Of divorce. 6, 10 Of pledges. 14 The hire is to be given. 16 Of juſtice. 19 Of charity.

Before Christ 1451.

WHen a man hath taken a wife, and married her, and it come to paſs that ſhe find no favour in his eyes, becauſe he hath found ſome uncleanneſs in her: then let him write her a bill of divorcement, and give it in her hand, and ſend her out of his houſe.

2 And when ſhe is departed out of his houſe, ſhe may go and be another mans wiſe.

3 And if the latter huſband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it in her hand, and ſendeth her out of his houſe; or if the latter huſband die, which took her to be his wife;

4 Her former huſband which ſent her away, may not take her again to be his wife, after that ſhe is defiled: for that is abomination before the LORD, and thou ſhalt not cauſe the land to ſin, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

5 ¶ When a man hath taken a new wife, he ſhall not go out to war, neither ſhall he be charged with any buſineſs: but he ſhall be free at home one year, and ſhall cheer up his wife which he hath taken.

made great gain by merchandiſe, it was not reaſonable that they ſhould borrow money of the Iſraelites for nothing; but it was reaſonable, that the Iſraelites themſelves, whoſe chief profit was by huſbandry and breeding of cattle, ſhould have money lent them freely by one another without intereſt; their land not being a country of traffic, whereby money might be improved, as in other kingdoms.

Ver. 24. When thou comeſt into thy neighbours vineyard, then thou mayeſt eat grapes thy fill.] The Hebrew doctors ſay, this law was made for poor labourers, who were hired to work in the vineyard in the time of vintage: for if the very oxen were not to be muzzled, whilſt they trod out the corn; how much leſs ought the labourer to be debarred from eating the fruits about which he laboured?

NOTES on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 1. When a man hath taken a wife, &c.] The Hebrew nation having been accuſtomed to the liberty of putting away their wives, upon motives of diſlike and averſion, and Moſes being ſenſible that their hardneſs of heart, and ſeverity of temper, would, upon an abſolute reſtraint from ſuch liberty, produce greater inconveniency and diſtractions in families, he now enacted, That when any huſband laboured under an abſolute diſlike to his wife, either upon account of any bodily infirmity, or of her diſagreeable temper, or perhaps of any immodeſty of diſcourſe, or even behaviour, he ſhould have the privilege of parting with her, not in a haſty, and violent method, but deliberately, by giving her a diſcharge from any further relation to him, ſigned with his own hand, whereby ſhe acquired a full right to marry any other perſon.

Ver. 4. Her former huſband—may not take her again.] In order to reſtrain them from abuſe of this permiſſion, the law provides, that the huſband, who had once put away his wife, ſhould, upon her being married to another, be incapable of taking her again, though ſhe might grow rich, or otherwiſe deſirable. This conſideration prevented them from parting with their wives; ſince, if ſhe was once married to a ſecond, ſhe was irrecoverably loſt to the former huſband.

Before Chriſt 1451.

6 ¶ No man ſhall take the nether or the upper milſtone to pledge: for he taketh a mans life to pledge.

7 ¶ If a man be found ſtealing any of his brethren of the children of Iſrael, and maketh merchandiſe of him, or ſelleth him; then that thief ſhall die, and thou ſhalt put evil away from among you.

8 ¶ Take heed, of the plague of leproſy, that thou obſerve diligently, and do according to all that the prieſts the Levites ſhall teach you: as I commanded them ſo ye ſhall obſerve to do.

9 Remember what the LORD thy God did unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

10 ¶ When thou doſt lend thy brother any thing, thou ſhalt not go into his houſe to fetch his pledge.

11 Thou ſhalt ſtand abroad, and the man to whom thou doeſt lend ſhall bring out the pledge abroad unto thee.

12 And if the man be poor, thou ſhalt not ſleep with his pledge.

13 In any caſe thou ſhalt deliver him the pledge again when the ſun goeth down, that he may ſleep in his own raiment, and bleſs thee: and it ſhall be righteouſneſs unto thee before the LORD thy God.

Before Chriſt 1451.

14 ¶ Thou ſhalt not oppreſs an hired ſervant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy ſtrangers that are in thy land within thy gates.

15 At his day thou ſhalt give him his hire, neither ſhall the ſun go down upon it, for he is poor, and ſetteth his heart upon it: leſt he cry againſt thee unto the LORD, and it be ſin unto thee.

16 The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, neither ſhall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin.

17 ¶ Thou ſhalt not pervert the judgment of the ſtranger, nor of the fatherleſs, nor take the widows raiment to pledge.

18 But thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

19 When thou cutteſt down thine harveſt in thy field, and haſt forgot a ſheaf in the field, thou ſhalt not go again to fetch it: it ſhall be for the ſtranger, for the fatherleſs, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all the work of thine hands.

Ver. 6. He takeeh a man's life to pledge.] Becauſe he wants it to make his bread, the ſupport of life. The poor among the Jews uſed hand-mills, made of two ſtones, which they worked one upon another, to grind their corn.

Ver. 10. Thou ſhalt not go into his houſe to fetch his pledge.] This was a merciful proviſion for the poor, whoſe houſes no man might enter into, without their conſent, and there chuſe what he pleaſed for the ſecurity of his debt, but the lender was to take what the borrower could beſt ſpare.

Ver. 12. If the man be poor, thou ſhalt not ſleep with his pledge.] If the pledge was to be returned every night, where was the uſe of taking a pledge at all? To this the Rabbins anſwer, that this was a means of preventing the debt from being releaſed in the ſabbatical-year, as it would otherwiſe have been.

Ver. 14. Poor and needy.] The word tranſlated poor ſhould more properly be rendered afflicted; then it will convey a ſeparate idea from needy.

Ver. 16. The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, &c.] This is a rule of common equity, and not at all inconſiſtent with God's threatning to puniſh the ſins of the fathers upon the children, Exod. xx. 5. as that refers to the ſtrokes of heaven; whereas the preſent text, relates only to puniſhments inflicted upon criminals by men.

Ver. 17. Thou ſhalt not pervert the judgment of the ſtranger, nor of the fatherleſs.] Such perſons had none to ſtand by them and plead their cauſe; therefore the judges were to take the greater care to ſee juſtice done them.

Ver. 19. When thou cutteſt down, &c.] There were many merciful laws relating to the poor: See Lev. xix. 9, 10. xxiii. 22; where they are ordered not to be over exact in reaping the fruits of their fields and vineyards, but to leave ſomething to be gathered by their poor neighbours.

Sundry laws.

IF there be a controverſy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them, then they ſhall juſtify the righteous, and condemn the wicked.

2 And it ſhall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number.

3 Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed: leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe with many ſtripes, then thy brother ſhould ſeem vile unto thee.

4 ¶ Thou ſhalt not muzzle the ox when he treadeth out the corn.

5 If brethren dwell together, and one of them die and have no child, the wife of the dead ſhall not marry without unto a ſtranger: her huſbands brother ſhall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an huſbands brother unto her.

Before Chriſt 1451.

6 And it ſhall be, that the firſt-born which ſhe beareth, ſhall ſucceed in the name of his brother which is dead, that his name be not put out of Iſrael.

7 And if the man like not to take his brothers wife, then let his brothers wife go up to the gate unto the elders, and ſay, My huſbands brother refuſeth to raiſe up unto his brother a name in Iſrael, he will not perform the duty of my huſbands brother.

8 Then the elders of his city ſhall call him and ſpeak unto him: and if he ſtand to it, and ſay, I like not to take her:

9 Then ſhall his brothers wife come unto him in the preſence of the elders, and looſe his ſhoe from off his foot, and ſpit in his face, and ſhall anſwer and ſay, So ſhall it be done unto that man that will not build up his brothers houſe.

Notes on Chap. XXV.

Ver. 1. If there be a controverſy between men, &c.] Having affixed puniſhments to the breaches of the moſt capital laws, Moſes now orders, that the ſeveral inferior courts of juſtice ſhould take due cognizance of other criminal matters deſerving only corporal penalties, and be juſt and impartial in their proceedings upon all ſuch complaints.

Ver. 3. Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed.] That ſevere judges might not order delinquents to be laſhed to death, as was often done among the Romans.

Leſt if he ſhould exceed—thy brother ſhould ſeem vile unto thee.] Leſt the judges, by exceeding the bounds of humanity, might be accuſtomed to think deſpicably of their poor brethren, and ſet their lives at nought.

Ver. 4. Thou ſhalt not muzzle the ox when he treadeth out the corn.] It was the cuſtom of thoſe countries to uſe oxen in treading out the corn, either with their feet, or by drawing ſledges, which were a ſort of heavy tables armed with iron nails, to ſeparate the grain from the ſtraw. By this allegorical precept, Moſes inſtructs his people to be kind to their ſervants and labourers, eſpecially to thoſe who miniſtered to them in holy things.

Ver. 5. If brethren dwell together.] By brethren, we are here to underſtand, firſt, brethren properly ſo called; then kinſmen, who ſucceed in the room of brothers, as appears from the hiſtory of Ruth, chap. iii. 9.

Ver. 9. Looſe his ſhoe.] This was a mark of infamy for his want of natural affection, importing, that he deſerved to be degraded to the condition of a ſlave, who uſed to go barefoot.

3 And thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt that ſhall be in thoſe days, and ſay unto him, I profeſs this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the country which the LORD ſware unto our fathers for to give us,

4 And the prieſt ſhall take the baſket out of thine hand, and ſet it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou ſhalt ſpeak and ſay before the LORD thy God, A Syrian ready to periſh was my father, and he went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there with a few, and became there a nation great, mighty, and populous.

6 And the Egyptians evil intreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage.

7 And when we cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion.

8 And the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an out-ſtretched-arm, and with great terribleneſs, and with ſigns and with wonders.

Ver. 18. How he met thee by the way.] The Amalekites fell upon the children of Iſrael in the wilderneſs, Exodus xvii. 8.

Ver. 19. Thou ſhalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek.] This command was accordingly fulfilled, 1 Sam. xv.

Notes on Chap. XXVI.

Ver. 1. It ſhall be when thou art come into the land, &c.] Every Iſraelite, being obliged by law to offer the firſt-fruits of his field and vineyard, at the tabernacle, at the proper ſeaſons, Moſes now preſcribes to them the forms of ſolemn proceſſion and prayer with which each offerer ſhould preſent them.

Ver. 5. A Syrian ready to periſh was my father.] Jacob was a Syrian by deſcent, Abraham being a native of that country, and he himſelf lived twenty years with Laban the Syrian, and thence he was called a Syrian. And at the time he went down into Egypt, he was ready to periſh by famine.

17 Thou haſt avouched the Lord this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his ſtatutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice.

18 And the Lord hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldeſt keep all his commandments:

Ver. 13. Before the Lord thy God.] Theſe words ſignify, that every man ſhould make this declaration before the moſt holy place at the ſanctuary: for the words before the Lord are generally ſo uſed in theſe books. And unleſs they had been obliged to this, their covetous diſpoſition might have inclined them to defraud the poor.

Ver. 14. I have not eaten thereof in my mourning.] Nothing was more unſuitable to the worſhip of God, than melancholy and dejection of mind; therefore the children of Iſrael were not allowed to eat of holy things when they were in a ſtate of mourning.

Nor given ought thereof for the dead.] I have not offered any of my fruits to idols, which were only dead men deified. From hence, and other paſſages in this book, it appears how very careful Moſes was to guard the Jews againſt being infected with the then prevailing idolatry of worſhipping the dead.

Ver. 15. Look down from thy holy habitation, &c.] Tho' God was pleaſed to dwell among them by a glorious ſymbol of his preſence, yet Moſes teaches the Iſraelites to acknowledge, that he dwelt in a more tranſcendent glory in the heavens.

NOTES on Chap. XXVII.

Ver. 2. Thou ſhalt ſet thee up great ſtones.] It is not here ſpecified how many ſtones were ſet up; but the general opinion is, there were twelve, anſwerable to the number of pillars which Moſes erected, Exod. xxiv. 4. when he made the covenant between God and his people; but unleſs we could determine, how much of the law was to be written upon theſe ſtones, we cannot gueſs at their number; for, if there was only the decalogue, or ten commandments, fewer than twelve might ſerve; but if the whole book of Deuteronomy, that number was not ſufficient.

With plaiſter.] Therefore it appears, that the law was not to be engraven upon theſe ſtones; but rather written or painted, though Houbigant thinks, that the word does not mean plaiſter for the ſurfaces, but cement for the ſides of theſe ſtones, by which they were to be joined firmly together.

Ver. 3. All the words of this law.] The law here meant was moſt probably the ten commandments only: for this book of Deuteronomy, if not the whole pentateuch, was evidently compoſed after Moſes had, in four ſpeeches, repeated the laws of God to the people; the laſt ſpeech ends with the 30th chapter: after which we are told, Moſes wrote this law, and delivered it to the prieſts, &c. chap. xxxi. 9. Joſephus thinks that Moſes means the following curſes, ver. 15. to the end of the chapter; and ſeeing they contain ſeveral ſelect precepts, and the laſt of them ſeems to have reſpect to the whole law of Moſes; this appears to be no improbable opinion.

Ver. 4. In mount Ebal.] Some contend, that the Jews have moſt abominably corrupted this paſſage; and likewiſe Joſhua viii. 30. Inſtead of Ebal, reading Gerizim, and produce the authority of three very ancient verſions of the Samaritans pentateuch to corroborate this aſſertion: but it ſeems more probable, that our reading is true, and that the Samaritan pentateuch has rather corrupted the paſſage, the better to juſtify their building the temple there; (which the Samaritans did in mount Gerizim) and from this paſſage, thus falſly rendered, to plead the ſanction of God's command.

Ver. 5. An altar of ſtones.] This altar has been (and not improperly) called the altar of confederation, or confirmation of the covenant, into which they had entered at Horeb.

Ver. 12. Theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Gerizim to bleſs.] Gerizim and Ebal (ſays Maundrell) are ſeparated by a narrow valley, not above a furlong broad; and Naploſa, the ancient Sychem, is built at the foot of mount Gerizim, from whence the bleſſings were pronounced; and from Ebal were pronounced thoſe particular curſes, to which the people were to ſay Amen, and then repeated by the Levites in the valley: for the 14th verſe ſhould be rendered agreeably to the Hebrew and all the ancient verſions.—The Levites ſhall anſwer and ſay unto all the men, &c.

Reuben, Gad, and Aſhur, and Zebulon, Dan, and Naphtali.] Four of theſe were children of the hand-maids. Reuben loſt his dignity by going up to his father's bed; and Zebulon was the youngeſt of the ſons of Leah, who was therefore choſe to this leſs honourable employment; otherwiſe there had not been an equal number of tribes upon each mountain.

Ver. 15. The people ſhall anſwer and ſay, Amen.] That is, ſhall expreſs their conſent to it; for the word Amen, has ſometimes the force of an oath; ſometimes only declares conſent and approbation; and ſometimes is uſed for the confirmation of any thing. There is an example of the firſt, Numb. v. 22. and this is alledged for an example of the ſecond; and for the third, Jer. xxviii. 6.—In the ſolemn ſervice of the commination, (which includes theſe ſentences) the anſwer there required, is not in the nature of an oath, but is to be conſidered only as a ſimple aſſent to the truth of a propoſition.

Ver. 25. Curſed be he that taketh reward.] Rather, that taketh a bribe, &c. as it probably relates to judges or witneſſes.

Ver. 26. Curſed be he that confirmeth not all the words, &c.] The verb which we render confirmeth, properly ſignifies performeth, and ſhould have been ſo tranſlated, as it is, 1 Sam. iv. 11.

4 Bleſſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

5 Bleſſed ſhall be thy baſket and thy ſtore.

7 The LORD ſhall cauſe thine enemies that riſe up againſt thee to be ſmitten before thy face: they ſhall come out againſt thee one way, and flee before thee ſeven ways.

8 The LORD ſhall command the bleſſing upon thee in thy ſtore-houſes, and in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto: and he ſhall bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

9 The LORD ſhall eſtabliſh thee an holy people unto himſelf, as he hath ſworn unto thee, if thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all people of the earth ſhall ſee that thou art called by the name of the LORD, and they ſhall be afraid of thee.

11 And the LORD ſhall make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers to give thee.

Before Christ 1451.

12 The LORD ſhall open unto thee his good treaſure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his ſeaſon, and to bleſs all the work of thine hand: and thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, and thou ſhalt not borrow.

13 And the LORD ſhall make thee the head, and not the tail; and thou ſhalt be above only, and thou ſhalt not be beneath: if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day to obſerve and to do them.

14 And thou ſhalt not go aſide from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to ſerve them.

Notes on Chap. XXVIII.

Ver. 5. Bleſſed ſhall be thy baſket and thy ſtore.] Thy baſkets ſhall be full of fruits, and thy barns or ſtorehouſes full of corn.

Ver. 7. Flee before thee ſeven ways.] Fleeing ſeven ways denotes a total overthrow, when every man ſhifted for himſelf, as ſoldiers do when they are entirely routed.

Ver. 12. The Lord ſhall open unto thee his good treaſure, &c.] The Lord ſhall cauſe the rain of heaven to fall upon thy land; thoſe magazines of water which are ſuſpended in the clouds, for the purpoſes of watering and fertilizing the ground, being called God's good treaſure, becauſe rain is ſo beneficial to the earth; and it ſpeaks his goodneſs to ſhower down his bleſſings in ſuch quantities, as he thinks proper for the ſuſtenance of man and beaſt.

Ver. 14. And thou ſhalt not go aſide.] Remember that all this extenſive and delightful proſpect depends entirely upon thy religious conformity to the laws that are enjoined thee; eſpecially to thoſe calculated on purpoſe to keep thee from the ſuperſtitious and abominable idolatries of the heathen world.

Ver. 15, 16, 17, 18, 19. But—if thou wilt not hearken, &c.] If thou wilt not obſerve the commandments of the Lord; eſpecially that great commandment, Not to go after other gods to ſerve them; all the former bleſſings ſhall be reverſed, and thou ſhalt feel the woeful effects of thy folly, wickedneſs, and ingratitude.

meſt in, and curſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out.

20 The LORD ſhall ſend upon thee curſing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto, for to do; until thou be deſtroyed, and until thou periſh quickly; becauſe of the wickedneſs of thy doings whereby thou haſt forſaken me.

21 the LORD ſhall make the peſtilence cleave unto thee, until he have conſumed thee from off the land, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

22 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with a conſumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the ſword, and with blaſting, and with mildew: and they ſhall purſue thee until thou periſh.

23 And thy heaven that is over thy head ſhall be braſs, and the earth that is under thee ſhall be iron.

24 The LORD ſhall make the rain of thy land powder and duſt: from heaven ſhall it come down upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed.

Before Christ 1451.

25 The LORD ſhall cauſe thee to be ſmitten before thine enemies: thou ſhalt go out one way againſt them, and flee ſeven ways before them; and ſhalt be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

26 And thy carcaſe ſhall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beaſts of the earth, and no man ſhall fray them away.

27 The LORD will ſmite thee with the botch of Egypt, and with the emerods, and with the ſcab, and with the itch, whereof thou canſt not be healed.

28 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with madneſs, and blindneſs, and aſtoniſhment of heart.

29 And thou ſhalt grope at noon-days, as the blind gropeth in darkneſs, and thou ſhalt not proſper in thy ways: and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed, and ſpoiled evermore, and no man ſhall ſave thee.

30 Thou

Ver. 21. The Lord ſhall make the peſtilence cleave unto thee.] Will ſcourge thee with peſtilence, with fevers, and a thouſand other diſtempers, that will cut off the people in great numbers.

Ver. 22. With an extreme burning, and with the ſword.] Both theſe words ſeem to relate to the bad diſpoſition of the air, by extreme heat and drought; for what we render ſword, may, with equal propriety, be tranſlated dryneſs.

Ver. 23. Thy heaven—braſs, and the earth—iron.] Thy heaven ſhall be ſhut up without diſtilling any refreſhing ſhowers; and thy earth, by that means, become hard as iron. OURANON POLUCHALCON is a ſimilar expreſſion frequent in Homer, though their difference muſt be allowed; that whereas the heathens entertained a notion of the ſolidity of the heavens, Moſes only ſpeaks figuratively, ſee Lev. xxvi. 19.

Ver. 24. The Lord ſhall make the rain of thy land powder and duſt.] By reaſon of the long drought, duſt blown up into the air by the wind, ſhall fall down in ſhowers inſtead of rain. Theſe dry ſhowers, ſays the author of a voyage to the Eaſt-Indies, moſt grievouſly annoy all thoſe among whom they fall, enough to ſmite them with preſent blindneſs, filling their eyes, ears, noſtrils, &c.

Ver. 25. The Lord ſhall cauſe thee to be ſmitten.] If theſe judgments prove ineffectual to reclaim you, God will deliver you over to ſlavery and captivity under foreign powers.

Shalt be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.] Which has been fully verified ſince their diſperſion by the Romans. But what renders the completion of this prophecy moſt amazingly remarkable is, that the Jews are the only people that ever ſubſiſted in ſuch a wandering ſtate, after the diſſolution of their laws and government.

Ver. 26. Thy carcaſe ſhall be meat unto all fowls of the air.] Nothing was accounted a greater calamity among the ancients, than to have their bodies lie expoſed to be devoured by birds and beaſts. This is what Jeremiah calls being buried with the burial of an aſs, xxii. 19. And the Pſalmiſt bewails it as one of the soreſt judgments that had befallen his nation, Pſal. lxxix. 2, 3. How far this terrible threatning was fulfilled in the Babyloniſh captivity, will appear by conſulting thoſe pathetic deſcriptions of that calamity in the book of Lamentations, where it is often declared, that thoſe judgments inflicted upon them, was a conſequence of the breach of God's covenant.

No man ſhall fray them away.] That is, no man ſhall take ſo much compaſſion on them, as to chace away the birds and beaſts of prey from them; and to inter the remains of their carcaſſes, which thoſe devourers had not conſumed.

Ver. 27. The botch of Egypt.] The leproſy, a diſeaſe common in Egypt; or, as others think, the boil breaking out in blains, Exod. ix. 10.

The emerods.] Thoſe painful tumours in the fundament, which often degenerate into ulcers, viz. the piles.

Before Chriſt 1451.

30 Thou ſhalt betroth a wife, and another man ſhall lie with her: thou ſhalt build an houſe, and thou ſhalt not dwell therein: thou ſhalt plant a vineyard, and ſhalt not gather the grapes thereof.

31 Thine ox ſhall be ſlain before thine eyes, and thou ſhalt not eat thereof: thine aſs ſhall be violently taken away from before thy face, and ſhall not be reſtored to thee: thy ſheep ſhall be given unto thine enemies, and thou ſhalt have none to reſcue them.

32 Thy ſons and thy daughters ſhall be given unto another people, and thine eyes ſhall look, and fail with longing for them all the day long; and there ſhall be no might in thine hand.

33 The fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, ſhall a nation which thou knoweſt not eat up; and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed and cruſhed alway:

34 So that thou ſhalt be mad, for the ſight of thine eyes which thou ſhalt ſee.

35 The Lord ſhall ſmite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a ſore botch that cannot be healed, from the ſole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The Lord ſhall bring thee, and thy king which thou ſhalt ſet over thee, unto a nation which neither thou, nor thy fathers have known; and there ſhalt thou ſerve other gods, wood and ſtone.

37 And thou ſhalt become an aſtoniſhment, a proverb, and a by-word, among all nations whither the Lord ſhall lead thee.

38 Thou ſhalt carry much ſeed out into the field, and ſhalt gather but little in: for the locuſt ſhall conſume it.

39 Thou ſhalt plant vineyards and dreſs them, but ſhalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes: for the worms ſhall eat them.

40 Thou ſhalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coaſts, but thou ſhalt not anoint thyſelf with the oil: for thine olive ſhall caſt his fruit.

41 Thou ſhalt beget ſons and daughters, but thou ſhalt not enjoy them: for they ſhall go into captivity.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land ſhall the locuſt conſume.

43 The ſtranger that is within thee ſhall get up above thee very high; and thou ſhalt come down very low.

44 He ſhall lend to thee, and thou ſhalt not lend to him: he ſhall be the head, and thou ſhalt be the tail.

45 Moreover, all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and ſhall purſue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be deſtroyed: becauſe thou hearkenedſt not unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which he commanded thee.

46 And they ſhall be upon thee for a ſign and for a wonder, and upon thy ſeed for ever.

47 Becauſe

Ver. 35. The Lord ſhall ſmite thee in the knees, and in the legs, &c.] A terrible breaking-out, which ſpread from the ſole of the foot to the crown of the head.

36 The Lord ſhall bring thee, and thy king, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known.] This was fully accompliſhed in the laſt diſperſion of the Jews by the Romans, a people which neither they nor their fathers knew.

37 Thou ſhalt become an aſtoniſhment, and a proverb.] Your miſery ſhall excite the wonder and ſcorn of other nations, and your very name ſhall become a proverb of reproach.

45 All theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee until thou be deſtroyed.] Meaning, that theſe puniſhments ſhould not ceaſe, but follow one upon the other till they had brought them to utter ruin. And this has been evidently fulfilled; for there are a great many of them remaining in ſeveral parts of the world, yet have they never been ſuffered to increaſe into a nation, but in that ſenſe are, as Moſes here propheſies, utterly deſtroyed.

46 They ſhall be upon thee for a ſign, and for a wonder.] The curſes before mentioned ſhall remain fixed, and continue unremoved from age to age, that all may take notice of them. Indeed there is no part of the known world where they are not found; and as they bear witneſs to all of the utter deſolation of the jewiſh nation; ſo are they living memorials and tokens of God's high diſpleaſure, and warnings to all nations to avoid the guilt of infidelity and diſobedience.

47 Becauſe thou ſerveſt not the Lord thy God with joyfulneſs, and with gladneſs of heart, for the abundance of all things:

48 Therefore ſhalt thou ſerve thine enemies which the Lord ſhall ſend againſt thee, in hunger, and in thirſt, and in nakedneſs, and in want of all things: and he ſhall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have deſtroyed thee.

49 The Lord ſhall bring a nation againſt thee from far, from the end of the earth, as ſwift as the eagle flieth, a nation whoſe tongue thou ſhalt not underſtand:

50 A nation of fierce countenance, which ſhall not regard the perſon of the old, nor ſhew favour to the young.

51 And he ſhall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be deſtroyed: which alſo ſhall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increaſe of thy kine, or flocks of thy ſheep, until he have deſtroyed thee.

Before Chriſt 1451.

53 And thou ſhalt eat the fruit of thine own body, the fleſh of thy ſons and of thy daughters (which the Lord thy God hath given thee) in the ſiege and in the ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee:

Ver. 48 A yoke of iron.] Cruel maſters ſhall rule over you. It is but juſt, that they who refuſe the reaſonable ſervice of God ſhould groan under the yoke of tyranny and oppreſſion.

Ver. 49 The Lord ſhall bring a nation againſt thee from far, &c.] When you ſhall have filled up the meaſure of your iniquity by crucifying your Great Meſſiah, God will bring upon you the arms of a ſtill more warlike and invincible people, namely, the Romans.

From the end of the earth.] Hence it is plain he ſpeaks of the Romans rather than of the Chaldeans, who did not come from far, much leſs from the ends of the earth; but out of the North Country, which is not very far diſtant from Judea; whereas the Romans came literally from far, and from the end of the earth. Julius Severus was called by the Emperor Adrian to their deſtruction out of this iſle of Britain.

As ſwift as the eagle flieth.] This metaphor is frequently uſed in ſcripture, but here with remarkable propriety, as it alludes to the Roman eagles, or enſigns.

A nation whoſe tongue thou ſhalt not underſtand.] The Jews were abſolute ſtrangers to the variety of dialects ſpoken by the many nations of which the Roman army was compoſed.

Ver. 50 Shall not regard the perſon of the old, nor ſhew favour to the young.] The Romans in their wars with the Jews ſpared no body, their rage and fury extinguiſhing all reverence to grey hairs, and all tenderneſs to innocent babes.

Ver. 52 Until thy high and fenced walls come down.] This was literally fulfilled by the army of Titus, when all the fenced cities of Judah were taken and deſtroyed, and the very walls of Jeruſalem, together with the temple, razed to the ground.

Ver. 53. Thou ſhalt eat the fruit of thine own body.] This dreadful prediction was fulfilled, when Samaria was beſieged by Benhadad king of Syria; and more fully when the Romans reduced Jeruſalem. For Veſpaſian, and his ſon Titus, having vanquiſhed them in the field, they ſo cloſely beſieged Jeruſalem, that they could not ſtir out, and rather than ſurrender, choſe to periſh by famine. Vaſt multitudes of people were ſhut up in the city, who had repaired thither from all parts for ſafety; theſe brought the famine ſooner upon them, and increaſed it when it came. We are farther informed, that this calamity was furthered by a fire, which the ſeditious people kindled; by which means, fourteen hundred magazines were conſumed, ſtored with proviſions, to ſerve two hundred thouſand people for twenty years.

Ver. 55. So that he will not give to any, &c.] A deſcription of the ſad effects of the ſore famine, which conſtrained them, after they had eaten up their horſes, dogs, cats, and ſuch like creatures, together with their very belts and ſhoes, to eat even their own children, which Moſes here prophecies they would eat up by themſelves privately, and ſuffer none to ſhare with them.

Before Christ 1451.

with thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee in all thy gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to ſet the ſole of her foot upon the ground for delicateneſs and tenderneſs, her eye ſhall be evil towards the huſband of her boſom, and towards her ſon, and towards her daughter,

57 And towards her young one that cometh out from between her feet, and towards her children which ſhe ſhall bear: for ſhe ſhall eat them for want of all things ſecretly in the ſiege and ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemy ſhall diſtreſs thee in thy gates.

58 If thou wilt not obſerve to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayeſt fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD;

59 Then the LORD will make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy ſeed, even great plagues and of long continuance, and ſore ſickneſſes, and of long continuance.

Before Christ 1451.

60 Moreover, he will bring upon thee all the diſeaſes of Egypt, which thou waſt afraid of; and they ſhall cleave unto thee.

61 Alſo every ſickneſs, and every plague which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD bring upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed.

62 And ye ſhall be left few in number, whereas ye were as the ſtars of heaven for multitude: becauſe thou wouldeſt not obey the voice of the LORD thy God.

63 And it ſhall come to paſs, that as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you: ſo the LORD will rejoice over you to deſtroy you, and to bring you to nought; and ye ſhall be plucked from off the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

---

Ver. 56. The tender and delicate woman that would not adventure to ſet the ſole of her foot upon the ground.] A deſcription of the greateſt ſoftneſs and delicacy: it ſerves as a fine contraſt, to ſet the miſery to which they were reduced in the ſtrongeſt light.

Ver. 57. And towards her young one that cometh out from between her feet.] This paſſage has puzzled all the commentators, Her eye ſhall be evil, i. e. ſhe ſhall grudge every morſel eaten by her huſband, her ſon, her daughter; and her after-birth, or ſecundine, as the word (if there be ſuch a word) is allowed to ſignify—than which nothing can be more abſurd—the laſt article, her children, which had been more particularly ſpecified in her ſon and daughter, ſeems to be totally redundant. A learned critic, by correcting two corrupted words makes it ſenſe, and very happily his conjecture is confirmed by the teſtimony of the oldeſt MS. in the Bodleian library; and this is the tranſlation of the 57th verſe, according to his correction. 56—towards her ſon, and towards her daughter. 57 And ſhe ſhall boil that which cometh out from between her feet, even her children which ſhe ſhall bear; for ſhe ſhall eat them, &c. This prophecy was literally fulfilled, 2 Kings vi. 29.

For ſhe ſhall eat them.] Moſes here prophecies, that even parental love and tenderneſs ſhould be extinguiſhed by hunger. This was literally fulfilled (as we have juſt obſerved) in the ſiege of Samaria, wherein a woman boiled her ſon, 2 Kings vi. 28, 29. as a man did in the firſt ſiege of Jeruſalem by the Babylonians, Baruch ii. 3. Sam. ii. 20, and iv. 10. but never ſo exactly as in the laſt ſiege by the Romans, when a noble woman (which fully anſwers this prophecy, ſuch perſons being very delicate) did the ſame, as Joſephus the Jewiſh hiſtorian relates; who obſerves, that it was a moſt unnatural fact, which was never committed either by Greek or barbarian.

Ver. 62. Ye ſhall be left few in number.] Joſephus ſays, that in the ſiege of Jeruſalem, there were deſtroyed by peſtilence, famine, and other ways, 1,100,000, beſides above 90,000 carried into captivity; and afterwards, in the reign of Adrian, who ſucceeded the emperor Trajan, there were ſlain in battles and ſkirmiſhes 580,000, beſides a vaſt number conſumed by famine, ſickneſſes, and fire, during the time of this lingering war; ſo that they were left few in number, and Judea in a manner laid waſte, and left as a deſert.

Ver. 63. Ye ſhall be plucked off from the land.] Adrian publiſhed a decree, that they ſhould not come within view of their own country; and though he did this out of a political reſpect, leſt the ſight of their native ſoil ſhould inſpire them with new reſolution, and they ſhould again rebel; yet he was therein an inſtrument of providence, for the accompliſhment of this prophecy.

Ver. 64. From the one end of the earth even unto the other.] One of the Jewiſh writers informs us, that in the Roman captivity, the Jews were diſperſed and diſſipated through all the regions of the eaſt, and of the weſt; for every nation of which the Roman army conſiſted, when they returned to their own countries, carried ſome of them along with them into Greece, Germany, Italy, Spain, France, and all other countries, which either Chriſtians or Mahometans now poſſeſs.

Before Christ 1451. ſhalt ſerve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and ſtone.

65 And among theſe nations ſhalt thou find no eaſe, neither ſhall the ſole of thy foot have reſt: but the LORD ſhall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and ſorrow of mind.

66 And thy life ſhall hang in doubt before thee, and thou ſhalt fear day and night, and ſhalt have none aſſurance of thy life.

67 In the morning thou ſhalt ſay, Would God it were even: and at even thou ſhalt ſay, Would God it were morning, for the fear of thine heart, wherewith thou ſhalt fear, and for the ſight of thine eyes which thou ſhalt ſee.

68 And the LORD ſhall bring thee into Egypt again with ſhips, by the way whereof I ſpake unto thee, Thou ſhalt ſee it no more again: and there ye ſhall be ſold unto your enemies for bond-men and bond-women, and no man ſhall buy you.

Ver. 68. Ye ſhall be ſold and no man ſhall buy you.] This prophecy, dreadful as it is, was literally fulfilled; when after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem by Titus, ſome Jews were as ſlaves ſent into Egypt, and multitudes were reſerved for the ſword and wild beaſts, in the public theatres. Some interpreters ſay, this ſhould be rendered, ye ſhall offer yourſelves to ſale, becauſe the words ſeem to imply a contradiction; but others underſtand it, that tho' ſome were ſold at a very vile rate, next to nothing, yet others hung on the ſeller's hands; the markets being either ſo over-ſtocked with their numbers, that none would cheapen the greateſt part of them; or they were ſo contemptible, that no one would give what was aſked for ſuch uſeleſs ſlaves.

Ver. 12. A root that beareth gall and wormwood.] The Hebrew ſignifies a poiſonous herb: i. e. a wicked perſon, who might diffuſe his fatal practices, like the venom of an infectious plant.

Ver. 15 But with him that ſtandeth, &c.] Inſtead of but it might be better tranſlated as with him that ſtandeth here with us this day before the Lord our God, ſo alſo with him that is not here with us this day.

Ver. 19. To add drunkenneſs to thirſt.] A metaphorical expreſſion, to denote a preſumptuous continuance in ſin: an habitual courſe of wickedneſs does but beget a greater inclination to do wickedly ſtill; as drunkenneſs does not ſlake but increaſe the thirſt.

Ver. 23. Brimſtone and Salt.] When your land is quite deſolated, alluding to the deſtruction of Sodom by fire and brimſtone: and ſalt, i. e. parched and dried up. them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

26 For they went and ſerved other gods, and wroſhipped them, gods whom they knew not, and whom he had not given unto them.

27 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt this land, to bring upon it all the curſes that are written in this book.

28 And the LORD rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and caſt them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The ſecret things belong unto the LORD our God: but thoſe things which are revealed belong unto us, and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Great mercies promiſed unto the penitent.
15 Death and life are ſet before them.

AND it ſhall come to paſs when all theſe things are come upon thee, the bleſſing and the curſe which I have ſet before thee, and thou ſhalt call them to mind among all the nations whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee,

2 And ſhalt return unto the LORD thy God, and ſhalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul:

3 That then the LORD thy God will turn thy captivity, and have compaſſion upon thee, and will return and gather thee from all the nations whither the LORD thy God hath ſcattered thee.

4 If any of thine be driven out unto the outmoſt parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee.

5 And the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers poſſeſſed, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs it: and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And the LORD thy God will circumciſe thine heart, and the heart of thy ſeed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, that thou mayeſt live.

Ver. 29. Secret things belong unto the Lord.] Man ſhould not ſearch into thoſe myſteries which God has, in his great wiſdom, thought proper to conceal from the ſons of men. But it is tranſlated in another way, viz. the ſecrets of the Lord our God are revealed to us and our children. This ſenſe has been maintained and adopted by the moſt eminent and learned men, and it agrees with thoſe words of the Pſalmiſt, he hath not dealt ſo with any nation, &c. It was the peculiar privilege of the Jews, that now God manifeſted to them what before he had kept ſecret; but this at the ſame time rendered their puniſhment the more grievous, if they did not obſerve his will, which he had ſo plainly diſcovered to them.

NOTES on Chap. XXX.

Ver. 1. And it ſhall come to paſs, &c.] Moſes, as he approached the period of his diſſolution, encreaſed in his zeal; his laſt moments were employed in teaching thoughtleſs mortals how they might gain the favour of the Almighty, and live ſecure under the ſhadow of his wings; even by true repentance, and a ſincere reformation of life.

Ver. 4. From thence will the Lord thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee.] To this promiſe Nehemiah alludes, in his prayer to God, to proſper his endeavours for the reſtoration of Jeruſalem, Nehemiah i. 8, 9. Ezra tells us, that Cyrus made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom, (which was very large) that all the Jews were permitted to return into their own country: yet the Jews apply this paſſage (and have long done ſo) to their preſent condition; being of opinion, that God hath appointed a prefixed time for their deliverance, though he hath not declared it: yea, and let the houſe of Iſrael aſſuredly know, that did they now conſider the cauſe of their captivity, and lay to heart their ſin in crucifying the Lord Chirſt; though their preſent diſperſion is far greater, and into more diſtant regions, than in the Babyloniſh captivity, yet he would have compaſſion on them; and if they did repent, he would ſhorten the days of their baniſhment, and bring them into their own land.

Ver. 6. The Lord will circumciſe thine heart.] The Greek tranſlate it, will purge and cleanſe thine heart. The Jews reſted too much on the externals of their religion, and particularly the circumciſion of the fleſh; but the circumciſion, which, upon their reſtoration, will take place, and be required of them, is the circumciſion of the heart, i. e. the Chriſtian circumciſion; and the covenant that will then be eſtabliſhed with them ſhall be the Chriſtian covenant.

Before Chriſt 1451.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all theſe curſes upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which perſecuted thee.

8 And thou ſhalt return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments, which I command thee this day.

9 And the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers:

10 If thou ſhalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart and with all thy ſoul.

11 ¶ For this commandment which I command thee this day, it is not hidden from thee, neither is it far off.

12 It is not in the heaven, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go up for us to heaven, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

13 Neither is it beyond the ſea, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go over the ſea for us, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart that thou mayeſt do it.

15 ¶ See I have ſet before thee this day life and good, and death and evil:

Before Chriſt 1451.

16 In that I command thee this day to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes and his judgments, that thou mayeſt live and multiply: and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in the land whither thou goeſt to poſeſs it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, ſo that thou wilt not hear, but ſhalt be drawn away, and worſhip other gods, and ſerve them:

18 I denounce unto you this day, that ye ſhall ſurely periſh, and that ye ſhall not prolong your days upon the land, whither thou paſſeſt over Jordan to go to poſſeſs it.

19 I call heaven and earth to record this day againſt you, that I have ſet before you life and death, bleſſing and curſing: therefore chooſe life, that both thou and thy ſeed may live:

20 That thou mayeſt love the LORD thy God, and that thou mayeſt obey his voice, and that thou mayeſt cleave unto him (for he is thy life, and the length of thy days) that thou mayeſt dwell in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Moſes encourageth the people: 7 He encourageth Joſhua: 14 God giveth a charge to Joſhua.

AND Moſes went and ſpake theſe words unto all Iſrael.

2 And

Ver. 13. Who ſhall go over the ſea for us?] The Iſraelites needed not to undertake long and tedious voyages, or laborious and weariſome travels, to fetch their inſtructions from foreign countries; ſuch as the Greek philoſophers took, who travelled into Egypt and the eaſt, to learn wiſdom, which God now taught this people in the wilderneſs, without any pains to attain it.

Ver. 15. See, I have ſet before thee this day life and good, and death and evil.] Thus Moſes concludes his exhortation; I have now explained to thee the duties required of thee by thy God, have fully informed thee of the many bleſſings that will reſult from thy obedience, and the dreadful judgments with which God will viſit thee, ſhouldeſt thou neglect to hearken unto his voice.

NOTES on Chap. XXIX.

Ver. 1. And Moſes went and ſpake theſe words unto all Iſrael. As ſoon as Moſes had concluded the foregoing diſcourſes,

Before Chriſt 1451.

2 And he ſaid unto them, I am an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: alſo the Lord hath ſaid unto me, Thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The Lord thy God, he will go over before thee, and he will deſtroy theſe nations from before thee, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs them: and Joſhua, he ſhall go over before thee, as the Lord hath ſaid.

4 And the Lord ſhall do unto them, as he did to Sihon, and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them, whom he deſtroyed.

5 And the Lord ſhall give them up before your face, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

6 Be ſtrong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee, he will not fail thee nor forſake thee.

7 ¶ And Moſes called unto Joſhua, and ſaid unto him in the ſight of all Iſrael, Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou muſt go with this people unto the land which the Lord hath ſworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou ſhalt cauſe them to inherit it.

Before Chriſt 1451.

8 And the Lord, he it is that doth go before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee neither forſake thee: fear not, neither be diſmayed.

9 ¶ And Moſes wrote this law, and delivered it unto the prieſts the ſons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and unto all the elders of Iſrael.

10 And Moſes commanded them, ſaying, At the end of every ſeven years, in the ſolemnity of the year of releaſe, in the feaſt of tabernacles, 11 When all Iſrael is come to appear before the Lord thy God, in the place which he ſhall chooſe: thou ſhalt read this law before all Iſrael in their hearing.

12 Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy ſtranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the Lord your God, and obſerve to do all the words of this law:

courſes, he ſent a new ſummons to the Iſraelites, to acquaint them that the time, both of his government and his life, was very ſoon to expire; and though, by the particular favour of God, his ſtrength and faculties were not decayed, even at the great age of an hundred and twenty years, yet it was the decree of heaven, as he had before intimated to them, that he was not the perſon deſtined to lead them into the land of Canaan: that he was now to commit them to the conduct of Joſhua, a faithful and valiant general; to whom, therefore, he exhorted them to pay all due reſpect, and follow him with an undaunted heart, and firm reliance upon the divine power and goodneſs, which would not fail to give them the ſame ſucceſs againſt the Canaanites, as they had already experienced in their wars with other nations, and to ſecure them a ſettlement in that country.

Ver. 2. Alſo the Lord hath ſaid unto me, &c.] This paſſage would have been more properly rendered, for the Lord hath ſaid unto me, and then the ſenſe is obvious, aſſigning the reaſon why he could no longer take the charge of them, namely, becauſe the Almighty had thought proper to order it otherwiſe.

Ver. 3. The Lord thy God, he will go over before thee, &c.] That is, the ark of the Lord thy God, the ſymbol of his preſence, will go over before thee.

Ver. 7. And Moſes called unto Joſhua, &c.] Moſes hereupon ſent for Joſhua, and having placed him at the head of the aſſembly, gave him his commiſſion, earneſtly exhorting him to ſignalize himſelf as an example of courage and conſtancy; aſſuring him, at the ſame time, that God would render his enterpriſes ſucceſsful.

Ver. 8. Neither be diſmayed.] The word, in the original Hebrew, implies ſuch a degree of terror, as diſables a man from doing his duty.

Ver. 9. And Moſes wrote this law, &c.] By the law we ſhould, in this place, underſtand the whole pentateuch.

Ver. 10, 11. In the feaſt of tabernacles, &c.] This was of all ſeaſons, the beſt adapted to that purpoſe, ſince they, at that time, had gathered in the fruits of the earth, and conſequently had ſufficient leiſure to attend to the reading of the law.

Before Christ 1451. to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it.

14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thy days approach that thou muſt die: call Joſhua, and preſent yourſelves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge. And Moſes and Joſhua went, and preſented themſelves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

15 And the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud; and the pillar of the cloud ſtood over the door of the tabernacle.

16 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thou ſhalt ſleep with thy fathers, and this people will riſe up, and go a whoring after the gods of the ſtrangers of the land whither they go to be amongſt them, and will forſake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

17 Then my anger ſhall be kindled againſt them that day, and I will forſake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they ſhall be devoured, and many evils and troubles ſhall befal them, ſo that they will ſay in that day, Are not theſe evils come upon us, becauſe our God is not amongſt us?

18 And I will ſurely hide my face in that day, for all the evils which they ſhall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

19 Now therefore write ye this ſong for you, and teach it the children of Iſrael: put it in their mouths, that this ſong may be a witneſs for me againſt the children of Iſrael. Before Christ 1451.

20 For when I ſhall have brought them into the land which I ſware unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and hony; and they ſhall have eaten and filled themſelves, and waxen fat; then will they turn unto other gods, and ſerve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

21 And it ſhall come to paſs when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this ſong ſhall teſtify againſt them as a witneſs: for it ſhall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their ſeed: for I know their imagination which they go about, even now before I have brought them into the land which I ſware.

22 ¶ Moſes therefore wrote this ſong the ſame day, and taught it the children of Iſrael.

23 And he gave Joſhua the ſon of Nun a charge, and ſaid, Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou ſhalt bring the children of Iſrael into the land which I ſware unto them: and I will be with thee.

24 ¶ And it came to paſs when Moſes had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finiſhed;

25 That Moſes commanded the Levites which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ſaying,

26 Take this book of the law, and put it in the ſide of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witneſs againſt thee.

Ver. 15. And the Lord appeared, &c.] That is, the Shekinah, or ſymbol of the divine preſence appeared unto them, and unto the people.

Ver. 16. Thou ſhalt ſleep with thy fathers, &c.] This metaphorical expreſſion is frequent in ſcripture, and ſleep is, with particular propriety, uſed to ſignify death, as it is not to have everlaſting dominion over men, but ſhall be followed by the reſurrection, as ſleep is diſpelled by the return of morning. The ſimilitude between death and ſleep, has indeed been taken notice of by many profane authors, thus Virgil, ſummus mortus imago. Æneid 6th.

Before Chriſt 1451.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy ſtiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious againſt the Lord; and how much more after my death?

28 ¶ Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may ſpeak theſe words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record againſt them.

29 For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourſelves, and turn aſide from the way which I have commanded you: and evil will befal you in the latter days, becauſe ye will do evil in the ſight of the Lord, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moſes ſpake in the ears of all the congregation of Iſrael the words of this ſong, until they were ended.

Ver. 2. My doctrine ſhall drop, &c.] Let my doctrine drop, &c. He prays that his words might have ſuch effect, as to ſoften their hearts, as the drops of rain and dew do the earth, and cauſe them to produce the fruits of obedience.

Ver. 5. Their ſpot is not the ſpot of his children.] Or, the ſons of pollution are not his. For the characteriſtic of the ſons of God, is to imitate and reſemble God himſelf, 1 John iii. 10. It is true, they have their ſpots through infirmity to which all are ſubject; but the crimes of the Iſraelites were ſuch, as ſpoke them degenerate from their profeſſion of God's peculiar people; they were the ſpots of a crooked and perverſe generation, that refuſed to be reformed.

Ver. 8. When the moſt high divided to the nations their inheritance—he ſet the bounds of the people, according to the number of Iſrael.] Bochart gives the words this plain and ſimple meaning, "God ſo diſtributed the bounds and "ſettlements of the ſeveral people and nations, as to "reſerve in his counſel, ſuch a part of the earth for the "Iſraelites, as he knew would be a commodious habitation for ſo numerous a race." So, St. Paul ſays, that God hath made of one blood all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitations, Acts xvii. 26.

Ver. 9. Jacob is the lot of his inheritance.] Or, the cord of his inheritance that is to ſay, his inheritance by a line or meaſure alloted him.

Ver. 10. He found him in a deſert land.] The word rendered found, ſignifies likewiſe to ſuffice, or provide for; therefore the meaning is, he ſuſtained and provided for them in the wilderneſs. The Iſraelites were in the wilderneſs of Arabia, when they firſt made a covenant with God.

Howling wilderneſs.] Where nothing was heard but the yellings and howlings of wild beaſts.

He led him about.] Or, as in the margin, he compaſſed him about, i. e. with his divine protection.

Ver. 11. As the eagle ſtirreth up her neſt.] This expreſſes the care of providence over the Iſraelites, which could not be done more emphatically; the eagle being a bird remarkably careful of her young, which ſhe ſtirs up, and provokes to fly, by fluttering over them with her wings ſtretched out. See note on Exod. xix. 4.

Ver. 13. He made him ride on the high places of the earth.] It is moſt probable, that by the word ride, is meant fareing ſumptuouſly, and living deliciouſly: Thus, in Hoſea, I will make Ephraim to ride, Judah ſhall plow, and Jacob ſhall break his clods, that is, the people of Iſrael ſhall live in pleaſure, while Judah ſhall live laboriouſly. Some indeed interpret this paſſage of ſubduing and conquering; but the former ſenſe is preferable, as it agrees with the remainder of this and the next verſe, which ſeems to be only an explanation, and is the beſt comment on this expreſſion.

Suck honey out of the rock.] He brought them to a country where honey and oil flowed from the rocks. This is a proverbial expreſſion, and denotes great fertility.

Ver. 14. Rams of the breed of Baſhan.] Of the faireſt and beſt kind; Baſhan being famous for excellent paſturage.

With the fat of kidneys of wheat.] This expreſſion may ſound ſomewhat oddly in our language; but it is to be remembered, that the Hebrews called the beſt of every thing by the name of fat: by the kidneys of wheat, is meant large and plump corn, and ſuch as yielded plenty of flour—It would be better rendered the fineſt and plumpeſt of wheat.

Ver. 15. Jeſhurun waxed fat and kicked.] The word Jeſhurun, by which the Iſraelites are often meant in ſcripture, may be derived from Jaſher, righteouſneſs; they being a people who profeſſed righteouſneſs, and who were governed by righteous laws. Moſes here ſpeaks in the prophetic ſtile, which often repreſents things to come, as already paſt, to denote the certainty of what is foretold. He means that Iſrael, in the days of their proſperity, would make a very bad uſe of the bleſſings of providence; that they would ſpurn at God's laws, and become wanton and inſolent, like a pampered horſe.

Ver. 19. The provoking of his ſons and of his daughters.] The women were notoriouſly guilty of provoking God by their idolatry. The women ſat weeping for Tammuz. Ezek. viii. 14.

With thoſe which are not a people.] They are called not a people, either becauſe, that as yet they had not a being; or elſe that they were ſo ignoble, as not to be worthy the name of a nation.

Ver. 22. A fire is kindled in mine anger.] This verſe emphatically paints the waſting calamities, which providence would bring upon the Jews. Some think, this is no obſcure intimation of the diſſolution of the world by fire.

Ver. 23. I will ſpend mine arrows upon them.] I will ſend all my judgments and plagues among them.

Ver. 26, 27. I would make the remembrance of them to ceaſe,—were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy.] This is ſpoken in the language of men, for God fears no man; it means, that he would totally extirpate them, but that ſuch deſtruction of his choſen people, would occaſion the heathen to inſult God himſelf; aſcribing the ruin of the Iſraelites to their own valour, or the power of their idols, rather than his righteous judgments.

42 I will make mine arrows drunk with blood (and my ſword ſhall devour fleſh) and that with the blood of the ſlain, and of the captives, from the beginning of revenges upon the enemy.

43 Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will avenge the blood of his ſervants, and will render vengeance to his adverſaries, and will be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

44 ¶ And Moſes came and ſpake all the words of this ſong in the ears of the people, he, and Hoſhea the ſon of Nun.

45 And Moſes made an end of ſpeaking all theſe words to all Iſrael.

46 And he ſaid unto them, Set your hearts unto all the words which I teſtify among you this day; which ye ſhall command your children to obſerve to do, all the words of this law.

47 For it is not a vain thing for you: becauſe it is your life; and through this thing ye ſhall prolong your days in the land whither ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it.

Before Chriſt 1451.

48 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes that ſelf-ſame day, ſaying,

49 Get thee up into this mountain Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over againſt Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan which I give unto the children of Iſrael for a poſſeſſion.

50 And die in the mount whither thou goeſt up, and be gathered unto thy people; as Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people:

51 Becauſe ye treſpaſſed againſt me among the children of Iſrael, at the waters of Meribah-kadeſh, in the wilderneſs of Zin; becauſe ye ſanctified me not in the midſt of the children of Iſrael.

52 Yet thou ſhalt ſee the land before thee, but thou ſhalt not go thither unto the land which I give the children of Iſrael.

AND this is the bleſſing wherewith Moſes the man of God bleſſed the children of Iſrael before his death.

Ver. 40. I lift up my hand to heaven.] I ſwear ſolemnly. It was uſual to ſtretch out the hand in ſwearing; a cuſtom not peculiar to the Jews alone, but uſed among other people. Thus we read in Virgil Suſpiciens cœlum, tenditque ad ſidera dextram.

Ver. 43. Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people.] This is a prediction of the bringing in of the Gentiles to ſhare with the Jews in the privileges of the goſpel, and their becoming one church and people of God.

Notes on Chap. XXXIII.

Ver. 1. And this is the bleſſing, &c.] As Jacob bleſſed his children, a little before his deceaſe, when the promiſe made to Abraham of a numerous offſpring began to be fulfilled; ſo Moſes takes his farewel of the Iſraelites with a bleſſing pronounced upon the people in general, and each tribe in particular, having ſeen them vaſtly increaſed, and ready to enter upon the promiſed land. It is in part prophetic, as the bleſſing of Jacob was, and delivered in the prophetic ſtile.

Ver. 2. Roſe up from Seir unto them; he ſhined, &c.] The ſame divine preſence, which appeared to them on mount Sinai, accompanied them through all their journies; he roſe upon them as the ſun from Seir, and ſpread abroad his beams upon them from mount Paran.

With ten thouſand of ſaints.] This is a circumſtance no where mentioned in ſcripture. Mr. Kennicot has beautifully illuſtrated this paſſage, by proving that it ſhould be tranſlated, he came from Meribah-Kadeſh; as Moſes is referring the Iſraelites back to the remarkable event recorded, Exod. xvii. 7.

Before Chriſt 1451.

from his right hand went a fiery law for them.

3 Yea, he loved the people; all his ſaints are in thy hand: and they ſat down at thy feet; every one ſhall receive of thy words.

4 Moſes commanded us a law: even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.

5 And he was king in Jeſhurun, when the heads of the people and the tribes of Iſrael were gathered together.

6 ¶ Let Reuben live, and not die; and let not his men be few.

7 ¶ And this is the bleſſing of Judah: and he ſaid, Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people: let his hands be ſufficient for him, and be thou an help to him from his enemies.

---

Ver. 3. All his ſaints are in thy hand.] Kennicot renders it, he bleſſed all his ſaints.

They ſat down at thy feet, &c.] They fell down at his feet, and they received of his words.

Moſes commanded.] He commanded &c. that is, Jehovah.

Ver. 6. Let not his men be few.] As the word not is wanting in the Hebrew, the verſe may be tranſlated, let Reuben live and not die, though his men be few; which ſeems to agree better with Jacob's prophecy, that he ſhould not excel. As there is no mention of Simeon, it is generally thought that his tribe is included in the bleſſing of Judah, with whom his poſſeſſions were mixed. What renders this the more probable is, that he was joined with Judah in thoſe wars againſt the Canaanites, in which the divine aid is here implored for Judah.

Ver. 7. Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah, &c.] Dr. Sherlock in his learned diſſertations on the bleſſing of Judah obſerves, that this benediction cannot relate to the time when it was given, but to the return of the Iſraelites from Babylon; when Judah, with Benjamin, the Levites, and the remnant of Iſrael, made only 42, 360. Ezra. ii. 64. Now Moſes by the ſpirit of prophecy, ſeeing the deſolation of all the tribes; thoſe of the kingdom of Iſrael carried away by the Aſſyrians, the people of Judah by the Babylonians; ſeeing that Judah ſhould again return weak, harraſſed, and hardly able to maintain himſelf in his own country, puts up for them this prophetic prayer, Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people; let his hands be ſufficient for him, and be thou an help to him from his enemies.

Ver. 8. Let thy Thummin and thy Urim be with thy holy one.] Let the tribe of Judah perpetually enjoy the prieſthood, and be endued with that uprightneſs in the diſcharge of their duty, and that light and knowledge of divine things, that are ſignified by the Urim and Thummin.

Ver. 9. Who ſaid unto his father, &c.] This reſpects the tribe of Levi, who fired with an holy zeal for God and the public intereſt, put the idolatrous worſhippers of the golden calf to the ſword, without reſpect of perſons, not ſo much as ſparing their neareſt relations.

Ver, 11. Accept the work of his hands.] Namely, the acts of his miniſterial office.

Ver. 12. The beloved of the Lord ſhall dwell in ſafety by him.] Benjamin ſhall be eſtabliſhed about the dwelling of Jehovah; which was accordingly accompliſhed (the temple of Jeruſalem, the place where the divine majeſty eſpecially reſided) being in the tribe of Benjamin.

He ſhall dwell between his ſhoulders.] Rather, as the ſame word is tranſlated, Numb. xxxiv. 11, he ſhall dwell on his ſides borders; for the temple ſtood on the borders of Benjamin.

Ver. 13, 14. For the precious things of heaven.] Moſes in this place foretells, that this tribe ſhould be ſituated in a moſt plentiful country, and enriched by the divine bleſſing, for the precious things of heaven, fruitful ſhowers things of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that coucheth beneath,

14 And for the precious fruits brought forth by the ſun, and for the precious things put forth by the moon,

15 And for the chief things of the ancient mountains, and for the precious things of the laſting hills,

16 And for the precious things of the earth, and fulneſs thereof, and for the good will of him that dwelt in the buſh: let the bleſſing come upon the head of Joſeph, and upon the top of the head of him that was ſeparated from his brethren.

17 His glory is like the firſtling of his bullock, and his horns are like the horns of unicorns: with them he ſhall puſh the people together, to the ends of the earth: and they are the ten thouſands of Ephraim, and they are the thouſands of Manaſſeh.

18 ¶ And of Zebulun he ſaid, Rejoice, Zebulun in thy going out; and Iſſachar in thy tents.

19 They ſhall call the people unto the mountain, there they ſhall offer ſacrifices of righteouſneſs: for they ſhall ſuck of the abundance of the ſeas, and of treaſures hid in the ſand.

20 ¶ And of Gad he ſaid, Bleſſed be he that enlargeth Gad: he dwelleth as a lion, and teareth the arm with the crown of the head.

21 And he provided the firſt part for himſelf, becauſe there, in a portion of the law-giver was he ſeated; and he came with the heads of the people, he executed the juſtice of the LORD, and his judgments with Iſrael.

22 ¶ And of Dan he ſaid, Dan is a lions whelp: he ſhall leap from Baſhan.

23 ¶ And of Naphtali he ſaid, O Naphtali, ſatisfied with favour, and full with the bleſſing of the LORD: poſſeſs thou the weſt and the ſouth.

24 ¶ And of Aſher he ſaid, Let Aſher be bleſſed with children; let him be acceptable to his brethren, and let him dip his foot in oil.

Ver. 16. Of him that dwelt in the buſh.] Viz. of God who was revealed to Moſes in the buſh. Exod. iii. 2.

Ver. 17. Like the horns of unicorns.] It ſhould be rendered, like the horns of the Rhinoceros.

Ver. 18. Of Zebulun he ſaid, rejoice Zebulun, at thy going out.] The chief pleaſure of Zebulun, he pronounces, ſhould lie in merchandize, and going out to traffic with the neighbouring nations, which they exerciſed by their convenient ſituation near the ports of the Mediterranean.

Iſſachar, in thy tents.] The people of Iſſachar are to rejoice in the pleaſures of a country life, in huſbandry, or agriculture. Dr. Shaw obſerves, that their portion was the moſt fertile of all the land of Canaan, ſo that they might well be ſuppoſed to rejoice in their tents.

Ver. 19. They ſhall ſuck of the abundance of the ſeas.] That is, they ſhall import abundance of various commodities.

Ver. 20. And teareth the arm, with the crown of the head.] He ſhall deſtroy the princes with their kings; the arm denoting ſubordinate rulers, and the crown of the head, ſupreme or chief commanders.

Ver. 21. There, in a portion of the lawgiver was he ſeated.] Gad was one of thoſe tribes who had their portion aſſigned by Moſes their law-giver; whereas nine tribes and an half, had theirs given them by Joſhua.

Ver. 22. Dan is a lions whelp.] As a lions whelp. The Chaldaic paraphraſe has it, ſtrong as a lions whelp.

He ſhall leap from Baſhan.] Not that Baſhan did belong to the tribe of Dan, but having likened that tribe to young lions; he riſes ſtill higher in his character of the valour and courage of that people, and likens them to the young lions of Baſhan, a mountain famous for breeding lions, and thoſe very fierce.

Ver. 23. O Naphtali, ſatisfied with favour.] This refers to the country poſſeſſed by this tribe, which was celebrated for its pleaſant and fruitful ſoil.

Notes on Chap. XXXIV.

This chapter (and indeed the preceding one) is generally thought not to have been wrote by Moſes, but by ſome later hand; though there are ſome few interpreters, who think it was penned by Moſes himſelf, in conſequence of the preſcience which God was pleaſed to communicate to him; but the generality are of another opinion, and aſcribe it either to Joſhua, Eleazar, the ſeventy elders, or Samuel, or Ezra, who, after the Babyloniſh captivity, made a reviſal of the ſacred books: and there is an opinion quite conſonant to reaſon, and matter of fact; that this laſt book of Moſes ended with his prophetic bleſſing upon the twelve tribes, Happy art thou, O Iſrael, &c. and that the chapter now before us, was formerly the firſt of Joſhua, but thence removed, and joined to the other by way of ſupplement. And before the invention of ſections, and other diviſions, and when ſometimes ſeveral books were connected together, and followed each other upon the ſame roll (as the ancient method was) it is no difficult matter to conceive, how eaſily the beginning of one book might be transferred to the end of another, and, in proceſs of time, make that be reputed the concluſion of Deuteronomy, which was originally intended for the introduction to the book of Joſhua.

Ver. 1. And Moſes went up, &c.] Moſes having given his prophetic bleſſing to all the tribes, obeyed the commands of his God, whom he had ſo long, and ſo faithfully ſerved: and from the top of Piſgah, God gave him a ſight of the land of Canaan.

Ver. 4. I have cauſed thee to ſee it with thine eyes.] It is an idle notion which the Jews have, that God laid before him a map of the whole country, and ſhewed him therein how every part of it was ſituated, where each valley lay, each mountain ſtood, each river ran, and for what remarkable product each place was famed: but if this had been all, we cannot ſee for what reaſon Moſes was commanded to go upon the higheſt part of the mountain, ſince in the loweſt plains of Moab, he might have given him equally as well, a demonſtration of this kind; and it ſurely could not be for no purpoſe, that the ſacred hiſtorian informs us, that though Moſes was an hundred and twenty years old, yet his eyes were not dim; and it may be ſuppoſed, that upon this occaſion, God ſtrengthened them with a greater vigour than ordinary, to enable him to take a large proſpect; and that, as the extent of the country was above the ſtretch of mere human ſight, God was pleaſed to aſſiſt the viſive faculties, and to give them greater power.

Ver. 5. So Moſes the ſervant of the Lord died.] Moſes was the ſon of Amram and Jochebed, and was born in Egypt, in the year of the world 2433. His father and mother were of the tribe of Levi; he had a brother named Aaron, and died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD.

6 ¶ And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over againſt Beth-peor: but no man knoweth of his ſepulcher unto this day.

7 ¶ And Moſes was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated.

8 ¶ And the children of Iſrael wept for Moſes in the plains of Moab thirty days: ſo the days of weeping and mourning for Moſes were ended.

9 ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun was full of the ſpirit of wiſdom; for Moſes had laid his hands upon him: and the children of Iſrael hearkened unto him, and did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

Before Chriſt 1451.

10 ¶ And there aroſe not a prophet ſince in Iſrael like unto Moſes, whom the LORD knew face to face:

11 In all the ſigns and the wonders which the LORD ſent him to do in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his ſervants, and to all his land,

12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moſes ſhewed in the ſight of all Iſrael.

and a ſiſter named Miriam, who was elder than they both, and who ſtood by, when her brother was diſcovered among the reeds on the banks of the Nile. He was named Moſes by Pharaoh's daughter, who found him, which name, in the Egyptian language, ſignifies one that is drawn out of the water. This illuſtrious prophet, and ſervant of God, died in the year of the world 2553, in the hundred and twentieth year of his age. Nothing can be plainer from the text, than that Moſes died, and was really buried; notwithſtanding ſome of the Jewiſh doctors poſitively affirm he was tranſlated into heaven.

According to the word of the Lord.] According to the ſentence of the Lord, or as he declared he ſhould, intimating, that he died not of any diſeaſe, but merely becauſe God had ſo ordered it. He departed this life in a moſt delectable ſenſe and taſte of the divine love; and as he knew the place and manner of his death, and that it was the will and pleaſure of the Almighty to take his ſoul, he parted with it willingly, and without fear, committing himſelf with a placid mind, and compoſed ſpirit to God, in whoſe embraces (if we may ſo ſpeak) he expired: and this, it is likely, the ancient Jews meant, when they ſaid, his ſoul departed with a kiſs; ALL PI JEHOVAH, literally, upon the mouth of the Lord.

Ver. 6. No man knoweth of his ſepulchre.] The reaſon why this great prophet was ſo ſecretly buried was, to prevent the people from paying any idolatrous worſhip to his remains. No ſpecies of idolatry was more common among the ancients, than that of paying divine honours to their anceſtors; a practice which ſtill prevails among the Chineſe, and is extant in other countries, witneſs the journies of the Mahometans to the tomb of their prophet at Mecca; and the idolatrous worſhip of the Roman Catholics at the tombs of their canonized ſaints.

Ver. 10. There aroſe not a prophet ſince in Iſrael like unto Moſes.] The commendation which the author of Eccleſiaſticus gives Moſes is conceived in theſe words, "Moſes was beloved of God and men, and his memorial is bleſſed. The Lord made him like to the glorious ſaints, and magnified him ſo that his enemies ſtood in fear of him. By his words he cauſed the wonders to ceaſe, and he made him glorious in the ſight of kings, and gave him a commandment for his people, and ſhewed him part of his glory: He ſanctified him in his faithfulneſs and meekneſs, and choſe him out of all men: He made him to hear his voice, and brought him into the dark cloud, and gave him commandments before his face, even the law of life and knowledge, that he might teach Jacob his covenant, and Iſrael his judgments." Eccluſ. lxv. 1. &c. Joſephus gives him a character to this effect, "He was a man of admirable wiſdom, and one that made the beſt uſe of what he underſtood; an excellent ſpeaker, and no man better ſkilled in moving the affections of the people than himſelf; and ſo great a maſter of his paſſions, that he lived as though he had none, or as if he only knew them by their names, or by obſerving them in others. Never was there a greater captain, nor a prophet equal to him, for all his words were oracles."

Thus ends the pentateuch, containing the hiſtory of the world in general, and of the family of Abraham in particular, for the firſt two thouſand five hundred and fifty three years; that is to ſay, from the creation, to the arrival of the Iſraelites in the land of Canaan.

The End of the Book of DEUTERONOMY.

The BOOK of JOSHUA.

The ARGUMENT.

This book is for the moſt part hiſtorical, giving an account of the many ſignal victories obtained by Joſhua over the Canaanites, the diviſion of the land among the tribes, Joſhua's charge to the Iſraelites, together with the death of that great general, and alſo of Eleazar the high prieſt; containing in all an hiſtory of about ſeventeen years.

Notes on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. The Lord ſpake unto Joſhua, &c.] Joſhua had been trained up under Moſes, during the greateſt part of the time that the Iſraelites wandered in the wilderneſs; had been an eye-witneſs of the wonderful works which God wrought by Moſes; he was well acquainted with the nature and diſpoſition of the people; had been one of the twelve ſpies ſent to ſearch out the promiſed land, and one of the two who gave a faithful account of it; and conſequently every way qualified for this important office of conducting the children of Iſrael.

5 There ſhall not any man be able to ſtand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moſes, ſo I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forſake thee.

6 Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for unto this people ſhalt thou divide for an inheritance the land which I ſware unto their fathers to give them.

7 Only be thou ſtrong and very courageous; that thou mayeſt obſerve to do according to all the law, which Moſes my ſervant commanded thee: turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayeſt proſper whitherſoever thou goeſt.

8 This book of the law ſhall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou ſhalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayeſt obſerve to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou ſhalt make thy way proſperous, and then thou ſhalt have good ſucceſs.

9 Have not I commanded thee? Be ſtrong and of a good courage, be not afraid, neither be thou diſmayed: for the LORD thy God is with thee whitherſoever thou goeſt.

10 ¶ Then Joſhua commanded the officers of the people, ſaying,

11 Paſs through the hoſt, and command the people, ſaying, Prepare you victuals; for within three days ye ſhall paſs over this Jordan, to go in to poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God giveth you to poſſeſs it.

Before Christ 1451.

12 ¶ And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manaſſeh, ſpake Joſhua, ſaying,

13 Remember the word which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded you, ſaying, The LORD your God hath given you reſt, and hath given you this land:

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle ſhall remain in the land which Moſes gave you on this ſide Jordan; but ye ſhall paſs before your brethren armed, all the mighty men of valour, and help them:

15 Until the LORD have given your brethren reſt, as he hath given you, and they alſo have poſſeſſed the land which the LORD your God giveth them: then ye ſhall return unto the land of your poſſeſſion, and enjoy it, which Moſes the LORDS ſervant gave you on this ſide Jordan toward the ſun-riſing.

16 ¶ And they anſwered Joſhua, ſaying, All that thou commandeſt us, we will do, and whitherſoever thou ſendeſt us, we will go.

17 According as we hearkened unto Moſes in all things, ſo will we hearken unto thee: only the LORD thy God be with thee, as he was with Moſes.

18 Whoſoever he be that doth rebel againſt thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words, in all that thou commandeſt him, he ſhall be put to death:

Ver. 6. Be ſtrong and of a good courage.] This exhortation, joined with the preceding and following encouragement, was neceſſary to animate this new leader, and to inſpire him into the execution of the momentous charge he had undertaken: for, notwithſtanding he ſaw himſelf at the head of 600,000 fighting men, yet the nations he was to conquer, were a warlike and gigantic people, had already taken the alarm, and made early preparations for a defence, had fortified cities, and confederated their forces againſt him.

Ver 11. Prepare you victuals.] They were to provide themſelves with ſuch proviſion as the country of Sihon and Og, which they had lately conquered, afforded: for, in three days time, being to remove early in the morning, they perhaps would not have had time to gather a ſufficient quantity of manna, and to prepare it, before they began their march.

Ver. 1. Jericho.] This was a city of Canaan, about ſeven leagues diſtant from Jeruſalem, and two from Jordan; it fell afterwards to the lot of the tribe of Benjamin. Moſes likewiſe calls it the city of palm-trees, Deut. xxxiv. 3. on account of the great numbers of them which grew in the plains of Jericho.

An harlot's houſe.] The word, in the original, ſignifies an hoſteſs, as well as an harlot. It is not to be denied, however, but that in ancient times, there was a great affinity between the buſineſs of each of them, their bodies being as public as their houſes; and for this reaſon, perhaps it was, that in the Hebrew tongue, but one word was uſed, to ſignify a perſon of both profeſſions. The ſeptuagint likewiſe gives her the appellation of an harlot; and both St. Paul and St. James following that tranſlation, uſe the ſame expreſſion: but the Chaldee paraphraſt calls her by a word which comes from the Greek PANDOCHEUTRIA, or a woman who kept a public-houſe; carrying with it no import of infamy. Seeing therefore the expreſſion is capable of a double ſenſe, when we conſider the faith which Rahab expreſſed in God, and her behaviour to the two Iſraelites, charity will incline us to take it here in the better ſenſe, and to put the moſt favourable conſtruction, both upon the expreſſion and her character; eſpecially when we conſider, that it is not likely Salmon would have married her afterwards, had ſhe been a public woman; for he was a prince of the houſe of Judah, and one of the anceſtors of the Meſſiah, ſee Matth. xv.

Ver. 4. I wiſt not whence they were.] Thoſe caſuiſts who would excuſe Rahab for this untruth urge, that to ſave the lives of the innocent is certainly commendable; and that ſometimes circumſtances may ſo happen, as to make it both lawful and neceſſary not only to diſguiſe the truth, but to impoſe upon others by a falſe information; but it is queſtionable how far this may be allowed. The beſt apology that has been made for her, is founded on the ſuppoſition that the deſign of God had by ſome means been revealed to the king and people of Jericho, and that they had therefore ſufficient warning to ſave themſelves from the approaching deſtruction; now if they would not obey, but if Rahab did, and acted conformably to the information given her, ſhe ſtands clear of any guilty imputation, and is deſervedly ranked among thoſe worthies whom the apoſtle propoſes to our imitation, as being a perſon juſtified not only by her faith, but her works likewiſe, when ſhe received the meſſengers, and ſent them out another way. James ii. 25. This ſuppoſition is countenanced by the author of the epiſtle to the Hebrews, who when he ſays ſhe periſhed not with them that believed not, Heb. xi. 13. does not make uſe of the words TOIS APISTOIS, with the unbelievers, but TOIS APEITHESAOI, with the diſobedient; viz. ſuch as would not be perſuaded of the truth of what was told them.

Ver. 8. She came up unto them upon the roof.] The inhabitants of theſe countries made the roofs of their houſes flat, having battlements round them; and here they uſed to walk.

Before Christ 1451. that all the inhabitants of the land faint becauſe of you.

10 For we have heard how the LORD dried up the water of the Red ſea for you, when you came out of Egypt; and what you did unto the two kings of the Amorites that were on the other ſide Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly deſtroyed.

11 And as ſoon as we had heard theſe things, our hearts did melt, neither did there remain any more courage in any man, becauſe of you: for the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, ſwear unto me by the LORD, ſince I have ſhewed you kindneſs, that ye will alſo ſhew kindneſs unto my fathers houſe; and give me a true token:

13 And that ye will ſave alive my father and my mother, and my brethren, and my ſiſters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death.

14 And the men anſwered her, Our life for yours, if ye utter not this our buſineſs. And it ſhall be when the LORD hath given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

15 Then ſhe let them down by a cord through the window: for her houſe was upon the town-wall, and ſhe dwelt upon the wall.

16 And ſhe ſaid unto them, Get you to the mountain, leſt the purſuers meet you; and hide yourſelves there three days until the purſuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way. Before Christ 1451.

17 And the men ſaid unto her, We will be blameleſs of this thine oath which thou haſt made us ſwear.

18 Behold, when we come into the land, thou ſhalt bind this line of ſcarlet thread in the window which thou didſt let us down by: and thou ſhalt bring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy fathers houſhold home unto thee.

19 And it ſhall be, that whoſoever ſhall go out of the doors of thy houſe into the ſtreet, his blood ſhall be upon his head, and we will be guiltleſs: and whoſoever ſhall be with thee in the houſe, his blood ſhall be on our head, if any hand be upon him.

20 And if thou utter this our buſineſs, then we will be quit of thine oath which thou haſt made us to ſwear.

21 And ſhe ſaid, According unto your words, ſo be it. And ſhe ſent them away, and they departed; and ſhe bound the ſcarlet line in the window.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days, until the purſuers were returned. And the purſuers ſought them throughout all the way, but found them not.

23 ¶ So the two men returned, and deſcended from the mountain, and paſſed over, and came to Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and told him all things that befel them;

24 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, Truly the

Ver. 10. We have heard how the Lord dried up the water of the Red-ſea for you, &c.] If Joſhua was obliged to offer peace (as the ſcripture ſeems to intimate) before he made uſe of the ſword againſt any of the Canaanitiſh nations; then it was lawful for this woman, who had heard of the two kings on the eaſt of Jordan, to provide for her own ſafety, and accept this peace, as it was glorious perhaps for a monarch to refuſe it.

Ver. 15. Her houſe was upon the town wall.] This was a very fortunate ſituation for the ſpies, for the gates of the city had been ſhut up by the king's order; but from thence, as ſoon as it was dark, ſhe let them down by a ſcarlet cord from one of her windows.

Ver. 18. Line of ſcarlet thread.] Verſe 15 it is called a cord; probably therefore it conſiſted of ſuch a number of threads twiſted together, as to make a line ſtrong enough to bear the weight of a man.

Ver. 24. Truly the Lord hath delivered into our hand all the land.] They found the people of the land under ſuch a general conſternation, that they were fully perſuaded God would deliver them into their hands, and crown the armies of Iſrael with ſucceſs.

the Lord hath delivered into our hands all the land; for even all the inhabitants of the country do faint becauſe of us.

CHAP. III.

1 Joſhua cometh to Jordan. 14 The waters of Jordan are divided.

AND Joſhua roſe early in the morning, and they removed from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Iſrael, and lodged there before they paſſed over.

2 And it came to paſs after three days, that the officers went through the hoſt;

3 And they commanded the people, ſaying, When ye ſee the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God, and the prieſts the Levites bearing it, then ye ſhall remove from your place, and go after it.

4 Yet there ſhall be a ſpace between you and it, about two thouſand cubits by meaſure: come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye muſt go: for ye have not paſſed this way heretofore.

5 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Sanctify yourſelves: for to morrow the Lord will do wonders among you.

6 And Joſhua ſpake unto the prieſts, ſaying, Take up the ark of the covenant, and paſs over before the people. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

7 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, This day will I begin to magnify thee in the ſight of all Iſrael, that they may know that as I was with Moſes, ſo I will be with thee.

Before Christ 1451.

8 And thou ſhalt command the prieſts that bear the ark of the covenant, ſaying, When ye are come to the brink of the water of Jordan, ye ſhall ſtand ſtill in Jordan.

9 ¶ And Joſhua ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Come hither, and hear the words of the Lord your God.

10 And Joſhua ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know that the living God is among you, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Jebuſites.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth, paſſeth over before you into Jordan.

12 Now therefore take ye twelve men out of the tribes of Iſrael, out of every tribe a man.

13 And it ſhall come to paſs, as ſoon as the ſoles of the feet of the prieſts that bear the ark of the Lord, the Lord of all the earth, ſhall reſt in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan ſhall be cut off from the waters that come down from above: and they ſhall ſtand upon an heap.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs when the people removed from their tents, to paſs over Jordan, and the prieſts bearing the ark of the covenant before the people;

Notes on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. Joſhua roſe early in the morning, &c.] Pleaſed with the report of the ſpies, he ordered the Iſraelites immediately to decamp, and march in regular order to the banks of Jordan.

Ver. 4. That ye may know the way by which ye muſt go.] The pillar of the cloud which had hitherto conducted them through the wilderneſs, it is ſuppoſed now left them, being arrived on the borders of Canaan; the ark therefore ſupplied its place, and went before them, as that, had been uſed to do.

Ver. 6. Take up the ark of the covenant and paſs over.] The paſſage over Jordan was to be miraculous; therefore the prieſts were ordered to take up the ark, that the preſent generation of Iſraelites might be convinced, that the waters of the Red-ſea over which their fathers paſt, were divided by an Almighty power, as the waters of Jordan were before their eyes, and thereby a paſſage made for their whole army to paſs over.

Ver. 9. Come hither.] Viz. to the ſanctuary, where Joſhua now was.

Before Chriſt 1451.

15 And as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet of the prieſts that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water (for Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harveſt,)

16 That the waters which came down from above, ſtood and roſe up upon an heap very far from the city Adam, that is beſide Zaretan: and thoſe that came down toward the ſea of the plain, even the ſalt-ſea, failed, and were cut off: and the people paſſed over right againſt Jericho.

17 And the prieſts that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ſtood firm on dry ground in the midſt of Jordan, and all the Iſraelites paſſed over on dry ground, until all the people were paſſed clean over Jordan.

CHAP. IV.

1 Twelve men are appointed to take twelve ſtones for a memorial out of Jordan. 14 God magnifieth Joſhua.

AND it came to paſs when all the people were clean paſſed over Jordan, that the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

3 And command you them, ſaying, Take you hence out of the midſt of Jordan, out of the place where the prieſts feet ſtood firm, twelve ſtones, and ye ſhall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging-place where you ſhall lodge this night.

4 Then Joſhua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared of the children of Iſrael, out of every tribe a man.

5 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Paſs over before the ark of the LORD your God into the midſt of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a ſtone upon his ſhoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Iſrael:

Ver. 15. Jordan now overfloweth all his banks in the time of harveſt.] The time of harveſt in thoſe hot countries, happens early in the ſpring, when, by reaſon of haſty rains, and the melting of the ſnow upon mount Lebanon, and other neighbouring mountains, the river Jordan is always full of water, and generally overflows all its banks.

Modern travellers inform us, that the largeneſs of this river is far from being equal to its extent. It may be ſaid to have two banks, of which the firſt and outermoſt, is that to which the river does, or at leaſt anciently did overflow, at ſome ſeaſons of the year; but at preſent (whether the rapidity of the current has worn its channel deeper, or its waters are directed ſome other way) ſo it is, that it ſeems to have forgot its ancient greatneſs.

Ver. 16. The city of Adam.] Or, Adom; it was ſituated on the banks of the river Jordan, ſouth of the ſea of Galilee.

The people paſſed over right againſt Jericho.] And having that famous city in view, from whence, perhaps, the people on the walls might, with amazement, ſee the Iſraelites walk through the river on dry ground. No ſooner did the ſoles of the prieſts feet, who bare the ark of the living God, touch the waters of Jordan, but they divided, and the rapid ſtream ſtopped its courſe, and roſe up in heaps like a mountain; ſo that a paſſage of above ſixteen miles broad, was opened for the Iſraelites; nor could the waters reſume their uſual courſe, till the prieſts were come up out of Jordan.

Notes on Chap. IV.

Ver. 3. Take ye hence out of the midſt of Jordan—twelve ſtones.] The river continuing dry for ſome time after they were all gone over, i. e. till the prieſts removed from thence.

Ver. 7. Theſe ſtones ſhall be a memorial.] It has been a cuſtom in all nations to erect monuments of ſtone, in order to preſerve the memory of covenants, victories, and other great tranſactions; and though there was no inſcription upon theſe ſtones, yet the number of them, and the place where they lay (which was not at all ſtony) was ſufficient to ſignify ſome memorable thing, which poſterity would not fail to hand down from one generation to another.

Before Christ 1451. for a memorial unto the children of Iſrael for ever.

8 And the children of Iſrael did ſo as Joſhua commanded, and took up twelve ſtones out of the midſt of Jordan, as the Lord ſpake unto Joſhua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Iſrael, and carried them them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 And Joſhua ſet up twelve ſtones in the midſt of Jordan, in the place where the feet of the prieſts which bear the ark of the covenant ſtood: and they are there unto this day.

10 ¶ For the prieſts which bear the ark, ſtood in the midſt of Jordan, until every thing was finiſhed that the Lord commanded Joſhua to ſpeak unto the people, according to all that Moſes commanded Joſhua: and the people haſted and paſſed over.

11 And it came to paſs when all the people were clean paſſed over, that the ark of the Lord paſſed over, and the prieſts in the preſence of the people.

12 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, paſſed over armed before the children of Iſrael, as Moſes ſpake unto them.

13 About forty thouſand prepared for war, paſſed over before the Lord unto battel, to the plains of Jericho.

14 ¶ On that day the Lord magnified Joſhua in the ſight of all Iſrael, and they feared him, as they feared Moſes, all the days of his life.

Before Christ 1451.

15 And the Lord ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

16 Command the prieſts that bear the ark of the teſtimony, that they come up out Jordan.

17 Joſhua therefore commanded the prieſts, ſaying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

18 And it came to paſs when the prieſts, that bear the ark of the covenant of the Lord, were come up out of the mids of Jordan, and the ſoles of the prieſts feet were lift up unto the dry land, that the waters of Jordan returned unto their place, and flowed over all his banks, as they did before.

19 ¶ And the people came up out of Jordan on the tenth day of the firſt month, and encamped in Gilgal, in the eaſt-border of Jericho.

20 ¶ And thoſe twelve ſtones which they took out of Jordan, did Joſhua pitch in Gilgal.

21 And he ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, When your children ſhall aſk their fathers in time to come, ſaying, What mean theſe ſtones?

22 Then ye ſhall let your children know, ſaying, Iſrael came over this Jordan on dry land.

Ver. 13. About forty thouſand prepared for war.] In the laſt muſter of the army, they conſiſted of above 100,000 able ſoldiers; and we can hardly ſuppoſe, that at this time their number was decreaſed. The 40,000 therefore, that went over Jordan, were but a part of them; the reſt, viz. of the two tribes and an half, being left behind to guard their new conqueſts againſt the vanquiſhed nations.

St. Jerom ſays, that in his time, it was held in great veneration by the inhabitants of the country. Here the ſtones, taken out of Jordan, were pitched, and the people commanded to inform their children of the reaſon of their being placed there, that they might not be ignorant of the amazing miracle which God was pleaſed to work for his people.

1 The Canaanites are afraid. 12 Manna ceaſeth. 13 An angel appeareth to Joſhua.

AND it came to paſs when all the kings of the Amorites, which were on the ſide of Jordan weſtward, and all the kings of the Canaanites, which were by the ſea, heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Iſrael until we were paſſed over, that their heart melted; neither was there ſpirit in them any more, becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

2 ¶ At that time the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Make thee ſharp knives, and circumciſe again the children of Iſrael the ſecond time.

3 And Joſhua made him ſharp knives, and circumciſed the children of Iſrael at the hill of the foreſkins.

4 And this is the cauſe why Joſhua did circumciſe: All the people that came out of Egypt, that were males, even all the men of war died in the wilderneſs by the way, after they came out of Egypt.

5 Now all the people that came out, were circumciſed; but all the people that were born in the wilderneſs by the way, as they came forth out of Egypt, them they had not circumciſed.

Before Chriſt 1451.

6 For the children of Iſrael walked forty years in the wilderneſs, till all the people that were men of war which came out of Egypt were conſumed, becauſe they obeyed not the voice of the LORD: unto whom the LORD ſware that he would not ſhew them the land which the LORD ſware unto their fathers that he would give us, a land that floweth with milk and hony.

7 And their children, whom he raiſed up in their ſtead, them Joſhua circumciſed: for they were uncircumciſed, becauſe they had not circumciſed them by the way.

8 And it came to paſs when they had done circumciſing all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp, till they were whole.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, This day have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt from off you: wherefore the name of the place is called Gilgal unto this day.

10 ¶ And the children of Iſrael encamped in Gilgal, and kept the paſſover, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, in the plains of Jericho.

11 And they did eat of the old corn of the land on the morrow after the paſſover unleavened cakes, and parched corn in the the ſelf-ſame day.

12 ¶ And the manna ceaſed on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land, neither had the children of Iſrael manna any more, but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

NOTES on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. And it came to paſs when all the kings of the Amorites, &c.] The conſternation of the Amorites is not to be wondered at, as they thought themſelves perfectly ſecured from an invaſion by the river Jordan.

Ver. 2. Make thee ſharp knives, and circumciſe again the children of Iſrael, &c.] From hence it appears, that the rite of circumciſion was of the greateſt importance; ſince, though it had been diſcontinued in Egypt, orders were given for renewing it at a time when the Iſraelites were upon the point of engaging the enemy.

Ver. 9. This day have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt from off you, &c,] We ſhould underſtand, by the reproach of Egypt, uncircumciſion, with which the Iſraelites were accuſtomed to upbraid other people, and particularly the Egyptians.

And seven Priests shall bear before the Ark seven Trumpets of Rams-horns: and the seventh day ye shall compaſs the City seven times, and the Priests shall blow with the Trumpets. Joſhua Chap. VI. Ve. 4.

Before Chriſt 1451.

13 ¶ And it came to paſs when Joſhua was by Jericho, that he lift up his eyes and looked, and behold, there ſtood a man over againſt him, with his ſword drawn in his hand: and Joſhua went unto him, and ſaid unto him, Art thou for us or our adverſaries?

14 And he ſaid, Nay, but as captain of the hoſt of the Lord am I now come. And Joſhua fell on his face to the earth, and did worſhip, and ſaid unto him, What ſaith my Lord unto his ſervant!

15 And the captain of the Lords hoſt ſaid unto Joſhua, Looſe thy ſhoe from off thy foot, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt is holy: and Joſhua did ſo.

1 Jericho is ſhut up. 2 God inſtructeth Joſhua how to beſiege it. 12 The city is compaſſed. 20 The walls fall down.

NOW Jericho was ſtraightly ſhut up becauſe of the children of Iſrael: none went out, and none came in.

2 And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour.

3 And ye ſhall compaſs the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once: thus ſhalt thou do ſix days.

Before Chriſt 1451.

4 And ſeven prieſts ſhall bear before the ark ſeven trumpets of rams horns: and the ſeventh day ye ſhall compaſs the city ſeven times, and the prieſts ſhall blow with the trumpets.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs that when they make a long blaſt with the rams horn, and when ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, all the people ſhall ſhout with a great ſhout: and the wall of the city ſhall fall down flat, and the people ſhall aſcend up every man ſtraight before him.

6 ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun called the prieſts, and ſaid unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let ſeven prieſts bear ſeven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the Lord.

7 And he ſaid unto the people, Paſs on, and compaſs the city, and let him that is armed paſs on before the ark of the Lord.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs when Joſhua had ſpoken unto the people, that the ſeven prieſts bearing the ſeven trumpets of rams horns, paſſed on before the Lord, and blew with the trumpets: and the ark of the covenant of the Lord followed them.

Ver. 13. There ſtood a man over againſt him, with his ſword drawn in his hand, &c.] It is not eaſily determined who this perſon was that appeared to Joſhua. Some commentators are of opinion, that it was the angel Gabriel, becauſe he is called Gebir, in the original. But it ſeems much more probable, that he was rather a divine than a created Being, for the following reaſons. Firſt, he calls himſelf the captain of the Lord's hoſt, which title in ſcriptue is frequently given to God himſelf. Secondly, Joſhua calls him Jehovah or Lord, a name which Joſhua would not have given him, and he would not have accepted, had he been only an angel. And Thirdly, from his falling down and worſhipping him; ſince if the perſon that appeared to Joſhua had been only an angel, he would have reproved him for ſo doing, as the angel did St. John, Rev. xxii. 10. It is therefore reaſonable to conclude, that the appearance was divine, for inſtead of reproving Joſhua, we find him ordering him to looſe his ſhoes from his feet, which in the eaſt was the uſual method of acknowledging a divine preſence. It ſeems moſt probable, that it was Jeſus Chriſt, the ever-bleſſed ſon of God, that appeared to Joſhua upon this occaſion.

Notes on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. Now Jericho was ſtraightly ſhut up, &c.] The Iſraelites having paſſed the river in a miraculous manner, the inhabitants of the country immediately took refuge in their fenced cities, and Jericho being not far from the camp of Iſrael, was cloſe ſhut up, in order to prevent a ſurprize. As it was the intention of the Almighty, that the Iſraelites ſhould ſee that the conqueſt of Canaan was due to him, and not to human power, he ordered Joſhua not to attack it, but compaſs it about ſeven days, at the end of which the wall ſhould fall down flat, and open a paſſage for the Iſraelites to enter the city.

Before Christ 1451. the prieſts that blew with the trumpets, and the rere-ward came after the ark, the prieſts going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

10 And Joſhua had commanded the people, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſhout, nor make any noiſe with your voice, neither ſhall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you ſhout, then ſhall ye ſhout.

11 So the ark of the Lord compaſſed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 ¶ And Joſhua roſe early in the morning, and the prieſts took up the ark of the Lord.

13 And ſeven prieſts bearing ſeven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the Lord, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them, but the rere-ward came after the ark of the Lord, the prieſts going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the ſecond day they compaſſed the city once, and returned into the camp: ſo they did ſix days.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that they roſe early about the dawning of the day, and compaſſed the city after the ſame manner ſeven times: only on that day they compaſſed the city ſeven times.

16 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, when the prieſts blew with the trumpets, Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Shout, for the Lord hath given you the city. Before Christ 1451.

17 ¶ And the city ſhall be accurſed, even it, and all that are therein, to the Lord: only Rahab the harlot ſhall live, ſhe and all that are with her in the houſe, becauſe ſhe hid the meſſengers that we ſent.

18 And you, in any wiſe keep yourſelves from the accurſed thing, leſt ye make yourſelves accurſed when ye take of the accurſed thing, and make the camp of Iſrael a curſe, and trouble it.

19 But all the ſilver and gold, and veſſels of braſs and iron, are conſecrated unto the Lord: they ſhall come into the treaſury of the Lord.

20 So the people ſhouted when the prieſts blew with the trumpets: and it came to paſs when the people heard the ſound of the trumpet, and the people ſhouted with a great ſhout, that the wall fell down flat, ſo that the people went up into the city, every man ſtraight before him, and they took the city.

21 And they utterly deſtroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and ſheep, and aſs, with the edge of the ſword.

22 But Joſhua had ſaid unto the two men that had ſpied out the country, Go into the harlots houſe, and bring out thence the woman, and all that ſhe hath, as ye ſware unto her.

23 And the young men that were ſpies

It is certain, that one of theſe days muſt have been the ſabbath; yet we find the Jews rigorous to the higheſt degree in the obſervation of this day. In the time of the Maccabees they ſuffered their throats to be cut rather than to defend themſelves upon it; whereas this example of their forefathers inveſting, if not ſacking Jericho, muſt one would imagine, have taught them that it was not only allowable to defend themſelves, but even to fall upon, and deſtroy their enemies, whenever a favourable opportunity preſented on that day.

Ver. 20. The wall fell down flat.] In the Hebrew, fell under it: ſeeming to ſignify, that the wall was ſubverted, ſo that it ſunk, and fell into the ditch; or as the Jews explain it, ſunk into the ground where it ſtood, ſo as to leave no ruins; and what added to the miracle, that part of it on which Rahab lived, was feft ſtanding.

24. And Joſhua ſaved Rahab the harlot alive, and her fathers houſhold, and all that ſhe had; and ſhe dwelleth in Iſrael even unto this day: becauſe ſhe hid the meſſengers which Joſhua ſent to ſpy out Jericho.

26 ¶ And Joſhua adjured them at that time, ſaying, Curſed be the man before the Lord, that riſeth up and buildeth this city Jericho: he ſhall lay the foundation thereof in his firſt-born, and in his youngeſt ſon ſhall he ſet up the gates of it.

27 So the Lord was with Joſhua, and his fame was noiſed throughout all the country.

CHAP. VII.

1 The Iſraelites are ſmitten at Ai. 6 Joſhuas complaint. 16 Achan is taken by the lot: 22 He and all he had are deſtroyed in the valley of Achor.

Before Christ 1451.

BUT the children of Iſrael committed a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing: for Achan the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accurſed thing: and the anger of the Lord was kindled againſt the children of Iſrael.

2 And Joſhua ſent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beſide Beth-aven, on the eaſt ſide of Bethel, and ſpake unto them, ſaying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai.

3 And they returned to Joſhua, and ſaid unto him, Let not all the people go up: but let about two or three thouſand men go up and ſmite Ai, and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few.

4 So there went up thither of the people about three thouſand men, and they fled before the men of Ai.

5 And the men of Ai ſmote of them about thirty and ſix men: for they chaſed them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and ſmote them in the going down: wherefore the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

6 ¶ And Joſhua rent his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face, before the ark of the Lord, until the even-tide, he and

Ver. 26. Curſed be the man before the Lord, &c.] Notwithſtanding this anathema, Hiel, in the reign of Abab, cauſed Jericho to be rebuilt on account of the beauty of its ſituation. After Hiel had ventured to rebuild it, no ſcruple was made of inhabiting it, for it was afterwards celebrated upon many accounts; the prophet Eliſha, Herod, and the Redeemer of mankind contributed to raiſe its fame.

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 1. But the children of Iſrael committed a treſpaſs, &c.] Joſhua had given expreſs orders to the people, before the taking of Jericho, not to ſpare any thing that was in it, but to burn and deſtroy every thing that they met with, except the ſilver, gold, braſs, and iron, which were to be conſecrated to the Almighty. But, notwithſtanding this ſtrict charge, Achan took ſome of the rich plunder, and hid it in his tent.

Ver. 5. And the men of Ai ſmote of them about thirty and ſix men, &c.] It was thought that a ſmall body of men might be ſufficient to reduce Ai, as it was a ſmall city about twenty miles diſtant from Jericho, and neither populous or well fortified; but, contrary to their expectation, the inhabitants of the place made a ſally upon them, and having ſlain ſome few, put the reſt to flight, and purſued them as far as their own camp. This defeat, though very inconſiderable, almoſt reduced the people to deſpair. The finger of God is viſible in this tranſaction, in ſending ſo ſmall a party againſt Ai: for, if the flight of three thouſand men threw the Iſraelites into ſuch a conſternation, how greatly muſt they have been dejected, had the whole hoſt been ſent to reduce the city, and met with a repulſe, as they doubtleſs muſt have done, whilſt the guilt of Achan remained unexpiated.

Before Christ 1451. and the elders of Iſrael, and put duſt upon their heads.

7 And Joſhua ſaid, Alas, O Lord God, wherefore haſt thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to deſtroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other ſide Jordan.

8 O Lord, what ſhall I ſay, when Iſrael turneth their backs before their enemies!

9 For the Canaanites, and all the inhabitants of the land ſhall hear of it, and ſhall environ us round, and cut off our name from the earth: and what wilt thou do unto thy great name?

10 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, Get thee up, wherefore lieſt thou thus upon thy face?

11 Iſrael hath ſinned, and they have alſo tranſgreſſed my covenant which I commanded them: for they have even taken of the accurſed thing, and have alſo ſtolen, and diſſembled alſo, and they have put it even amongſt their own ſtuff.

12 Therefore the children of Iſrael could not ſtand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, becauſe they were accurſed: neither will I be with you any more, except ye deſtroy the accurſed from amongſt you.

13 Up, ſanctify the people, and ſay, Sanctify yourſelves againſt to morrow: for thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, There is an accurſed thing in the midſt of thee, O Iſrael: thou canſt not ſtand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accurſed thing from among you.

Before Christ 1451. 14 In the morning therefore ye ſhall be brought according to your tribes: and it ſhall be that the tribe which the Lord taketh, ſhall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the Lord ſhall take, ſhall come by houſholds; and the houſhold which the Lord ſhall take, ſhall come man by man.

15 And it ſhall be, that he that is taken with the accurſed thing, ſhall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: becauſe he hath tranſgreſſed the covenant of the Lord, and becauſe he hath wrought folly in Iſrael.

16 ¶ So Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and brought Iſrael by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken:

17 And he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man; and Zabdi was taken:

18 And he brought his houſhold man by man; and Achan the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

19 And Joſhua ſaid unto Achan, My ſon, give, I pray thee, glory to the Lord God of Iſrael, and make confeſſion unto him; and tell me now what thou haſt done, hide it not from me.

20 And Achan anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Indeed I have ſinned againſt the Lord God of Iſrael, and thus and thus have I done.

Ver. 16. So Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, &c.] Various are the conjectures of commentators, concerning the meaſures which Joſhua took to diſcover the guilty perſon; but the moſt probable opinion is, that they caſt lots: but it is not eaſily determined in what manner theſe lots were caſt. We are informed by the Jews, that in the caſe of Achan, the people of every tribe, &c. were made to paſs before the ark, and that the high prieſt was directed by the Urim, to pitch upon the right tribe, family, &c.

Ver. 21. A goodly Babyloniſh garment, &c.] The words, in the original Hebrew, ſignify a garment of Shinar, that is, of Babylon. It was valued chiefly upon account of its colour, the ſcarlet or Tyrian dye being highly eſteemed by the ancients.

22 ¶ So Joſhua ſent meſſengers, and they ran unto the tent, and behold, it was hid in his tent, and the ſilver under it.

23 And they took them out of the midſt of the tent, and brought them unto Joſhua, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and laid them out before the LORD.

24 And Joſhua and all Iſrael with him, took Achan the ſon of Zerah, and the ſilver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his ſons, and his daughters, and his oxen, and his aſſes, and his ſheep, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto the valley of Achor.

25 And Joſhua ſaid, Why haſt thou troubled us? the LORD ſhall trouble thee this day. And all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, and burned them with fire, after they had ſtoned them with ſtones.

26 And they raiſed over him a great heap of ſtones unto this day: So the LORD turned from the fierceneſs of his anger: wherefore the name of that place was called, The valley of Achor, unto this day.

CHAP. VIII.

1 God encourageth Joſhua. 3 The ſtratagem whereby Ai was taken. 33 Joſhua propoundeth bleſſings and curſings.

AND the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Fear not, neither be thou diſmayed: take all the people of war with thee, and ariſe, go up to Ai: ſee, I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land.

Before Chriſt 1451.

2 And thou ſhalt do to Ai, and her king, as thou didſt unto Jericho and her king: only the ſpoil thereof, and the cattel thereof ſhall ye take for a prey unto yourſelves: lay thee an ambuſh for the city, behind it.

3 ¶ So Joſhua aroſe and all the people of war, to go up againſt Ai: and Joſhua choſe out thirty thouſand mighty men of valour, and ſent them away by night.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Behold, ye ſhall lie in wait againſt the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready:

5 And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city: and it ſhall come to paſs when they come out againſt us, as at the firſt, that we will flee before them.

6 (For they will come out after us) till we have drawn them from the city; for they will ſay, They flee before us, as at the firſt: therefore we will flee before them.

7 Then ye ſhall riſe up from the ambuſh, and ſeize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand.

8 And it ſhall be when ye have taken the city, that ye ſhall ſet the city on fire: according to the commandment of the LORD ſhall ye do. See, I have commanded you.

9 ¶ Joſhua therefore ſent them forth; and they went to lie in ambuſh, and abode

Ver. 24. The valley of Achor.] The word Achor, in the original Hebrew ſignifies trouble.

Ver. 25. And all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, &c.] The puniſhment inflicted by the Jewiſh law upon thoſe who were guilty of ſacrilege, was to be burnt alive: it is the opinion of the Jews, that Achan was not ſtoned, according to the courſe of juſtice, but accidentally by the people.

Notes on Chap. VIII.

between Beth-el and Ai, on the weſt ſide of Ai: but Joſhua lodged that night among the people.

10 And Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Iſrael, before the people to Ai.

11 And all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north ſide of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

12 And he took about five thouſand men, and ſet them to lie in ambuſh between Beth-el and Ai, on the weſt ſide of the city.

13 And when they had ſet the people, even all the hoſt that was on the north of the city, and their liers in wait on the weſt of the city: Joſhua went that night into the midſt of the valley.

14 ¶ And it came to paſs when the king of Ai ſaw it, that they haſted and roſe up early, and the men of the city went out againſt Iſrael to battel, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he wiſt not that there were liers in ambuſh againſt him, behind the city.

15 And Joſhua and all Iſrael made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderneſs.

16 And all the people that were in Ai, were called together to purſue after them: and they purſued after Joſhua, and were drawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a man left in Ai, or Beth-el, that went not out after Iſrael: and they left the city open, and purſued after Iſrael.

Before Christ 1451.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Stretch out the ſpear that is in thy hand, toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joſhua ſtretched out the ſpear that he had in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambuſh aroſe quickly out of their place, and they ran as ſoon as he had ſtretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and haſted, and ſet the city on fire.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they ſaw, and behold the ſmoke of the city aſcended up to heaven, and they had no power to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderneſs turned back upon the purſuers.

21 And when Joſhua and all Iſrael ſaw that the ambuſh had taken the city, and that the ſmoke of the city aſcended, then they turned again, and ſlew the men of Ai.

22 And the other iſſued out of the city againſt them, ſo they were in the midſt of Iſrael, ſome on this ſide, and ſome on that ſide: and they ſmote them, ſo that they let none of them remain, or eſcape.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joſhua.

24 And it came to paſs, when Iſrael had made an end of ſlaying all the inhabitants of Ai, in the field, in the wilderneſs wherein they chaſed them, and when they were all

---

Ver. 15. All Iſrael made as if they were beaten before them.] God could have put his people in poſſeſſion of Canaan, without their ſtriking a blow, yet choſe to act by a ſecondary means, proceeding in the ordinary way, and leaving a great deal to the ſkill and conduct of Joſhua, aſſiſting him only at ſome critical conjunctures; that, as by a prolongation of the war, the reputation of his people might be raiſed, and more frequent opportunities occur for the diſplay of his miraculous works. Hence we have a good preſumption to think, that ſtratagems are lawful in war, from God's directing Joſhua, or at leaſt permitting him to make uſe of one.

Ver. 17. Or Bethel.] By theſe words, it appears, that the men of Bethel were come to the aſſiſtance of Ai, before any of the army of Iſrael arrived; for afterwards they could not, becauſe the ambuſh lay between Beth-el and Ai. But ſince Beth-el is not mentioned in the Greek verſion, ſome think it was not in the original Hebrew; and that, if the men of Beth-el purſued, as well as thoſe of Ai, it would have been ſaid, that they left the cities, and not the city open. However, the former ſuppoſition anſwers this objection.

Before Christ 1451. all fallen on the edge of the ſword, until they were conſumed, that all the Iſraelites returned unto Ai, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword.

25 And ſo it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thouſand, even all the men of Ai.

26 For Joſhua drew not his hand back wherewith he ſtretched out the ſpear, until he had utterly deſtroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

27 Only the cattle and the ſpoil of that city Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves, according unto the word of the LORD, which he commanded Joſhua.

28 And Joſhua burnt Ai, and made it an heap for ever, even a deſolation unto this day.

29 And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree until even-tide: and as ſoon as the ſun was down, Joſhua commanded that they ſhould take his carcaſe down from the tree, and caſt it at the entering of the gate of the city, and raiſe thereon a great heap of ſtones that remaineth unto this day.

30 ¶ Then Joſhua built an altar unto the LORD God of Iſrael in mount Ebal, 31 As Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded the children of Iſrael, as it is written in the book of the law of Moſes, an altar of whole ſtones, over which no man hath lift up any iron: and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the LORD, and ſacrificed peace-offerings.

32 And he wrote there upon the ſtones a copy of the law of Moſes, which he wrote in the preſence of the children of Iſrael.

Before Christ 1451.

33 And all Iſrael and their elders, and officers and their judges, ſtood on this ſide the ark, and on that ſide, before the prieſts the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the ſtranger, as he that was born among them; half of them over againſt mount Gerizzim, and half of them over againſt mount Ebal: as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had commanded before, that they ſhould bleſs the people of Iſrael.

34 And afterward he read all the words of the law, the bleſſings and curſings, according to all that is written in the book of the law.

35 There was not a word of all that Moſes commanded, which Joſhua read not before all the congregation of Iſrael, with the women, and the little ones, and the ſtrangers that were converſant among them.

2 That they gathered themſelves together to fight with Joſhua, and with Iſrael, with one accord.

3 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joſhua had done unto Jericho and to Ai,

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been ambaſſadors, and took old ſacks upon their aſſes, and wine-bottles, old, and rent, and bound up,

5 And old ſhoes, and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them, and all the bread of their proviſion was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joſhua unto the camp at Gilgal, and ſaid unto him, and to the men of Iſrael, We be come from a far country: now therefore make ye a league with us.

7 And the men of Iſrael ſaid unto the Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell among us, and how ſhall we make a league with you?

Before Chriſt 1451.

8 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, We are thy ſervants. And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye?

9 And they ſaid unto him, From a very far country thy ſervants are come, becauſe of the name of the LORD thy God: for we have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt,

10 And all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heſhbon, and to Og king of Baſhan, which was at Aſhtaroth.

11 Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country, ſpake to us, ſaying, Take victuals with you for the Journey, and go to meet them, and ſay unto them, We are your ſervants: therefore now make ye a league with us.

Ver. 2. They gathered themſelves together to fight with Joſhua.] Entered into a league for their mutual defence, and determined to fight the Iſraelites with their united forces. The Jews have a tradition, that Joſhua before he declared war againſt the ſeven nations, wrote letters to them, in which he offered them three conditions; that if they were minded to depart, they ſhould quit the country immediately; if they were deſirous to make peace, they ſhould come and treat with the Iſraelites; but if they intended to fight it out, they might betake themſelves to their arms; and they farther add, that the firſt of theſe conditions, the Gergaſhites embraced, and fled into Egypt; the ſecond, the Gibeonites accepted, and made a league with Joſhua; and the third, the confederate kings made choice of, taking up arms againſt the Iſraelites, but were all defeated.

Ver. 4. They did work wilily.] It being too late to ſurrender their city to Joſhua, upon ſuch terms as he is ſuppoſed to have offered, (for there was no mercy to be ſhewn them, after they had ſtood out againſt the three proclamations, which (ſay the jews) were made to them; and therefore they contrived to put a fallacy upon the Iſraelites, and procure their favour by craft and cunning.

It is a queſtion among caſuiſts, whether the Gibeonites could, with a good conſcience, pretend that they were foreigners, and tell a lie to ſave their lives. Puffendorf thinks them not blameable, but his oppinion ſeems erroneous. Had the Iſraelites indeed been only a company of banditti, who were carrying blood and deſolation into countries where they had no right; or had the Gibeonites been ignorant that a miraculous providence conducted thoſe conquerors, the fraud which they here practiſed, might have been deemed innocent; for there is no law that obliges us, under the pretence of ſincerity, to ſubmit to ſuch incendiaries as are ſetting fire to our cities, and putting us and our families to the ſword. But the caſe of the Gibeonites was particular; the idea which they had conceived of the God of Iſrael ſhould have put them upon ſome other expedient, than that of lying and deceit. They ſhould have enquired (as far as the obſcure diſpenſation they were under would permit them) into the cauſe of God's ſeverity againſt them; they ſhould have acknowledged, that it was their grievous ſins which drew down his heavy judgments upon their nation; and after they had repented thereof, they ſhould have left the reſt to providence; not doubting but that he who had changed the very courſe of nature to puniſh the guilty, would alſo find out ſome means to ſave the penitent.

12 This our bread we took hot for our proviſion out of our houſes, on the day we came forth to go unto you; but now behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy:

13 And theſe bottles of wine which we filled, were new, and behold, they be rent: and theſe our garments and our ſhoes are become old, by reaſon of the very long journey.

14 And the men took of their victuals, and aſked not counſel at the mouth of the Lord.

15 And Joſhua made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live: and the princes of the congregation ſware unto them.

16 And it came to paſs at the end of three days, after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

17 And the children of Iſrael journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day: now their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-jearim.

18 And the children of Iſrael ſmote them not, because the princes of the congregation had ſworn unto them by the Lord God of Iſrael: and all the congregation murmured againſt the princes.

19 But all the princes ſaid unto all the congregation, We have ſworn unto them by the Lord God of Iſrael: now therefore we may not touch them.

20 This we will do to them; we will even let them live, leſt wrath be upon us, becauſe of the oath which we ſware unto them.

Before Chriſt 1451.

21 And the princes ſaid unto them, Let them live (but let them be hewers of wood, and drawers of water unto all the congregation) as the princes had promiſed them.

22 ¶ And Joſhua called for them, and he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, ſaying, We are very far from you; when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are curſed, and there ſhall none of you be freed from being bond-men, and hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the houſe of my God.

24 And they anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Becauſe it was certainly told thy ſervants how that the Lord thy God commanded his ſervant Moſes to give you all the land, and to deſtroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore we were ſore afraid of our lives becauſe of you, and have done this thing.

25 And now behold we are in thine hand: as it ſeemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do.

26 And ſo did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Iſrael, that they ſlew them not.

27 And Joſhua made them that day hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the Lord, even unto this day, in the place which he ſhould chooſe.

Ver. 15. Joſhua made peace with them.] It has been debated whether this league was lawful and obligatory, becauſe it was contrary to a poſſitive law of God, by which the Iſraelites were enjoined to make no peace with the inhabitants of Canaan. But this law ſeems to admit of ſome exception, the true intention of it being to preſerve the children of Iſrael from being tainted with idolatry, and other abominations, by cohabiting with them; therefore when that objection was removed, if they were willing to relinquiſh their idolatry, and other crimes, and embrace the true religion, they might be ſpared.

CHAP. X.

1 Five kings war againſt Gibeon: 12 The ſun and moon ſtand ſtill at the word of Joſhua. 28 Seven kings more are conquered. 43 Joſhua returneth to Gilgal.

NOW it came to paſs, when Adoni-zedek king of Jeruſalem had heard how Joſhua had taken Ai, and had utterly deſtroyed it, (as he had done to Jericho and her king, ſo he had done to Ai and her king) and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Iſrael, and were among them;

2 That they feared greatly, becauſe Gibeon was a great city, as one of the royal cities, and becauſe it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

3 Wherefore Adoni-zedek king of Jeruſalem, ſent unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachiſh, and unto Debir king of Eglon, ſaying,

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may ſmite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joſhua, and with the children of Iſrael.

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, the king of Eglon, gathered themſelves together, and went up, they and all their hoſts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war againſt it.

Before Christ 1451.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon ſent unto Joſhua, to the camp to Gilgal, ſaying, Slack not thy hand from thy ſervants; come up to us quickly, and ſave us, and help us; for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains, are gathered together againſt us.

7 So Joſhua aſcended from Gilgal, he and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there ſhall not a man of them ſtand before thee.

9 Joſhua therefore came unto them ſuddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.

10 And the Lord diſcomfited them before Iſrael, and ſlew them with a great ſlaughter at Gibeon, and chaſed them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and ſmote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

11 And it came to paſs as they fled from before Iſrael, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the Lord caſt down great ſtones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: there were more which died with hailſtones, than they whom the children of Iſrael ſlew with the ſword.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Joſhua to the Lord

Notes on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. Adoni-zedeck.] This prince ſeems to have been the moſt potent in Canaan; and if we were to judge from his name, famous for his juſtice and virtue; for Adoni-zedeck literally ſignifies, prince of righteouſneſs.

Jeruſalem.] This city in the time of Abraham was called Salem, and ſeems to have retained the ſame name till the Iſraelites came into Canaan, when it was called Jeruſalem.

Ver. 2. [Gibeon was a great city, as one of the royal cities.] Gibeon was not a Royal city, but was governed by elders; nevertheleſs it had ſeveral cities depending on it, as the royal cities had.

Ver. 10. Beth-horon.] This city was not in being when the event happened, but was built a little before this book was written. It ſeems to have taken its name, which ſignifies the houſe or place of fury, from the miraculous ſtorm mentioned in the next verſe.

Azekah, and Makkedah. Afterwards, two cities in the tribe of Judah, ſouth of Gibeon; whereas Beth-horon lay to the north of it. chap. xv. 35, 41.

Ver. 11. The Lord caſt down great hailſtones from heaven upon them.] The ſeptuagint call them, LITHOUS CHALAZES; hailſtones of a vaſt bigneſs.

And the Sun stood still, and the Moon stayed, untill the People had avenged themselves upon their Enemies.

Jos. X. 13.

Before Christ 1451.

in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Iſrael; and he ſaid in the ſight of Iſrael, Sun, ſtand thou ſtill upon Gibeon, and thou moon, in the valley of Ajalon.

13 And the ſun ſtood ſtill, and the moon ſtayed, until the people had avenged themſelves upon their enemies. Is not this written in the book of Jaſher? ſo the ſun ſtood ſtill in the midſt of heaven, and haſted not to go down about a whole day.

14 And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man: for the LORD fought for Iſrael.

15 ¶ And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

16 But theſe five kings fled, and hid themſelves in a cave at Makkedah.

17 And it was told Joſhua, ſaying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joſhua ſaid, Roll great ſtones upon the mouth of the cave, and ſet men by it for to keep them.

19 And ſtay you not, but purſue after your enemies, and ſmite the hindmoſt of them, ſuffer them not to enter into their cities: for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand.

Before Christ 1451.

20 And it came to paſs when Joſhua and the children of Iſrael had made an end of ſlaying them with a very great ſlaughter till they were conſumed, that the reſt which remained of them, entered into fenced cities.

21 And all the people returned to the camp to Joſhua at Makkedah in peace: none moved his tongue againſt any of the children of Iſrael.

22 Then ſaid Joſhua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out thoſe five kings unto me out of the cave.

23 And they did ſo, and brought forth thoſe five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, and the king of Eglon.

24 And it came to paſs when they brought out thoſe kings unto Joſhua, that Joſhua called for all the men of Iſrael, and ſaid unto the captains of the men of war, which went with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of theſe kings. And they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.

25 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Fear not nor be diſmayed, be ſtrong and of good courage: for thus ſhall the LORD do to all your enemies againſt whom ye fight.

Ver. 12. Sun ſtand thou ſtill.] That the Almighty ſhould ſtop the courſe of nature, and ſuſpend the revolution of the earth about its axis, in order to give the people an opportunity of obtaining a complete victory over their enemies, is very amazing. But it ſhould be remembered that it was the work of that omnipotent Being, who firſt created the beautiful ſyſtem of the univerſe; and that all nature is under his immediate direction.

As to the expreſſion of the ſun ſtanding ſtill, this was agreeable to the common notion; for they never dreamed then of the earth's rotation upon its own axis, but were perſwaded that the ſun and moon had their reſpective courſes; and had Joſhua uſed the expreſſion earth reſt upon thy axis, words ſo contrary to the rules of ſcience, they would have thought him diſtracted, and would have imagined it to have been ſome wild fancy or blunder of his own.

This miracle of ſtopping the two great luminaries in the height of their career, which muſt have been univerſally ſeen and felt; was to convince thoſe poor deluded people the Canaanites, that the gods whom they truſted in (viz. the ſun and moon) were entirely ſubject to the God of Iſrael, and that the Lord is he who made and ruleth the heavens.

Ver. 13. The book of Jaſher.] In the marginal tranſlation it is, the book of the upright. Some think it was certain annals of the lives and adventures of jewiſh worthies, and other remarkable occurencies happening to that nation; others that it was a collection of verſes which they learned by heart, the better to remember the miracles which God wrought for them.

Ver. 16. In a cave at Makkedah.] Near Makkedah; for that city was not yet taken.

Before Chriſt 1451.

26 And afterward Joſhua ſmote them, and ſlew them, and hanged them on five trees: and they were hanging upon the trees until the evening.

27 And it came to paſs at the time of the going down of the ſun, that Joſhua commanded, and they took them down off the trees, and caſt them into the cave wherein they had been hid, and laid great ſtones in the caves mouth, which remain until this very day.

28 ¶ And that day Joſhua took Makkedah, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof he utterly deſtroyed, them, and all the ſouls that were therein, he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah, as he did unto the king of Jericho.

29 Then Joſhua paſſed from Makkedah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Libnah, and fought againſt Libnah.

30 And the LORD delivered it alſo, and the king thereof, into the hand of Iſrael, and he ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein: he let none remain in it, but did unto the king thereof, as he did unto the king of Jericho.

31 ¶ And Joſhua paſſed from Libnah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Lachiſh, and encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it.

32 And the LORD delivered Lachiſh into the hand of Iſrael, which took it on the ſecond day, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Libnah.

33 ¶ Then Horam king of Gezer, came up to help Lachiſh; and Joſhua ſmote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

Before Chriſt 1451.

34 ¶ And from Lachiſh, Joſhua paſſed unto Eglon, and all Iſrael with him, and they encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it.

35 And they took it on that day, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein, he utterly deſtroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachiſh.

36 And Joſhua went up from Eglon, and all Iſrael with him, unto Hebron, and they fought againſt it.

37 And they took it, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and all the ſouls that were therein: he left none remaining (according to all that he had done to Eglon) but deſtroyed it utterly, and all the ſouls that were therein.

38 ¶ And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him to Debir, and fought againſt it.

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and utterly deſtroyed all the ſouls that were therein, he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, ſo he did to Debir, and to the king thereof, as he had done alſo to Libnah, and to her king.

40 ¶ So Joſhua ſmote all the country of the hills, and of the ſouth, and of the vale, and of the ſprings, and all their kings: he left none remaining, but utterly deſtroyed all that breathed, as the LORD God of Iſrael commanded.

41 And Joſhua ſmote them from Kadeſh-barnea, even unto Gaza, and all the country of Goſhen, even unto Gibeon.

42 And all theſe kings, and their land did Joſhua take at one time: becauſe the LORD God of Iſrael fought for Iſrael.

43 And

Ver. 41. Kadeſh-barnea unto Gaza.] Kadeſh-barnea was in the ſouth of Canaan, and Gaza was a city of the Philiſtines.

Goſhen.] This was on the ſouth of Canaan, and took its name from its excellent paſtures. Gen. xlvi. 34.

Before Christ 1450.

43 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

1 Divers kings overcome at the waters of Merom. 21 The Anakims cut off.

AND it came to paſs, when Jabin king of Hazor had heard thoſe things, that he ſent to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, and to the king of Achſhaph,

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains, and of the plains ſouth of Cinneroth, and in the valley, and in the borders of Dor, on the weſt;

3 And to the Canaanite on the eaſt and on the weſt, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebuſite in the mountains, and to the Hivite under Hermon, in the land of Mizpeh.

4 And they went out, they and all their hoſts with them, much people, even as the ſand that is upon the ſea-ſhore in multitude, with horſes and chariots very many.

Before Christ 1450.

5 And when all theſe kings were met together, they came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight againſt Iſrael.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Be not afraid becauſe of them: for to morrow about this time will I deliver them up all ſlain before Iſrael: thou ſhalt hough their horſes, and burn their chariots with fire.

7 So Joſhua came, and all the people of war with him, againſt them by the waters of Merom ſuddenly, and they fell upon them.

NOTES on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. Jabin king of Hazor.] Hazor was the metropolis of the northern part of Canaan, it fell to the ſhare of the tribe of Naphtali. Jabin was the name of the king of the Canaanites in that part of the country in latter times, and reigned in this very city, Judges iv. 2.

Madon.] This place was doubtleſs ſubject to Hazor, but is mentioned no where elſe in ſcripture.

Shimrom.] This was afterwards in the tribe of Zebulun.

Achſhaph.] A place of the tribe of Aſher.

Ver. 2. On the north of the mountains.] In the mountainous country near Lebanon.

The plains ſouth of Cinneroth.] In the flat country which lay ſouth of the lake, afterwards called Geneſareth.

In the valley.] The valley of Jezreel; a pleaſant country between mount Hermon and Gilboa.

Ver. 3. Amorite, Hittite, Perizzite.] There were other Amorites ſcattered up and down the country, beſides thoſe abovementioned, who were now aſſembled together by Jabin, in order to compoſe a very powerful army.

The Jebuſite in the mountains.] About Jeruſalem, where they kept a ſtrong hold till the days of David.

Hermon.] A famous mountain in the north-eaſt part of Canaan.

Mizpeh.] There were ſeveral cities of the ſame name; but that, in or near the tribe of Manaſſeh, ſeems to be here intended.

Ver. 4. Much people, even as the ſand that is upon the ſea-ſhore.] Joſephus makes their whole army amount to 300,000 foot, 10,000 horſe, and 2000 chariots; and the Iſraelites had nothing to oppoſe theſe beſides foot, God having forbid them a traffic with Egypt for horſes, leſt it ſhould prove a ſnare to entangle them in idolatry.

Chariots.] Theſe chariots made terrible ſlaughter among an army of foot. The ancient hiſtorians call them currus falciferi, quadrigæ falcatæ & armata drepanephora, and deſcribe them in the following manner: the beam to which the horſes were faſtened, was armed with ſpikes with iron points, which projected forward; the yokes of the horſes had two cutting falcheons, of three cubits length; the axle-trees had fixed to them two iron ſpits, with ſcythes at their extremities; the ſpokes of the wheels were armed with javelins, and the very fellows with ſcythes, which tore every thing they met with to pieces; the axle-tree was longer, and the wheels ſtronger than uſual, that they might be the better able to bear a ſhock, and the chariot leſs liable to be overturned; the charioteer, who was covered all over with armour, ſat in a kind of tower, made of very ſolid wood, about breaſt high; and ſometimes men, well armed, were placed in the chariot, and fought from thence with darts and arrows.

Ver. 5. The waters of Merom.] Generally ſuppoſed to be the lake Semechon, lying between the head of the river Jordan, and the lake of Geneſareth; it being agreed on all hands, that the city Hazor, where Jabin reigned, was ſituated upon this lake. Others think, that theſe waters were ſomewhere about the brook Kiſhon, whether the confederate kings advanced, in order to hinder Joſhua from penetrating their country; and ſay, that it does not ſeem reaſonable that they ſhould wait for him in the midſt of their own country, and leave all Galilee at his mercy, and that whole tract, from the brook Kiſhon, to the lake Semechon.

Ver. 6. Hough their horſes.] Cut their hamſtrings, to render them unfit for ſervice.

Before Chriſt 1450.

8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Iſrael, who ſmote them, and chaſed them unto great Zidon, and unto Miſrephoth-maim, and unto the valley of Mizpeh eaſtward, and they ſmote them, until they left them none remaining.

9 And Joſhua did unto them as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horſes, and burned their chariots with fire.

10 ¶ And Joſhua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and ſmote the king thereof with the ſword: for Hazor before-time was the head of all thoſe kingdoms.

11 And they ſmote all the ſouls that were therein with the edge of the ſword, utterly deſtroying them: there was not any left to breathe; and he burnt Hazor with fire.

12 And all the cities of thoſe kings, and all the kings of them did Joſhua take, and ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and he utterly deſtroyed them, as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded.

13 But as for the cities that ſtood ſtill in their ſtrength, Iſrael burned none of them, ſave Hazor only; that did Joſhua burn.

14 And all the ſpoil of theſe cities, and the cattle, the children of Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves: but every man they ſmote with the edge of the ſword, until they had deſtroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

Before Chriſt 1450.

15 ¶ As the LORD commanded Moſes his ſervant, ſo did Moſes command Joſhua, and ſo did Joſhua: he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

16 So Joſhua took all that land, the hills, and all the ſouth-country, and all the land of Goſhen, and the valley, and the plain, and the mountain of Iſrael, and the valley of the ſame:

17 Even from the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-gad, in the valley of Lebanon, under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and ſmote them, and ſlew them.

18 Joſhua made war a long time with all thoſe kings.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Iſrael, ſave the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon; all other they took in battel.

20 For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they ſhould come againſt Iſrael in battel, that he might deſtroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour, but that he might deſtroy them, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

21 ¶ And at that time came Joſhua and cut off the Anakims from the mountains, From Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Iſrael:

Joſhua

Ver. 8. Great Zidon.] This was a large and famous city, built by the eldeſt ſon of Canaan, from whom it had its name. It lay on the ſea-coaſt in the north-weſt part of Canaan.

Ver. 13. The cities ſtood ſtill in their ſtrength.] Biſhop Patrick takes the meaning of this to be, thoſe cities whoſe walls were not battered down in the taking of them.

Ver. 16. The mountain of Iſrael.] This it is moſt probable was Beth-el, where God appeared to Jacob when he went to Padan-aran, and promiſed to give him this land, Gen. xxviii. 12, 13. Here he dwelt by God's direction, after he returned from ſerving Laban; and God again appeared to him there, renewed his promiſe, and changed his name from Jacob to Iſrael, Gen. xxxv.

Ver. 21. The Anakims.] Theſe were a fierce, cruel, tyrannical, and withal a gigantic people. They had fixed their habitations in the mountains, and fortified themſelves, which probably was the reaſon why Joſhua did not attack them, before he had finiſhed his other conqueſts.

The mountains of Judah.] The mountainous country which fell to the tribe of Judah, together with the three laſt mentioned cities.

The mountains of Iſrael.] The mountainous country in the reſt of the tribes of Iſrael, whither theſe people fled for ſhelter.

Before Christ 1450. Joſhua deſtroyed them utterly with their cities.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Iſrael: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Aſhdod, there remained.

23 So Joſhua took the whole land, according to all that the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, and Joſhua gave it for an inheritance unto Iſrael, according to their diviſions by their tribes. And the land reſted 1445. from war.

CHAP. XII.

1 The two kings whoſe countries Moſes took and diſpoſed of. 7 The one and thirty kings on the other ſide Jordan which Joſhua ſmote.

NOW theſe are the kings of the land, which the children of Iſrael ſmote, and poſſeſſed their land on the other ſide Jordan, toward the riſing of the ſun: from the river Arnon, unto mount Hermon, and 8 In the mountains, and in the valleys, and in the plains, and in the ſprings, and in the wilderneſs, and in the ſouth-country: the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites.

CHAP. XIII.

The bounds of the land not yet conquered.

Before Christ 1445. NOW Joſhua was old and ſtricken in years; and the LORD ſaid unto him, Thou art old and ſtricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land to be poſſeſſed.

2 This is the land that yet remaineth: all the borders of the Philiſtines, and all Geſhuri.

3 From Sihor, which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite: five lords of the Philiſtines; the Gazathites, and the Aſhdothites, the Eſhkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; alſo the Avites.

4 From

Ver. 17. Tappuah.] A city in the tribe of Benjamin.

Hepher.] Hepher was in the tribe of Zebulun; the land of Hepher is mentioned, 1 Kings iv. 10.

Ver. 18. Aphek.] There were two cities of the ſame name, one in the tribe of Judah, the other in that of Aſher; but which is here meant, is not determined.

Laſharon.] This ſeems to be the Sharon ſo famous for its pleaſant and fruitful country, Iſaiah xxxiii. 9. and xxxv. 2. It was ſituated near Lydda, Acts ix. 35.

Ver. 21. Taanach.] This city ſtood on the borders of Zebulun, in the tribe of Manaſſeh.

Megiddo.] This city likewiſe fell to the tribe of Manaſſeh, and was ſituated near the river Kiſhon; but the Canaanites were not expelled from it. Judg. i. 27.

Ver. 22. Kadeſh.] This city was in the tribe of Naphtali.

Jockneam of Carmel.] Jockneam was in the tribe of Benjamin, ſituated at the foot of mount Carmel, near the river Belus. It was one of the Levitical cities.

Ver. 23. Dor, in the coaſt of Dor.] This city ſtood in the tribe of Manaſſeh, and had a large territory belonging to it of the ſame name. It was a royal city, one of the oldeſt in Phœnicia, and ſo ſtrong, that the Iſraelites could not take it, or at leaſt keep poſſeſſion of it, when it fell to the portion of Manaſſeh.

The king of the nations of Gilgal.] This is not that Gilgal where Joſhua encamped when he came over Jordan, there being no city in that place, nor any king, except the king of Jericho. St. Jerom tells us, that in his time, there was a place called Gilgal, about ſix miles from Antipatris, ſituated near the ſea, and not far from Joppa. Hither, in all probability, the merchants reſorted from ſeveral countries, and thence the ruler was called, the king of the nations of Gilgal.

Ver. 4. Tirzah.] It ſeems to have been in the tribe of Ephraim; for Jeroboam, who was of that tribe, made it the royal ſeat, till the city of Samaria was built.

All the kings thirty and one] It is ſurpriſing, that in ſo ſmall a country, there ſhould have been ſo many kings: but it is to be conſidered, they were only petty princes, or lords of cities, having a few villages depending on them; the inhabitants of which were their tenants. The king of Beth-el and Ai, when joined together, had no more than 12,000 ſubjects. Kingdoms were, in thoſe early ages, very ſmall. Cæſar, in his commentaries, ſpeaks of four kings in a ſmall part of Great Britain, viz. in the county of Kent.

NOTES on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. Now Joſhua was old.] He is ſuppoſed to have been near an hundred years old.

Ver. 2. Geſhuri.] A city and country in the north-eaſt, not far from Hermon; it fell to Manaſſeh.

Ver. 3. Sihor, which is before Egypt.] Sihor was a little ſtream from one of the branches of the Nile, by which Paleſtine was bounded on that ſide. Dr. Shaw ſays, Sihor is the ſame with the Nile, and may properly be ſaid to be before Egypt, or before thouintereſt into it.

Ekron.] This was a famous city of the Philiſtines, where Beel-zebub was worſhipped.

Which is counted to the Canaanite.] The Philiſtines were not originally the inhabitants of this country, which belonged to the offspring of Canaan, the youngeſt ſon of Ham; whereas the Philiſtines were deſcended from Miſraim his ſecond ſon, who expelled the Avites out of this country; except Alſo the Avites.] A remnant of thoſe ancient inhabitants who were mixed with the Hivites; but their name is very different in the Hebrew. They inhabited likewiſe different parts of the country; the Hivites dwelling in Hermon in the north, the Avites in the weſt.

Before Chriſt 1445.

4 From the ſouth, all the land of the Canaanites, and Mearah that is beſide the Sidonians, unto Aphek, to the borders of the Amorites:

5 And the land of the Giblites, and all Lebanon toward the ſun-riſing, from Baalgad under mount Hermon, unto the entering into Hamath.

6 All the inhabitants of the hill-conutry from Lebanon unto Miſrephoth-maim, and all the Sidonians, them will I drive out from before the children of Iſrael: only divide thou it by lot unto the Iſraelites for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

7 Now therefore, divide this land for and inheritance unto the nine tribes, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh,

8 With whom the Reubenites, and the Gadites have received their inheritance, which Moſes gave them, beyond Jordan eaſtward, even as Moſes the ſervant of the Lᴏʀᴅ gave them:

9 From Aroer, that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midſt of the river, and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon:

10 And all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heſhbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon:

11 And Gilead, and the border of the Geſhurites, and Maachathies, and all mount Hermon, and all Baſhan unto Salcah:

12 All the kingdom of Og in Baſhan, which reigned in Aſhtaroth and in Edrei, who remained of the remnant of the giants: for theſe did Moſes ſmite, and caſt them out.

Before Chriſt 1445.

13 Nevertheleſs, the children of Iſrael expelled not the Geſhurites, nor the Maachathites: but the Geſhurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Iſraelites until this day.

14 Only unto the tribe of Levi he gave none inheritance; the ſacrifices of the Lᴏʀᴅ God of Iſrael made by fire, are their inheritance, as he ſaid unto them.

15 ¶ And Moſes gave unto the tribe of the children of Reuben, inheritance according to their families:

16 And their coaſt was from Aroer that is on the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midſt of the river, and all the plain by Medeba:

17 Heſhbon and all her cities that are in the plain; Dibon, and Bamoth-baal, and Beth-baal-meon,

Ver. 6. Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh the Kenezite.] It is difficult to determine why he is called the Kenezite; perhaps becauſe ſeveral of his anceſtors were called Kener. chap. xv. 17. and Judg. i. 13.

7 Forty years old was I when Moſes the ſervant of the Lord ſent me from Kadaſh-barnea, to eſpy out the land; and I brought him word again, as it was in mine heart.

8 Nevertheleſs, my brethren that went up with me, made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly followed the Lord my God.

9 And Moſes ſware on that day, ſaying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden, ſhall be thine inheritance, and thy children for ever: becauſe thou haſt wholly followed the Lord my God.

10 And now behold, the Lord hath kept me alive as he ſaid, theſe forty and five years, even ſince the Lord ſpake this word unto Moſes, while the children of Iſrael wandered in the wilderneſs: and now lo, I am this day fourſcore and five years old.

11 As yet I am as ſtrong this day, as I was in the day that Moſes ſent me: as my ſtrength was then, even ſo is my ſtrength now, for war, both to go out and to come in.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the Lord ſpake in that day, (for thou heardeſt in that day how the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced) if ſo be the Lord will be with me, then I ſhall be able to drive them out, as the Lord ſaid.

There is mention likewiſe made of this ſtone, chap. xviii. 17.

Hinnom, in all probability, was ſome eminent perſon in ancient times, who was the owner of this valley; for it is ſometimes called the valley of the children of Hinnom, which is an indication his family was planted there.

Ver. 12. This is the coaſt of the children of Judah.] The meaning of the text is, that their lot was bounded in this manner, in the original draught of it. This being afterwards too large, was reduced into a narrow compaſs, that ſo more room might be made for the tribe of Simeon, who had part of this lot given them. Some places were likewiſe taken out of it, and beſtowed on the tribes of Benjamin and Dan.

Ver. 62. The city of Salt.] Several interpreters are of opinion, that this was the ſame with Zoar, the little city to which Lot retired at the time of the deſtruction of Sodom. It was called the city of Salt, either from its vicinity to the Salt-ſea, or becauſe Lot's wife was, in that neighbourhood, converted into a pillar of ſalt.

Ver. 1. The lot of the children of Joſeph.] That is of Ephraim, and that half of the tribe of Manaſſeh, which was yet unprovided for. One cannot but obſerve the providence of God, in bringing up their lot next to Judah's: for, as Judah had the prerogative of being made chief of all Jacob's children, ſo Joſeph had the privilege of the firſt-born, transferred to his family: and therefore they are conſidered before any of the other tribes, except that of Judah, of which the Meſſiah was to deſcend.

congregation there, and the land was ſubdued before them.

2 And there remained among the children of Iſrael ſeven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joſhua ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, How long are you ſlack to go to poſſeſs the land which the Lord God of your fathers hath given you?

4 Give out from among you three men, for each tribe: and I will ſend them, and they ſhall riſe, and go through the land, and deſcribe it according to the inheritance of them, and they ſhall come again to me.

5 And they ſhall divide it into ſeven parts: Judah ſhall abide in their coaſt on the ſouth, and the houſe of Joſeph ſhall abide in their coaſts on the north.

6 Ye ſhall therefore deſcribe the land into ſeven parts, and bring the deſcription hither to me, that I may caſt lots for you here before the Lord our God.

7 But the Levites have no part among you, for the prieſthood of the Lord is their inheritance: and Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the eaſt, which Moſes the ſervant of the Lord gave them.

Before Christ 1444.

8 ¶ And the men aroſe, and went away: and Joſhua charged them that went to deſcribe the land, ſaying, Go, and walk through the land, and deſcribe it, and come again to me, that I may here caſt lots for you before the Lord in Shiloh.

9 And the men went, and paſſed through the land, and deſcribed it by cities, into ſeven parts, in a book, and came again to Joſhua to the hoſt at Shiloh.

10 ¶ And Joſhua caſt lots for them in Shiloh, before the Lord: and there Joſhua divided the land unto the children of Iſrael according to their diviſions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coaſt of their lot came forth between the children of Judah, and the children of Joſeph.

12 And their border on the north ſide was from Jordan, and the border went up to the ſide of Jericho, on the north ſide, and went up through the mountains weſtward, and the goings out thereof were at the wilderneſs of Beth-aven.

13 And the border went over from thence toward Luz, to the ſide of Luz (which is Beth-el) ſouthward, and the

---

Ver. 2. Had not yet received their inheritance.] No lot had been drawn for ſeven tribes in Gilgal. The reaſon perhaps was, becauſe the tribes of the houſe of Joſeph, were not ſatisfied with the diviſion begun there; which induced Joſhua to ſtop his proceedings, till ſuch time as he had made a more accurate ſurvey of the whole country, in order to which God removed him to Shiloh, which being ſituated near the middle of the country, the taſk might be more eaſily performed.

Ver. 5. Judah ſhall abide in their coaſt on the ſouth, and the houſe of Joſeph—on the north.] The lot of Judah ſoutherly, and that of Ephraim and Manaſſeh north, (in reſpect of the former) were not to be altered; thoſe tribes were to remain undiſturbed in their poſſeſſions; unleſs it ſhould be found they had more than they needed, and others leſs. This was the reaſon for making a new, and more exact ſurvey of the country than had been before made, that ſo there might be an allotment to every ones ſatisfaction. Accordingly the tribe of Judah (by conſent no doubt) parted with with ſome of their portion to the Simeonites and Danites.

Ver. 10. Joſhua caſt lots for them, &c.] The very ſoil and ſituation of the countries falling to each tribe, came to paſs in this diviſion by lot, exactly as Jacob and Moſes foretold. To Judah fell a country, abounding in vines and paſture grounds, Gen. xlix. 11. To Aſher, one plenteous in oil, iron, and braſs, Deut. xxxiii. 21. To Naphtali, one extending from weſt to ſouth of Judea. ibid. To Benjamin, one in which the temple was afterwards built. Zebulun and Iſſachar, had plenty of ſea-ports. Ephraim and Manaſſeh, a land ſtored with precious fruits. Simeon and Levi, had no countries in particular, the former having a portion with Judah, and the latter was interſperſed among the ſeveral tribes. It is evident therefore, there was a divine inſpiration in theſe predictions, as well as a divine direction in the lots.

Ver. 11. The lot of the children of Benjamin came up.] So God was pleaſed to order it, that Benjamin ſhould have the firſt lot of theſe ſeven, next to the tribe of Joſeph; they two being the only ſons of Rachel, Jacob's beloved wife.

14 And the border was drawn thence, and compaſſed the corner of the ſea ſouthward, from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon ſouthward: and the goings out thereof were at Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim) a city of the children of Judah: this was the weſt-quarter.

15 And the ſouth-quarter was from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the weſt, and went out to the well of waters of Nephtoah.

16 And the border came down to the end of the mountain that lieth before the valley of the ſons of Hinnom, and which is in the valley of the giants on the north, and deſcended to the valley of Hinnom, to the ſide of Jebuſi on the ſouth, and deſcended to En-rogel,

18 And paſſed along toward the ſide over againſt Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah.

19 And the border paſſed along to the ſide of Beth-hoglah northward: and the out-goings of the border were at the north-bay of the ſalt-ſea at the ſouth-end of Jordan: This was the ſouth-coaſt.

20 And Jordan was the border of it on the eaſt-ſide. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coaſts thereof round about, according to their families.

21 Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz,

22 And Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim, and Beth-el,

23 And Avim, and Parah, and Ophrah,

24 And Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba: twelve cities with their villages.

Ver. 14. Compaſſed the corner of the ſea ſouthward.] It is very certain this border did not compaſs any corner of the Mediterranean, nor indeed come near it; and therefore Biſhop Patrick underſtands the word tranſlated Corner, to ſignify the ſide of the ſea; as if it had been ſaid, that it ran along in a parallel line with the ſea. Agreeable to which, the Vulgate has it over againſt the ſea, and the LXX. is to the ſame purpoſe. 4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-ſuſah,

10 ¶ And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun, according to their families: and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid.

11 And their border went up toward the ſea, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbaſheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam, as ſuperfluous: but this repetition ſeems to imply, that notwithſtanding their inheritance was included in that of Judah, this tribe had another ſhare by lot, beſides the cities here ſpoken of. Hence one would imagine that the tribe of Simeon ſhould partake of the fate of Judah and Benjamin, and be carried away captive with them: but the tribes that revolted are always called the Ten tribes.

Ver. 9. The children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.] The original is here very juſtly, and ſignificantly tranſlated within, though it ſignifies alſo in the midſt; which would have been here an improper ſenſe, the lot of Simeon not lying in the midſt, but in the ſkirts of the country of Judah.

Ver. 15 Beth-lehem:] Not in the tribe of Judah.

Ver. 16 Theſe cities with their villages.] That is, theſe were the bounds of their inheritance; but all the cities belonging to it are not here ſet down; and indeed twelve cities do not ſeem ſufficient for 60,000 men, therefore they were only the principal, and all, perhaps, that the meaſurers of the land had noted in their book.

49 ¶ When they had made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coaſts, the children of Iſrael gave an inheritance to Joſhua the ſon of Nun, among them:

50 According to the word of the Lord, they gave him the city which he aſked, even Timnath-ſerah in mount Ephraim:

51 Theſe are the inheritances which Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael, divided for an inheritance by lot, in Shiloh before the Lord at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: ſo they made an end of dividing the country.

1 God commandeth, 7 and the children of Iſrael appoint the ſix cities of refuge.

3 That the ſlayer that killeth any perſon unawares and unwittingly, may flee thither: and they ſhall be your refuge from the avenger of blood.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of thoſe cities, ſhall ſtand at the entering of the gate of the city, and ſhall declare his cauſe in the ears of the elders of that city, they ſhall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place that he may dwell among them.

Before Chriſt 1444.

5 And if the avenger of blood purſue after him, then they ſhall not deliver the ſlayer up into his hand: becauſe he ſmote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not beforetime.

6 And he ſhall dwell in that city, until he ſtand before the congregation for judgment, and until the death of the high prieſt that ſhall be in thoſe days: then ſhall the ſlayer return and come unto his own city, and unto his own houſe, unto the city from whence he fled.

7 ¶ And they appointed Kedeſh in Galilee in mount Naphtali, and Shechem in mount Ephraim, and Kirjath-arba (which is Hebron) in the mountain of Judah.

8 And on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho eaſtward, they aſſigned Bezer in the wilderneſs upon the plain, out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Baſhan out of the tribe of Manaſſeh.

9 Theſe were the cities appointed for all the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them, that whoſoever killeth any perſon at unawares, might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he ſtood before the congregation.

5 And the reſt of the children of Kohath had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, ten cities.

6 And the children of Gerſhon had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Iſſachar, and out of the tribe of Aſher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh in Baſhan, thirteen cities.

THEN Joſhua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh,

2 And ſaid unto them, Ye have kept all that Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you.

3 Ye have not left your brethren theſe many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God.

4 And now the LORD your God hath given reſt unto your brethren, as he promiſed them: therefore now return ye, and get ye unto your tents, and unto the land of your poſſeſſion, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave you on the other ſide Jordan.

5 But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD charged you, to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to ſerve him with all your heart and with all your ſoul.

Ver. 41. Forty and eight cities.] Thus God ordered by Moſes; and it is a demonſtration, that Moſes was divinely inſpired, to make ſuch an appointment, before they knew whether, without ſtraitening the other tribes, they could afford the Levites ſo many cities.

Ver. 43. The Lord gave unto Iſrael all the land.] He gave them a right to the whole country, and he gave them the actual poſſeſſion of the greateſt part of it; he have them likewiſe power to ſubdue the reſt (if they continued obedient) as ſoon as it was convenient, which was exactly according to his promiſe and oath made to them; for they not being numerous enough to people the whole country at their firſt coming into it, he never intended to expel all the old inhabitants at once, but by degrees, as we expreſsly read, Exod. xxiii. 29, 30.

NOTES on Chap. XXII.

Ver. 1. Joſhua called the Reubenites, &c.] The war being ended, he called thoſe tribes to him, who had their poſſeſſions on the other ſide of Jordan, but had accompanied their brethren as auxiliaries; therefore he gave them an honourable diſmiſſion, commanding their obedience to God, their fidelity, their conſtancy, patience, and love to their brethren.

Ver. 4. Therefore now return.] Joſephus, in the ſpeech which he introduces Joſhua making to the two tribes and an half at their parting, concludes with theſe words: “ Let no diſtance of place, I pray ye, ſet limits to our “ friendſhip; the interpoſition of rivers muſt never di- “ vide our affections, for on which bank ſoever, we are “ all Hebrews ſtill; Abraham was the common father “ of us all, let our abode be where it will, it was from “ one and the ſame God, that all our forefathers receiv- “ ed their being, and that God we are all to worſhip, “ according to the ordinances and inſtitutions left us by “ Moſes; ſo long as we ſtand firm to that way of reli- “ gion, we may be ſure of the favour and protection of “ that God for our comfort; but whenever you apoſta- “ tize into an hankering after ſtrange gods, the God of “ your fathers will caſt you off.”

Get ye to your tents.] Joſhua calls their houſes tents, that being a common word uſed for a long time in the wilderneſs, to ſignify an habitation.

Before Christ 1444.

6 So Joſhua bleſſed them, and ſent them away: and they went unto their tents.

7 ¶ Now to the one half of the tribe of Manaſſeh Moſes had given poſſeſſion in Baſhan: but unto the other half thereof gave Joſhua among their brethren on this ſide Jordan weſtward. And when Joſhua ſent them away alſo to their tents, then he bleſſed them,

8 And he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with ſilver, and with gold, and with braſs, and with iron, and with very much raiment: divide the ſpoil of your enemies with your brethren.

9 ¶ And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, returned, and departed from the children of Iſrael out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto the country of Gilead, to the land of their poſſeſſion, whereof they were poſſeſſed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

10 ¶ And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh built there an altar by Jordan, a great altar to ſee to.

11 ¶ And the children of Iſrael heard ſay, Behold, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, have built an altar over againſt the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the paſſage of the children of Iſrael.

Before Christ 1444.

12 And when the children of Iſrael heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael gathered themſelves together at Shiloh, to go up to war againſt them.

13 And the children of Iſrael ſent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half-tribe of Manaſſeh into the land of Gilead, Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt,

14 And with him ten princes, of each chief houſe a prince, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, and each one was an head of the houſe of their fathers, among the thouſands of Iſrael.

15 And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh unto the land of Gilead, and they ſpake with them, ſaying, 16 Thus ſaith the whole congregation of the LORD, What treſpaſs is this that ye have committed againſt the God of Iſrael, to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel this day againſt the LORD?

17 Is the iniquity of Peor too little for

Ver. 10. Built there an altar.] Not for any religious uſe, but for a memorial to ſucceeding generations, that though they were parted by the river, they were of the ſame extract and religion. Though it is ſaid, in the beginning of the verſe, that when they came unto the borders of Jordan, &c. yet the word, tranſlated borders, ſignifies a certain place near to, which may as well be underſtood to be one ſide, as the other of Jordan; and that it was on the eaſt, reaſon ſuggeſts, and the verſe following tells us, that they had built an altar over againſt the land of Canaan.

A great altar to ſee to.] A large, an eminent altar; ſuch as was conſpicuous from afar.

Ver. 12. The children of Iſrael gathered themſelves together.] Being either miſinformed of, or miſapprehending their intent, they fell into a violent rage againſt the two tribes and an half, as apoſtates from God's true religion, and took up arms in vindication of the worſhip and religion of their anceſtors, in order to avenge the cauſe of God upon the principal authors of the defection.

Ver. 13. The children of Iſrael ſent unto the children of Reuben.] To learn the reaſon of their building an altar. They did not ſuffer their zeal to tranſport them ſo far, as to fall upon their brethren, without being firſt convinced of the truth of their apoſtacy.

18 But that ye muſt turn away this day from following the LORD? and it will be, ſeeing ye rebel to day againſt the LORD, that to morrow he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Iſrael.

19 Notwithſtanding if the land of your poſſeſſion be unclean, then paſs ye over unto the land of the poſſeſſion of the LORD, wherein the LORDS tabernacle dwelleth, and take poſſeſſion among us: but rebel not againſt the LORD, nor rebel againſt us, in building you an altar, beſide the altar of the LORD our God.

20 Did not Achan the ſon of Zerah commit a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Iſrael? and that man periſhed not alone in his iniquity.

21 ¶ Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, anſwered, and ſaid unto the heads of the thouſands of Iſrael,

22 The LORD God of gods, the LORD God of gods, he knoweth, and Iſrael he ſhall know, if it be in rebellion, or if in tranſgreſſion againſt the LORD, (ſave us not this day)

23 That we have built us an altar to turn from following the LORD, or if to offer thereon burnt-offering, or meat-offering, or if to offer peace-offerings thereon, let the LORD himſelf require it;

Before Christ 1444.

24 And if we have not rather done it for fear of this thing, ſaying, In time to come your children might ſpeak unto our children, ſaying, What have you to do with the LORD God of Iſrael?

25 For the LORD hath made Jordan a border between us and you; ye children of Reuben, and children of Gad, ye have no part in the LORD: ſo ſhall your children make our children ceaſe from fearing the LORD.

26 Therefore we ſaid, Let us now prepare to build us an altar, not for burnt-offering, nor for ſacrifice:

27 But that it may be a witneſs between us and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the ſervice of the LORD before him with our burnt-offerings, and with our ſacrifices, and with our peace-offerings, that your children may not ſay to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD.

28 Therefore ſaid we, that it ſhall be, when they ſhould ſo ſay to us, or to our generations in time to come, that we may ſay again, Behold the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made not for burnt-offerings, nor for ſacrifices, but it is a witneſs between us and you.

Ver. 19. The land of your poſſeſſion be unclean.] They imagined the Reubenites, &c. might think their land leſs holy for want of an altar, and ſuch a token of the divine preſence as there was in the tabernacle; for an opinion univerſally prevailed among the ancients, that thoſe countries, wherein was no place ſet apart for God's worſhip, were unhallowed and unclean.

Ver. 22. The Lord God of gods, the Lord God of gods.] This repetition is intended to ſignify, that they owned no other God but him, whom their fore-fathers worſhiped, by what name ſoever he was called.

30 ¶ And when Phinehas the prieſt, and the princes of the congregation, and heads of the thouſands of Iſrael which were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the children of Manaſſeh ſpake, it pleaſed them.

31 And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, ſaid unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manaſſeh, This day we perceive that the LORD is among us, becauſe ye have not committed this treſpaſs againſt the LORD: now ye have delivered the children of Iſrael out of the hand of the LORD.

32 ¶ And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Iſrael, and brought them word again.

33 And the thing pleaſed the children of Iſrael, and the children of Iſrael bleſſed God, and did not intend to go up againſt them in battel, to deſtroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

NOTES on Chap. XXIII.

Ver. 1. A long time after.] Joſhua had a great many years of leiſure after he had finiſhed the diviſion of the land, which he very probably employed in writing an account of the death and burial of Moſes; continuing a narrative of things tranſacted under his own adminiſtration.

Ver. 2. Joſhua called for all Iſrael.] Finding the time of his death approaching, he called a general aſſembly of the princes and magiſtrates, and as many of the common people as could be got together, and in a very tender and affectionate manner exhorted them, in gratitude to the great diſpoſer of all things, to a faithful obſervance of of his laws, promiſing them all the happineſs they could wiſh in caſe they obeyed the Lord, and denouncing the greateſt evils if they turned their backs to his precepts.

I am old and ſtricken in age.] He inſinuates to them, that this in all probability, would be the laſt time he ſhould be able to ſpeak to them; in order to engage their attention more perfectly, to what he was going to ſay, he was at this time in the hundred and tenth year of his age.

5 And the LORD your God, he ſhall expel them from before you, and drive them from out of your ſight, and ye ſhall poſſeſs their land, as the LORD your God hath promiſed unto you.

6 Be ye therefore very courageous to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moſes, that ye turn not aſide therefrom, to the right hand or to the left,

7 That ye come not among theſe nations, theſe that remain amongſt you, neither make mention of the name of their gods, nor cauſe to ſwear by them, neither ſerve them, nor bow yourſelves unto them:

8 But cleave unto the LORD your God, as ye have done unto this day.

9 For the LORD hath driven out from before you, great nations and ſtrong: but as for you, no man hath been able to ſtand before you unto this day.

10 One man of you ſhall chaſe a thouſand: for the LORD your God, he it is that fighteth for you, as he hath promiſed you.

11 Take good heed therefore unto your ſelves, that ye love the LORD your God.

12 Elſe if ye do in any wiſe go back, and cleave unto the remnant of theſe nations, even theſe that remain among you, and ſhall make marriages with them, and go in unto them, and they to you:

13 Know for a certainty, that the LORD your God will no more drive out any of theſe nations from before you; but they ſhall be ſnares and traps unto you, and ſcourges in your ſides, and thorns in your eyes, until ye periſh from off this good land which the LORD your God hath given you. Before Chriſt 1427.

14 And behold, this day I am going the way of all the earth, and ye know in all your hearts and in all your ſouls, that not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the LORD your God ſpake concerning you; all are come to paſs unto you, and not one thing hath failed thereof.

15 Therefore it ſhall come to paſs, that as all good things are come upon you, which the LORD your God promiſed you: ſo ſhall the LORD bring upon you all the evil things, until he have deſtroyed you from off this good land which the LORD your God hath given you.

16 When ye have tranſgreſſed the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and ſerved other gods, and bowed yourſelves to them: then ſhall the anger of the LORD be kindled againſt you, and ye ſhall periſh quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

Notes on Chap. XXIV.

Ver. 1. And Joſhua gathered all the tribes, &c,] It is likely that Joſhua, living longer than he expected, when he made the foregoing ſpeech to them, called the people together once more, to give them good advice before he died.

for the elders of Iſrael, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and they preſented themſelves before God.

2 And Joſhua ſaid unto all the people, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, Your fathers dwelt on the other ſide of the flood in old time, even Terah the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and they ſerved other gods.

3 And I took your father Abraham from the other ſide of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his ſeed, and gave him Iſaac.

4 And I gave unto Iſaac, Jacob and Eſau: and I gave unto Eſau mount Seir, to poſſeſs it; but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt.

5 I ſent Moſes alſo and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt, according to that which I did amongſt them: and afterward I brought you out.

6 And I brought your fathers out of Egypt: and you came unto the ſea, and the Egyptians purſued after your fathers with chariots and horſemen unto the Red ſea.

7 And when they cried unto the Lord, he put darkneſs between you and the Egyptians, and brought the ſea upon them, and covered them; and your eyes have ſeen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the wilderneſs a long ſeaſon.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other ſide Jordan; and they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might poſſeſs their land, and I deſtroyed them from before you.

9 Then Balak the ſon of Zippor king of Moab, aroſe and warred againſt Iſrael, and ſent and called Balaam the ſon of Beor to curſe you:

10 But I would not hearken unto Balaam, therefore he bleſſed you ſtill: ſo I delivered you out of his hand.

11 And ye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho: and the men of Jericho fought againſt you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgaſhites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, and I delivered them into your hand.

12 And I ſent the hornet before you, which drave them out from before you, even to the kings of the Amorites: but not with thy ſword, nor with thy bow.

Shechem.] Or, Sychem. It ſtood in a narrow valley, between mount Gerizzim on the ſouth, and Ebal on the north, being built at the foot of the former. It is called Sychar in the New Teſtament, now Naploſa.

They ſerved other gods.] Terah, it is agreed, was an idolater, and lived in a country where idolatry is ſuppoſed to have had its firſt origin; and even Abraham himſelf is thought to have been brought up in the ſame way of worſhip.

Ver. 3. I took your father Abraham from the other ſide of the flood.] From amongſt idolaters. A ſingular obligation this on the Iſraelites to adhere unto God, who had ſingled out the father of their families ſo many ages ſince, to be his worſhipper.

Ver. 4. Went down into Egypt.] Were forced to go down; where they ſuffered a long and cruel bondage, the time being not yet come, when God intended to place the poſterity of Jacob in Canaan.

Ver. 7. Your eyes have ſeen, &c.] He appeals to them for the truth of this, who had ſeen them lie dead upon the ſea-ſhore; the elders to whom he now addreſſed himſelf, being all there, and now men of great dignity, and many of a great age.

Ver. 9. Aroſe and warred againſt Iſrael.] Prepared his forces, intending to drive them from his coaſts.

Ver. 12. I ſent the hornet before you.] See the notes on Exodus xxiii. 27, 28. and Deut. vii. 20.

Before Chriſt 1427.

13 And I have given you a land for which ye did not labour, and cities which ye built not, and ye dwell in them: of the vineyards and olive-yards which ye planted not, do ye eat.

14 Now therefore fear the LORD, and ſerve him in ſincerity and in truth, and put away the gods which your fathers ſerved on the other ſide of the flood, and in Egypt: and ſerve ye the LORD.

15 And if it ſeem evil unto you to ſerve the LORD, chooſe you this day whom you will ſerve, whether the gods which your fathers ſerved, that were on the other ſide of the flood, or the god of the Amorites, in whoſe land ye dwell: but as for me and my houſe, we will ſerve the LORD.

16 And the people anſwered and ſaid, God forbid that we ſhould forſake the LORD, to ſerve other gods.

17 For the LORD our God, he it is that brought us up, and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage, and which did thoſe great ſigns in our ſight, and preſerved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we paſſed.

Before Chriſt 1427.

18 And the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore will we alſo ſerve the LORD, for he is our God.

19 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Ye cannot ſerve the LORD; for he is an holy God: he is a jealous God, he will not forgive your tranſgreſſions, nor your ſins.

20 If ye forſake the LORD, and ſerve ſtrange gods, then he will turn and do you hurt, and conſume you, after that he hath done you good.

21 And the people ſaid unto Joſhua, Nay, but we will ſerve the LORD.

22 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Ye are witneſſes againſt yourſelves, that ye have choſen you the LORD, to ſerve him. And they ſaid, We are witneſſes.

23 Now

Ver. 14. Put away the gods.] See note on verſe 23.

Ver. 15. But as for me and my houſe, &c.] Joſhua here informs the people, that though they ſhould reſolve to rebel againſt the Lord, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt, by his mighty hand, and by his outſtretched arm, with ſigns and wonders, and who had alſo done ſo great things for them, and driven out before them nations far greater and mightier than they, and had given them their land for a poſſeſſion, as he had promiſed to their forefathers Abraham, &c. ſhould they forget theſe things, and follow after other gods, either the gods of the Egyptians, whom they had left, or the gods of the Amorites, in whoſe country they then dwelt; yet he himſelf, nor any of his family, would never forget, or ſerve any other God but the Lord, and ſtrictly adhere to the advice he had given them. A reſolution worthy ſo great a commander, and ſo religious a man; he reſolves for himſelf, to continue all the days of his future life, as he had done in his former, in the ſervice of the Lord his God; and we may reaſonably conclude, that he had ſo well inſtructed his family, that he might very well promiſe they ſhould continue to do the ſame after his deceaſe, and walk on in the paths of the Lord; though the reſt of their brethren ſhould forſake the ways of the Lord, and run after other gods, committing abominations with the nations among whom they dwelt, as we find they ſeveral times did, and were puniſhed for the ſame, and delivered into the hands of their enemies, notwithſtanding their promiſe made to Joſhua, ver. 18, and 21.

Ver. 16. God forbid that we ſhould forſake the Lord, &c.] Far be it from us ever to entertain a thought of abandoning that God to whom we are indebted for our lives, and all the bleſſings we enjoy.

Ver. 19. Ye cannot ſerve the Lord.] An abſurdity this; Joſhua exhorts the people to ſerve the Lord, and, at the ſame time, tells them, they cannot ſerve him. The improper inſertion of one ſmall letter in the Hebrew, makes this contradiction. The genuine reading give this tranſlation; Ye ſhall not ceaſe, or ceaſe not to ſerve the Lord. Or it may, with greater propriety, be taken in this ſenſe; You have ſo ſtrong a propenſity to idolatry, that you will not be able to act conformably to this reſolution, unleſs you employ yourſelves in conſtant meditations upon the power, goodneſs, and mercy of the God of Jacob: and he had a firm perſuaſion that they would fail herein.

Before Christ 1427. 23 Now therefore put away (ſaid he) the ſtrange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the LORD God of Iſrael.

24 And the people ſaid unto Joſhua, The LORD our God will we ſerve, and his voice will we obey.

25 So Joſhua made a covenant with the people that day, and ſet them a ſtatute, and an ordinance in Shechem.

26 ¶ And Joſhua wrote theſe words in the book of the law of God, and took a great ſtone, and ſet it up there under an oak, that was by the ſanctuary of the LORD.

27 And Joſhua ſaid unto all the people, Behold, this ſtone ſhall be a witneſs unto us; for it hath heard all the words of the LORD which he ſpake unto us: it ſhall be therefore a witneſs unto you, leſt ye deny your God.

Before Christ 1427. 28 So Joſhua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that Joſhua the ſon of Nun the ſervant of the LORD died, being an hundred and ten years old.

30 And they buried him in the border 1426. of his inheritance in Timnath-ſerah, which is in mount Ephraim, on the north ſide of the hill of Gaaſh.

31 And Iſrael ſerved the LORD all the days of Joſhua, and all the days of the elders that overlived Joſhua, and which had known all the works of the LORD that he had done for Iſrael.

32 ¶ And the bones of Joſeph, which the children of Iſrael brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in a parcel of ground which Jacob bought of the ſons of Hamor the father of Shechem, for an hundred

Ver. 23. Put away the ſtrange gods that are among you.] Though there was not any idol publickly worſhipped, yet he knew, by the ſpirit of prophecy, that they had their penates, (as the Romans called them) i. e. their houſhold gods, which they worſhipped ſecretly in their cloſets.

Ver. 25. So Joſhua made a covenant with the people, &c.] By this we are to underſtand, that he renewed the ſolemn engagement they had entered into in the time of Moſes.

Ver. 26. He took a great ſtone, and ſet it up there under an oak, that was by the ſanctuary.] The words by the ſanctuary have puzzled commentators. The ark was not preſent; probably therefore, by the ſanctuary, in this place, is meant a proſeucha, or praying place erected there in memory of Jacob, which places were generally ſhaded with trees: or Joſhua took a large ſtone, and ſet it up as a witneſs, under an oak which grew in or upon mount Gerizzim, in or upon the holy place, or mountain; in ſanctuario, in loco ſancto.

Ver. 27. It hath heard all the words.] A bold and very beautiful figure. The ſtone before which the covenant was renewed, and which was ſet up as a witneſs of the promiſes and declarations of the Iſraelites, is ſaid to have heard what was ſpoken!

Ver. 29. Joſhua the ſon of Nun died.] This great man was born in the year of the world 2460. His firſt name was Hoſea, or Oſhea, Numb. xiii. 8. Some think that Moſes changed his name by adding that of God, HOSEA ſignifies a Saviour; JEHOSUA the ſalvation of God, or he will ſave. He was the ſon of Nun, and by the Greeks called Jeſus the ſon of Navè. He is ſaid to be the ſervant of Moſes, by reaſon that he devoted himſelf to his ſervice. Joſephus gives us this character of him, "That he was a man of political prudence, and endued alſo with a ſingular felicity of popular eloquence in expreſſing his thoughts; brave and indefatigable in war, and equally juſt and dexterous in peace; in ſhort, that he was qualified for all great purpoſes." He died at the age of an hundred and ten years, in the year of the world, 2570.

Ver. 32. The bones of Joſeph—buried they in Sechem.] This might be one occaſion for gathering the great aſſembly together, that they might the more ſolemnly depoſit the bones of that eminent perſon, in the portion of land given him by his father Jacob, Gen. xlviii. 22. and which they thought more proper than the cave of Machpelah. It appears too from Joſephus, (and which St. Stephen confirms Acts. vii. 16.) that the bodies of the other ſons of Jacob, from whom the twelve tribes deſcended, were brought into Canaan to be interred; and it is natural to think, that though Joſeph ſurpaſſed them all in dignity, and gave this ſpecial charge concerning his body, yet that every tribe had as great a regard for their progenitor, and would be inclined to do the ſame for their fathers, as Joſeph's deſcendants did for him.

Before Christ 1426. dred pieces of ſilver; and it became the inheritance of the children of Joſeph.

1420. 33 And Eleazar the ſon of Aaron died, and they buried him in a hill that pertained to Phinehas his ſon, which was given him in mount Ephraim. Before Christ 1420.

Ver. 33. Which was given him.] Since no Levite or prieſt was to have any portion in the diviſion of the land, therefore the Jews have a received opinion, that either Eleazar or Phinehas, had this inheritance in right of his wife. But the high-prieſt, however, might have a manſion, and ſome domains allotted him, for the greater dignity, without any great infringement upon the general laws; eſpecially ſeeing this country was near the tabernacle, which was at Shiloh.

It is evident that theſe five laſt verſes were not written by Joſhua. The opinion of the Jews is, that the 29th, 30th, 31ſt, and 32d, verſes, were written by Eleazar, and the 33d, by Phinehas; or elſe that the whole five were added by Samuel. Whoever wrote them, this is no argument that Joſhua did not write the foregoing part of this book, any more than that Moſes did not write the pentateuch, becauſe there is an account of his death and burial given in the concluſion: in ſhort, this book has been imputed to Joſhua by the united ſuffrages of all antiquity, and it is expreſly ſaid, ver. 26. that he wrote theſe words.

The Book of JUDGES.

The ARGUMENT.

This book contains the hiſtory of the people of the Jews in the land of Canaan. It is called Judges, becauſe it principally treats of the great things done under the adminiſtration of many illuſtrious perſons, raiſed up by God on ſpecial occaſions; from the deceaſe of Joſhua, until the days of Eli, who judged, or ruled the children of Iſrael, and delivered them from their oppreſſors. It comprehends about three hundred years.

CHAP. I.

1 The acts of Judah and Simeon, &c.

Before Christ 1425.

NOW after the death of Joſhua, it came to paſs, that the children of Iſrael aſked the LORD, ſaying, Who ſhall go up for us againſt the Canaanites firſt to fight againſt them?

2 And the LORD ſaid, Judah ſhall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

Before Christ 1425.

3 And Judah ſaid unto Simeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight againſt the Canaanites, and I likewiſe will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

4 And Judah went up, and the LORD delivered

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. Now after the death of Joſhua.] After the death of Joſhua, we read of no particular perſon who ſucceeded him in the government; the moſt probable opinion therefore is, that every tribe was governed by their reſpective heads or elders, which form of government ſubſiſted about thirty years.

Aſked the Lord.] As ſeveral of the Canaanitiſh kings remained ſtill unconquered, the Iſraelites unanimouſly reſolved to ſet about their reduction; and accordingly they repaired to the oracle at Shiloh, to aſk directions of God, which tribe ſhould begin the war.

Before Chriſt 1425. delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they ſlew of them in Bezek ten thouſand men.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought againſt him, and they ſlew the Canaanites, and the Perizzites.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled, and they purſued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes.

7 And Adoni-bezek ſaid, Threeſcore and ten kings, having their thumbs and their great toes cut off, gathered their meat under my table: as I have done, ſo God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jeruſalem, and there he died.

8 (Now the children of Judah had fought againſt Jeruſalem, and had taken it, and ſmitten it with the edge of the ſword, and ſet the city on fire.)

9 ¶ And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight againſt the Canaanites that dwelt in the mountain, and in the ſouth, and in the valley.

10 And Judah went againſt the Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron, (now the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba) and they ſlew Sheſhai, and Ahiman, and Talmai. Before Chriſt 1425.

11 And from thence he went againſt the inhabitants of Debir: (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-ſepher)

12 And Caleb ſaid, He that ſmiteth Kirjath-ſepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achſah my daughter to wife. 1444.

13 And Othniel the ſon of Kenaz Calebs younger brother took it: and he gave him Achſah his daughter to wife.

14 And it came to paſs when ſhe came to him, that ſhe moved him to aſk of her father a field: and ſhe lighted from off her aſs; and Caleb ſaid unto her, What wilt thou?

15 And ſhe ſaid unto him, Give me a bleſſing: for thou haſt given me a ſouthland, give me alſo ſprings of water. And Caleb gave her the upper ſprings, and the nether ſprings.

16 ¶ And the children of the Kenite, 1425.
Moſes

Ver. 2. Judah ſhall go up.] That is, ſhall attack the mountainous country, which was in the lot of his inheritance; according to the prophecy of Jacob, who after comparing Judah to a lion's whelp, adds; from the prey my ſon thou art gone up, Gen. xlix. 9.

Ver. 4. Bezek.] A city in the tribe of Judah; not far, ſome think, from Bethlehem.

Ver. 5. Adoni-bezek.] King, or lord of Bezek, as his name imports.

Ver. 6. Cut of his thumbs and his great toes.] The reaſon why they mutilated him thus was. to make him incapable of war any more, being unable to handle arms on account of the loſs of his thumbs; or to run ſwiftly (a notable quality in a warrior in thoſe days) for want of great toes.

Ver. 7. So God hath requited me.] He acknowleges he had inflicted the ſame puniſhment on no leſs than ſeventy (petty) princes, whom he conſtrained like dogs, to gather meat under his table. Some are induced to think from this his acknowlegement of God's juſtice in his puniſhment, and his ſpeaking of God in the ſingular number, and not of Gods, according to the heathen manner, that he was a penitent, and became a convert to Judaiſm; and that this was the reaſon why they ſpared his life.

Ver. 8. Jeruſalem.] Jeruſalem by this appears to have been in the poſſeſſion of the children of Judah. But the ſtrong fortreſs in mount Sion was poſſeſſed by the Jebuſites, who retained it till the days of David.

Ver. 10. The Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron.] This ſhews that the old inhabitants were returned to this place, after it had been taken by Joſhua, Joſh. x. 36.

Sheſhai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.] Three ſons of Anak, whom Caleb is ſaid to have driven from Hebron, Joſh. xv. 14. But hence we learn he did not conquer it, till after the death of Joſhua.

Ver. 11. Debir.] Another city which Joſhua had taken in the beginning of the war; but while he was gone to ſubdue the other parts of the country, was re-inhabited by the Canaanites, and they were not again expelled till after Joſhua's death.

Ver. 12, 13, 14, 15. Caleb ſaid, &c.] See Joſhua xv. 16, &c.

Ver. 16. The Children of the Kenite, Moſes father in law.] It muſt be remembered, that Moſes invited Hobab the ſon of Jethro to accompany him into the land of Canaan. Num. x. 29. and from hence it ſeems very probable that he accepted the invitation.

Before Chriſt 1425.

Moſes father in law, went up out of the city of palm-trees, with the children of Judah into the wilderneſs of Judah, which lieth in the ſouth of Arad, and they went and dwelt among the people.

17 And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they ſlew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly deſtroyed it: (and the name of the city was called Hormah.)

18 Alſo Judah took Gaza with the coaſt thereof, and Aſkkelon with the coaſt thereof, and Ekron with the coaſt thereof.

19 And the Lord was with Judah, and he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain, but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, becauſe they had chariots of iron.

20 And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moſes ſaid: and he expelled thence the three ſons of Anak.

21 And the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebuſites that inhabited Jeruſalem: but the Jebuſites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jeruſalem unto this day.

22 ¶ And the houſe of Joſeph, they alſo went up againſt Beth-el: and the Lord was with them.

Before Chriſt 1425.

23 And the houſe of Joſeph ſent to deſcry Beth-el: (now the name of the city before was Luz)

24 And the ſpies ſaw a man come forth out of the city, and they ſaid unto him, Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and we will ſhew thee mercy.

25 And when he ſhewed them the entrance into the city, they ſmote the city with the edge of the ſword: but they let go the man and all his family.

26 And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz: which is the name thereof, unto this day.

27 ¶ Neither did Manaſſeh drive out the inhabitants of Beth-ſhean and her towns, nor Taanach and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns: but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

28 And it came to paſs when Iſrael was ſtrong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.

29 ¶ Neither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: but

The city of palm-trees.] That is Jericho. They ſeem to have contracted a particular friendſhip with this tribe; ſince they left one of the moſt fertile and delightful ſpots in all Canaan, to ſettle among the families of their favourite tribe.

Ver. 19. But could not drive out the inhabitants, &c.] Dr. Waterland thinks this ſhould be rendered, He proceeded not to drive uot, &c. The Lord had been with Judah in giving him poſſeſſion of the mountainous country, as he promiſed. Joſh. i. 5, 6. But when they were poſſeſſed of their allotted portions, it was probable he ſuſpended his miraculous operations, and ſuffered the Canaanites to dwell among them, that they might not be too ſecure and indolent in their proſperity, but be kept in a continual ſtate of care and vigilance; as knowing that if they grew remiſs, their enemies would immediately attempt the recovery of their former poſſeſſions. And it is plain this was God's purpoſe, from Joſh. xx. 12, 13.

Ver. 24. Shew us the entrance into the city.] They did not enquire the way to the city gate, which was eaſily enough found; but for the weakeſt part, where the walls were moſt out of repair, and they might make an attack with advantage.

Ver. 26. The man went into the land of the Hittites.] probably a colony of that people ſettled in Syria, or Arabia.

Called the name of it Luz.] To preſerve the memory of the place from whence he came.

Ver. 28. They put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.] Here the fountain of all the enſuing evils which befel the Iſraelites began to open; and ſurely they were blameable in diſobeying the divine command, and not making the right uſe of their victories; who either thro' a miſplaced lenity, or covetouſneſs, inſtead of deſtroying them (as they were commanded) ſuffered them to live promiſcuouſly among them, and contented themſelves with making them tributary only.

Ver. 29. Neither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt

Before Chriſt 1425.

but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

30 ¶ Neither did Ephraim drive out the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol: but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributaries.

31 ¶ Neither did Aſher drive out the the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor Achzib, nor Helbah, nor Aphik, nor of Rehob:

32 But the Aſherites dwelt among the Canaanites, and inhabitants of the land: for they did not drive them out.

33 ¶ Neither did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Beth-ſhemeſh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath; but he dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: nevertheleſs, the inhabitants of Beth-ſhemeſh and of Beth-anath became tributaries unto them.

34 And the Amorites forced the children of Dan into the mountain: for they would not ſuffer them to come down to the valley.

35 But the Amorites would dwell in mount Heres in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim: yet the hand of the houſe of Joſeph prevailed, ſo that they became tributaries.

Before Chriſt 1425.

36 And the coaſt of the Amorites was from the going up to Akrabbim, from the rock, and upward.

CHAP. II.

1 An angel rebuketh the people at Bochim. 14 Gods anger and pity towards them. 20 The Canaanites are left to prove Iſrael.

AND the angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim, and ſaid, I made you to go up out of Egypt, and have brought you unto the land which I ſware unto your fathers; and I ſaid, I will never break my covenant with you.

2 And ye ſhall make no league with the inhabitants of this land, you ſhall throw down their altars: but ye have not obeyed my voice; why have ye done this?

3 Wherefore I alſo ſaid, I will not drive them out from before you: but they ſhall be as thorns in your ſides, and their gods ſhall be a ſnare unto you.

4 And it came to paſs, when the angel of the LORD ſpake theſe words unto all the children of Iſrael, that the people lift up their voice, and wept.

5 And they called the name of that place Bochim: and they ſacrificed there unto the LORD.

6 ¶ And when Joſhua had let the people go, the children of Iſrael went every man dwelt in Gezer.] And it is probable, did not ſo much as exact a tribute from them, (nothing of this being here mentioned) but made a covenant of friendſhip with them, as the following words import; which is ſtill an higher crime.

Ver. 30. Nor the inhabitants of Nahalol.] A fault ſtill greater; this city being one of thoſe, that were ſeparated to the Levites: Joſh. xxi. 35.

Ver. 35. The hand of the houſe of Joſeph prevailed.] The Ephraimites, who were near neighbours, came to the aſſiſtance of their brethren, and brought the Amorites ſo much under, that they made the three cities before mentioned pay tribute to the Danites.

Ver. 36 The coaſt of the Amorites was from the going up to Akrabbim, from the rock, and upward.] Thus the Iſraelites ſuffered a great number of the old inhabitants to continue in Cannan; and ſome of them continued there till after our Saviour's time. We find mention of the Gergaſenes, Matt. viii. 28.

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. An angel of the Lord came up from Gilgal.] The Jews are generally of opinion, that by this angel, we are to underſtand a prophet, who was ſent from God as a meſſenger, which the word frequently imports; which meſſenger, they commonly take to have been Phinehas. But no prophet, nor indeed created angel, would have ventured to have uſed ſo bold an expreſſion, I made you to go out of Egypt. Therefore, Chriſtian interpreters have ſufficient reaſon to conclude, that this was the ſon of God, who is frequently ſtiled in ſcripture, the angel of the covenant.

Bochim.] Or, weepers, becauſe of the doleful lamentations of the people; ſome probably from reflecting on their ſins, and others from the dangers that threatened them. See verſes 4 and 5.

7 And the people ſerved the Lord all the days of Joſhua, and all the days of the elders that out-lived Joſhua, who had ſeen all the great works of the Lord, that he did for Iſrael.

8 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of the Lord, died, being an hun-

9 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in Timnath-heres, in the mount of Ephraim, on the north ſide of the hill Gaaſh.

13 And they forſook the Lord, and ſerved Baal and Aſhtaroth.

14 ¶ And the anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael, and he delivered into the hands of ſpoilers that ſpoiled them, and he ſold them into the hands of their enemies round about, ſo that they could not any longer ſtand before their enemies. Before Christ 1406.

15 Whitherſoever they went out, the hand of the Lord was againſt them for evil as the Lord had ſaid, and as the Lo,d had ſworn unto them: and they were greatly diſtreſſed.

16 ¶ Nevertheleſs, the Lord raiſed up judges which delivered them out of the hand of thoſe that ſpoiled them.

17 And yet they would not hearken unto their judges, but they went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themſelves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way, which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the Lord; but they did not ſo.

18 And when the Lord raiſed them up judges, then the Lord was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies, all the days of the judge: (for it repented the Lord, becauſe of their groanings, by reaſon of them that oppreſſed them, and vexed them)

Ver. 11. Served Baalim.] The gods of thoſe nations, whoſe land they poſſeſſed, and who were called by this general name, which ſignifies lords. Their gods were great men deified. Baal (in Chaldee Bel) the king of Babel, next after Nimrod, was the firſt that was deified, and reputed a God after his death; thence they called all other dæmons by the name of Baalim, which being the general name of the gods of Syria, Paleſtine, and the neighbouring nations, there were as many Baal's as nations; a Baal of the Amorites, a Baal of the Sidonians, of the Moabites, Amonites, &c.

rupted themſelves more than their fathers in following other gods, to ſerve them, and to bow down unto them: they ceaſed not from their own doings, nor from their ſtubborn way.

20 ¶ And the anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael; and he ſaid, Becauſe that this people hath tranſgreſſed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice:

21 I alſo will not henceforth drive out any from before them, of the nations which Joſhua left when he died:

22 That through them I may prove Iſrael, whether they will keep the way of the Lord, to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not.

23 Therefore the Lord left thoſe nations, without driving them out haſtily, neither delivered he them into the hand of Joſhua.

CHAP. III.

1 The nations which were left to prove Iſrael. 5 By communion with them they commit idolatry. 8 Othniel delivereth them from Chuſhan-riſhathaim, 12 Ehud from Eglon, 31 Shamgar from the Philiſtines.

NOW theſe are the nations which the Lord left, to prove Iſrael by them, (even as many of Iſrael as had not known all the wars of Canaan:

2 Only that the generations of the children of Iſrael might know to teach them war, at the leaſt ſuch as before knew nothing thereof.)

3 Namely, five lords of the Philiſtines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon, unto the entering in of Hamath.

4 And they were to prove Iſrael by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the Lord, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moſes.

5 ¶ And the children of Iſrael dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebuſites:

6 And they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their ſons, and ſerved their gods.

7 And the children of Iſrael did evil in the ſight of the Lord, and forgat the Lord their God, and ſerved Baalim, and the groves.

8 ¶ Therefore the anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael, and he ſold them into the hand of Chuſhan-riſhathaim king of Meſopotamia: and the children of Iſrael ſerved Chuſhan-riſhathaim eight years.

Notes on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. As had not known all the wars, &c.] Being born ſince the war was ended, and therefore had ſeen none of God's wonderful works, in the conqueſt of the land.

Ver. 2. To teach them war.] This had been a ſufficient reaſon, why theſe nations had been left unſubdued, if there had been no other—that the Iſraelites might not grow ſluggiſh, for want of ſomething to awaken and exerciſe their courage, and to keep up martial diſcipline among them; and alſo that they might, by having powerful enemies ſo near them, conſtantly betake themſelves to God, and depend upon his help and ſuccour.

Ver. 6. They took their daughters to be their wives, &c.] This was contrary to God's expreſs law. Deut vii. 3, 4.

Ver. 7. Served Baalim and the groves.] Some take the groves literally for the trees themſelves, thoſe ſhady places being anciently conſecrated to their heroes, and were ſometimes the places of their ſepulchres, where their manes were ſuppoſed to haunt. Others think, that by groves, are to underſtood the images of their gods in the groves; and it is conjectured, there were ſeveral goddeſſes worſhipped in them, under the name of Aſhtaroth (Mr. Pilkington ſays, the word groves ſhould be here rendered Aſhtaroth) Baalim was the general name for idols of the male kind, and Aſhtaroth for thoſe of the female. It is certain, that theſe deities, whatever they were, were different from each other; for we read, 1 Kings xviii. 19. that the prophets of Baal, and the prophets of the groves, were diſtinct perſons.

Ver. 8. Meſopotamia.] A country ſituated between the rivers Euphrates and Tigris.

Eight years.] How long theſe eight years began after the death of Joſhua is diſputed; but it is certain, it was in

Before Christ 1402. 9 And when the children of Iſrael cried unto the Lord, the Lord raiſed up a deliverer to the children of Iſrael, who 1394. delivered them, even Othniel the ſon of Kenaz, Calebs younger brother.

10 And the ſpirit of the Lord came upon him, and he judged Iſrael, and went out to war; and the Lord delivered Chuſhan-riſhathaim king of Meſopotamia into his hand: and his hand prevailed againſt Chuſhan-riſhathaim.

11 And the land had reſt forty years: and Othniel the ſon of Kenaz died.

12 ¶ And the children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of the Lord: and the Lord ſtrengthened Eglon the king of 1354. Moab againſt Iſrael, becauſe they had done evil in the ſight of the Lord.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of Ammon, and Amelek, and went and ſmote Iſrael, and poſſeſſed the city of palm-trees.

14 So the children of Iſrael ſerved Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years.

1336. 15 But when the children of Iſrael cried unto the Lord, the Lord raiſed them up a deliverer, Ehud the ſon of Gera, a Benjamite, a man left-handed: and by him the children of Iſrael ſent a preſent unto Eglon the king of Moab.

Before Christ 1336. 16 But Ehud made him a dagger (which had two edges) of a cubit length, and he did gird it under his raiment, upon his right thigh.

17 And he brought the preſent unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat man.

18 And when he had made an end to offer the preſent, he ſent away the people that bare the preſent.

19 But he himſelf turned again from the quarries that were by Gilgal, and ſaid, I have a ſecret errand unto thee, O king: who ſaid, Keep ſilence. And all that ſtood by him went out from him.

20 And Ehud came unto him, and he was ſitting in a ſummer-parlour, which he had for himſelf alone: and Ehud ſaid, I have a meſſage from God unto thee. And he aroſe out of his ſeat.

21 And Ehud put forth his left-hand, and took the dagger from his right thigh, and thruſt it into his belly.

22 And the haft alſo went in after the blade: and the fat cloſed upon the blade, ſo that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly, and the dirt came out.

23 Then Ehud went forth through the porch, and ſhut the doors of the parlour upon him, and locked them.

in the next age (which; in ſcripture, ſignifies about three and thirty years) after Joſhua, and the ſurviving elders; during whoſe time, they ſerved God, and lived in freedom.

Ver. 10. The ſpirit of the Lord came upon him.] He had an extraordinary motion from God, to take upon him the government of the people. Joſephus thinks, that God appeared to them, or ſome way revealed his will to them in theſe matters, that they were ſure they acted by his authority.

Ver. 13. The city of palm-trees.] Jericho.

Ver. 14. A man left-handed.] In the ſeptuagint amphoterodexios, which is followed by the vulgar, qui utraque manu pro dextra utebatur, who could uſe both hands, as we do our right. Joſephus will have it who of the two could uſe his left hand beſt.

Ver. 19. The quarries that were in Gilgal.] Some tranſlations render it graven images; which is indeed the meaning of the Hebrew word, in ſeveral places of ſcripture. Perhaps the Moabites might erect their idols here, rather than in any other place, becauſe it had been famous for the preſence of God; and it has been conjectured, that it was this affront offered by the Moabites to Jehovah, that inſpired Ehud with the reſolution of revenging it; and delivering his people from oppreſſion.

Keep ſilence.] Say no more, forbear ſpeaking of it till we are alone.

Ver. 20. Ehud ſaid, I have a meſſage from God to thee, and he aroſe out of his ſeat.] Out of reverence to God, whoſe words, he ſuppoſed, he was to hear. Such was the veneration men formerly paid to whatſoever carried the name and authority of God in it; this ſurely reproaches thoſe, who behave themſelves irreverently in his worſhip and ſervice.

Ver. 22. And the dirt came out.] The Syriac and Arabic verſions ſay, and he went out haſtily. It is not probable Ehud would have ſtaid ſo long to have ſeen, or that the hiſtorian would have recorded ſuch a circumſtance, as the dung's coming out of the wound.

Ver. 23. The porch.] The privy ſtairs.

Before Christ 1336.

24 When he was gone out, his ſervants came; and when they ſaw, that behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they ſaid, Surely he covereth his feet in his ſummer-chamber.

25 And they tarried till they were aſhamed: and behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour, therefore they took a key, and opened them: and behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

26 And Ehud eſcaped while they tarried: and paſſed beyond the quarries, and eſcaped unto Seirath.

27 And it came to paſs when he was come, that he blew a trumpet in the mountain of Ephraim, and the children of Iſrael went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

28 And he ſaid unto them, Follow after me: for the LORD hath delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the fords of Jordan towards Moab, and ſuffered not a man to paſs over.

29 ¶ And they ſlew of Moab at that time about ten thouſand men, all luſty, and all men of valour; and there eſcaped not a man.

Before Christ 1336.

30 So Moab was ſubdued that day under the hand of Iſrael: and the land had reſt fourſcore years.

31 ¶ And after him was Shamgar the ſon of Anath, which ſlew of the Philiſtines ſix hundred men with an ox-goad, and he alſo delivered Iſrael. 1306.

1 Deborah and Barak deliver Iſrael from Jabin and Siſera.

AND the children of Iſrael again did evil in the ſight of the LORD when Ehud was dead. 1316.

2 And the LORD ſold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor; the captain of whoſe hoſt was Siſera, which dwelt in Haroſheth of the Gentiles.

3 And the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD: for he had nine hundred chariots of iron; and twenty years he mightily oppreſſed the children of Iſrael.

4 ¶ And Deborah a propheteſs, the wife of Lapidoth, ſhe judged Iſrael at that time.

5 And

Ver. 24. He covereth his feet.] That is, retired to ſleep, as was uſual in thoſe hot countries, 1 Sam. xxiv. 3.

Ver. 28. Took the fords of Jordan.] That ſo the Moabites, who had ſettled themſelves in that part of Judea, might not retreat into their own country, nor they in Moab come to their aſſiſtance.

Ver. 31. Shamgar.] We are not informed to what tribe he belonged, but it is likely, to one of thoſe who bordered upon the Philliſtines, Judah, Dan, or Ephraim.

With an Ox-goad.] The goads uſed in this country were of an extraordinary ſize. Mr. Maundrell ſays, that he meaſured ſeveral, and found them about eight feet long, and at the larger end, ſix inches in circumference. "They were, adds he, armed at the leſſer end, with a "ſharp prickle, for driving the oxen; and, at the larger "with a ſmall ſpade or paddle of iron, ſtrong enough "for cleanſing the plough, from the clay that encumbered it." The authors of the univerſal hiſtory interpret this paſſage differently; they ſuppoſe, that Shamgar put himſelf at the head of a tumultuary multitude of country people, who were armed in their ruſtic way, with their implements of tillage; and that Shamgar happened to have an ox-goad in his hand, when theſe ſix hundred Philliſtines fell; not that he killed them all himſelf with that weapon.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 2. Jabin king of Canaan that reigned in Hazor.] Jabin, it is likely, was a general name of all the kings of this country, as Pharaoh among the Egyptians; the king of Hazor, whom Joſhua ſlew, Joſhua xi. 1. being of the ſame name.

Ver. 4. Deborah a propheteſs.] The words prophet and propheteſs, are of very ambiguous ſignification in both Teſtaments. Sometimes they denote perſons extraordinarily inſpired by God, and endued with the power of working miracles, and foretelling things to come; and ſometimes they are uſed for perſons endued with ſpecial, tho' not miraculous gifts and graces, for the better underſtanding and explaining the word of God. As therefore we read nothing of any miraculous action that Deborah did, ſhe perhaps was only a woman of eminent holineſs, and prudence, and knowledge of the holy ſcriptures; by which ſhe was ſingularly qualified to judge the people, i. e. to determine cauſes and controverſies among them, according to the word of God.

Before Chriſt 1296.

5 And ſhe dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim: and the children of Iſrael came up to her for judgment.

6 And ſhe ſent and called Barak the ſon of Abinoam, out of Kadeſh-naphtali, and ſaid unto him, Hath not the LORD God of Iſrael commanded, ſaying, Go, and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thouſand men, of the children of Naphtali, and of the children of Zebulun?

7 And I will draw unto thee, to the river Kiſhon, Siſera the captain of Jabins army, with his chariots, and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

8 And Barak ſaid unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go.

9 And ſhe ſaid, I will ſurely go with thee: notwithſtanding the journey that thou takeſt ſhall not be for thine honour; for the LORD ſhall ſell Siſera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah aroſe, and went with Barak to Kedeſh.

10 ¶ And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedeſh, and he went up with ten thouſand men at his feet: and Deborah went up with him.

11 Now Heber the Kenite, which was of the children of Hobab the father in law of Moſes, had ſevered himſelf from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedeſh.

Before Chriſt 1296.

12 And they ſhewed Siſera, that Barak the ſon of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor.

13 And Siſera gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Haroſheth of the Gentiles, unto the river of Kiſhon.

14 And Deborah ſaid unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Siſera into thine hand: is not the LORD gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thouſand men after him.

15 And the LORD diſcomfited Siſera, and all his chariots, and all his hoſt with the edge of the ſword, before Barak; ſo that Siſera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet.

16 But Barak purſued after the chariots, and after the hoſt unto Haroſheth of the Gentiles: and all the hoſt of Siſera fell upon the edge of the ſword, and there was not a man left.

17 Howbeit, Siſera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between

Ver. 5. She dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah.] The ſeptuagint underſtand it, ſhe ſat under the palm-tree, when ſhe adminiſtered judgment; and thence the tree was called by her name.

Ver. 6. Mount Tabor.] Tabor is a very remarkable mountain in Galilee, not far from Kadeſh, in the tribe of Zebulun, and in the confines of Iſſachar and Naphtali. It has its name from its eminence, becauſes it riſes up in the midſt of a wide champaign country, called the valley of Jezreel, or the great plain. Joſephus ſays, that the height of this mountain is thirty ſtadia, or furlongs; and, on the top, there is a beautiful plain, of twenty ſtadia in circumference; by which it is evident, that this mountain was a very commodious place to be the rendezvous of Barak's forces, ſince it ſtood upon the confines of ſo many different tribes, was not acceſſible by the enemies horſes and chariots, and had on the top of it, a ſpacious plain, where he might conveniently marſhal and diſcipline his army.

Ver. 7. I will draw.] Theſe are words of God which Deborah pronounced in his name.

River Kiſhon.] This river has its ſource in mount Tabor, and paſſing along the valley of Jezreel, now called the plain of Eſdraelon, empties itſelf into the Mediterranean ſea.

Ver. 8. If thou wilt go with me.] He perhaps might want her advice in doubtful matters.

Ver. 11. Pitched his tent.] The Kenites lived after the manner of the Midianites (from whom they were deſcended) in tents, and not in houſes.

Before Christ 1296.

Jabin the king of Hazor, and the houſe of Heber the Kenite.

18 ¶ And Jael went out to meet Siſera, and ſaid unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me, fear not: and when he had turned in unto her, into the tent, ſhe covered him with a mantle.

19 And he ſaid unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink, for I am thirſty: and ſhe opened a bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him.

20 Again he ſaid unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it ſhall be when any man doth come and enquire of thee and ſay, Is there any man here? that thou ſhalt ſay, No.

21 Then Jael Hebers wiſe took a nail of the tent, and took an hammer in her hand, and went ſoftly unto him, and ſmote the nail into his temples, and faſtened it into the ground: (for he was faſt aſleep and weary) ſo he died.

22 And behold, as Barak purſued Siſera, Jael came out to meet him, and ſaid unto him, Come, and I will ſhew thee the man whom thou ſeekeſt. And when he came into her tent, behold, Siſera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

Before Christ 1296.

23 So God ſubdued on that day, Jabin the king of Canaan, before the children of Iſrael.

24 And the hand of the children of Iſrael proſpered, and prevailed againſt Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had deſtroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

CHAP. V.

The Song of Deborah and Barak.

THen ſang Deborah, and Barak the ſon of Abinoam, on that day, ſaying,

2 Praiſe ye the LORD for the avenging of Iſrael, when the people willingly offered themſelves.

3 Hear, O ye kings, give ear, O ye princes; I, even I will ſing unto the LORD, I will ſing praiſe to the LORD God of Iſrael.

4 LORD, when thou wenteſt out of Seir, when thou marchedſt out of the field of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, the clouds alſo dropped water.

5 The mountains melted from before the LORD, even that Sinai from before the LORD God of Iſrael.

6 In the days of Shamgar the ſon of Anath, in the days of Jael, the highways were

Ver. 21. A nail of the tent, &c.] The ſeptuagint has it, a pin of the tent, (with which it was faſtened to the ground) and ſmote the pin into his temples, and it went (through his head) into the ground, and he ſtarted, and his eyes turned dark, and he died. A divine power moved her to this, that the prophecy of Deborah, ver. 9. might be fulfilled. Nothing but this authority from God, of which ſhe was certain, could juſtify a fact like this, which was a breach of hoſpitality, attended with other crimes; but not ſo, when God, the Lord of mens lives, ordered her to execute his ſentence upon him.

Notes on Chap. V.

Ver. 1. Then ſang Deborah and Baruk.] Aſſiſted by the elders of Iſrael.

Ver. 2. Praiſe ye the Lord, &c.] The expreſſions of this hymn are ſo majeſtic, and it abounds with ſuch a variety of elegant figures, that it has been ever juſtly admired, and allowed not to be equalled by any of the ancient Greek and Latin poets.

Willingly offered themſelves.] To revenge the wrongs which Iſrael had ſuffered, their hearts being moved thereto by the influence of the divine power.

Ver. 4. Out of Seir—out of the field of Edom.] A repetition; Seir and Edom ſignifies the country of the poſterity of Eſau, who refuſed to give Iſrael a paſſage through their land, as the Lord led them into Canaan.

The earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, &c.] Theſe are poetical expreſſions, and denote the general conſternation in which all thoſe countries were, when they ſaw Sihon king of the Amorites, and Og king of Baſhan, overthrown by the Iſraelites, and utterly deſtroyed.

Ver. 5. The mountains melted.] The inhabitants of the mountains.

Even that Sinai.] Even as Sinai trembled at the giving of the law.

Ver. 6. In the days of Shamgar.] Biſhop Patrick thinks it ſhould be tranſlated, from the days of Shamgar.

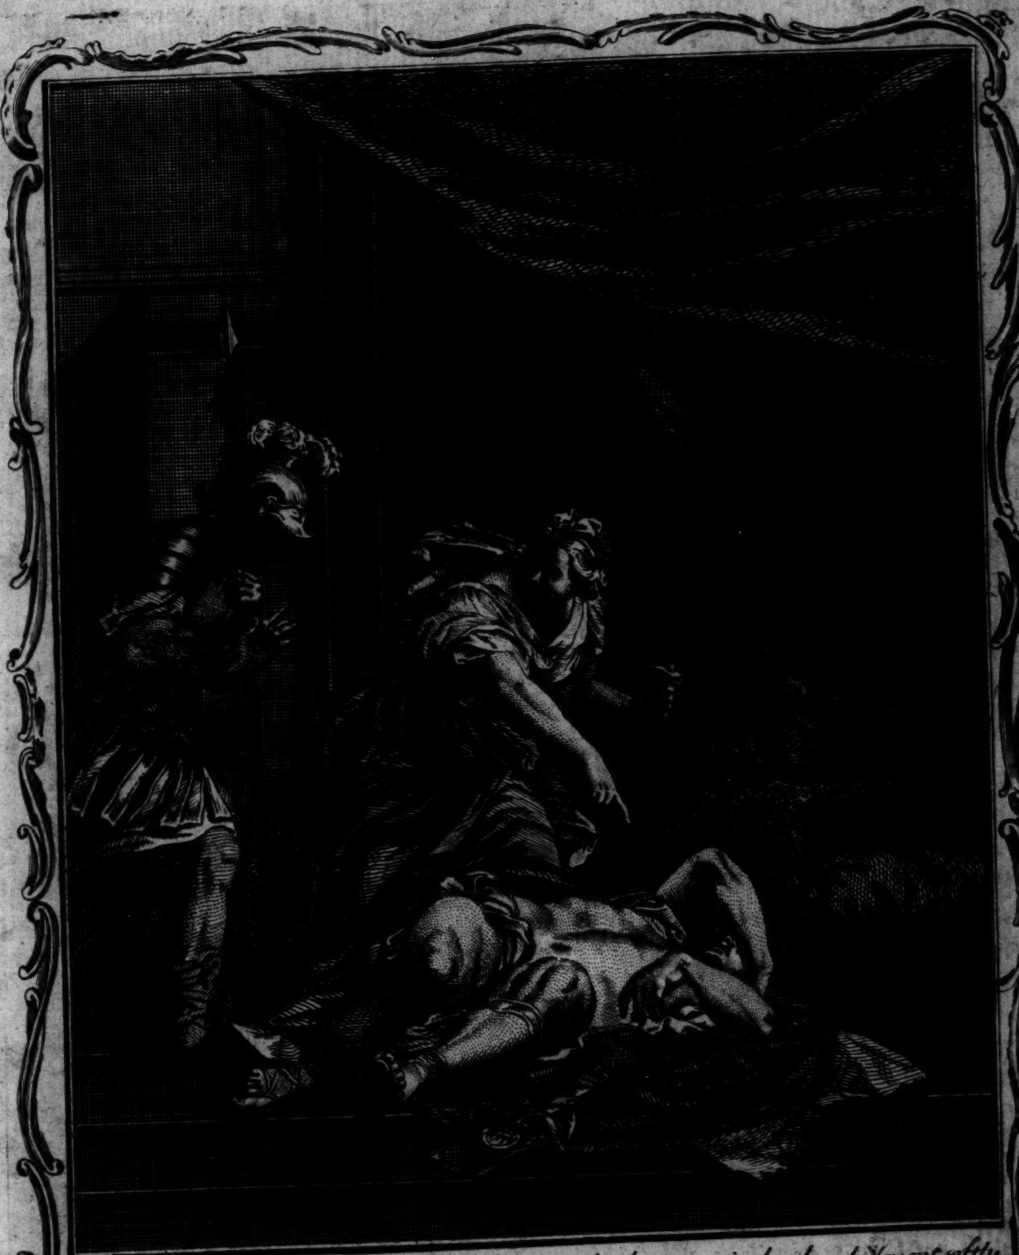
In the days of Jael.] She is here ſpoken of not as a judge; but as a woman of a brave and valiant ſpirit.



Then Jael Hebers wife, took a nail of the tent & took a hammer in her hand, & went softly unto him, and smote the nail into his temples, and fastned it into the ground (for he was fast asleep and weary) so he died. — Judges Chap. IV. Ve. 21.

were unoccupied, and the travellers walked through by-ways.

7 The inhabitants of the villages ceaſed, they ceaſed in Iſrael, until that I Deborah aroſe, that I aroſe a mother in Iſrael.

8 They choſe new gods; then was war in the gates: was there a ſhield or ſpear ſeen among forty thouſand in Iſrael?

9 My heart is toward the governors of Iſrael, that offered themſelves willingly among the people: Bleſs ye the Lord.

10 Speak ye that ride on white aſſes, ye that ſit in judgment, and walk by the way.

11 They that are delivered from the noiſe of archers in the places of drawing water; there ſhall they rehearſe the righteous acts of the Lord, even the righteous acts towards the inhabitants of his villages in Iſrael: then ſhall the people of the Lord go down to the gates.

Before Chriſt 1296.

12 Awake, awake, Deborah: awake, awake, utter a ſong: ariſe, Barak, and lead thy captivity captive, thou ſon of Abinoam.

13 Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people: the Lord made me have dominion over the mighty.

14 Out of Ephraim was there a root of them againſt Amalek; after thee, Benjamin, among thy people: out of Machir came down governors, and out of Zebulun they that handle the pen of the writer.

15 And

The highways were unoccupied.] This is a deſcription of the calamities of war, and of a country ſeized upon, and poſſeſſed by an enemy; the highways occupied by ſoldiers, or infeſted by thieves, all traffic cut off, and none daring to adventure to travel, but only through by-ways.

Ver. 7. The inhabitants of the villages ceaſed.] They forſook the villages, and fled to fortified places for ſafety.

A mother in Iſrael.] Men who govern well, are ſtiled fathers of their country; ſo ſhe properly called herſelf a mother in Iſrael.

Ver. 8. They choſe new gods.] The Iſraelites worſhipped Baalim and Aſhtaroth, which proved the ſource of all their calamities.

Then was war in the gates.] The enemies even ſeized upon, and poſſeſſed their cities and fortreſſes.

Was there a ſpear or ſhield ſeen, &c.] The Canaanites had politically taken care to diſarm them.

Ver. 9. Toward the governors of Iſrael.] The great men in the tribes of Naphtali and Zebulun, who, of their own accord, hazarded their lives among the common people in this ſervice.

Bleſs ye the Lord.] Who inſpired them with ſuch courage.

Ver. 10. Ye that ride on white aſſes.] There being no horſes in Judea, but what were brought from other countries; ſo that every one rode upon aſſes, which, in that country were uſually of a red colour; but perſons of dignity choſe thoſe of a colour inclining to white, which were highly eſteemed on account of their rarity.

Ye that ſit in judgment.] Judges.

And walk by the way.] Merchants, who might now travel ſafely.

Ver. 11. They that are delivered from the noiſe of archers, in the places of drawing water.] The ſhepherds are likewiſe called upon to praiſe the Lord, being delivered from the enemies archers, who privily lurked in the adjacent woods and thickets, ſhot their arrows at them; but now they might tend their flocks ſecure.

Go down to the gates.] That is, to the gates of the cities, where judgment was now adminiſtered.

Ver. 12. Awake Deborah.] She next excites herſelf to praiſe and thankſgiving.

Lead thy captivity captive.] She calls upon Barak to carry his principal captives and ſpoils in triumph to the houſe of God. However, ſhe did not mean merely a ſecular pompous ſhow. The Romans themſelves, in their triumphs, marched to the capital, and there offered ſacrifice to Jupiter.

Ver. 13. Him that remaineth, &c.] The ſmall remnant of Iſrael, who were not utterly diſpirited by the oppreſſion of Jabin, triumphed with Barak over the nobles of Canaan.

Ver. 14. Out of Ephraim, &c.] Here Deborah enumerates the tribes and families that any ways aſſiſted in this war.

A root of them againſt Amalek.] The beſt interpretation is, that the Amalekites, coming to aſſiſt Siſera, as they had done the Moabites; a ſmall party (here called a root) of the Ephraimites, oppoſed their paſſage, and hindered them from joining their forces with the Canaanites.

After thee, Benjamin, &c.] The Ephramites followed the example of Benjamin, in engaging in this quarrel, and aſſiſting Barak.

Out of Machir.] An eminent family in Manaſſeh, ſettled on the other ſide of Jordan, which rendered their zeal the more remarkable.

They that handle the pen of the writer.] Men of letters, who ſtudied and expounded the law; but, on this occaſion, joined the army under Barak.

Before Christ 1296.

15 And the princes of Iſſachar, were with Deborah: even Iſſachar, and alſo Barak, he was ſent on foot into the valley: for the diviſions of Reuben there were great thoughts of heart.

16 Why abodeſt thou among the ſheepfolds, to hear the bleatings of the flocks? for the diviſions of Reuben there were great ſearchings of heart.

17 Gilead abode beyond Jordan: and why did Dan remain in ſhips? Aſher continued on the ſea-ſhore, and abode in his breaches.

18 Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that jeoparded their lives unto the death, in the high places of the field.

19 The kings came and fought, then fought the kings of Canaan in Taanach by the waters of Megiddo, they took no gain of money.

Before Christ 1296.

20 They fought from heaven, the ſtars in their courſes fought againſt Siſera.

21 The river of Kiſhon ſwept them away, that ancient river, the river Kiſhon: O my ſoul, thou haſt trodden down ſtrength.

22 Then were the horſe-hoofs broken, by the means of the pranſings, the pranſings of their mighty ones.

23 Curſe ye Meroz, (ſaid the angel of the Lord) curſe ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof: becauſe they came not to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord againſt the mighty.

24 Bleſſed above women ſhall Jael the wife

Ver. 15. Even Iſſachar.] The people of which tribe followed the example of their princes, and were as forward as Barak to march againſt the enemy.

And alſo Barak.] As, or like unto.

He was ſent on foot into the valley.] Was ſent down from mount Tabor, by order of Deborah, to fall upon Siſera in the valley; or elſe it may be underſtood, that he went with his army, which conſiſted only of foot, and engaged with horſemen and chariots.

For the diviſions of Ruben there were great thoughts of heart.] The Renbenites were ſo divided in their counſels, that none of them came to the aſſiſtance of their brethren; which was the occaſion of great uneaſineſs in the Iſraelitiſh army. It looked as if they were ſeparated from their brethren, as well in affection, as ſituation.

Ver. 16. Why abodeſt thou among the ſheep-folds, &c.] More concerned for their cattle, than their religion, laws, and liberties.

Ver. 17. Gilead abode beyond Jordan.] Under the name of Gilead, are comprehended the Gadites, who dwelt in that country with the children of Machir, and though men of valour, would not ſtep over Jordan to help their bretheren.

Why did Dan remain in ſhips.] Regarding nothing but merchandize, (this tribe was near the ſea, and had the famous port of Joppa belonging to it) while their brethren hazarded their lives in the field.

And abode in his breaches.] Or creeks of the ſea, refuſing to join in the common cauſe.

Ver. 18. Jeoparded their lives.] Hazarded their lives.

In the high places.] On mount Tabor; from whence they deſcended into the plain, reſolving to conquer or die.

Ver. 19. The kings came.] Jabin had ſeveral confederates, who joined forces with his againſt the Iſraelites.

In Taanach by the waters of Megiddo.] Taanach and Megiddo, were two cities belonging to the Manaſſites, but ſituated in the tribe of Iſſachar. Joſh. xvii. 11. probably Siſera's army lay between theſe two cities, and extended from Taanach to Megiddo, by which flowed the river Kiſhon.

They took no gain of money.] This is variouſly interpreted—They were kings of ſuch bravery, they fought not for pay, but glory—being defeated, they were diſappointed of the ſpoil which they expected—Or, they came againſt the Iſraelites ſo enraged, and thirſting for blood, that they would not have taken ranſom for any man.

Ver. 20. They fought from Heaven.] God fought for the Iſraelites, and ſent down thunder, lightning, and hailſtones, from heaven upon the Canaanites.

The ſtars in their courſes, &c.] The angels of heaven, called ſtars, Job, xxxviii 7. Or the ſtars might be ſaid to fight againſt Siſera, by bringing an abundance of rain, whereby the Kiſhon was ſo high and rapid, as to ſweep away the hoſt of Siſera in attempting to ford it.

Ver. 21. O my ſoul thou haſt trodden down ſtrength.] This is a moſt beautiful apoſtrophe to herſelf; whoſe happineſs ſhe applauds, in beholding ſuch powful enemies vanquiſhed, by the commiſſion which ſhe gave from God to Barak; and by her prayers to God for his ſucceſs.

Ver. 22. The pranſings, the pranſings.] The Hebrews want a ſuperlative degree in their language, and therefore they double the word. The pranſings the pranſings, ſignify the moſt vehement motion, as when an horſe is on full ſpeed.

Ver. 23. Meroz.] The generality of interpreters, take this to be a city near the field of battle, whoſe inhabitants refuſed to aſſiſt Barak.

Said the angel of Lord.] She would not have it thought that this curſe proceeded from her anger, but from the authority of God, who by his angel ſpeaking to her, denounced it againſt Meroz.

Before Chriſt 1296. wife of Heber the Kenite be, bleſſed ſhall ſhe be above women in the tent.

25 He aſked water, and ſhe gave him milk, ſhe brought forth butter in a lordly diſh.

26 She put her hand to the nail, and her right hand to the workmans hammer: and with the hammer ſhe ſmote Siſera, ſhe ſmote off his head, when ſhe had pierced and ſtriken through his temples.

27 At her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay down: at her feet he bowed, he fell; where he bowed, there he fell down dead.

28 The mother of Siſera looked out at a window, and cried through the latteſs, Why is his chariot ſo long in coming? why tarry the wheels of his chariots?

29 Her wiſe ladies anſwered her, yea, ſhe returned anſwer to herſelf,

30 Have they not ſped? have they not divided the prey, to every man a damſel or two? to Siſera a prey of divers colours, a prey of divers colours of needle-work, of divers colours of needle-work on both ſides, meet for the necks of them that take the ſpoil?

31 So let all thine enemies periſh, O Lord: but let them that love him, be as the ſun when he goeth forth in his might. And the land had reſt forty years. Before Chriſt 1296.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Iſraelites for their ſin are oppreſſed by Midian. 24 Gideon deſtroyeth Baals altar. 33 Gideons army. 36 Gideons ſigns.

AND the children of Iſrael did evil in the ſight of the Lord: and the Lord delivered them into the hand of Midian ſeven years. 1256.

2 And the hand of Midian prevailed againſt Iſrael: and becauſe of the Midianites the children of Iſrael made them the dens which are in the mountains, and caves, and ſtrong holds.

3 And ſo it was when Iſrael had ſown, that the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, and the children of the eaſt, even they came up againſt them:

4 And they encamped againſt them, and deſtroyed the increaſe of the earth, till thou come unto Gaza, and left no ſuſtenance for Iſrael, neither ſheep, nor ox, nor aſs.

Ver. 26. She ſmote off his head.] There is not the leaſt indication of her cutting off his head. Accordingly the LXX have it, ſhe nailed down his dead.

Ver. 27. At her feet he bowed, &c.] The reduplication of the words in this verſe is inimitably beautiful.

Ver. 28. The mother of Siſera, &c.] With what an agreeable figure does the poeteſs here carry us from the tent of Jael, to the mother and friends of Siſera! how beautiful the tranſition! how finely are their ſanguine hopes, and eager expectations painted! they doubt not of his ſucceſs, and preſume upon his victory; only wonder at the delay of his return.

Ver. 29. She returned anſwer to herſelf.] This ſpeaks both confidence and impatience.

Ver. 30. To every man a damſel or two.] Young virgins were, by the ancients, reckoned the principal part of the ſoldiers prey,

A prey of divers colours of Needle-work, &c.] Theſe were the richeſt part of the ſpoil, and ſo highly valued, that only the moſt honourable perſons were ſuffered to wear them; hence they ſeem to be appropriated to Siſera as his part of the ſpoil.

Ver. 31. So let all thine enemies periſh, O Lord, &c.] Having pictured the vain confidence, and falſe hopes of Siſera's friends, ſhe changes her ſpeech, and addreſſes herſelf to God; concluding this beautiful poem with a ſolemn prayer, that all his enemies may be thus diſappointed of their vain hopes, and that all that love him, may increaſe in power and force, as the ſun does from his riſing, till it arrives at his meridian height.

Notes on Chap. VI.

Ver. 1. The children of Iſrael did evil, &c.] They relapſed into idolatry, after the death of Deborah and Barak.

The Lord delivered them into the hand of Midian.] Theſe were their old enemies, who joined with the Moabites, to ſeduce Iſrael to idolatry.

Ver. 2. Made them the dens.] Made the dens their retreat. Dr. Shaw ſays, that a great way on each ſide of Joppa, on the ſea coaſt, there is a range of mountains and precipices; and that in theſe high ſituations, are generally found the dens, the holes, or caves, ſo frequently mentioned in ſcripture, and which were formerly the loneſome retreat of the diſtreſſed Iſraelites.

Ver. 4. Until thou come unto Gaza.] That is to ſay, from one end of the country to the other.

Before Chriſt 1256.

5 For they came up with their cattle, and their tents, and they came as graſhoppers for multitude, for both they and their camels were without number: and they entered into the land to deſtroy it.

6 And Iſrael was greatly impoveriſhed, becauſe of the Midianites: and the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs when the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD, becauſe of the Midianites;

8 That the LORD ſent a prophet unto the children of Iſrael, which ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth out of the houſe of bondage,

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppreſſed you, and drave them out from before you, and gave you their land:

10 And I ſaid unto you, I am the LORD your God, fear not the gods of the Amorites, in whoſe land ye dwell: but ye have not obeyed my voice.

11 ¶ And there came an angel of the LORD, and ſat under an oak which was in Ophrah, that pertained unto Joaſh the Abi-ezrite: and his ſon Gideon threſhed wheat by the wine-preſs, to hide it from the Midianites.

12 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him, and ſaid unto him, The LORD is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

13 And Gideon ſaid unto him, Oh my lord, if the LORD be with us, why then is all this befallen us? and where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, ſaying, Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt? but now the LORD hath forſaken us, and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites.

Before Chriſt 1249.

14 And the LORD looked upon him, and ſaid, Go in this thy might, and thou ſhalt ſave Iſrael from the hand of the Midianites: have not I ſent thee?

15 And he ſaid unto him, Oh my Lord, wherewith ſhall I ſave Iſrael? behold, my family is poor in Manaſſeh, and I am the leaſt in my fathers houſe.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Surely I will be with thee, and thou ſhalt ſmite the Midianites, as one man.

17 And he ſaid unto him, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, then ſhew me a ſign that thou talkeſt with me.

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my preſent, and ſet it before thee. And he ſaid, I will tarry until thou come again.

19 And Gideon went in, and made ready a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the fleſh he put in a baſket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and preſented it.

20 And the angel of God ſaid unto him, Take the fleſh, and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and pour out the broth. And he did ſo.

21 ¶ Then

Ver. 5. Graſhoppers.] More properly locuſts, which have their name from the vaſt numbers they come in.

Ver. 8. Sent a prophet.] It is not known who this prophet was: God, however, continued to ſend them prophets, to remind them of their duty, and call them to repentance, who had forſaken him.

Ver. 11. There came an angel.] The Iſraelites, it ſeems, hearkened to the prophet, and began to reform their ways, and therefore God ſent them an angel, to appoint them a deliverer.

Ver. 14. The Lord looked upon him.] With the eyes of benevolence, promiſing him his aſſiſtance, and bidding him be of good courage.

Ver. 17. Shew me a ſign, &c.] Gideon ſaid this, not becauſe his faith wanted confirmation, but for the belief of others, who would require a ſign before they joined with him.

Ver. 20. Take the fleſh, &c.] He did not taſte it, intending to turn it into a ſacrifice.

Before Chriſt 1249.

21 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD put forth the end of the ſtaff that was in his hand, and touched the fleſh, and the unleavened cakes: and there roſe up fire out of the rock, and conſumed the fleſh, and the unleavened cakes: then the angel of the LORD departed out of his ſight.

22 And when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the LORD, Gideon ſaid, Alas, O Lord GOD: for becauſe I have ſeen an angel of the LORD face to face.

23 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Peace be unto thee, fear not, thou ſhalt not die.

24 Then Gideon built an altar there unto the LORD, and called it Jehovah-ſhalom: unto this day it is yet in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

25 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night, that the LORD ſaid unto him, Take thy fathers young bullock, even the ſecond bullock of ſeven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and cut down the grove that is by it:

26 And build an altar unto the LORD thy God upon the top of this rock, in the ordered place, and take the ſecond bullock, and offer a burnt ſacrifice with the wood of the grove which thou ſhalt cut down.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his ſervants, and did as the LORD had ſaid unto him: and ſo it was, becauſe he feared his fathers houſhhold, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

Before Chriſt 1249.

28 ¶ And when the men of the city aroſe early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was caſt down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the ſecond bullock was offered upon the altar that was built.

29 And they ſaid one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they enquired and aſked, they ſaid, Gideon the ſon of Joaſh hath done this thing.

30 Then the men of the city ſaid unto Joaſh, Bring out thy ſon, that he may die: becauſe he hath caſt down the altar of Baal, and becauſe he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joaſh ſaid unto all that ſtood againſt him, Will ye plead for Baal? will ye ſave him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death, whilſt it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himſelf, becauſe one hath caſt down his altar.

32 Therefore on that day he called him Jerubbaal, ſaying, Let Baal plead againſt him, becauſe he hath thrown down his altar.

33 ¶ Then all the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and the children of the eaſt were gathered together, and went over, and pitched in the valley of Jezreel.

34 But the ſpirit of the LORD came upon Gideon, and he blew a trumpet, and Abiezer was gathered after him.

Ver. 31. Joaſh ſaid, will ye plead for Baal?] Will you take upon you to plead for Baal? who, if he is a real god, will, without doubt, take care to vindicate his honour. It is generally thought, that Gideon's father had been a worſhipper, if not a prieſt of Baal; and therefore, it is not unlikely, that he had, at this time, been convinced by his ſon, that God had given him a commiſſion to recover his people, and to begin with this reformation; and this made him appear ſo boldly in his ſon's cauſe, knowing it to be the cauſe of God. However, inſtead of Joaſh ſaid, the ſeptuagint has it, Gideon the ſon of Joaſh ſaid, which, ſome think, makes the ſenſe better.

38 And it was ſo: for he roſe up early on the morrow, and thruſt the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece; a bowl-full of water.

39 And Gideon ſaid unto God, Let not thine anger be hot againſt me, and I will ſpeak but this once: Let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew.

40 And God did ſo that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

CHAP. VII.

1 Gideons army of two and thirty thouſand is brought to three hundred: 16 His ſtratagem of trumpets and lamps in pitchers.

Before Chriſt 1249.

THen Jerubbaal (who is Gideon) and all the people that were with him, roſe up early, and pitched beſide the well of Harod: ſo that the hoſt of the Midianites were on the north ſide of them by the hill of Moreh, in the valley.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, the people that are with thee, are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, leſt Iſrael vaunt themſelves againſt me, ſaying, Mine own hand hath ſaved me.

3 Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, ſaying, Whoſoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead: and there returned of the people twenty and two thouſand, and there remained ten thouſand.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, the people are yet too many: bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and it ſhall be, that of whom I ſay unto thee, This ſhall go with thee, the ſame ſhall go with thee; and of whomſoever I ſay unto thee, This ſhall not go with thee, the ſame ſhall not go.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his

Ver. 36 If thou wilt ſave Iſrael by mine hand.] This did not ariſe from any doubt of God's intentions, for Gideon had both ſeen, and done enough to be aſſured of the divine aſſiſtance; but he was moved to make the following requeſt, for the ſake of thoſe, perhaps, who were to go with him, who poſſibly might be timerous.

Ver. 37. A fleece of wool.] It is conjectured, he choſe a fleece for this purpoſe, not only becauſe it was ready at hand, but the better to expreſs how the land was ſhorn by the Midianites.

If the dew be on the fleece only, &c.] He ſuppoſed that the dew, which diſtilled from heaven, was a divine gift, (as the ſcripture often teſtifies) and therefore he deſired, that it might be directed by God, that though it commonly falls every where, now, by his extraordinary providence, it might water only his fleece. When he begged the dew (as a ſign of the divine favour) might fall upon the fleece, it was to repreſent the kindneſs of God to him; and when he begged it might fall upon the whole ground, it was to repreſent his favour to all the people. Theſe two miracles, oppoſite to each other, diſplay likewiſe the ſtate of the Jewiſh nation, which was for ſometime moiſtened with the dew of heaven, (the knowledge of the Almighty) when the reſt of the world knew no ſuch refreſhment; and is now deprived of that bleſſing, when the reſt of the world is filled with the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the ſea.

Notes on Chap. VII.

Ver. 3. Mount Gilead.] This was in the tribe of Manaſſeh, and weſt of that Gilead on the other ſide Jordan.

Ver. 4. Bring them down unto the water.] We may well ſuppoſe they were very thirſty, by reaſon of their march, and the heat of the weather.

Ver. 5. Every one that lappeth water with his tongue, &c.] Commentators have been perplexed to find a probable reaſon for God's making a diſtinction between the ſoldiers who lapped water with their hands, and thoſe who laid themſelves down to drink. But God, it ſeems, intending

Before Chriſt 1249. his tongue as a dog lappeth, him ſhalt thou ſet by himſelf; likewiſe every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped, putting their hands to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the reſt of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

7 And the Lord ſaid unto Gideon, By the three hundred men that lapped, will I ſave you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets: and he ſent all the reſt of Iſrael, every man unto his tent, and retained thoſe three hundred men: and the hoſt of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night, that the Lord ſaid unto him, Ariſe, get thee down unto the hoſt, for I have delivered it into thine hand.

10 But if thou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy ſervant, down to the hoſt.

11 And thou ſhalt hear what they ſay, and afterwards ſhall thine hands be ſtrengthened to go down unto the hoſt. Then went he down with Phurah his ſervant, unto the outſide of the armed men that were in the hoſt.

12 And the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and all the children of the eaſt, lay along in the valley like graſhoppers for Before Chriſt 1249. multitude; and their camels were without number, as the ſand by the ſea-ſide for multitude.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and ſaid, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley-bread tumbled into the hoſt of Midian, and came unto a tent, and ſmote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay along.

14 And his fellow anſwered, and ſaid, This is nothing elſe ſave the ſword of Gideon the ſon of Joaſh, a man of Iſrael: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the hoſt.

15 And it was ſo, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and the interpretation thereof, that he worſhipped, and returned into the hoſt of Iſrael, and ſaid, Ariſe, for the Lord hath delivered into your hand the hoſt of Midian.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put a trumpet in every mans hand, with empty pitchers, and lamps within the pitchers.

17 And he ſaid unto them, look on me, and do likewiſe: and behold, when I come to the outſide of the camp, it ſhall be that as I do, ſo ſhall ye do.

18 When I blow with a trumpet, I and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets alſo on every ſide of all the camp, and ſay, The ſword of the Lord, and of Gideon.

tending to reduce Gideon's army, to a very ſmall number, took this method of performing it; for, as the ſeaſon was hot, and the generality faint and thirſty, it was probable, that moſt of them would lie down and refreſh themſelves, with large draughts of water.

Ver. 7. By the three hundred men that lapped will I ſave you.] The beſt reaſon aſſigned, why God choſe to ſave the Iſraelites, by theſe three hundred men, is, becauſe, by their manner of drinking, they evinced their temperance, and gave a proof of their noble ſpirit; in that they were ſo deſirous of engaging the enemy, they would ſcarce ſtay to drink, though thirſty, but contented themſelves only to moiſten their mouths, as we ſay, with a little water.

Ver. 11. Shall thine hands be ſtrengthened.] This is an Hebrew phraſe, and ſignifies to encourage.

The outſide of the armed men.] To the out-guards, who ſeem to have conſiſted of fifty. Thus the ſeptuagint tranſlate it by the word Penteconta.

Ver. 14. Into his hand hath God delivered Midian, &c.] Nothing is more vain than common dreams; yet even the heathens themſelves acknowledge, that God hath ſometimes admoniſhed men of future things by this means.

Ver. 16. He put a trumpet in every mans hand.] That the ſound of ſo many trumpets might carry an appearance of a numerous army.

Before Christ 1249.

19 ¶ So Gideon and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outſide of the camp, in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly ſet the watch, and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

20 And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The ſword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

21 And they ſtood every man in his place, round about the camp: and all the hoſt ran, and cried, and fled.

22 And the three hundred blew the trumpets, and the LORD ſet every mans ſword againſt his fellow, even throughout all the hoſt: and the hoſt fled to Beth-ſhittah, in Zererath, and to the border of Abel-meholah, unto Tabbath.

23 And the men of Iſrael gathered themſelves together out of Naptali, and out of Aſher, and out of all Manaſſeh, and purſued after the Midianites.

24 ¶ And Gideon ſent meſſengers throughout all mount Ephraim, ſaying, Come down againſt the Midianites, and take before them the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered themſelves together, and took the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan.

Before Christ 1249.

25 And they took two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb; and they ſlew Oreb upon the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they ſlew at the wine-preſs of Zeeb, and purſued Midian, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other ſide Jordan.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Gideon pacifieth the Ephraimites: 17 He revengeth his brethrens death on Zebah and Zalmunna. 28 Midian ſubdued. 29 Gideons children and death.

AND the men of Ephraim ſaid unto him, Why haſt thou ſerved us thus, that thou calledſt us not when thou wenteſt to fight with the Midianites? and they did chide with him ſharply.

2 And he ſaid unto them, What have I done now in compariſon of you? Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim, better than the vintage of Abiezer.

Ver. 19. In the beginning of the middle watch.] In after ages, though the Romans divided the night into four watches, as we read in Matth. xiv. 25. yet in the eaſtern parts, more eſpecially, it conſiſted but of three; the firſt began at ſix, and continued four hours; the ſecond at eleven, called the middle watch, &c. ſo that it was almoſt midnight. Gideon choſe this time to alarm the Midianitiſh camp, becauſe the trumpets would ſeem louder, and the lights ſhine brighter, and conſequently the enemies conſternation be the greater.

Ver. 21. They ſtood every man in his place.] The three hundred men ſtood ſtill without ſtriking a blow, while God fought for them.

Ver. 22. The Lord ſet every mans ſword againſt his fellow.] The night being ſo dark, they could not diſtinguiſh friends from foes; or the thing was ſo ſudden, they were ſtruck with amazement, or ſuſpected treachery, their army conſiſting of ſo many nations; or becauſe God had infatuated them, as he had done many others on the like occaſion.

Ver. 24. Take before them the waters.] Poſſeſs yourſelves of the fords before the Midianites reach them.

Ver. 25. Oreb and Zeeb.] Some gather from hence, that the Midianitiſh language did not much differ from the Hebrew, in which Oreb ſignifies a crown, and Zeeb a wolf; from which creatures, it ſeems, great men anciently thought fit to take the names of their families; ſo the Romans did (among whom we read of the Corvini, the Gracchi, the Aquilini, &c.) either as omens or monuments of their courage, and ſkill in military atchievements.

Brought the heads of Oreb, &c.] This was the manner in after times, when they would gratify the conqueror with an agreeable ſpectacle: thus the head of Pompey was brought to Cæſar, and Cicero's to Mark Antony.

On the other ſide Jordan.] Septuagint, from beyond Jordan, That is, to Gideon, who was on the weſt of Jordan.

NOTES on Chap. VIII.

Ver. 2. Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer.] This, it is thought, was a common proverb in thoſe days, when they would commend the ſmalleſt action of one, as ſuperior to the greateſt of another; as if he had ſaid, Theſe ſcattered parties that you have gleaned, and picked up at the fords of Jordan, are far more than thoſe which I and my hoſt have deſtroyed.

Before Christ 1249.

3 God hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in compariſon of you? Then their anger was abated toward him, when he had ſaid that.

4 ¶ And Gideon came to Jordan, and paſſed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet purſuing them.

5 And he ſaid unto the men of Succoth, Give, I pray you, loaves of bread unto the people that follow me, for they be faint, and I am purſuing after Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.

6 ¶ And the princes of Succoth ſaid, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we ſhould give bread unto thine army?

7 And Gideon ſaid, Therefore when the Lord hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into mine hand, then I will tear your fleſh with the thorns of the wilderneſs, and with briers.

8 And he went up thence to Penuel, and ſpake unto them likewiſe: and the men of Penuel anſwered him, as the men of Succoth had anſwered him.

9 And he ſpake alſo unto the men of Penuel, ſaying, When I come again in peace, I will break down this tower.

10 ¶ Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their hoſts with them, about fifteen thouſand men, all that were left of all the hoſts of the children of the eaſt: for there fell an hundred and twenty thouſand men that drew the ſword.

Before Christ 1249.

11 ¶ And Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents, on the eaſt of Nobah, and Jogbehah, and ſmote the hoſt: for the hoſt were ſecure.

12 And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he purſued after them, and took the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and diſcomfited all the hoſt.

13 ¶ And Gideon the ſon of Joaſh returned from battel before the ſun was up,

14 And caught a young man of the men of Succoth, and enquired of him: and he deſcribed unto him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, even threeſcore and ſeventeen men.

15 And he came unto the men of Succoth, and ſaid, behold, Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom ye did upbraid me, ſaying, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we ſhould give bread unto thy men that are weary?

16 And he took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderneſs, and briers, and with them he taught the men of Succoth.

17 And he beat down the tower of Penuel, and ſlew the men of the city.

18 Then ſaid he unto Zebah and Zalmunna, What manner of men were they whom ye ſlew at Tabor? and they anſwered, As thou art, ſo were they, each one reſembled the children of a king.

19 And

Ver. 6. Are the hands of Zeba and Zalmunna now in thine hand, &c.] Firſt take the kings of Midian captive, and then demand bread for thine army. They thought there was nothing of God in this victory, and that he would not be able to perfect it.

Ver. 16. He taught the men, &c.] He threſhed and tare them, as he threatened them, ver 7. and by the ſevere correction, taught them to behave better for the future, and to uſe more humanity and wiſdom.

Ver. 17. Slew the men of the city.] Probably the principal perſons in it, who, knowing their guilt, fled to the tower, perhaps for ſafety, and were there ſlain.

If we rightly conſider the caſe, the inhabitants deſerved the puniſhment they met with. They were Iſraelites as well as Gideon, and therefore were equally concerned, and ought to have ventured their lives as he did, for the public liberty; inſtead of which, they denied him a ſmall refreſhment for his men, who were fatigued all night with fighting for them; and even did what they could, to facilitate the enemies eſcape, by denying relief to their weary purſuers; and not only ſo, but even made their jeſts and ſarcaſms upon Gideon, and endeavoured to perſuade his men, that God did not interpoſe in this victory, diſparaging the man whom God had made ſo ſtrong for himſelf.

Ver. 18. Reſembled the children of a king.] Hence it appears, that Gideon was of a goodly preſence, carrying greatneſs and majeſty in his aſpect; and that kings took care, in thoſe days, to match only with graceful perſons.

Before Christ 1249.

19 And he ſaid, they were my brethren, even the ſons of my mother: as the LORD liveth, if ye had ſaved them alive, I would not ſlay you.

20 And he ſaid unto Jether his firſtborn, Up, and ſlay them: but the youth drew not his ſword: for he feared, becauſe he was yet a youth.

21 Then Zebah and Zalmunna ſaid, Riſe thou, and fall upon us: for as the man is, ſo is his ſtrength. And Gideon aroſe, and ſlew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the ornaments that were on their camels necks.

22 ¶ Then the men of Iſrael ſaid unto Gideon, Rule thou over us, both thou, and thy ſon, and thy ſons ſon alſo: for thou haſt delivered us from the hand of Midian.

23 And Gideon ſaid unto them, I will not rule over you, neither ſhall my ſon rule over you: the LORD ſhall rule over you.

24 And Gideon ſaid unto them, I would deſire a requeſt of you, that you would give me every man the ear-rings of his prey: (for they had golden ear-rings, becauſe they were Iſhmaelites)

25 And they anſwered, We will willingly give them. And they ſpread a garment, and did caſt therein every man the ear-rings of his prey.

26 And the weight of the golden ear-rings that he requeſted, was a thouſand and ſeven hundred ſhekels of gold, beſide ornaments, and collars, and purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and beſide the chains that were about their camels necks.

27 And Gideon made an ephod thereof, and put it in his city, even in Ophrah; and all Iſrael went thither a whoring after it: which thing became a ſnare unto Gideon, and to his houſe.

Before Christ 1249.

28 ¶ Thus was Midian ſubdued before the children of Iſrael, ſo that they lifted up their heads no more: and the country was in quietneſs forty years in the days of Gideon.

29 ¶ And Jerubbaal the ſon of Joaſh went and dwelt in his own houſe.

30 And Gideon had threeſcore and ten ſons of his body begotten: for he had many wives.

31 And his concubine that was in Shechem, ſhe alſo bare him a ſon, whoſe name he called Abimelech.

32 ¶ And Gideon the ſon of Joaſh died in a good old age, and was buried in the ſepulcher of Joaſh his father, in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

33 And it came to paſs as ſoon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Iſrael turned again, and went a whoring after Baalim, and made Baal-berith their god.

34 And the children of Iſrael remembered not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every ſide:

35 Neither ſhewed they kindneſs to the houſe of Jerubbaal, namely Gideon, according to all the goodneſs which he had ſhewed unto Iſrael.

Ver. 33. Baal-berith.] This deity implies, one who preſides over covenants and contracts, and is the puniſher of thoſe who wilfully violate them. Bochart interprets it, Baal of Berith.

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, Whether is better for you, either that all the ſons of Jerubbaal (which are threeſcore and ten perſons) reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember alſo that I am your bone and your fleſh.

3 And his mothers brethren ſpake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all theſe words: and their hearts inclined to follow Abimelech; for they ſaid, He is our brother.

4 And they gave him threeſcore and ten pieces of ſilver, out of the houſe of Baal-berith: wherewith Abimelech hired vain and light perſons, which followed him.

5 And he went unto his fathers houſe at Ophrah, and ſlew his brethren the ſons of Jerubbaal, being threeſcore and ten perſons, upon one ſtone: notwithſtanding, yet Jotham the youngeſt ſon of Jerubbaal was left; for he hid himſelf.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the houſe of Millo, and went, and made Abimelech king, by the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.

Before Chriſt 1209.

7 ¶ And when they told it to Jotham, he went and ſtood in the top of mount Gerizim, and lift up his voice, and cried, and ſaid unto them, Hearken unto me, you men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you.

8 The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them, and they ſaid unto the olive-tree, reign thou over us.

9 But the olive-tree ſaid unto them, Should I leave my fatneſs wherewith by me they honour God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees?

10 And the trees ſaid to the fig-tree, Come thou, and reign over us.

11 But the fig-tree ſaid unto them, Should I forſake my ſweetneſs, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?

12 Then ſaid the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us.

13 And the vine ſaid unto them, Should I leave my wine, which cheereth God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees?

Notes on Chap. IX.

Ver. 4. Threeſcore and ten pieces of ſilver out of the houſe of Baal-berith.] They gave him ſo many pounds weight of that metal, out of the treaſury of Baal-berith; for ſeventy ſhekels would have been too mean a preſent to make a man a prince; and ſeventy talents, a larger ſum than the men of Shechem could give.

Ver. 6. All the men of Shechem.] All the lords of the city.

And all the houſe of Millo.] That is, the commonalty.

By the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.] Or, rather, in the plain, by the oak which ſtood in Shechem.

Ver. 8. The trees went forth on a time, &c.] This is the firſt fable we meet with in record; and hence it appears, that ſuch fictions, wherein the moſt ſerious truths are repreſented, were in uſe among the Jews, (as they are ſtill in the eaſtern countries) long before the time of Æſop, or any other author we are acquainted with. The intention of this fable of Jotham was, to convince the Shechemites of their folly, in chuſing a man for their king, who was no more able to protect them, than a bramble was to cover other trees that ſhould reſort to it, under the ſhadow of its branches.

They ſaid unto the olive-tree, &c.] The Iſraelites, by this, well knew, that he meant his father Gideon, to whom all the people had offered the kingdom.

Ver. 9. Wherewith by me they honour God and man.] The ſeptuagint renders it, wherewith men do honour God. Oil was offered in ſacrifice to God; it fed the lamps of his houſe, and prieſts and kings were anointed with it.

And go to be promoted over the trees.] The word rendered promoted, is never uſed in that ſenſe, but ſignifies to be moved to and fro, to wander, to be ſhaken, toſſed, &c. In verſe 9, 11, and 13, it ſhould be tranſlated, ſhall I leave, &c. and go to be toſſed upon the trees? then we have a lively image of the hazards and cares of government; as if the king of trees, was to have his throne placed upon the top of the higheſt tree in the foreſt, and be there expoſed to every ſtorm of wind that blowed.

Ver. 12. Then ſaid the trees unto the vine.] Theſe being all noble trees, ſignified, that better men than Abimelech, had refuſed that of which he was ambitious.

Ver. 13. God and man.] The word tranſlated God, may ſignify kings, God's vicegerents; and therefore the meaning is, kings and ſubjects, high and low.

Before Chriſt 1209.

16 Now therefore, if ye have done truly and ſincerely, in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his houſe, and have done unto him according to the deſerving of his hands:

17 (For my father fought for you, and adventured his life far, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian:

18 And ye are riſen up againſt my fathers houſe this day, and have ſlain his ſons, threeſcore and ten perſons, upon one ſtone, and have made Abimelech the ſon of his maid-ſervant, king over the men of Shechem, becauſe he is your brother)

19 If ye then have dealt truly and ſincerely with Jerubbaal, and with his houſe this day, then rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him alſo rejoice in you:

20 But if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour them out of Shechem, and the houſe of Millo: and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the houſe of Millo, and devour Abimelech.

21 And Jotham ran away and fled, and went to Beer, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

Before Chriſt 1206.

22 ¶ When Abimelech had reigned three years over Iſrael,

23 Then God ſent an evil ſpirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem: and the men of Shechem dealt treacherouſly with Abimelech:

24 That the cruelty done to the threeſcore and ten ſons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother which ſlew them, and upon the men of Shechem which aided him in the killing of his brethren.

25 and the men of Shechem ſet liers in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them: and it was told Abimelech.

26 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

27 And they went out into the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and made merry, and went into the houſe of their god, and did eat and drink, and curſed Abimelech.

28 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed ſaid, Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we ſhould ſerve him? is not he the ſon of Jerubbaal, and Zebul his officer? ſerve the men of Hamor the father of Shechem: for why ſhould we ſerve him?

29 And

Ver. 14. The bramble.] The meaneſt of all trees, fit only for the fire, and intended to repreſent Abimelech, from whom they could expect no benefit; but, on the contrary, a great deal of trouble and vexation.

Ver. 20. Let fire come out from Abimelech.] This is not a prediction, but an execration or curſe; which was fully accompliſhed, not by fire, properly ſo called, but by his rage and furious revenge, fitly compared to fire.

Let fire come out from the men of Shechem.] He wiſhes they may mutually deſtroy each other.

Ver. 21. Jotham—fled— to Beer.] Which city ſtood on the northern frontiers of the tribe of Judah, and which did not acknowledge Abimelech for king; and therefore Jotham knew he ſhould there meet with protection.

Ver. 23. God ſent an evil ſpirit.] Permitted the ſpirit of diſcord to break forth between Abimelech and the Shechemites. It is obſerved, that this manner of expreſſion, may poſſibly have given riſe to ſome notions, when they ſuppoſe, that the furies are appointed by the gods, to ſow the ſeeds of diſcord among men.

Ver. 28. Who is Sechem?] Who is this Shechemite.

That we ſhould ſerve him.] Why ſhould we ſubmit to this ambitious upſtart, who is famous for nothing, but pride and cruelty toward his own brethren? This ſhews that Gaal was a Gentile.

Before Chriſt 1206.

29 And would to God this people were under my hand; then would I remove Abimelech. And he ſaid to Abimelech, Increaſe thine army, and come out.

30 ¶ And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the ſon of Ebed, his anger was kindled.

31 And he ſent meſſengers unto Abimelech privily, ſaying, Behold Gaal the ſon of Ebed, and his brethren be come to Shechem; and behold, they fortify the city againſt thee.

32 Now therefore up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lie in wait in the field.

33 And it ſhall be, that in the morning as ſoon as the ſun is up, thou ſhalt riſe early, and ſet upon the city: and behold, when he and the people that is with him come out againſt thee, then mayeſt thou do to them as thou ſhalt find occaſion.

34 ¶ And Abimelech roſe up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait againſt Shechem in four companies.

35 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed went out, and ſtood in the entering of the gate of the city: and Abimelech roſe up, and the people that were with him from lying in wait.

36 And when Gaal ſaw the people, he ſaid to Zebul, Behold, there come people down from the top of the mountains. And Zebul ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt the ſhadow of the mountains as if they were men.

37 And Gaal ſpake again, and ſaid, See, there come people down by the middle of the land, and another company come along by the plain of Meonenim.

Before Chriſt 1206.

38 Then ſaid Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou ſaidſt, Who is Abimelech, that we ſhould ſerve him? is not this the people that thou haſt deſpiſed? go out, I pray now, and fight with them.

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chaſed him, and he fled before him, and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate.

41 And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul thruſt out Gaal and his brethren, that they ſhould not dwell in Shechem.

42 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the people went out into the field, and they told Abimelech.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and behold, the people were come forth out of the city, and he aroſe up againſt them, and ſmote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, ruſhed forward, and ſtood in the entering of the gate of the city: and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and ſlew them.

45 And Abimelech fought againſt the city all that day, and he took the city, and ſlew the people that was therein, and beat down the city, and ſowed it with ſalt.

46 ¶ And

Ver. 29. Then would I remove Abimelech—and he ſaid, &c.] The ſeptuagint renders it, I would remove Abimelech, and would ſay to him increaſe, &c. This was ſaid in the abſence of Abimelech, at a drunken feaſt, when Gaal boaſted how he would challenge him.

Ver. 36. Thou ſeeſt the ſhadow of the mountains as if they were men.] It being early in the morning, the trees, and all things elſe, caſt long ſhadows; which being moved by the air, Zebul perſuaded him, he took for men marching down from the top of the mountains. Some think he ſpake this in deriſion, as if Gaal was afraid of ſhadows, but delivered in ſuch a ſerious tone, that he was believed to be in earneſt.

Ver. 42. Went out into the field.] To plow and ſow their land, and dreſs their vines, and other trees.

Ver. 45. Sowed it with ſalt.] Abimelech, by this action, intended only to ſhew his laſting abhorrence of the Shechemites, by wiſhing their city might be waſte, and perpetually deſolate.

Before Christ 1206.

46 ¶ And when all the men of the tower of Shechem heard that, they entered into an hold of the houſe of the god Berith.

47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an ax in his hand, and cut down a bow from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his ſhoulder, and ſaid unto the people that were with him, What ye have ſeen me do, make haſte and do as I have done.

49 And all the people likewiſe cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the hold, and ſet the hold on fire upon them: ſo that all the men of the tower of Shechem died alſo, about a thouſand men and women.

50 ¶ Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and encamped againſt Thebez, and took it.

51 But there was a ſtrong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and ſhut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought againſt it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire.

53 And a certain woman caſt a piece of a milſtone upon Abimelechs head, and all to brake his ſcull.

54 Then he called haſtily unto the young man his armour-bearer, and ſaid unto him, Draw thy ſword, and ſlay me, that men ſay not of me, A woman ſlew him. And his young man thruſt him through, and he died.

55 And when the men of Iſrael ſaw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man to his place.

56 ¶ Thus God rendered the wickedneſs of Abimelech which he did unto his father, in ſlaying his ſeventy brethren.

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads: and upon them came the curſe of Jotham the ſon of Jerubbaal.

CHAP. X.

1 Tola judgeth Iſrael in Shamir. 7 The Philiſtines and Ammonites oppreſs Iſrael. 10 In their miſery God ſendeth them to their falſe gods. 15 Upon their repentance he pitieth them.

AND after Abimelech, there aroſe to defend Iſrael, Tola the ſon of Puah, the ſon of Dodo, a man of Iſſachar; and he dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim.

2 And he judged Iſrael twenty and three years, and died, and was buried in Shamir.

3 ¶ And after him aroſe Jair, a Gileadite, and judged Iſrael twenty and two years. 1183.

4 And

Ver. 50. Thebez.] The ſituation of this city is not certainly known; moſt think it was near Shechem. It had revolted from Abimelech.

Ver. 53. A certain woman caſt a piece of a milſtone upon Abimelechs head.] Directed, no doubt, by a ſpecial providence of God; the death of Abimelech by a ſtone, was the more remarkable, becauſe he had ſlain all his brethren upon one ſtone.

And all to break his ſkull.] To, with the word all before it, is old Engliſh, or Scotch, for altogether.

Ver. 56, 57. Thus God rendered the wickedneſs, &c.] Theſe two verſes conclude this ſtory, with a divine admonition, that no man ſhould think ſuch things came to paſs by chance; but God, the judge of all, puniſhed both Abimelech and the men of Shechem, according to their deſerts, and made them the inſtruments of each other's deſtruction.

NOTES on Chap. X.

Ver. 1. After Abimelech.] Who is not to be conſidered as a judge, much leſs appointed by God; but an uſurper, who dared to alter the divine government, by making himſelf a king.

To defend Iſrael.] As we read of no enemies, who, during the life of Tola, diſturbed the Iſraelites, he may be ſaid to defend Iſrael; either by preſerving their liberties from being invaded, or by delivering them from thoſe diſorders they were in, by the diſagreement between Abimelech, and thoſe who made him king; or by reſtoring the purity of their religion, and aboliſhing the worſhip of idols, Before Chriſt 1183. 4 And he had thirty ſons that rode on thirty aſs-colts, and they had thirty cities, which are called Havoth-jair unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead.

5 And Jair died, and was buried in Camon.

1161. 6 And the children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of Lord, and ſerved Baalim, and Aſhtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philiſtines, and forſook the Lord, and ſerved not him

7 And the anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael, and he ſold them into the hands of the children of Ammon.

8 And that year they vexed and oppreſſed the children of Iſrael: eighteen years, all the children of Iſrael that were on the other ſide Jordan, in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead.

9 Moreover, the children of Ammon paſſed over Jordan, to fight alſo againſt Judah, and againſt Benjamin, and againſt the houſe of Ephraim; ſo that Iſrael was ſore diſtreſſed.

10 ¶ And the children of Iſrael cried unto the Lord, ſaying, We have ſinned againſt thee, both becauſe we have forſaken our God, and alſo ſerved Baalim.

11 And the Lord ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites, from the children of Ammon, and from the Philiſtines?

12 The Zidonians alſo, and the Amalekites, and the Maonites did oppreſs you, and ye cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hand. Before Chriſt 1161.

13 Yet ye have forſaken me, and ſerved other gods: wherefore I will deliver you no more.

14 Go and cry unto the gods which ye have choſen; let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

15 ¶ And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto the Lord, We have ſinned, do thou unto us whatſoever ſeemeth good unto thee, deliver us only, we pray thee, this day.

16 And they put away the ſtrange gods from among them, and ſerved the Lord: and his ſoul was grieved for the miſery of Iſrael.

17 Then the children of Ammon were gathered together, and encamped in Gilead: and the children of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves together, and encamped in Mizpeh.

18 And the people and princes of Gilead ſaid one to another, what man is he that will begin to fight againſt the children of Ammon? he ſhall be head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

Ver. 4. Rode on thirty aſs colts.] None but the moſt honourable of the Iſraelites rode on theſe creatures, which in the eaſtern country, were very tall and beautiful.

Ver. 12. The Maonites.] The ſeptuagint renders it the Midianites. We have no account of any people called Maonites. The Hebrew word ſeems to have been miſwritten, Maon for Midian; for they had lately oppreſſed them.

Ver. 16. They put away the ſtrange gods.] This was the moſt remarkable reformation we read of in the hiſtory of the Judges; for they did not relapſe into idolatry for a long time after.

His ſoul was grieved.] But the divine nature is not capable of grief, properly ſo called. The meaning is, he reſolved in much mercy, to deliver them upon their repentance.

Before Chriſt 1161. the ſon of an harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah.

2 And Gileads wife bare him ſons, and his wifes ſons grew up, and they thruſt out Jephthah, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not inherit in our fathers houſe, for thou art the ſon of a ſtrange woman.

3 Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob: and there were gathered vain men to Jephthah, and went out with him.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs in proceſs of time, that the children of Ammon made war againſt Iſrael.

5 And it was ſo, that when the children of Ammon made war againſt Iſrael, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob:

6 And they ſaid unto Jephthath, Come and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

7 And Jephthah ſaid unto the elders of Gilead, did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my fathers houſe? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in diſtreſs?

8 And the elders of Gilead ſaid unto Jephthath, Therefore we turn again to thee now, that thou mayeſt go with us, and fight againſt the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

Before Chriſt 1161. 9 And Jephthah ſaid unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again to fight againſt the children of Ammon, and the Lord deliver them before me, ſhall I be your head?

10 And the elders of Gilead ſaid unto Jephthah, The Lord be witneſs between us, if we do not ſo according to thy words.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words before the Lord in Mizpeh.

12 ¶ And Jephthah ſent meſſengers unto the king of the children of Ammon, 1143. ſaying, What haſt thou to do with me, that thou art come againſt me to fight in my land?

13 And the king of the children of Ammon anſwered unto the meſſengers of Jephthah, Becauſe Iſrael took away my land when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore reſtore thoſe lands again peaceably.

14 And Jephthah ſent meſſengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon:

15 And ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Jephthah, Iſrael took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon:

Notes on Chap. XI.

Ver. 1. The ſon of an harlot.] Some underſtand, by the word rendered an harlot, a ſtranger, or one who was not of the ſeed of Iſrael; others underſtand by it an hoſteſs, as Rahab was.

Ver. 3. The land of Tob.] We read no where elſe of this country. Moſt likely it was not far from Gilead, upon the borders of the Ammonites, in the entrance of Arabia Deſerta: or elſe it was, perhaps, the country called Iſh-tob, which was in Syria, and ſo near the Ammonites, that they hired forces from thence, as from other Syrians, to fight againſt David, 2 Sam. x. 8. It is conjectured, that ſome foot-ſteps of this land are to be found, 2 Maccab. xii. 17, where we read of Jews that dwelt in the land of Tob.

Vain men.] Not profligate perſons, are here to be unſtood, but ſuch as were poor and needy, and therefore glad of the opportunity of enriching themſelves with the enemies ſpoils.

Ver. 11. Uttered all his words before the Lord.] That is, in ſolemn prayer; he rehearſed before God, all he had ſaid unto them, and, as it is conjectured, in ſome proſeucha, or place of worſhip at Mizpeh.

Ver. 13. Becauſe Iſrael took away my land.] This was a mere pretext; for the land did not belong to them, but to Sihon king of the Amorites. God expreſsly charged the Iſraelites, not to meddle with the country of the Ammonites, having given it to the children of Lot. Deut. ii. 19.

Before Christ 1143. 16 But when Iſrael came up from Egypt, and walked through the wilderneſs, unto the Red ſea, and came to Kadeſh;

17 Then Iſrael ſent meſſengers unto the king of Edom, ſaying, Let me, I pray thee, paſs through thy land: but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto. And in like manner they ſent unto the king of Moab; but he would not conſent: and Iſrael abode in Kadeſh.

18 Then they went along through the wilderneſs, and compaſſed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and came by the eaſt ſide of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other ſide of Arnon, but came not within the border of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab.

19 And Iſrael ſent meſſengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heſhbon; and Iſrael ſaid unto him, Let us paſs, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place.

20 But Sihon truſted not Iſrael to paſs through his coaſt: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought againſt Iſrael.

21 And the Lord God of Iſrael delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Iſrael, and they ſmote them: ſo Iſrael poſſeſſed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country.

22 And they poſſeſſed all the coaſts of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderneſs even unto Jordan.

23 So now the Lord God of Iſrael hath diſpoſſeſſed the Amorites, from before his people Iſrael, and ſhouldeſt thou poſſeſs it? Before Christ 1143.

24 Wilt not thou poſſeſs that which Chemoſh thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs? So whomſoever the Lord our God ſhall drive out from before us, them will we poſſeſs.

25 And now art thou any thing better then Balak the ſon of Zippor king of Moab? did he ever ſtrive againſt Iſrael, or did he ever fight againſt them,

26 While Iſrael dwelt in Heſhbon and her towns, and in Aroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coaſts of Arnon, three hundred years? 1152. why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Wherefore I have not ſinned againſt thee, but thou doeſt me wrong to war againſt me: the Lord the Judge be judge this day between the children of Iſrael and the children of Ammon.

28 Howbeit, the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah, which he ſent him.

29 ¶ Then the ſpirit of the Lord came upon Jephthah, and he paſſed over Gilead, and Manaſſeh, and paſſed over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead, he paſſed over unto the children of Ammon.

30 And Jephthah vowed a vow unto the Lord, and ſaid, If thou ſhalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands,

Ver. 16. Walked through the wilderneſs.] That is, at their laſt coming to it; in that ſtation they made at Ezion-geber.

Ver. 29. The ſpirit of the Lord came upon Jephthah.] God gave him an extraordinary meaſure of courage and wiſdom, and other qualities, requiſite to be a ruler of his people.

Ver. 30. Jephthah vowed a vow.] This was an act of religious worſhip, and in itſelf no way culpable. Other nations looked upon it in this view. Livy tells us, that the Roman generals uſed to vow to Jupiter, Apollo, or ſome other God, that if, by their aid, they proved ſucceſsful, they would devote a part of the ſpoil to their honour, in building temples, and the like.

Ver. 31. Cometh forth of the doors of my houſe.] The vulgar tranſlation adds the word firſt, which, if it be not underſtood, he muſt have devoted ſeveral things.

to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, ſhall ſurely be the Lords, and I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.

32 ¶ So Jephthah paſſed over unto the children of Ammon to fight againſt them, and the Lord delivered them into his hands.

33 And he ſmote them from Aroer, even till thou come to Minnith, even twenty cities, and unto the plain of the vineyards, with a very great ſlaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were ſubdued before the children of Iſrael.

34 ¶ And Jephthah came to Mizpeh unto his houſe, and behold, his daughter came out to meet him with timbrels and with dances, and ſhe was his only child: beſide her he had neither ſon nor daughter.

35 And it came to paſs when he ſaw her, that he rent his clothes, and ſaid, Alas, my daughter, thou haſt brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me: for I have opened my mouth unto the Lord, and I cannot go back.

Before Christ 1143.

36 And ſhe ſaid unto him, My father, if thou haſt opened thy mouth unto the Lord, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; foraſmuch as the Lord hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even of the children of Ammon.

37 And ſhe ſaid unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: Let me alone two months, that I may go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I and my fellows.

38 And he ſaid, Go. And he ſent her away for two months: and ſhe went with her companions, and bewailed her virgi- upon the mountains.

39 And it came to paſs at the end of two months that ſhe returned unto her father, who did with her according to his vow which he had vowed: and ſhe knew no man. And it was a cuſtom of Iſrael,

Shall ſurely be the Lords, and I will offer it up.] The particle rendered and, may be taken more properly in the disjunctive ſenſe, or, as ſome judicious critics, both Chriſtians and Jews, have ſolidly proved; and then the ſenſe is, it ſhall be conſecrated to the Lord, if it be not fit for a burnt-offering; or, if it be fit for it, actually offered on the altar.

Ver. 36. Do to me according to, &c.] A ſtriking inſtance of religion, fortitude, obedience to parents, and love to her country.

Ver. 37. Let this thing be done for me.] This requeſt, ſhe thought not inconſiſtent with his vow; for he had not vowed to execute it immediately.

Bewail my virginity.] It was accounted a great infelicity, in any of that nation, to die without iſſue.

Ver. 39. Who did with her according to his vow.] This paſſage has given occaſion to great controverſy among commentators, whether Jephthah really offered his daughter for a burnt-offering; or conſecrated her to the ſervice of God. From the note on the 31ſt verſe, it appears, that ſhe was not ſacrificed, but devoted to the Lord. It is indeed evident, that his vow, in many caſes, could not have been executed; for, ſuppoſe a dog, an aſs, or any other unclean animal, had firſt met him, could he have offered it up for a burnt offering unto the Lord? ſuch ſacrifices being abſolutely forbidden by the law of Moſes: and, can it be ſuppoſed, that God, who had ſo often declared, that human ſacrifices were abominations to him, would have permitted a daughter of Iſrael to have been offered upon his altar? Beſides, if Jephthah was obliged to offer his daughter, who ſhould be employed in that work? ſhould the prieſts? They were ordered to do every thing in their power, to deter men from committing this abominable practice? Should the magiſtrates? They well knew ſuch ſacrifices were forbidden by God himſelf. Should Jephthah perform this inhuman office? Surely thoſe, who can conceive him capable of ſuch a taſk, muſt, at the ſame time, think him as void of common ſenſe, as of natural affection. Therefore, it ſeems, that Jephthah's daughter did not fall a ſacrifice, but was devoted to a ſingle life; and the father's trouble aroſe, from the conſideration, that his family, by this means, would be extinct, and himſelf deſtitute of iſſue to inherit his eſtate.

She knew no man.] A ſtrong proof that ſhe was not ſacrificed; for the ſacred hiſtorian tell us himſelf here, that after the vow was performed, ſhe knew no man. She lived in a ſtate of virginity, in ſome retired place, where ſhe was ſecluded from all ſociety, except that of virgins.

Ver. 40. The daughters of Iſrael went yearly to lament, &c.] The daughters of Iſrael went up, either to talk and converſe with her, or to celebrate her praiſe; or to comfort her concerning her ſolitary condition. The original word, tranſlated to lament, may be applied to all theſe ſenſes.

CHAP. XII.

1 The Ephraimites quarrelling with Jephthah, and diſcerned by Shibboleth, are ſlain by the Gileadites. 7 Jephthah dieth.

AND the men of Ephraim gathered themſelves together, and went northward, and ſaid unto Jephthah, Wherefore paſſedſt thou over to fight againſt the children of Ammon, and didſt not call us to go with thee? we will burn thine houſe upon thee with fire.

2 And Jephthah ſaid unto them, I and my people were at great ſtrife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands.

3 And when I ſaw that ye delivered me not, I put my life in my hands, and paſſed over againſt the children of Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand: wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight againſt me?

4 Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead ſmote Ephraim, becauſe they ſaid, Ye Gileadites are fugitives of Ephraim, among the Ephraimites, and among the Manaſſites.

5 And the Gileadites took the paſſages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was ſo, that when thoſe Ephraimites which were eſcaped, ſaid, Let me go over; that the men of Gilead ſaid unto him, Art thou an Epraimite? If he ſaid, Nay: Before Christ 1143.

6 Then ſaid they unto him, Say now Shibboleth: and he ſaid Sibboleth: for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and ſlew him at the paſſages of Jordan: and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites forty and two thouſand.

7 And Jephthah judged Iſrael ſix years: 1137. then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

Ver. 3. I put my life in my hands.] I expoſed myſelf to great danger.

Ver. 6. Say now Shibboleth.] Nothing is more notorious, than that people of the ſame nation and language, differ greatly in their pronounciation, in ſeveral parts of the country. In Paleſtine, the people in Galilee, and thoſe in Jeruſalem, ſpake the ſame tongue; and yet we find, in the time of Chriſt, that Peter's ſpeech betrayed him. In Greece, all ſpake Greek; yet the Ionians, Atticks, Dorians, and Œolians, pronounced very differently: and here the Gileadites and Ephramites, though of one nation, yet the latter could not pronounce the letter ſhin; ſo the teſt they put them to was this; to ſay, Let me paſs over the water. The word Shibboleth ſignifying, not only an ear of corn, but alſo floods of waters.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Iſrael is in the hand of the Philiſtines. 2 An angel appeareth to Manoahs wife. 8 The angel appeareth to Manoah. 15 Manoahs ſacrifice, whereby the angel is diſcovered. 24 Samſon is born.

AND the children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of the LORD, and the LORD delivered them into the hand of the Philiſtines forty years.

2 ¶ And there was a certain man of Zorah, of the family of the Danites, whoſe name was Manoah, and his wife was barren and bare not.

3 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto the woman, and ſaid unto her, Behold now, thou art barren and beareſt not: but thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon.

4 Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and drink not wine, nor ſtrong drink, and eat not any unclean thing.

5 For lo, thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon, and no razor ſhall come on his head: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite unto God from the womb: and he ſhall begin to deliver Iſrael out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

6 ¶ Then the woman came and told her huſband, ſaying, A man of God came unto me, and his countenance was like the countenance of an angel of God, very terrible: but I aſked him not whence he was, neither told he me his name.

7 But he ſaid unto me, Behold, thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon; and now drink no wine, nor ſtrong drink, neither eat any unclean thing: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite to God, from the womb to the day of his death.

8 ¶ Then Manoah intreated the LORD, and ſaid, O my LORD, let the man of God which thou didſt ſend, come again unto us, and teach us what we ſhall do unto the child that ſhall be born.

9 And God hearkened to the voice of Manoah; and the angel of God came again unto the woman as ſhe ſat in the field: but Manoah her huſband was not with her.

10 And the woman made haſte, and ran, and ſhewed her huſband, and ſaid unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day.

11 And Manoah aroſe, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and ſaid unto him, Art thou the man that ſpakeſt unto the woman? And he ſaid, I am.

12 And Manoah ſaid, Now let thy words come to paſs: How ſhall we order the child, and how ſhall we do unto him?

13 And the Angel of the LORD ſaid unto Manoah, Of all that I ſaid unto the woman, let her beware.

14 She may not eat of any thing that cometh out of the vine, neither let her drink wine or ſtrong drink, nor eat any unclean thing: all that I command her, let her obſerve.

15 ¶ And Manoah ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, let us detain thee, until we ſhall have made ready a kid for thee.

Notes on Chap. XIII.

Ver. 1. Forty years.] This was the ſixth oppreſſion, and the longeſt they ever yet lay under.

Ver. 3. Thou art barren and beareſt not: but thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon.] It is remarkable, that the greateſt men of this nation were born of barren women; to inſtance in but a few, Iſaac, Joſeph, Samſon, Samuel, and John baptiſt.

Ver. 4. Drink not wine nor ſtrong drink.] Becauſe he was deſigned to be a perpetual Nazarite, from his conception till his death; which could not be, if ſhe had drank wine, or ſtrong drink: the child in the womb, living by the ſame nouriſhment with the mother.

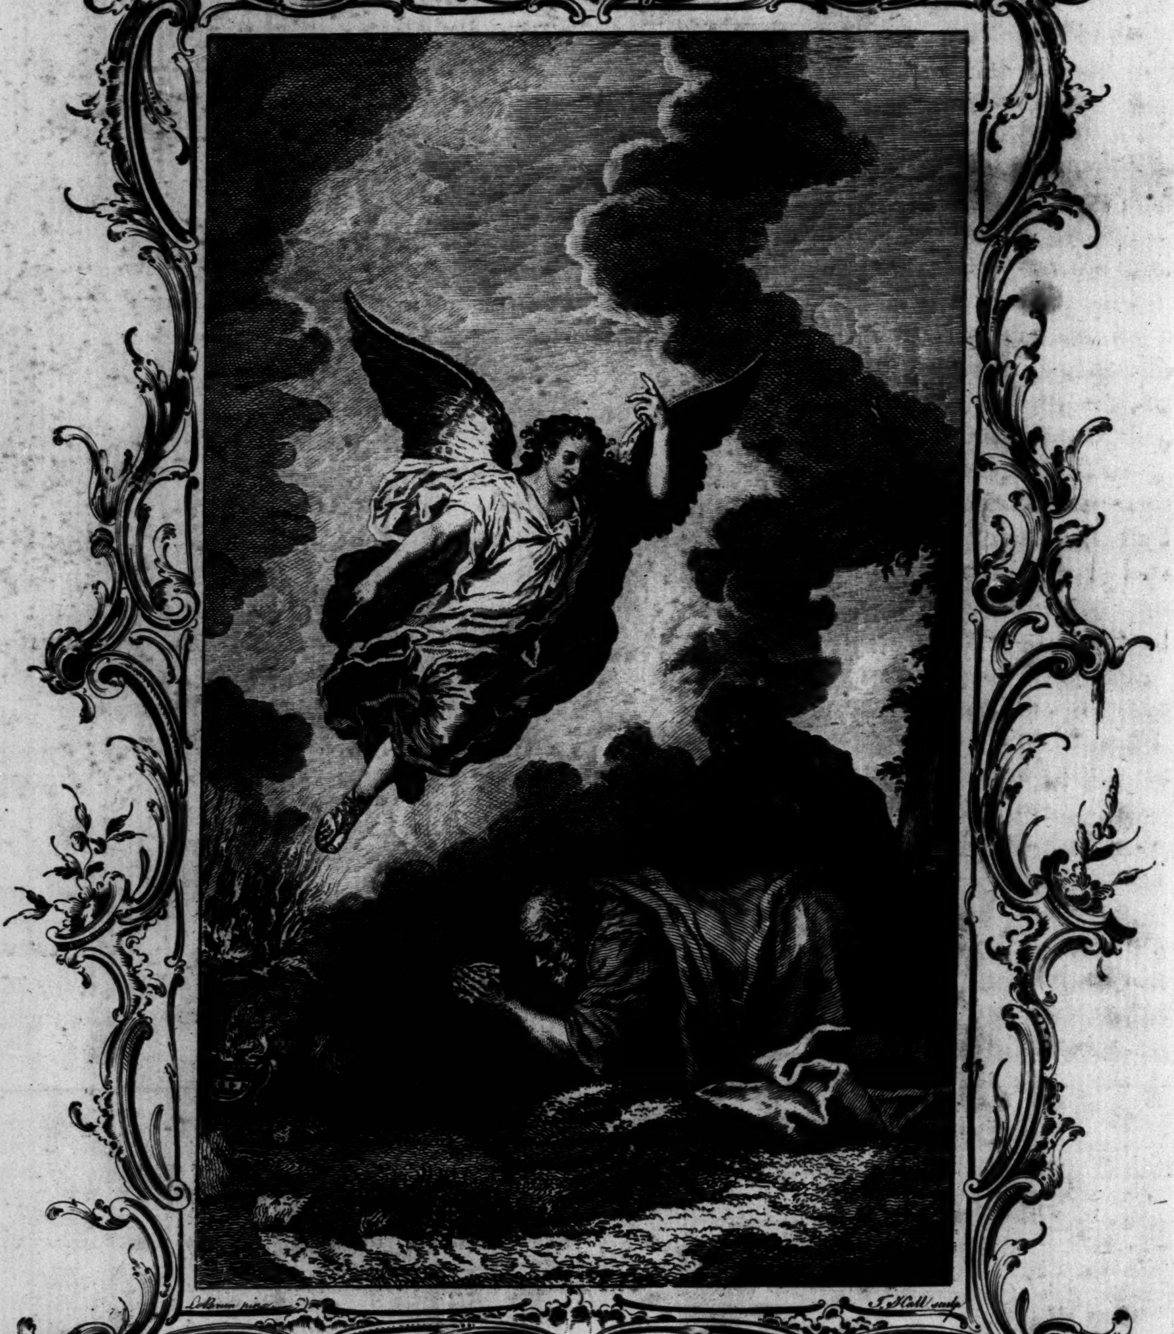
The Angel leaving Manoah & his Wife.



Le Brun pinx. J. Hall sculp.

When the Flame went up toward Heaven from off the Altar, the Angel of the Lord ascended in the Flame of the Altar: and Manoah and his Wife looked on it, & fell on their Faces to the Ground. Judg. XIII. 20.

Before Chriſt 1161. 16 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread: and if thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou muſt offer it unto the LORD: for Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD.

17 And Manoah ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, what is thy name, that when thy ſayings come to paſs, we may do thee honour?

18 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto him, Why aſkeſt thou thus after my name, ſeeing it is ſecret?

19 So Manoah took a kid with a meat-offering, and offered it upon a rock unto the LORD: and the angel did wonderouſly, and Manoah and his wife looked on.

20 For it came to paſs, when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the angel of the LORD aſcended in the flame of the altar: and Manoah and his wife looked on it, and fell on their faces to the ground.

21 (But the angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife.) Then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD.

22 And Manoah ſaid unto his wife, We ſhall ſurely die, becauſe we have ſeen God.

23 But his wife ſaid unto him, If the LORD were pleaſed to kill us, he would not have received a burnt-offering and a meat-offering at our hands, neither would he have ſhewed us all theſe things, nor would as at this time have told us ſuch things as theſe. Before Chriſt 1161.

24 ¶ And the woman bare a ſon, and called his name Samſon: and the child grew, and the LORD bleſſed him.

25 And the ſpirit of the LORD began to move him at times in the camp of Dan, between Zorah and Eſhtaol.

CHAP. XIV.

1 Samſon deſireth a wife of the Philiſtines. 5 In his journey he killeth a lion. 8 In a ſecond journey he findeth hony in the carcaſe. 10 Samſons marriage-feaſt: 12 His riddle by his wife is made known: 19 He ſpoileth thirty Philiſtines: 20 His wife is married to another.

AND Samſon went down to Timnath, and ſaw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philiſtines. 1141.

2 And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and ſaid, I have ſeen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philiſtines: now therefore get her for me to wife.

3 Then his father and his mother ſaid unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goeſt to take a wife of the uncircumciſed Philiſtines? And Samſon ſaid unto his father, Get her for me, for ſhe pleaſeth me well.

4 But his father and his mother knew not that it was of the LORD, that he ſought an occaſion againſt the Philiſtines: for

Ver. 18. Seeing it is ſecret.] Or rather, as in the margin it is wonderful; So the ſeptuagint reads it, Thaumaſton, admirable. Hence we learn, this was the Meſſiah himſelf, whom Iſaiah calls wonderful Iſa. ix. 6.

Ver. 19. The angel did wonderouſly.]Probably he brought fire out of the rock, as in the days of Gideon; for we read of no fire which Manoah brought, and yet there was a flame that went up toward heaven, and in which the angel of the Lord aſcended.

Ver. 22. We ſhall ſurely die, becauſe, &c.] It was the opinion of good men among the ancients, if they ſaw apparently an inhabitant of the other world, he came to call them away from this.

Ver. 25. In the camp of Dan, &c] There was no army of the Danites encamped where Samſon diſplayed his valour; but this is the name of a place called in the Hebrew, Machana-dan, the camp of Dan; in which it may be, Samſon lived. See chap. xviii. 12. Where we have an account of an expedition of the Danites, which, though placed after, really happened before this tranſaction of Samſon.

NOTES on Chap. XIV.

Ver. 1. Timnah.] This city was in his own tribe; and though now probably in the hand of the Philliſtines, who had made the Iſraelites tributaries, yet this did not hinder a commerce being carried on between them.

Before Christ 1141.

for at that time the Philiſtines had dominion over Iſrael.

5 ¶ Then went Samſon down, and his father and his mother to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and behold a young lion roared against him.

6 And the ſpirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

7 And he went down, and talked with the woman, and ſhe pleaſed Samſon well.

8 ¶ And after a time, he returned to take her, and he turned aſide to ſee the carcaſe of the lion: and behold, there was a ſwarm of bees, and hony in the carcaſe of the lion.

9 And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the hony out of the carcaſe of the lion.

10 ¶ So his father went down unto the woman, and Samſon made there a feaſt: for ſo uſed the young men to do.

11 And it came to paſs when they ſaw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

Before Christ 1141.

12 ¶ And Samſon ſaid unto them, I will now put forth a riddle unto you: if you can certainly declare it me within the ſeven days of the feaſt, and find it out, then I will give you thirty ſheets, and thirty change of garments.

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then ſhall ye give me thirty ſheets, and thirty change of garments. And they ſaid unto him, put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14 And he ſaid unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the ſtrong came forth ſweetneſs. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that they ſaid unto Samſons wife, Entice thy huſband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, leſt we burn thee and thy fathers houſe with fire: have ye called us to take that we have? is it not ſo?

16 And Samſons wife wept before him, and ſaid, Thou doſt but hate me, and loveſt me not: thou haſt put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and haſt not told it me. And he ſaid unto her, Behold,

---

Ver. 6. He told not his father, &c.] Afraid leſt it ſhould come to the ears of the Philliſtines, and make them jealous of him.

Ver. 8. Behold, there was a ſwarm of bees.] It is obſerved, that bees abhor ſtinking ſmells, and abſtain from fleſh; which has made ſome think it ſtrange, that a ſwarm of bees ſhould be found in the carcaſe of a lion; but it is to be conſidered, this was a good while after the lion was killed, when Samſon was returning to Timnah, to compleat his marriage; (and the Hebrew doctors ſay, that marriages were not uſed to be celebrated, till twelve months after the eſpouſals) therefore, either time had conſumed, or birds and beaſts devoured all the fleſh, and nothing was left but the ſkeleton; in which the bees did not breed (for the notion of inſects breeding, in that manner, is now quite exploded) but only ſettled there when ſwarmed, as they have done ſometimes in dead mens ſculls, and in their tombs.

Ver. 11. They brought thirty companions.] Her friends out of reſpect to him, brought this number of bride-men to honour his nuptials; though ſome think they came for a guard, leſt he ſhould attempt any diſturbance, of which the Philiſtines might have been afraid, when they perceived he was a man of ſuch extraordinary ſtrength and valour.

Ver. 14. Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the ſtrong came forth ſweetneſs.] The oppoſition is manifeſt in the former part of this riddle, but not in the latter; for weakneſs is oppoſed to ſtrength, not ſweetneſs, whoſe oppoſite is bitterneſs, or ſharpneſs. But Bochart has ingeniouſly obſerved, that theſe two words, ſtrong, and ſharp, are often times uſed promiſcuouſly: for in the Arabic language, the word Mirra. which ſignifies ſtrength, comes from Marra, which ſignifies to be ſharp, or bitter; and ſo in the latin, where Acer a ſharp man, is as much as a valiant man, one who eagerly engages the enemy; and we find in ſome of the beſt authors, this particular epithet applied to lions; genus acre leonum; and therefore the Antitheſis of the words is this, Food came from the devourer, and ſweetneſs from that which is eager, or ſharp; i. e. violent, or fierce.

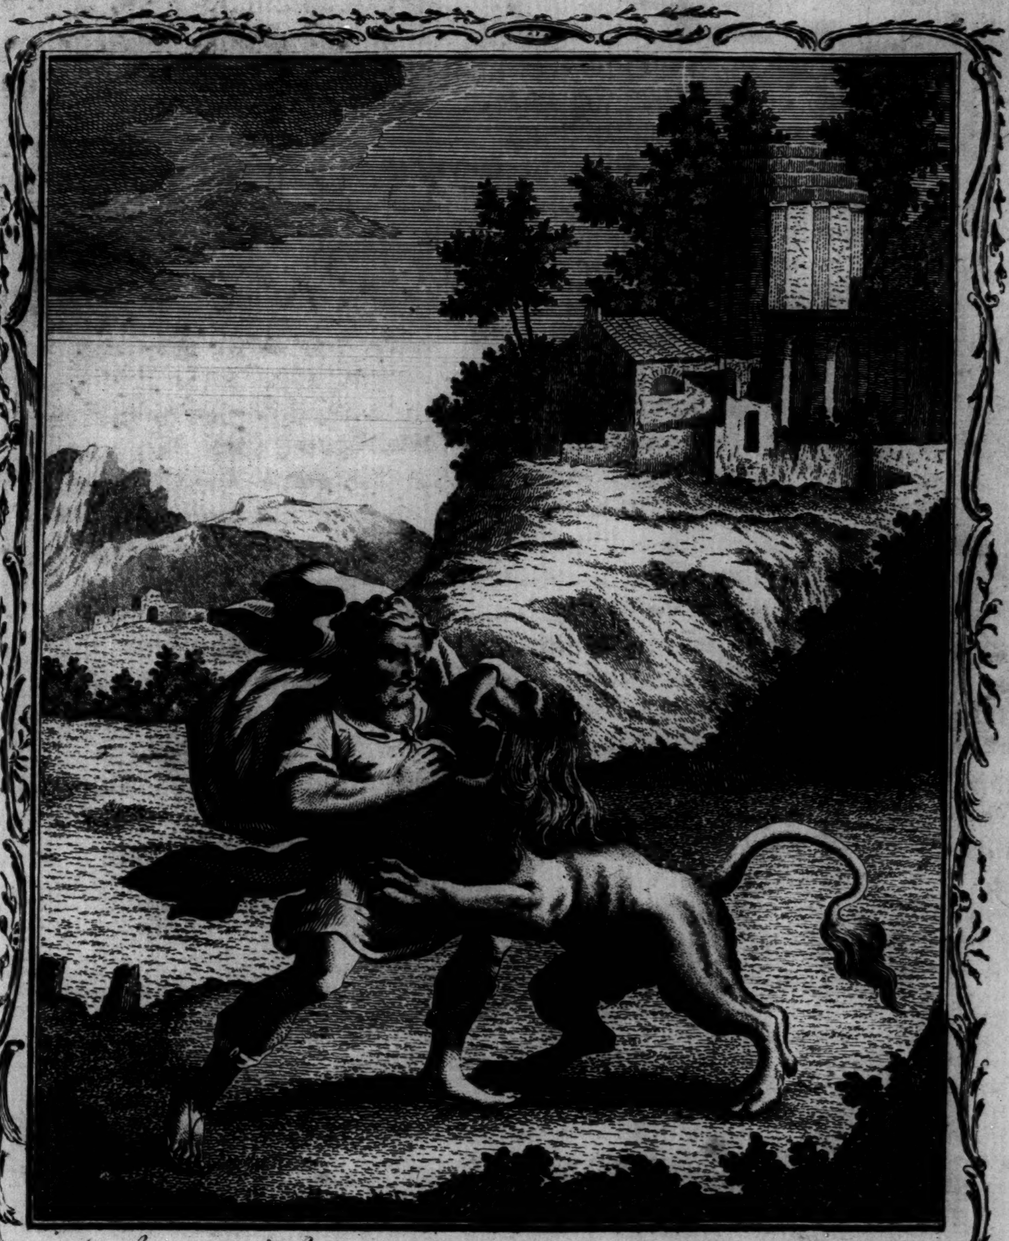
Ver. 15. On the ſeventh day.] The ſeptuagint reads on the fourth day, which is certainly right; for it is ſaid ver. 17 ſhe wept—the reſt of the ſeven days; if they did not threaten her till the ſeventh day, there was no time for weeping.



And the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done. Judges Chap. XIV. Ve. 6.

19 ¶ And the ſpirit of the Lord came upon him, and he went down to Aſhkelon, and ſlew thirty men of them, and took their ſpoil, and gave change of garments unto them which expounded the riddle: and his anger was kindled, and he went up to his fathers houſe.

Whom he had uſed as his friend.] Treated with more kindneſs and reſpect than the reſt. It is thought he was the principal Bride-man, who was called, the friend of the bridegroom, John iii. 29.

Notes on Chap. XV.

Ver. 4. Samſon went and caught three hundred foxes.] The ingenuity of Commentators has been greatly exerciſed in illuſtrating this paſſage. Some think, that inſtead of Schualim, we ſhould read Schoalim, which properly ſignifies Sheaves, and that Sanah, which we tranſlate Tail, ſignifies the extreme or outermoſt part of a thing; they ſuppoſe therefore, that Samſon ſet fire to three hundred ſhocks of corn, by laying two ſheaves between each ſhock to make a communication, and by putting fire immediately to the ends of thoſe intermediate ſheaves. However, without entertaining any novel interpoſition, theſe three hundred foxes, which Samſon is ſaid to have caught, are not, even in a literal ſenſe, ſo incredible a thing, nor ſo liable to ridicule, as ſome are apt to imagine; for by the accounts of ſeveral travellers, the whole country, in particular that part which belonged to the tribe of Gad, ſo abounded in foxes, that ſeveral places took their names from them; but farther, under the names of foxes may, not improperly, be comprehended, a creature very much like them, called Thoes, which go in ſuch herds, that two hundred of them have been ſeen together at once; the manner of catching them was, not only by hunting, but by ſnares and nets; and Samſon it is like, did not perform this alone by himſelf, in a day and a night; but was aſſiſted by his ſervants and neighbours (being a man of conſiderable eminence in his country) and he might poſſibly be ſome weeks in accompliſhing his deſign. We may hundred foxes, and took fire-brands, and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midſt between two tails.

5 And when he had ſet the brands on fire, he let them go into the ſtanding corn of the Philiſtines, and burnt up both the ſhocks, and alſo the ſtanding corn, with the vineyards and olives.

6 ¶ Then the Philiſtines ſaid, Who hath done this? And they anſwered, Samſon the ſon in law of the Timnite, becauſe he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philiſtines came up, and burnt her and her father with fire.

7 ¶ And Samſon ſaid unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you, and after that, I will ceaſe.

8 And he ſmote them hip and thigh with a great ſlaughter; and he went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam.

9 ¶ Then the Philiſtines went up, and pitched in Judah, and ſpread themſelves in Lehi.

10 And the men of Judah ſaid, Why are ye come up againſt us? And they anſwered, To bind Samſon are we come up, to do to him, as he hath done to us.

11 Then three thouſand men of Judah, went to the top of the rock Etam, and ſaid to Samſon, Knoweſt thou not that the Philiſtines are rulers over us? And he ſaid unto them, As they did unto me, ſo have I done unto them.

Before Chriſt 1140.

12 And they ſaid unto him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philiſtines. And Samſon ſaid unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me yourſelves.

13 And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, No: but we will bind thee faſt, and deliver thee into their hand: but ſurely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock.

14 ¶ And when he came unto Lehi, the Philiſtines ſhouted againſt him: and the ſpirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and the cords that were upon his arms, became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his bands looſed from off his hands.

may conclude then, that the muſtering up ſuch a number of foxes, in order to burn up the Philiſtines corn, was not an impracticable thing, ſuppoſing Samſon at liberty to proſecute his revenge in this manner.

We have a famous monument of this fact of Samſon's in Ovid faſtorum Lib. 4. where he ſays the Romans every year, in the middle of April, let looſe ſome foxes in the Circus, with burning torches faſtened to their Backs. This feaſt was called Vulpinalia, or the feaſt of foxes.

Ver. 6. Burnt her and her father with fire.] Several manuſcripts read, burnt her and her father's houſe, which is confirmed by the Syriac and other verſions.

Ver. 8. He ſmote them hip and thigh.] The meaning of this expreſſion is not eaſily explained. The Chaldee paraphraſt interprets it, he ſmote both horſemen and footmen; the one reſting on their legs, and the other on their thighs, as they ſat cloſe to their horſes. Others ſuppoſe, that he ſmote them on their legs and thighs, as they endeavoured to fly from him; and others, that he ſmote them with his leg on their thigh, and gave them great hurts or wounds; referring it to wreſtling matches, (an exerciſe not unknown to the people of the Eaſt, as is manifeſt, from Gen. xxx. 8. and xxxii. 34.) to which every one was invited; and that in the midſt of the grapple with them, he broke their thighs with a kick or twiſt of his leg.

The rock Etam.] A ſtrong place in the tribe of Judah, acceſſible only by one path, and that not wide enough for two men to paſs a-breaſt; and therefore eaſily defenſible.

Ver. 13. Brought him up from the rock] From the cave on the top of the rock.

Ver. 16. With the jaw-bone of an aſs.] It is affirmed by the learned, that the aſſes in Syria, are both ſtronger and larger than what we have with us; and conſequently their bones better fitted to ſuch a ſervice as this.

Ver. 17. Ramath-Lehi.] The projection or caſting away of the jaw-bone.

1120. THen went Samſon to Gaza, and ſaw there an harlot, and went in unto her.

2 And it was told the Gadites, ſaying, Samſon is come hither. And they compaſſed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were quiet all the night, ſaying, In the morning when it is day, we ſhall kill him. Before Chriſt 1120.

Ver. 19. God clave an hollow place that was in the jaw, and there came water thereout.] Lebi, which ſignifies a jaw-bone, is here the proper name of a place; and doubtleſs had its name from this prodigy of valour performed by Samſon, with the jaw-bone, and the miraculous fountain, which God cauſed to burſt out of the ground, to allay his hero's thirſt. The paſſage, therefore, ſhould have been rendered, and God clave an hollow place which was in Lebi. Modern travellers inform us, that in the ſuburbs of Eleutheropolis (in all probability the ancient Lehi) the fountain which flowed on this occaſion, is ſtill remaining, and called to this day, the fountain of the jaw.

En-hakkore, which is in Lebi.] Bochart renders it, EN-HAKKORE ASHER BELEHI, the fountain of him who called, which is in Lebi.

NOTES on Chap. XVI.

Ver. 1. Gaza.] A city ſituated between Rophia and Aſhkelon, towards the ſouthern extremity of the promiſed land.

Saw there an harlot.] It is likely ſhe kept a public-houſe to entertain ſtrangers; and ſo Joſephus ſuppoſes, he took up his lodgings in one of the public inns of the city.

Ver. 3. Took the doors of the gate of the city, &c.] He did not ſtay to break them open, but plucked up the poſts out of the ground, with the doors hanging upon them, faſt barred, which ſo aſtoniſhed the guards, that they had no heart to follow him.

To the top of an hill that is before Hebron.] The ſeptuagint and vulgate have it, that looketh towards Hebron; for, it is not probable, that he carried them to Hebron, which was near twenty miles diſtant from Gaza.

Ver. 4. Sorek.] This was a place in Judea, famous for choice wines, and not above a mile and an half from Eſhcol, whence the ſpies brought a bunch of grapes for a ſample of the fruitfulneſs of the country.

Delilah.] Whether Delilah was a woman of Iſrael, or one of the daughters of the Philiſtines, the ſacred hiſtorian has not informed us. However this be, her whole behaviour ſpeaks her a mercenary woman, who would do any thing for money; and ſo Joſephus calls her a common proſtitute of the Philiſtines.

Ver. 5. We will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of ſilver.] By pieces of ſilver, is generally underſtood ſhekels, the whole ſum therefore, was five thouſand five hundred ſhekels, or about three hundred and forty-three pounds fifteen ſhillings, of our money.

Ver. 6. Tell me—wherewith thou mighteſt be bound to afflict thee.] There is a great deal of probability in Joſephus's manner of telling this ſtory: "While they were "eating and drinking together, and he was careſſing lieth, and wherewith thou mighteſt be bound to afflict thee.

7 And Samſon ſaid unto her, If they bind me with ſeven green withs, that were never dried, then ſhall I be weak, and be as another man.

8 Then the lords of the Philiſtines brought up to her ſeven green withs, which had not been dried, and ſhe bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber) And ſhe ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it toucheth the fire: ſo his ſtrength was not known.

10 And Delilah ſaid unto Samſon, Behold, thou haſt mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mighteſt be bound.

11 And he ſaid unto her, If they bind me faſt with new ropes that never were occupied, then ſhall I be weak, and be as another man.

12 Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. (And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber) And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah ſaid unto Samſon, Hitherto thou haſt mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mighteſt be bound. And he ſaid unto her, If thou weaveſt the ſeven locks of my head with the web.

“ her, ſhe fell into an admiration of his wonderful deeds; and having highly extolled them, deſired him to tell her, how he came to excel all other men in ſtrength;” for, we cannot ſuppoſe, ſhe bluntly aſked him at once, wherewith he might be bound and afflicted, without any previous diſcourſe.

Ver. 7. If they bind me, &c.] He amuſes her with fictions, either in jeſt, or elſe having ſuſpicion of her deſign againſt him.

Ver. 13. After this verſe, there is plainly a verſe omitted, which the ſeptuagint has ſupplied—Seven locks of my head with a web, and faſten them with a pin unto the wall; then ſhall I be weak, and be as another man: and it came to paſs when he ſlept, that Delilah took ſeven locks of his head, and wove them with a web; and faſtened them with a pin, &c.

Ver. 14. Went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.] A learned commentator is of opinion, that Samſon's hair being very long, was interwoven with the threads and warp of a web of cloth, there being a loom near, with which Delilah might now and then divert herſelf; that by his permiſſion, ſhe might take the locks of his hair, work it into the web, and to hinder its being pulled out, might ſecure it with an iron pin thruſt into the beam; but that Samſon when he awoke, took the loom along with him at his hair; and indeed without ſome ſuch ſolution, we cannot well tell what to make of his going away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

Ver. 17. If I be ſhaven, then my ſtrength will go from me.] Though plenty of hair may be an indication of bodily ſtrength; yet ſince he who is naturally ſtrong, becomes not leſs ſo by having his hair cut off, it therefore neceſſarily follows, that his hair was no natural cauſe of his ſtrength, but that it was a ſupernatural gift, and not always inherent in him, but only diſpenſed at certain times, when the ſpirit of God came upon him. When in compliance to his harlot, he ſuffered his hair to be cut off, he broke the covenant with God (for a Nazarite was not to ſuffer a razor to come upon his head) forfeited the ſpirit of ſtrength and courage, and ſo became a prey to his enemies.

Upon this ſtory of Samſon, is evidently founded the fable of Niſus, king of Megara; upon whoſe hair, the fortune of his kingdom depended. Ovid Met. Lib. 8.

— The Philistines took him, and put out his Eyes — and bound him with Fetters of Braſs — Judges XVI. 21.

Before Christ 1120. me, and I ſhall become weak, and be like any other man.

18 And when Delilah ſaw that he had told her all his heart, ſhe ſent and called for the lords of the Philiſtines, ſaying, Come up this once, for he hath ſhewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philiſtines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

19 And ſhe made him ſleep upon her knees, and ſhe called for a man, and ſhe cauſed him to ſhave off the ſeven locks of his head, and ſhe began to afflict him, and his ſtrength went from him.

20 And ſhe ſaid, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. And he awoke out of his ſleep, and ſaid, I will go out as at other times before, and ſhake myſelf. And he wiſt not that the LORD was departed from him.

21 ¶ But the Philiſtines took him, and put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of braſs, and he did grind in the priſon-houſe.

22 Howbeit the hair of his head began to grow again, after he was ſhaven.

23 Then the lords of the Philiſtines gathered them together, for to offer a great ſacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice: for they ſaid, Our god hath delivered Samſon our enemy into our hand.

24 And when the people ſaw him, they praiſed their god: for they ſaid, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the deſtroyer of our country, which ſlew many of us. Before Chriſt 1120.

25 And it came to paſs when their hearts were merry, that they ſaid, Call for Samſon, that he may make us ſport. And they called for Samſon out of the priſon-houſe; and he made them ſport: and they ſet him between the pillars.

26 And Samſon ſaid unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the houſe ſtandeth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the houſe was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philiſtines were there: and there were upon the roof about three thouſand men and women, that beheld while Samſon made ſport.

28 And Samſon called unto the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD GOD, remember me, I pray thee, and ſtrengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philiſtines for my two eyes.

29 And Samſon took hold of the two middle pillars, upon which the houſe ſtood, and on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left.

Ver. 21. He did grind in the priſon.] Before the invention of wind and water-mills, men made uſe of hand-mills, with which they ground their corn; probably in this priſon, where Samſon was confined, there was a public mill for that purpoſe.

Ver. 23. Dagon.] The word dagon, is taken from the Phœnician root dag, ſignifying a fiſh; accordingly the idol is uſually repreſented (as the heathens do Tritons and Syrens) in the ſhape of a woman, with the lower parts of a fiſh.

Ver. 27. Now the houſe was full.] Some think it was one of their temples, in which they met to praiſe their god; indeed no private houſe can be thought large enough to contain ſuch a number of people.

Upon the roof.] The roofs of their buildings were flat, ſo that men might walk there; but how they ſhould ſee Samſon from thence, we cannot conceive, unleſs there were windows to open upon occaſion, by which they could look into the houſe; or elſe battlements on the inſide of the top (as in our cathedrals) where they might ſtand.

Ver. 29. Samſon took hold of the two middle pillars on which the houſe ſtood.] The thoughts of the great Sir Chriſtopher Wren, on this famous fabric, will give us a diſtinct idea of it. In conſidering, ſays he, what this fabric muſt be, that could, at one pull, be demoliſhed; I conceive it was an oval amphitheatre, the ſcene in the middle, where a vaſt roof of cedar-beams, reſting upon the walls. centered all upon one ſhort architrave, that united two cedar pillars in the middle; one pillar would not be ſufficient to unite the ends of at leaſt one hundred beams, that tended to the center; therefore, I ſay, there muſt be a ſhort architrave, reſting upon two pillars, upon

Before Christ 1120. 30 And Samſon ſaid, Let me die with the Philiſtines: and he bowed himſelf with all his might; and the houſe fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein: ſo the dead which he ſlew at his death, were more than they which he ſlew in his life.

31 Then his brethren, and all the houſe of his father, came down and took him, and brought him up, and buried him between Zorah and Eſhtaol, in the buryingplace of Manaoh his father: and he judged Iſrael twenty years.

CHAP. XVII.

1 Of the money that Micah firſt ſtole, then reſtored, his mother maketh images, 5 and the ornaments for them: 7 He hireth a Levite to be his prieſt.

1406. AND there was a man of mount Ephraim, whoſe name was Micah.

2 And he ſaid unto his mother, The eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver, that were taken from thee, about which thou curſedſt, and ſpakeſt of alſo in mine ears; behold, the ſilver is with me, I took it. And his mother ſaid, bleſſed be thou of the LORD, my ſon.

3 And when he had reſtored the eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver to his mother, his mother ſaid, I had wholly dedicated the ſilver unto the LORD, from my hand, for my ſon, to make a graven image, and a molten image: now therefore I will reſtore it unto thee.

Before Christ 1406. 4 Yet he reſtored the money unto his mother, and his mother took two hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and gave them to the founder, who made thereof a graven image, and a molten image: and they were in the houſe of Micah.

5 And the man Micah had an houſe of gods, and made an ephod, and teraphim, and conſecrated one of his ſons, who became his prieſt.

upon which all the beams, tending to the center of the amphitheatre, might be ſupported: now, as he argues, if Samſon, by his miraculous ſtrength, preſſing upon one of theſe pillars, moved it from its baſis, the whole roof muſt of neceſſity fall.

Probably, from hence, the Greeks framed the fable of their Hercules, whoſe Omphale was the ſame with Delilah; his pillars at Calais, is of near affinity with thoſe of Gaza. Herodotus likewiſe reports of him, that being bound in Egypt, he was brought in a pompous manner to be ſacrificed to Jupiter; and that reſting a while, till he could be placed on the altar, he broke out, and ſlew all preſent.

Ver. 30. Let me die with the Philiſtines.] It has been doubted by many, whether Samſon was not guilty of ſelf-murder; but if it be conſidered, that God raiſed him up to be a ſcourge to the Philiſtines, and a judge and defender of Iſrael, he might devote his life to the public good, and the deliverance of his own people: and this purpoſe was in ſome meaſure anſwered; for the Philiſtines were ſo terrified and humbled, at this cloſing ſcene of Samſon's ſtrength and courage, that when his relations came to take away his body, to inter it in the burying-place of his father, they met with no moleſtation whatſoever.

Notes on Chap. XVII.

Ver. 1. And there was a man, &c.] From verſe vi. of this chapter, where it is ſaid in thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael, we may with ſome certainty gather, when this man lived, and what did follows. The anarchy there ſpoken off, happened between the death of thoſe elders who ſurvived Joſhua, and the firſt oppreſſion of Iſrael by Cuſhan; in which ſpace the Iſraelites firſt fell into idolatry.

Ver. 5. The man Micah had an houſe of Gods.] It ſeems to have been Micah's intention to make an imitation of the houſe of God at Shiloh; and it has been well obſerved, by a learned writer, that he would here have blended the worſhip of the true God, and of idols together.

Teraphim.] See note on Gen. xxxi. 19.

Ver. 6. Did that which was right in his own eyes.] What he pleaſed; for, having abandoned the worſhip of the true God, they were without governor, prieſt, or law.

Ver. 8. To ſojourn where he could find a place.] Though there was a ſufficient proviſion made for the Levites by tythes; yet we may well think they were not well paid in this time of anarchy and confuſion; and conſequently he was obliged to ramble about for a maintenance.

Before Christ 1406. comeſt thou? And he ſaid unto him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and I go to ſojourn where I may find a place.

10 And Micah ſaid unto him, Dwell with me, and be unto me a father and a prieſt, and I will give thee ten ſhekels of ſilver by the year, and a ſuit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in.

11 And the Levite was content to dwell with the man, and the young man was unto him as one of his ſons.

12 And Micah conſecrated the Levite, and the young man became his prieſt, and was in the houſe of Micah.

13 Then ſaid Micah, Now know I that the LORD will do me good, ſeeing I have a Levite to my prieſt.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The Danites ſend five men to ſeek out an inheritance. 3 At the houſe of Micah they conſult with Jonathan, and are encouraged in their way. 7 They ſearch Laiſh, and bring back news of good hope. 11 Six hundred men are ſent to ſurpriſe it. 14 In the way they rob Micah of his prieſt and his conſecrate things. 27 They win Laiſh, and call it Dan. 30 They ſet up idolatry, wherein Jonathan inherited the prieſthood.

IN thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael: and in thoſe days the tribe of the Danites ſought them an inheritance to dwell in: for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Iſrael.

Before Christ 1406. 2 And the children of Dan ſent of their family, five men from their coaſts, men of valour, from Zorah, and from Eſhtaol, to ſpy out the land, and to ſearch it; and they ſaid unto them, Go, ſearch the land: who when they came to mount Ephraim, to the houſe of Micah, they lodged there.

3 When they were by the houſe of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite: and they turned in thither, and ſaid unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makeſt thou in this place? and what haſt thou here?

4 And he ſaid unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his prieſt.

5 And they ſaid unto him, Aſk counſel, we pray thee, of God, that we may know whether our way which we go ſhall be proſperous.

6 And the prieſt ſaid unto them, Go in peace: before the LORD is your way, wherein ye go.

7 ¶ Then the five men departed, and came to Laiſh, and ſaw the people that were therein, how they dwelt careleſs, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and ſecure, and there was no magiſtrate in the land, that might put them to ſhame in any thing: and they were far from the Zidonians, and had no buſineſs with any man.

8 And they came unto their brethren to Zorah,

Ver. 12. Micah conſecrated the Levite.] We cannot but wonder at the preſumption of both; Micah having no authority to conſecrate; nor was the Levite (not being of Aaron's family) capable of the prieſtly office; but the confuſion of the times was ſuch, that Micah's ſuperſtition had no check, and the Levite's poverty tempted him to accept of the preferment proffered him.

Ver. 13. Seeing I have a Levite to my prieſt.] He thought the Levite had more right to the office than his own ſon; and therefore would be more acceptable to God. Hence it is evident, that he did not intend to forſake the Lord; but his mind was ſo blinded, that he miſtook one ſmall benefit, for a ſufficient ſign of his favour, when he was guilty of ſo many heinous offences, againſt the divine majeſty.

NOTES on Chap. XVIII.

Ver. 1 The tribe of the Danites.] A family of the Danites.

Ver. 6. Before the Lord is your way] The meaning is, they were under the eye of the Lord, under his providence and care; who would diſpoſe all things for their good ſucceſs. Either the Levite framed this anſwer, in order to pleaſe them; or God permitted him to hear a real voice from the teraphim, to ſerve the ends of his providence.

Before Chriſt 1406.

Zorah, and Eſhtaol: and their brethren ſaid unto them, What ſay ye?

9 And they ſaid, Ariſe, that we may go up againſt them: for we have ſeen the land, and behold, it is very good: and are ye ſtill? be not ſlothful to go, and to enter to poſſeſs the land.

10 When ye go, ye ſhall come unto a people ſecure, and to a large land: for God hath given it into your hands: a place where there is no want of any thing that is in the earth.

11 ¶ And there went from thence of the family of the Danites out of Zorah, and out of Eſhtaol, ſix hundred men, appointed with weapons of war.

12 And they went up, and pitched in Kirjath-jearim, in Judah: wherefore they called that place Mahaneh-dan, unto this day: behold, it is behind Kirjath-jearim.

13 And they paſſed thence unto mount Ephraim, and came unto the houſe of Micah.

14 ¶ Then anſwered the five men that went to ſpy out the country of Laiſh, and ſaid unto their brethren, Do ye know that there is in theſe houſes an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image? now therefore conſider what ye have to do.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the houſe of the young man the Levite, even unto the houſe of Micah, and ſaluted him.

16 And the ſix hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, ſtood by the entering of the gate.

17 And the five men that went to ſpy out the land, went up, and came in thither, and took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the prieſt ſtood in the entering of the gate, with the ſix hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

Before Chriſt 1406.

18 And theſe went into Micahs houſe, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: then ſaid the prieſt unto them, what do ye?

19 And they ſaid unto him, Hold thy peace, lay thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, and be to us a father, and a prieſt: is it better for thee to be a prieſt unto the houſe of one man, or that thou be a prieſt unto a tribe and a family in Iſrael?

20 And the prieſts heart was glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midſt of the people.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the carriage before them.

22 ¶ And when they were a good way from the houſe of Micah, the men that were in the houſes near to Micahs houſe, were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they cried unto the children of Dan: and they turned their faces, and ſaid unto Micah, What aileth thee, that thou comeſt with ſuch a company?

24 And he ſaid, Ye have taken away my gods which I made, and the prieſt, and ye are gone away: and what have I more? and what is this that ye ſay unto me, What aileth thee?

25 And the children of Dan ſaid unto him, Let not thy voice be heard among us, leſt angry fellows run upon thee, and thou loſe thy life, with the lives of thy houſhold.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah ſaw that they were too ſtrong for him, he turned and went back unto his houſe.

28 And there was no deliverer, becauſe it was far from Zidon, and they had no buſineſs with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth by Beth-rehob: and they built a city, and dwelt therein.

29 And they called the name the city Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Iſrael: howbeit the name of the city was Laiſh at the firſt.

30 ¶ And the children of Dan ſet up the graven image: and Jonathan the ſon of Gerſhom, the ſon of Manaſſeh, he and his ſons were prieſts to the tribe of Dan, until the day of the captivity of the land.

31 And they ſet them up Micahs graven image, which he made, all the time that the houſe of God was in Shiloh.

26 Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the mans houſe, where her lord was, till it was light.

27 And her lord roſe up in the morning, and opened the doors of the houſe, and went out to go his way: and behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the houſe, and her hands were upon the threſhold.

28 And he ſaid unto her, Up, and let us be going: but none anſwered. Then the man took her up upon an aſs, and the man roſe up, and gat him unto his place.

29 ¶ And when he was come into his houſe, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided her, together with her bones, into twelve pieces, and ſent her into all the coaſts of Iſrael.

30 And it was ſo, that all that ſaw it, ſaid, There was no ſuch deed done, nor ſeen, from the day that the children of Iſrael came up out of the land of Egypt, unto this day: conſider of it, take advice, and ſpeak your minds.

CHAP. XX.

1 The Levite in a general aſſembly declareth his wrong. 8 The decree of the aſſembly. 12 The Benjamites being cited, make head againſt the Iſraelites. 18 The Iſraelites in two battels loſe forty thouſand. 26 They deſtroy by a ſtratagem all the Benjamites, except ſix hundred.

THen all the children of Iſrael went out, and the congregation was gathered together, as one man, from Dan even to Beer-ſheba, with the land of Gilead, unto the LORD in Mizpeh.

2 And

Ver. 24. Behold, here is my daughter, a maiden, and his concubine, &c.] A ſimilar example to this, we have in Lot, Gen. xix, 8. who like the inhabitant of Gibeah, offered his daughters to the men of Sodom, in order to preſerve the laws of hoſpitality. Both of them appear to have been in a confuſion of thought, and ſeem not ſo much to have minded what was right, as what was leaſt wrong.

Ver. 25. The man took his concubine, and brought her forth.] But they had required the man to be brought forth; and as here is no reaſon for the alteration, ſomething ſeems to be omitted. Biſhop Patrick, therefore, fills up the ſenſe, by ſuppoſing, that the Levite abſolutely refuſed to expoſe, either the old man's daughter, or his concubine, to their luſt; that from hence, a quarrel aroſe, upon which they threatened to kill him, (chap. xx. ver. 5) that the old man perſwaded him not to be ſo obſtinate; and that the men, finding him reſolutely bent to defend himſelf, began to compound, and were content to have his concubine only, which he, for the preſervation of his life, at laſt conſented to.

Ver. 26. Fell down at the door.] That is, fell down dead, through grief and ſhame.

Ver. 29 Into twelve pieces.] That ſo every tribe might have a part of her, Benjamin not excepted, among whom, it was to be hoped, there were ſome who would reſent ſo foul an act, though committed by his own brethren.

NOTES on Chap. XX.

Ver 1. From Dan even to Beer-ſheba, with the land of Gilead.] That is, all Iſrael on both ſides Jordan. But the inhabitants of Jabeſh-Gilead, with the Benjamites, muſt be excepted; who appear to have had no ſenſe of their wickedneſs. Doubtleſs, they were ſummoned as well as their brethren, but neglected to join them.

Mizpeh.] The Mizpeh here mentioned, ſtood on the confines of Judah and Benjamin. It was very conveniently ſituated for a meeting of all the people, who often aſſembled there in after times. It was not far from Shiloh, ſo that they could eaſily conſult the divine majeſty on any occaſion.

Before Chriſt 1406.

2 And the chief of all the people, even of all the tribes of Iſrael, preſented themſelves in the aſſembly of the people of God, four hundred thouſand footmen that drew ſword.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Iſrael were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then ſaid the children of Iſrael, Tell us, how was this wickedneſs?

4 And the Levite the huſband of the woman that was ſlain anſwered and ſaid, I came into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge.

5 And the men of Gibeah roſe againſt me, and beſet the houſe round about upon me by night, and thought to have ſlain me: and my concubine have they forced, that ſhe is dead.

6 And I took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and ſent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Iſrael: for they have committed leudneſs and folly in Iſrael.

7 Behold, ye are all children of Iſrael, give here your advice and counſel.

8 ¶ And all the people aroſe as one man, ſaying, We will not any of us go to his tent, neither will we any of us turn into his houſe.

9 But now, this ſhall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah, we will go up by lot againſt it:

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, and an hundred of a thouſand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the folly that they have wrought in Iſrael.

11 So all the men of Iſrael were gathered againſt the city, knit together as one man.

12 ¶ And the tribes of Iſrael ſent men through all the tribe of Benjamin, ſaying, What wickedneſs is this that is done among you?

13 Now therefore deliver us the men, the children of Belial, which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil from Iſrael. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Iſrael:

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themſelves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah, to go out to battel againſt the children of Iſrael.

15 And the children of Benjamin were numbered at that time out of the cities, twenty and ſix thouſand men that drew ſword, beſide the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered ſeven hundred choſen men.

16 Among all this people there were ſeven hundred choſen men left-handed, every one could ſling ſtones at an hair-breadth, and not miſs.

17 And the men of Iſrael, beſide Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thouſand men that drew ſword; all theſe were men of war.

18 ¶ And the children of Iſrael aroſe, and went up to the houſe of God, and aſked,

---

Ver. 10. We will take ten men of an hundred.] One man took care that nine of his brethren wanted nothing; and ten took care of ninety, &c. ſo that in all, there was forty thouſand out of the four hundred thouſand, who went out to forage for the army.

Ver. 16 Seven hundred choſen men left handed.] This number is mentioned ver. 15. and ſeems here to be redundant. The preſent German Jews, are moſt of them left-handed.

Every one could ſling ſtones at an hair-breadth, and not miſs.] There have been ſuch excellent markſmen in other countries; particularly in the iſlands called Baleares, where they were bred from children, to hit marks with ſtones ſlung out of ſlings. Their natural courage and dexterity, emboldened them with ſuch a ſmall number, to undertake a war againſt ſuch a multitude of their brethren.

Ver. 18. The houſe of God.] In Shiloh, not far from Mizpeh.

Before Christ 1406. aſked counſel of God, and ſaid, Which of us ſhall go up firſt to the battel againſt the children of Benjamin? And the Lord ſaid, Judah ſhall go up firſt.

19 And the children of Iſrael roſe up in the morning, and encamped againſt Gibeah.

20 And the men of Iſrael went out to battel againſt Benjamin, and the men of Iſrael put themſelves in aray to fight againſt them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and deſtroyed down to the ground of the Iſraelites that day, twenty and two thouſand men.

22 And the people the men of Iſrael encouraged themſelves, and ſet their battel again in aray in the place where they put themſelves in aray the firſt day.

23 (And the children of Iſrael went up and wept before the Lord until even, and aſked counſel of the Lord, ſaying, Shall I go up again to battel againſt the children of Benjamin my brother? And the Lord ſaid, Go up againſt him.)

24 And the children of Iſrael came near againſt the children of Benjamin the ſecond day.

25 And Benjamin went forth againſt them out of Gibeah the ſecond day, and deſtroyed down to the ground of the children of Iſrael again, eighteen thouſand men; all theſe drew the ſword.

26 ¶. Then all the children of Iſrael, and all the people went up, and came unto the houſe of God, and wept, and ſat there before the Lord, and faſted that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings before the Lord. Before Christ 1406.

27 And the children of Iſrael enquired of the Lord, (for the ark of the covenant of God was there in thoſe days, 28 And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the ſon of Aaron, ſtood before it in thoſe days) ſaying, Shall I yet again go out to battel againſt the children of Benjamin my brother, or ſhall I ceaſe? And the Lord ſaid, Go up; for to morrow I will deliver them into thine hand.

29 And Iſrael ſet liers in wait round about Gibeah.

30 And the children of Iſrael went up againſt the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themſelves in aray againſt Gibeah, as at other times.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out againſt the people, and were drawn away from the city, and they began to ſmite of the people, and kill as at other times, in the high-ways, of which one goeth up to the houſe of God, and the other to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men of Iſrael.

32 And the children of Benjamin ſaid, They are ſmitten down before us as at the firſt. But the children of Iſrael ſaid, Let us flee, and draw them from the city, unto the high-ways.

33 And all the men of Iſrael roſe up out of their place, and put themſelves in aray

Ver. 23. Aſked counſel of the Lord.] This phraſe, oftentimes mean no more, than conſulting their grand council or ſanhedrim, with the high-prieſt at their head.

Ver. 25. And deſtroyed—eighteen thouſand men.] It has been aſked, why the Iſraelites, in ſo juſt a cauſe, were defeated in two battles? The moſt probable reaſon is, they did not previouſly apply to God in the manner they ſhould have done. They went up indeed to the houſe of God, and aſked counſel, enquiring which ſhould go up firſt to the battle, againſt the children of Benjamin; and alſo, whether they ſhould again attack them; but they never aſked, whether an enterpriſe of that nature would be pleaſing to God, or not. Surely, they ſhould firſt have aſked, whether God had decreed the deſtruction of their brethren. But, ſuppoſing this a juſtifiable war, why might not God take this opportunity of puniſhing the Iſraelites by the hand of their brethren, for their tame permiſſion of more enormous crimes, than thoſe they endeavoured to chaſtiſe? Did they not ſuffer ſpiritual adultery among them, at the very time they were ſo hot upon puniſhing carnal? The whole tribe of Dan had fallen into idolatry, but the rulers of Iſrael were ſo far from puniſhing, that they connived at their apoſtacy.

Before Chriſt 1406. at Baal-tamar: and the liers in wait of Iſrael came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

34 And there came againſt Gibeah ten thouſand choſen men out of all Iſrael, and the battel was ſore: but they knew not that evil was near them.

35 And the LORD ſmote Benjamin before Iſrael: and the children of Iſrael deſtroyed of the Benjamites that day, twenty and five thouſand and an hundred men; all theſe drew the ſword.

36 So the children of Benjamin ſaw that they were ſmitten: for the men of Iſrael gave place to the Benjamites, becauſe they truſted unto the liers in wait which they had ſet beſide Gibeah.

37 And the liers in wait haſted, and ruſhed upon Gibeon, and the liers in wait drew themſelves along, and ſmote all the city with the edge of the ſword.

38 Now there was an appointed ſign between the men of Iſrael and the liers in wait, that they ſhould make a great flame with ſmoke to riſe up out of the city.

39 And when the men of Iſrael retired in the battel, Benjamin began to ſmite and kill of the men of Iſrael about thirty perſons: for they ſaid, Surely they are ſmitten down before us, as in the firſt battel.

40 But when the flame began to ariſe up out of the city, with a pillar of ſmoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and behold, the flame of the city aſcended up to heaven.

41 And when the men of Iſrael turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed: for they ſaw that evil was come upon them.

42 Therefore they turned their backs before the men of Iſrael, unto the way of the wilderneſs, but the battel overtook them; and them which came out of the cities, they deſtroyed in the midſt of them. Before Chriſt 1406.

43 Thus they incloſed the Benjamites round about, and chaſed them, and trode them down with eaſe over againſt Gibeah toward the ſun-riſing.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thouſand men: all theſe were men of valour.

45 And they turned and fled toward the wilderneſs unto the rock of Rimmon: and they gleaned of them in the high-ways five thouſand men, and purſued hard after them unto Gidom, and ſlew two thouſand men of them.

46 So that all which fell that day of Benjamin, were twenty and five thouſand men that drew the ſword; all theſe were men of valour.

47 But ſix hundred men turned and fled to the wilderneſs unto the rock Rimmon, and abode in the rock Rimmon four months.

48 And the men of Iſrael turned again upon the children of Benjamin, and ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, as well the men of every city, as the beaſt, and all that came to hand: alſo they ſet on fire all the cities that they came to.

Ver. 2. Lift up their voices and wept ſore.] When they began

Before Chriſt 1406.

3 And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, why is this come to paſs in Iſrael, that there ſhould be to day one tribe lacking in Iſrael?

4 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the people roſe early, and built there an altar, and offered burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

5 And the children of Iſrael ſaid, Who is there among all the tribes of Iſrael, that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? for they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, ſaying, He ſhall ſurely be put to death.

6 And the children of Iſrael repented them for Benjamin their brother, and ſaid, There is one tribe cut off from Iſrael this day:

7 How ſhall we do for wives for them that remain, ſeeing we have ſworn by the LORD, that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

8 ¶ And they ſaid, What one is there of the tribes of Iſrael, that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? and behold, there came none to the camp from Jabeſh-gilead to the aſſembly.

9 For the people were numbered, and behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation ſent thither twelve thouſand men of the valianteſt, and commanded them, ſaying, Go and ſmite the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead with the edge of the ſword, with the women and the children.

Before Chriſt 1406.

11 And this is the thing that ye ſhall do, Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy every male, and every woman that hath lien by man.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead, four hundred young virgins that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

13 And the whole congregation ſent ſome to ſpeak to the children of Benjamin that were in the rock Rimmon, and to call peaceably unto them.

14 And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had ſaved alive of the women of Jabeſh-gilead: and yet ſo they ſufficed them not.

15 And the people repented them for Benjamin, becauſe that the Lord had made a breach in the tribes of Iſrael.

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation ſaid, How ſhall we do for wives for them that remain, ſeeing the women are deſtroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they ſaid, There muſt be an inheritance for them that be eſcaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not deſtroyed out of Iſrael.

18 Howbeit, we may not give them wives of our daughters: for the children of Iſrael have ſworn, ſaying, Curſed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

19 Then they ſaid, Behold, there is a feaſt of the LORD in Shiloh yearly in a place which is on the north ſide of Bethel, on began ſeriouſly to conſider, how raſhly they had acted, in almoſt totally deſtroying one of the tribes of Iſrael, and had bound themſelves with an oath, not to marry their daughters to the poor remains of it; which conſequently muſt prove the extirpation of the whole.

Ver. 10. Go, and ſmite the inhabitants of Jabeſh-Gilead.] Jabeſh-Gilead was a city in the tribe of Manaſſeh, on the other ſide Jordan.

The maſſacre of thoſe people, without ever ſending to know the reaſon of their abſenting themſelves from the war, was a cruel expedient, to extricate the Iſraelites from the difficulty, in which their ſuperſtitious obſervance of an unlawful oath had involved them; and is a ſhocking inſtance of the iniquity and barbarity of thoſe times; for to ſlay the innocent with the guilty, and to put women and children to death, is the height of injuſtice and cruelty.

Ver. 14. Yet ſo they ſufficed them not.] For ſtill two hundred wanted wives.

Ver. 19. There is a feaſt of the Lord in Shiloh yearly.] This Before Chriſt 1406. on the eaſt ſide of the high-way that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the ſouth of Lebonah.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, ſaying, Go, and lie in wait in the vineyards:

21 And ſee, and behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin.

22 And it ſhall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will ſay unto them, Be favourable unto them for our ſakes: becauſe we reſerved not to each man his wife in the war: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that you ſhould be guilty.

Before Chriſt 1406.

23 And the children of Benjamin did ſo, and took them wives according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and repaired the cities, and dwelt in them.

24 And the children of Iſrael departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe, and to his family, and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance.

25 In thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael, every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

This was the feaſt of tabernacles; a time of exceeding great joy, becauſe they had newly gathered their vintage; and this was the only ſeaſon, in which the Jewiſh virgins were allowed to dance.

Ver. 22. For ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye ſhould be guilty.] More properly, Becauſe ye did not give unto them at this time, ye are to blame.

Ver. 23. And the children of Benjamin—took them wives, &c.] Whatever may be ſaid in vindication of the Benjamites, that what they did, was by order of their ſuperiors, and alſo devoid of that brutal luſt incident to raviſhers: it is certain, the elders of Iſrael, who gave them this advice, had no right to diſpoſe of other peoples children, without their parents approbation. It was a mean prevarication of the elders, namely, that they thought, by this expedient, to keep their oath, becauſe they did not give them wives, but only permitted them to take them.

Whom they caught.] The rape of the Sabines, at the command of Romulus, is produced as a piece of hiſtory parallel to this. He proclaimed a public feaſt, to be celebrated in honour of Neptune, inviting all the neighbouring cities to partake of the diverſions he then intended to exhibit, and ordered all the young men, upon a certain ſignal given, to ſeize and carry off every one a virgin.

Ver. 25. In thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael, &c.] The hiſtorian, having mentioned many of the groſſeſt enormities committed by the Iſraelites, has taken care to aſſign a reaſon for theſe unrighteous proceedings; when, in four different places of the book, he tells us, that in thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael. For want of a ſupreme authority, every tribe, every city, nay, every private man, committed many outrages, each doing what himſelf pleaſed.

Ruth, Chap. I. ver. 7.

The Book of RUTH.

The ARGUMENT.

This book is an appendix to that of Judges. It receives its title from the perſon, whoſe ſtory is principally related, who left her country and kindred, out of affection to her mother-in-law, and her religion, to live with her in Iſrael, in a poor and mean condition. This tranſaction is ſuppoſed to have happened in the days of Shamgar, i. e. about 120 years after Joſhua. The hiſtory concludes with the genealogy of David, from Pharez, the ſon of Judah; that it might appear, the Meſſiah ſprang from that tribe, according to the prediction of Jacob. Samuel is thought to be the author of this, as well as of the book of Judges.

CHAP. I.

Elimelech driven by famine into Moab, dieth there, &c.

Before Chriſt 1312.

NOW it came to paſs in the days when the judges ruled, that there was a famine in the land: and a certain man of Beth-lehem-judah went to ſojourn in the country of Moab, he and his wife, and his two ſons.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two ſons Mahlon and Chilion, Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-judah: and they came into the country of Moab, and continued there.

3 And Elimelech Naomi's huſband died, and ſhe was left, and her two ſons. Before Chriſt 1312.

4 And they took them wives of the women of Moab: the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they dwelled there about ten years.

5 And Mahlon and Chilion died alſo both of them; and the woman was left of her two ſons, and her huſband.

6 ¶ Then ſhe aroſe with her daughters in law, that ſhe might return from the country of Moab: for ſhe had heard in the country of Moab, how that the LORD had viſited his people, in giving them bread.

7 Wherefore ſhe went forth out of the place where ſhe was, and her two daughters in law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi ſaid unto her two daughters in law, Go, return each to her mothers houſe: the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me.

9 The LORD grant you that you may find reſt, each of you in the houſe of her huſband. Then ſhe kiſſed them: and they lift up their voice and wept.

10 And they ſaid unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi ſaid, Turn again, my daughters: why will ye go with me? are there yet any more ſons in my womb, that they may be your huſbands?

12 Turn again, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to have an huſband: if I ſhould ſay, I have hope, if I ſhould have an huſband alſo to night, and ſhould alſo bear ſons:

13 Would ye tarry for them till they were grown? would ye ſtay for them from having huſbands? nay, my daughters: for it grieveth me much for your ſakes, that the hand of the LORD is gone out againſt me.

14 And they lift up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kiſſed her mother in law, but Ruth clave unto her.

15 And ſhe ſaid, Behold, thy ſiſter in law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods: return thou after thy ſiſter in law.

Before Christ 1312.

16 And Ruth ſaid, Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goeſt, I will go; and where thou lodgeſt, I will lodge: thy people ſhall be my people, and thy God my God:

17 Where thou dieſt, will I die, and there will I be buried: the LORD do ſo to me, and more alſo, if ought but death part thee and me.

18 When ſhe ſaw that ſhe was ſtedfaſtly minded to go with her, then ſhe left ſpeaking unto her.

19 ¶ So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem. And it came to paſs when they were come to Beth-lehem, that all the city was moved about them, and they ſaid, Is this Naomi?

20 And ſhe ſaid unto them, Call me not Naomi, call me Mara: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

21 I went out full, but the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, ſeeing the LORD hath teſtified againſt me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabiteſs her daughter in law with her, which returned out of the country of Moab: and they came to Beth-lehem in the beginning of barley-harveſt.

CHAP.

Ver. 8. Go, return each to her mothers houſe.] It ſeems, it was cuſtomary in Moab, as well as in Iſrael, for widows to dwell with their parents.

Ver. 11. Are there yet any more ſons, &c.] Hence it appears, that the cuſtom of a man's marrying his brother's widow when he left no iſſue, (which was before the law of Moſes, ſee Gen. xxxviii. 8.) was ſo ancient, that it was derived into other countries, who were not deſcended from Abraham.

Ver. 15. Is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods.] By this, it appears, that Orpah was not made a proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion, but continued to worſhip the gods of her country; yet this did not make ſuch a difference in the family, (as is too often the caſe, when there is difference in religion) but that ſhe loved her huſband entirely, and had a great affection to his mother, even after his death.

Ver. 19. All the city was moved about them, and they ſaid, Is this Naomi?] It was reported by thoſe who knew her, that ſhe was returned; but the people who ran out of their houſes to ſee her, beholding a great change in her dreſs and countenance, could ſcarce believe it was ſhe.

Ver. 20. Call me not, &c.] She told them, her name was not ſuitable to her preſent condition; which required ſhe ſhould rather be called by a contrary one.

CHAP. II.

1 Ruth gleaneth in the fields of Boaz. 4 Boaz taking knowledge of her, 8 ſheweth her great favour. 18 That which ſhe got, ſhe carrieth to Naomi.

AND Naomi had a kinſman of her huſbands, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech; and his name was Boaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabiteſs ſaid unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field, and glean ears of corn after him, in whoſe ſight I ſhall find grace. And ſhe ſaid unto her, Go, my daughter.

3 And ſhe went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers: and her hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech.

4 ¶ And behold, Boaz came from Beth-lehem, and ſaid unto the reapers, The LORD be with you: and they anſwered him, The LORD bleſs thee.

5 Then ſaid Boaz unto his ſervant that was ſet over the reapers, Whoſe damſel is this?

6 And the ſervant that was ſet over the reapers, anſwered and ſaid, It is the Moabitiſh damſel that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab:

7 And ſhe ſaid, I pray you, let me glean, and gather after the reapers amongſt the ſheaves: ſo ſhe came, and hath continued even from the morning until now, that ſhe tarried a little in the houſe.

8 Then ſaid Boaz unto Ruth, Heareſt thou not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here faſt by my maidens.

Before Christ 1312.

9 Let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men, that they ſhall not touch thee? and when thou art athirſt, go unto the veſſels, and drink of that which the young men have drawn.

10 Then ſhe fell on her face, and bowed herſelf to the ground, and ſaid unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou ſhouldeſt take knowledge of me, ſeeing I am a ſtranger?

11 And Boaz anſwered and ſaid unto her, it hath fully been ſhewed me, all that thou haſt done unto thy mother in law ſince the death of thine huſband: and how thou haſt left thy father and thy mother and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou kneweſt not heretofore.

12 The LORD recompenſe thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Iſrael, under whoſe wings thou art come to truſt.

13 Then ſhe ſaid, Let me find favour in thy ſight, my lord, for that thou haſt comforted me, and for that thou haſt ſpoken friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaidens.

14 And Boaz ſaid unto her, At mealtime

NOTES on Chap. II.

Ver. 2. In whoſe ſight I ſhall find grace.] Either ſhe did not know that poor ſtrangers had a right to glean, as well as the poor of Iſrael; or out of her great piety, ſhe would not challenge it as her right, but as a favour, which ſhe would thankfully acknowledge.

Ver. 4. The Lord be with you.] This is the firſt time we meet with this religious ſalutation; which we afterwards find was familiar, and was continued to our Saviour's days, when the angel ſaluted the bleſſed virgin in this manner.

Ver. 7. In the houſe.] In the tent, which was pitched in the fields, for ſuch as were weary to refreſh themſelves.

Ver. 9. That they ſhall not touch thee.] Shall not give thee any ſort of diſturbance or moleſtation.

Go unto the veſſels, and drink.] There was excellent water at Beth-lehem, which they had brought into the field to quench their thirſt.

Ver. 12. Under whoſe wings thou art come to truſt.] This metaphor ſeems to have been taken from the Cherubims, who ſpread their wings from one ſide of the holy place unto the other, upon which the divine majeſty ſat; which protection and ſafe-guard, was repreſented in the cloud, which covered the Iſraelites in the wilderneſs.

Ver. 13. Though I be not like unto one of thine hand-maidens.] She means, I am ſo obſcure a ſtranger, and of a country of an ill character among you, and therefore not equal to the meaneſt of thy ſervant-maids.

time come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morſel in the vinegar. And ſhe ſat beſide the reapers: and he reached her parched corn, and ſhe did eat and was ſufficed, and left.

15 And when ſhe was riſen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, ſaying, Let her glean even among the ſheaves, and reproach her not.

16 And let fall alſo ſome of the handfuls of purpoſe for her, and leave them that ſhe may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So ſhe gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that ſhe had gleaned: and it was about an ephah of barley.

18 ¶ And ſhe took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law ſaw what ſhe had gleaned: and ſhe brought forth, and gave to her that ſhe had reſerved, after ſhe was ſufficed.

19 And her mother in law ſaid unto her, Where haſt thou gleaned to day? and where wroughteſt thou? bleſſed be he that did take knowledge of thee. And ſhe ſhewed her mother in law with whom ſhe had wrought, and ſaid, The mans name with whom I wrought to day is Boaz.

20 And Naomi ſaid unto her daughter in law, Bleſſed be he of the LORD, who hath not left off his kindneſs to the living and to the dead. And Naomi ſaid unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, one of our next kinſmen.

Before Christ 1312.

21 And Ruth the Moabiteſs ſaid, He ſaid unto me alſo, Thou ſhalt keep faſt by my young men, until they have ended all my harveſt.

22 And Naomi ſaid unto Ruth her daughter in law, It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they meet thee not in any other field.

23 So ſhe kept faſt by the maidens of Boaz to glean, unto the end of barley-harveſt, and of wheat-harveſt; and dwelt with her mother in law.

CHAP. III.

1 By Naomi her inſtruction, 5 Ruth lieth at Boaz his feet. 8 Boaz acknowledgeth the right of a kinſman: 14 He ſendeth her away with ſix meaſures of barley.

THen Naomi her mother in law ſaid unto her, My daughter, ſhall I not ſeek reſt for thee, that it may be well with thee?

2 And now is not Boaz of our kindred, with whoſe maidens thou waſt? Behold, he winnoweth barley to night in the threſhing-floor.

3 Waſh thyſelf therefore, and anoint thee, and put thy raiment upon thee, and get thee down to the floor: but make not thyſelf known unto the man, until he ſhall have done eating and drinking.

4 And it ſhall be when he lieth down, that

Ver. 14. Eat of the bread.] Under this name, is comprehended proviſion in general.

Dip thy morſel in the vinegar.] They had vinegar for ſauce; which was very cooling and refreſhing in hot ſeaſons.

The Jews apply theſe words to the Meſſiah. The MIDRASCH, upon this paſſage, makes the preceding words come thou hither, to ſignify, come to thy kingdom; and the morſel dipt in vinegar, to denote the reproaches and ſufferings of Chriſt; an argument that they expected their Meſſiah to be expoſed to ſuch ſufferings, as our bleſſed Redeemer actually endured. See Pſalm lxix. 21.

Ver. 17. An ephah of barley.] Nearly our buſhel.

Ver. 18. Brought forth, and gave to her that ſhe had reſerved, &c.] What ſhe had left, when ſhe was feaſted with the reapers. This was an inſtance of Ruth's care of her mother-in-law.

Ver. 21. Young men.] The words rendered young men, ſignifies all young men in general; and particularly the maidens, to whom he bid her keep cloſe, verſe 8.

All my harveſt.] Both the barley and wheat-harveſt which followed.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 2. He winnoweth barley to night.] This winnowing to ſeparate the corn from the chaff, was commonly done in the evening, when the heat of the day was over, and cool breezes began to riſe.

Before Christ 1312.

that thou ſhalt mark the place where he ſhall lie, and thou ſhalt go in, and uncover his feet, and lay thee down; and he will tell thee what thou ſhalt do.

5 And ſhe ſaid unto her, All that thou ſayeſt unto me, I will do.

6 ¶ And ſhe went down unto the floor, and did according to all that her mother in law bade her.

7 And when Boaz had eaten and drunk, and his heart was merry, he went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn: and ſhe came ſoftly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs at midnight, that the man was afraid, and turned himſelf: and behold, a woman lay at his feet.

9 And he ſaid, Who art thou? And ſhe anſwered, I am Ruth thine handmaid: ſpread therefore thy ſkirt over thine handmaid, for thou art a near kinſman.

10 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the LORD, my daughter: for thou haſt ſhewed more kindneſs in the latter end, than at the beginning, inaſmuch as thou followedſt not young men, whether poor or rich.

Before Christ 1312.

11 And now, my daughter, fear not, I will do to thee all that thou requireſt: for all the city of my people doth know, that thou art a virtuous woman.

12 And now it is true, that I am thy near kinſman: howbeit there is a kinſman nearer than I.

13 Tarry this night, and it ſhall be in the morning, that if he will perform unto thee the part of a kinſman, well, let him do the kinſmans part; but if he will not do the part of a kinſman to thee, then will I do the part of a kinſman to thee, as the LORD liveth: lie down until the morning.

14 ¶ And ſhe lay at his feet until the morning: and ſhe roſe up before one could know another. And he ſaid, Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor.

15 Alſo he ſaid, Bring the vail that

Ver. 4. Thou ſhalt go in.] This deſign of Naomi's, ſeems at firſt, not very modeſt; but as it had no other intention than what was agreeable to the law of God, it proſpered accordingly.

And uncover his feet, and lay thee down.] She was not to lie by his ſide, for that had been immodeſt; but at his feet, in the poſture of an humble ſupplicant.

Ver. 7. His heart was merry.] It is conjectured, that Boaz now made a great feaſt; that himſelf, and his reapers, and his other neighbours, might rejoice together.

He went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn.] Such was the plain way of living in thoſe ancient times, that the moſt wealthy perſons looked after their own buſineſs, both in the field and at home. Boaz perhaps lay here upon the ſtraw in the floor, to ſecure his corn from robbers, till it could be ſecured in barns. Theſe threſhing-floors were covered at top to keep out rain, but laid open on all ſides, that the wind might come in freely for the winnowing of the corn. They ſeem however, to have been ſhut up at night, with doors fitted to them, that if any one lay there they might be kept warm; and the corn, and likewiſe the implements of huſbandry, which were uſually left there, might be ſecured from thieves.

Came ſoftly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.] Moſt certainly, the intention of Ruth, was only to give Boaz an opportunity to conſider what the law required of him. This indeed looks like a dangerous practice which Naomi put her upon, expoſing both her and him to great temptations; but the known piety both of Boaz and Ruth, who were not now in their youthful years, (at leaſt Boaz was of a great age) made Naomi confident, that no ſin would be committed by them.

Ver. 9. Spread therefore thy ſkirt over thine handmaid.] In the Hebrew ſpread thy wing; a phraſe which ſignifies, to take into protection. At this day, when two perſons are married among the Jews, the man throws the ſkirt of his talith over his ſpouſe, and covers her head with it.

Ver. 10. Bleſſed be thou of the Lord.] He was ſo far from being incenſed at her boldneſs, that he wiſhes her all kinds of happineſs; commending her true kindneſs both to her mother and huſband.

In the latter end, than at the beginning.] Which was now more evident than before; by her endeavours to preſerve his name and family.

As thou followedſt not young men.] This is an high commendation, that ſhe did not ſeek an huſband to ſatisfy any looſe deſires; but to preſerve the memory of the deceaſed.

Ver. 14. Let it not be known that a woman, &c.] He was careful both of his own, and her reputation.

Ver. 15. The veil.] The original ſignifies any kind of covering. The Septuagint tranſlate it, Perizoma; by which they ſeem to have meant that which we call apron, or a kirtle, which is bound about a perſon. Dr. Shaw thinks, this veil was ſomething like what the Arabians now wear, called an Hyke, which ſerves for a complete dreſs by day, and for a covering by night; it is uſually about ſix yards long, and ſix feet broad.

Before Christ 1312.

thou haſt upon thee, and hold it. And when ſhe held it, he meaſured ſix meaſures of barley, and laid it on her: and ſhe went into the city.

16 And when ſhe came to her mother in law, ſhe ſaid, Who art thou, my daughter? And ſhe told her all that the man had done to her.

17 And ſhe ſaid, Theſe ſix meaſures of barley gave he me; for he ſaid to me, Go not empty unto thy mother in law.

18 Then ſaid ſhe, Sit ſtill, my daughter, until thou know how the matter will fall: for the man will not be in reſt, until he have finiſhed the thing this day.

CHAP. IV.

1 Boaz calleth into judgment the next kinſman. 6 He refuſeth the redemption according to the manner in Iſrael. 9 Boaz buyeth the inheritance: 10 He marrieth Ruth. 13 She beareth Obed the grandfather of David. 18 The generation of Pharez.

THen went Boaz up to the gate, and ſat him down there: and behold, the kinſman of whom Boaz ſpake, came by; unto whom he ſaid, Ho, ſuch a one, turn aſide, ſit down here. And he turned aſide, and ſat down.

2 And he took ten men of the elders of the city, and ſaid, Sit ye down here. And they ſat down.

Before Christ 1312.

3 And he ſaid unto the kinſman, Naomi that is come again out of the country of Moab ſelleth a parcel of land, which was our brother Elimelechs.

4 And I thought to advertiſe thee, ſaying, Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it; but if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know: for there is none to redeem it beſide thee, and I am after thee. And he ſaid, I will redeem it.

5 Then ſaid Boaz, What day thou buyeſt the field of the hand of Naomi, thou muſt buy it alſo of Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of the dead, to raiſe up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

6 ¶ And the kinſman ſaid, I cannot redeem it for myſelf, leſt I mar mine own inheritance: redeem thou my right to thyſelf, for I cannot redeem it.

7 Now this was the manner in former time in Iſrael, concerning redeeming, and concerning changing, for to confirm all things: a man plucked off his ſhoe, and gave it to his neighbour: and this was a teſtimony in Iſrael.

8 Therefore the kinſman ſaid unto Boaz,

Ver. 16. Who art thou, my daughter?] It was ſo early in the morning, that Naomi could not well diſcern who it was: but ſome interpreters underſtand it, that ſhe aſked what haſt thou done? i. e. how haſt thou ſucceeded! and the anſwer favours this interpretation. The appellation of daughter, was a common and cuſtomary piece of civility.

Ver. 18. The man will not be in reſt. &c.] She knew him to be a man of his word.

NOTES on Chap. IV.

Ver. 1. The gate.] Here the judges determined cauſes.

Ver. 3. Naomi—ſelleth a parcel of land.] He mentions Naomi's return out of the country of Moab, to intimate, that her poverty obliged her to ſell the inheritance which her huſband had left her.

Our brother.] That is, our kinſman.

Ver. 5. Thou muſt buy it alſo of Ruth, &c.] There are here ſome errors in the original; but when corrected by authentic manuſcript and verſions, the tranſlation runs thus: Then ſaid Boaz, on the day thou takeſt the land of the hand of Naomi, thou muſt alſo take Ruth the Moabiteſs.

Ver. 6. Leſt I mar mine own inheritance.] He was afraid to marry a poor woman, with a ſmall parcel of land, having a wife and children already; and therefore judged, what ſhe had, would not provide for the children he might have by her, without diminiſhing his own inheritance.

Ver. 7. Now this was the manner, &c.] There was no law, that we can find, about this rite; but only cuſtom, which had long prevailed; when men redeemed lands, that had been alienated, or gave poſſeſſion of them to an other perſon.

A man plucked off his ſhoe.] A ſufficient evidence, that he transferred all his right, to that perſon to whom he delivered his ſhoe. The reaſon of this cuſtom is plain; it being a natural indication, that he reſigned his intereſt in the land, by giving the other his ſhoe, in which he uſed to walk on it; and that now he might enter, and take poſſeſſion of it himſelf. This ceremony was different from that, Deut. xxv. 9.

Before Christ 1312.

az, Buy it for thee: ſo he drew off his ſhoe.

9 ¶ And Boaz ſaid unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witneſſes this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelechs, and all that was Chilions, and Mahlons, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchaſed to be my wife, to raiſe up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witneſſes this day.

11 And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders ſaid, We are witneſſes: The Lord make the woman that is come into thine houſe, like Rachel and like Leah, which two did build the houſe of Iſrael: and do thou worthily in Ephratah, and be famous in Beth-lehem.

12 And let thy houſe be like the houſe of Pharez, (whom Tamar bare unto Judah) of the ſeed which the Lord ſhall give thee of this young woman.

13 ¶ So Boaz took Ruth, and ſhe was his wife: and when he went in unto her, the Lord gave her conception, and ſhe bare a ſon.

Before Christ 1312.

14 And the women ſaid unto Naomi, Bleſſed be the Lord which hath not left thee this daw without a kinſman, that his name may be famous in Iſrael.

15 And he ſhall be unto thee a reſtorer of thy life, and a nouriſher of thine old age: for thy daughter in law which loveth thee, which is better to thee than ſeven ſons, hath borne him.

16 And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her boſom, and became nurſe unto it.

17 And the women her neighbours gave it a name, ſaying, There is a ſon born to Naomi, and they called his name Obed: he is the father of Jeſſe, the father of David.

18 ¶ Now theſe are the generations of Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron,

19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab,

20 And Amminadab begat Nahſhon, and Nahſhon begat Salmon,

21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed,

22 And Obed begat Jeſſe, and Jeſſe begat David.

The End of the Book of RUTH.

Ver. 11. Do thou worthily in Ephratah, and be famous in Beth-lehem.] Ephratah and Beth-lehem are two different names for the ſame place, where Boaz and Ruth both lived; and who, they prayed, might be a ſhining example of virtue to the inhabitants of that city.

Ver. 12. Like the houſe of Pharez.] All the Beth-lehemites derived their origin from Pharez, whoſe family was very illuſtrious in Iſrael.

Ver. 17. Obed.] A ſervant, one who ſhould take care of, and be very ſerviceable to Naomi in her old age.

Ver. 18. Now theſe are the generations of Pharez.] He begins no higher, becauſe all knew, that Pharez was the grandſon of Jacob, and he, the ſon of Iſaac, &c. This book ſeems to have been written principally for the ſake of this genealogy; it being neceſſary to trace the family to its origin, as the Meſſiah was to ſpring from it; and, accordingly, it is traced in the following verſes, from Pharez to David.

CHAP. I.

1 Elkanah and his two wives, &c.

Before Chriſt 1171. NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim-zophim, of mount Ephraim, and his name was Elkanah, the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Elihu, the ſon of Tohu, the ſon of Zuph, an Ephrathite:

2 And he had two wives, the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children. Before Chriſt 1171.

3 And this man went up out of his city yearly, to worſhip and to ſacrifice unto the LORD of hoſts in Shiloh; and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the prieſts of the LORD, were there.

4 And

NOTES on Chap. I.

Ver. 1. Ramathaim-zophim.] In verſe 19, it is called Ramah; here Ramathaim, in the dual number, becauſe built upon two hills; and the title Zophim ſeems here added, on account of a watch-tower placed upon its eminence. Some think here was a ſchool of the prophets, who are ſtiled watchmen in Ezekiel. From hence ſome derive the Greek ſophos: the title of aſtronomers at firſt, who ſituated themſelves on ſuch high places, as beſt fitted for the contemplation of the ſtars.

Before Chriſt 1171.

4 ¶ And when the time was that Elkanah offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her ſons and her daughters, portions.

5 But unto Hannah he gave a worthy portion: for he loved Hannah, but the LORD had ſhut up her womb;

6 And her adverſary alſo provoked her ſore, for to make her fret, becauſe the LORD had ſhut up her womb.

7 And as he did ſo year by year, when ſhe went up to the houſe of the LORD, ſo ſhe provoked her; therefore ſhe wept, and did not eat.

8 Then ſaid Elkanah her huſband to her, Hannah, why weepeſt thou? and why eateſt thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I better to thee than ten ſons?

9 ¶ So Hannah roſe up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk: (now Eli the prieſt ſat upon a ſeat by a poſt of the temple of the LORD)

10 And ſhe was in bitterneſs of ſoul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept ſore.

11 And ſhe vowed a vow, and ſaid, O LORD of hoſts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid a man-child, then I will give him unto the LORD all the days of his life, and there ſhall no razor come upon his head.

Before Chriſt 1171.

12 And it came to paſs as ſhe continued praying before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth.

13 Now Hannah, ſhe ſpake in her heart, only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard: therefore Eli thought ſhe had been drunken.

14 And Eli ſaid unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.

15 And Hannah anſwered and ſaid, No, my lord, I am a woman of a ſorrowful ſpirit: I have drunk neither wine nor ſtrong drink, but have poured out my ſoul before the LORD.

16 Count not thine handmaid for a daughter of Belial: for out of the abundance of my complaint and grief have I ſpoken hitherto.

17 Then Eli anſwered and ſaid, Go in peace: and the God of Iſrael grant thee thy petition that thou haſt aſked of him.

18 And ſhe ſaid, Let thine handmaid find grace in thy ſight. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more ſad.

19 ¶ And they roſe up in the morning early, and worſhipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their houſe to Ramah: and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and the LORD remembred her.

20 Wherefore it came to paſs, when the time was come about, after Hannah had conceived, that ſhe bare a ſon, and

Ver. 5. A worthy portion.] A double portion.

Ver. 6. Her adverſary alſo provoked her.] Penninah derided her on account of her barrenneſs.

Ver. 10. She was in bitterneſs of ſoul—and wept ſore.] Sterility was looked upon among the Jews, as the greateſt curſe that could befal a woman; and to have a child, though it ſhould be attended with the immediate death of the mother, was eſteemed a leſs affliction, than to have none. Thus the midwife comforted Rachel at the point of death, ſaying, Fear not; thou ſhalt have this ſon alſo, Gen. xxxv. 17.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his houſe, went up to offer unto the Lord the yearly ſacrifice, and his vow.

22 But Hannah went not up; for ſhe ſaid unto her huſband, I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the Lord, and there abide for ever.

23 And Elkanah her huſband ſaid unto her, Do what ſeemeth thee good, tarry until thou have weaned him, only the Lord eſtabliſh his word: ſo the woman abode, and gave her ſon ſuck until ſhe weaned him.

24 And when ſhe had weaned him, ſhe took him up with her, with three bullocks and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto the houſe of the Lord in Shiloh: and the child was young.

25 And they ſlew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli.

26 And ſhe ſaid, O my lord, as thy ſoul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that ſtood by thee here, praying unto the Lord.

27 For this child I prayed; and the Lord hath given me my petition which I aſked of him:

28 Therefore alſo I have lent him to the Lord as long as he liveth, he ſhall be lent to the Lord. And he worſhipped the Lord there. Before Christ 1171.

CHAP. II.

1 Hannahs ſong in thankfulneſs. 18 Samuels miniſtry. 20 By Eli's bleſſing, Hannah is more fruitful.

1165. AND Hannah prayed, and ſaid, My heart rejoiceth in the Lord, mine horn is exalted in the Lord: my mouth is enlarged over mine enemies: becauſe I rejoice in thy ſalvation.

2 There is none holy as the Lord: for there is none beſides thee: neither is there any rock like our God.

3 Talk no more ſo exceeding proudly, let not arrogancy come out of your mouth: for the Lord is a God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed.

Ver. 28. I have lent him to the Lord.] She ſays, verſe 11. I will give him to the Lord. The original word is capable of the ſame ſignification, and ſhould be tranſlated alike in both places.

Notes on Chap. II.

Ver. 1. Hannah prayed.] Prayer is frequently uſed for thankſgiving.

This little hymn is an inſtance, how far ſuperior ſeveral parts of ſcripture are, to the fineſt compoſition of the heathen writers; here we have the trueſt ſublimity of language, the boldeſt, and juſteſt metaphors of poetry, and the moſt exalted ſtrains of devotion.

Mine horn is exalted.] I lift up mine head in triumph. Exalting the horn, ſignifies the height of glory.

Ver. 4. Art girt with ſtrength.] Girdles being a principal part of the military habit among the ancients, are here elegantly tranſlated, to ſignify ſtrength, or warlike power: hence the apoſtle, among his ſpiritual armour, exhorts the Epheſians, to be girt about with truth.

Ver. 5. Ceaſed.] That is ceaſed to complain of hunger. Such is the viciſſitude of human affairs! ſo that no man ought to be proud; neither ought any to deſpair.

The barren hath borne ſeven.] It is remarked, that ſhe mixes prophecy with her hymn of praiſe, and foretels the great increaſe of the church; the word ſeven, ſignifying a multitude.

8 He raiſeth up the poor out of the duſt, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghil, to ſet them among princes, and to make them inherit the throne of glory: for the pillars of the earth are the LORDS, and he hath ſet the world upon them.

9 He will keep the feet of his ſaints, and the wicked ſhall be ſilent in darkneſs; for by ſtrength ſhall no man prevail.

10 The adverſaries of the LORD ſhall be broken to pieces: out of heaven ſhall he thunder upon them: the LORD, ſhall judge the ends of the earth, and he ſhall give ſtrength unto his king, and exalt the horn of his anointed.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his houſe; and the child did miniſter unto the LORD before Eli the prieſt.

12 ¶ Now the ſons of Eli were ſons of Belial, they knew not the LORD.

13 And the prieſts cuſtom with the people was, that when any man offered ſacrifice, the prieſts ſervant came, while the fleſh was in ſeething, with a fleſh-hook of three teeth in his hand:

14 And he ſtruck it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the fleſh-hook brought up, the prieſt took for himſelf: ſo they did in Shiloh, unto all the Iſraelites that came thither.

15 Alſo before they burnt the fat, the prieſts ſervant came, and ſaid to the man that ſacrificed, Give fleſh to roaſt for the prieſt; for he will not have ſodden fleſh of thee, but raw.

Before Chriſt 1165.

16 And if any man ſaid unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat preſently, and then take as much as thy ſoul deſireth: then he would anſwer him, Nay, but thou ſhalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force.

17 Wherefore the ſin of the young men was very great before the LORD: for men abhorred the offering of the LORD.

18 ¶ But Samuel miniſtered before the LORD, being a child, girded with a linen ephod.

19 Moreover, his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from year to year, when ſhe came up with her huſband, to offer the yearly ſacrifice.

20 ¶ And Eli bleſſed Elkanah, and his wife, and ſaid, The LORD give thee ſeed of this woman, for the loan which is lent to the LORD. And they went unto their own home.

21 And the LORD viſited Hannah, ſo that ſhe conceived and bare three ſons, and two daughters: and the child Samuel grew before the LORD.

22 ¶ Now Eli was very old, and heard all that his ſons did unto all Iſrael, and how

Ver. 10. Unto his king.] Unto David, who was anointed by God inſtead of Saul.

Exalt the horn of his anointed.] This was literally fulfilled in David; who, by the help of God, triumphed over all his enemies, and who was the moſt eminent type of the great king of all, the Lord Chriſt; to whom theſe words, in the fulleſt ſenſe, belong; whoſe dominion is an everlaſting dominion, and his kingdom that which ſhall never be deſtroyed. It is remarkable, that the word Meſſiah, anointed, occurs here, for the firſt time, in the ſacred writings; ſo that, though ſeveral had before propheſied of him, Hannah was the firſt who mentioned him by name.

Ver. 11. Before Eli the prieſt.] According as Eli appointed.

Ver. 12. Sons of Belial, they knew not the Lord.] Very wicked men, who minded not the divine ſervice, nor took any care to do God honour.

Ver. 14. All that the fleſh-hook brought up.] This was a new cuſtom, which they had profanely introduced; not content with the right ſhoulder and the breaſt, which was theirs by the law.

Ver. 17. Men abhorred the offering of the Lord.] Nothing brings religion into ſo much contempt, as the open profaneneſs of thoſe who are the miniſters of it.

Ver. 18. Girded with a linen ephod.] There was a kind of ephod worn by lay-men on ſome occaſions. See 2 Sam. vi. 14. This was not a ſacred, but rather an honorary garment; and ſuch as the high-prieſt might order Samuel to wear, to diſtinguiſh him from ſome other inferior officers belonging to the tabernacle.

Ver. 21. The child Samuel grew before the Lord.] Not only in ſtature, but in wiſdom and virtue.

Before Chriſt 1165. how they lay with the women that aſſembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

23 And he ſaid unto them, Why do ye ſuch things? for I hear of your evil dealings, by all this people.

24 Nay, my ſons: for it is no good report that I hear; ye make the LORDS people to tranſgreſs.

25 If one man ſin againſt another, the judge ſhall judge him: but if a man ſin againſt the LORD, who ſhall intreat for him? Notwithſtanding they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, becauſe the LORD would ſlay them.

26 (And the child Samuel grew on, and was in favour both with the LORD, and alſo with men.)

27 ¶ And there came a man of God unto Eli, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Did I plainly appear unto the houſe of thy father, when they were in Egyyt in Pharoahs houſe?

28 And did I chooſe him out of all the tribes of Iſrael to be my prieſt, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incenſe, to wear an ephod before me? and did I give unto the houſe of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Iſrael?

29 Wherefore kick ye at my ſacriſice, and at mine offering which I have commanded in my habitation, and honoureſt thy ſons above me, to make yourſelves fat with the chiefeſt of all the offerings of Iſrael my people?

Before Chriſt 1165.

30 Wherefore the LORD God of Iſrael ſaith, I ſaid indeed, that thy houſe, and the houſe of thy father ſhould walk before me for ever: but now the LORD ſaith, Be it far from me; for them that honour me, I will honour, and they that deſpiſe me, ſhall be lightly eſteemed.

31 Behold, the days come that I will cut off thine arm, and the arm of thy fathers houſe, that there ſhall not be an old man in thine houſe.

32 And thou ſhalt ſee an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God ſhall give Iſrael: and there ſhall not be an old man in thine houſe for ever.

33 And the man of thine, whom I ſhall not cut off from mine altar, ſhall be to conſume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart: and all the increaſe of thine houſe ſhall die in the flower of their age.

34 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee, that ſhall come upon thy two ſons, on Hophni and Phinehas: in one day they ſhall die both of them.

35 And

Ver. 23. Why do ye ſuch things?] This reproof is given in the language of an indulgent father, not that of a zealous judge; who ought to have puniſhed them for ſuch notorious crimes as they were guilty of, in a ſevere and exemplary manner.

Ver. 25. They hearkened not unto the voice of their father, becauſe the Lord would ſlay them.] It may be rendered, They did not hearken to their father, wherefore it pleaſed the Lord to ſlay them; or, they hearkened not—though the Lord threatened to ſlay them for their diſobedience.

Ver. 27. There came a man of God.] It is not known who this prophet was; therefore, the ſafeſt way, is to own our ignorance, of what the ſacred hiſtorian has not thought proper to diſcover to us.

Ver. 30. Be it far from me.] The high-prieſthood was originally ſettled upon Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron, by a divine decree; but that decree being conditional only, it is reaſonable to preſume, that there was ſome great offence or other in Eleazar's family (though not recorded in ſcripture) which provoked God to remove it into the family of Ithamar, Aaron's youngeſt ſon, from whom Eli deſcended; and here, for the abominable practices of his ſons, whom he was negligent to reſtrain, God threatens to tranſlate the prieſthood back again from the family of Ithamar, to that of Eleazar; which happened accordingly, in the reign of king Solomon, who depoſed Abiathar, the laſt of Eli's line, from the pontificate, and ſet up Zadok in his ſtead.

Ver. 31. I will cut off thine arm.] The Septuagint reads it, Thy ſeed, and the ſeed, &c.

Ver. 32. Thou ſhalt ſee an enemy in mine habitation.] Or rather, as in the margin, thou ſhalt ſee the affliction of the tabernacle, which he did; for he ſaw the tabernacle deprived of its glory, the ark of the Lord; and lived to hear that it was taken by the Philiſtines.

There ſhall not be an old man in thine houſe for ever.] There ſhall not one of thy ſeed be promoted to any dignity.

Before Chriſt 1165. 35 And I will raiſe me up a faithful prieſt, that ſhall do according to that which is in mine heart, and in my mind: and I will build him a ſure houſe, and he ſhall walk before mine anointed for ever.

36 And it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is left in thine houſe, ſhall come and crouch to him for a piece of ſilver, and a morſel of bread, and ſhall ſay, Put me (I pray thee) into one of the prieſts offices, that I may eat a piece of bread.

CHAP. III.

1 How the word of the Lord was firſt revealed to Samuel. 19 Samuel groweth in credit.

AND the child Samuel miniſtered unto the LORD before Eli: and the word of the LORD was precious in thoſe days; there was no open viſion.

2 And it came to paſs at that time,
1141. when Eli was laid down in his place, and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not ſee;

3 And ere the lamp of God went out in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to ſleep:

4 That the LORD called Samuel, and he anſwered, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou calledſt me. And he ſaid, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

Before Chriſt 1141. 6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel aroſe and went to Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou didſt call me. And he anſwered, I called not, my ſon; lie down again.

7 Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

8 And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he aroſe, and went to Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou didſt call me. And Eli perceived that the LORD had called the child.

9 Therefore Eli ſaid unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it ſhall be, if he call thee, that thou ſhalt ſay, Speak, LORD, for thy ſervant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 And the LORD came and ſtood and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel anſwered, Speak, for thy ſervant heareth.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſaid to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Iſrael, at which both the ears of every one that heareth it, ſhall tingle.

12 In that day, I will perform againſt Eli, all things which I have ſpoken concerning his houſe; when I begin, I will alſo make an end.

13 For I have told him, that I will judge his houſe for ever, for the iniquity which he knoweth: becauſe his ſons

Ver. 35. I will raiſe me up a faithful prieſt.] This ſeems to be meant of Zadok, who was anointed in the room of Abiathar, 1 Chron. xxix. 22.

I will build him a ſure houſe.] The high-prieſthood continued in his line, till the captivity of Babylon.

NOTES on Chap. III.

Ver. 1. The word of the Lord was precious.] Precious implies ſcarce. Whatever revelations God thought proper to impart to ſome pious perſons privately, there was now no one publicly acknowledged as a prophet, to whom the people might reſort, to know the will of God.

Ver. 3. Ere the lamp of God went out.] The lamp in the great ſhaft of the golden candleſtick, which bent towards the moſt holy place (called the moſt weſtern lamp) never went out; but ſome of the others did, when it was morning.

Ver. 7. Samuel did not yet know the Lord.] Did not underſtand the manner in which God revealed his will to the prophets.

Ver. 8. Eli perceived that the Lord had called the child.] The repetition of the voice induced Eli to conclude, that it was the Lord; (there being none there beſides their two ſelves) and, by this means, he was diſpoſed to give credit to what Samuel ſhould tell him, as an oracle of God.

Ver. 12. When I begin, I will alſo make an end.] When I begin, I will not deſiſt till all my threats are accompliſhed; which did not come to paſs, till Abiathar was deprived of the prieſthood, when the family of Eli loſt its dignity and honour.

Before Chriſt 1141. made themſelves vile, and he reſtrained them not.

14 And therefore I have ſworn unto the houſe of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's houſe ſhall not be purged with ſacrifice nor offering for ever.

15 ¶ And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the houſe of the LORD: and Samuel feared to ſhew Eli the viſion.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and ſaid, Samuel my ſon. And he anſwered, Here am I.

17 And he ſaid, What is the thing that the LORD hath ſaid unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: God do ſo to thee, and more alſo, if thou hide any thing from me, of all the things that he ſaid unto thee.

18 And Samuel told him every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he ſaid, It is the LORD: let him do what ſeemeth him good.

19 ¶ And Samuel grew, and the LORD was with him, and did let none of his words fall to the ground.

20 And all Iſrael from Dan even to Beer-ſheba knew that Samuel was eſtabliſhed to be a prophet of the LORD.

21 And the LORD appeared again in Shiloh: for the LORD revealed himſelf to Samuel in Shiloh, by the word of the LORD.

CHAP. IV.

1 The Iſraelites are overcome by the Philiſtines at Eben-ezer. 10 The ark taken, Hophni and Phinehas are ſlain.

Before Chriſt 1141. AND the word of Samuel came to all Iſrael. Now Iſrael went out againſt the Philiſtines to battel, and pitched beſide Eben-ezer: and the Philiſtines pitched in Aphek.

2 And the Philiſtines put themſelves in aray againſt Iſrael: and when they joined battel, Iſrael was ſmitten before the Philiſtines: and they ſlew of the army in the field about four thouſand men.

3 ¶ And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore hath the LORD ſmitten us to day before the Philiſtines? Let us fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD out of Shiloh unto us, that when it cometh among us, it may ſave us out of the hand of our enemies.
